One question I will ask those brethren at Newbern: "Has that organ ever saved one soul or led one soul to Christ?" Will you please answer this question? If it has never led one soul to Christ, then you see the condition in which you have placed yourselves. If it has saved souls, then Paul was mistaken when he said the gospel was God's power unto salvation. Prior to the time the organ question bobbed up the congregation at Newbern was a power for good in that town. Those who preferred the organ as a soul saver still own the meetinghouse and those who oppose it meet in a rented hall. The body of Christ received a stab which opened afresh the bleeding heart of the Son of God and left it mangled and bleeding—brought into disrepute without power or influence for good. Sad, sad!

Since war has been declared by the "fiddlers," and Covington, Tenn., has been selected as headquarters, and the artillery is being planted, something may happen in West Tennessee. We are all doing business at the same old stand in the same old way and are not scared. If you "fiddlers" have a man who is bold enough to affirm that the Bible teaches the use of the organ in the worship of God, put him out. He will be met. We await your action.

Next, "A Rejection Suggested."

Los Angeles (Cal.) Notes.

BY W. EDGAR MILLER.

The work at the Central congregation, 1720 South Flower Street, continues to prosper and souls are being saved. Last Sunday evening Miss Ola Marshall was baptized. She is the sister of our young brother, Lloyd Marshall, who was but recently baptized. Brother Marshall is showing himself full of zeal and ambition to do something for the Master and tries to do whatever he is called on to do.

Central congregation is full of the spirit of "What can I do?" and "I'll try." This is right and proper and commendable. When we hear some one say, "Let Bill do it," we recognize a spirit of laziness and a desire to shift responsibility; but I am glad to say that we have heard nothing of the kind at Central.

The spirit of cooperation is growing in this section. Let none suppose that in cooperating with others they lose any of their individuality, any of their right to govern themselves as a congregation. Each individual congregation must direct its own affairs and be independent of every other congregation, so far as the affairs of that congregation are concerned; but when it comes to the great cause for which that congregation exists, then the interest of that congregation is, and should be, the interest of every other congregation in the land. In carnal warfare, each company of soldiers has its officers and is answerable to them; but in the great cause for which they are fighting, their interests and aims are one, and must of necessity be so for the success of the cause. When there is failure to cooperate among them, there is failure of the cause. So, in the work of the church, the interest of one congregation must be the interest of all. When this is not true, there is something wrong. If one engages in a protracted meeting or effort of any kind for the salvation of souls, it should be aided in every way possible by every other congregation, in so far as they are able. If one congregation alone is unable to carry a work through and two or more can combine their efforts and thus accomplish the purpose, that is a great work. Christ prayed that his people might be one, and cooperation is nothing more nor less than complying with Christ's prayer and wish. And it is the only way we will ever be able to prove to the world that we believe that God sent his Son into the world to save sinners. Where there is love, peace, and harmony, there will be cooperation. There should be no "ruling" congregation, no one to which any or all others should look for advice or instruction, but the leaders of the congregations should counsel together and adopt the plans best calculated to accomplish the work in hand.

We hope and pray that the time may soon come when there will be more of the spirit of cooperation among all the churches of Christ throughout the length and breadth of the land.

OUR WORKERS.

BY H. LEO BOLES.

We have a number of worthy young men who are gospel preachers in the field working for the Gospel Advocate and its publications. Among them may be mentioned B. D. Morehead, Thomas A. Nicks, Samson Lester, A. B. Senseney, and Robert Williams. Any favors that may be shown them will be gratefully received by them and highly appreciated by the Gospel Advocate Company. They are worthy of your encouragement and help. Some of them are working during vacation to be able to finish their education. They offer you good books at reasonable prices. You will benefit yourself as well as help them by placing an order with them.

Hindrances to Christian Living.

BY JAMES E. SCOBEE.

Just as sure as there is a God, who is the author of all good, there is a devil, the source of all evil. Just as certain as there is a heaven, where peace, joy, glory, and gladness are to be enjoyed by those who are the heirs of immortality and eternal life, so sure is there a hell, where there is no peace, no joy, no glory, and no gladness, but destruction and perdition—the place prepared for the devil and his angels, where “the worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched.”

There is nothing which should be more desired, on the part of man, than immortality and eternal life. And yet man, from day to day, goes forward seeking only the things that gratify the lusts of the flesh, the animal appetites and propensities, with little or no thought of the fearful consequences of a life spent in the service of the devil.

Paul says: “Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things. The things which ye both learned and received and heard and saw in me, these things do: and the God of peace shall be with you.” (Phil. 4: 8, 9.)

While there are many things that tend to prevent a faithful Christian service on the part of those who profess to be the followers of the Lord Jesus Christ, there are three that are the source from which all the hindrances emanate. They are the world, the flesh, and the devil. One is within us—the flesh; one is without us—the world; the other is the devil, who sometimes gets in us, and is at all times busy on the job of getting the flesh to desire the pleasures of the world more than the hope of immortality and eternal life.

There are some specific hindrances which we may mention, which, if not resisted upon the part of man, will cause him to fail in his duty to himself, his fellow man, and his God. For whatever good man may secure to himself for time and eternity, by the grace of God, redounds to his honor and glory, as well as to the happiness of man.

The minds and hearts of many are not now burdened with the thoughts of the things about which Paul would have them think. They are thinking of the world and the things of the world upon which their love is centered. John says: “Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh and the lust of the eyes and the vainglory of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God endureth forever.” (1 John 2: 15-17.)

Perhaps there is no greater hindrance to Christian living among men than the idolatry of covetousness—the mad rush for money or its equivalent. Many seem to be imbued with the spirit of a miserly rich man on his deathbed, who had called his two sons to his bedside and said to them: “My sons, get money—honestly if you can, but get money!” Men with that spirit, whether in a church or out, do not care how many go down, so they go up; how many are made poor, so they get rich; how many go naked, so they are clothed; how many are hungry, so they are full; how many are in prison, so they can keep out—and if they have heaped up enough of the mammon of unrighteousness, they usually can keep out. They give no thought to the warning of the apostle Paul when he says: “They that are minded to be rich fall into a temptation and a snare and many foolish and hurtful lusts, such as drown men in destruction and perdition. For the love of money is a root of all kinds of evil: which some reaching after have been led astray from the faith, and have pierced themselves through with many sorrows. But thou, O man of God, flee these things; and follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness.” (1 Tim. 6: 9-11.)

The rich should not oppress the poor. They did it in the days of the apostles. James (2: 6) says: “Do not the rich oppress you, and themselves drag you before the judgment seats?” To ask the question in those days was to answer it.

It seems that there is a wonderful amount of selfishness among the rich and those striving to get rich. Very few rich men are using their money to the honor and glory of God in fostering the extension of the kingdom of Jesus Christ on the earth. They are hoarding it, and who knows for what purpose?

The Golden Rule has little or no influence on the actions of the rich and the would-be rich in their business relations with the poor, and, as for that, with each other. Solomon said: “He that oppresseth the poor reproacheth his Maker; but he that hath mercy on the needy honoreth him.” (Prov. 14: 31.) “He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto Jehovah.” (Prov. 19: 17.)

The apostle Paul told Timothy to inform rich men in the church how they should conduct themselves: “Charge them that are rich in this present world, that they be not high-minded, nor have their hope set on the uncertainty of riches, but on God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy; that they do good, that they be rich in good works, that they be ready to distribute, willing to communicate; laying up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come, that they may lay hold on the life which is life indeed.” (1 Tim. 6: 17-19.)

While it is said that the love of money is the root of all kinds of evil, money is not an evil per se. The evil is in the one who loves money and, when obtained, heaps it up and fails to wisely use it to the honor of God and to his own good and the good of humanity.

Money or its equivalent is a necessity in civilized life. Every one should be active and industrious to obtain all the money possible by honest, legitimate labor in any of the various vocations or avocations of life.

There is a fearful denunciation pronounced against the miserly rich by the apostle James. “Come now, ye rich, weep and howl for your miseries that are coming upon you. Your riches are corrupted, and your garments are moth-eaten. Your gold and your silver are rusted; and their rust shall be for a testimony against you, and shall eat your flesh as fire. Ye have laid up your treasure in the last days. Behold, the hire of the laborers who mowed your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth out: and the cries of them that reaped have entered into the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth.” (James 5: 1-4.)

The idolatry of covetousness is one of the great hindrances to Christian living among men. If men would honestly obtain riches and wisely use them, they would not be corrupted, nor would their silver and their gold be cankered. If they would give to the poor and needy the extra clothing in their well-filled wardrobes, their garments would not become moth-eaten.

There is at the present time a great hindrance to Christian living affecting all classes, and especially the young. It is the pleasure craze, about which I may have something to say in the future.

A Wholesome Tongue.

“A wholesome tongue is a tree of life,” we read in the book of Proverbs: “But perverseness therein is a breach in the spirit.” This proverb emphasizes the duty to set a watch upon our lips, for the tongue is the agency of much evil. As James says, no man has been able to tame the tongue, and only the grace of God is able to keep us from stumbling in word, as well as in deed.—Exchange.

How May I Know the Church of God?

BY O. C. LAMBERT.

It is very necessary, when looking for a particular thing, to have a very definite idea of it. All men are not alike, but have certain distinguishing features, peculiar individualities, and personal characteristics, and, because of these, one person may be recognized in a multitude. If you are only looking for a man, you can be easily satisfied; but if you wish to know a certain man, you must have in mind that combination of marks peculiar to him alone. If you are looking for a man named "A," who is young, stout, and who has dark eyes, hair, and complexion, you have a definite conception, and without these your search would be hopeless. If you find a man whose name is "B," you know without further inquiry that he is not the desired person. A man whose name is "A," but who is slender, cannot be the right man though he has the right name. In fact, a person might have all of the identifying marks except one, yet he cannot be the person sought.

So it is with finding and identifying the church which Jesus purchased with his own blood; one must have a very clear-cut conception of it to begin with. Our salvation depends upon our finding it. The churches of the world are all different; each has certain features which distinguishes it and justifies it in being separate and distinct. The church of God cannot be like them all and must have its distinguishing characteristics by which it can be recognized. What are these marks?

The question naturally arises as to who shall say what the church is to be. As it is the church of God, we should naturally expect the specifications to be drawn by divine authority. Jesus said, "Upon this rock I will build my church;" and we should look to him for the plans. He is the head of the church; therefore, we must allow him to direct. If I would know something of the Lutheran Church, I must study the Augsburg "Confession." The Bible tells me nothing of the Presbyterian Church, so for authority concerning it I must appeal to the Presbyterian "Confession." In like manner the Mormons have their "Book of Mormon;" the Baptists, their "Manual;" the Methodists, their "Discipline." So all churches built by men, because they cannot find their peculiar characteristics in the Bible, are forced to formulate them and bind them upon their adherents. If all human creeds were destroyed and all would take the Bible and do only what it directs, sectarianism would fall, and there would be no church left except that of the Bible. Though the New Testament is silent concerning the names and dogmas of the hundreds of churches so common in the land, we can find in it all that God would have us know concerning his church. "Every scripture inspired of God is also profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction which is in righteousness: that the man of God may be complete, furnished completely unto every good work." We can learn how people became members of it, the name of it, the practices and ordinances pertaining to it.

The New Testament speaks of "the church of God," "the churches of Christ," "the church of the first-born," "the house of God," "the family of God." Though others are satisfied with anything called a "church"—and this is their privilege if they so wish—as for me, I will have nothing to do with one not named by the Lord. No one can come into judgment with the excuse that he could not learn what the scriptural church was called. If no other distinguishing marks are pointed out in the Scriptures, the name will never be a matter of difficulty. If we have any difficulty in identifying the church, it will be because of lack of other identifying marks being given by the New Testament. If I am searching for B and I meet A, I simply know I have not found the right man. In my search for the "church of God," if I should find the Mormon Church, without applying any other specifications, I would know at once that I had not yet found the right church. With the name settled for all who are willing for Jesus to be and remain the head of the church, we pass to another feature.

Jesus not only tells us how we become Christians as recorded in Matt. 28: 18, 19; Mark 16: 15, 16; and Luke 24: 47, 48; but we are shown in a number of cases recorded in the Acts of Apostles how this law is applied. Jesus commanded that men should believe, repent, and be baptized in order to get into the saved state, or the church; and in every case where it is applied and recorded for our information, people believed, repented, and were baptized, irrespective of condition or circumstance, and "the Lord added to the church." A church that you can "join" is not the church of the Bible. To be added by the Lord is the way to enter "the church of God;" therefore, one that has some other law of induction cannot be the church to which people were added then. The only people who were ever added had to believe, repent, and be baptized. He will not add you to the Mormon Church, but to the church which Jesus built. I am sure he will not make a mistake and add you to the wrong church. He is no respecter of persons, and all people become Christians alike, so Paul says: "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." (Rom. 8: 1, 2.) If you will not become a Christian according to the law given by Jesus and practiced by the apostles and early Christians, you cannot become one.

After becoming Christians according to the law of the Spirit of life, "they continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers." This is all that is required of people now—simply obey this law, let the Lord add them to the church, and continue steadfastly until the end. "Be thou faithful until death, and I will give thee a crown of life." (Rev. 2: 10.)

Publishers' Items.

Many splendid books are published and handled at this office. Good, religious books should be kept in each home. They have a refining influence on the young. Their educational value cannot be overestimated. The Gospel Advocate Company would like to help you educate your family by introducing good books to your library. "Evenings with the Bible" is a fine book to develop piety and spirituality, as well as very instructive. "The People's New Testament with Notes" is very helpful to Bible students. Here is a list that should be in every home. How many of them have you?

"Sermons," by J. W. McGarvey.

"Eunice Loyd," by R. N. Moody.

"Bible Reading," by Isaac Errett.

"The Glorious Gospel," by Adeock.

"The Querist's Drawer," by Errett.

"Lands of the Bible," by McGarvey.

"Gospel Sermons," by T. W. Brents.

"Cruden's Concordance" (complete).

"Larimore and His Boys," by Srygley.

"Questions Answered," by David Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell, should have a place in every library. Those who have seen and examined it closely are highly pleased with it. Cloth bound; 700 pages. Price, $3, postpaid.

Have you read "Sunshine; or, Uncle Miner's Stories?" This is a very attractive book for children as well as for old people. Children read it with much interest. It is profusely illustrated, and contains many interesting incidents and stories.

Evangelistic Notes

R. J. Smith closed near Clayton, N. M., with ten baptisms.

Hugh Miller is in a meeting at Shady Grove, near Harts-ville, Tenn.

G. W. Graves closed at Smyrna, near Cookeville, Tenn., with eleven additions.

J. Paul Slayden closed a good meeting at Dasher, Ga., with twenty additions.

J. Will Henley closed at Elk City, Okla., with six added; at Highway, with twelve.

Remember the Tennessee Orphans' Home on October 1 with a liberal contribution.

R. C. White has just closed at Florence, Tenn., with one baptized and three restored.

J. O. Barnes preached at Homestead, Fla., on August 20, and reports a very fine young church there.

Lee Sanders closed at Crowell, Texas, on August 22, with four baptisms. He is now at Center Schoolhouse.

C. H. Woodroof closed at Diana, Tenn., on August 31, with seven additions. He is now at Munford, Ala.

J. T. Harris has just closed at Philippi, in Maury County, Tenn., with one baptism. A. L. Dixon led the singing.

E. D. Martin has closed a meeting at Mount Olive, in Warren County, Tenn., with six baptized and one restored.

Charles F. Hardin closed at Tishomingo, Miss., on August 27, with four baptisms. He is now at Abbeville, Miss.

Jack Meyer has recently closed a meeting at Bunker Hill, in Giles County, Tenn., with large crowds and one baptism.

J. M. Dennis has recently closed at Bellview, near Cave Ridge, Ky. He is now at Corinth, in Sumner County, Tenn.

Lee P. Mansfield closed at the tabernacle, two miles south of Anson, Texas, with twenty-two baptized and nine restored.

M. C. Kurfees will begin a meeting at Shelbyville, Ky., on September 24. Brother Holloway, of Louisville, will lead the singing.

William P. Walker had a total of twenty-eight baptisms at Westport and Clarksburg, Tenn. He is now at Bellwood, in Stewart County.

Harvey Scott changes his address from Floresville to Itasca, Texas. He has just closed a meeting at Floresville, with two baptisms.

Noel B. Cuff has just closed at Crooked Creek, near Daniel's Landing, Tenn. Five were restored and one discarded a human name.

William Bucker reports the work in Florida as growing. This summer he has visited and preached at Sweet Water, Avon Park, Oxford, and Lecanto.

Emmett G. Creacy closed his fourth meeting at Willow Shade, in Metcalfe County, Ky., with eleven baptized and four restored. He is now at Echo.

Tice Elkins closed in Hamilton, Texas, with ten baptisms. He reports the Southside congregation, Fort Worth, Texas, with which he labors, doing good work.

Charles L. Talley has just closed an eight-days' meeting at Antioch, in Jackson County, Tenn., with sixteen baptisms and three restorations, and a very fine interest.

Batsell Baxter, of Abilene, Texas, has just closed a successful meeting at Lorenzo, Texas, with fifteen additions. He is now in a meeting at Berea, near Bethpage, Tenn.

T. B. Clark recently held an eight-days' meeting at Rock Bridge, near Gallatin, Tenn. He is now at Cedar Grove, also near Gallatin. He reports two fine services at Gallatin.

A. S. Landis has just closed a very successful meeting at Dany's Chapel, near Trinity, Ala., with one baptism and twenty-eight restorations, twenty-six of which came at one service.

F. O. Howell has closed at Nance, near Alamo, Tenn., with twenty-eight additions, three of which were from the Baptists and five from the Methodists. He is now at Middleton, Tenn.

D. M. Jones, who is now eighty years of age and much loved for his work's sake, preached a sermon to the church at West Huntsville, Ala., recently, urging them to be up and doing.

J. S. Daugherty has just closed at Newark, near Fort Worth, Texas, with fine attendance and eight baptisms. Two were heads of families; the others were from seventeen to twenty-four years of age.

L. P. Whaley sometime ago concluded a good meeting at Somerville, Ala., and later at New Prospect, in Cullman County, with several additions at each place. He is now at Union Grove, in Morgan County.

W. E. Morgan recently closed at Glenwood, Ark., with eight additions, and later at Camden, Ark. Later he conducted a meeting at Fairfield, Tenn., with six additions. He is now at Coldwater, near Woodbury.

Porter Norris has held meetings since July 30 at Poplar Grove, Giltage, and Elm Grove, in Tipton County, Tenn., which resulted in sixteen baptisms, two from the Baptists, and four restorations. He is now in Adair County, Ky.

Jarratt L. Smith has just closed at Drakesboro, Ky., with four additions. Brother Forgy, of Quality, Ky., a faithful old soldier, was present. He has baptized over two thousand people in thirty-five years. He is now seventy-one years of age.

L. S. White recently held a good meeting at Itasca, Texas, resulting in nine by baptism and one by membership. J. A. Dickey led the singing. Harvey Scott will move there on September 1, and preach all the time in and around Itasca.

C. M. Stubblefield recently conducted a meeting at Martin, Tenn., resulting in four baptisms and fine interest. E. P. Smith preached there, morning and evening, on August 27. One was baptized and two took membership. Martin is Brother Smith's home.

W. S. Long closed at Mars' Hill, Ala., on August 27, with seven baptisms. C. M. Derryberry, of Columbia, Tenn., led the song service, and did his work well. Brother Long says: "The Gospel Advocate is fine every week. I wish it was in every Christian home."

T. P. Hardison, Sr., Columbia, Tenn., Route 5, reports Brother Rutherford's meeting there as follows: "Our meeting at Berea closed on August 7, with fourteen additions, five of which were baptisms. The last night I suppose we had the largest crowd ever assembled here."

Robert Alexander recently closed at Emberson, near Paris, Texas, with three baptisms. When last heard from, he was at Hollis, Okla., with four baptisms and three restorations, after which meeting he will take up his work as a teacher in Western Oklahoma Christian College.

The Gospel Advocate unites with Coleman Overby, Murray, Ky., in rejoicing over the recovery of his wife, who has been seriously ill for some time. Brother Overby is the evangelist in Calloway County, supported by the churches of the county. He is now at Kirksey, Ky., with fine interest.

E. L. Cambron has just closed a very successful meeting near the hosiery mill at Winchester, Tenn. The song service was led by J. J. Reynolds. Quite a number were baptized and about fifty agreed to meet on the first day of the week. A house was secured from the Methodists until a permanent location can be secured.

H. M. Phillips recently held a fine meeting at Alamo, Tenn., which resulted in twenty-eight additions. H. B. Smith led the singing. Since that time he closed at Silver Springs, Tenn., with nine baptisms and two restorations. He is now at Summerville, Ga. He says: "I like the ring of the Gospel Advocate."

J. G. Malphurs writes: "The Christians in Clarksville held their last service in the courthouse to-day. One young man made the confession and is to be baptized in our new pool next Tuesday night. We are making great preparations for our meeting to begin next Lord's day, with H. H. Adamson doing the preaching and Brother Murphy leading the songs. We shall begin the meeting Tuesday night before by getting ourselves ready for the meeting through exhortation and prayer. Friends and Christians from other places are urged to be with us the first day."

R. C. White is in a meeting at New Hope, Ala.

H. Leo Boles is in a meeting near Gallatin, Tenn.

F. W. Smith is in a meeting near Franklin, Tenn.

L. E. Carpenter is in a good meeting at Wellington, Texas.

S. H. Hall is in the midst of a meeting at McMinnville, Tenn.

C. M. Pullias will begin at Twelfth Avenue, this city, on September 24.

E. A. Elam will preach at Russell Street Church, this city, next Lord's day.

Charles F. Hardin will begin a tent meeting at Moorehead, Miss., on September 26.

Thomas H. Burton, Union, S. C., reports fine interest and attendance at the tent meeting there.

Marion Harris has just closed at Dudley's Hill, in Jackson County, Tenn., with forty-two added.

R. N. Moody closed at Ephesus, in Limestone County, Ala., on August 31, with twelve baptisms.

O. C. Lambert preached at Russell Street Church, this city, morning and evening, last Lord's day.

There will be an all-day meeting at the Forks of the Elkhorn, near Shelbyville, Ky., on September 10.

Send your contributions for the Tennessee Orphans' Home to Tennessee Orphans' Home, Columbia, Tenn.

T. B. Larimore has just closed at Cookeville, Tenn., with twenty additions. He is now at Bellbuckle, Tenn.

W. R. Hassell has just closed at Bogota, near Ridgely, Tenn., with seventeen baptized and twelve restored.

H. T. King began last Lord's day at Belmont Avenue Church, this city, as their preacher for another year.

A. B. Barret has just closed at Toone, Tenn., with fine interest and four baptisms. Harry Hayes led the songs.

S. W. Bell closed at Benjamin, Mo., with six baptisms, two from the "Christian Church." He is now at Hallsville.

Gus Nichols, Berry, Ala., closed at Mount Hope Church, with one baptism, and is now at Bethel, with fourteen baptisms.

G. C. Brewer recently conducted a meeting at Mount Hope, in which two were baptized and much good done otherwise.

H. N. Mann, Riverside, Tenn., preached at Forty-Eight Creek, near Riverside, on September 3, resulting in three baptisms.

Tommie Nicks reports the meeting at Charlotte, Tenn. O. E. Coffman is doing the preaching. Four have been baptized to date.

R. H. Johnson, Morrilton, Ark., writes: "I have read 'Hardeman's Tabernacle Sermons,' and consider it a great addition to my library."

J. E. Wainwright reports seven additions to date at Hawthorn, Okla. He will begin an open-air meeting at Texarkana on September 14.

T. C. Little recently held two meetings near Petersburg, Tenn., resulting in twenty-seven additions—nineteen baptisms and eight restorations.

Joe L. Netherland's meeting at Locust Grove, near Bradford, Tenn., resulted in nine baptisms and two restorations. He is now near Dyersburg, Tenn.

Van A. Bradley has just closed at Bradley's Chapel, in Franklin County, Ala., with six baptisms. He is now at Salem, near Lawrenceburg, Tenn.

Leslie G. Thomas, Melvin, Mich., reports two good services at the Speaker church. Brethren McGary and Reader, from Detroit, conducted the morning service.

J. Clifford Murphy has just closed at Pleasant Grove, near Munford, Ala., with six baptisms. He preached for the Munford brethren on Sunday and Sunday night.

W. P. Jones recently closed at Cameron, Okla., with twelve baptisms and six restorations; since that time, at Hackett, Ark., with five baptisms. He is now at Fame, Okla.

E. Gaston Collins closed at Shady Grove, in Lincoln County, Tenn., with good crowds and one baptism. The meeting was held in the Methodist house. He is now at Huntsville, Ala.

A. B. Lipscomb is in a fine meeting at Guin, Ala., with eight baptisms and two leaving the Baptists to be Christians only to date. William Brock, of Brilliant, Ala., is leading the song service.

J. C. Mosley is in a fine meeting at Newbern, Tenn. Good crowds and twenty baptisms to date. He goes next to Dongola, Ill., and from there to Center Point, Ky., on the first Lord's day in October.

L. W. Hinson, Hohenwald, Tenn., conducted a meeting at Seiber's Chapel, resulting in one baptism; and next at Brush Creek, in Lawrence County, Tenn., with fourteen baptized and one restored.

B. F. Stivers, Odessa, Mo., is in a meeting at Weaver Schoolhouse, near his home. He goes next to Nashua, Mo., then to Kansas City for four weeks. Any one desiring a meeting should write him.

J. D. Matthews, Maysville, Okla., recently held meetings as follows: Byford Schoolhouse, with six baptized and one reclaimed; Brock, with two baptized and two reclaimed; and at an arbor near Ardmore. All were well attended.

J. B. Nelson had a fine meeting at New Hope, near Middleton, Tenn., in which thirteen were baptized. J. D. Algood and his class led the singing and did it well. Brother Nelson is now at Mount Pleasant, Tenn., with fine prospects.

G. A. Dunn, Sr., closed his part of the meeting at Oklahama City, with sixty additions at that time. The church there now has over five hundred and the future looks bright. He is now at Sheffield, Ala., for fourteen days, and goes next to Florence for two weeks.

J. L. Hines will take up evangelistic work in and around Covington, Ky., and Cincinnati, Ohio, on October 1. He asks for names and addresses of all Christians in that territory, also at Ludlow and Newport. His address is 2428 Jefferson Avenue, Norwood, Cincinnati.

J. C. Pendergrass recently held a meeting at Andrew Cove, with one baptism, and at Liberty, with three baptized and one restored. These places are near Livingston, Tenn. Brother Pendergrass is now in a grove meeting near Livingston, with one restored to date.

Willie Hunter recently held the following meetings: Newerfall, in Cumberland County, Tenn.; Big Branch, in Jackson County, with five baptisms and one restoration. He is now in a meeting at Big Bottom, in Jackson County. Dee Robinson, Cookeville, Tenn., led the singing.

W. W. Freeman closed a grove meeting at Day's Cross Roads, in Tennessee, with three baptisms and two restorations. He reports three baptisms at Mount Pleasant, near Westmoreland, Tenn. He is now at Red Boiling Springs, with one baptism and growing interest to date. He next goes to Underwood (a mission) for a week.

R. L. Ludlam has closed at Ottumwa, Iowa. He says: "They placed funds in my hands with which to hold a mission meeting. They have also written Sister A. M. Bibb offering assistance to Charleston, Mo. The members here are Swedish people, formerly Lutherans, but loyal when members of the body of Christ."

To Honor the Memory of J. A. Harding.

This is a call for the names and addresses of all students of J. A. Harding. We are asking that every student, boy or girl, that ever had the superior privilege of sitting in Brother Harding's classes or the inestimable blessing of listening to his matchless chapel speeches, send his name and address at once to the Memorial Committee. Though this call is being made in all the loyal papers, we know that many of that host of students scattered around the world will not see the call; therefore, we are asking that every one who does see it send in with his own name the name and address of every other Harding student whose whereabouts he may know. The committee is anxious not to miss a single name, for it is certain that every student of this great man will want a part in paying honor to this great life. Brother Harding was engaged in Bible-school work twenty-one years, and during this time his wonderful, driving personality influenced for good hundreds of students. Help us to get in touch with these students. Do it now. Every one of us knows the whereabouts of some of these students that no one else knows. How many names and addresses can you give, and how soon can you give them? Please do not delay this matter. Send all names to the Memorial Committee, J. N. Armstrong, Secretary, Harper, Kan.

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50 in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 217-219 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS,
Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

Must an Elder Be Inspired?

BY J. C. M'Q.

Those whose special duty it is in the New Testament church to tend the flock are called "pastors," "elders," and "presbyters." That the pastors or elders are assigned an important work in the New Testament church will not be denied by any one who is well informed in the Bible. The teaching of the New Testament is too clear on this subject to admit of doubt. The Holy Spirit declares: "Faithful is the saying, If a man seeketh the office of a bishop, he desireth a good work." (1 Tim. 3: 1.) On the presumption that there are no overseers in the church, this language of the Spirit is worse than nonsense; it is vicious, because misleading. The New Testament abounds in teaching concerning the appointment of elders in every church and their duties and qualifications. Paul writes to Titus: "For this cause left I thee in Crete, that thou shouldest set in order the things that were wanting, and appoint elders in every city, as I gave thee charge." (Tit. 1: 5.) If there are no elders in the churches, then why did the spirit through Paul command Titus to appoint them in every city? If it be not the purpose and will of God to have elders in the churches of Christ, why did the spirit through Paul and Barnabas appoint them in every church? "And when they had appointed for them elders in every church, and had prayed with fasting, they commended them to the Lord, on whom they had believed." (Acts 14: 23.) When Christ "ascended on high, he led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men." "And he gave some to be apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, unto the work of ministering, unto the building up of the body of Christ; till we all attain unto the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a full-grown man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ: that we may be no longer children, tossed to and fro and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, in craftiness, after the wiles of error; but speaking truth in love, may grow up in all things into him, who is the head, even Christ; from whom all the body fitly framed and knit together through that which every joint supplieth, according to the working in due measure of each several part, maketh the increase of the body unto the building up of itself in love." (Eph. 4: 11-16.) Here we learn that Christ put into the church apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors, and teachers. They are to remain in the church till all Christians attain unto the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, and until the church is full-grown.

The apostles and inspired prophets are in the church today. No one has ever taken their places in the church of God. All who have come after them are false prophets and apostles. They are impostors. The teaching of all should be proved by the word of God. "Beloved, believe not every spirit, but prove the spirits, whether they are of God; because many false prophets are gone out into the world." (1 John 4: 1.) The authority of the apostles is as supreme and their teaching as binding as while they were living. To them Christ said: "But when they deliver you up, be not anxious how or what ye shall speak: for it shall be given you in that hour what ye shall speak. For it is not ye that speak, but the Spirit of your Father that speaketh in you." (Matt. 10: 19, 20.) The word which they spoke was the word of God, which liveth and abideth forever. "For no prophecy ever came by the will of man: but men spake from God, being moved by the Holy Spirit." (2 Pet. 1: 21.) The apostles spoke as inspired of God, so it is truly said of them: "What things soever ye shall bind on earth shall be bound in heaven; and what things soever ye shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven." (Matt. 18: 18.) The apostles are not now living in the flesh, but they are living in their teaching and with the same authority as when on the earth. One to be an apostle had to be a witness of the resurrection. "Beginning from the baptism of John, unto the day that he was received up from us, of these must one become a witness with us of his resurrection." (Acts 1: 22.) When the Corinthians denied Paul's right to be an apostle, he replied: "Have I not seen Jesus our Lord?" And again, to forever settle his claim to be an apostle, he says: "And last of all, as to the child untimely born, he appeared to me also." (1 Cor. 15: 8.) Thus it is clear that no one now can be an apostle and that every one who has claimed to be an apostle after Paul is an impostor. Apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors, and teachers are still in the church and will remain in it until the church is full grown. It is dangerous to leave out the apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors, or teachers. By what authority does one leave out the elders? Has he not the same right to leave out evangelists?

The church at Philippi is one of the best and nearest perfect churches of which we read. In it were bishops and deacons. "Paul and Timothy, servants of Christ Jesus, to all the saints in Christ Jesus that are at Philippi, with the bishops and deacons: Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ." (Phil. 1: 1, 2.) The church now that has no elders in it is different from the Philippian church.

We also find elders in the church at Ephesus: "And from Miletus he sent to Ephesus, and called to him the elders of the church." (Acts 20: 17.) Paul addressed himself to the elders and, among other things, said to them: "Take heed unto yourselves, and to all the flock, in which the Holy Spirit hath made you bishops, to feed the church of the Lord which he purchased with his own blood. I know that after my departing grievous wolves shall enter in among you, not sparing the flock; and from among your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things, to draw away the disciples after them. Wherefore watch ye, remembering that by the space of three years I ceased not to admonish every one night and day with tears." (Acts 20: 28-31.) If there are no elders in the church, how can they feed the flock and watch for the welfare of the church? Well did the Spirit know that in the years to come men would arise in the church itself teaching perverse things, even denying that there are any elders in the church, and that they would draw away disciples after them. How matchlessly and faultlessly did the Holy Spirit, through Paul, describe present-day conditions!

It does seem, if any weight is to be attached to the plain teaching of the Bible, that disciples would not accept the teaching that there are no elders in the church. Let us hear Peter on the subject: "The elders therefore among you I exhort, who am a fellow elder, and a witness of the sufferings of Christ, who am also a partaker of the glory that shall be revealed: Tend the flock of God which is among you, exercising the oversight, not of constraint, but willingly, according to the will of God; nor yet for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind; neither as lording it over the charge allotted to you, but making yourselves ensamples to the flock." (1 Pet. 5: 1-3.) This shows the character of oversight that the elders are to exercise over the charge allotted to them. If Heb. 13: 17 does not refer to the elders, I do not know to whom it does refer. The passage reads: "Obey them that have the rule over you, and submit to them: for they watch in behalf of your souls, as they that shall give account; that they may do this with joy, and not with grief: for this were unprofitable for you." How important and responsible is the work of an elder! How terrible it will be for the elders not to be able to make a good report to the Chief Shepherd, that they and the charge allotted to them may receive the crown of glory that fadeth not away!

It is sometimes contended that, because it is probable that some elders were inspired, there are no elders now. This does not follow. There were some Christians inspired. Does it therefore follow, since none are inspired to-day, that there are no Christians?

Inspiration is nowhere mentioned as a qualification that must be possessed by an elder, any more than it is named as a qualification that must be possessed by a Christian. It is far wiser to go by what is written than it is to draw unwarranted conclusions. The same reason that sets aside elders will also discard evangelists, teachers, and Christians.

Reverence for the Word of God.

BY M. C. K.

Reverence is usually defined to be respect mingled with fear and affection. It does not denote fear in the sense of what terrorizes or frightens, nor does it fill its possessor with a feeling of dread, but rather with one of veneration, adoration, and devotion. Hence, by reverence for the word of God is meant that degree of respect for it that leads one, at all times and under all circumstances, to treat it as a thing from God—the source of supreme worthiness, honor, and glory—and therefore worthy of the same respect that is due him. I am quite sure that even in the churches among the professed children of God themselves there is a conspicuous and sad lack of this feeling, and the tendency in that direction seems to be increasing at the present time.

The purpose of the present article is to call attention to this lack of reverence for the divine word and to show that it is in open violation of plain Biblical passages on the theme. Heads of families, elders of churches, and preachers everywhere should wake up to the demands of the situation and present to the churches and to the people in general this greatly needed teaching. As a contribution in that direction, I now invite attention to the following considerations:

1. Biblical passages on reverence for the word of God. Let the reader note carefully the following plain declarations of Holy Writ on the theme: "Serve Jehovah with fear, and rejoice with trembling." (Ps. 2: 11.) Again: "O fear Jehovah, ye his saints; for there is no want to them that fear him." (Ps. 34: 9.) Then, see how the Psalmist speaks for himself: "I will meditate on thy precepts, and have respect unto thy ways." (Ps. 119: 15.) See also verse 120: "My flesh trembleth for fear of thee; and I am afraid of thy judgments." And verse 161: "Princes have persecuted me without a cause; but my heart standeth in awe of thy words." Then, with still further light on its value to God's children, the wise man declares: "The fear of Jehovah is a fountain of life, that one may depart from the snares of death." (Prov. 14: 27.) And on the permanency and durability of God's word, the evangelical prophet declares: "The grass withereth, the flower fadeth; but the word of our God shall stand forever." (Isa. 40: 8.) Then, with a still brighter flash of light on the theme, the same prophet adds: "For all these things hath my hand made, and so all these things came to be, saith Jehovah: but to this man will I look, even to him that is poor and of a contrite spirit, and that trembleth at my word." (Isa. 66: 2.) And in verse 5 he adds: "Hear the word of Jehovah, ye that tremble at his word."

Now, is it not plain even to the casual reader of these passages that reverence for God's word is one of the first and most prominent requisites of his children? And is it not equally plain that the absence of this feeling or the opposite of it is the quintessence of blasphemy and wickedness on their part? The fact is, those who lack this exalted characteristic of God's faithful and approved children give the most pronounced evidence that they have practically forsaken God and are already under his positive condemnation. Let our readers carefully ponder and pray over these passages; yea, let them commit them to memory and make them one of the guiding principles of their lives. Let them "serve Jehovah with fear, and rejoice with trembling." Let them say with the Psalmist, "My heart standeth in awe of thy words;" and let them remember that Jehovah himself says: "To this man will I look, even to him that is poor and of a contrite spirit, and that trembleth at my word." Beyond all reasonable doubt, this feeling of reverence for God's word should be cultivated till it becomes a fixed principle in the Christian's life.

2. Particular times and places when and where the teaching in these passages should be carefully observed. Of course there is never a time when the word of God should not be revered by his children when it comes before them in any way at all; but there are particular times when the absence of manifest reverence for the divine word is peculiarly indicative of a wrong state of heart and is, therefore, never to be excused or palliated. I call attention to some of these times and places.

(1) At the time and place of divine worship. Through all parts of this service—its prayers, songs, exhortations, the Lord's Supper, the contribution, and reading the word of God—a feeling of profound reverence should pervade the entire assembly; but the purpose here is to give particular emphasis to this duty during the reading of God's word in the worship. This is a time when God is virtually talking to his children. When they pray, they are talking to God; when they read his word, he is talking to them. He who stands up to read is merely, at this particular time, God's mouthpiece or spokesman. The words read and heard are the words of God. They are the utterances of Jehovah, the maker of men and worlds. Hence, we should listen to them not only with uninterrupted attention, but with the profoundest reverence; yea, we should hear them with the same reverence as if God were standing in our presence and audibly and directly speaking the words himself.

(2) When it is read at the fireside or in the home. Here again upon every heart, from the oldest to the youngest capable of being taught, this same lesson of reverence for the divine word should be deeply impressed. Inattention or listlessness should be looked upon as inexcusable. Let the young be impressed with the important thought that it is God's word that is being read in the family—that it is practically God himself talking, and that we must all listen with the same reverence that would probably mark our behavior if he were present in person and speaking directly in our hearing. In both church and home, or anywhere else, let our lives say to our Heavenly Father in the language of Isaac Watts:

"Thy word is everlasting truth;
How pure is every page!
That holy book shall guide our youth,
And well support our age."

Or, in the impressive words of William Cowper:

"What glory gilds the sacred page,
Majestic, like the sun!
It gives a light to every age;
It gives, but borrows none."

Finally, I am making no plea for Bibliolatry—the worship of the mere book—but I plead for the solemn realization that the Book is from God and not from man, save as man is the mere instrument through which it is revealed. Away with the thought that it is only one of teeming millions of volumes in the libraries of earth! It is one of these volumes, but it is the only one of its kind, other so-called sacred books palling into insignificance when compared with it, precisely as "other gods" pale into insignificance when compared with the God of this Book—the one great and infinite God whose glory "the heavens declare." Let even the children with all others be taught to reverence this holy Book.

A Family Reunion.

BY F. W. SMITH.

It was my good pleasure on August 13 to attend the annual reunion of the Baker family, which was held at the hospitable home of Brother W. R. Thurman, near Franklin, Tenn., with the following in attendance: Mrs. E. S. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Baker and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Baker and family, W. C. Baker, Ellis Baker, Shady Grove, Tenn.; Mrs. W. M. Ballard, Little Lot, Tenn.; Dr. and Mrs. J. O. Cummins, Martha and John Cummins, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Legler and children, Frank, Jr., and John J., Nashville, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Hubert E. Hall and son, Hubert, Jr., Washington, D. C.; F. W. Smith, Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. Charles W. Craig, Mary E. Craig, Nancy Brandon, Miss Sallie Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jewell and family, Franklin, Tenn.; Mrs. Hargrove, Fresno, Cal.

When quite a young man, I accepted a position with a large nursery to sell fruit trees and shrubbery, and in canvassing the "good old county of Hickman," as a politician would say, I made Brother James Baker's home my headquarters for several days. I had not been in the church very long, but was reading the Bible constantly and talking about it to every one who would listen to me. In fact, selling fruit trees was more of a "side line" with me, as my main business was talking Bible. I found Brother Baker and family to be genuine Christians, and among the most hospitable I had ever met. It was in deed and truth a Christian home, where not only love for each other abounded, but where God seemed to be enthroned in every heart. Brother Baker said to me when I left his home that the next time he saw me, I would be preaching. I had no idea of such a thing ever befalling me; but the truth is, I was at it then and did not know it. I had an idea that a whole lot of things had to happen to one before he could become a preacher. There was the theological school that must be attended where they are fitted, trained, and polished for the "ministry," and then there were the "ministerial" garments—the long-tailed coat, high hat, white cravat and standing collar, necessary adjuncts to the profession. But where were they to come from? I was as poor as the proverbial "church mouse," with a wife and two children to feed, house, and clothe. How could I do it? But I kept on studying the Bible and talking about it until it got out all over the country that I was a preacher. Brethren, I did not intend to do it; it was more of an accident than anything else, even if it did fulfill Brother Baker's prophecy. Our brother has long since gone to be with the Lord, but he has left his family representatives to perpetuate his name and to uphold its sacred honor. The Baker family keep these family bonds of love and interest in each other ablaze on the altar of genuine affection, and every now and then they have these meetings, when the flow of soul illumines the occasion. These are not only meetings for social intercourse in which the reminiscences of the irretrievable past are gone over, but are also the occasion of spreading the first fruits of the land.

We have all, no doubt, read of the "swinging gardens" of the great city of Babylon, which must have been transcendently beautiful, as well as one of the seven wonders of the ancient world. Well, there was a swinging table between two beautiful maple trees at the home of Brother Thurman, which for beauty, as well as evidences of good cooks, was to me more substantially attractive and charming than any conception I have ever formed of Nebuchadnezzar's "swinging gardens." On that table made of woven wire and covered with immaculate linen lay smiling everything to challenge the appetites of the small army of Bakers with their accessories in the way of "in-laws," cousins, uncles, aunts, and the writer. Rush Baker, my old song leader, was absent, and although I did my best to represent him at the table, I could only make half of a hand. As an accomplished eater, especially in the matter of quantity, Dr. J. O. Cummins, of Nashville, bore off the blue ribbon, with John Jewell as a close second. But that need occasion no surprise, for we know how it is when a city chap gets a fair chance at a country dinner. Grandmother Baker is hale and hearty, bidding fair to witness the return of many such happy and joyous reunions.

But—alas!—as the winter frosts nip and blast the fluttering foliage, which is swept from the fingers of the trees by the cruel winds, so will the chill of death break these earthly ties one by one until there will be none left of this large family to perpetuate these reunions. I have none left of my father's once large and happy family with whom to meet and talk of the long ago. Their voices are all hushed in the silence of the tomb, and I alone linger to hear the last call. Such experiences would be lamentable beyond description and altogether unendurable were it not for the light of hope gleaming through the rifted clouds and the whisperings from the far-away homeland which come to us through the glorious promises of God, where there may be a reunion that shall ne'er break up, and where mothers, fathers, sisters, brothers, and friends, clothed with immortal youth, may mingle through the endless ages. So when we witness the light of life and love fade from the eyes of our loved ones who fall asleep in Jesus, let us realize that they have only gone before to "be waiting and watching" at the beautiful gates for us.

The Night's Mystery.

What is the mystery of the night,
That calls from depths of somber light,
That mingles with the rush of rain
That sings outside my windowpane?

'Tis this: that only God is wise,
His secrets hid from prying eyes;
His night most beautiful and fair,
If lighted by the lamp of prayer!

—Rufus Lee Dodd.

Evolution—Its Limitations.

BY H. LEO B.

As we have seen, evolution is a theory; it is a theory of a process of development. Evolution is a product of science; it is an offspring of science. At best, it partakes of the nature and limitations of science. Science is knowledge properly classified. This classification is made by man. Hence, science is a product of human efforts and may be marred by all the imperfections of man. There are few things, if any, with which man has to do that can be stamped with the approval of perfection. Man is an imperfect being and cannot produce, either by hand or mind, anything that is perfect. When perfection is applied to man, it is done so only in a relative sense.

Since science bears the marks of imperfections and errors of human judgment and reasoning, we cannot expect evolution, a product of science, to be free from the same imperfections and limitations of science. It would be folly to claim perfection for evolution, when science, which has produced evolution, is imperfect. Science cannot give us the origin of matter which must exist before the theory of evolution can give the process of its development. Science cannot give the reason for the order and special arrangement of the universe, and hence evolution cannot claim to give more than science. All of the limitations that belong to science inhere in the theory of evolution.

It is well to note these limitations in order that we may know the field of the theory of evolution and keep it in the bounds of its own limitations. Physical science cannot settle the question of absolute creation; neither can it give us any information concerning the creation of man. Physical science must deal with the phenomena that belong to its theory, and creation of matter is out of the realm of physical science. As evolution is a product of science and is fraught with all of the limitations of science, evolution cannot properly deal with creation. The question of absolute creation belongs only to the realm of revelation. No man was present when matter was first created; man is a more recent product. Hence, man must depend upon revelation to inform him as to the beginning of creation. Man cannot analyze matter and learn of the power or force that created it. There is nothing in matter that can give man this information. Any theory that man may originate will fall far short of giving man any satisfaction. Man must go to revelation for this information. He can either accept or reject revelation.

Science cannot account for life. We have seen that this fundamental axiom is at the basis of all science and philosophy: "Out of nothing, nothing comes." So life can only come from life. No scientist can analyze life. No scientist can account for life except on the well-established principle that life comes from life. Hence, evolution cannot account for life. Life does not come within the domain of evolution, and it is a fatal error for any evolutionist to try to apply the theory to life in its origin. Here again man must go to revelation to find the origin of life. Again, since man was not present when life began on earth or in the universe of God, and since man cannot analyze life and find its origin, he is forced to go to revelation for his information concerning the first life and its origin. Science may learn that there are two kinds of life, vegetable and animal, but it cannot give its origin.

Science cannot account for the wide chasms between animal life and vegetable life; neither can it account for the great difference in the organization of animal life and vegetable life. Since science cannot account for these differences, since they are in a field into which science cannot go, we again conclude that evolution, with its scientific limitations, cannot account for these different kinds of life. Again, man must go to revelation for what information he may have on this subject. Scientists tell us that under the microscope the vegetable cell and animal protoplasm are radically different in their very nature. How, then, can evolution claim that all things came from the same protoplasmic cell? Evolution fails to account for these wide differences.

Science, and therefore evolution, which is a part of science, cannot account for the various species of animals and plants. There is a chasm between the species that evolution has not been able to bridge. The "missing link" has never been found. But we are told that species in the vegetable kingdom mix and that different species of animals gender; yet, with these seeming contradictions, the facts still stand that there is a chasm between species. Scientists have recognized this and have struggled hard and long to find the connecting link, but the search has been in vain. Again, the theory of evolution breaks down and man must go to revelation for this information. The account of creation as given in Genesis gives man the only information on the creation of matter, the origin of life, and the different species of vegetables and animals. If man rejects this, he has nothing to offer but a human theory burdened with human limitations.

Again, science cannot account for reason, self-consciousness, volition and intuition, as found in man. No scientist can analyze a brain and find the power of intelligence, nor dissect the nervous system and observe the conscience and moral conceptions of right and wrong which belong to man. No stretch of evolution can give a hypothesis for the moral attributes that belong to man. There is a wide chasm between the intellect of man and the instinct of animals which no evolutionist can leap or bridge over. Where did man get his intellectual, moral, and spiritual powers and attributes? Again man is forced to go to revelation for this information. There he finds that God said: "Let us make man in our image, after our likeness."

All these limitations of science and evolution force man to accept the Bible account of these things or else forever remain in ignorance and darkness concerning them.

Gospel Advocate Company.

BY H. LEO B.

This company is headquarters for Bibles, song books, Bible Lesson Helps (including Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary Quarterlies, Lesson Leaf, Picture Cards, and Young People), the Gospel Advocate, and religious books too numerous to mention.

A good book is a good friend; and if it be a great book, it is a great friend. No Christian home is complete without a large number of religious books.

Here is a brief description of a few books that should be in your home:

"Civil Government"—Its Origin, Mission, and Destiny, and the Christian's Relations to It. By David Lipscomb. This book is the outgrowth of the author's most matured thoughts on this subject. Attractively bound. Pages, 158. Price, $1.

"Commentary on Acts." By David Lipscomb. A commentary on the Acts of Apostles, with questions suited for the use of families and schools. This commentary is especially adapted to the comprehension of the masses of the people. It also contains a chronology of the Acts, map showing Paul's missionary journeys, brief biographies of the apostles, and an introductory chapter on the Holy Spirit. Cloth; 250 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

"The People's New Testament, with Notes." (Two volumes.) By B. W. Johnson. A splendid commentary, comprising the entire New Testament. Volume I., four Gospels and Acts; Volume II., Epistles and Revelation. Price, per volume, postpaid, $2.50.

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Home Reading

What Do They Say?

BY CLARA COX EPPERSON.

"O, what do you think the angels say?"
Said the children up in heaven.
"There's a dear, little boy coming home to-day;
He's almost ready to fly away
From the earth we used to live in.
Let's go and open the gates of joy,
Open them wide for this dear little boy,"
Said the children up in heaven.
"For on earth do you hear them weep?"
Said the children up in heaven.
"For the dear, little boy has gone to sleep;
The shadows fall and the night clouds sweep
O'er the earth we used to live in.
But we will go and open the gates of joy,
O, why do they weep for the little boy?"
Said the children up in heaven.
"God wanted him where his little ones meet,"
Said the children up in heaven.
"He shall play with us in the golden street;
He had grown too fair, he had grown too sweet,
For the earth we used to live in;
He needed the sunshine—this dear, little boy—
That glids this side of the gates of joy,"
Said the children up in heaven.
"Fly with him quickly, O angels dear,"
Said the children up in heaven.
"See! He is coming! Look there! Look there!
At the jasper light on his sunny hair
Where the veiling clouds are riven.
O, hush, hush, hush, the swift wings furl,
For the King himself at the gates of joy
Is taking his hand—dear, tired, little boy—
And leading him into heaven."

✱ ✱ ✱

How Winnie Took Mamma's Place.

Mrs. Spencer was called away from home to assist a friend taken suddenly ill, and left her daughter Winnie to take care of the house. "The work will have to go undone until to-night," she said, regretfully; "but do the best you can, Winnie."

Winnie followed her to the door, and, with a smile and a wave of the hand, answered: "Yes, mamma, I'll take your place to-day!" Then she ran back into the house.

"If I could only take her place and do just as she does, how glad I should be!" she said to herself, wistfully. She glanced about the room and then smiled as she thought how easily she could do it.

Winnie did not like to wash dishes or sweep the floor, and it was seldom that she did this kind of work, as her mother had always been kind and indulgent with her. So the little girl did not know much about work, although nearly ten years of age.

But to be left alone in charge of the house was a new experience to her; and as she felt the responsibility of her position, she resolved to fill it with credit to herself, if possible. "I'll just surprise mamma for once," she said, half aloud.

It took her nearly all the forenoon to wash the dishes, sweep the floor, and arrange everything just as her mamma did in the kitchen. As her papa was out of town, she did not have any one but herself to get dinner for, and she decided to "just take a lunch" to save time and labor.

Then she went into the sitting room, sweeping, dusting, and putting in order. It looked really nice after she had accomplished her work, the last of which consisted in filling the vases with fresh flowers. She began to feel tired and for a little time her arms ached, but she kept on doing little things all over the house that she thought ought to be done.

"I am so tired!" she said several times, and at last she lay down on the easy couch in the sitting room and began to think. She wondered if her mother ever felt as weary as she did, and how it was that she could work all day without resting. Then it came to her that she ought to help mamma more than she did, and she resolved then and there that she would do so in the future. She realized, too, how kind her mamma was in taking all of the burdens on herself and in allowing her little girl to pass the time as she pleased. "Dear, good mamma, shall not do all the work in the future." As she said these words the little girl closed her eyes in sleep.

Mrs. Spencer returned before Winnie awoke and looked about for her in surprise. She had expected to find the breakfast dishes just as she had left them; but seeing everything in order, she guessed the secret. She went to the couch and kissed the little, flushed face, and Winnie at once awoke.

"You are a good little girl to do the work so nicely, and I am very glad, for I did not feel like doing it after being away all day," she said.

"I tried to take your place, mamma," Winnie answered, a happy look coming over her face.

She did not tell her mamma that she had learned a lesson and formed a new resolution by the day's experience, but she thought that she would "surprise mamma" more than ever when she carried into practice what she had resolved to do.—Mrs. M. A. Holt, in Exchange.

✱ ✱ ✱

How to Have a Good Time.

Well, twinsies, did you have a good time?" asked Mrs. Gray when her little girls came back from the beach.

"Yes'm," said Lucy.

"No'm," said Lula.

"Why didn't you have a good time, little sister?" mother asked Lula.

"I don't know," said Lula.

"Did Lacy let you play with the bucket?"

"Yes, I played wif it all the time."

"All the time? And how about the shovel?"

"I played wif it all the time, too."

"Ah!" said mother, looking very wise. "And who played with the flag, little sister?"

Lula hung her head. "I played wif it all the time, too," she said, presently.

"And what did my other little girl play with?" mother asked Lacy.

"I didn't play wif nothin'," said Lacy, with a merry laugh, "but I had a dood time."

"Now I see what was the matter with Lula," said mother. "The sun may be shining, but it never looks bright to a little girl who wants everything herself."

Lula did not say anything, but she understood. When they were on the beach next day, Lacy had the bucket and Lula had the flag, and they were using the shovel turn about.—Little Ones.

✱ ✱ ✱

Dangerous Literature.

Masses of American children and youth to-day are reared in an atmosphere of crime and immorality. We have excluded the Bible, and to a great extent religious teaching, from our public schools. The histories which our youth read are devoted in a far too great extent to a record of the crimes of public characters in past ages, and much of the "literature" which falls into their hands is no better and some of it far worse.—Boston Transcript.

Query Department

Wilson Vantrease, Lebanon, Tenn., requests an answer to the following question through the Gospel Advocate: "Is it a sin for a widow who belongs to the church of Christ to marry a Methodist or Holiness brother?"

The Lord forbade his chosen people, the Israelites, to marry the nations around them. The Israelites were commanded to break down the altars of other nations, "lest thou make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land, and they play the harlot after their gods, and sacrifice unto their gods, and one call thee and thou eat of his sacrifice; and thou take of their daughters unto thy sons, and their daughters play the harlot after their gods, and make thy sons play the harlot after their gods." (Ex. 34: 15, 16.) "Neither shalt thou make marriages with them; thy daughter thou shalt not give unto his son, nor his daughter shalt thou take unto thy son." (Deut. 7: 3.) While I am sure it is best for Christians to marry Christians, yet I do not think I would be justified in saying that the Christian who marries out of the Lord sins, neither would I say that the Christian widow who marries a Methodist or Holiness brother sins. It is not my province to say that they are not in Christ. The promise is to the obedient. I am not unmindful of the following scripture: "A wife is bound for so long time as her husband liveth; but if the husband be dead, she is free to be married to whom she will; only in the Lord." (1 Cor. 7: 39.) It should be observed that Paul is not discussing whom one should marry, but whether it is best to marry or not to marry. He does not say one thing about whether it is best to marry in the Lord or whether it is a sin to marry out of the Lord, but the whole burden of what he says is whether one should or should not marry. The meaning of the apostle is clearer if we transpose "only in the Lord" to the fortieth verse. We will then read: "A wife is bound for so long time as her husband liveth; but if the husband be dead, she is free to be married to whom she will. But she is happier if she abide as she is, only in the Lord, after my judgment: and I think that I also have the Spirit of God." This makes Paul say of a widow, just as he says of all others if they are in the Lord, it is better to abide unmarried, provided they have continency. Marriage is not compulsory. It is political rather than religious. The irreligious as well as the religious marry. I am sure, however, to avoid tribulations in the flesh, that congenial spirits should marry. Enough troubles belong to the married state without inviting them by marrying those who hold nothing in common with ourselves.

✻ ✻ ✻

A sister from Denver, Col., is concerned about drinking and dancing. She asks: "(1) Do you think a member of the church should take a drink with fellows that are bootlegging? Don't you think such conduct destroys his influence for good, although he is continually urging people to 'flee from the wrath to come?' (2) Is it right for a sister to attend dances to watch the young people dance? Is she not in the same boat with the man who drinks a dram when he gets ready? Both claim there is no harm done. I want to hear from you on the conduct of both."

1. No Christian should take a drink as a beverage anywhere or with anybody. He should shun the very appearance of evil. In the time when the Bible was written whisky was unknown. At that time wine was used and would make drunk. The Bible clearly condemns the use of wine as a beverage. Solomon says: "Wine is a mocker, strong drink a brawler; and whosoever erreth thereby is not wise." (Prov. 20: 1.) Fearful is the evil that flows from drinking wine. "Who hath woe? who hath sorrow?

who hath contentions? who hath complaining? who hath wounds without cause? who hath redness of eyes? They that tarry long at the wine; they that go to seek out mixed wine. Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it sparkleth in the cup, when it goeth down smoothly: at the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder." (Prov. 23: 29-32.) It is evident that Timothy was not physically robust and vigorous. It appears that the water which he drank did not agree with him; so the Spirit, through Paul, admonishes him: "Be no longer a drinker of water, but use a little wine for thy stomach's sake and thine often infirmities." (1 Tim. 5: 23.) This is a clear condemnation of the use of wine as a beverage. Timothy should use it as a medicine for his stomach's sake and his often infirmities. This scripture does not encourage but condemns a man in the use of wine whenever he pleases. Women are admonished not to be given to the use of much wine: "But speak thou the things which befit the sound doctrine: that aged men be temperate, grave, sober-minded, sound in faith, in love, in patience: that aged women likewise be reverent in demeanor, not slanderers nor enslaved to much wine; teachers of that which is good." (Tit. 2: 1-3.) The dram drinker is in danger of getting drunk. This is true of both whisky and wine. Drunkenness is forbidden. "And be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot, but be filled with the Spirit." (Eph. 5: 18.) "Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with men, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God." (1 Cor. 6: 9, 10.) And this is not all: "Be not deceived: Evil companionships corrupt good morals." (1 Cor. 15: 33.) Those bootleggers will never be led to Christ by that dram-drinking church member. His urgent words appear to them as hollow mockery. If there was ever any light in him, it has become darkness. He is a stumblingblock, and over him those bootleggers may stumble into hell. "Even so let your light shine before men; that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven." (Matt. 5: 16.)

2. Active Christians do not attend dances for any purpose. I have never known young people who are dance-lovers to be lovers of the Lord. They are worthless as church members. That dram drinker and that dance watcher are both traveling the broad road. Every Christian must know that there is nothing good in the dance and that it thoroughly unfits one for life's duties. The dancer stays up nearly all night and then stays in bed practically all the next day. This alone, with all right-thinking people, condemns the thing. Since the liberties between the sexes almost amount to license, no Christian woman should encourage the voluptuous dance by watching it. Christians should not look upon evil. All Christian mothers know that the dance does not strengthen the virtue of their daughters, but, on the contrary, that more women trace their downfall to the dance than to any other one thing. Fathers who appreciate a strong manhood and noble womanhood should encourage their sons and daughters to shun the dance. The best men do not encourage their sisters to dance and do not go to the dance hall to get their wives. Christians should not encourage more freedom between the sexes, but should discourage dangerous liberties, remembering that all human beings are weak and subject to temptation. It is shocking to see our young people, male and female, mingling with each other in an almost nude condition. Such liberties have always led downward and not upward. It is time to halt and think on: "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things!" (Phil. 4: 8.)

Texas-Oklahoma Department

By C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

The Power of Righteousness.

BY JOHN W. HEDGE.

Unrighteousness has been, is, and ever will be the curse of man. It has built our prisons, filled our asylums, enlarged the cemeteries of the land, and exalted the king of hell. The only opposing power by which it can be successfully met and annihilated is righteousness. God moved on idolatrous Egypt through Israel, his chosen people, and later he planted them among the heathens of Canaan. This was his method of approaching the nations for the purpose of educating them in righteousness. When his plan was defeated by reason of their refusal to learn, punishment was inflicted. Even his peculiar people, Israel, were punished when they failed in doing that which was right in the eyes of the Lord. God would have spared Sodom and Gomorrah if only he could have found ten righteous people within these cities. Failing to find that many, the angels of the Lord, two in number, led forth the righteous, and the cities were consumed by fire from heaven. Do you wonder that Solomon says: "Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people?"

"When the fullness of time had come, Christianity was introduced into the world by Christ as the saving influence of the world. It is God's power to make the world what it should be, and it has succeeded in making the world what it is to-day, morally and spiritually. I am not sure that the world would stand another day were it not for God's church, or kingdom. Christian people are making the world safe for itself. Few they are, but numbers do not count in God's service. Righteousness is the watchword. It is not the strong church in numbers that is accomplishing the most good, but the church that is determined to do right. Ungodliness on our part retards our progress. I care not what may be our numbers. With only one hundred and twenty members, the church of God had its beginning in righteousness, and its rapid growth for the first century is to be attributed to the pure and chaste lives of its members. The kingdom is, says Paul, "righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit." Based on any other foundation, it would lose its power to attract the world to God. Let ours be lives of service to God and man in righteousness.

✱ ✱ ✱

Better Houses.

BY C. R. N.

The church which stays in some old, dilapidated bat den on the outskirts of the town as the place for worship, while the individual members are adding to their wealth, building nice residences, buying automobiles, and having vacation trips to summer resorts in summer and to some semi-tropical place in winter—such as these are not deceiving any one when they declare they are not able to build a comfortable and commodious house in which they may assemble to worship Jehovah.

The demolition of a congregation is certain when they stay in an old, badly kept, inadequate, inaccessible place just as long as they can "make out with it."

What impression is made on you when you pass a church house for months each Sunday and see forty or fifty automobiles parked, when a glance at the church house reveals a building crying for paint, while on the lawn about the house you see weeds and a general unkept condition prevailing? I do not think we should spend money on a church building simply to make a "show," but let us not be niggardly in spending our money for the work of the Lord.

Some months ago I was for a few hours in a town in Arkansas. I requested to be driven by the church houses in the town. The house my brethren own is not a large one, but is well located, and they are preparing to erect a new building. I was impressed with the beautiful lawn on which the house stood and the care which was given to it. Too, flowers were in abundance about the meetinghouse. In passing through the town, I did not see another lawn so well kept as the one about our house. In passing another church building, I saw bitter weeds in abundance about the house and some scrubby brush. Evidently the lawn had received no attention for years. Have you any idea the impression made on me and that which is made on others by the way the members of the respective churches here mentioned care for their church property? Were you a stranger in this town, with no "church preference," and should have walked through the town and seen the two church buildings, and the care given the lawn in one instance and the lack of care in the other, where would you have attended church on Sunday morning?

What impression does the house and lawn where you worship make on the people who pass it each day or even occasionally? Do not wait for Brother X to make the lawn beautiful—why not you do this? Begin now to prepare it for another year. You will be repaid for every lick you strike in beautifying the place. When one time you begin to make improvements about the place, you will find that others will be glad to join you in the work. Let us do it. Why not make the church house where you worship the most attractive place in the town?

I rejoice in the forward movement my brethren are making in the way of better buildings and well-kept lawns about the church house.

✱ ✱ ✱

Personal Notes.

C. G. Vincent closed at Whitlock, Texas, with four baptisms.

Foy E. Wallace, Jr., closed in Thalia, Texas, with twenty-five baptisms and five restorations.

C. W. Ing closed in Slim, Okla., with twenty-two baptisms. Brother Ing has time for another meeting. Write him at Hillsboro, Texas.

J. G. Allen reports the work of the C Street Church in Muskogee, Okla., progressing nicely. J. W. Hedge is to begin a meeting with this congregation on the third Sunday in September.

D. S. Ligon recently baptized one in his regular work with the church in Burkburnett, Texas. He has closed his work in the field and is with the church in Burkburnett for another year.

The congregations in San Antonio, Texas, have recently coöperated in a mission meeting in that city which resulted in twenty-one baptisms. The meeting was in Harlandale addition. J. E. Mullins and W. D. Bills were the preachers.

T. H. Ethridge baptized two at Thornton, Texas; three at Keller, Texas; and fourteen at Center Point, Ark. He will begin regular work with the church in Stephenville, Texas, on September 10.

E. S. Fitzgerald reports as follows: Goldthwaite, Texas, six baptisms; Arlington, Texas, six baptisms; Johnson's Station, Texas, two baptisms; Trent, Texas, three baptisms; Parker, Texas, six baptisms; Nolanville, Texas, ten baptisms; Bowie, Texas, one sermon and one baptism.

Foy E. Wallace, Sr., who labors with the Denver Heights congregation, San Antonio, Texas, reports the work there progressing nicely. Three baptisms since his meetings in the field. His meeting in Decatur, Texas, resulted in five baptisms, and the church pledged to more active and aggressive work.

Current Comment

Lots of People Tell the Truth.

The man who lives in the slums usually thinks that all folk live as he does. The chronic liar assumes that everybody else is like him. So many people in business deal in lies that many people are often in the spirit of the Psalmist, who declared: "I said in my haste, All men are liars." Nevertheless, lots of folk tell the truth. If this were not true, society would go rapidly to destruction. Most of our business is done on faith in the other man's integrity, and the fact is that our faith on the whole is justified.—California Christian Advocate.

All should tell the truth; all should speak the truth. Paul gave this admonition: "Wherefore, putting away falsehood, speak ye truth each one with his neighbor: for we are members one of another." (Eph. 4: 25.)

There are many ways of deceiving, falsifying. One may deceive by a look, a gesture, an act, sometimes by silence, and by speaking. One may express the truth in different ways. The most impressive way of expressing the truth is by an open, frank, sincere life. David said: "Behold, thou desirest truth in the inward parts." (Ps. 51: 6.) Again, in describing a citizen of Zion, David mentions the qualifications of those who shall sojourn in the tabernacle of Jehovah as follows: "He that walketh uprightly and worketh righteousness, and speaketh truth in his heart." (Ps. 15: 2.) Sincerity and truthfulness must be in life; honesty must characterize all that we do, if society is blessed by our association with each other. No veneer of truthfulness will help society; it must be from the heart. There must be "truth in the inward parts."

It is refreshing to know that there are many people who are worthy of our confidence, people whom we can trust with all sincerity. The Christian religion develops a character that merits the stamp of genuine integrity and respectful admiration; a character which the Lord trusts and blesses in time and saves in eternity. Such a character men can trust with implicit confidence. Yes, there are "lots of people who tell the truth." To lose faith in such a class of men and women is to lose faith in God and his system of faith for making men righteous.

✻ ✻ ✻

Unbelief.

Unbelief is cumulative. Rejection of any part of God's word makes it hard to understand his whole word. Dean Pettingill, of the Philadelphia School of the Bible, says that Peter and John did not at first believe the resurrection of the Lord Jesus, and hence ran to the tomb to make a personal investigation, because they did not believe the Lord when he foretold to them his atoning death. Mary of Bethany, however, believed his predictions of his death, and she was not found at the tomb with the other women who went to embalm the body. She had anointed him beforehand to his burying. Faith is progressive and climactic in the opposite direction from unbelief, and its firm acceptance of one truth leads to quick knowledge of others, until the man of God is furnished out of the Book of God with the real wisdom that leads to life for himself and all good works on behalf of others.—Sunday School Times.

The sin of unbelief is alarming. It is sad to contemplate the fact that God has made creatures in his own image, endowed them with intelligent minds and understanding hearts, yet they do not believe in him. Everything that God has done to man and for man has been for man's good, both temporal and eternal. God's attitude toward man always has been to inspire confidence and hope in man. No statement recorded in the Bible is unworthy of man's fullest and strongest credence; no promise of Jehovah's has ever failed; no command of God has ever been unreasonable or hard on man to obey. Why should not man believe God? Man puts confidence in man. We trust our fellow man. Is it unreasonable for man to believe his Creator? Is man not under obligation to God and to the Bible to believe God's revelation?

✻ ✻ ✻

The Responsibility Is With the Parents.

The home is older than the church. It is older than the nation. It must furnish the material out of which the church and nation, in the next twenty-five years, are to be constructed. The first evidence of decay in a nation is found in the home life of that nation. One reason why the awful crime wave is sweeping our land to-day is because the homes have been neglected. We are fast becoming a homeless nation. Clubs, lodges, society, and such like are having our attention, and our children are being neglected. They are permitted to grow up on the streets or in the pool rooms. To many the home is only a place to eat, sleep, and grunt.

There are too few homes in which altars have been erected to Jehovah. The altar has been taken away and the card table put in its place. The Bible has been lost and the children are allowed to grow up without any Christian training. Worldly-minded, pleasure-seeking, moving-picture fiends are incapable of giving children Christian training. Our trouble is not with the children so much as it is with the parents.—Exchange.

Amen! The above expresses a very vital truth. The church will be better when we get better homes. The Christian home, if true to the Father, must have an altar, and every member of the family devoutly and reverently worshipping God at that altar. Worldliness fills the homes of many to-day. Truly, "worldly-minded, pleasure-seeking, moving-picture fiends are incapable of giving children Christian training." Let fathers and mothers reform, and then we will have a reformation in the children. A Spirit-filled, consecrated, and devout parent, one who lets the "word of Christ dwell" in him richly, can train children in the way God would have them go. No other kind can.

TRACTS AND BOOKLETS.

The following tracts and booklets can be had from the Gospel Advocate Company:

The Establishment of the Kingdom (L. R. Sewell)05
Modern Geology Rebuked (I. N. Jones)05
Faith that Qualifies for Baptism (Durst-McQuiddy)10
Instrumental Music in the Service of God (D. Lipscomb)	Free
Theological Grub Ax (W. L. Butler)10
Church Organization (E. G. Sewell)	Free
Walking by Faith (Kurpees)05
Sincerity Seeking the Way to Heaven (E. Franklin)05
Review of John B. Cowden's Tract on Instrumental Music in the Church (Kurpees)	Free
Searching the Scriptures (T. Fanning)10
Christian Eldership (Scobey)10
Is Salvation Conditional? (Dalton-Burnett)15
Doctrine of Sanctification (Carr)10
Bible Doctrine of Sanctification (Elam)10
Stark-Warlick Debate50
Theological Debate (Bretners-Herod)25
Out of Darkness into Light (Z. T. Winfree)05
Philip Worthy (Debet)25
Evidence of Pardon (Holt)25
God's Foolishness vs. Man's Wisdom (McPherson)	Free
A Review of J. E. McHaffey's Tract on Baptism (Smith)15
The Place and Purpose of Baptism (Floyd)	Free
Methods of Work and Worship in the Church (Scobey)10
Christian Unity (D. Lipscomb) 64 pages10
Worship (McQuiddy)	Free
The New Birth (Waldron)10
The New Name (Kidwell)10

Many other tracts are in the office for distribution. They are good for use in protracted meetings.

Address Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Loss of Appetite— That Tired Feeling

Thousands take Hood's Sarsaparilla as their tonic medicine for that tired feeling, nervous weakness, impure blood, and testify that it makes them feel better, eat and sleep better.

Hood's Sarsaparilla has given entire satisfaction to three generations in the treatment of general debility. It restores the appetite, relieves that tired feeling, enables the system to resist infectious diseases.

Hood's Sarsaparilla aids digestion and makes food taste good. A good cathartic is Hood's Pills.

THE B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.

We are preparing our mailing list for our New Catalogue. If you are interested in a free copy, write us.

B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.
CHURCH STREET
Nashville, Tennessee

W. W. PERRY
President

A. D. PERRY
Manager

W. D. PERRY
Treasurer

We Invite Your Patronage

PERRY FURNITURE COMPANY

GENERAL HOUSE FURNISHERS

Phone, Main 1491

208 THIRD AVENUE, NORTH
NASHVILLE, TENN.

JACOBS & COMPANY

SPECIAL ADVERTISING
AGENTS

PRINTERS DESIGNERS PHOTO-ENGRAVERS ELECTROTYPERS

*Catalogues —
— a Specialty*

HOME OFFICE:
CLINTON, S.C.

The Work of the Lord in Saskatchewan.

BY OSWALD L. HODGES.

It is very evident from the support accorded Brother H. A. Rogers, our faithful and zealous evangelist here in Saskatchewan, that a great many of God's children do not understand the truth about this work or its needs. This great province, lying between Manitoba and Alberta and reaching from the American boundary to the frozen North, can boast of only seven small congregations of God's people. Of these, two are small city churches and the other five are country churches. Of the latter, two have not extended any support for several years—one not since 1919 and the other not since 1920. This leaves only five churches to support the work here. At present we have two men in the field, Brother Rogers and Brother L. L. McGill, a student of the college at Carman, Manitoba. The Estevan Church taught and set in order only last fall by Brother Rogers, has had need this spring to erect a meetinghouse, and so need help themselves. Brethren, this is a live and zealous church, and could you see fit to set apart a Lord's-day contribution for their building fund, they would be greatly encouraged. Added to this, the southern part of the province, where these churches are situated, has practically had no crop since 1917, and in very many instances the farmers are only leasing the land (which they once owned) from the mortgage company. Brethren, I feel sure that most of the churches are doing their very best; but we need your help, for at present the burden is too heavy for us alone. We need your prayers also. "The prayers of a righteous man availeth much." So let us pray that the work of the Lord shall run and not be hindered in the great harvest field of the Lord, where I assure you it is truly ripe for the garnering.

Brother Rogers is now in a two-weeks'-old meeting at Hart, about ten miles south of Harpree. It has been my privilege to be present at a good many of these meetings, and I have never seen more interested audiences in all my life. This was previously a Russellite stronghold, with quite a mixture of all sects, but we have reason to hope that many will accept the truth before the meeting closes. The meetings are now held in the Woodmen's Hall, as the school building is too small. Some come ten miles on horseback to the meeting.

Brethren, now is the time to preach the gospel of Jesus before the sects get busy in this country preaching the creeds and dogmas of their own devising. At present there is very little organization of any denomination, and the people seem eager and ready to accept the truth as soon as presented; but once let the sects get started, and it will be a more difficult matter to plant the seed of the gospel. "Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; they are white already to harvest." (John 4: 35.) Brethren, will you not help us with this harvest? "He that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal." (John 4: 36.) Brother, sister, the wages are sure; will you not help us? Jesus said: "The poor have the gospel preached unto them." Your privilege and mine is to share in this work. If we cannot go, we can encourage and hold up the hands of those who can go and those who are already in the field. This we can do by giving money to satisfy their needs while they sacrifice home and the association of loved ones that they may pass on the bread of life to hungry, starving souls.

In Brother Rogers we have one of the most successful evangelists it is possible to get—a man who shuns not to proclaim "the whole counsel of God" without fear or favor; a man with a happy knack at making friends wherever he goes, yet always upholding the cause of Christ; a man who can associate with men and gain their good will and respect without treading on their corns, and who can hold an audience for night after night without any apparent abatement of interest. Can we as God's children afford to allow such a man to be aught but fully supported? Let us ask ourselves the questions: What am I doing as my share in the Lord's work? Am I doing all I can or might do? Have I enough interest in this work to take it to the Lord in prayer? Supposing I should die to-morrow, should I regret I had not done more for my Savior, who gave his life for me? Is our heart set on the winning of souls for the kingdom of our King? If not, how can we expect to hear him on the great day of reckoning say to us: "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord?" Let us see to it that we are found faithful in every good word and work.

The Plum Street Church of Christ, Detroit, Mich.,

Now meets in its new building, corner Hamilton Boulevard and Tuxedo Avenue. Visiting brethren welcome.

New York City Church of Christ 239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:20 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M., Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6857.

The McMurry-Hartgraves Debate.

BY W. L. SHELNUTT.

This was a five-days' discussion at Haywood, near Wedowee, Ala., gotten up through a challenge by letter to Brother Walter McMurry from J. W. Morris. Everything was promptly arranged and the date set to begin Tuesday, August 15.

W. H. Hartgraves, a Congregationalist preacher from Nacogdoches, Texas, an able exponent of that faith, was selected to meet Brother McMurry.

Five propositions were discussed. Hartgraves affirmed the first day: "The Scriptures teach that the Israelitish church is the church of God, of which the Gentiles are members."

On the second day Brother McMurry affirmed: "The Scriptures teach that the church of God was set up on the first Pentecost after the resurrection of Christ."

On the third day Brother McMurry affirmed: "The Scriptures teach that water baptism is for (unto) the remission of sins."

On the fourth day Brother McMurry affirmed: "The Scriptures teach that immersion is the only mode of baptism."

On the fifth day Hartgraves affirmed: "The Scriptures teach that affusion is a mode of baptism."

It would require too much space to give all arguments pro and con.

On the first proposition Hartgraves made his greatest effort, and never equaled this effort again during the entire debate. He argued that Christ was with the church in the wilderness; that Christ sat on David's throne; that he did not set up a kingdom, but built again the tabernacle of David; and that the Gentiles were grafted in. Brother McMurry showed that these things existed in type and the covenant only in promise.

On the second day Brother McMurry made these arguments still stronger by showing that God promised a "new covenant;" that Christ said: "I will build my church," etc. To this Hartgraves was never able to make a satisfactory reply; and, I think, he felt his defeat from then on.

On the three last propositions Brother McMurry had an easy task. On the proposition "for" in Acts 2: 38 he offered Liddell and Scott to show that "eis" was rendered "unto," "in order to." Hartgraves raised objection to using the said lexicon on the ground that it was an abridged copy, which objection was sustained by the moderators.

The next day on the "mode" Hartgraves offered a typewritten copy that he said was a correct copy from Liddell and Scott on "baptidzo." To this there was no objection raised. Brother McMurry wrote the definitions offered on the blackboard, handed the lexicon to Hartgrave's moderator (Mr. Morris) and asked that he look on the lexicon and tell him if he read any definitions from the copy that were not in the lexicon. "Pour upon" and "drench" were reported not found. Hartgraves was asked to underscore those words on the board, but he refused. Brother McMurry underscored them and asked: "Where did you get these definitions?" Morris said: "I copied them out of this book." The book proved to be a Methodist novel. All could see his utter defeat here.

On the last proposition Hartgraves made his fight on the "outpouring of the Holy Ghost" and the Septuagint version of the Old Testament, but he had no copy of the Septuagint. To this I, as Brother McMurry's moderator, would have objected; but I had already seen that his arguments were based on assumption and that I might as well let him assume here as elsewhere. He said that "bapto" was the word used in that version and meant to sprinkle or pour. Brother McMurry gave some passages in which

"some scholars" said the word was "baptizo," which never meant to sprinkle or pour—e. g., the case of Naaman; also the lexicon that rendered "bapto" to dip as a primary meaning; then that "baptisma," which the translators of the Authorized Version only anglicized when referring to Christ's command, was everywhere else in the King James Version rendered "dip."

I think it was apparent to all that the Congregationalist doctrine met a substantial defeat on this occasion, and I predict that they will not want another debate soon. Brother McMurry, while not a fast talker, showed that he was fully able to meet any man of that faith.

BOOK OF COMFORT

Specially designed gift for the bereaved. Contains choicest gems of comfort from greatest writers. Each selection a masterpiece. Memorial record page for the deceased. Beautifully decorated. Flowers fade, but "consolation" may be cherished for years. Price $2.00, postpaid. Send to McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

NERVOUS AND HALF-SICK WOMEN

These Letters Recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Will Interest You

For Your Own Good Please Read Them

Youngstown, Ohio.—"Last fall I began to feel mean and my back hurt me and I could hardly do my little bit of housework. I was played out when I would just sweep one room and would have to rest. I would have to put a cushion behind me when I would sit down and at night I could not sleep unless I had something under my back. I had awful cramps every month and was just nearly all in. Finally my husband said to me one day, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine?' and I said, 'I am willing to take anything if I could get well again.' So I took one bottle and a second one and felt better and the neighbors asked me what I was doing and said, 'Surely it must be doing you good all right.' I have just finished my eighth bottle and I cannot express to you how I feel, the way I would like to. If you can use this letter you are welcome to it and if any woman does not believe what I have written to be true, she can write to me and I will describe my condition to her as I have to you."—Mrs. ELMER HEASLEY, 141 S. Jackson St., Youngstown, Ohio.

"I was very nervous and run-down," writes Mrs. L. E. Wiese of 706 Louisa St., New Orleans, La. "I would often sit down and cry, and was always blue and had no ambition. I was this way for over a year and had allowed myself to get into quite a serious condition. One day I saw your advertisement in the daily paper and began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. I have improved ever since taking the third bottle and find it is the best medicine I have ever taken."

Benefited by First Bottle

"I was completely run down and not able to do my housework. I just dragged myself around and did not have energy to get up when once I sat down. I read advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in our paper 'The Indiana Daily Times,' and learned all about it. I received results from the very first bottle and now I am doing all my own work, even washing and ironing, and I never felt better in my life. I tell all my friends it is due to you."—Mrs. ELIZABETH REINBOLD, 403 N. Pine St., Indianapolis, Indiana.

You should pay heed to the experiences of these women. They know how they felt before taking the Vegetable Compound, and afterwards, too. Their words are true.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts.

GIRLS! LEMONS

BLEACH SKIN WHITE

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents; shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms, and hands each day; then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach, because it doesn't irritate.

TETTERINE

Makes low necks and short sleeves possible. It clears the skin

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

FRED K. JONES

Buying, Selling, and Exchanging
REAL ESTATE

I Make an Effort to Assist All
Who Call on Me

43 ARCADE
NASHVILLE, TENN.

To Reduce Fever
Relieve Headaches
and Neuralgic Pains

Use

Aspitone is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart even in extreme cases of debility or weak heart, neurasthenia or anaemia. Manufactured by a formula in use by leading Physicians generally. 19 parts pure Aspirin, 1 part pure Caffeine, 4 parts excipient, in convenient tablet form. 35c per package at your druggists or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

Let thy discontents be thy secrets.—
Benjamin Franklin.

More Baptist Bunk.

BY W. H. CARTER.

If any one should conclude that the Highland Rim, here in the north portion of Middle Tennessee, is destitute of men of imaginative skill and assertive ability, he is badly off.

There lives in this section one C. B. Massey, a Missionary Baptist preacher, who, it seems, conducts a "Middle Tennessee Department" in the Baptist Flag, published at Fulton, Ky. In said paper of August 17 said Massey says some things I am requested to notice and review.

For several years Massey has been reading the Bible occasionally, but, judging from his writing, has studied but little, if any. I have known him for a number of years. Religiously, he was conceived in ignorance and brought forth in superstition, and was reared in a school where the main lesson learned was to assert a thing and then contend it is Bible truth. He seems never to have advanced beyond John the Baptist, and seems to have learned but little truth about him. He has imbibed, or absorbed, a theory which cannot be sustained by scriptural proof; hence his skill in asserting and dodging.

Yes, Massey is a good dodger. In the article referred to he shows some skill in comparing one unscriptural thing to other unscriptural things. In speaking of Matt. 3: 1, he says: "In those days came John the Methodist—no, pardon me, for there were no Methodists until 1729." Then he quotes, "John the Presbyterian," and has none of them "until 1536." Then he has "John the Lutheran," and has none of them "until 1530." Then he quotes, "John the Campbellite," but has none of them "until 1827."

Now, "Cap," why did you not play fair with the truth and your readers, and say: "In those days came John the Missionary Baptist—O, no; there were none of these in this country until about 1835, and cannot date their existence back of the split at the Gap of the Ridge, about six miles west of Lafayette, Tenn.?" This is a matter of record in the possession of the Primitive Baptist. The Methodist he dates 1729; the Presbyterian, 1536; the Lutheran, 1530; and the Campbellite, 1827. Missionary Baptists had their beginning at the Gap about 1835. So, you see, "Cap" belongs to the youngest family of the sects in the whole catalogue. He even makes "John the Mormon" about five years his senior.

After this comparison, he says: "In those days came John the Baptist." Notice, he places great emphasis on the word "Baptist." Why not put the emphasis on the word "John?" "John is a divine name, but "Baptist" is not. The only translation the

BLACK-DRAUGHT
OVER 30 YEARS

"Saved Me Many a Sick Spell,"
Says Texas Farmer, Who Has Long Known Usefulness
of Black-Draught

Naples, Texas.—"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught for years—I can safely say for more than thirty years," declares Mr. H. H. Cromer, a substantial, well-known farmer, residing out on Route 3 from here.

"I am forty-three years old, and when a small boy I had indigestion and was puny and my folks gave me a liver regulator. Then Black-Draught was advertised, and we heard of it.

"I began to take Black-Draught and have used it, when needed, ever since. I use Black-Draught now in my home, and certainly recommend it for any liver trouble.

"I have given it a thorough trial, and after thirty years can say Black-Draught is my stand-by. It has saved me many sick spells."

Mr. Cromer writes that he is "never out of Black-Draught," and says several of his neighbors prefer it to any other liver medicine. "I always recommend Black-Draught to my friends," he adds.

This valuable, old, powdered liver medicine is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and has none of the bad effects so often observed from the use of calomel or other powerful mineral drugs.

Black-Draught helps to keep the liver in trim, helping prevent or relieve such troubles as constipation, biliousness, indigestion, sick headache.

Be sure to get the genuine.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation. Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

Baptists made, so far as I know, is, "John the Immerser;" and if Massey had studied the Bible thus far, he would know that "Baptist" is not a translation of the Greek at all, and, therefore, is not divine. "John the Immerser" is the divine language in English. The word "Baptist" is anglicized—transferred, not translated; and it is human, not divine.

Massey places emphasis on "Baptist"—the human. He follows John, "Baptist," the human, instead of Christ, the divine. He speaks of Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, and Mormon; for these are all human, and it appears better to fight the human and relieve the guilty conscience. But about two years after the death of John, Jesus promised to build his church. (Matt. 16: 18.) After it was built, it was called "the church of God" (1 Cor. 1: 2; 2 Cor. 1: 1; 1 Cor. 11: 16); and about eight or ten years after it was established, the disciples were called "Christians" (Acts 11: 26; 28: 29; 1 Pet. 4: 16; James 2: 7). These names are divine; but Massey does not want to appear as fighting the divine, so he calls those who are trying to be Christians only and belong to nothing but the church of God "Campbellites." This name is human, and he can deceive more by dodging and "camouflaging" the truth by the use of blasphemy. He has not the moral courage nor the Christian bravery to state facts and meet them as they are. But "Cap" belongs to a sect called "Baptist," and he has to change the word of God to make it suit his erroneous theory.

Speaking of John, Massey says: "What was he? The Bible says he was a Baptist—the Baptist. Well, when was he a Baptist? When he came, he was a Baptist." When he was born, he was John. After he began baptizing, he was called "John the Baptist," but never was called "a Baptist." This is Massey's misrepresentation of God's truth. He was "the Baptist," which means the only Baptist, just as "the Christ" means the only Christ. No one but John was called "Baptist," and he was not so called in a sectarian sense, as C. B. Massey is.

Massey says: "When he came, he was a Baptist; . . . did not get to be a Baptist after he came, but got to be a Baptist before he came, and came as a Baptist, preached as a Baptist preacher," etc. Well, he was not "a Baptist" either before or after he came. Error number one. He did not preach "as a Baptist preacher." Error number two. Baptists cannot be made without a Baptist Church, and Massey says there was no church when John came; so he was not "a Baptist" when he came. Error number three.

John became "the Baptist" when he began to baptize; or, strictly speaking, he became "the Immerser" when he began to immerse. No one is a Baptist (Immerser) as was John, who does not immerse. But Massey says that John "preached as a Baptist preacher." If he did, he did not preach as Baptist preachers now preach. Mark says: "John did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins." (Mark 1: 4.) Luke says: "And he came into all the country about Jordan, preaching the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins." (Luke 3: 3.) Whoever heard of C. B. Massey preaching baptism for the remission of sins? Now, it is certain that if John was "a Baptist," he was a different kind from those whom C. B. Massey would represent.

FAT PEOPLE MADE SLIM

LOSE a pound a day without exercise or dieting. Eat what you like and weigh what you wish. Science has made this possible by the discovery of the real reason why people get fat. Simply send me your name, and I will send you a folder that tells you why you got fat and how you can easily and quickly reduce to the weight you want to be. M. B. Smith, Re-Build Laboratories, Dept. 2021, 1100 Coca-Cola Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

To Mother.

BY A. B. SENESEY.

God give me back
My mother dear,
Whose thoughts were pure
As the sun is clear.

Her voice was sweet
To friend and foe;
She often wept
For those in woe.

I was but seven
When she left my side,
For ever in heaven
With Christ to abide.

What joy it will be,
On the golden shore,
When I shall see
Her face once more!

Sore Feet? Don't Worry. Here's a Remedy!

Hot foot bath. Dry feet carefully. Rub thoroughly with Eucapine Salve. Towel till dry. Then off to bed with a happy heart for your poor, sore feet will be better in the morning.

*Eucapine
Salve*

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic
(Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

is a great comfort in cases of inflamed conditions of the skin and of the membranes of the air passages. 50c per 2 oz. jar, at your druggist's or by prepaid parcel post from the manufacturers. Full size jar free to physicians and quantitative formula supplied if desired.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc.,
Clinton, S. C.

EXPERT DYEING AND DRY CLEANING

SEND BY PARCEL POST

"Over Forty Years"

Experience"

McEWEN'S LAUNDRY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

STANDS OFF A LOT OF DOCTOR BILLS

Recommends Pe-ru-na for Catarrh of the Stomach, Colds and Grip

"I have used Pe-ru-na for several years and can heartily recommend for catarrh of the stomach or entire system. I always get benefit from it for colds and grip. It stands off lots of doctor bills and makes one feel like a new person."

R. F. D. No. 3, Box 51, Waynesburg, Kentucky.

It is wise to keep a bottle of Pe-ru-na in the house for emergencies. Coughs and colds may usually be relieved by few doses of Pe-ru-na taken in time. Nasal catarrh, indigestion, constipation, diarrhoea, rheumatism or other troubles due to a catarrhal condition of the mucous membranes all call for Pe-ru-na as the successful treatment. The health building, strength restoring qualities of this well known remedy are especially marked after a protracted sickness, the grip or Spanish Flu.

PE-RU-NA is justly proud of its record of fifty years as health protector for the whole family.

TABLETS OR LIQUID

SOLD EVERYWHERE

ASPIRIN

Insist on Bayer Package

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept only "Bayer" package, which contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacid-ester of Salicylicacid.

Healthy, Happy Babies

The best way to keep baby in crowing, contented health is Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. This safe, pleasant, effective remedy regulates the bowels and quickly overcomes diarrhoea, colic, flatulency, constipation, and teething troubles.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

The Infants' and Children's Regulator is best for baby. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Open formula on every label.

At all Druggists
Write for free booklet of letters from grateful mothers.

Anglo-American Drug Co.
215-217 Fulton St.
New York

Gen. Selling Agents:
Harold F. Ritchie
& Co., Inc.
New York, Toronto
London, Sydney

Deafness

Perfect hearing is now being restored in every condition of deafness or defective hearing from causes such as Catarrhal Deafness, Relaxed or Sunken Drums, Thickened Drums, Roaring and Hissing Sounds, Perforated, Wholly or Partially Destroyed Drums, Discharge from Ears, etc.

Wilson Common-Sense Ear Drums

"Little Wireless Phones for the Ears" require no medicine but effectively replace what is lacking or defective in the natural ear drums. They are simple devices, which the wearer easily fits into the ears where they are invisible. Soft, safe and comfortable. Write today for our 168 page FREE book on DEAFNESS, giving you full particulars and testimonials.

WILSON EAR DRUM CO., Incorporated
182 Inter-Southern Bldg., LOUISVILLE, KY.

Success and Failure.

BY FLAVIL HALL.

In the reckoning of success, time must not be divorced from eternity and materiality must not be divorced from spirituality. The world practices this divorce, but its reckoning is false and destructive to the abiding happiness of mankind.

Moses was a success; but if he had reckoned success by material things alone, he would have been a failure. Moses walked by faith, not by sight. He was the adopted son of Pharaoh's daughter, and was heir to the vast treasures of Egypt; but under the influence of a divine faith he "forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king; for he endured as seeing him who is invisible." When he came to the age of discretion and was capable of choosing for himself, he "refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season; esteeming the reproach of [concerning] Christ greater riches than the treasures of Egypt, for he had respect unto the recompense of reward." Heirship to the throne of Egypt, the most renowned kingdom on earth; the homage of vast subjects; the wealth and splendor of that country and a life of luxury, had no charms for him who walked by faith in Jehovah and who regarded the material things of earth of no value when used with no respect to Him who is invisible to mortals. Living with the view of "seeing him who is invisible," he was a brilliant success; and fifteen long centuries after he made his choice he was with Christ and Peter and John on the mount of transfiguration. Had he reckoned success by his earthly prospects and walked accordingly, he would have been a failure, though the world would have called him a success beyond what faith in and loyalty to God ever made a character, and he would have been the recipient of the highest earthly honors that men could bestow upon him.

Pharaoh was a failure, because his life had to do with the things of this world alone.

Jesus Christ was the greatest success and the most illustrious victor that has ever trodden the shores of time, because his life had to do with the eternal redemption and happiness of mankind, and his struggles were with and his victory was over the archenemy. His enemies, as well as his friends, the world over have to honor him every time they date a communication or document.

Pilate was a failure, because his life was given to the things that are confined by the limitations of mortal vision.

Paul was a glorious success and one of the greatest heroes, because he turned away from the honors of the world and regarded those things that were material gain to him as loss for Christ—yea, because he counted "all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus, my [his] Lord," for whom he "suffered the loss of all things" and counted them but refuse that he "might win Christ." He was a freeborn citizen of the Roman Empire, was thoroughly educated in Gamaliel's college, and was a born leader of men. Had he given his energies to the interests of the Roman Empire, he could have been a renowned character therein (and, I suppose, at the same time some sort of a Christian). But, like Moses, he chose "rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season; esteeming the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures" of the Roman Empire, "for he had respect unto the recompense of reward." He was a prisoner and suffered martyrdom under that government because of giving his time and great talents to the interests of the divine government, which is immovable and eternal. Had his choice been to serve the earthly government, he would have been a failure; but being a soldier for Christ from young manhood to old age, he died in the full confidence of eternal honor under the reign of the blessed and only Potentate, the "King of kings, and Lord of lords."

King Agrippa was a failure, because a practical faith in Christ and the hope of a better life hereafter he never embraced.

SORES

BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

TETTERINE for the COMPLEXION

60c at your druggist's or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

The First Resurrection.

BY A. M. GEORGE.

Before beginning to investigate a matter of any kind it is well to first learn what the matter is. Then let us see if we can find out what this "first resurrection" is. In the first place, it is a spiritual resurrection, and it is a resurrection without which no one can be just and holy and escape the lake of fire, or "second death." How do I know that it is a spiritual resurrection? I know it by these facts: Those martyrs (Rev. 20: 4-6) had participated in the "first resurrection," for John said they were the "first resurrection;" but they were souls in Hades, living and reigning with Christ, but had never had a literal resurrection. This is proof enough that the resurrection that they had participated in was a spiritual one. It made them just and holy; it made them "kings and priests unto God." (Rev. 1: 6; 5: 10; 1 Pet. 2: 9.)

A literal resurrection makes no change in any one's character. If you die in sin, your resurrection will not make you holy, or a king or priest unto God. Only a spiritual resurrection with Christ can make one just and holy, and no one can reign with Christ on this earth or in Hades unless he is "just and holy." No unjust or unholy person can escape the "second death."

Then, where shall we look for this all-important "first resurrection?" Why, as it is the "first resurrection" that makes one "just and holy," that makes one a king and priest unto God, and saves him from the "second death," we should, of course, go to that point at which this great change in one's condition takes place—the point where one is translated from death to life, from the kingdom of darkness into the kingdom of God's Son, where one is made a king and priest unto God and the Lamb. Is there any doubt as to where this is? Any tyro in biblical knowledge ought to know where this great change takes place.

First, try Acts 2: 37, 38, where three thousand sinners are made "just and holy" and become kings and priests unto God and the Lamb. These all pass from spiritual death to spiritual life by a spiritual resurrection with Christ.

If this is not satisfactory, try Rom. 6, beginning at verse 3: "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death [dead with him—verse 8]: that like as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also shall walk in newness of life. For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection: knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him, that the body of sin [past sins] might be destroyed.

Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God." Reigning with Christ! Here is the "first resurrection"—Christ, the first fruits; after him, all who are baptized into his death, where they reach the blood of Christ, which cleanses us from all sin and makes us "just and holy" and are raised up out of death by the resurrection with him to walk in a new life, to reign with him on earth and in Hades after death if we hold out faithful to the end. "He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; He that overcometh shall not be hurt of the second death." (Rev. 2: 11.)

We must have this "first resurrection" with Christ in order to become "just and holy," and then remain just and holy if we wish to escape the lake of fire, the "second death."

This "first resurrection" is a matter of transcendent, life-or-death importance to every rational man and woman who has access to God's law; for you cannot get to heaven without this resurrection, and it stands you in hand to know whether you have had it or not.

Sleeplessness. You can't sleep in the still-est night if your digestion is bad. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla—it strengthens the stomach and establishes that condition in which sleep regularly comes and is sweet and refreshing.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL

Look at the address label that comes with each copy of the Gospel Advocate. If it bears a date that has passed, please send renewal of subscription—$2.00 a year.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE
Nashville, Tenn.

Stop Itching

Skins with Tetterine

60c. at your druggist's or from
SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

For Mental Depression

Take HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE

Refreshing tonic for that tired feeling—mental or physical. Soothes nerves, induces restful sleep. Invigorates, aids digestion. Delicious in fruit juices or water. All druggists.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Dodson's Liver Tone

Killing Calomel Sale

Don't sicken or salivate yourself or paralyze your sensitive liver by taking calomel, which is quicksilver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it regulates the liver, stomach, and bowels better than calomel without making you sick. Fifteen million bottles sold.

OLD AT 30 OR YOUNG AT 60?

The choice is largely up to you. If your blood lacks red corpuscles, you're going to be fagged and dragged out, you're going to lack "pep," to look sallow and unhealthy, to grow old before your time.

DR. MILES' TONIC

actually increases the number of red corpuscles in the blood. It makes the cheeks plump and rosy, stimulates the digestive organs, creates a healthy appetite, and leads to increased vigor and vitality. First bottle guaranteed to help you or money refunded.

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, back-aches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting

CAPUDINE

Cuticura Soap
The Velvet Touch
For the Skin

Soap, Ointment, Talcum, 25c. everywhere. For samples address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

The Dead Yet Speak.

BY A. A. BUNNER.

I clipped the following from the Cleveland Plain Dealer of recent date, and send it to the Gospel Advocate to show you that Brother David Lipscomb, one of the greatest men the church of Christ ever produced (I mean uninspired men), though dead to this world, still speaks, and his voice is even heard through sectarian preachers. We see that they recognize his wonderful ability by quoting from his writings when it comes to defending Christianity. I am glad to note that the Advocate intends to reproduce in its columns articles from the pens of David Lipscomb, E. G. Sewell, Benjamin Franklin, and others.

The clipping from the Plain Dealer follows:

"No system of cultural and industrial education alone can safeguard society," said Rev. George E. Enterline, pastor of the recently organized West Park Baptist Church, in his sermon last night at West Park High School, Lorain Avenue and West One Hundred and Fifty-Second Street. "Every previous attempt by this means has failed, and every subsequent one will also, because it is not God's plan," he said. "To keep his program of salvation before the world is the duty of the church."

"In this connection Henry Watterson has said: 'Surely the future looks black enough; yet it holds a hope, a single hope. One power, and one only, can arrest the descent and save us. That is the Christian religion. Democracy is but a side issue. The paramount issue underlying democracy is the religion of Christ and him crucified. If this world is to be saved from destruction, physical no less than spiritual, it will be saved alone by the Christian religion. That eliminated leaves the earth to eternal war.'"

"Almost a century ago David Lipscomb answered the question, 'What has Christianity given the world?' by saying: 'It has given us better hogs, better horses, better cattle, better farms, better society, and better civilization. No country has ever had a mail system, a telegraph system, or a two-horse wagon before it had a Bible.'"

Selections.

Truth is a necessary requirement, if a person means to be a real Christian. A lie belongs to the camp of evil.

God has almighty power and wisdom, and will help any boy who will ask for strength. Don't forget to pray.

FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER

The Indianapolis Cancer Hospital, Indianapolis, Ind., has published a booklet which gives interesting facts about the cause of cancer, also tells what to do for pain, bleeding, odor, etc. A valuable guide in the management of any case. Write for it today, mentioning this paper.

Piles

are usually due to straining when constipated. Nujol being a lubricant keeps the food waste soft and therefore prevents straining. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it not only soothes the suffering of piles but relieves the irritation, brings comfort and helps to remove them.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

No power can make a man better who does not want to be better. The inner heart is a citadel which must surrender itself willingly.

A BRAND-NEW BOOK

"OLD LIMBER"

OR

THE TALE OF THE TAYLORS

By DeLONG RICE

"ALF and BOB TAYLOR, with their eloquence, their fiddles, and their fox hounds, have wrought for themselves a niche of eternal melody in the hearts of their country." So states the author of this little book, which we present as the best product of the pen of DeLong Rice.

With a "Cast of Characters" extending from a President of the United States to a fox hound, the story touches a wide range of human sentiment; and through it all is the aroma of crackling camp fires and the music of the chase.

THE BOOK is beautifully printed and bound, appropriately illustrated, and packed in a neat gift box, ready for mailing.

PRICE, $1.00 THE COPY.
POSTPAID TO ANY ADDRESS.

Correspondence with Bookstores and News Agencies is invited.
Write to us to-day.

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

EXTRA MONEY

Your Spare Time

Sell each of your friends a supply of Primo Cleanser for personal and home use. Cleanses thoroughly. Far superior to soap. Send 25c for Salesman's Outfit, including a one-pound can of Primo, literature, and full particulars.

THE PRIMO CO.,
2617 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

STATE BANK AND TRUST CO.
NASHVILLE, TENN.

BROADWAY BRANCH
Ninth and Broadway

4 Per Cent Interest Paid on Deposits

HARDEMAN'S TABERNACLE SERMONS

A series of evangelistic sermons preached by N. B. Harde- man during the Great Nashville Meeting, held in the Ryman Auditorium, March 28-April 16. These sermons ring true to the Old Book, and have a charm of style and freshness of illustration that put them in a class by themselves.

All the profits derived from the sale of these books will be used to create a fund to help poor boys and girls attend Freed-Hardeman College.

The book will contain about 350 pages, with pictures of Harde- man, Pullias, and the audience, a history of the meet- ing, about twenty sermons, and an address delivered by Brother Pullias before the Exchange Club.

Bound in cloth, stamped in gold. Price, $1.50.

Book now being mailed to advanced subscribers.

Send all orders to N. B. HARDEMAN, Henderson, Tenn.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

SOLD
50
YEARS

If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

Gospel Advocate

June 1 22
Martindale

Volume LXIV. No. 37.

NASHVILLE, TENN., SEPTEMBER 14, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

"Preach the Word".....	865
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	866
The Lord's Supper—Brother Smith's Courteous Rejoinder—Who Is to Blame?—Notes from West Tennessee—Other Hindrances to Christian Living—The Talents.....
EVANGELISTIC NOTES.....	872
EDITORIAL.....	874
Hard Work a Cure for Our Ills—Evolution and Faith—Brother Brinsy Deserts O. E. Payne.....
HOME READING.....	878
TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT.....	879
CURRENT COMMENT.....	881
Our Deficient Eldership.....	882
FIELD REPORTS.....	884
Proverbs from an Old Scrapbook.....	885
Tribute to a Life Companion.....	886
Trying to Persuade Some.....	887
An Urgent Call—The Strawberry Meeting.....	888

"PREACH THE WORD."

[This week our readers are given another reprint from the pen of D. Lipscomb, published in the Gospel Advocate, May, 1911.—H. Leo B.]

The duty is laid on every child of God to preach the word of God. In order to do this, it must be studied and learned. It is God's word that must be taught to the world. It must be taught as his word. The Christian needs the word of God. God's word contains truths that are helpful to men within themselves; but God's name and authority attached to it give it weight and authority and make him who teaches it a child of God and his representative among men.

To preach the truth to others, a man must know the truth, know it experimentally—that is, he must understand it and practice it. A man does not understand a system of moral and spiritual truth until he from the heart practices it. He must feel and in his heart realize its truthfulness, and then bring all the feelings and activity of the body into the service of that truth. Every act of obedience to God is a step upward and helps to a clearer knowledge of the truth.

Every spiritual system has a standard of excellence to which it proposes to bring man. The Christian standard is given to us fully and clearly in the Bible. It is given to us practically in the life of Jesus Christ. His life of consecration and devotion to the service and honor of God and the salvation of man (these two are one) is the standard that God invites men to follow. It is perfect as a standard of right, and will never be reached by man; but he finds continual peace and many helps and blessings in the path of service to encourage and strengthen him in the love and work of doing God's will.

The Sermon on the Mount (Matt. 5, 6, 7) gives the theory and rules of life to attain that standard. The principles laid down in the Sermon on the Mount, lived up to as Jesus did, would produce the life he lived. This life grows out of the life of God. God in his dealings with the spirits of the universe practices these principles. The practice of these principles makes those who do them like God in their feelings, thoughts, and lives. This life trains and fits man to dwell with God. The Gospels, Acts of Apostles, and the Letters to the churches are the application of these truths and principles of this system to the conditions of humanity as seen by Jesus and the apostles. They illustrate and impress these lessons on the world. That Sermon is the perfection and consummation of the gospel of God to the world. To teach and preach these truths and principles to man is to bring the gospel in its fullness to man.

To practice these principles is a practical preaching of the gospel to the world, open to every man, woman, and child living in the world. Who believes this? The facts of the gospel leading up to the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ for the salvation of the world are preached as parts of the gospel; but do they help a man, if they do not mold his life into the likeness of the life of Christ? It is important to a man to begin the work of obedience to the gospel, if he continue faithful to the end. To continue faithful to the end is to continue to walk in the steps of Jesus and mold his life and character in those of the Master.

There is no virtue in believing, repenting, and being baptized unto the remission of sins, and then doing nothing to lift up and help men as Jesus labored to help them. Nothing short of the full life of Christ as an example and help to man is the gospel. How few of us realize this truth! When we preach faith, repentance, and baptism, we satisfy ourselves and teach others that we have preached the gospel, and those who act on these teachings think that they have obeyed the gospel. Hence the immense number who come into the church and imagine their salvation is secure and do nothing more. Hence the number of preachers who wish sermons to add persons to the church. Young men often come to the Bible School and want to get up sermons that will enable them to debate with the sects. To qualify a young man to debate with the sects is nine times out of ten to make him a sectarian. Having truth does not hinder sectarianism. A man may hold the truth, not in the love of it; he may hold it to build up his party, not to honor God and save sinners. Sectarianism is sinful whether it is based on the truth or not. Training young preachers to debate is not to educate them in the needed Bible teaching. Oftentimes it is hurtful to a young man's usefulness and his after life to make a debater of him. The debating spirit is often not the Christian spirit. The spirit that suffers and stands steadfast unto the end is the one that God approves.

When Jesus was sending forth the twelve, he told them: "Ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake; but he that endureth to the end, the same shall be saved." (Matt. 10: 22.) To endure suffering and reproach and shame for fidelity to the name and life of Christ is to secure salvation. When the commission was given, Jesus told the disciples: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you: and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matt. 28: 19, 20.) It will be observed here that Jesus' remaining with them forever was given in connection with the observance of his command. (Read 1 Cor. 1: 4-8.) "We desire that each one of you may show the same diligence unto the fullness of hope even to the end: that ye be not sluggish, but imitators of them who through faith and patience inherit the promises." (Heb. 6: 11, 12.) "It were better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than, after knowing it, to turn back from the holy commandment delivered unto them." (2 Pet. 2: 21.) We ought to learn the full will of God, the whole Bible, and teach the children of God fidelity to Christ unto the end of their lives. Only those who continue faithful to the end can be saved by the gospel. It is an essential element of the gospel to preach this faithful continuance in well-doing to the end of our lives.

Our Contributors

The Lord's Supper.

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

The following request from a good brother came to me sometime since; and while a private reply was perhaps expected, as the question is one of general interest, I will withhold names and answer through the Gospel Advocate:

Dear Brother Srygley: During our meeting last month Brother —, who held our meeting, taught our Bible class in Sunday school one Sunday, the lesson being the twentieth chapter of Acts. Coming to verse 7, "When the disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached unto them, . . . and continued his speech until midnight," he taught the class that they then broke bread on Monday morning. Now, will you please tell me if that is correct teaching? He also taught that the Lord's Supper was not a command. I have always contended that it is a command. Am I right or wrong? I will greatly appreciate your explanation on these two points.

I think the good brother who taught your Sunday-school lesson was mistaken, if he taught that the disciples at Troas took the Lord's Supper on Monday morning. The record says: "And upon the first day of the week, when we were gathered together to break bread, Paul discoursed with them, intending to depart on the morrow; and prolonged his speech until midnight." (Acts 20: 7.) Here it is stated that they were gathered together upon the first day of the week to break bread, or partake of the Lord's Supper; and if they did not partake of it on the first day of the week, they did not do what they had gathered together to do. I see no reason for concluding that they waited till after Paul's discourse to take the Supper. They did not gather together to hear Paul preach on that first day of the week, but they assembled to break bread, and I see no reason for concluding that they did not do what they came together to do—that is, to break bread, or take the Lord's Supper. The brother perhaps was misled by a misunderstanding of verse 11, which reads as follows: "And when he was gone up, and had broken the bread, and eaten, and had talked with them a long while, even till break of day, so he departed." This was, no doubt, a regular meal the apostle ate with the disciples before he left for his journey. On this point I quote from Adam Clarke in his comment on this chapter: "To break bread—To break eucharistia, the eucharist, as the Syriac has it, intimating by this that they were accustomed to receive the holy communion on each Lord's day. It is likely that, besides this, they received a common meal together." Though Adam Clarke was a Methodist, it seems to me he was very near the kingdom in his teaching on this passage.

As to the brother's teaching that the Lord's Supper is not a command, he certainly should not overlook the fact that it comes to us in this passage with the same authority as it would had it been given as a direct command. We learn our duty from the New Testament in two ways—by precept and example. An example approved by an inspired apostle comes to us with the same force that a commandment does. The example here of the disciples gathering together to break bread, or take the Lord's Supper, evidently had the approval of the apostle Paul. In fact, Luke, the writer, says: "When we were gathered together to break bread." Thus, by the use of the pronoun "we," the writer stamps his approval on this meeting, and it, therefore, comes to us with the same authority as it would had it been put in the form of a direct command. Unless the brother emphasized this fact in teaching his class, he did not give them the benefit of the full teaching on the lesson. My idea is that enough of the children of God will fail to do their duty by meeting on the first day of the week without the teachers suggesting excuses for them. We are certainly warned sufficiently to not forsake the assembly of the saints. "Not forsaking our own assembling together, as the custom of some is, but exhorting one another; and so much the more, as ye see the day drawing nigh." (Heb. 10: 25.) It is not only our duty to assemble ourselves, but it is also our duty to exhort others to do likewise. Immediately following the verse quoted above, the apostle says: "For if we sin willfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more a sacrifice for sins, but a certain fearful expectation of judgment, and a fierceness of fire which shall devour the adversaries." (Verses 26, 27.) While this duty may not be expressed in the language of a direct, positive command, it is as certainly a duty which the New Testament enjoins upon every disciple of Christ, and it is a fearful thing for them to neglect it. Let us not sin willfully in the neglect of this very plain duty.

Brother Smith's Courteous Rejoinder.

BY J. B. BRINEY.

I have read Brother Smith's kind reply to my letter of recent date with sincere pleasure, and rejoice in the fact that the way seems to be opening up for a brotherly discussion of a vexing question that ought not to be a bar to the fullest fellowship among disciples of Christ. Indeed, we have already made progress, for my esteemed brother has admitted that the Scriptures do not formally and expressly forbid the use of instrumental music in worship. His "plain" prohibition, therefore, resolves itself into a mere inference, and no mere inference should be made a test of fellowship. Let this be noted and remembered.

It now gives me pleasure to answer Brother Smith's questions. The fallacy that misled me fifty years ago, and that is misleading Brother Smith now, was in my effort to parallel things that are wholly divergent. If my memory serves me correctly, my illustration was the adding of meat, not "water," to the Lord's Supper. But later I came to see that there is absolutely no place for meat in that sacred institution. The loaf represents the body of Christ, and the wine represents his blood, and there is nothing left for meat to represent, and it is in no wise helpful in doing what the Lord requires. Thus this fallacy disappears. New Testament baptism is inseparably connected with faith and repentance, and is the inquiry of a "good conscience," and is, therefore, impossible with an infant. Moreover, to the extent of the practice of infant baptism, it displaces the baptism of believers—the thing that the Lord expressly prescribes. There is no parallelism here.

I am surprised that so good a logician as Brother Smith should use his "cow" illustration. If God commands a man to offer a sheep as a sacrifice and the man offers a "cow," he does not do the thing commanded at all, but violates an express order and presents a substitute! Brother Smith should look well to his logic.

I think my beloved brother's questions have been fully answered—some of them expressly and all of them in principle; and that being the case, I proceed to present the other side of the case. If God commands a man to sing, when the man sings, he does precisely the thing he is commanded to do, though he may sing to instrumental accompaniment. Now, is there any place for the use of an instrument in singing? Can it serve any legitimate purpose in doing the thing commanded? This brings us to the crux of this whole matter, and it should receive careful and conscientious consideration. That the use of an instrument is helpful in singing is the universal testimony of expert singers; and my argument is that whatever helps in the execution of a divine command, unless it is something that is "plainly forbidden," either expressly or by necessary inference, God requires the best service that a man can render him; and if a man can render better service in song by using an instrument, he does not violate the command by using a helpful instrument. If a man is commanded to walk to town, and he can walk better by using a cane in walking, he does not violate the command by the use of a cane.

In this connection let us consider the following scripture: "Lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears," etc. Here seeing is to be done with "eyes," but I expect Brother Smith uses glasses to aid him in seeing. He can see better with glasses than without them, and in using them he does not violate the command to see "with his eyes." In hearing, some people have to use an ear trumpet as an aid in hearing, and in using such an instrument there is no violation of the command to hear with the ear. Now, if it is right to aid the eye in seeing and the ear in hearing, upon what principle of reasoning is it wrong to aid the voice in singing? Here is the difficulty in which Brother Smith's logic involves him, and it will be interesting to see his effort to extricate himself.

Again, the musical staff printed upon the page of the song book aids and sustains the voice through the eye. The musical staff boxed up in an instrument aids and sustains the voice through the ear. Will Brother Smith explain why the former is right and the latter wrong? Thus it appears that argument by interrogation is a game at which two can play; and as I have made an honest effort to answer his questions, I am confident that he will do the same in regard to mine.

In this discussion I think that arguments should be stated as briefly as possible, so that the average mind can grasp and retain them.

The World's Great Need.

BY CHARLES R. BREWER.

The spirit of complacency and self-sufficiency that characterized the church at Laodicea seems to prevail in the minds of men and nations of this modern age. The world assumes an attitude as if to say: "I am rich and increased with goods, and have need of nothing." With the growth of power, the accumulation of wealth, and the increasing of luxuries, there arises a spirit of independence and a contempt for former customs and traditions. As man finds that he can reach forth his hand and take that which he desires, or by placing his signature on a check can supply all his wants, he ceases to walk by faith and endeavors to walk by sight. He fails to turn his eyes to God for light; he no longer inclines his ear to his word for instruction, nor lifts his voice in praise for the provident care of Him from whom all blessings flow. In fact, the world seems inclined to set God aside and transfer its faith to man; to replace the Lord by the modern inventions and improvements that man has been able to perfect; to "worship the creature rather than the Creator, who is blessed forever." The "theory" of religion is worn out. God is a "back number" and must be discarded. Thomas Hardy, one of England's foremost writers, has written a blasphemous poem, entitled "God's Funeral," in which he pays some small meed of praise to God for what, in the past, he has meant to man; but now that man has come to his own, has outgrown God, he would sing a dirge for Him whose power has waned and whose glory has faded.

In spite of this spirit of arrogance and apparent power that marks the progress of the age, we know that the world is sorely in need. Something vital is lacking. Christ's description of the Laodiceans may be given an almost universal application here: "And knowest not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and blind, and poor, and naked." When Jesus intimated that the Jews were in bondage, they resented it and said: "We were never in bondage to any man." Nevertheless, they were at that time all but servants to the Romans, and were bond servants of sin. So the world to-day would resent any suggestion that it is weak or in need. Yet we have only to think for a moment to know that man is lost in the labyrinth of his own doings. The idea of democracy has so swept the world that it has led to the extreme of anarchy. All standards and authorities are being rejected and restraint is thrown to the winds. The established powers are forced to admit that they are unable to cope with the crime waves that are so manifest in all our large cities. The strife between classes and the labor turmoil are spreading lawlessness throughout the land. The younger generation is taking matters into its own hands and is going beyond all limits of decency and propriety. Matrimony and home life are becoming subjects for jokes and material for the comic sections of Sunday newspapers. To the sober-minded these things indicate that the world is not running so smoothly as it should. They are sufficient proof that "the time is out of joint," and that some effort should be made to discover the cause and find the cure for such unsafe, unholy, and ungodly conditions.

To those who still hope in God—"whose God is Jehovah"—the cause is evident. "Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people." When a people, or when mankind cuts loose from God, the fall is sudden and sure. When man seeks to go alone—independent of higher intelligence and instruction—God allows him to pursue his course to his own destruction, and the end is always disastrous. "It is not in man that walketh to direct his steps." In describing the depravity of the race, in the first chapter of Romans, Paul attributes it to man's refusal to have God in his knowledge. "Knowing God, they glorified him not as God, neither gave thanks." "Wherefore God gave them up in the lust of their heart to uncleanness." And again, we read: "God gave them up unto vile passions." And again: "God gave them up unto a reprobate mind." Woe unto that one whom God gives up, and woe to that nation that is given up of God! But he will surely give us up if we reject his law and refuse to have him in our knowledge; and our fall will be far, and without him our return will be hopeless.

What have we to offer as a remedy for such a chaotic state of affairs? What will bring relief from a strife-rent world, from demoralized social standards, from moribund and decadent political powers? The hope of this age is the hope of all ages. The redemption for the individual is the redemption for the universe. Relief lies not in the accumulation of wealth; it lies not in modern equipment, in radios, in electrical appliances, nor in means of rapid transit. It is not to be found in social reform and organized charity; neither may we look to higher education for salvation. The training of the intellect alone is destructive to faith in God. If the truth were known, I believe that the world's great troubles could be laid at the door of higher education. The departure from the hope of the gospel may be traced almost directly to scientific research—"falsely so-called." The rationalism of Kant, the atheism of Schopenhauer and Nietzsche, and the destructive criticism of Strauss—all German philosophers—are prevalent in practically all our great universities and are undermining the faith of our boys and girls. What we need is not education of the head, but of the heart. We must return to a simple faith in the existence, the personality, the power, and the goodness of God; to a belief in the divinity and authority of the Lord Jesus Christ. Jesus is "the light of the world." He is the hope of humanity. The wisdom of man is darkened and the glory of man is transient.

The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
Awaits alike the inevitable hour,
The paths of glory lead but to the grave.

Princess, prelates, and pontiffs may come and go; kings and kingdoms may rise and fall; "but the word of the Lord abideth forever." His is an unshakable kingdom, and of his reign there shall be no end. He calls to us to come to him and find rest to our souls. Let us hear his cry: "Turn ye, turn ye, for why will ye die?" A trusting, obedient faith in Jesus and his word would solve all the perplexing problems of humanity. It would stop war, it would put an end to strikes, it would cause the dove of peace to hover over our land, and would bring harmony and love back to the home. The world's great need is Jesus. We need to have him more and more in our hearts, and we need to let him have more and more of our hearts. Let us close this meditation with a sentence from Robert Browning, one great man whose faith held true: "I say, the acknowledgment of God in Christ, accepted by thy reason, solves for thee all questions in the earth and out of it, and has so far advanced thee to be wise."

Who Is to Blame?

BY ANDY T. RITCHIE.

Some weeks ago Brother McQuiddy had a very important and interesting article in the Gospel Advocate on the subject of evangelizing the world, and asked for others to contribute something on the same subject. For some years I have refrained from appearing often in print, due to a number of causes, but the importance of this subject and the need of a general awakening along these lines constrain me to say a few words just now.

The question is not over the scripturalness of the work nor as to God's command for it—all are agreed as to that; the question is, are we going to do it? The apostle surely knew what he was talking about when he said: "It pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe." "How can they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how can they hear without a preacher?" The salvation of the world, therefore, depends upon the preaching of the gospel. "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." Are we going to do it? We boast of the impregnability of our housing in a scriptural fortress and defy the world to question our being the chosen of God. But are we putting forth the proper effort in pointing others to the refuge for sinners prepared? I fear, brethren, that we are too little interested in the security of others. The storm clouds are gathering, the blasts of the onrushing storm whip our cheeks into a roseate hue. We and those immediately around us have the door of God's house opened to us. We go in and feel safe, and are too easily satisfied. But do we remember that just over the way, a short distance, weary travelers plod their tired journey along and are overtaken and overcome by the onrushing storm, not knowing there is a refuge for them prepared?

Brethren, I speak from personal knowledge. There are thousands of people in our own State, of its boasted schools and churches, who have never had the opportunity of hearing the gospel in its purity. Having been engaged during the entire season in evangelistic work, under the direction of the Twelfth Avenue Church, in Nashville, I have had the opportunity of learning, firsthand, of religious conditions as they obtain, and I must say I regard the symptoms as alarming. Within fifty miles of "the Athens of the South" there are men and women well on in years who have never had the bread of life broken to them. During the present season, a number of fathers and mothers have said to me: "Nobody ever told it before." Scattered brethren and sisters, who were once regular attendants at the Lord's house, have been thrown out into districts where they have no Christian associates and have actually almost forgotten they were cleansed from their old sins.

My work has been confined principally to Humphreys County, and I find the cause of Christ badly neglected. There is only one gospel preacher in this county, and he gives very little time to the work. A number of places where we had small, struggling bands a few years ago were so demoralized by the questions and burdens of the late war that they ceased to function as congregations, and with no competent leaders and no teaching or encouragement, they have disbanded and many gone back to the world. But we hear some one say: "They ought to be stronger." To be sure, they ought; but they are not, and they need to be instructed and encouraged. Who is going to do it? You say, the preachers. Indeed! And this brings us to the next question: "How can they preach except they be sent?" There are within the limits of Nashville more than a score of preachers who are fully qualified to do good preaching, and some of them among the best, who are giving practically no time to the work, while souls all around are hungering and thirsting after righteousness. If these men are willing to go and brethren who are able will not send them, we know where the blame is to rest. If brethren are willing to invest their money in the preaching of the gospel and preachers are not willing to go, we also know where to place the blame. There is something seriously at fault, and I again ask the question, Who is to blame?

Notes from West Tennessee.

BY JOHN R. WILLIAMS.

A REJECTION SUGGESTED.

To be opposed or rejected by those we love is everything but pleasant. We wonder why they oppose or reject our efforts to do good in this wicked old world. We have a perfect right to oppose or reject what others teach and practice, provided we can give a reason for the opposition or rejection; but to refuse to give a reason why we oppose or reject any teaching or practice is to give evidence of prejudice—passing judgment without investigation, without any consideration of the claims of those we oppose or reject. Sometimes the opposition or rejection is upon purely personal grounds—envy, jealousy, or prejudice. During my life as a preacher I have had to encounter and dispose of many rejections, to me, and some that filled my heart with sadness.

Once upon a time there lived in Obion County a very godly and devoted sister in the Lord. From some cause she, with her family, thought a great deal of me and my work, doing much in many ways to assist and encourage me. In point of wealth and intelligence this family was above the average, especially in the things of this world. In course of time this sister became afflicted and was a sufferer for a long time. I visited her often, which she and her family seemed to appreciate. It was her request that when the end came I should conduct the funeral services. Of this request I knew nothing until a few days before the end came. Conducting a funeral service is a thing I have never sought or desired—always willing for the other man to be called; but when requested, I go and do the best I can. At the time of the illness of this sister there lived in Obion County a preacher, highly educated, who, when he signed his name, always followed his signature with a lot of "D.D.'s" and "LL.D.'s" (whatever they mean), who also visited this sister during her illness. When the fact became apparent that she must soon pass away, this preacher took it upon himself to inquire into the plans for the funeral, who was to conduct it, etc. When told that "Brother Williams has been selected for that purpose," he expressed great surprise at the family for selecting a man like Williams. "I thought you certainly would select a man of education, a man of culture, one fully able to meet the demands of the occasion. Williams is an uneducated man, a weak vessel, not at all competent for such an occasion. Why don't you reject him and call another man?"

You readers now know that I am a little preacher, for here is a big one saying I am. The family did not reject me and call this big preacher, but complied with the mother's request and called for me. By a member of the family I was told what this big D.D.-L.L.D. preacher had said of me and of his suggestion to reject me, turn me down cold, notwithstanding the request of that sister while living. After the funeral he wrote a lengthy article praising the life work of that sister, but never mentioned the fact that I was called to conduct the funeral. That big preacher still lives, in the far West, but is scarcely mentioned in Obion County. This was one time I was in the way of a big preacher, and he tried to get me out of his way.

When this preacher's suggestion to reject me became known, there was no little comment. One man, an outsider, said: "I know what is the matter with Brother D—. He knows the family, knows them to be in good circumstances financially, and wanted the fee."

I have told what the big preacher thought and said of me, and I have told what a man of the world thought and said of the big preacher; and of the two, I much prefer to be a little preacher and have the confidence of the people than to be a big one—one the people say is out for the "price paid."

While that big D.D.-L.L.D. preacher remained in Obion County, I never met him but what it came to my mind what he had said of me and of his superiority, his greatness, etc.; but it would also come into my mind that I had baptized more people in one meeting than he did in his long stay in Obion County.

Next, "A Hard Proposition."

Other Hindrances to Christian Living.

BY JAMES E. SCOBEY.

In a former article I treated particularly of the idolatry of covetousness as being one of the great hindrances, on the part of man, to leading the life of a Christian. I wish now to call attention to what may be termed the "pleasure craze." People, almost of all ages, the old and the young, and especially our young people, are wild to engage in the many phases of the worldly sports of the present day. They have now for their amusement the card table and the dance in their homes, and these are the preparatory schools to the public dance hall, the cabaret, the late supper, the joy ride, etc. They also prepare young men for entrance into the gambling hell. The social game of cards should be avoided, because it may lead to evil, never to any good. There are innocent games which may be indulged in our homes, such as checkers, chess, dominoes, logomachy, etc.

But we have many other sports to draw the attention of our people. There are baseball, football, tennis, golf, the foot race, swimming, and the prize fight, which appeals to the lust of the eyes. What man or woman was ever spiritually benefited by patronizing or looking upon a prize fight? No one's spiritual life will be damaged for never having engaged in or having seen it.

The swimming pool, or beach, where men and women, boys and girls, take the water in company with each other, in scant clothing, is an eyesore to all those who have derived their ideas of modesty from the Bible or from our ancestors of a generation past. Now the Book directs that women adorn themselves in modest apparel. Apparel is a covering for the body. I suppose we may say that the girls who go in swimming with the boys in their bathing suits are not appareled.

Besides the things I have mentioned, which are calculated to withdraw the minds and hearts, especially of the young, from the love for God and the joys and pleasures of his service, we have, in all the cities of our vast commonwealth, as well as in most of the villages and towns, the picture show. While the moving picture can be, and is, used for various good purposes in science and art, etc., I know of nothing so universally sought as a pleasure to lustful eyes, and whose demoralizing influence is more widespread. The old-time theater, with its Shakespeare plays and its dramas, was a gem in comparison to the low, vulgar, lust-producing pictures thrown on the screen for the delectation of an audience hungry to feast upon the libidinous scenes presented to their view. It would be a difficult problem to estimate the demoralizing influences of the modern picture shows, and the hindrance to Christian living upon the part of those who profess to be the followers of the Lord Jesus Christ who habitually attend them. The safe course for Christians to pursue is to abstain, not only from evil, but from all appearances of evil. Cut out the picture show.

I am not prepared to say that all the sports and games to which I have referred are an evil in themselves; but I am prepared, I think, to say that no spiritual good can come to him who engages in any one of them, as a professional, public player, nor will any one who attends such games and sports become stronger in the Lord and the power of his might.

Athletics is the great fad of the schools of our country. They have their various teams composed of a few of the students. If it is for the purpose of the development of physical powers, few are benefited; but if for the purpose of entertainment for the public, it seems to be a howling success.

But Paul, the apostle, says: "Those things, which ye have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, do: and the God of peace shall be with you." (Phil. 4: 9.) Let Christians follow after righteousness, godliness, and sobriety, and they will thus fulfill the royal law and lay a good foundation against the time to come, and lay hold on eternal life.

Now, I do not want to be understood as being opposed to all outdoor sports or games. I think the growing young, whether male or female, need physical exercise, that their bodies may be properly developed. The difficulty is, in the schools too few derive any good from the games, because the students generally do not engage in them. What I think is wrong in the matter is fostering the games with a picked and trained team for a specular exhibition in a contest with an opposing team, which the public must pay to witness. It becomes professional.

There are other hindrances to Christian living of a serious character which I would like to consider and about which I may have something to say in the future.

SERMON OUTLINES

A Book of One Hundred and Fifty New Sermon Outlines

Just the book for preachers, elders, deacons, Bible-class teachers, and others that take public part in church services.

The book has one hundred and fifty sermon outlines and a helpful supplement containing funeral texts, marriage ceremonies, forms for church letters, and Hedge's "Rules" for debate.

A good book to use in your Lord's-day services, prayer meetings, and young people's meetings. Let the leader announce the subject, hand slips of paper containing different sections of the outline to the members who are to take part in the next meeting, requesting them to make a talk or read the scriptural references on that section of the outline. Or, let the leader put the outline on the blackboard, omitting the scriptural references, then ask the congregation to supply the correct scriptural references at the next meeting, and give reasons why they selected these references.

Price, $1, postpaid. Address the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

The Talents.

BY DAVID THOMPSON.

"For the kingdom of heaven is as a man traveling into a far country, who called his own servants, and delivered unto them his goods. And unto one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one; to every man according to his several ability; and straightway took his journey. Then he that had received the five talents went and traded with the same, and made them other five talents. And likewise he that had received two, he also gained other two. But he that had received one went and digged in the earth, and hid his lord's money. After a long time the lord of those servants cometh, and reckoneth with them. And so he that had received five talents came and brought other five talents, saying, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me five talents: behold, I have gained beside them five talents more. His lord said unto him, Well done, thou good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord. He also that had received two talents came and said, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me two talents: behold, I have gained two other talents beside them. His lord said unto him, Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord. Then he which had received the one talent came and said, Lord, I knew thee that thou art a hard man, reaping where thou hast not sown, and gathering where thou hast not strawed: and I was afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast that is thine. His lord answered and said unto him, Thou wicked and slothful servant, thou knewest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I have not strawed: thou oughtest therefore to have put my money to the exchangers, and then at my coming I should have received mine own with usury. Take therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents. For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath. And cast ye the unprofitable servant into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth." (Matt. 25: 14-30.)

From the above passages we observe that the householder gave to each of his servants some money, learning from this that God has given to each of his children some abilities to be used in his service. We may differ in the amount and character of ability that God has given us, but he has given to each of us the ability to do something in his service. We should carefully and prayerfully study ourselves to find out in what line or lines our abilities lie, and then make the very best possible use of them. All do not have the ability to preach publicly or to lead the song service, or, perhaps, to take any public part in the worship of God, but there is some line of work that God has fitted us to do and that will suffer unless we find it and do it. Even in preachers there is a great difference in the amount of ability that we have and the character of that ability. Some of us are especially fitted to teach the first principles of the gospel and defend them in public discussion, others are fitted especially for the developing of those who are already God's children, but all have some ability that God expects us to use.

The householder did not give the money to these servants that it might be put away for safe-keeping, but that it might be traded with and increase made. I suppose there were many places where it would have been safer than it was in the hands of these servants, but he wanted it used in such a way that he might derive profit therefrom. God has not invested abilities in the minds and bodies of his children for safe-keeping, but for use. Whatever our talents are, whether large or small, God expects us to use them, and there is just as much need for the man of small ability in God's service as for the man of great ability. Children of God never need to be in the least discouraged because they do not have the ability to do great things in God's service, but should do gladly and faithfully the things that they can do, realizing that while men may never notice the work that they are doing, that it is a necessary work, and that God sees and will reward. A man starts down the road in his car and it stops and refuses to run any more. All the prominent parts are in good order, and in perplexity he calls a mechanic, who goes away down into the inside of the machine and shows him a small part of the mechanism that he did not even know existed that has ceased to work. Small, unseen, insignificant, yet a vital part of the car. So it is in God's service: often the smallest, quietest members are the most valuable.

When the rewarding time came, this householder gave the two-talent man just as great commendation as he did the five-talent man, and yet he had made less than half the actual money that the other man had gained. God does not reward on gross gain, but on the per cent of gain. It is not so much what you accomplish, but what you accomplish in proportion to the ability that you have, that counts in God's sight. I suspect that when we get to heaven we will be surprised to see many that we had thought of little account in God's service here honored above ourselves, and many whom we thought great honored little. It is not our concern how much ability that we have, whether we are to serve in great or small capacities; but it is ours to use to the fullest extent the ability that we do have, realizing that God will reward us accordingly. The private is just as necessary to the success of the army as is the general; and this man of one talent would, if he had doubled it, have been commended just as highly as the man of five talents.

It is a significant fact that neither of the two profitable servants had a single criticism of the master to offer; but when the unprofitable servant came, he accused him of being a very bad man. Just so it is in life. The grumblers are not the workers. Take the children of God that you know, and, with very few exceptions, you will find that those that do the most grumbling do the least working. When I go to take up any character of work for a congregation, I never am afraid of those who really do the work of the congregation doing much grumbling. If things do not suit them, they are too busy to bother about the matter; but I always know that the lazy, idle ones are going to have a lot of grumbling to do. Indeed, when a man begins to do much grumbling, I put him down at once as an idler, and it is not often that I have him classified wrong. Do not grumble. It is a sign of laziness.

I take five hundred dollars over to a certain bank and leave it there for five years with the understanding that they are to invest it for me, and at the end of the time we will divide the profits equally. I go with the same amount of money to a second bank and make the same kind of a trade. At the end of the five years I go to the banks for a settlement. The first bank hands me one hundred dollars as my share of the profit. The second bank opens the door of its vault and shows me my five hundred dollars just as safe as when I gave it to them; but they tell me that they were afraid to invest it, for fear that they might lose it. What would I do? I would take it away and give it to the bank that made money for me. Unto him that hath profit shall more capital be given, but from him that hath no profit shall be taken away the capital that he hath. Thus it was with these servants. The one that had no profit lost his capital, and the one who had profit received more capital. If we bring profit on the ability that we have, we will have more ability; but if we do not bring profit on that we have, we will lose it. Ability naturally grows with use and perishes with disuse. It is a dangerous thing not to use the ability that you have.

This householder, I am sure, represents Christ; they were his servants, representing Christians. But one of his servants was idle and unprofitable, being cast into outer darkness; so those children of God who are idle and unprofitable will be cast into outer darkness, or lost. Those branches in Christ that do not bear fruit will be cast out, gathered up, and burned. (John 15: 1-6.) There is nothing taught more plainly in the Bible than that children of God who do not live as they ought and bear fruit in the Master's service will be lost. Let us all beware, lest we be found as unprofitable servants.

Gospel Advocate Company.

BY H. LEO B.

Every home ought to have many good books in it. New books of great value should be added to the home library and the young people should be encouraged to read wholesome literature. The Gospel Advocate Company will help you to select just such books as will be a blessing to your home.

"Center Shots at Sin. By Arthur Talmage Abernethy. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

An arsenal of religious ammunition, assembled by a strategist experienced in fighting uphill. The author is a strong and virile thinker; his style, clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eye-opener.

"The Glorious Gospel." By Adam K. Adeock. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

"No one except a thorough and devout student of the Scriptures could have written 'The Glorious Gospel.' The author shows excellent analytic and synthetic power and knowledge in the selection and organization of the biblical teaching on the various subjects treated." (Christian Journal.)

"Sermons for the People." By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

Few books of sermons combine the qualities of interest, instruction, and inspiration to the degree in which they are united in this volume. The author is a master in the field of popular sermonizing, and some of his best work is to be found in this collection. There is not a dull page in the book. The text fairly sparkles with original and apt narratives.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume I. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

The gospel is always attractive when presented by W. H. Book. These sermons were not written in a study, but were stenographically reported as the burning words were uttered by the master preacher, under the inspiration of the great audience which flocks to hear him every week.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume II. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

A companion volume to the author's first book of sermons. Reported in the same way and published because of the unusual demand the first volume created.

"The Indiana Pulpit." Edited by W. H. Cook. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

This series of twenty-two practical sermons, each discourse being the best one preached by as many leading Indiana preachers, presents vital Christianity in a most attractive way. "'The Indiana Pulpit' will be especially helpful to young preachers. The topics are varied and the discourses are from men of learning and experience. It will make each who reads it better, and it will strengthen the faith of all who carefully peruse its pages." (George A. Miller.)

"Lights on Scripture Truths." (Former title, "Side Windows.") By Mattie M. Boteler. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.

A valuable ready-reference compendium of original, forceful and apt illustrations for the busy preacher, Sunday-school teacher, and religious worker. The striking originality and practical usefulness of each illustration puts this volume in a class all by itself. A carefully prepared topical index and alphabetically arranged table of contents add greatly to its usefulness. Its distinct value is that the author has followed the example of the great Teacher in illustrating profound truths by examples familiar to all. "I found one illustration that was well worth the price of the book." (S. M. Bernard.)

"Sermon Notes from the Ministry of Jesus." By Mattie M. Boteler. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.65.

In this new collection of decidedly fresh and suggestive material on the life of Christ we have a forceful and significant book, which will prove invaluable to young ministers, teachers, and church workers in general. Miss Boteler, a graceful and original writer, has presented a study of the life of Christ from an entirely new point of view, so arranged as to make it a complete worker's companion and encyclopedia on the teachings of the Master. Her work is always eagerly awaited by ministers and Christian workers.

"Soul-Saving Revival Sermons." By John L. Brandt. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

A series of nineteen thought-provoking, evangelistic sermons by one of the most eminent preachers of the day. These sermons relate the principles of Christianity to the everyday life with a keen insight and sympathetic understanding. They are educational in plan, evangelistic in tone, virile in thought, and vigorous in expression. Just the book for the minister who wishes to foster and develop the revival spirit in himself and his congregation.

"Illustrative Incidents for Public Speakers." By Will H. Brown. Cloth, 12mo., illustrated. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

This voluminous collection of entirely new illustrations will be an invaluable aid to all public speakers, and especially to those who are contemplating entering upon the public forum. It is a guide to public oratory, as well as a collection of apt and original illustrations. The author's marked success as a speaker, as well as a writer, is quite sufficient guarantee of the superior value of this book. One authority says: "The book is very rich in classified illustrations of the sort that can be really used."

"Wit and Humor for Public Speakers." By Will H. Brown. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

A collection of bright, breezy, brief, humorous anecdotes and stories alphabetically classified under subjects, with a careful index. As original, fresh, and usable as its companion volume, "Illustrative Incidents for Public Speakers." "The finest collection of pointed stories and witticisms I have ever seen." (H. H. Peters.)

Let Me Walk With the Men in the Road.

'Tis only a half truth the poet has sung

Of the "house by the side of the way."

Our Master had neither a house nor a home,

But he walked with the crowd day by day;

And I think, when I read of the poet's desire,

That a house by the road would be good;

But service is found in its tenderest form,

When we walk with the crowd in the road.

So I say, let me walk with the men in the road,

Let me seek out the burdens that crush,

Let me speak a kind word of good cheer to the weak

Who are falling behind in the rush.

There are wounds to be healed, there are breaks we must mend.

There's a cup of cold water to give;

And the man in the road by the side of his friend

Is the man who has learned to live.

Then tell me no more of the house by the road.

There is only one place I can live—

It's there with the men who are toiling along,

Who are needing the cheer I can give.

It is pleasant to live in the house by the way

And be a friend, as the poet has said;

But the Master is bidding us: "Bear ye their load,

For your rest waiteth yonder ahead."

—Walter J. Gresham.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC IN THE WORSHIP

By M. C. Kurfees

Cloth. 300 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50

This is the most comprehensive book on this important subject now before the public. In it the Greek verb "psallo" is philologically and historically examined, together with a full discussion of kindred matters relating to music in Christian worship. The book is the result of a lifetime of critical study and research, and has become the standard of information on the music question. It has been highly recommended by scholarly brethren in the church of Christ and in the religious world.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY
Nashville, Tenn.

Evangelistic Notes

H. M. Phillips is in a good meeting at Lafayette, Ga.

R. N. Moody is at Acton, Tenn., with five baptisms to date.

R. D. Smith reports a splendid outlook at Wichita Falls, Texas.

J. Clifford Murphy is in a good meeting at Riversburg, near Pulaski, Tenn.

J. V. Armstrong Traylor is in a tent meeting at Hall's Mill, near Shelbyville, Tenn.

John E. Dunn is now in what promises to be a successful meeting at Rising Star, Texas.

M. D. Baumer reports one addition at Fairfax Church, Winchester, Ky., on September 3.

Charles F. Hardin will conduct a meeting at Moorhead, Miss., beginning on September 24.

E. G. Creacy is conducting a tent meeting at Wisdom, Ky. J. M. Isenburg is leading the songs.

J. H. Horton has just closed at Rogersville, Ala., with three baptisms and two restorations.

L. R. Wilson has just closed at Enola, Ark., with seven baptisms. He is now at Pennington, Ark.

E. D. Martin closed at Mount Leo Church, at McMinnville, Tenn., recently, with twenty-one additions.

F. B. Srygley is just home from Corinth, near Nashville, Ark., where he had nine baptisms and one reclaimed.

L. B. Jones closed at Owen's Cross Roads, Ala., with four baptisms. He is now at Bethlehem, near Murfreesboro, Tenn.

R. E. L. Taylor is in a meeting at Dixon Springs, Ill., with eighteen baptisms to date. R. D. Horton is leading the singing.

J. B. Nelson and Matthew Derryberry have just closed at Mount Pleasant, Tenn., with seventeen baptisms and one restoration.

The congregation at 5491 Blackstone Avenue, Chicago, Ill., will be delighted to have brethren worship with them when in that city.

John B. Hardeman and A. J. Veteto recently conducted a good meeting at Oscar, Ky., with two baptisms and excellent interest.

Flavi Hall has just closed a tent meeting on the Jackson Highway, near Florence, Ala., with twenty baptized and seven restored.

Alonzo Williams has just closed a successful meeting under a brush arbor near Maury City, Tenn. Twenty-three were baptized.

A. D. Dies has just closed at Central Chapel, near Mount Juliet, Tenn., with some additions. He began at Castalian Springs, Tenn., yesterday.

Ira Womack preached both morning and evening at Paul's Valley, near Sulphur, Okla., on September 3, and in addition conducted two funerals.

Thornton Crews recently conducted a meeting near Good Springs, Tenn., with three baptisms and a congregation started. They will build at once.

J. T. Harris has just closed at Burwood, in Williamson County, Tenn., with three additions. He is now at Rock Church, in Dickson County, Tenn.

H. H. Adamson closed at Salem, Ind., with large crowds and eight additions. He started that church twenty years ago. He is now at Clarksville, Tenn.

John R. Williams closed recently at Bethel, near Hornbeak, Tenn., with thirteen baptisms and twelve restorations, and with splendid interest throughout.

T. W. Phillips closed in Merkel, Texas, with fourteen baptisms, and in Windom, Texas, where he has assisted in fifteen meetings, with twelve baptisms.

H. C. Harris, West Point, Miss., has just closed at Dearis, near Cleveland, Miss., with large audiences and six baptisms. He is now at Hudsonville, Miss.

H. D. Jeffcoat is at Burdette, Ark., in a good meeting. He goes next to Cleveland, Miss. The field is so large he is planning to preach regularly for eight congregations.

Harvey W. Riggs recently held two mission meetings in Monroe County, Ky., in rural schoolhouses, with two baptisms. The church at Tompkinsville, Ky., supported him.

Vernon Rozar recently held a mission meeting at Harris Creek, near Cleveland, Tenn. He is now in a tent meeting at Tucker's Springs. He goes next to McMinn County.

J. E. Green recently closed at Haw Pond, near German-ton, N. C., with three additions; later at Warner's Chapel, with six baptisms. He is now at Abilene, near Statesville.

W. W. Freeman has just closed at Red Springs, near Lafayette, Tenn., with one baptized and one restored. He is now at Underwood, and will go next to Fountain Run, Ky.

J. C. Coffman closed at Romine Schoolhouse with five baptisms and one restoration. His recent meeting at Gordonsburg, Tenn., resulted in one baptism and one restoration.

From Horace W. Busby, Fort Worth, Texas: "You are giving to the brotherhood a splendid paper now, and I appreciate it very much. May the Lord abundantly bless you."

Walter McMurry, Cordova, Ala., after his debate with Hartgraves (Congregationalist) at Wedowee, Ala., held a meeting at Taylor's Cross Roads, in Alabama, with six baptisms.

James E. Laird recently closed near Charleston, Ark., with two additions. S. Knight, of Booneville, Ark., led the singing. Brother Laird is now at Bono, Ark., with two baptisms to date.

J. Roy Vaughn closed recently at Sturgis, Miss., with two baptisms—one, a man eighty-one years of age; the other, a woman of fifty. The brethren there speak very highly of his work.

Willie Hunter has closed at Big Bottom, in Jackson County, Tenn., with sixteen baptisms and four reclamations. He goes next to Arcot, in Clay County, and from there to Haydenburg.

L. E. Carpenter recently closed at Wellington, Texas, with fourteen baptisms and eight restorations. This is the home of Lee Sanders. Brother Carpenter is now at Gage, Okla., in a mission meeting.

J. L. Hines has just closed at Mount Zion, near Dyersburg, Tenn., with one baptism, and is now at Alma, Ark. He reports a fine congregation there and in fine order. Two have been baptized to date.

W. M. Gammel closed near Grenada, Miss., with two additions. On September 3 he preached for his old home congregation at Old Union, and baptized five in the evening. This makes thirty-five this year.

G. Mitchell Pullias, who has recovered from his recent illness, reports the Oak Cliff congregation, in Dallas, Texas, as growing steadily. They are now in their new house of worship, and expect to fill it soon.

J. C. Hollis has recently closed at Union Hill, near Ethridge, Tenn., with three baptisms; afterwards at Knob Creek, in Lawrence County, with ten baptized. He is now at Spence's Hill, in Maury County, Tenn.

M. S. Mason recently closed at Cash, Ark., with thirty-seven additions; later at Waddell, near Stella, Mo. He is now at Burkhardt Cemetery, near Racine, Mo. He will begin at Poplar Bluff, Mo., on September 21.

Frank Baker preached on September 3 at Bankston, Ala., where he started the work eleven years ago under the trees. Now they have a good house and a large congregation. His meeting at Vincent, Ala., was a success.

Sister A. M. Bibb, Charleston, Mo., writes, thanking all who offered to assist her in having a meeting there. The courthouse, which has been used before and which she was expecting to secure for this meeting, was refused her. Why cannot some church or churches enable her to have a tent meeting?

John E. Dunn has located his family in Dallas, Texas, so that Sister Dunn can be with her aged parents. Sister Odom, Mrs. Dunn's mother, is very feeble, being confined to her room and bed most of the time. Also, Brother Dunn's children can get work in Dallas and have access to good schools. He expects to give his time to holding protracted meetings, strengthening the churches and building up new churches. He is a successful evangelist, a preacher of large experience and recognized ability. He loves to hold long meetings. He wishes to be kept busy in fall, winter, and spring, as well as in summer. His address is 219 South Mont Clair Avenue, Station A, Dallas, Texas.

C. R. Nichol baptized five in Fort Deposit, Ala.

W. H. Owen is in a good meeting at Oakland, Miss.

E. D. Martin recently closed at Mount Leo, McMinnville, Tenn., with twenty-one additions.

J. C. Mosley recently closed at Newbern, Tenn., with twenty-seven baptisms. He is now at Dongola, Ill.

T. H. Vernon has just closed at Big Lump, Texas, with forty-eight additions.

H. D. Jeffcoat is in a meeting at Burdette, Ark., and will go next to Merigold, Miss.

E. H. Hoover has just closed a good meeting at Rock Hill, in Rutherford County, Tenn.

T. Q. Martin will begin at Rockwood, Tenn., on October 1, in a tabernacle constructed specially for the occasion.

Andrew Largen has just closed at Old Lasea, Tenn., with twelve baptisms and one restoration.

J. W. Shepherd is in a meeting at Science Hill, in Rutherford County, Tenn. He has been holding their annual meeting for a number of years.

E. P. Watson will close his work with the Dickson church on November 1, and is in position to arrange for work with some church, beginning at that date.

W. C. Phillips closed at Dalton, Ga., on September 1, with seventeen by baptism, three by membership, and four restored. He is now at Liberty Hill, near Mulberry, Tenn.

G. A. Dunn, Jr., preached several times at Reed Schoolhouse, and six were baptized. He is now in a meeting at Gainesville, Texas, after which he will enter Abilene Christian College.

Charles Tidwell closed at Sulphur, Tenn., with one baptism and three restorations; later at Pinewood, with one baptism and two restorations. He is now at Byers Chapel, in Hickman County, Tenn.

Willis G. Jernigan closed recently at Stone Schoolhouse, near Olathe, Col., with thirteen baptisms. He was with the new congregation at Coal Creek on September 3. He is now in a meeting at Yelser, Col.

Lee Sanders has just closed a meeting at Center Schoolhouse, near Wellington, Texas, in which two were baptized and Lord's-day worship begun. He now resumes his work with the congregation at Wellington.

L. W. Hinson has just closed his sixth mission meeting. The best one was on Brush Creek, in Lawrence County, Tenn., which resulted in fourteen baptisms and one restoration. He goes next to Liberty, then to Big Swan.

C. A. Norred, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: "We have prepared a mailing list of about one thousand people in the vicinity of the church house here. We are mailing out very carefully prepared announcements and leaflets each week. We are already seeing results."

J. A. Cullum is now working with the church at Rogers, Ark. Correspondents will please address him there. Any congregation in Arkansas desiring his services in a meeting during July and August of next year should arrange with him soon.

S. H. Hall and J. J. Walker will begin a discussion of the instrumental-music question at the Russell Street house of worship, in this city, on the night of September 25, to continue five nights. Brother Hall is now in a meeting at McMinnville, Tenn., with two baptisms to date.

A. B. Lipscomb has just closed a ten-days' meeting at Guin, Ala., with sixteen additions, three of which were from the Baptists. During the meeting he delivered the opening address at the high schools of Guin and Winfield. He will begin at Scottsboro, Ala., next Lord's day.

W. T. Beasley closed at Oak Ridge, in Obion County, Tenn., on August 28, with nine baptisms and seven restorations. He promised to return next year. He is now at Refuge, and will go next to Ozark, between Granite and Mangum, Okla. His address will be Granite while there.

Cecil B. Douthitt held meetings in July and August as follows: Stop, Ky.; Sharpe, Ky., with thirteen additions; Little Lot, Tenn., with two additions; Cox's Chapel, near Gadsden, Tenn., with thirteen additions; Arlington, Ky., with twenty-one additions. He began his school work on September 4.

J. D. Jones, Huntsville, Ala., reports the following meetings: At Iconium, near Woodbury, Tenn., with five baptisms and seventeen restorations; Sugar Tree Knob, near Woodbury, with three baptized and six reclaimed. The song service was conducted by Roland Moore. Brother Jones is now at Taft, Tenn.

Since last report Charley Taylor has assisted in meetings at Nazareth, near Lascassas, Tenn., with five baptisms and one reclaimed; Milton, Tenn., three baptisms; Norene, no visible results; Flat Creek, Tenn., six baptisms; Gilray, no additions. He is now at Rothchild Avenue, this city, after which he will go to Kentucky.

W. M. Oakley closed a short meeting at Oak Grove, near New Hope, Ala., on August 24, with nine baptized and two restored. On September 7 he closed a meeting at Grant, Ala., with twenty-five additions—nine baptized and sixteen restored—and a congregation established. He began at Brownsboro, Ala., last Lord's day.

A Correction.—In "Evangelistic Notes" in the Gospel Advocate of August 31, it should have read "twenty-three baptisms" instead of "three baptisms" in Charles Holder's report. He recently closed at Trenton, Ga., with eight baptisms. He preached on September 3 at East Chattanooga, Tenn., and baptized a man eighty-four years of age.

R. P. Cuff has just closed at Little Mountain, near Winchester, Tenn., with one baptism. He is now in a fine meeting at Huntland, Tenn., with seven baptisms to date. He will go next to Harper, Kan., where he will teach English and Bible in Harper College. He will also preach on Lord's days and spend his vacation in protracted meetings.

W. Claude Hall closed recently at Dorris Chapel, near Eaton, Tenn., with nine baptisms and four restorations. The meetinghouse burned during the meeting from defective lighting. They expect to have a better house completed within sixty days. Brother Hall will return next year, which will be his fourth. He is now at Lyle, Tenn., in a tent meeting.

A. K. Ramsey writes from Forest Hill, La.: "Slowly, but surely, the Master's work advances in this State. Brother Elston, in some good house-to-house work, baptized two at Monroe. He blocked innovators and encouraged the few faithful at that place. Brother McQuiddy has baptized a number recently, visited several places, and is hopeful of greater things for God. The writer baptized two at Iota last Sunday and one young man at Glenmora recently. At the latter place a residence is about completed on the church property for a minister to occupy while laboring in Western Louisiana."

B. C. Goodpasture writes from Atlanta, Ga., August 30: "Hugh E. Garrett will begin a meeting at Lyerly, Ga., on next Lord's day (September 3). I began a mission meeting at Norcross, Ga., last Sunday evening. So far the interest and attendance have been good. Our tent is not large enough to accommodate the audiences. J. T. Hunton will begin a tent meeting near Austell, Ga., next Sunday. Earl C. Smith closed an eight-days' meeting at Welcome Hill, near Quitman, Ga., on the third Sunday in August. Two were restored. He is now in the midst of a meeting at Berlin, Ga. W. Don Hockaday reports two restorations at South Pryor Street on last Lord's day."

Frank Baker, Berry, Ala., writes: "I have just finished reading and re-reading 'Hardeman's Tabernacle Sermons.' It has been my pleasure to read nearly all of the books of sermons published by our brethren, from old Brother Goodman's and Franklin's down to the present day, and this fills a place that none of them has so done, in my judgment. I think it the best book of its kind to hand to your religious neighbors I have ever read. Another feature is the purpose in bringing the book out—to help in the education of poor girls and boys. Brethren, do what you can in putting the book in every home and in that way preach the gospel as well as help some other boy or girl preach it in years to come."

C. E. Plank, 1005 Sixth Avenue, South, Minneapolis, Minn., writes: "Upon the advice of brethren interested in the Northwest mission work, I have decided to make a tour of some of the Southern and Eastern States in the interest of this work. I expect to visit Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, and Tennessee, and possibly other States. If this were an ordinary mission field, I would hesitate to make this trip, as the brethren are receiving so many calls; but this is much the largest in the United States, and we cannot give it up. There are six large States in a group where the church of Christ is almost unknown. If there are churches on my route that would like for me to visit them, they should write me here in Minneapolis. I could hold one or two short meetings on the trip. If you can give us five or ten dollars a month for a year or more, don't wait for me to visit you, but write the treasurer, Wayne S. Taylor, 119 Second Street, North, and tell him what you can do."

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50. In advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 217-219 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate," and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS,
Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

Hard Work a Cure for Our Ills.

BY J. C. M'Q.

That the country is burdened by debt and beset by ills is self-evident. With thousands of people unemployed and with thousands hungry, the outlook is not encouraging. With the fuel supply cut short and the transportation of the country disturbed by strikes, it must be freely conceded that things are out of joint.

It is but natural to seek a remedy. It is manifest that the remedy is not found in idleness or less work. In use, metals shine; in idleness, they rust. Running water is clear; standing water is foul. God's order is for things and people to keep busy. From the very day that man sinned in the garden of Eden, God ordained that he could not be useful and happy in idleness. "Unto Adam he said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it: cursed is the ground for thy sake; in toil shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life; thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field: in the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken: for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." (Gen. 3: 17-19.) God cursed the ground, but not labor. Toil is honorable; loafing is dishonorable. Labor develops the man; idleness destroys him. Not shorter hours of work, but hard work must be tried as a cure for the debts and poverty of Europe. Europe cannot reconstruct with borrowed American cash. The conviction that work, not pious resolutions and easy borrowing, is the right, the only inevitable remedy, has long been spreading, and it has taken concrete shape in criticism of, partly in open revolt against, the eight-hour day as productive of idleness, while the family larder stares ever more emptily. In a platform of reconstruction, easy work has no right to a plank. It is very evident that, because the cost of living and the tax burdens are twice as high as in 1913, the people must earn more, and in order to do this they feel compelled to work more. They act accordingly.

On the subject of "Hard Work," Robert Crozier Long, in the Saturday Evening Post, says:

The hard-work-decade movement has made some progress among the intellectuals of labor. The issue with these intellectuals is: Shall Europe help itself, or shall it carry on with petty loans or mere prospects of loans from America or prosperous neutrals, and so get deeper into the debt mire? When Pierpont Morgan first came to Paris to discuss with leading bankers the possibility of a reparations loan, Saxon socialists published a pamphlet summarizing the reforms which a really serious Europe would promise to a possible American lender. A hard-work decade was the main reform. A hard-work decade does not mean compulsion on any country, corporation, or individual to establish or to submit to a compulsory working day of any particular length; it means merely that for the next ten years all laws forbidding industrial work for longer than eight hours would be suspended.

Compulsion to work would not be necessary if compulsion not to work were removed. A hundred and fifty years ago the great economist, Adam Smith, declared that if workmen were given work for only four days a week they would not idle on the other days—they would work for themselves. Applied to to-day, this means that Europe's war impoverishment, expressed in high prices and very high taxes, would impose automatically on workmen all the compulsion that is needed. A great increase in production would be the result. Taken by the states in taxes, this additional production would suffice for interest on and amortization of the war debts. State finances would therefore return to order; the piling up of floating debts and the printing of paper money would cease; the indebted countries, freed from further inflation, would again have currencies of stable buying power; and a practical stabilization of the exchanges would become a fact.

That is the Saxon program. It is backed by figures which are roughly right, but not absolutely unchallengeable, because it cannot be proved that none of the increased production would be absorbed by an increase in consumption. Europe's war-making great powers, Russian and the Austrian succession states included, have a total war debt of $140,000,000,000. This debt has been considerably watered down by the depreciation in the gold value of currencies; and only Germany's reparations debt of 132,000,000,000 marks and Europe's borrowings of $10,141,268,000 from the United States are effective gold debts. Assuming, as is certain in the case of Germany, Austria, and some other states, that the currencies will ultimately be scaled down, more than half of the states' total debts will be obliterated. But by this the loss will merely have been transferred to bondholders and holders of currency; and though ceasing to be a state loss, it will remain a national loss, and will have to be made good if prewar prosperity is to be restored. Restoration can only take the form of labor. For home debts labor must be presented to the governments in form of taxes; and foreign debts can be paid off only by exporting labor in shape of goods. The problem is: How much extra work must Europe do? Put otherwise, the problem is: How much extra time must Europe devote to work?

The question naturally presents itself: "Why should hard-up manual workers be forbidden to do what no one dreams of forbidding a hard-up merchant, farmer, or professor to do? The result is an active and growing sentiment against the eight-hour limitation being applied strictly to manual labor. Individual workers openly defy the law. And why not? If a man and family get hungry while he works only eight hours a day, why has he not a right to work ten hours a day in order to feed himself and family? Men should not allow any authority to take away from them their God-given right to work or to dictate how long they shall work.

We should not allow the necessity to work for material things to influence us not to labor for the highest spiritual good. Christ admonishes us: "Work not for the food which perisheth, but for the food which abideth unto eternal life, which the Son of man shall give unto you." (John 6: 27.) In the midst of the busy, conflicting scenes of life we should not lose sight of the fact that the soul is worth more than all else. "For what is a man profited, if he gain the whole world, and lose or forfeit his own self?" (Luke 9: 25.) Christians, instead of declaring that the church is a failure, should devote themselves vigorously to the salvation of souls. In the light of the value of souls, how brief is life's span! Jesus worked, and worked before it was night. "We must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work." (John 9: 4.) The Christian must endure hardships; he must make his way against adverse winds. Paul is a good example: "For ye remember, brethren, our labor and travail: working night and day, that we might not burden any of you, we preached unto you the gospel of God." (1 Thess. 2: 9.) If such a spirit of devotion and sacrifice permeated every Christian, how rapidly would the gospel overrun the earth as the waters cover the seas! The church needs to work as did Paul. Aggressive work is in demand. Our time, talent, and energy should be consumed in overcoming the devil, and not in destroying each other. To neglect to convert others is to fail to work out our own salvation. Every church should have much fruit to abound to its account. No church should be content to drag along in indifference. Each Christian should be a light-bearer. He should send out the light in order to drive away the darkness of sin. Only by so doing can he save himself. "So then, my beloved, even as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling: for it is God who worketh in you both to will and to work, for his good pleasure." (Phil. 2: 12, 13.) By all the motives of the gospel, as sweet and pure as heaven itself, and by all its warnings and threats, as awful as hell, God works in us to do his will. In view of his wondrous love and redemption and of the torment of the lost, it is marvelously strange that we are not ready to both work and sacrifice for the salvation of souls.

Evolution and Faith.

BY H. LEO D.

As has been seen in former articles, evolution at its best is only a theory; it is a theory belonging to the domain of science and philosophy. Surely nothing can be claimed for evolution that may not be claimed for many other theories. The theory of evolution may have its own peculiar characteristics, but there are some things which it has in common with all other theories. I desire that it be remembered that the most ardent and devout admirers of evolution put it in the category of theories. There are many extravagant claims made by learned (?) speakers and writers in behalf of evolution, but these claims are not to be taken too seriously in speaking for or against this theory.

Faith is founded upon God's word. The Christian's faith is based upon the revelation from God as given from the Bible. "So belief cometh of hearing, and hearing by the word of Christ." (Rom. 10: 17.) Again: "Now faith is assurance of things hoped for, a conviction of things not seen." (Heb. 11: 1.) Faith is the foundation of Christianity. Without faith in the Bible and the Christ revealed therein, there can be no Christianity. Christianity may be briefly expressed as the mind, the method and spirit of Christ as related to all the activities of life. "Without faith it is impossible to be well pleasing unto him; for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that seek after him." (Verse 6.) Christianity teaches that a faithful discharge of all duties in this life prepares one for the life to come. The Bible teaches how to discharge our duties to God, to our fellow men, and to self. The essential principles of the Christian's faith are an inspired revelation from God, the Bible; the guilt of sin; the person of Christ as a Savior and Son of God; his death, burial, and resurrection; his ascension, glorification, and coronation; man's redemption from sin, and immortality. Anything which contradicts any or all of these cannot come under the subject of faith.

All of God's revelation constitutes a harmonious system; in fact, all that comes from God and that is stamped with his approval harmonizes with God and all things that come from him. There are no contradictions in God's thoughts, whether expressed in and through nature or through inspiration. All truth comes from God. He is the center from which all truth radiates and all truth is stamped with the unity and harmony of God himself. Faith accepts the unity and the harmony of the truth. Anything which contradicts any truth of God cannot come under the subject of Christian faith. Anything which contradicts a clear and definite statement of God as expressed in the Bible must be excluded from the realm of Christian faith.

The theory of evolution and Christian faith conflict; they are logically placed against each other; they are mutually exclusive and contradictory. The Bible account of creation and the origin of man and the theory of evolution do not harmonize. It matters not how diligently the admirers of evolution may seek to interpret the Bible so that it will harmonize with the theory of evolution, it cannot be done. Many scientists have concluded that the Bible and evolution cannot harmonize nor be reconciled each to the other, and have, therefore, given up the Bible. This is the logical and ultimate conclusion that every one must accept. No sane mind can knowingly hold to and believe two contradictory teachings. One must give up the Bible if he holds to the theory of evolution. He cannot "serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to one, and despise the other." This is exactly what the bold, frank evolutionist does: he holds to the theory of evolution and despises the Bible. Faith in the Bible, the Christian faith, excludes and rejects the theory of evolution.

Hæckel, who is authority on the theory of evolution, writes as follows: "I have given fully in my 'History of Creation' the weighty reasons for claiming this descent of man from the anthropoid apes. . . . It is therefore established beyond question for all impartial scientific inquiry that the human race comes directly from the apes of the old world." And again, he says: "The resistance to the theory of a descent from the apes is clearly due in most cases to feeling rather than to reason." ("Evolution of Man," Pop. Edition, pages 264, 352.) Now, those who accept the Bible teaching on the creation of man or the origin of man cannot believe what Mr. Hæckel says. So far as the Bible speaks on any question, one's faith may reach; but when statements are made which contradict the Bible, or when a theory is espoused which denies the authority of the Bible to speak on a question, that statement and theory must be rejected if one holds to the Bible. Those who believe the Bible, believe the genealogy as given by Moses, Matthew, and Luke. The Bible genealogy traces man back to the garden of Eden, to "the son of Adam, the Son of God." (Luke 3: 38.) Man had his origin in the creative fiat of Jehovah. "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them." (Gen. 1: 27.) This shows why he is called the Son of God. So far as history has any voice in this matter, it confirms the statement of revelation and refutes the idea of a gradual ascent of man from lower forms of animal life. As far back as the witness of history goes, or as far back as man knows anything of the history of the human family, man has been indued with all his present-day faculties with the plenitude of their powers. Faith includes and accepts this: the theory of evolution rejects this. Between man and an existing anthropoid ape there lies an abyss, a chasm, which has never been bridged. Faith is on the side of man, while the theory is on the side of the ape. Choose ye which ye will accept.

Brother Briney Deserts O. E. Payne.

BY F. W. SMITH.

On page 866 will be found Brother Briney's reply to my last rejoinder. I solicit a careful reading of his article first, and then note the following points in reply:

1. One of the most significant facts connected with Brother Briney's reply is his complete abandonment of O. E. Payne's book, entitled "Instrumental Music Is Scriptural." This he most clearly does in seeking to justify such music in Christian worship on the ground of its being an "aid" or a "help" to the singing. In view of his most heartily indorsement of Payne's position, I was not prepared to witness such an early and complete abandonment of that indorsement, and the effort to justify such music in Christian worship as merely an "aid" to the singing, which he has done in his present communication. Our brother's new suit made to order by O. E. Payne did not fit him so well as he at first supposed; hence, he has changed again and donned his "old cast-off clothes." Will he never become permanently located, or continue shifting his ground, like "a drowning man catching at straws?" Although I thought at the time he and the Christian Standard had covered entirely too much ground in their unqualified indorsement of, and jubilation over, Payne's book, still I did not expect to see Brother Briney throw down his gun and flee the field without firing a single shot in defense of Payne's position which he so heartily indorsed in the following words: "The author aims to prove that instrumental music in Christian worship is scriptural; and when I say that his effort is a complete success, I state the case conservatively. Mr. Payne builds his argument almost exclusively upon the meaning of the Greek word 'psallo,' which occurs in some form five times in the New Testament, and hence the Scripture sanctions the doing of whatever this word meant when the New Testament was written. The author first points out how the meaning of the Greek word 'baptizo' (baptize) is ascertained, and by the same method he demonstrates (I use the term advisedly) that when the New Testament was written 'psallo' carried with it the idea of the use of the instrument of music. This he does, first, by such an array of Greek lexicons as I have never seen assembled in the support of the meaning of any other word." Again, in the Standard of June 3, 1922, editorially, and over the signature of Brother Briney, we had the following relative to Payne's position: "The author has made an exhaustive research of the meaning of the word 'psallo,' precisely as Campbell and others have made the same investigation in regard to 'baptizo.' The result is an overwhelming conviction that not only was instrumental music allowed in the worship of the primitive church, but that it was positively enjoined." Now be it remembered that Brother Payne's final conclusion from what Brother Briney terms "a complete success" in his argument on the meaning of the Greek word "psallo," translated "sing" in the New Testament, is this: "We must unite in agreeing that if we forego musical instruments we cannot conform to the divine injunction to psallein." (Page 172.) There it is, as clear as one of Brother Briney's "sunbeams," that we cannot obey God in singing his praises without the instrumental accompaniment; for, according to Brother Payne, whom Brother Briney has so positively and unqualifiedly indorsed (and he "speaks advisedly"), the divine injunction to "psallein" cannot be obeyed without instrumental music, which Brother Briney says Payne "demonstrated" by the meaning of the word "psallo." Now, when I call upon our brother for authority from the New Testament for instrumental music in Christian worship, he deserts Brother Payne and his "psallo" and falls back upon the old ground that such music is only an "aid" or a "help" to the singing! Well, I heartily agree with our brother that we are making "progress" in our discussion, and such a rapid progress, too, as to utterly surprise me.

2. Our brother says: "His 'plain' prohibition, therefore, resolves itself into a mere inference, and no mere inference should be made a test of fellowship." Not so fast, my brother, if you please. My contention was and is that the New Testament expressly forbids such music, and I gave my reason for so stating, based upon the law of exclusion, to which our brother has made no reply at all. Why did he not answer my question, "Is the burning of incense in Christian worship forbidden?" Will he say that such an act is "formally" forbidden in the New Testament? If so, I deny it. Will he say that opposition to the burning of incense resolves itself into a "mere inference?" I challenge my brother to show that instrumental music in Christian worship is not forbidden in the same sense and for the same reason that he opposes the burning of incense in the worship. I deny most emphatically that the matter "resolves itself into a mere inference," and my brother shall not slip out through that hole.

3. Brother Briney used the word "water" in his illustration of perverting the Lord's Supper; but if he desires to change it to "meat," I have no objection, for that will not help him out of his trouble. Hence, I ask: How did he "come to see that there was absolutely no place for the meat in that sacred institution?" Did he not "see it" in the law of exclusion, in that he was told what to eat and what to drink? He knew that by the use of the specific words, "bread" and "wine," he was shut up to the use in eating and drinking of anything else. But he says "there is nothing left for the meat to represent" is the reason he leaves it out of the Supper. I refuse to put it there because God excluded it. But suppose some one should fancy that he saw something for the meat to represent, would our brother permit its introduction? He could very easily have found something for the "water" he used in his illustration to represent—viz., the water that issued with the blood from our Savior's side; and I now ask, If some one should introduce "water" with the bread and wine to represent the water that came from our Lord's side, would he oppose it? If so, on what ground? The Catholic contends that the burning of incense is helpful to his prayers, just as Brother Briney contends that the playing of an instrument is helpful to his singing. On what ground can he oppose the burning of the incense, which is not commanded, while at the same time using the musical instrument, which is not commanded? Are we at liberty to add instrumental music to the worship because we think it helps the worship? If so, have we not the right to add the counting of beads, the burning of incense, and the lighting of candles on the same ground? If not, why not?

4. Of course, New Testament baptism is "inseparably connected with faith" (Mark 16: 16), and so is the "worship" that must be rendered to God (2 Cor. 5: 7); hence, there is as much authority for the baptism of an unbeliever as there is for the instrumental music. Both are forbidden by the law of exclusion. We can have no faith without the word of God (Rom. 10: 17); and since our brother has told us that "the New Testament Scriptures are just as silent upon the 'accompaniment' as upon infant baptism," when he uses the instrumental accompaniment, is he not acting without faith?

5. To my utter surprise, our brother wholly misconceived the nature of what he calls my "cow illustration." That illustration was based upon the law of exclusion, and not upon the law of substitution, as he has assumed. Here it is: "When God commanded a Jew to offer a sheep, did that forbid offering a cow?" I am surprised that he did not see that the offering of a "cow" would have been in addition to the offering of the "sheep" which God commanded, and not as a substitute for the sheep. Now, in order that he may not repeat his mistake, I will supply what I thought any one could see, and put it this way: When God commanded a Jew to offer a sheep, did that forbid offering in addition to the sheep, a cow? In the command to offer a "sheep," God used a specific word denoting a definite species of animal creation, and thus by that specific word enacted the law of exclusion, forbidding the offering of a cow or any other animal in addition to that denoted by that specific word. From this well-defined "law of exclusion," I maintain that when God commands us to offer vocal music, using the specific word "sing" (Eph. 5: 19; Col. 3: 16; Heb. 13: 15), that he has enacted a law of exclusion which expressly forbids the offering of another kind or species of music—viz., instrumental music—in connection with the vocal, as clearly as the word "sheep" excludes the offering in addition another species of animal.

6. Of course, "if God commands a man to sing, when the man sings, he is doing precisely the thing he is commanded to do;" but that is not the question, my brother. When the man does more in the way of making music in praise to God by adding a different kind of music to that contained in the specific word "sing," is he doing precisely the thing he is commanded to do? If so, let us have the command.

7. He asks: "Now, is there any place for the use of an instrument in singing? Can it serve any legitimate purpose in doing the thing commanded?" I am glad he used the word "legitimate," and unhesitatingly answer no to his question. To be "legitimate," it must have the sanction of the New Testament, and that is what my brother cannot find. Now, I shall give him some work to do. (1) What "place" or "use" can instrumental music possibly serve now in "singing" or "doing the thing commanded," that it could not have done in New Testament times? (2) What necessity has arisen since New Testament times demanding a "place" for instrumental music in the praise of God that did not exist then? (3) Since our brother has told us, and that correctly, too, that "instrumental accompaniment" was "born five hundred years out of time," meaning by that that the early church did not use such music, how does he account for that fact? He says his question "brings us to the crux of this whole matter (then the crux is not in "psallo," as he once said in indorsing Payne), but again he shoots wide of the mark. I most positively deny that instrumental music can be used as an "aid" or "help" to the singing in the worship of God, no matter what uninspired musicians tell us. My reasons for this denial are these: (1) Because such music offered at the same time and in connection with other acts of worship would be a part of the worship itself. "It came to pass, when the trumpeters and singers were as one, to make one sound to be heard in praising and thanking Jehovah; and when they lifted up their voice with the trumpeters and cymbals and instruments of music, and praised Jehovah," etc. (2 Chron. 5: 13.) Here the instrumental music and the vocal music coalesced, so as to make but "one sound" to be heard in praising God; and if the vocal music constituted a part of the worship, so did the instrumental music, for they were inseparable, just as Brother Briney's vocal and instrumental music are inseparable now, coalescing and making "one sound" in his praises to God. He would better have stayed by Payne's "psallo" and fought it out as a "command" of God. (2) Since God says that instrumental music offered in connection with singing praises to him was worship, unless our brother can show that such music offered in connection with singing praise to God now will not be a part of the worship itself, away goes his contention that such music is only an "aid" or "help" to the worship. (3) Since instrumental music in the worship of Judaism was as much a part of that worship as was the burning of incense, we can no more convert such music into an "aid" to singing than we can convert the burning of incense into an "aid" to our prayers. Brother Briney is, therefore, inconsistent to oppose the one and advocate the other. When, where, and how did such music cease to be worship and convert itself into an "aid?" In the language of our brother, let us exclaim: "Expediency, stay thy impious hands!" The matter stands thus:

JUDAISM.
Burning of Incense.
Instrumental Music.

CHRISTIANITY.
Prayer.
Vocal Music.

Now, when Brother Briney crosses the line between Judaism and Christianity with his instrumental music, no matter for what purpose, I will cross that line with the incense, and he cannot open his mouth against it.

8. Brother Briney's illustrations of walking with a cane, seeing with glasses, and hearing with an ear trumpet completely break down for the lack of analogy to the subject in hand. While God has not legislated on either of the things mentioned, but left us free to use any aid in walking, seeing, and hearing we may adopt, he has legislated regarding the praise we render to him, and specified the kind of music to be used. Now, if God had used specific directions in telling us how to "walk" and how to "see" and "hear," as he has in telling us how to "praise" him—viz., with vocal music (Eph. 5: 19; Col. 3: 16; Heb. 13: 15)—then we would be shut up to "walking," "seeing," and "hearing" denoted by these specific directions; just as we are shut up to vocal music by the word "sing," and this answers these illustrations.

9. Our brother assumes, in his illustration of "the musical staff boxed up in an instrument," that it does nothing more for the ear, as an "aid," than does "the musical staff printed on the page" do for the eye, as an aid. How fallacious is such a statement! He should know better, and I am surprised at his blunder. It does vastly more, by making another kind of music which God has forbidden. Finally, instruments of music in connection with the praise of God are mentioned more than thirty-five times in the Old Testament, but during the whole period of the New Testament times not one single mention is made of such music being used in the praise of God under Christ. How does Brother Briney account for this?

Things That Make You Bigger.

Keep criticizing yourself.
Never learn to love money.
Say little each day and do more.
Keep your mind clear and your heart clean.
Distinguish between the things that wrong and the things that are unwise, and avoid both.—Exchange.

Keepin' On.

There isn't a sweeter thing life sings
Than keepin' on, in spite of things—
Keepin' on with a constant trust
In all men tryin' their best to be just,
In all things movin' their own wise way
Unto the light of a better day.

There isn't a lovelier creed to hold
Than keepin' on, still brave and bold,
Happy and sunny and keen for life,
No matter how sorry the way of strife,
Hopin' and helpin' and goin' along
Unto the tune of a sweeter song.

It's sometimes hard to believe it's true
That keepin' on is the way to do.
And we stumble back and we balk and stand
Hesitatin' to beat the band:
But it soon blows by like a bitter spell,
And we feel so glad that we want to yell.

The noblest lesson life can learn
Is keepin' on with our daily turn,
Liftin' our heads to the light, and then
Takin' our place in the line again,
Trustin' the worst and trustin' the best
And tryin' to leave to God the rest.

—The Bentztown Bard.

Home Reading

Keep A-Goin'!

When you strike a thorn or rose,
Keep a-goin'!
When it hails or when it snows,
Keep a-goin'!
Taint no use to sit and whine
When the fish ain't on your line;
Bait your hook and keep on tryin'—
Keep a-goin'!

When the weather kills your crop,
Keep a-goin'!
When you tumble from the top,
Keep a-goin'!
S'pose you're out of every dime;
Gettin' broke ain't any crime!
Tell the world you're feeling fine—
Keep a-goin'!

When it looks like all is up,
Keep a-goin'!
Drain the sweetness from the cup;
Keep a-goin'!
See the wild birds on the wing!
Hear the bells that sweetly ring!
When you feel like singing—sing—
Keep a-goin'! —Exchange.

The Runaway Pumpkins.

When Miss Belinda planted her garden in the spring, she made her pumpkin bed beside her back fence. "It will be away from the boys there," she declared, and then she frowned. You see, Miss Belinda didn't like boys, and that was one reason why boys didn't like Miss Belinda. It was too bad she didn't know this, because everybody might have been happier.

Miss Belinda's garden was the best in town. Her roses were redder and sweeter than her neighbors', her apples were juicier and rounder, her grapes hung thicker, and her pumpkins—never were there bigger or yellower or more wonderful pumpkins in all the world, if we can believe the stories which Teddy and Joe and Sammy Densmore told.

I can't tell you what Miss Belinda did to help grow such marvelous pumpkins, except that she kept the weeds away and gave them so much sun that they grew great green leaves to use as sunshades and waving fans to keep cool.

When Miss Belinda chose her pumpkin-planting place, Jacky and Tess were away off in another State, and the little, battered, and blackened house next door was empty and forlorn. They came to live in it just as Miss Belinda's pumpkin vines were beginning to blossom, and three of the great yellow buds peeped through the fence to see what the new children were doing. Pumpkins, like people, often are curious and want to see.

It was a funny back yard that went with this battered and blackened house. Some burr bushes grew by the back door, and a rhubarb plant made a great green blot on the rocky, unkept bit of dusty land. Then there was a long clothesline, always full of clothes, two children, and a furry kitten.

The pumpkins found this all very interesting, and one day two very, very naughty ones planned to run away. They were the same that were hiding in the yellow blossoms when they peeped through the fence. It was an easy matter to hide beneath the rhubarb plant, and Jacky and Tess never spied them until they had grown so round and yellow that the green leaves couldn't cover them any longer.

"O!" whispered Tess. And they clapped their hands and danced a lively jig.

"We'll have a jack-o'-lantern with great holes for eyes and a candle to light him!" shouted Jacky.

"An' maybe pumpkin pies an' two little saucer ones with what's left over for you an' me," said Tess, rapturously.

Just then Miss Belinda came softly down her walk, and Jacky and Tess remembered.

"I 'spect we can't have one of them," sobbed Tess.

"No," said Jacky, "we can't 'less we break the Eighth Commandment an' steal."

Tess shivered. "I 'spect," she said; and then she cried a real hard cry, it was so disappointing.

Jacky just sat on the steps and kicked his heels together hard. His face was red and his eyes were bright.

"Why didn't Miss Belinda keep her old pumpkins?" he declared, loudly. "She's a cross old thing an' only scowls at us every day. She has heaps of pumpkins, an' I don't believe she makes one single jack-o'-lantern; an' if the vines ran away an' grew pumpkins in our yard, Tess, why, aren't those pumpkins ours?"

But Tess shook her head and sobbed again. "They didn't grow their roots here," she said. "There never would have been any pumpkins in our yard 'less Miss Belinda had planted them."

"We might find only one," argued Jacky. "It's hard to see everything that grows. Besides, what would it matter, just one, when Miss Belinda's going to pick a whole shedful?"

Tess shook her head again, sadly. "We must get the cart an' carry them home right now, 'less they'll be a temptation, Jacky. We must do it right now," she said.

And by and by Miss Belinda heard a funny creak, creak coming up her walk. She opened the door and looked straight at Jacky.

"It's your pumpkins," he explained, soberly. "They ran away an' grew under our rhubarb plant. That's why we didn't see them an' bring them to you before."

Miss Belinda smiled. She had a pleasant look in her wrinkled face when she did it. Jacky forgot that she frowned and was a "cross old thing." It always pays to be pleasant.

"I hope you'll make a jack-o'-lantern out of the biggest pumpkin," he suggested, politely, "'cause it's 'specially good for that."

"An' the other one," exclaimed Tess, "would make a beautiful pumpkin pie, with two little saucer ones made out of what's left over."

And then—I can't tell you just how it happened, but the little cart went creak, creak down Miss Belinda's walk, and Miss Belinda's pumpkins went with it.

"She said," declared jubilant Jacky: "'You children seem to know just what pumpkins grow for.'"

"An' she said," exclaimed Tess, with a smile: "'If pumpkins grew to make children happy, I'm going to help by sharing and being happy.'"—Pittsburgh Christian Advocate.

A Secret Worth Knowing.

A six-year-old, who seems to have in him some of the makings of a philosopher, suddenly said to his father: "I know how to learn to whistle."

"How's that, son?" the father asked.

"Why, just this way," was the prompt reply. "You whistle and whistle and whistle, and after a while you can."—Exchange.

Never comes mortal utterance so near to eternity as when a child utters words of loving praise to a mother! Every syllable drops into the jewel box of her memory, to be treasured forever and ever.—George B. Lyon.

Texas-Oklahoma Department

By C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

An Old Testament Revival.

BY M. O. DALEY.

"And Hezekiah sent to all Israel and Judah, . . . that they should come to the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, to keep the passover unto the Lord God of Israel: . . . for they had not done it of a long time in such sort as it is written. . . . And there assembled at Jerusalem much people to keep the feast." (2 Chron. 30: 1-13.)

Hezekiah was king over Judah and Hoshea was king over Israel at this time. They were two separate kingdoms, each having its own king, laws, and customs; but, notwithstanding this fact, they were both the people of God.

Two hundred and seventy-five years before this they had divided over matters of government (2 Chron. 10), Israel withdrawing from the house of David and establishing a worship of their own (1 Kings 12: 25-33) and no longer going up to Jerusalem to worship as God had commanded.

While it is true that they were the children of God, they were under condemnation; and though not as yet utterly cast off, God visited them with many demonstrations of his disapproval. They became a prey of the nations around them, and, as a nation, ceased to be considered as such, both by man and God.

Judah, too, in course of time, departed from the glory of the Lord. This was the state of affairs when Hezekiah made his proclamation. Both nations were far from the path of duty, only Judah being still in covenant relationship with God; and while the proclamation was made by Hezekiah, it was sent to Israel, even though he had no control over them in any way, but because of the state of friendliness that existed between them the message was not hindered or forbidden. And the result was the greatest revival, perhaps, in the history of the world.

Let us get a close-up view of this wonderful revival. No doubt it was the topic of conversation of both nations and surrounding nations as well. The whole world is interested in a get-together movement of estranged friends or brethren.

We note that at the beginning of this division Israel was the aggressor. They withdrew themselves and declared they had no part or inheritance in the son of Jesse. So far as they were concerned, fellowship no longer existed. There was a careful remodeling and revising of practically the entire system of worship. While there was some similarity, yet the difference was so vital that the whole of it was condemned by the Lord. They gave inventive imagination free reign and were guided by it. (1 Kings 12: 28.) They rejected God's laws and covenant and followed after popularity. (2 Kings 17: 15.) They made great pretensions of loyalty to God, but in reality they served other gods. (2 Kings 17: 33.) In this polluted condition they ate the passover, but not as the Lord directed. (2 Chron. 30: 18.) They sought out ways and inventions of their own by setting up groves and images through which to worship God and to do his work. (2 Kings 17: 9, 10.) They rejected the statutes of the Lord for the ways and inventions of their own (2 Kings 17: 15), and made war on those who contended for the revealed will of God. Because of this, the Lord cut them off. (Verse 20.)

Now, Judah, while not overzealous at any time, was still maintaining a show of loyalty. They looked on the things that divided them as fundamental and the division as complete. In their judgment, Israel had departed from God. But in course of time they began to adopt the ways of Israel (2 Kings 17: 19), and in doing so soon found themselves closer to Israel and a better state of feeling existing. But you will note that the changed condition of affairs was not on account of Israel's discarding any of her ways or making any effort to reform their lives or worship.

Let us now turn to the proclamation. It is interesting. All were invited and urged to come back to the house of the Lord and keep the passover—all, both Judah and Israel. No effort was made to form a union of the two in their present condition. Neither was it a union celebration just for that special occasion, nor was there a truce agreed upon for the time being. It was not an invitation by Judah to Israel to join in with them in the celebration of the passover at a certain time only, or a get-together meeting looking to a union in the future. It was a great soul-searching appeal to every one as individuals, be he of Judah or Israel, to come back to God's way and to his place and worship as he directs.

The departure from God's way was by the individual. He made the choice to depart, and he must make the choice to come back. It was not a surrender to Judah by Israel, but a full and complete surrender of all to God. "And there assembled much people at Jerusalem to keep the feast." That they were not meeting on common ground or making their present condition a basis of union is seen from the following: "For a multitude of the people . . . had not cleansed themselves, yet did they eat the passover otherwise than it was written. But Hezekiah prayed for them, saying, The good Lord pardon every one that prepareth his heart to seek God, the Lord God of his fathers, though he be not cleansed according to the purification of the sanctuary. And the Lord hearkened to Hezekiah, and healed the people." (2 Chron. 30: 18-20.) Those individuals of Israel who did come up were unclean; but they came determined to forsake their way and come to the Lord's way, and he healed them. "And all the congregation of Judah" and those "that came out of Israel" rejoiced. "So there was great joy in Jerusalem: for since the time of Solomon the son of David king of Israel there was not such rejoicing in Jerusalem." It was a great revival, indeed. So great was it that they all rose up and "took away the altars that were in Jerusalem, and all the altars for incense took they away, and cast them into the brook Kidron." Judah was the true kingdom of God. They purified it, and all that purified themselves were united with Judah to the Lord. This union met the approval of Jehovah and is the kind Jesus prayed for among his followers of to-day, but it is not the kind that some of his followers are now trying to arrange. His people are now divided into the "church of Christ" and the "Christian Church," and, too, divided over matters of government. The Christian Church withdrew from the church of Christ and declared they had no inheritance in the "Son of David," and ceased to fellowship them. Never has there been a truer case of history repeating itself than is found in the course of conduct pursued by the Christian Church. Read their history as written by themselves, and read the Lord's history of Israel's transgression. Item by item they correspond. Likewise has the church of Christ done some history repeating. They, too, like Judah, have adopted some of the ways of the Christian Church, and the result is the same—they are brought nearer together, have a kindlier feeling for one another—not because the Christian Church is coming back to God's ways, but because they are adopting the ways of the Christian Church.

Neither have Hezekiahs been lacking, but not like the one of old. They have sent out all kinds of proclamations. But where is the one pleading for a return by all the people to "come to Jerusalem?" It has been, "You come to us," by both sides; and when that has failed of results, there has gone out from the church of Christ invitations to meet us on common ground—with the “we’re-both-brethren” idea—and we will unite for all time or for the occasion as you may elect. Differences are forgotten and a sickly effort made to revive the fellowship that has long been dead. Our differences were once vital, but not so now? Why? Because we have adopted so many of their ways and have become so like them that the differences are no longer vital. O for a sure-enough Hezekiah to rise up in the strength of our God and call for all to come back to God’s ways, and then we will be united in the Lord! When we quit this game of trying to fool the other fellow and get down in earnest and appeal to every one as an individual, then will they come in an earnest effort to cleanse themselves, and then will all the “altars of Judah” be torn down and thrown into the sea of forgetfulness and the house of God be purified, and such rejoicing as has not been since “King Common Sense” invaded the sacred confines of God’s church. God hasten that happy day!

✱ ✱ ✱

Preparing for Meetings.

BY C. R. N.

The only meeting conducted by the church of Christ in modern days which was properly advertised, so far as I know, was the recent meeting in Nashville, Tenn., conducted by Brethren Hardeman and Pullias. Usually our brethren make some preparation and do some advertising for a meeting for a few days before the appointed time for the meeting to begin, but so soon as the preacher is on the ground the work of advertising ends. He is expected to have a great meeting.

This year the Highland Avenue Church, in Montgomery, Ala., had with them Brother H. Leo Boles for a series of meetings. They began to advertise the meeting before the date for it to begin some two weeks, and kept up the active work so long as the meeting continued. Brother Hines, who labors with this congregation, could have used more money than he had at his command for the advertising, I am certain. He tells me he was gratified with the results of the advertising. They had a great meeting. Catoma Street Church, Montgomery, with which Brother Fred M. Little labors, knows how to advertise the work and a meeting.

Some years ago I spent a night in an Oklahoma town. I was a stranger in the place, and spent the night in a hotel. In walking through the city in the late afternoon I saw two tents, one of which would seat about two hundred people, and the other would seat about three thousand. I learned that meetings were being conducted at each place each night. I determined to go to preaching that night. To which tent do you think I went? To which tent would you have gone? I did not inquire what church was conducting either of the meetings. To myself I said: “The people who have that little tent do not expect many people to hear them; they have not prepared to do much, and they will not. The people who have the big tent are expecting large audiences; they have prepared for large audiences, and they will have them. It is possible that the man in the small tent is the best Bible scholar and the most interesting speaker, but the people with whom he labors in this town have made it impossible for him to have a large audience, for they have advertised to the people, by the preparations they have made to accommodate the audiences, that they do not expect them to come. Those in the large tent have advertised the fact that they expect large audiences and have prepared for them. The big crowd will go to the place where the preparation has been made for them.”

In my work as a preacher I have assisted in only one meeting where there had been preparations made for as many people as came to hear the preaching, and in that place there were seats for about seventy-five people, and not a time in the meeting were the seats filled. About one thousand people lived in the town. The people could only say: “They do not expect us to attend; they have not prepared for us to hear their preacher.”

If you wish large audiences to attend your meeting next year, be certain you make preparation for them to have a comfortable place to be seated. It is not a compliment to the church holding the meeting for people to come and have to stand through the service.

In inviting people to come to the meeting, do not give them a “left-hand welcome,” making the impression that you do not expect them to come. Begin preparing now for the meeting which you are to have next summer.

✱ ✱ ✱

Neat in Appearance.

BY C. R. N.

Among things I remember about my father, I recall that each morning he shaved, polished his shoes, and put on fresh linen. His five boys have followed his example in this respect whether at home or with strangers. I know the work of some men to be such that such a program is impracticable.

I have formed a very distinct distaste for the man who before marriage is neat in appearance, and soon after marriage becomes slouchy and shaves one time a week or less frequent; as well as for the woman who is all neatness throughout the days of courtship, but immediately after marriage becomes dowdy.

Some weeks ago I was with a congregation which is composed of members who are of the best social circle in their town; too, as may be expected, they compare favorably in point of wealth with their fellow citizens. They have a good meetinghouse, well located. When we came to the Lord’s Supper, it was noticeable that the brother who officiated had neglected to shave for several days; his linen was clean, but he had neglected to put on a collar, and his clothes had not been pressed for weeks. I am fully persuaded that had he been scheduled to address the high school in his town on Monday morning he would have been more particular about his personal appearance.

Let us take our best with us into the worship of the Lord. There is no need to subject ourselves or the church to adverse criticism.

To me it is gratifying to see the membership of the church I visit neat and tasty in personal dress. I do not mean extravagant dress. I fully believe the church helps make the people.

I would have some misgiving should I find a congregation in whose membership there were not some poor people. Remember, the service on each Lord’s day is a special service. Let us prepare for it. Give the Lord your best.

✱ ✱ ✱

Personal Notes.

C. W. Holley baptized nineteen in a meeting in Fluvanna, Texas.

C. J. Roberson, Fort Worth, Texas, closed in Telephone, Texas, with seven baptisms.

Lee P. Mansfield is in a meeting in Granbury, Texas. Two baptized, and the meeting continues.

Cled E. Wallace baptized twenty-six in a meeting in De Soto, Texas. There were twenty-two restorations.

One baptism in Burkburnett, Texas, last Sunday. Brother Ligon is with the church for another year for full time.

Foy E. Wallace, Jr., closed in Vernon, Texas, with forty-two baptisms and twenty-one restorations. T. E. Milholland is the local preacher.

Flavil L. Colley, who has been serving the church in Terrell, Texas, through vacation, baptized one in the last service with them, and now returns to Abilene Christian College as student for the coming school year.

T. M. Carney is now located with the church in Weatherford, Texas. His arrangements with the congregation are such that he will be able to hold a few protracted meetings in other places. Address him at Weatherford, Texas, and arrange to have him for some work.

Current Comment

Denouncing the War's Legacy of Hate.

The hatred and prejudice spawned by war have so sapped our moral vitality as apparently to destroy the spirit of good will which it was so fervently hoped would follow the advent of peace. After the great conflict was over and the soldiers were home, says the Western Christian Advocate (Methodist), which thus confesses its alarm at the situation, the "blasting plagues of a reprobate mind" were released among us, and the aftermath of war is as much to be regretted as the days of carnage themselves. Even good men, we are told, are victims of this spirit of the age, and, instead of peace for which the world had hoped, we have race prejudice, religious intolerance, group arrayed against group, and a spirit of Americanism which is the very antithesis of that which animated the founders of the nation. Hardly had the war ended, we are told, than the evil of race prejudice began to rear its head, driving a cleavage through the social and even the political life of the nation. Anti-Semitism demanded a hearing, and, exclaims the Advocate—

"It drove home with a prejudice against the Jew that was frightful, violent, without reason, and with a blindness that defied the Spirit of Jesus Christ and suspended the application of all his teaching. It came with a narrowness; it blundered forward with a blindness; it acted with the violence of ignorance and sought to encourage the spirit that rules in the depths where despair and darkness dwell. Hatred and suspicion of the Jew have been a bugaboo of the twilight after all wars for almost two thousand years. It came upon us during the last three years as a thief in the night. It sought to work a cleavage from the highest economic realms of the nation to the lowest and most humble unit of the community circle. But when Christians hate, the imps of hell rejoice and rise to claim a place in the little world drama of tragedy and comedy upon which all the company of the damned are witnesses.

"With this hatred of the Jew has come a dislike and distrust of the negro. Violence has broken out against him in different parts of the country that has staggered the conscience of the best citizenship. Indeed, mob aggression has nullified the Constitution and desecrated the most sacred principles of our liberties. We have had to hide our faces in shame at the ruthless manner in which the negro has been dealt with during the past four years. That ugly, diabolical thing, 'race prejudice,' would scourge the Spirit of Jesus Christ, and when aroused would spit in his face if he should presume to protest against its actions. It would again press down upon his brow the crown of thorns. It would again crucify him amidst fire and flame on a wicked cross, for there is no restraint to human wickedness when it is commanded by race prejudice.

"Then there is that growing hatred of the foreigner. It cries out: 'America for the white man—for the native sons.' It calls for one hundred per cent Americanism; it wants to close the gates of the country against immigration; it is fearful and suspicious; it is patriotic; it is narrow and blundering. If it had its way, it would undermine all our national liberties. It would restrict free press, free discussion, free speech, free assembly, free religion, free development. It is having its way in a most unusual manner. Who will rise to call its régime to an end?

"In the face of these statements, do not forget that hatred and prejudice have also shown their presence and activity against the Roman Catholic Church. There has been sent forth for public consumption propaganda against this historic communion of such violent character as to stir into action age-long ill feeling and of such ugliness as to blot out the face of God in the life of any man who makes place for it. The deadly opiate for the Christian conscience is hatred. One should fear it as fire and deadly explosives."

Adding fuel to the fires of hatred and encouraging race animosity is a fraternal organization which "appeals to those fundamental human prejudices that can never be released or encouraged without great loss to the Christian spirit. It announces that it is against the Roman Catholic Church, against the Jews, against the Negro, against the alien, and stands out and out for Simon-pure Americanism." Yet, we are told, the organization is thriving and commanding unwittingly the support of some of the most level-headed citizens. This appeal to prejudice has a deadly aim, and the Advocate warns us:

"Watch the man or the organization who appeals to your prejudices. They will bring a poison into your soul that will rob you of your friends and take away your peace of mind. They will in the end becloud the face of Jesus Christ and turn your path into spiritual darkness. No man can afford to sympathize with or encourage in the least any man or group of men who appeal to hatred and prejudice. The ministry must be free and quick to see the peril, keep themselves aloof, and in the name of Jesus Christ save the members of their flocks from the evil that walketh at noon-day.

"And now abideth hatred and prejudice and violence, these three; but the greatest of these is prejudice."—Literary Digest.

The above expresses so well some of the evil effects of war that "Current Comment" gives it space with the prayer that our readers may get the lesson taught in it. Those of our readers who have read it may profit by perusing it again, and those who have not read it now have the opportunity to do so.

Truly, prejudice has and is now cursing the human family.

The Spirit of Religious Compromise.

An English writer has the following as to the attitude of the ordinary church member toward the criticism of the world: "He is afraid of meeting with opposition, if he should express his Christian principles emphatically. Hence, he tolerates this, and compromises with that, until it is a mercy if he, at length, discovers, as Samson did, that 'the Lord has departed from him.' That is well said. Astute and influential propagandists have for the last period of years sought to move heaven and earth to discredit unflinching loyalty to the truth of revelation and to applaud and exalt a cowardly complacency with all sorts of views on religion. To smile upon any weak-kneed kind of faith, though it denies the Lord of glory, is an "evidence" of "breadth" and "love" with the tens of thousands of people whom they have deceived. Really it is only an evidence of their cowardly surrender of loyalty to Christ for conformity to the world.—Western Recorder.

Truth has no compromise to make with error. The moment it would compromise it would cease to be truth. God has no compromise to make with man or sin; Christ can make no compromise with Satan. The church of God, the body of Christ, has no compromise with the world. The world, Satan, sin, and error can compromise; they make their progress by compromising. "The spirit of religious compromise" is the spirit of evil and error; all who imbibe it surrender to Satan.

Truth makes its advance and progress by stoutly contending against all opposition. The spirit of truth inspires loyalty to God, Christ, and the Bible. All that oppose these are wrong and evil and would like to compromise with them.

Jesus never compromised with the enemy. He declared war on all that opposed him. He said: "He that is not with me is against me, and he that gathereth not with me scattereth." (Matt. 12: 30.) The war has been declared against all evil and error; no quarter is to be given the enemy; it is a fight to a finish. Truth will and must win; victory belongeth to all who love and espouse the truth of God. Put on the whole armor of God, my brother, and stand, "and, having done all, to stand." No compromise or yielding on any truth.

"Behold, the days come, saith Jehovah, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah: not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers. . . . And they shall teach no more every man his neighbor, and every man his brother, saying, Know Jehovah; for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith Jehovah." (Jer. 31: 31-34.)

Relief from Rheumatic Pains

Rheumatism is a constitutional disease. It causes local aches and pains, inflamed joints and stiff muscles; but cannot be permanently relieved by local or external applications. It must have constitutional treatment.

Take the great blood-purifying and tonic medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, which corrects the acid condition of the blood on which rheumatism depends, and gives permanent relief. It combines the most effective agents in the treatment of this disease.

Buy Your Bibles, Testaments, Song Books, Bible Lesson Helps, and Other Books

From
Gospel Advocate
Company

Let's make it mutual; we will help you, you help us

Address all orders to
GOSPEL ADVOCATE
COMPANY, 317-319
Fifth Avenue, North,
Nashville, Tennessee

For Fever Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

An improved Aspirin tablet which is absolutely safe to use even in cases of extreme debility and weak heart. Relieves headaches, neuralgia and rheumatic pains, and reduces fever. No depressing effects. Made by a formula which is in general use by leading physicians. 35c per package at your druggist's or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

Our Deficient Eldership.

BY W. N. ABERNATHY.

When one feature of any particular work is being stressed, other features are apt to be neglected. This has certainly been true during the Restoration movement. Owing to the nature of the opposition, during the first seventy-five years the reformers directed the attention of the people principally to what was termed "first principles." It is true that church polity and Christian piety were taught; but they stood in the background, especially in the evangelistic field. It does but little good to teach a child to do a certain thing without training him to do the thing taught. Such men as Fanning, Lipscomb, Sewell, and others often set forth the Scripture teaching concerning the eldership; but the preachers who took the field often gave themselves to revival work, and then left the newly planted congregations to look out for themselves. The result is much inefficiency in church organization.

In the third chapter of First Timothy and the first chapter of Titus we have given the qualifications of elders and deacons. Certainly we would not expect to find all these characteristics developed to perfection in any individual; but they should predominate, and a disposition to cultivate them should be manifest in any person selected to oversee a congregation of God's servants. One of the qualifications is that an officer in the church should not be a lover of money. How often do we see men selected for elders because of their financial standing, but whose method of dealing is held in disrepute! Think of an elder before his congregation exhorting them to honesty and fair dealing, when it is known by his hearers that he has been guilty of keeping the truth covered up in some trade in order that he might profit thereby! Again, it is stated that an overseer must be sober-minded; yet how many of our elders attend shows, ball games, etc., and take delight in many worldly amusements that can but have a demoralizing influence! I know that many contend that they see no harm in these things, but I ask: Can you see any good in them? Which is the safer course—to engage in them or let them alone? No man who will engage in anything that is of doubtful influence is fit to be an overseer in the church of God.

Next I would call attention to the teaching ability required of an elder. So many elders are incapable of teaching those under their care. Some who possess the Bible knowledge requisite do not have the gift necessary to make their thoughts clear and impressive. I know of elders who never offer to lead a public prayer—not even ex-

ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Earache	Headache
Colds	Lumbago
Toothache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept only "Bayer" package, which contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacid-ester of Salicylic acid.

TETTERINE Drives Away Pimples

and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 50c at your druggist's or from the SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

BELL-ANS
25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

Cuticura Talcum is Fragrant and Very Healthful

Sample free of Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V. Malden, Mass. 25c. everywhere.

WAS A BROKEN-DOWN WOMAN

Then I Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicines

Donaldsonville, La.—"I write with pleasure to praise your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—which has done so much to restore my health. I was a broken-down woman until my husband brought me a bottle of your Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. I had been having pains every month and at intervals between, was weak and seemed to be smothering at times, but in a week I felt like another woman. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. It did me a lot of good too. I cannot praise your medicines too much and will be more than glad to recommend them to any woman who is suffering from female troubles. You may print my testimonial, as it is true."

Mrs. T. A. LANDRY, 612 Miss. St., Donaldsonville, La.

Note Mrs. Landry's words—"as it is true." Every letter recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is genuine. It is a statement telling the merits of these medicines just as the women in your own neighborhood tell each other about them. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has sold on merit.

THE B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.

We are preparing our mailing list for our New Catalogue. If you are interested in a free copy, write us.

B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.
CHURCH STREET
Nashville, Tennessee

MAKE POCKET MONEY For Vacation

Many of our agents make $5 to $10 per day selling Primo, the wonder cleanser, in their localities. It cleanses almost anything. Especially good for personal and general household use. Send 25c for Salesman's Outfit, including a one-pound can of Primo, literature, and full particulars.

THE PRIMO CO.,
2617 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling—Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDER CORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

press thanks at the table. I ask: How can such men be successful teachers and influence others to do the things that they themselves will not do? The result of such inefficiency is that these elders, realizing their incompetency, depend upon hiring some preacher to do the work which they should do; and hence the hired-pastor system. The preacher who is called to preach for a congregation is no more the pastor of that congregation than a workman who is employed by a contractor to do a certain piece of work is the overseer of the force constructing the building, though he may be more efficient in his special line than the employer. The preacher may be much more efficient in the special line of public teaching and proclaiming the gospel than the elders, but he is laboring under the elders and should not usurp their authority. On the other hand, the elders should not feel that they are lords of God's heritage and think that every one should take what they say and do as law and gospel. They are to lead and not drive. Sheep will follow a good shepherd, but he who would undertake to go behind the flock will soon find that he is in the wrong place.

There is another feature of the eldership that should not be overlooked, and that is their business qualities. This qualification is not specified, but is implied in the other qualifications given. No man with poor business qualifications is suitable as an overseer. Elders should possess prudence and foresight, and should be tactful in management.

But how may we expect elders to possess these qualifications to any appreciable degree under the existing circumstances? How is a physician to possess the qualifications necessary to success in his practice? First, he must have a desire for his work; second, he must make preparation. There is a feeling that an elder should have the work thrust upon him, and that regardless of the fact that he has made no preparation. Paul says that if a man desires the office of a bishop he desires a good work. Of course, no one who would desire publicity or love the praise of men is fit to be the overseer of a church. But he should have the cause of Christ at heart and desire to serve God in that way that he can make himself most useful. He should desire to be a useful servant, and should make preparation to become so. When we go to look out elders for the congregation, we should look for those who are looking for a good work and who have made preparation for it.

Now, what shall we who realize our inefficiency do? Shall we give up and quit because of our inefficiency when our work is needed? By no means. If we were teaching school and should find ourselves lacking in some qualification, would it not be better to make better preparation and continue in the work than it would be to give up a needed work? Let us remember that there is always room for improvement in any work that we may undertake. I realize that as an elder I fall far short in some of the requirements. But by the help of God and a study of his word I hope to overcome some of my failings in some degree at least. I feel that to overcome them would be a lesson to those whom I am trying to serve. If I can overcome the passions that lead me to say the things that it would be best to leave unsaid, I can then insist on others doing likewise.

I wish now to speak of the financial support of the eldership. Paul says that he who sows spiritual things for others should reap of their carnal things. This is usually applied to the evangelist. But he also asks that the elders that rule well should be counted worthy of double honor. That he is speaking of financial support is evident from the next passage, in which he says: "Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn." Again, the admonition that the elder should not take the work for the sake of filthy lucre shows that the elder was to be remunerated for his services.

It is a fundamental principle that when people expect something for nothing they usually get nothing. If the churches would get good service from the eldership, they must learn to support it in a financial way.

Try Renwar for Rheumatism.

It is not necessary any longer for you to suffer those intense pains and aches of rheumatism. Renwar is a salts combination scientifically prepared to neutralize the uric acid in the blood and thereby cure rheumatism. Don't wait until those rheumatic pains return. Buy a bottle of Renwar and forget about that rheumatism. Renwar is an old, well-established remedy. It is prescribed by the best of physicians and has thousands of friends. President L. A. Bauman, of Varley & Bauman Company, Nashville, says: "Renwar entirely relieved me of my rheumatism." For sale by druggists; price, 50 cents. Positively guaranteed by money-back offer. If your druggist doesn't carry Renwar in stock, tell him to order it for you from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Plum Street Church of

Christ, Detroit, Mich.,

Now meets in its new building, corner Hamilton Boulevard and Tuxedo Avenue. Visiting brethren welcome.

New York City Church of Christ

239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M., Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6857.

GIRLS! LEMONSWHITEN SKIN AND BLEACH FRECKLES

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms, and hands each day; then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach, because it doesn't irritate.

DANDRUFF

QUICKLY DISAPPEARS WHEN

Tetterine

Is Applied. Fragrant and Soothing.
50c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-
TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

I CURED MY FITS

by simple discovery. Doctors gave me up, says Mrs. P. Gramm, of 939 Fourth Street, Milwaukee, Wis. If you wish to try the same treatment I did, FREE, write to Mr. Lepso, 835 Island Avenue, Department 38, Milwaukee, Wis.

BOOK OF COMFORT

Specially designed gift for the bereaved. Contains choicest gems of comfort from greatest writers. Each selection a masterpiece. Memorial record page for the deceased. Beautifully decorated. Flowers fade, but "consolation" may be cherished for years. Price $2.00, postpaid. Send to McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

Sore Feet?

Don't Worry. Here's a Remedy!

Hot foot bath. Dry feet carefully. Rub thoroughly with Eucapine Salve. Towel till dry. Then off to bed with a happy heart for your poor, sore feet will be better in the morning.

Eucapine
Salve

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic
(Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

is a great comfort in cases of inflamed conditions of the skin and of the membranes of the air passages. 50c per 2 oz. jar, at your druggist's or by prepaid parcel post from the manufacturers. Full size jar free to physicians and quantitative formula supplied if desired.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc.,
Clinton, S. C.

Field Reports

Nashville, Tenn., September 9.—Brother H. Leo Boles conducted a short meeting for the church at Franklin, Tenn., beginning on the third Lord's day in August and continuing eleven days. The attendance both day and night was splendid, and the meeting resulted in thirteen baptisms. Brother Boles is in every sense of the word a gospel preacher. I never heard the truth presented with more clearness, simplicity, and power. We never had a better series of sermons delivered in the Franklin church.—F. W. Smith.

Henry, Tenn., September 1.—The meeting at Pottsville, Ky., closed with an overflow house on Tuesday night, after continuing ten days. It was a great meeting. The church is alive. All love the truth. Everybody was happy. Many homes were gladdened. Fathers, mothers, brave young men, and noble young women became obedient. There were from all sources sixty-three additions. I have promised to return in two years. The meeting at Henry continues with good interest. It is a faithful band here holding forth the word of life. Two additions to date.—A. G. Freed.

Paragould, Ark., August 24.—The Lord has blessed us with a grand meeting, as I think. There were sixty-one baptized, five came from the Baptists, and thirty-five were restored, one hundred and one in all. The meeting was held twelve miles west of Paragould, in the community where Croft Academy is located. Brother W. L. Karnes, of Portland, Tenn., did the preaching. He is loved by all, and has the lessons of milk and meat to suit all classes. He is lovable and kind, but true to the Book. Croft Academy is being pushed, and we think we shall have a good school in our community where the Bible will be taught.—P. R. Shewmaker.

Holdenville, Okla., September 4.—I closed a meeting last night at Gum Springs, with forty additions. Thirty-one were baptized and nine "worked over." Gum Springs is a mission point a few miles out from Holdenville. Brother T. H. Wiggs led the song service and did the baptizing. I returned a short time ago from Booneville and Havana, Ark. While at Havana I did some baptizing in a creek, in the same hole of water where I baptized a great many people from twenty-five to thirty-five years ago. It brought many fond recollections to my mind of events of long ago, and I felt like "it was good to be there." Twenty years of my life as a preacher were spent in Arkansas.—R. H. Howard.

Columbia, Tenn., September 6.—Our meeting at Arlington, in Warren County, Tenn., began on the fifth Lord's day in July and continued one week, with fine crowds, and closed with seven baptized. Our Jericho meeting, a mission point in the same county, continued one week and closed with one added. From there I went to Humphreys County and held a meeting at Pruett's Chapel. Three were baptized during this meeting. Brother F. W. Smith and Brother Andy T. Ritchie and his singer, Brother Jeff Derryberry, visited us in this meeting. My next meeting was at Bethel, in Hickman County. Six were added. I am to begin the second Lord's day in September at Brown's Chapel, in Maury County.—F. C. Sowell.

Jackson, Miss., September 1.—I closed a good meeting at Whiteapple, Miss., on August 20. No additions, but still a meeting of interest. Several years ago this community had a congregation with a house of their own in which to meet for worship, but from different causes they have been reduced to only a few scattering members who are now without a house, except a schoolhouse, in which to meet. For a number of years they had not had even a meeting, but for the last few years they have tried to have a meeting once a year, but have not met for Lord's-day worship. At the close of our meeting about twenty members agreed to begin meeting on each Lord's day for worship. I am now in a meeting that starts off very well at Ridgeland, near Jackson. I next go for a meeting at Hillsboro, near Forest, Miss.—T. C. Fox.

Kirkland, Texas, September 5.—Since June I have held meetings as follows: At Mineral Wells, Georgetown, and Taylor, Texas, in July, which resulted in eighty-four additions to these congregations—about fifty baptisms; at Mansfield and at Highland Park, Fort Worth, in August, with sixty-one added—forty-five baptisms. Unusually large crowds attended all these meetings. I am now at Kirkland. I have preached four nights, with fourteen added—ten baptisms. The large tabernacle is filled each evening. There were sixty-eight added here in my meeting last year and more than thirty the year before. The church here is building a nice brick house, which is nearing completion, and it will be the best building in Kirkland. I am to begin at Temple, Texas, on the third Lord's day in this month; thence to Lingleville, Texas; and from there to St. Louis, Mo., for the third and fourth Lord's days in October. Austin Taylor will assist me there.—Horace Busby.

Maury City, Tenn., September 1.—I closed a meeting on Monday night at Cloverdale, near Elbridge, Tenn., with two additions. It is said that we had the largest crowds and best interest they have had there for a number of years. I met a number of old acquaintances there, as I had held a meeting at Hornbeak eighteen years ago. We went over to Hornbeak one day, but I did not get to see Brother John R. Williams, as he was in a meeting out in the country and had left town a few minutes before we arrived. I am now at Maury City, to remain over Lord's day. Fifteen years ago I held a meeting here and established the cause on a permanent basis. Methodism in Maury City was supreme, but we so weakened their cause that they thought for a time that they would have to have a funeral service for the whole affair. They ordered Pigue to their rescue, thinking he could raise the dead, but to no effect. I am told that in recent years they have rallied their forces some. The first of the week I will leave for Alicia, Ark., for a meeting embracing the second and third Lord's days. I have signed propositions for a discussion with a Mr. Whitaker, of Alvord, Texas, the first of October, at Howe, Okla. The exact date will be announced later.—W. F. Lemmons.

Franklin, Ky., September 9.—It was my privilege to be associated with Brother N. B. Hardeman in a series of meetings at Pulaski, Tenn., beginning on August 13 and closing on August 24. Large audiences attended the services, and the interest was at its highest when the meetings were brought to a close. Each audience was given a well-selected lesson of practical and fundamental truth, presented in Brother Hardeman's usual impressive and masterful way. During the meetings some nineteen persons took their stand for the Lord and his church. A finer lot of faithful, Christian people it would be hard to find than those composing the Pulaski church, who, under the able leadership of Brother J. T. Clark and faithful elders, are earnestly striving and contending for "the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints." Their zeal and enthusiasm were demonstrated in the hearty way in which they took part and worked for the success of the meetings. Their faithfulness and hospitality will long be remembered.—Willis H. Allen.

Sedalia, Ky., September 2.—On April 1 I began my first meeting at Gardner, Tenn. I preached for several days and nights to attentive audiences, with what seemed to be good interest, but the meeting closed without any additions. Brother A. B. Reavis directed the song service, and did it well. Following that meeting I was at Lone Oak, Ky., for about two weeks. Our crowds were small and slow to become interested. I baptized one at that place. Brother Farthing, who lives there and works with the church, led the singing. My next meeting was at Scott's Hill, Tenn., for one week, with no additions, but good crowds. Brother A. J. Veteto had charge of the song service. This is his old home, and they appreciate him. I was next with my home congregation at Sedalia, Ky., with Brother A. G. Freed doing the preaching. I baptized nine during his meeting. Brother Harry Hayes, of Hornbeak, Tenn., led the singing. I then went to Union Grove, Ky., where we had large crowds and a fine meeting. This is a strong church, and they work at the Lord's work. I baptized seven and one took membership. Brother Herbert Brinn led the singing. Next I went to Lexington, Tenn., where we continued over two Sundays. This meeting was held in a tent. This was my third annual meeting at Lexington in succession, and I am sure we had more people present at these services, by reason of a large tent, than we had ever had before at that place. We had seven additions to the church—six baptized. The singing was under the direction of Brother A. J. Veteto. My next meeting was at Sharon, Tenn., with a fine hearing at each service, but no additions. Brother Leon Holland had charge of the song service, and he is a wonderful leader. I went from there to Latham, Tenn., where I had one of the best meetings, in many ways, of this year. Large, attentive, interested crowds came to each service. The meeting resulted in eight additions to the church—six by baptism. Brother A. B. Reavis was with me as song leader. At this writing I am in a meeting at Isom, in Maury County, Tenn. This is my fifth annual meeting here. We can hardly seat the people who come. We have had thirty-two additions up to this time (twenty-nine have been baptized). I close here to-morrow and go to South Point Church to begin to-morrow night.—I. A. Douthitt.

Proverbs from An Old Scrapbook.

BY MRS. J. DUDLEY TAYLOR.

There would be more charity if we could learn to remember that a man's faults are simply his virtues carried to excess.

Much worry is mental cowardice.

We admire a rascal for what he might have been and hate a fool for what he is.

He who knows little, and knows it, knows much.

Don't worry your brain about the man in the moon, but study the man in your own overcoat.

When conscience oversleeps herself, it is remorse that awakens.

A woman may so live that her work shall praise her; so live that she may be old and wrinkled, yet beautiful and sweet; so live that she will be sorely missed when she is gone.

Tired Mothers. It's hard work to take care of children and to cook, sweep, wash, sew, and mend besides. Tired mothers should take Hood's Sarsaparilla—it refreshes the blood, improves the appetite, assures restful sleep, and helps in many ways.

The man who refuses to live in the country because there is "so little going on" there has inside his own head a place where there is still less going on.

Birds of prey have no song.

Tact can afford to smile while genius and talent are quarreling.

When poverty comes in at the door, love takes the pattern of her garment, and thinks it will not be so unbecoming, after all.

$1,000 Prize Story for 15 Cents.

You must not miss reading Booth Tarkington's "Alice Adams," the story the whole country is talking about.

Washington, D. C.—Special.—Announcement has just been made by the editor of The Pathfinder that, in keen competition with other publishers, he has paid the highest price for the right to publish "Alice Adams," the great story for which Booth Tarkington recently received the famous $1,000 Pulitzer prize. Hundreds of thousands of copies of this novel have been sold in book form at two dollars each. This amazingly beautiful story of present-day American life, written in Tarkington's most fascinating style, will begin in the Pathfinder on September 23, and be published complete in thirteen issues of that splendid paper. The editor says he will send the paper for this period—thirteen weeks—to new subscribers who write to The Pathfinder, 209 Langdon Station, Washington, D. C., and inclose fifteen cents in coin or stamps. You can also order for your friends, at fifteen cents each; but send at once, so as not to miss the start of the story, September 23. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, but he believes the fact that The Pathfinder is growing so fast proves it pays to invest in new friends.

HARDEMAN'S TABERNACLE SERMONS

A series of evangelistic sermons preached by N. B. Hardeman during the Great Nashville Meeting, held in the Ryman Auditorium, March 28-April 16. These sermons ring true to the Old Book, and have a charm of style and freshness of illustration that put them in a class by themselves.

All the profits derived from the sale of these books will be used to create a fund to help poor boys and girls attend Freed-Hardeman College.

The book will contain about 350 pages, with pictures of Hardeman, Pullias, and the audience, a history of the meeting, about twenty sermons, and an address delivered by Brother Pullias before the Exchange Club.

Bound in cloth, stamped in gold. Price, $1.50.

Book now being mailed to advanced subscribers.

Send all orders to N. B. HARDEMAN, Henderson, Tenn.

MURINE Night and Morning.
Have Strong, Healthy Eyes. If they Tire, Itch, Smart or Burn, if Sore, Irritated, Inflamed or Granulated, use Murine often. Soothes, Refreshes. Safe for Infant or Adult. At all Druggists. Write for Free Eye Book. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

Dodson's Liver Tone

Instead of Calomel

Calomel is quicksilver. It attacks the bones and paralyzes the liver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it will regulate the liver, stomach, and bowels better than calomel, without sickening or salivating you. Fifteen million bottles sold.

A BRAND-NEW BOOK

"OLD LIMBER"

OR

THE TALE OF THE TAYLORS

By DeLONG RICE

"ALF and BOB TAYLOR, with their eloquence, their fiddles, and their fox hounds, have wrought for themselves a niche of eternal melody in the hearts of their country."

So states the author of this little book, which we present as the best product of the pen of DeLong Rice.

With a "Cast of Characters extending from a President of the United States to a fox hound," the story touches a wide range of human sentiment; and through it all is the aroma of crackling camp fires and the music of the chase.

THE BOOK is beautifully printed and bound, appropriately illustrated, and packed in a neat gift box, ready for mailing.

PRICE, $1.00 THE COPY,
POSTPAID TO ANY ADDRESS.

Correspondence with Bookstores and News Agencies is invited.

Write to us to-day.

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

McShane Bell Foundry Co.
BALTIMORE, MD.
CHURCH, CHIME and PEAL
BELLS
Memorials
a Specialty

JACOBS & COMPANY
SPECIAL ADVERTISING AGENTS
PRINTERS DESIGNERS
PHOTO-ENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS
Catalogues —
— a Specialty
HOME OFFICE
CLINTON, S.C.

Tribute to a Life Companion.

Mrs. Fannie E. Mills, wife of G. F. Mills, departed this life on August 15, 1922, at 10:30 A.M. On the eve of August 14, as the glow of the setting sun faded into night, she crossed her hands upon her breast and entered the valley of the shadow of death. She lingered until 10:30 A.M., August 15, at which time her spirit left the house of clay and went back to God who gave it. Her spirit is in his keeping until the resurrection morn.

For fifty-five years, lacking twenty-four days, she was my companion, friend, helpmate, and wife. For more than a half century she was all that these four words imply in their superlative sense. She was ever ready to sacrifice her own pleasure and comfort for the comfort and pleasure of her family, and, above and beyond all of her virtues, she was a Christian, the highest compliment that can be paid to mortals here below. I am satisfied and confident to leave her in the care of God.

O, the sadness of death! The death of our friends and loved ones is sad under any and all circumstances. The mother sorrows to give up her babe; it is sad to see the youth depart, so full of life; in full-grown maturity we sorrow to give them up; even in old age, when the sheaf is full-grown and ripe for the garner, it is a pang of grief to give them up.

O, the mystery of death, the mystery of life! All is mystery—the trees, the plants, the rocks, and the hills—all a mystery. If it were not so, we would have no God. But thanks be to God, by faith we can look across the mystic river of death, and by revelation on up to the city of God, the home of the soul.

"O, what could check the rising sigh,
What earthly pleasures could heaven give,

If, travelers through this vale of tears,

We saw no better world beyond?"

My wife was born in the State of Georgia on May 12, 1843. At three years of age her father, S. C. Houston, moved to Alabama, and after some years on to North Mississippi, in Tippah County. We were married on September 8, 1867. In October of the same year we were baptized into Christ.

She was the mother of ten children—six boys and four girls. She saw them all grow to maturity, except a little girl baby that died in infancy.

In 1894 we moved to Texas with all of our children, except our oldest boy and oldest daughter. They were married and had families. In some eighteen months after coming to Texas our second oldest boy died at the age of about thirty-one. Some years after

Not a Laxative

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe.

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it. Try it to-day.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

For the HAIR—

To make it soft, fluffy, and free from dandruff, use

TETTERINE

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

CANCERS CURED AT THE KELLAM HOSPITAL

The Kellam Hospital cures Cancers, Sores without the use of Burns, and Chronic Tumors, Ulcers, X-Ray of the knife, X-Ray, Radium, Acids, or Serum, and we have cured over 90 per cent of the many hundreds of sufferers treated during the past twenty-three years. Ministers treated free.

KELLAM HOSPITAL, Inc.
1617 West Main St. Richmond Va.

we came here, our daughter, with her husband and family, moved here. She lived only a short time after coming here. But we did not sorrow as those who have no hope, they having been baptized into Christ. Our oldest boy has never moved to Texas. He now lives in Covington, Tenn. All of our children have been baptized into Christ.

The children were all with her in her sickness and death, except our oldest boy. Her four sons and two sons-in-law were her pallbearers. Funeral services were held at home, in the yard. Brother Leon Reeves and Brother Horace Busby spoke words of comfort and cheer to us. Without the comforting words of these good brethren, how could I have borne that long first night of our separation?

Will we know each other there? I do not know. But will it not be enough to have God for our Father, Christ for our Elder Brother, and the good of all climes and ages for our companions?

I can stand on my front porch and see the tombs in the city of the dead where my wife quietly sleeps, awaiting the resurrection morn.

"Dearest loved one, we must lay thee
In the peaceful grave's embrace;
But thy memory we will cherish
Till we see thy heavenly face."

Wife had a strong, vigorous constitution. She never had fever, ague, or such sickness after we were married until she had passed the meridian of life. Some eighteen years ago she had a nervous breakdown, from which she never entirely recovered, the immediate cause of her death. She had shingles in one side of her face, from which she suffered very much, which resulted in leakage of the heart and blood pressure. For the last eight or ten days she suffered no pain, and died as quietly as if going to sleep.

I have written these lines with my own hand in adoration and love for the life she lived while we were together for fifty-five years minus twenty-four days. I believe that she would approve of my writing them rather than any one else.

Her husband,

G. F. MILLS.

Route 3, Midlothian, Texas.

Trying to Persuade Some.

BY H. M. PHILLIPS.

There is a duty resting on every one in persuading all to obey the gospel, but so few seem to be engaged in the work. In 2 Cor. 5: 11 Paul expresses the idea of persuading men. The word of God is what is to be used, and not worldly ways. The Scriptures are God's methods for persuading men. Such was the idea impressed by Abraham (Luke 16: 31), also used by Paul (Acts 28: 23); and Jesus commanded that the gospel be preached, and it needs to be obeyed to be saved, and not some man's teaching or ways. It is all right to persuade as long as it is done in God's way, but so often such is not done.

Some ways used to-day are enough to make angels weep. The old system of the mourner's bench was bad; and yet if enough Bible is told to the mourner, it might not be a failure. Deathbed scenes excite, as well as a chorus of shouting, and some claim salvation by such processes. A woman joined a church to get her husband in the religious way; but he did not follow, and she did not believe in the church. It was a sin on her part, because it was not of faith (Rom. 14: 23); and it is no wonder the man stayed out. A man and his wife agreed to agree with each other, and he felt like that would get his wife in the church of Christ. So often one will neglect the service of the church and go with the other, thinking that to be the way. At least one-fourth of a thought would get a sensible one to see that is not holding to what one claims to believe. Some women quit teaching the Bible to children in order to satisfy the idea of a man who is out of the church, and still the man never comes in.

There are many other cases that I might give, but these are enough to get the person who thinks to see the difference in such ways and God's way. If the word of God, preached and lived by people, will not cause sinners to turn, I know of nothing that will. The gospel is God's power unto salvation (Rom. 1: 16), and that ought to be used.

Too many people to-day are sacrificing the truth to get a lot of people to come in, as they think, when really they may not be getting in at all.

Let us persuade much and never let up, but be sure to do it God's way, and not any way to attract the people

Selections.

Do not get discouraged. It is often the last key in the bunch that opens the lock.

Faith joins us to God, just as companionship joins a boy to a friend in whom he believes and trusts.

"God hath despised them," the Bible says of evildoers. How terrible it is to have God think little of us!

BOILS Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

CANCER

HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

Get a Good Night's Rest

Sleep is just as necessary to health as food. The ability to sleep depends on the condition of the nerves.

Dr. Miles' Nervine insures a good night's rest.

It will help any nervous condition from sleeplessness to epilepsy. Your money back if the first bottle fails to benefit you. You'll find Dr. Miles' Medicines in all drug stores.

$362.50 Commission On One Order

We offer a very attractive commission proposition to responsible men selling our line of guaranteed monuments, in Marble and Granite. On one deal our Mr. Fuller of North Carolina, made $362.50; Mr. Bryan of West Virginia, $206.25; Mr. Duncan, of Tennessee, $193.25; Mr. Willard, of Illinois, $131.25. These commissions have all been earned within the last 60 days. We have many other agents making from $200.00 to $400.00 per month.

Our monuments are well finished. No trouble to sell. Write for full particulars and confidential contract.

National Marble & Granite Corporation
Dept. A., BALL GROUND, GA.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

SOLD 50 YEARS — A FINE GENERAL TONIC

If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

An Urgent Call.

BY A. A. RUNNER.

Shall we suffer the brethren at Naish Springs, W. Va., to lose their house of worship? I can truly say of them that they are a faithful, struggling band of disciples of Christ, doing all that they possibly can do to build up New Testament Christianity and extend the Master's kingdom in a region where this work is needed. They built a neat and comfortable house of worship at a time when building material was at its highest, and they built because they were compelled to do so in order to have a place to meet, as they were refused the use of the schoolhouse, and this left them with quite a debt on their shoulders. It would be a wicked thing to allow those brethren to lose their house just for the lack of a little timely help upon the part of the brotherhood, which is abundantly able to help them out of their present distressing circumstances. I sincerely hope and pray that all who may read these lines will hasten to send a liberal donation to Brother Noah Brothers, Route 1, Box 31, Willow, W. Va., to help them save their house. Let all help, and help now, while this help will save their house. Don't delay, but help them now.

The Strawberry Meeting.

BY J. D. TANT.

I have just closed a great meeting at Strawberry, Ark. Forty-seven were added to the church there. Twenty-one came back and twenty-six were baptized. Five classes were set to work in Bible study on Sunday, a committee was appointed to build a tabernacle to hold summer meetings under, and they will paint their church house. Three preachers live at Strawberry who became aroused and decided to do mission work in that part. Brother C. E. Smith, of Birdell, Ark., was our song leader, and he is among the best that ever helped me in a meeting. I count on great work at Strawberry, and will help them in another meeting if they go to work; if they do not, I have no time to waste.

To brethren writing me about Quitman, I beg to state that I live sixty miles north of Little Rock, in the foothills of the Ozark Mountains. No finer water nor better health can be found. We raise corn, cotton, and all kinds of fruits and vegetables. You can buy good improved farms of from forty to eighty acres from twenty to thirty-five dollars per acre. We are going to build up a strong church of Christ at Quitman. We have already started the fight. We have one of the best high schools in the State. I will be at home by the first of December to help you find a home. Brethren who think more of educating their children and surrounding them with good church influences than they do of raising hogs and getting rich quick will be gladly welcomed among us. Brethren who are writing me about hunting and fishing would do well to seek a more congenial place, as this is a poor man's country where we all work and have no time for sports. I live in forty-five miles of Morrillion Christian College, and Arkansas has already produced some of the greatest preachers in the world. Come and help in the work.

Vacation Is Over.

Again the school bell rings at morning and at noon; again with tens of thousands the hardest kind of work has begun, the renewal of which is a mental and physical strain to all except the most rugged.

The little girl that a short time ago had roses in her cheeks and the little boy whose lips were then so red you would have insisted that they had been "kissed by strawberries" have already lost something of the appearance of health.

Now is a time when many children should be given a tonic, which may prevent much serious trouble. No other is so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strengthens the nerves, perfects digestions and assimilation. It aids mental development by building up the whole system.

Equally good as a medicinal preparation are Hood's Pills, which are so well adapted for both children and adults. In small doses they are a gentle laxative, in larger doses an active cathartic.

DOCTOR DISCOVERS NEW RUPTURE REMEDY

Akron, Ohio.—A prominent Ohio physician has discovered a wonderful new method which is completely revolutionizing the treatment of rupture. This remedy is totally different from any other—no operation, no cutting, and nothing to "rub on." Any one can use it without pain or danger and without losing an hour from work.

Relief is felt almost immediately, and recovery is usually so rapid as to seem miraculous. Any one who is ruptured may obtain full information regarding this remarkable discovery by writing E. H. Scott, Hernia Specialist, Suite 525G, Scott Building, Akron, Ohio, who will send interesting booklet in plain sealed wrapper.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting

CAPUDINE

CHARACTER OR THE MAKING OF THE MAN

SUPREMELY
ELOQUENT

DELIGHTFULLY INSTRUCTIVE

By E. W. CARMACK

AGENTS WANTED

SHOULD BE READ
BY EVERYBODY

The verdict of the thousands who have read the book is: "No lecture extant is more interesting, charming, and philosophical. It is a classic and easily ranks with the best productions of modern authors. A million copies should be sold." Thousands of copies have been sold in a few days. It is beautifully bound in sheep ooze, or library binding. Write at once to the publishers.

PRICE, $1.50 THE COPY

ADDRESS

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.

Department

NASHVILLE - - - TENN.

YOU ARE WANTED for a GOOD POSITION at a BIG SALARY

All that you need is training. Draughon's Practical Business College will train you, at your home, within only a few months. This is the College that has trained more than 300,000 men and women for good positions. Ask for big book, "Guide to Business Success." It's FREE. Address DRAUGHON'S BUSINESS COLLEGE, Dept. GA, Nashville, Tenn.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL

Look at the address label that comes with each copy of the Gospel Advocate. If it bears a date that has passed, please send renewal of subscription—$2.00 a year.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE
Nashville, Tenn.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

Gospel Advocate

Volume LXIV. No. 38.

NASHVILLE, TENN., SEPTEMBER 21, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

"The New Birth".....	889
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	892
The Creation Declares the Creator—"The Poor Have the Gospel Preached to Them"—"Go"—"Bear Ye One Another's Burdens"—News from the Palmetto State— Notes from Atlanta, Ga.
CURRENT COMMENT.....	897
EDITORIAL.....	898
Questions on "Bible Things by Bible Names" and on "Christians in Denominations"—"No More War"— Evolution and the Bible.
A Challenge to the Church of Christ.....	901
HOME READING.....	902
TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT.....	908
EVANGELISTIC NOTES.....	904
OBITUARIES.....	906
Henderson — Frasier — Hughes — Read — Matthews — Barron.
FIELD REPORTS.....	908
The Work in New York City.....	910

THE NEW BIRTH.

[The following from D. Lipscomb is a selection from the Gospel Advocate of 1876. It will be of interest and profit to all of our young readers, if not to the older ones.—H. Leo B.]

A young brother at Princeton College, New Jersey, writes us that Dr. McCosh thinks "water" in John 3: 5, in speaking of the birth of water and Spirit, refers simply to a state of purification, that it is simply a symbol of purity, and asks our thoughts upon it.

The trouble with our learned men is, they learn to reason and philosophize, and rely upon these rather than in childlike simplicity to sit at the feet of Jesus and learn of him the lessons as he teaches them.

We apprehend that Dr. McCosh gets his view from other sources than the Bible. The trouble with all, especially the learned, and more particularly those committed to the maintenance of any system of theology, is that they rely fully as much upon their reasonings and the authority of their church teachings as upon the Bible, or they unconsciously so intermingle them as not to discern what is of the system and what of the Bible. But on questions of this character nothing is of authority save the word of God. God prescribed his own terms of entrance into his kingdom, and just such conditions as to him seemed good. He did it by virtue of his absolute authority in the premises, and man can only learn those conditions prescribed and comply with them. Man's approval or disapproval changes them not in the least.

I apprehend, too, that Dr. McCosh holds the idea of an invisible kingdom here on earth. Of this I have never been able to find any evidence. Christ has a kingdom here composed of men and women in the flesh. They are the obedient believers in the Lord Christ. The kingdom has its spiritual and moral as well as mental development, and these qualities in the abstract are invisible and intangible to material beings. But they have their development only in and through the material, flesh-and-blood members of the church of God on earth. Hence, there is no such idea as an invisible kingdom on earth, any more than there can be an invisible man or woman on earth. The kingdom on earth is composed of visible beings; it cannot be invisible.

The human beings who compose this kingdom are composed of soul, mind, and body. The soul, mind, and body has each its peculiar and appropriate manifestation in life, its development and work in the kingdom. No man is in the kingdom of God until his mind, soul, and body are brought into that kingdom, into union and harmony with God. In other words, soul, mind, and body must be brought into the kingdom before the man is in the kingdom.

Christ's kingdom is adapted to man and is composed on earth of these visible beings, and is a visible kingdom builded by God. Then the entrance of a visible being into a visible, tangible kingdom must be visible. The invisible part of man may by invisible operations or processes be brought into harmony with the invisible spirit of the kingdom, but the man is not in it until he, the visible, material person, enters into the church of God.

A man in Germany may bring his thoughts and feelings into harmony with the institutions of America, but he is not a member of the American nation until those feelings produce the action that brings the man into the government of America. The mental and spiritual processes that change his mind and feelings are as invisible as his spirit, which is the subject of this change. The step by which the relationship of the body is changed must be as ostensible as is the body whose relationship to the kingdom is changed.

This much as a starting point. Christ tells Nicodemus in John 3: 3: "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God." Nicodemus, not understanding this, and having before his mind a fleshly birth, says: "How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born?" Christ tells him, unless he be born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God, showing it is a spiritual, not a fleshly birth, and adds: "That which is born of the flesh is flesh [only your flesh could be affected by fleshly birth], and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit." The meaning of which is, it is not your flesh, but your spirit, that is to be renewed or changed in the new birth. This spirit being thus renewed or changed, leads the flesh, the body in which the spirit dwells, into the new state, into the kingdom of God. The changes which operate on the spirit are invisible; the steps which the body takes under lead of the spirit must be visible and perceptible. The spirit dwells in the body. The spirit in its feelings and inclinations may be changed, but it cannot itself pass into the new state until the body in which it dwells so passes.

Christ, then, was instructing Nicodemus on this change essential to enter into the kingdom of God. He gives it in general terms and presents it under the figure of a birth. A birth changes the state of an individual; so this change is called a "birth." The birth, of course, is a figure. It is not a literal birth. A rule of interpretation of language is, the literal meaning of words is to be taken unless the sense requires a different one. The context shows "birth" to be not literal, but figurative. But is there any necessity for making other members of the sentence figurative or symbolical? Indeed, we cannot, save in highly figurative and enigmatical sentences, intended to conceal rather than reveal the idea, make all the members of a sentence figurative. Such sentences are exceedingly difficult of understanding. Again, the Spirit and water stand closely connected together. Together they constitute one member of a sentence. If the word "water" is symbolical, the word "Spirit" must be also. Of two parts of a member of a sentence, one part cannot be figurative and the other literal.

Dr. McCosh lets his rheology in this do violence to his grammar. So far from the context and sense requiring a figurative or symbolical meaning to be attached to the word "water," they both forbid it. It must be literal.

Another means of determining the sense attached to a word is to find what meaning those who heard it, those who lived in the same country and age, understood it. We pass by for the present the New Testament writers, the most important witnesses in determining this, and we ask: How was this language understood in the early history of the church? In the early days of the church the whole church regarded baptism as the new birth. It is called by all the early writers of the church the regeneration. We may begin with Barnabas, Hermes, Clemens, Ignatius (a disciple of the apostle John and personally acquainted with Peter), and Paul, of the first century, and Justin Martyr, Irenæus, and Clement, of the second, and they all understood here that the birth of the water was baptism. They called baptism the new birth, the regeneration.

Justin says: "We bring them to some place where there is water, and they are regenerated by the same way of regeneration by which we are regenerated; for they are washed in the name of the Father for the remission of sins."

Wall, in his history of infant baptism, and a believer in it, says: "For the first fourteen centuries of the Christian era every writer believed that this passage 'born of water,' referred to baptism; not one single one excepted." Certainly if the context required another than the literal meaning, those compeers of the apostles and the writers on religion of the first fourteen centuries would have discovered it.

Not only is this true, but every modern commentator of any ability or permanent character for scholarship so regards it. Mr. Calvin was probably the first to suggest that the birth of water might not be baptism, but he afterwards so uses it, clearly indicating that he was not decided in his judgment that it was not baptism.

Mr. Wesley says of John 3: 5: "By water, then, as a means, the water of baptism, we are regenerated or born again, whence it is called by the apostle 'the washing of regeneration.'"

Albert Barnes, the most popular commentator of modern times, a Presbyterian, says: "By water here is evidently signified baptism."

Every Confession of Faith or Church Discipline known to me, including Dr. McCosh's own Confession of Faith, refers to this verse as teaching the necessity of baptism. The religious scholarship of the world has decided beyond all doubt that there is no reason why the literal meaning of the word should be changed, but that the context requires the simple, plain, literal meaning of the word as giving the true idea intended to be conveyed by the Savior.

But the sure way of determining the Savior's meaning is to let him and the Holy Spirit explain his meaning. Here he was telling that the birth of the Spirit and of water was essential to an admittance into the kingdom of God. Afterwards he plainly tells his apostles what they must teach sinners to do in order to the pardon of sins and an entrance into the kingdom of God. He gives the commission under which they were to disciple the nations of the world and to bring them into the kingdom of God, in literal, specific commands. Matthew (28: 19, 20) records this commission: "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." (Mark 16: 15, 16) records it: "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized is to be born of water and the Spirit. This is letting damned." When a man is saved, he is in the kingdom of God. Just exactly what it takes to save him from his sins, it takes to put him into the kingdom of heaven. Then the Savior uses the expression, "He that believeth and is baptized," as the exact equivalent of, "A man must be born of water and the Spirit." To believe and be baptized is to be born of the water and Spirit. This is letting the Savior explain his own language, and is beyond all controversy or doubt true.

Not only does the Savior thus explain his own language, but the Holy Spirit came to guide the apostles into all truth, and to call to their remembrance all things taught them by the Savior. The Holy Spirit came on the day of Pentecost and took up his abode with them and through them directed men and women into the church or kingdom of God. The first time they were guided or directed into this church by the Spirit was on the day of Pentecost, as recorded in the second chapter of Acts of the Apostles. The Spirit presents the testimony and concludes with the direction: "Know assuredly, that God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ." Here the Spirit teaches the necessity of believing. They believe and cry in tremor of soul and anguish of heart: "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" The Holy Spirit, in Peter, answers: "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." Remission of sins here and salvation promised by the Savior are the same. Whatever brings to remission of sins brings into the church or kingdom of God. Hence, the Holy Spirit conclusively teaches that to be born of water and Spirit is to believe, repent, and be baptized.

We might pursue this subject further and show that every single case of conversion mentioned in the New Testament, after the opening of the kingdom, involved the introduction into the visible kingdom of God, and that faith and baptism were the uniform conditions of entrance into that kingdom, and, hence, constituted the birth that introduced them into the kingdom of heaven. Examine the case of the conversion of the Samaritans and of the eunuch as recorded in the eighth chapter of Acts, the conversion of Saul in the ninth, of Cornélius in the tenth, of Lydia and the jailer in the sixteenth, and of those at Ephesus in the nineteenth chapter of the Acts of Apostles, and see that the steps taken to enter into the kingdom were faith in Christ and baptism in the name of Jesus Christ our Lord and Savior. We do not see how a proposition could be more fully and clearly proved than is this.

The proof on the subject is by no means exhausted. The new birth puts us into Christ. We are born by this spiritual birth, the birth of water and the Spirit, into Christ, that in him we may enjoy all spiritual blessings and favors. We are said to be baptized into Christ. Rom. 6: 3: "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death?" Gal. 3: 27: "For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ." To be born into Christ and to be baptized into Christ on our faith is the same. It is true nothing is here said of faith, but it is written to those believing and is necessarily implied. There are some passages of Scripture, too, in which salvation or remission of sins is attributed to faith without a mention of baptism. Christ says: "Even so must the Son of man be lifted up; that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have eternal life." "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life; and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life." Paul says, "For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus," and then adds as explanatory of how faith makes them children: "For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ." (Gal. 3: 26, 27.) Faith makes children of God by causing them to be baptized into Christ. In him they are children. Then, where salvation is attributed to baptism without faith, faith is necessarily implied as a condition of pardon; and when it is attributed to faith without baptism being expressed, baptism is implied, since faith leads into baptism. God hath joined the two together. One is the leading, living principle that connects us with God, that makes us love him, trust him, obey him; the other is the expression of that faith in God's appointed way. Baptism is scriptural and acceptable only as it is the expression of faith in God through Christ.

Gospel Advocate Company.

BY H. LEO B.

Every home ought to have many good books in it. New books of great value should be added to the home library and the young people should be encouraged to read wholesome literature. The Gospel Advocate Company will help you to select just such books as will be a blessing to your home.

"Center Shots at Sin. By Arthur Talmage Abernethy. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

An arsenal of religious ammunition, assembled by a strategist experienced in fighting uphill. The author is a strong and virile thinker; his style, clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eye-opener.

"The Glorious Gospel." By Adam K. Adcock. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

"No one except a thorough and devout student of the Scriptures could have written 'The Glorious Gospel.' The author shows excellent analytic and synthetic power and knowledge in the selection and organization of the biblical teaching on the various subjects treated." (Christian Journal.)

"Sermons for the People." By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

Few books of sermons combine the qualities of interest, instruction, and inspiration to the degree in which they are united in this volume. The author is a master in the field of popular sermonizing, and some of his best work is to be found in this collection. There is not a dull page in the book. The text fairly sparkles with original and apt narratives.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume I. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

The gospel is always attractive when presented by W. H. Book. These sermons were not written in a study, but were stenographically reported as the burning words were uttered by the master preacher, under the inspiration of the great audience which flocks to hear him every week.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume II. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

A companion volume to the author's first book of sermons. Reported in the same way and published because of the unusual demand the first volume created.

"The Indiana Pulpit." Edited by W. H. Cook. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

This series of twenty-two practical sermons, each discourse being the best one preached by as many leading Indiana preachers, presents vital Christianity in a most attractive way. "'The Indiana Pulpit' will be especially helpful to young preachers. The topics are varied and the discourses are from men of learning and experience. It will make each who reads it better, and it will strengthen the faith of all who carefully peruse its pages." (George A. Miller.)

"Lights on Scripture Truths." (Former title, "Side Windows.") By Mattie M. Boteler. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.

A valuable ready-reference compendium of original, forceful and apt illustrations for the busy preacher, Sunday-school teacher, and religious worker. The striking originality and practical usefulness of each illustration puts this volume in a class all by itself. A carefully prepared topical index and alphabetically arranged table of contents add greatly to its usefulness. Its distinct value is that the author has followed the example of the great Teacher in illustrating profound truths by examples familiar to all. "I found one illustration that was well worth the price of the book." (S. M. Bernard.)

"Sermon Notes from the Ministry of Jesus." By Mattie M. Boteler. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.65.

In this new collection of decidedly fresh and suggestive material on the life of Christ we have a forceful and significant book, which will prove invaluable to young ministers, teachers, and church workers in general. Miss Boteler, a graceful and original writer, has presented a study of the life of Christ from an entirely new point of view, so arranged as to make it a complete worker's companion and encyclopedia on the teachings of the Master. Her work is always eagerly awaited by ministers and Christian workers.

"Soul-Saving Revival Sermons." By John L. Brandt. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

A series of nineteen thought-provoking, evangelistic sermons by one of the most eminent preachers of the day. These sermons relate the principles of Christianity to the everyday life with a keen insight and sympathetic understanding. They are educational in plan, evangelistic in tone, virile in thought, and vigorous in expression. Just the book for the minister who wishes to foster and develop the revival spirit in himself and his congregation.

"Illustrative Incidents for Public Speakers." By Will H. Brown. Cloth, 12mo., illustrated. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

This voluminous collection of entirely new illustrations will be an invaluable aid to all public speakers, and especially to those who are contemplating entering upon the public forum. It is a guide to public oratory, as well as a collection of apt and original illustrations. The author's marked success as a speaker, as well as a writer, is quite sufficient guarantee of the superior value of this book. One authority says: "The book is very rich in classified illustrations of the sort that can be really used."

"Wit and Humor for Public Speakers." By Will H. Brown. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

A collection of bright, breezy, brief, humorous anecdotes and stories alphabetically classified under subjects, with a careful index. As original, fresh, and usable as its companion volume, "Illustrative Incidents for Public Speakers." "The finest collection of pointed stories and witticisms I have ever seen." (H. H. Peters.)

Things That Make You Bigger.

Learn to listen.

Take kindly suggestions kindly.

Keep calm. Go slow, but keep going.

Be brief. Never steal time from another.

Bury every regret. Work and live in the now.

Live each day as though it were to be the last.

Never hurt another's feelings. Be considerate.

Never betray the trust and confidence of a friend.

Fear no man. You are as big as you do—no bigger.

Time given to the help and happiness of others is never wasted.

Eliminate worry. Go to sleep in peace, with happy thoughts.

Never be afraid to carry a right thing through. Always be strong.

Put your confidence into your own heart, then lock it up and throw the key away.

Never divide your attention. If a thing is important enough for a part of your thoughts, it is important enough for all. When you concentrate, burn a hole in the thing at hand.—Selected.

OUR WORKERS.

BY H. LEO BOLES.

We have a number of worthy young men who are gospel preachers in the field working for the Gospel Advocate and its publications. Among them may be mentioned B. D. Morehead, Thomas A. Nicks, Samson Lester, A. B. Senseney, and Robert Williams. Any favors that may be shown them will be gratefully received by them and highly appreciated by the Gospel Advocate Company. They are worthy of your encouragement and help. Some of them are working during vacation to be able to finish their education. They offer you good books at reasonable prices. You will benefit yourself as well as help them by placing an order with them.

Our Contributors

The Creation Declares the Creator.

BY SAMUEL C. BOYCE.

As indicated by the title, the purpose of this article is to point out the incontestable marks of the Creator as attested by creation. Also, that it may perchance suggest to the mind of the reader that God is not infinitely removed from us by time and space; that in an age long since past he withdrew himself from association and contact with mortals and secluded himself in the hidden and unapproachable recesses of infinitude; but a beloved Creator, "not far from every one of us: for in him we live, and move, and have our being." The proofs of a Deity here advanced will not be carried into the recondite places of philosophy and there enwrapped in the ambiguity of questions unsolved and controversies yet unsettled; for the evidences of the reality of God lay not in subtleties comprehended by a few, but in certain palpable facts intuitively grasped by all. The subject will be considered in the light, luster, and fullness of Revelation, without which man has invariably ascribed the origin and glory of things created to gods of their own invention or blind contingency.

This article is not of the nature of a defense, as though the existence of God is questionable; the reality of God needs no defense. It is rather a setting forth of those declarations of a Creator observable in creation.

It is pertinent and of paramount importance to note that man cannot withdraw farther away from God than ignorance of him. He cannot prove the nonexistence of him. To say there is no God, man must not only find positive evidence to that effect in objects which are accessible to him (which evidence cannot be found), but also in the breadth and length of infinitude that no trace of him could be found, else at the very place he failed to search, for aught he knew, God could be found. In quest of such information, the records of not only this earth, but the archives of the world, must be searched. Upon such an errand he must have scaled the ramparts of the universe, become intimate with every intelligent being and ascertained from each that never did the revelation of a Deity visit him. Ere he could say there is no God, he must institute a search backward throughout all the hidden recesses of a past eternity, explore the plains of the great expanse in every direction, cross the outer boundaries of interminable space, and gather throughout the wide realms of immensity that no exhibition of a living and reigning God could be found. He must not only arrogate to himself, a frail, ignorant creature of the dust, omnipotence, omnipresence, and omniscience; he must make himself God. The futility and utter impossibility of proving the nonexistence of God is so clearly evident that only "the fool hath said in his heart, There is no God."

To say there is a God, we have but to lift up the eyes and behold the many incontestable marks of him imprinted upon the things created here below. A further extended search would be of a corroborative nature and not of necessity.

With these introductory remarks indicative of the nature, scope, and purpose of this article, an immediate prosecution of arguments for the proof of a Deity may now be made.

The universe, with its infinite, incomprehensible immensities and stupendous works of creation which "were framed by the word of God," arrests the most serious reflections and commands the profoundest thoughts of man. The grandeur, the beauty, and the majesty of "the heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handiwork." "Day unto day" they utter speech; though silent, it is exceedingly convincing, and overwhelmingly conclusive, declaring the mighty Creator under whose invisible hand these stupendous works were wrought. "Night unto night" the starry heavens, with the marks of their Creator indelibly stamped upon their majestic brow, a language is written, universally read and comprehended, proclaiming the wisdom and knowledge of God.

In their reality they declare the reality of God; "for the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made." In the absence of the creative work of God, darkness was upon the face of the deep, and the earth was without form and void. "I beheld the earth, and lo, it was without form and void; and the heavens, and they had no light." If there was no God, the universe would be a state of non-entity.

As the actuality of things that are made declares the Creator, so also their arrangement and disposition "showeth knowledge of him." For though any delicate and intricate mechanism, as a watch, may be in complete possession of all the parts affecting its proper and efficient operation, as the mainspring elasticity or the glass transparency; yet, if huddled together without regard to arrangement and disposition, it would represent nothing more than chaos or a confused medley. The physical economy would exhibit a like chaotic and disordered state had not the designing hand of Infinite Wisdom placed each celestial body at the predetermined location and at the exact distance indispensable to its operation. It is inconceivable to a rational mind how man by any method of reason or flight of imagination could delude himself with the false idea that the heavenly bodies by blind chance, of themselves, moved out into the great expanse at the proper distance to give the exact amount of heat and light necessary for the existence of animal and vegetable life and to produce the grateful variety of seasons, with their ever-changing cycles, bringing delight and happiness to its spectators. If we can discern in the workmanship of the watch an intelligent designing hand, much more in the handiwork of the firmament may the invisible hand of Divine Wisdom be seen.

Furthermore, if the great physical bodies were acted upon by no other law than blind chance, it would exert a like force upon all bodies. All would be in a state of rest, or all would be in motion. But when it has been ascertained by observation that a part of the great physical economy is static and a part mobile, a condition directly antipodal to chance is presented.

Withdrawing our inquiry from a survey of the heavens to a study of this lower world, the habitation of man, no less declarative exhibition of the Creator in the things which have been made is discoverable. "But ask now the beasts, and they shall teach thee; and the fowls of the air, and they shall tell thee; or speak to the earth, and it shall teach thee; and the fishes of the sea shall declare unto thee. Who knoweth not in all these that the hand of the Lord hath wrought this?" Inquire of the beasts of the fields, the fowls of the air, and the fishes of the sea, "Whence the origin?" and they will answer in terms stronger than language that God is their maker. The towering mountains, the majestic hills, bear mute testimony of him, while the fruitful seasons and the refreshing rains are witnesses of him, which the apostle Paul avers have ever been present with the sons and daughters of men.

And finally in man, the culminating height of God's creation, who was made a little lower than the angels and given dominion over all that had been made, is there a portrayal of the image of his Creator. He has been endowed with mental faculties which Sir William Hamilton declares is the only thing about him great. And the great apostle to the Gentiles says that when the mind is renewed, it is after the image of him who created him. Though the physical brain of man may be subjected to the severest analytical dissection, nothing will be found within its fleshly folds to originate knowledge. Its function is that of a receptacle upon which thought is superimposed, rather than an originator of it. The ultimate cause of the ability of man to think and comprehend must be found in a higher source—the infinite, the inscrutable, and the unsearchable wisdom of God.

And now, looking away from the temporal things that are seen to the eternal things that are not seen, "lift up your eyes on high and see who created these," who brought us from the chambers of nonentity that we might be partakers not only of his glory in the world, but in a higher and better one. When at last our earthly career is about to close; when the somber shadows of the grave begin to fall across our pathway, and, looking backward, we behold for the last time the form of this lower creation, which way we shall not pass again, may it be with a happy consciousness that we have fought a good fight, that we have kept the faith, and that we have believed that God is. And when we have entered the vale of shadows and God shall bring us again from the dead, the scintillating light of a higher world shall burst upon our brow, where we shall live with God and Christ forever in a better country, a continuing city.

"The Poor Have the Gospel Preached to Them."

BY F. B. S.

This is the language of Jesus addressed to John's disciples who came from John to Jesus to inquire if he was the one sent, or "do we look for another?" Jesus did not answer their question directly, but told them to go back to John and tell what they saw and heard. He made no affirmation and offered no argument except his actions. He told them to tell John again what they saw and heard—that is, "the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised up, and the poor have good tidings ["the gospel"—margin] preached to them." (Matt. 11: 4, 5.) Somebody has said that under present-day conditions Jesus might have added, "and the poor will have to preach it." It frequently does but little good to preach the gospel to the rich, for they have so many other things to attract their attention they will give but little time to the gospel. Then, again, the rich have so many other things to do that they have no time to preach the gospel. Usually when a preacher gets very much of this world's goods, he loses his interest in preaching. Most of our preachers come from poor countries and have been reared in poor families. Most of the missionary work which we do is done by poor people, and, if supported at all, they are supported by the poor churches. When churches get rich, they usually have expensive houses to keep up and expensive preachers, and it then takes all the contributions to support their own expensive meetings.

I have been in Chicago and have seen the expense of the little band there, and I am sure if they had some outside help to build for themselves a small chapel in a respectable part of that great city, it would be a great help to them and to the cause. New York is in the same or a worse condition. Without opposing any foreign work, would it not be well for us to make a special effort to help the faithful in our own country? The following communication was sent to me, but it was intended for publication, and I take this opportunity of giving it to the readers of the Gospel Advocate. For the present let us make a united effort to help New York. This communication tells the needs of New York, and it comes to us from an eyewitness.

Don't be afraid, brethren, of helping too much. Brother Shoulders is a good man and will spend what is put into his hands wisely. Read what is said:

THE CHURCH IN NEW YORK CITY.

This summer, while spending six weeks in New York City, I had the pleasure of meeting with the church of Christ at 239 West Sixty-ninth Street, which is the only loyal congregation of the church in that great city. There were about twenty-five present every Sunday, including Brother and Sister Shoulders, Brother McKee, "Mother Johnston" (as they called her) and her two sons and their families, and several other good, Christian people. The Johnstons are from England, and one Sister Johnston said to me that after coming to New York they met every Sunday for thirteen years in "Mother Johnston's" home to worship God according to the Scriptures, and praying that some day there would be a regular congregation established in that city. She said that back in England they were accustomed to going to church several times a week, and often became homesick for times like those again. At present they come over to New York from somewhere in Jersey, paying thirty cents apiece for each member of the family every Sunday. The church meets in a rented hall, which can only be secured on Sunday afternoons, and they are not allowed to hang the sign, "Church of Christ," out front except during services. On Wednesday evenings Brother Shoulders preaches on the street corner, and Sister Shoulders and other members hand out Bible tracts and literature to the crowd that gathers around. They are all working and giving. I noticed that the contribution basket was filled with bills, while in other churches we often see only small change. But their expense is heavy, and I know they need help. There may be many Christians already in the city who do not know there is a church of Christ there; for advertising is so expensive they are unable to keep notices of the church meetings in the papers. At present they are paying fifty-two dollars a year for a space in the church directory of three of the hotels. An announcement in one newspaper once a week would cost them about sixty dollars a year, so they cannot afford to advertise through the newspapers. In New York everything costs money. They told me that the churches that have promised to support them have fallen short of the amount promised, and they need additional help and encouragement to continue this work. I do not believe that Christianity is needed worse in the most remote heathen countries than in this big city with its six millions of people, mostly Jews and Catholics. We noticed that they were lined up for blocks to get into the Sunday-night picture shows, but going to church never seems to enter the mind of the average New Yorker. It is appalling!

I have written this to try to give an idea of the faithful and worthy work Brother Shoulders and this congregation are doing and in hopes that some one or more churches will come to their assistance. Some amount given monthly would help materially in this cause of Christ. Any Christian visiting in New York will receive a cordial welcome at the Sixty-ninth Street Church.

Brother Shoulders' address is 699 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. SADIE SRYGLEY FUNK.

SPECIAL OFFER.

We are trying to increase the circulation of the Gospel Advocate, knowing that as we increase its circulation we are broadening its field of usefulness and thereby doing more good for our Master. Will you coöperate with us in this good work? The subscription list of the Gospel Advocate is growing daily, and we want you to help us do even greater things for the Lord through its columns. Here is our Special Offer: If you will send us two new subscribers for a year, we will send you a copy of Peloubet's "Select Notes on the International Sunday-school Lessons." This book includes all the Sunday-school lessons for the year 1922. It formerly sold for $2. The price of the Gospel Advocate is $2 per year. Send to the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

"Go."

BY S. F. MORROW.

"And he [Jesus] said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that disbelieveth shall be condemned." (Mark 16: 15, 16.) This greatest of all commandments was given over nineteen hundred years ago. "Thus it is written, that the Christ should suffer, and rise again from the dead the third day; and that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name unto all the nations, beginning from Jerusalem." (Luke 24: 46, 47.)

The command as given by Mark says "Go," and tells us where to go—"into all the world." Is this not binding on every child of God to-day? It is sad to see how this command is being treated by the people who claim simply to be Christians—no creeds, no confessions of faith, no societies, nothing but the Bible. When it comes to the "go" and "do," how many can truly say: "Lord, send me?" And how many congregations will say: "Lord, we are ready to send a good gospel preacher, one who is willing to endure hardships as a good soldier of Christ, and will, by thy guidance, see that he and family are cared for as ours at home—yea, through sickness and death?"

Luke tells us where to commence teaching this great commission—at Jerusalem. So little is being done to carry out this great command. We understand the plan of salvation. We know what it takes to make a child of God—believe with all the heart, repent of all our sins, confess Jesus Christ as Lord of lords, and be born again of water and the Spirit. This, and this only, makes one a child of God—not a Mormon, not a Catholic, not a Methodist, not a Baptist, not a Presbyterian—just simply a child of God. We do not join anything, but just obey the gospel as preached by Peter on the day of Pentecost. Read Acts 2, and notice verse 47: "And the Lord added to them day by day those that were saved." There is no mistake when God does the adding.

How sad it is to see so many good people misled by the unfortunate sectarian preachers, who should know better, and, we are persuaded, would know better, if they would only study their Bibles more carefully and prayerfully and exercise faith in God's holy word, destroy all "disciplines," "confessions of faith," and man-made doctrines. Jesus said in Mark 7: 7: "In vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men." I am begging people everywhere I go to read God's word carefully and prayerfully, teaching them a proper division of the word so they can understand it for themselves. Dear readers, will you not become very active in getting your neighbors and all you meet to read the Word more?

About one hundred years ago Campbell and a few others accepted the word of God as the only guide in all things religious, in faith and practice, ignoring all man-made "disciplines" and "confessions of faith," relying on such scriptures as is found in 2 Tim. 3: 16, 17: "Every scripture inspired of God is also profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction which is in righteousness: that the man of God may be complete, furnished completely unto every good work." The question that I wish to raise just here is: How much further have we advanced in the workings of the church than they? Where will you find an efficient eldership looking after the flock as commanded in the New Testament? Think of how our preaching is wasted. Old, well-established churches are preached to death, and the poor, weak churches are dying for the lack of life. Jesus said: "Go and tell John the things which ye hear and see: the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised up, and the poor have good tidings preached to them." (Luke 11: 4, 5.) How many preachers are willing to follow Jesus' example? How many congregations are willing to support a preacher in this work and save themselves? We need the word of God preached in its simplicity and power by men who believe it and are trying to practice it by the grace of God.

Place a preacher in some county or State with his family, and, if he will do his duty as a father and teacher, his influence will grow daily. For example, take the work of John R. Williams and the lamented J. D. Floyd. Eternity alone can tell the good of such lives. We have one or more young men in almost every congregation who, if properly taught and encouraged, would make preachers of the gospel, but they will not so long as we hire "big preachers" to entertain us for a month—and what do they know about the needs of the congregation? The Bible commands the elders to feed the church of God. The elders should know what the flock needs. How long will we fail to obey these plain commands? Jesus says: "Why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?" We are glad to note the mission work that is being done by different congregations of Nashville. May this good work spread until every congregation has a godly man in some destitute field. May the good Lord direct us all in doing all we can for the extension of his kingdom.

"Bear Ye One Another's Burdens."

BY J. W. BUSH, M.D.

One time I was called into the poor section of the city, into a dark, narrow, wretched alley, to attend a child sick near unto death. The family—father, pale-faced mother, and four little children, all in tatters—lived in two poorly furnished, dark, dreary rooms.

The father had tuberculosis and the mother was pale and thin from overwork and undernourishment. At a glance I saw that the little sufferer was a very sick child. I did everything possible to relieve its suffering and to save its life, but to no avail; the frail little body became as cold as icicles, while its spirit winged its way toward the gates of heaven. Jesus said: "For of such is the kingdom of heaven." I shall never forget the breaking hearts of that poor father and dear mother, and the pitiful wails of the other three children. It was a pathetic scene. But no one seemed to know it except a few of the nearest neighbors and the closest relatives. No one seemed to care. A cheap coffin, a pine box, was procured; the undertaker's hearse, followed by one automobile, went to the cemetery. Then it was all over.

The newspapers paid no attention to it, not even so much as to insert a two-line notice in some obscure corner. No church took cognizance of it. The death of this sweet, precious little child created no more attention than the explosion of a firecracker or the passing of a thunderstorm.

A little while later I was called to another part of the city to attend the son of a very rich man. He had a beautiful home, a mansion reposing on its sunny lawns, and surrounded with its wealth of foliage. Every good thing, from a worldly standpoint, was abounding all around him. Everything was found there which was needed to alleviate the sick boy's suffering and to make him comfortable. We worked hard to save his life, but, in spite of everything that could be done, he died.

Sorrow is no respecter of persons. It puts aching heads under royal crowns, and aching hearts on beds of down and couches of rosewood.

No man builds walls high enough to shut out disease, disaster, or death. Every heart knoweth its own sorrow, its own bitterness. As no one can take your toothache into his face, so no one can take your heartache into his bosom.

The whole city was electrified by the death of this dear boy. Messages of condolence were flashed over the telegraph and telephone wires and conveyed in carefully worded letters. A great profusion of flowers was sent. A multitude of sympathetic callers filed in and out. The deceased was so lovable, so talented a young man, so well known. He had such bright prospects before him; he had everything to live for. The family was so elegantly situated. It seemed a double pity that death should enter such a prosperous household. A long cortège of automobiles followed the hearse to the cemetery. The gloom of sadness spread to numerous households in the city. The newspapers devoted much space on the front page to the death of the noble young man.

The question I wish to raise is this: Are not these bereavements very similar? Does not the poor, anemic mother in the alley who mourns the loss of a child feel the same thing as the mother on the avenue? Can the widower in the alley bear his loss any better than the widower on the avenue? Can the widow on the avenue, surrounded by a host of friends and admirers and all the luxuries and comforts that wealth can bring—is she more entitled to sympathy and condolence than the poor, pale-cheeked widow in the alley who must now bear a double load, who must continue to add another burden to the ones under which she was already staggering? Is her grief not worthy passing attention? Is it because we believe her dull or incapable of keen anguish that we turn from her without a tear, a throb of pity, or a tender word of comfort? Is it because we believe that those who live on the avenue have keener sensibilities, that their grief is more poignant, that their appreciation of bereavement is more sensitive? Is this why we shower upon them our words of consolation, never once giving a thought as to the poor bereaved ones who live in the alleys?

No doubt culture brings keener sensibilities, greater capacity for suffering; no doubt ignorance and poverty tend to stupefy the feelings and to stupefy the sense of disappointment and grief. There is something to all this, of course, not to be overlooked; but, unfortunately, it is not always true that the refined and sensitive ones dwell on the avenues, while the dull-minded and unfeeling live in the alleys. Sometimes the exact reverse is true. In such cases what a dreadful injury, what a terrible sin, has been committed against the suffering ones: Withholding from the poor, hungry, and overburdened the most common courtesies and neighborly kindnesses, while we seek to give to those who are surfeited with friends and riches our tenderest regard and proffers of service. The most common excuse is that we do not know those people in the alleys, but we are acquainted with the ones on the avenues.

Can Christians make such a confession as this without blushing? Can Christians pursue such a course as this and obey the Christ? Can those who profess to be followers of the lowly Jesus live such lives as make them acquainted only with the rich and the comfortable, the prosperous and the cultured? I am sure they cannot and remain Christians. Did not Paul say, "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ?"

The object of the service of helping our fellow pilgrims carry their burdens is to teach us sympathy. We are thus to "fulfill the law of Christ." That law is love. Yes, Jesus Christ himself is love. He so loved that he gave his life on the cross and poured out his blood for our sins.

He so loved the wandering sheep that he descended from heaven to seek for and save that which was entangled in the thickets or foundering in the sea. And when he lays it on his shoulders, he brings it back to the fold "rejoicing." The poet says:

There were ninety and nine that safely lay
In the shelter of the fold;
But one was out on the hills away,
Far off from the gates of gold,
Away on the mountains wild and bare,
Away from the tender Shepherd's care

"Lord, thou hast here thy ninety and nine;
Are they not enough for thee?"
But the Shepherd made answer: "This one of mine
Has wandered away from me;
And although the road be rough and steep,
I go to the desert to find my sheep."

But none of the ransomed ever knew
How deep were the waters crossed,
Nor how dark was the night that the Lord passed through Ere he found his sheep that was lost.
Out in the desert he heard its cry,
Sick and helpless, and ready to die.

"Lord, whence are those blood drops all the way That mark out the mountain track?"
"They were shed for one that has gone astray, Ere the Shepherd could bring him back."
"Lord, whence are thy hands so rent and torn?"
"They are pierced to-night by many a thorn."

But all through the mountains, thunder-riv'n,
And up from the rocky steep,
There arose a glad cry to the gate of heaven:
"Rejoice, I have found my sheep!"
And the angels echoed around the throne:
"Rejoice, for the Lord brings back his own!"

Paul said: "Mind not high things, but condescend to men of low estate." (Rom. 12: 16.)

When the good Samaritan found the bleeding Jew by the wayside, he tenderly and carefully put the wounded man upon his horse and carried him to an inn, where he put a shilling into the keeper's hands, softly whispering: "If you spendest more, when I come back, I will repay thee." There spoke the prince of true gentlemen; for true politeness is sympathy of heart kindly expressed.

Christ's law of Christian sympathy works in two directions; either it helps our fellow men to get rid of their burdens entirely, or, failing in that, it helps them carry the load more lightly.

Christians as individuals and also as congregations of Christ should not let a day pass by without speaking a kindly, sympathetic word to some poor suffering one or extending a helping hand to the needy. Yonder is a poor widow with more children than she can feed and clothe. Let the congregation take upon it the task of feeding, clothing, and educating them. Let some Christian take one of these boys into his office, store, or workshop, and let that widow's thanks sweeten your cup and soften your pillow.

A young man comes to the city from the country, friendless, and seeking employment. Here is another opportunity to do a kindly deed and save a soul. Employ him, gain his confidence, and make a friend of him. Read the Scriptures to him and with him. Get him to see the value of his soul and teach him the way of salvation. Be careful in all you say and do, and be sure your own life squares with the gospel of Christ.

Just as on a railway one inch at the switch determines whether the train shall move on its straight track or be shunted over an embankment, so a single sympathetic act of kindness and Christian helpfulness to that boy may decide his whole future for weal or woe. The Lord makes some of his saints rich, or strong, or kind, in order to be his switch tenders.

You may be worshiping in a beautiful house with a strong congregation. Yonder is a feeble church meeting in a hall, struggling for existence. Divide your means and your forces with them, and make both congregations richer—one, by what it gives; the other, by what it gets.

Then there are great multitudes who have never heard the gospel in its purity and simplicity. Here is another opportunity of extending a helping hand to the lost and sorrowing world. But as I have said already, there is one sense in which sorrow can be borne only by the sufferer himself. There is another in which that sorrow can be lightened by our tender sympathy.

"Bear ye one another's burden." Sometimes a small lift is very timely. A single kind word, a little oil of sympathy on a sore spot, a message of condolence when crape hangs on the door, a gift in the hour of need, an approving smile—all such things help a fellow traveler wonderfully.

It is to the reproach of us all that we do not oftener act the good Samaritan in these all-important things.

But to come back to the point from which I started. I believe a man's Christianity can be doubted, if not absolutely disproved, by the fact that he is acquainted only with those who live on the avenues and does not know those who live in the alleys.

"And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." (Matt. 25: 40.)

News from the Palmetto State.

BY THOMAS H. BURTON.

This is a season of rejoicing with the church here. Our meeting closed at Moore, S. C., Wednesday night (September 6), after running four weeks. We had thirty-two confessions and baptisms. I returned Sunday afternoon and preached to a large audience that had gathered in a grove, some coming two hours before the hour for service. In answer to the invitation, three made the confession, two of the number being baptized immediately, and one met me before the service and was baptized, making a total of thirty-five. We had six members in this neighborhood to begin with, making us a total of forty-one members here. I had the pleasure in the meeting of baptizing five entire families—that is, those who were old enough—four of these being brothers. I have never seen people more anxious for the gospel. Old men told me that all that they had done in their religious life was lost, and they had been in error, and wanted to know who was the cause of their being misled, they themselves or their preachers? How it made my heart ache to hear those old men of more than seventy summers, with tears on their cheeks, ask such questions, and to know so well who is responsible for their being in error! They did not know, and for shame I would not tell them. Brother, who is to blame, and who is going to give an account in the last day for these and other souls that have never had the opportunity to hear the true story of the cross? May God help us as a brotherhood to realize that we have the truth, and that it is our indispensable duty to send and teach it to all the world—yes, to every creature. (Read Ezek. 3: 16-21.) What answer are we going to give the great Judge when the time comes for us to give an account of our stewardship? What will be the result when the precious souls who have lived and died in error and darkness stand before God and say: "No one ever told it to me." The best that we can do now, there will be thousands in this little State who will never hear the gospel, when, if they had the opportunity, they would gladly obey. Brother, will you be one to help spread the seed of the kingdom over this destitute State? It is heart-rending to hear the many Macedonian calls and not be able to go to their rescue. It must be awful to be standing on the bank of a stream or near a burning building and hear the cries of those who are perishing, and not be able to rescue them! But how much more horrifying it should be to us to hear the eternal part of man calling for help, and through neglect of duty fail to "throw out the life line!" With our opportunities, will it "be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon in the judgment than for" the people who have the Bible and the money to send it out and fail to do so? Brethren, let us awake from our slumbers and go forth to battle, for truly the harvest is great, but the laborers are so very few, compared with what they should be. The brethren at Moore plan to build a house immediately. Two men have offered to give land for the house, and almost every one would volunteer for labor on it.

I am now in a meeting in Jonesville, S. C., which began on September 8. The crowd is small, but some increase. With my Ford, I am able to do much more work. Brother Gibbs is badly in need of one, and I do not know of a better way to spend a few hundred dollars. If you cannot send the price of the car, send what you can toward it.

If there is a congregation who will support or help to support another preacher in this work, write me. I think I can put you in touch with a good man who will gladly come. Pray for us.

Notes from Atlanta, Ga.

BY B. C. GOODPASTURE.

J. T. Hunton and W. Don Hockaday are in the second week of a tent meeting near Adamsville, Ga. They report fine interest and two baptisms.

C. C. McCampbell recently closed a meeting at Hall's Valley, Ga. Five were baptized and one was restored. He began another meeting at Alabama City, Ala., on the first Sunday in this month.

The meeting at Lysterly, Ga., enters the second week with unusual interest and attendance. Hugh E. Garrett is doing the preaching. Three have been baptized.

I closed a mission meeting at Norcross, Ga., last night (September 12). There were twenty-six additions—twelve from the Baptists, four from the Christian Church, and ten baptisms. Among those who were baptized were four Methodists and the son of a Baptist preacher. The meeting continued sixteen days. From the very beginning we were unable to accommodate the crowds. Our Sunday-night audiences probably reached the seven-hundred mark. A new congregation at Norcross is now certain. Six members of the West End Avenue congregation, of this city, who live in Norcross, and these new members will meet to "break bread" in Norcross next Lord's day. Brother O. D. Bearden, who conducted the song service during the meeting, will preach for them. So far as I have been able to learn, this meeting gave the people of Norcross their first opportunity to hear the simple story of the cross as it is told in the New Testament. The outlook is promising.

"Gleanings from the Field."

This is a booklet by Willie Hunter, published by the McQuiddy Printing Company. The booklet gives many of the "interesting events of Brother Marion Harris' life." Brother Harris has been a faithful preacher of the gospel for many years in the "Upper Cumberland country." His many friends will be glad to read this interesting account of his "smiles and tears," his "joys and sorrows." Brother Hunter has done a splendid work in gathering dates, narrating events, and collating facts which pay a worthy tribute to a noble life. The book may be had from Willie Hunter, Livingston, Tenn. Price, 50 cents.

A DEBATE.

QUESTION: Do the New Testament Scriptures authorize the use of instrumental music in the worship of God in the churches of Christ?

TIME: Beginning at 7:30 P.M., September 25, and continuing five evenings.

PLACE: Russell Street church of Christ, Nashville, Tenn.

DISPUTANTS: J. J. Walker, minister of the Woodland Street Christian Church, and S. H. Hall.

The study to be conducted in a friendly and brotherly spirit.

Public invited to be present.

Current Comment

Get the Order Right.

From the Christian Advocate of August 25 we quote: "In the great commission there is only one imperative, and that is the making of disciples. The correct rendering is: 'Going (or as you go), make all nations disciples, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you through all the days to the end of the age.'" The matter of making pupils involves two elements, matriculation and instruction; in the school of Jesus, baptizing and teaching. But notice the order: Going, baptizing, teaching, making disciples. If antipedobaptists would study Cremer at page 412, they might learn something."

We suggest that the Advocate peruse the old Book a little more closely, or, at least, observe more accurately the order of things which are stated in the great commission of our Lord. We are totally at a loss to know how our good friend got the arrangement, as he stated it, from the quotation, which he made correctly. Instead of "going, baptizing, teaching, make disciples," the order is, "going, make disciples, baptizing, teaching." In the "going," preaching is involved. By the "making disciples" is meant the conversion of sinners, or the exercise of a saving faith on the part of those who hear the word. Afterwards "baptism" is to be administered; then teaching the converts, who have been baptized, to "observe all things which Jesus has commanded." We take the Bible just as it reads. As for this man Cremer, we know not who or whence he is; but we have a notion that he is not somebody who can reverse the order of duties which Christ enjoined upon his disciples.—Baptist and Reflector.

It will be recalled that the Christian Advocate is the official organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Baptist and Reflector is the chief spokesman for the Baptist Church in the South. It seems that both these esteemed contemporaries are in a "mix-up;" both are somewhat confused, and both need to "peruse the old Book a little more closely," that they "get the order right."

The Christian Advocate gives this interpretation to the great commission in the following order: "Going, baptizing, teaching, making disciples." The Baptist and Reflector puts it in this order: "Going, make disciples [conversion of sinners, or the exercise of a saving faith on the part of those who hear the word], baptizing, [that is, after they are saved baptism is to be administered], teaching [teaching the converts, who have been baptized, to observe all things which Jesus has commanded]".

The commission is the command of the Savior to the apostles or his disciples. They are to do all the items here mentioned in the commission by Matt. 28: 19, 20. The disciples of Jesus are commanded to do the "going," the "make disciples," the "baptizing," and the "teaching." Whatever each of these terms means, the disciples of Christ were to do it; whatever the entire commission means, the disciples were commanded to do it. This now is clear.

If our good Baptist neighbor is correct in his interpretation of the terms "make disciples," and if "make disciples" means "the conversion of sinners, or the exercise of a saving faith on the part of those who hear the word," then the disciples are to do the converting, the disciples are to "exercise saving faith." Yet the Baptist and Reflector wants the sinner to "exercise saving faith." Again, if the ones "going" are to "make disciples"—that is, convert the sinner—what becomes of the theory that the Holy Spirit acts or operates on the heart of the sinner immediately, independent of the preached or written word of God?

This same commission is stated by Mark in this language: "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that disbelieveth shall be condemned." (Mark 16: 15, 16.)

Now, this shows that somebody needs to "peruse the old Book a little more closely" in order to "get the order right." As the matter now stands, according to the Christian Advocate, the Baptist and Reflector, and the Bible, we have three statements of the order of the items of the commission. Here is the chart for the three statements:

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE: Going, baptizing, teaching, make disciples.

BAPTIST AND REFLECTOR: Going, make disciples (saved), baptizing, teaching.

BIBLE (Matt. 28: 19, 20; Mark 16: 15, 16; Luke 24: 47): Go, teach or preach the gospel, belief or faith on the part of those who hear, repentance on the part of those who believe the gospel, baptism on the part of the believing penitent, saved or the remission of sins, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever Jesus commanded them, or live faithful unto death.

Which will you follow? Yes, "as for this man Cremer [or any other man], we know not who or whence he is; but we have a notion that he is not somebody who can reverse the order of duties which Christ enjoined upon his disciples" without incurring the displeasure and condemnation of the Savior.

✱ ✱ ✱

Fifteen Divorces an Hour.

Fundamentals are involved when the home is touched, and that the American home is menaced cannot be doubted in the light of such excerpts as follow:

"England has become greatly alarmed over the increase of divorces in that country. Last year 4,401 were granted. America has that many every eleven days and is not frightened. In 1920, 133,000 were granted. Every four minutes of every hour, of every day and night, an American family is divided. In the last twenty years 3,767,182 people secured divorces, and the homes of 5,600,000 children were wrecked." (United Presbyterian.)

"Divorce has reached a point where it threatens the life of our land. The awful situation eating like a cancer in the home, which should represent the best citizenship, ought to shock us and arouse us, and call us to action, both as citizens and as Christians, until it is stamped out." "The statistics of divorce in this country are staggering. One marriage in every ten now ends in the divorce court. Divorce business proceeds so briskly that judges in our large centers are busy from morning to night every day of the week dissolving marriages." (The Pilot.)

The divorce is not the disease, but simply a symptom. The trouble is not primarily a matter of the laxity of the laws of marriage. That, too, is but a reflection of public opinion, and reveals the real trouble, a general disregard for the ordinances of God. The way open to Christians for remedying this and other evils is to labor night and day to establish reverence for God in the hearts of men.

Publishers' Items.

"Questions Answered," by David Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell, should have a place in every library. Those who have seen and examined it closely are highly pleased with it. Cloth bound; 700 pages. Price, $3, postpaid.

"The People's New Testament, with Notes." (Two volumes.) By B. W. Johnson. A splendid commentary, comprising the entire New Testament. Volume I., four Gospels and Acts; Volume II., Epistles and Revelation. Price, per volume, postpaid, $2.50.

"Commentary on Acts." By David Lipscomb. A commentary on the Acts of Apostles, with questions suited for the use of families and schools. This commentary is especially adapted to the comprehension of the masses of the people. It also contains a chronology of the Acts, map showing Paul's missionary journeys, brief biographies of the apostles, and an introductory chapter on the Holy Spirit. Cloth; 250 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50 in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 217-219 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS,
Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

Questions on "Bible Things by Bible Names" and on "Christians in Denominations."

BY M. C. K.

From Brother R. P. Cuff, of Beech Grove, Tenn., I have received a long list of questions called out by the teaching in these columns on "Bible things by Bible Names" and that there are Christians in the denominations. Some of his questions furnish a good opportunity to present and emphasize certain important truths, and they are, therefore, timely and to the point; and while others may be of less practical importance, it is hoped that a brief discussion of all of them will do good. I shall treat them in the five separate groups as they appear in his letter.

1. "To what extent should Bible things be called by Bible names?" Just to the extent that the Bible idea is always and everywhere preserved. Of course the mere word conveying the idea need not always be the same, but we must not use terms that ignore or discard the Bible idea and convey some other idea. Hence, when our brother asks, "Is the man who uses the terms 'Bible study,' 'Sunday school,' 'prayer meeting,' 'missionary,' 'church polity,' calling Bible things by Bible names?" I reply that when he says "Bible study," while that term does not occur in the Bible, it merely conveys the idea, which is a Bible idea, that we must study the Bible; and if we meet at some hour on Sunday for that purpose, it is a Sunday school, or if on Monday, it is a Monday school; and if we meet and pray, it is a prayer meeting to the extent that we pray, and this idea of praying is in the Bible both by precept and by example. When a church sends a man to some field to preach the gospel, which the Bible teaches churches to do, he is a "missionary," the latter term being merely a Latin word denoting one sent; and when the term "church polity" is used, it conveys the idea of a form of government among the churches, which is distinctly a Bible idea. Concerning the solemn or poetic style of the personal pronoun "thou," "thy," or "thine," and "thee," used by the Quakers, he asks: "Is a Christian conforming to Bible usage when he fails to use these terms?" No, not if he uses other terms which convey the same idea. Speaking grammatically, it is merely the personal pronoun; and hence, whether this so-called solemn or poetic style, or the common style, "you," "your," or "yours," is used, is wholly a matter of indifference, for they convey the same idea. We may properly use different terms to convey a Bible idea, but we must always have the latter. The principle here involved is illustrated by writing or speaking God's word in different languages. In the English version the word "horse" conveys the idea that a certain animal among quadrupeds is meant, but no such word to convey that idea occurs in any version of the Bible in other languages. The Greek version has "hippos;" the Hebrew, "sus;" the Latin, "equus;" and the German, "pferd." All of these words convey exactly the same idea, and, referring to the animal in question, he who uses any one of these terms is calling Bible things by Bible names. On the same principle, different words and different combinations of words in the same language sometimes conveys the same idea.

2. "What is to be the fate of those" who are Christians in denominations, "if they do not come out from denominationalism?" I do not know; neither do I know "what is to be the fate of those" Christians in churches which are not in denominations, but who are involved in other errors, "if they do not come out from" them. "What people in denominations are God's people?" All of those who have done what the New Testament requires of persons to become "God's people." What people belonged to Christendom and were Christians and God's people between the falling away from the primitive order and the restoration movement as begun by Campbell and his collaborators? Those, and those only, who did what the New Testament requires of persons in order to become "Christians and God's people."

3. He asks whether there is "a fundamental plea of the restoration movement," and, "if so, what is it?" Thomas and Alexander Campbell and their collaborators pleaded with all the divided people of God in all denominations to "cast aside their denominational garb" and everything else in religious faith and practice that is not taught in the word of God, and to preach and practice all that is taught therein, and they usually expressed their plea in the famous words: "Where the Scriptures speak, we speak; and where the Scriptures are silent, we are silent." He then asks: "Is it as necessary that one in a denomination adopt the primitive order, if he wants to be saved in heaven, as it is that an alien come to Christ, if he wants to receive remission of sins?" I answer this question by asking another: "Is it as necessary that one in a church that is not of any denomination, but is involved in other errors, 'adopt the primitive order' by turning away from such errors and coming back to the Bible, 'if he wants to be saved in heaven, as it is that an alien come to Christ, if he wants to receive remission of sins?'" To ask such a question is virtually to ask whether it is "as necessary" for men to do one thing which God requires as it is to do another thing which God requires. Instead of making it necessary to discuss such questions, why not put in all our time in teaching the people that they should promptly do all that God requires, and waste no time in discussing how necessary one thing is in comparison with another? Neither I, nor Brother Cuff, nor anybody else knows the exact relative necessity of doing the different commands of God; but we can all know that men are taught in the Bible to obey all his commands. Let us put in our time teaching the same thing. "What application has Rev. 22: 18, 19 to people in denominations?" Precisely the same that it has to anybody else who "adds unto" or "takes away from the words of the book of this prophecy."

4. "What are the essentials to make a person one of the people of God?" Everything that God tells people to do in order to become his people. "How did the man in a denomination who is one of the people of God get to be such?" By doing what God tells people to do to "get to be such." He then asks: "Is confession necessary?" Yes, but not some particular form of making it, to the exclusion of other forms by which it can also be made. "Has the man who said he believed that God had for Christ's sake pardoned his sins therein confessed Christ acceptably?" No, not "therein." If he had not done what God requires for the pardon of sins, he "therein" made a mistake by thinking "that God had for Christ's sake pardoned his sins." No matter what else he did that God requires, it would not make that mistake right; but that mistake would not make wrong what he did that God does require. Doing one thing that God does require surely is not vitiated by making a mistake on something else. If it is, then without any exception we are all in a hopeless condition.

5. "Of what practical value is it to know that 'the church' includes some in denominations?" Well, if some in denominations are in the church, then it is of the same "practical value" to know it that it is "to know that 'the church' includes" anybody anywhere. If not, why not? Assuredly if there is anything that makes it of "practical value" for us "to know that 'the church' includes" anybody anywhere, then that thing, of course, makes it of the same "practical value" for us "to know that 'the church' includes some in denominations," if there are some in denominations that are in the church. The purpose of such questions does not seem clear. If the querist means to deny by implication that there are really any Christians in the denominations—that is exactly what he seems to do—then, according to him, as previously shown in these columns, there was not a solitary Christian on earth when "the restoration movement as begun by Campbell and his collaborators" was started. All professed Christians on the face of the globe at that time, including "Campbell and his collaborators" themselves and everybody else, were "in denominations;" and if there are not now and were not then any Christians "in denominations," then there were no Christians anywhere on the face of the earth. Is the querist prepared for this? He must take this position, if the purpose of his question is here correctly understood. He then asks: "Should a Christian preacher tell denominations that they have members that are in 'the church?'" Yes, wherever it is true. "Should he tell them that some of them will in all probability be saved in heaven?" Only on condition that they obey the Lord. I would not tell even Brother Cuff that he "will in all probability be saved in heaven" on any other condition. "Should he tell the churches for which he preaches that they are denominational if they think the members of them are all the church in their territory?" Yes, emphatically yes, when they do not include all Christians in the territory to which they apply the term "church." He asks: "When some one in a denomination tells a Christian preacher that he is thinking of being simply a Christian and asks for advice as to whether to be baptized, what should the preacher say?" That depends on the facts in the case. If the person has been baptized, he should be encouraged in turning away from all other errors on other points; if he has not been baptized, he should be told to be baptized, and to obey the Lord in all other things.

Finally, to all persons at all times and under all circumstances, let us always cheerfully and gladly concede that anything they are preaching and practicing that is taught in the New Testament is right, and that we urge them to change only where their preaching or practice is contrary to that teaching.

"No More War."

BY J. C. M'Q.

That the sentiment of the world is opposed to war will hardly be questioned, but just how to prevent all future wars is not so clear to the nations. The late World War shattered the hopes of many Christians who felt that Christianity had so much influence in the world as not to permit the waging of a cruel war. Having learned from experience the danger of war and the proneness of humanity to be dominated by the flesh, so long as the world is menaced by another war, so long should the teaching of the New Testament against war be emphasized and such lives should be lived as will make bloody and cruel war impossible. Lloyd George, Prime Minister of England, says, in effect, that war may come to-morrow. It is surely safe in time of peace to teach the entire world the exceeding sinfulness of fighting, and that no man can have the spirit of the meek and lowly Jesus while engaging in slaughtering his fellow creatures. The secular press is speaking out against war. The Providence Evening Bulletin declares that it will take more than talk to end war, since "a campaign against nature's greatest destroyer challenges the combined brains and energy of all the peoples of the world. Such a campaign will have to be fought out along the lines of common-sense reduction of armaments and a steady fixing of confidence in the fair-mindedness of an international court." This same paper continues:

The war against war will be a war of reason, not a campaign of words or ink. It will be fought by thoughtful men and women represented at the conference tables of nations, and not by noisy extremists who would bare the bosom of one country to another's sword. It will be a stiff battle and a long one, but that is no reason why men should not be willing to help in bringing about, some day, a glorious victory—peace on the sure foundation of international understanding and amity.

If we are depending on human governments to end war, we have only a hope that may be blasted most unexpectedly. We must put our reliance on a higher power and must work as God directs before we can hope to bring about universal peace on the earth. The Rochester Times-Union speaks sanely when it says:

The great war has practically shattered every human scheme to end war, until nothing remains untried but the divine scheme of religion to end war by the advent of world brotherhood.

There will be no more war when there is a brotherhood universal, rooted in the Fatherhood of God instead of mutual necessity, or science, or law, or commerce alone.

Science has killed pestilence. Commerce has killed famine. But only religion can kill war, for religion creates the new heart.

Premier Lloyd George is also represented as saying in an address to the National Free Church Council that "if the churches of Christ throughout Europe and America allow another war to fructify, they had better close their doors."

That a time will come in the reign of Christ when bloody wars will cease is evident from the language of the prophet, who says: "And it shall come to pass in the latter days, that the mountain of Jehovah's house shall be established on the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it. And many peoples shall go and say, Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of Jehovah, to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of Jehovah from Jerusalem. And he will judge between the nations, and will decide concerning many peoples; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." (Isa. 2: 3, 4.)

Every child of God should give all his influence to bring about a reign of peace. God wills such a reign. It is the business of Christians to bring about on earth such a reign of peace as reigns in heaven. Christians know that when they are giving their lives and influence to teach men to learn war no more they are doing God's will. It is the work of the Christian to feed the hungry, bind up the wounds of the wounded, and to save the lost. It is true that our nature, unsubdued and ungoverned, is to resent and resist evil. We are prompt to defend ourselves as was Peter to protect Christ. When he cut off the ear of the servant of the high priest, Jesus said unto him: "Put up again thy sword into its place; for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." (Matt. 26: 52.) It is not the will of Christ for his servants to fight. "My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence." (John 18: 36.) To all his subjects who are ready to avenge themselves he says: "Avenge not yourselves, beloved, but give place unto the wrath of God: for it is written, Vengeance belongeth unto me; I will recompense, saith the Lord. But if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him to drink; for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire upon his head. Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good." (Rom. 12: 19-21.) The only hope of the world is the religion of Christ. Feeding enemies will overcome them when the sword will fail. Men do not fight those who bless and do them good. Let us labor to usher in a world brotherhood. Prayer is mightier than the sword. In the strength of Jehovah we must ward off wars. Let us give the religion of Christ a chance. Instead of taking vengeance on our enemies, let us try prayer on them. "Love your enemies, and pray for them that persecute you." This is God's law. There be few who will harm the man who resists not him that is evil and who loves his enemies and prays for those who persecute him. If all men could be brought to respect and honor the will of God, we would have a universal reign of peace on the earth.

Evolution and the Bible.

BY H. LEO B.

"Take heed lest there shall be any one that maketh spoil of you through his philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ: for in him dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead bodily, and in him ye are made full, who is the head of all principality and power." (Col. 2: 8-10.)

The warning of the above scripture is needed to-day. It was given to Christians in the days of Paul and has its application to Christians to-day. The warning may be applied to those who accept the theory of evolution. When men show more deference and respect for evolution than they show for the Bible, they need to study Paul's admonition; they have been spoiled through "philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ."

Be it remembered that evolution is only a theory, and that a theory cannot be changed into a demonstrated truth until all of the facts are known. So long as any of the facts are undiscovered and unknown, it must forever remain in the category of theories. This is evident, because the unknown facts might utterly disprove the theory. Only a few of the facts of evolution are known, and many of these are of doubtful interpretation even by some evolutionists.

Dr. Etheridge, fossilologist, of the British Museum, says: "Nine-tenths of the talk of evolutionists is not founded on observation and wholly unsupported by fact. This museum is full of proofs of the utter falsity of their views." Prof. L. S. Beale, of King's College, London, says: "There is no evidence that man has descended from, or is, or was, in any way specially related to any other organism in nature through evolution or by any other process. In support of all naturalistic conjectures concerning man's origin, there is not at this time a shadow of scientific evidence." Professor Fleischmann, of Erlangen, says that the theory of the descent of man "has in the realm of nature not a single fact to confirm it. It is not the result of scientific research, but purely the product of the imagination." All the evidence at our command shows that the theory of evolution was conceived in agnosticism and born in infidelity and nurtured in unbelief of the Bible. The principal elements of the evolutionary theory fly in the face of Bible facts and principles. Oftentimes those who are propagating the theory of evolution are wholly ignorant of facts and principles revealed in the Bible.

No devout believer in the Bible fears for one moment the present-day attacks on the Bible. No intelligent believer in the Sacred Volume fears the fullest, freest, and severest examination of the claims of the Bible. In fact, those who know the Bible invite honest investigation as to the truth of its claims. No really devout student of the Bible desires to exclude or refuse any honest inquiry on any question that pertains to the contents of any book of the Bible. All believers in the Bible are frank to say with David: "The words of Jehovah are pure words; as silver tried in a furnace on the earth, purified seven times. Thou wilt keep them, O Jehovah, thou wilt preserve them from this generation forever." (Ps. 12: 6, 7.) And again: "The word of Jehovah is tried; he is a shield unto all them that take refuge in him." The Christian may be assured of the fact that the present onslaught against the Bible will not refute it, neither will it overthrow a single statement or principle of the Bible. God's word has been on trial ever since man was created. Satan has tried to overthrow it and nullify it all down through the ages, but has failed. There has never been a time since God spake unto man when his word has not had to encounter fierce and persistent opposition. Believers in the Bible need not at this late hour be dismayed nor perplexed by the theory of evolution and its opposition to the Bible, as though a strange thing were happening. Christ himself, while on earth, met the enemy in every conceivable form and withstood all onslaughts with the firmness of the throne of Jehovah.

The Bible has survived through all of the onslaughts which have been made upon it by the most skillful adversaries. Every fact and principle of the Bible has been tried in the fiery furnace. The Bible has been attacked by shrewd literary opponents, by strong scientific opposition, and by keen philosophical antagonists, yet not one single statement of the Bible has suffered or had to be withdrawn. There is nothing new in the present-day attacks on the Bible, and devout believers may with stout hearts continue to contend "earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints."

The account of the creation in the book of Genesis still stands, with not a single impeachment against it sustained. "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." This simple and impressive statement is the dignified opening of God's revelation to man. It is not stated that God created the heavens and earth out of nothing. Man is not told from what source the creative fiat of Jehovah obtained material. Man can only speculate and exercise an uninformed imagination on this point. Yet the vain imaginations of man form the only basis that man has for his theory. "God created the heavens and the earth." That settles the matter for all who believe in the Bible. God created all things that are upon the earth and gave life unto them. No theory of man based on human imagination can rob God of the honor of creation, neither can such a theory nullify the simple statement recorded in Genesis. Everything announced in the early part of Genesis expresses and impresses the one grand fact that God is supreme over all; that he is the absolute architect of the universe. Every theory that man has proposed degrades Jehovah and his work in creation. Every theory of evolution deposes Jehovah from his throne and would rob him of infinite purpose and plan. The Bible exalts Jehovah, but evolution debases him.

Jehovah not only created the heavens and the earth and all that belongs unto them, but he also pursues his work in perpetuating creation in accordance with his own methods. God is not the product of the material universe, limited and conditioned by laws inherent in matter, but he is the creator of all these things. Finite mind is unable to understand the ways of Jehovah, much less understand Jehovah in all of his infinitude. Any theory which attempts to interpret God's ways independent of God's revelation is a futile effort on the part of a small class of God's creatures.

The old Book will stand when the present-day theories have been exploded and rejected by man. It has survived through all criticism and will stand forever.

A Challenge to the Church of Christ.

BY GEORGE A. KLINGMAN.

The present-day world conditions offer a great challenge to the church of Christ. There are several hundred millions of our fellow men who have not even heard of Christ; many millions more have a very imperfect knowledge of God and of his Son, our Savior; and the five or six hundred millions who are classified by the statisticians as "Christians" are divided into numerous groups, sects, factions, and parties—and the number of distinctive groups seems to be on the increase. Among those thus designated "Christians" there may be found on the part of some the same intolerant spirit that produced the Roman Inquisition, and this spirit is not confined to Roman Catholicism. Bitter controversies, needless discussions, wranglings, disputes, debates without number, questionings that gender strife, have torn the body of Christ asunder, separating believers into warring factions and giving occasion to the enemy to blaspheme the holy name by which we are called. The World War proved to be a fair test of our modern church life and polity, and it is needless for me to repeat in this article the sad result. Not that Christianity failed—no, no—a thousand times no. Christ has always stood the test—every test. True Christianity cannot fail—has never failed. To the extent that any generation of professing Christians fails to meet the challenge of that generation, just to that extent does it fail to interpret Christ correctly, and to that extent does it fail to apply the principles of God's eternal truth as they should be applied.

When the shadows of Gethsemane and the deeper gloom of the cross gathered about the Savior of mankind, he poured forth his soul unto the Father in that greatest of all intercessory prayers recorded in the seventeenth chapter of John. In verses 20 and 21 we find this language: "Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word; that they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us: that the world may believe that thou hast sent me." According to this prayer, the responsibility of this world's deplorable condition is laid by the Christ at the door of a "divided church!"

How are we to meet this challenge? "Who is sufficient for these things?" "Our sufficiency is of God." "Without me ye can do nothing." "I can do all things through him who strengtheneth me." Christ has promised to be with us always, "even unto the end of the world"—the consummation of the age. May I offer a few suggestions? I offer the following in the fear of God and for the prayerful, careful consideration of the reader.

1. Let us read the seventeenth chapter of John every day for at least a month; let us commit that chapter to memory—put it into our hearts; let us keep our minds and lives full of the love of God and the love of Christ and look out upon this great human family with the same sympathetic regard that ever characterized our Master; let us keep constantly before us the value of a soul; let us recognize the infinite superiority of God's children to all things external to the kingdom of God, exemplifying in our Christian conduct the law of brotherly love—the obligation to waive what one deems to be a mere privilege whenever the interests of the brethren demand it.

2. Let us present a united front to the enemy; fight valiantly the good fight of the faith; make no compromise with error or sin in any form; make the adversary see and know that the sword of the Spirit is drawn and that it shall not return to the scabbard until the last battle has been fought and won.

3. Let us have a constructive program of world-wide evangelism; such a program as will give this sin-cursed world the very remedy that Christ has offered; a program that will include not only the preaching of the pure and simple gospel as first presented on Pentecost, but one that will "follow up" and "carry on" in such a definite and systematic way that all domestic, social, commercial, civic, industrial, and educational problems will be courageously met and solved, even as they were in the days of the apostles for that day and generation.

4. Let us present to the world a church such as is revealed to us in the New Testament Scriptures—in organization, government, worship, and work; a church that will mean more than "going to meeting to hear some one preach." Let us do our very best to make the worship spiritual, helpful, restful, inspirational; eliminate the element of mere entertainment, emphasize the value of edification; keep the worship free from anything that is not authorized by the teaching of our Lord; endeavor to make each member realize the high and holy calling wherewith we have been called and know that each disciple is a worshiper—a priest at the spiritual altar offering up spiritual sacrifices. Let us make the singing of psalms and hymns and spiritual songs the very best possible, sparing neither time nor means, and convince the world that the music of the voice is the greatest and best, and the kind that we are sure has the sanction of our Lord and his apostles. We know that congregational singing can be made so edifying that no one will suggest the use of instrumental aid, and not another congregation would be divided over its introduction into the worship. On the other hand, when we once fully realize that the saving of souls is the paramount issue, the question of innovations will be settled; for the soul that is aflame with the love of Jesus' name does not breathe the spirit of innovation, division, and proscription.

Brethren, let us rise to meet this challenge with renewed zeal and energy. We have entered upon a great heritage. The reformatory movements of the past have cleared the way and have wrought out for us the pure and simple gospel of the blood-bought institution, the church of the living God.

I do not believe there is to be found a group of better people than those who are designated "churches of Christ." They have given proof that they want the truth as it is in Jesus. But we are just as human as the rest of the family to which we belong, and we need each other's exhortations that all may be incited to "love and good works," and it is with the conscious need of such exhortations that I humbly submit these suggestions.

A good citizen is a man who constantly and consciously accommodates his conduct and his business to the rights of others and to the interest of the community.—Woodrow Wilson.

Home Reading

Mother's Vacation.

Give mother a rest; she's earned it full well,
Though the story's too long in these verses to tell
Of duties and cares, both early and late,
For Mary and Johnny, Susie and Kate.

She's up with the dawn with a heart full of love
And a prayer on her lips to the Father above
To lead her and guide her and point the good way
That leads from earth's sorrows to heaven's bright day.

When evening has come and prayers have been said
And mother so sweetly has tucked you in bed,
She goes to her closet, and there all alone
She lays her sweet charges before the white throne.

So send her away with promises sweet
That things will be kept just as tidy and neat;
No use for to worry with anxious care,
For things will be right, though mother's not there.

I've a twofold reason in asking this favor,
Although of presumption it may seem to savor,
Through respite from labor her life may last longer
And your love for each other increase and be stronger.
—John Thomas Corley.

✻ ✻ ✻

Louis' Trick Dog.

Louis sat in the sunny side porch looking wistfully out through the vines. He had been sick for two weeks with scarlet fever. And two weeks is a long time for a little boy to be shut in.

Mother read to him. She told him stories. She played games with him. But, in spite of all that, he was very lonely at times.

He was well now, he told the doctor—"every bit well." But the hard-hearted old doctor refused to raise the quarantine.

Louis sighed. "If I only had a dog, mother," he said, dolefully, "I could play with him. I wouldn't give a dog the scarlet fever, would I, mother?"

"No, perhaps not," said the mother, as she put her arms around Louis; "but, dear, he might give it to some other little boy."

"But we could fumigate him, couldn't we?"

"Well, we might," mother laughed; "but, you see, we haven't the dog, anyway. Can't my little boy play with mother for another day or two?"

Louis threw his arms around his mother's neck and hugged her tight. "Course; you're the dearest mother," he said, "and I love you best of all." But he couldn't help adding: "It would be nice to have a boy or a dog to play with."

"Of course it would, dearie, and you shall have a whole party of boys, and maybe a dog, too, when the doctor says you may," mother assured him.

Mother left Louis alone for a little time while she went to prepare his luncheon. He sighed again as he looked out through the vines. It did seem such a long time to wait.

All at once there seemed to be a good deal of excitement down the street. Louis jumped up and ran down to the edge of the porch. He could hear them shouting something to each other.

Then he heard a rustling in the lilac bush that stood near the porch. He looked down. And then his eyes nearly jumped out of his head. A pretty, trembling, panting white-and-brown dog staggered out from the bush and crept under the porch right beneath his feet.

Louis forgot that he was quarantined. He forgot everything in the world but that dog. He ran down the steps and called, softly: "Doggie, doggie, poor doggie! Come!"

And the dog came out and laid its nose trustingly in Louis' hand.

When mother brought his luncheon, she found a starry-eyed little boy curled up on the floor with his arm around the neck of a silky-coated shepherd dog.

"I think the people were chasing him, mother," exclaimed Louis, excitedly, "and he crawled right under our porch! He was so thirsty! I gave him a drink, and he licked my hand. That's the way he thanked me, wasn't it, Duke?" Louis bent his head and received another "Thank you" on the tip of the nose.

"I named him 'Duke,' mother," he continued. "O, mother, can't I keep him? Can't I, mother?"

"I am afraid not, dear," answered his mother, gently. "You see, he belongs to somebody else. But we will keep him until some one claims him."

As if pleading for himself, the dog went over to mother and looked appealingly up into her face. Then he put out his paw to shake hands. And then he sat up and begged.

"O, he's a trick dog, mother!" cried Louis. "Look at him! He's doing tricks!"

The dog wagged his tail gleefully in response and stood up on his hind feet and walked around the floor. Then he lay down and rolled over. And then he picked up a picture book that Louis had dropped and laid it on a chair. After that he again went over and looked into mother's face.

"Well, he is a pretty smart dog," she said, smiling and patting his head. He frisked over to Louis, and the two had a rough-and-tumble romp. Mother had to remind Louis of his luncheon.

Louis played with his dog all that day. The very next day the doctor raised his quarantine, and Louis was a happy little boy except when the thought came that he might lose Duke. Then he felt bad.

But day after day passed, and no one claimed the dog, even though they put an advertisement in the paper. At last Louis felt that Duke was really his. Such happy times as they had together!—Exchange.

✻ ✻ ✻

Give Him Excitement.

Judge Lindsey, of Denver, said recently: "The only way to combat wrong ideas in children is to crowd them out with better ones." Preoccupy the ground, and the bad does not so much as get its nose into the tent.

Many decades ago Horace Bushnell preached a sermon, whose echoes are heard to this day, on "The Expulsive Power of a New Affection." The best way to drive out bad ideas is to stage an attack upon them by good ideas. If the new emotion is strong enough, the old will succumb before it.

Centuries ago Jesus told a story about a man from whom an evil spirit was cast out. But the swept and garnished room was not occupied, and so the evil spirit came back in time with a lot of others worse than himself, and the man had no defense against them.

Wise mothers seldom attempt forcibly to take from a child object after object which he foolishly wants; instead, they divert attention by placing before the child something which for the moment is more attractive. And under the spell of the new, the old is forgotten.

Boys will loiter on the streets, they will go to forbidden places, they will easily become bad unless there is given them something more interesting to do. They crave excitement; why not give it to them under good auspices? They want action; why not see that they get it? The task of teachers and leaders of boys in our churches and in our homes is not to enforce certain prohibitions, no matter how desirable the objects in view may be. It is rather to give the boy action which he enjoys and which will produce the reactions which the church and society agree are good.—Exchange.

Texas-Oklahoma Department

By C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

"Child of God," "Christian"—Is There a Difference?

BY K. C. MOSER.

The position has recently been taken in this department that a child of God is not necessarily a Christian. According to the position referred to, one is a Christian only as he does right, only as he follows Christ; and since Christ never leads one wrongly, one is not a Christian when he sins, but may be a child of God. For example, when one dances, he is not a Christian, but may be a child of God. Since this supposed distinction was considered to be an essential element in reaching certain important conclusions, it is well that one who takes it be sure of his ground, or else his conclusions, though they may be right from another viewpoint, may be questioned. "To err is human." Does the Bible justify making a distinction between a child of God and a Christian?

Who is a Christian? One who is a follower of Christ. This definition has been given, and I admit it to be a good one. Who is a child of God? I answer, a follower of God. "Be ye therefore followers of God, as dear children." (Eph. 5: 1.) "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God." (Rom. 8: 14.) Now, is there a difference between a follower of God and a follower of Christ? "He that rejecteth me rejecteth him that sent me." (Luke 10: 16; see also John 12: 44-50.) The position under consideration seems to lead inevitably to the conclusion that Christ is better than God.

It has been argued that a Christian cannot sin. Neither can a child of God in the same sense. Only those led by the Spirit of God are the sons of God. The Spirit of God never leads astray. Hence, a child of God, as such, cannot commit sin. (See 1 John 3: 6-11.) Can a follower of God commit sin any more than a follower of Christ? Were the disciples at Antioch children of God one time and Christians at another time?

One is a servant or child of God by service. (Rom. 6: 17, 18.) So is one a Christian. If there be a distinction between a child of God and a Christian, then there must be a corresponding difference between the service of God and the service of Christ. When one ceases to serve God and permits sin to reign in his life, he is no more a child of God than he is a Christian. He is neither. The idea of once a child of God, always a child of God, is twin to the doctrine of once in grace, always in grace. So it seems to me. If I am in darkness, "let there be light."

[Note. I ask that the foregoing article be carefully read. It is a criticism of articles I wrote some weeks ago in this department. Possibly Brother Moser wishes to say more about this matter, in which event I may feel that some review may be needed, but at present I only suggest that the articles presented by me be re-read.—C. R. N.]

✻ ✻ ✻

That Eventful Night.

BY J. M. DEVENY.

The night (in that upper room in the city of Jerusalem) that Jesus ate the passover supper with his disciples for the last time; the night that he taught his disciples the great lesson recorded in the gospel of John; encouraging them—"Let not your heart be troubled. . . . In my Father's house are many mansions. . . . I go to prepare a place for you;" comforting them—"I will not leave you comfortless;" "I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter;" commanding them—"These things I command you, that ye love one another;" reminding them—"If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before it hated you;" "If ye were of the world, the world would love his own: but because ye are not of the world, therefore the world hateth you;" that they stumble not—"These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace;" that they shall suffer persecution—"They shall put you out of the synagogues: yea, the time cometh, that whosoever killeth you will think that he doeth God's service;" "I persecuted this way unto the death, binding and delivering into prisons both men and women;" "I verily thought with myself, that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth. Which things I also did in Jerusalem: and many of the saints did I shut up in prison; . . . and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them;" that though they have sorrow, their sorrow would be turned into joy—"Ye shall weep and lament, but the world shall rejoice; and ye shall be sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy;" "Ye now therefore have sorrow: but I will see you again, and your heart shall rejoice, and your joy no man taketh from you." Beautiful, helpful, comforting words!

This is the night he prayed so earnestly for his disciples—"I pray for them: I pray not for the world; he prayed for us—"Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word;" he prayed for unity—"That they all may be one: . . . that the world may believe that thou hast sent me;" the night that one of his disciples, for a few pieces of silver, betrayed him—"One of you shall betray me;" "Judas, betrayest thou the Son of man with a kiss?" the night in which "that other disciple"—one of the thrice favored three, intrusted with the keys of the kingdom, who fought for his Master with the sword—denied him. In his weakness he fell, but he was converted again unto a living hope, and was ever faithful, dying a martyr's death for his Lord. This is the night he visits Gethsemane for the last time, praying in agony, sweating as it were great drops of blood. Three gardens enter our mental vision and pass in review. In the first the tempter wins, man falls and is driven from the garden. In Gethsemane, Jesus triumphs, and an angel from heaven strengthens him. In the third garden is a tomb, a new tomb; it becomes a sealed tomb; the seal is broken, and, thanks be to God, the risen Christ is proclaimed, proven to be a tried stone, a sure foundation stone, a perfect Savior, worthy of all praise and all service and all love. This is the night, in that upper room, he instituted a memorial, spiritual feast, and said: "This do in remembrance of me. . . . For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till he come." Blessed thought, that we have this monumental institution, beautiful in its simplicity, to keep fresh in our memory the great sacrifice made for lost humanity, the suffering and death of our Lord on the cross.

"Till he come! O, let the words Linger on the trembling chords;
Let the little while between,
In their golden light be seen;
Let us think how heaven and home
Lie beyond that 'till he come.'"

✻ ✻ ✻

Personal Notes.

W. P. Skaggs is now located with the church in Madisonville, Texas, and reports that the outlook for the work is bright. A good man and a good congregation.

A. R. Lawrence baptized three in a meeting with the Hope congregation, in Jones County, Texas; at Highway, in Dickens County, six baptisms; at Capitola, Texas, fifteen baptisms.

K. C. Moser baptized thirty in a meeting in Haskell, near Frederick, Okla.; in Morse, Okla., two baptisms; and in Wetumka, Okla., a new congregation was set in order with a membership of about thirty.

Evangelistic Notes

Earl C. Smith has just closed at Berlin, Ga.

Ben West locates with the church in Sinton, Texas.

H. N. Mann is in a meeting at Red Boiling Springs, Tenn.

H. M. Phillips recently conducted a good meeting at Lafayette, Ga.

D. F. Draper has changed his address from Georgetown to Cleburne, Texas.

R. C. White and J. D. Derryberry are now in a meeting at Jefferson City, Tenn.

J. S. Daugherty closed near Bronson, in Sabine County, Texas, with eight additions.

W. E. Morgan is in a good meeting at Gainesboro, Tenn., with seven baptisms to date.

J. Pettey Ezell closed at Portland, Tenn., with eleven additions. Elam Derryberry led the singing.

J. P. Curlee has just closed at Curlee, in Cannon County, Tenn., with ten baptisms and three restorations.

J. D. Jones has just closed at Taft, Tenn., with ten baptisms. He is now in a meeting at Free Labor, Tenn.

C. E. Holt is now at Waterloo, Ala.—a hard place, as the name indicates; but he has had three additions to date.

A. S. Landis has just closed a good meeting at Dog Creek, near Kingston Springs, Tenn., with ten baptisms.

Allen Phy closed at Mount Moriah, in Muhlenberg County, Ky., with five baptisms. John Forgy continued the meeting.

B. L. Douthitt has just closed at Pleasant View, near Bradford, Tenn., with one baptism, and is now at Cedar Hill.

G. L. Cullum closed a meeting at Rural Hill, near this city, in which one was baptized, a man seventy-nine. Good crowds throughout.

W. A. Record has just closed at Fruit's Chapel, in Christian County, Ky., with seven additions—four by baptism. He will return next year.

S. H. Hall's meeting at McMinnville, Tenn., continued eleven days, with fine crowds and attention, ten baptisms, and three reclaimed. The meeting closed too soon.

J. W. Grant made this office a pleasant call last week. He has just closed work at Lakeland, Fla. He is now in a meeting at Sycamore Landing, in Humphreys County, Tenn.

Arkansas Christian College, at Morrilton, Ark., will open on September 27, with a special program featuring addresses from John T. Hinds, J. N. Armstrong, and N. B. Hardeman.

J. C. Hollis, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., has just closed at Spencer Hill, near Mount Pleasant, Tenn., with ten baptisms and one restoration. He is now in a meeting at Athens, Ala.

F. L. Paisley has just closed at Wallace Park, under a tent owned by the church at Lone Oak, and goes next to Grantsburg, Ill. The Paducah and Lone Oak churches are supporting him jointly.

Charles P. Poole, 2 Clinton Street, Cambridge, Mass., writes: "The church here meets at 2:30 P.M. each Lord's day at Phillips Brooks House, Harvard Campus. Take Tunnel trains for Harvard Square."

T. Q. Martin, St. Marys, W. Va., closed at Lynchburg, Tenn., with fourteen baptisms and much good accomplished otherwise. He will return in 1924. He is now in a meeting with the West End Church, Birmingham, Ala.

Silas E. Templeton recently closed a meeting at Frederick, Okla., with eighteen baptized into Christ. He preached at Oklahoma City on September 3, and there was one added by relation and one by confession and baptism.

U. R. Beeson closed on the State line between Texico, N. M., and Farwell, Texas, with thirty-four baptisms. There were fourteen additions from the Christian Church, including one of the elders, and a young preacher, Brother Randall.

A. B. Gunter recently held a week's meeting at Mason's Grove, near Humboldt, Tenn., which resulted in nineteen additions. Since that time he has closed a meeting at Mount Zion, near Savannah, with five added. He is now at Cloverdale, Ala., with two baptisms to date.

J. L. Hill has recently held five mission meetings in Alabama. Only one of these places boasted a congregation of regular worshipers. At one place there were only two members; at another, only three. At the last-named place there were five baptisms and four from the Baptists.

H. C. Shoulders has just closed at Liberty, near Granville, Tenn., with eight baptized and one restored. He recently held two meetings in Kentucky—at Van Buren, with ten baptisms, and Mount Zion, near Mackville, with fourteen baptisms and one from the Christian Church. He is now at Goodlettsville, Tenn.

John Hayes speaks very highly of a meeting recently closed at Ephesus, near Athens, Ala., conducted by R. N. Moody, of Albertville, Ala., in which twelve were baptized. Brother Moody has just closed at Acton, Tenn., with nine baptisms. Brother Hayes has just closed at a schoolhouse, near Athens. This is his second mission meeting this summer.

Thomas J. Wagner recently closed at Hickerson Station, near Tullahoma, Tenn., with thirteen baptized and one restored. This was the third mission meeting he has held in that county this summer. He is now in his fourth meeting, near Hillsboro, Tenn. The church at Manchester is helping to support this mission work. They expect to get a tent next year.

Andy T. Ritchie and J. D. Derryberry have just closed the last of a series of ten mission meetings in Humphreys County, Tenn., supported by the Twelfth Avenue Church, this city. This last meeting was at Yates Chapel, and resulted in five baptisms, three of which were heads of families. After October 1 Brother Derryberry will be able to sing for some meetings.

Mrs. W. J. Hogg, Menlo, Ga., Route 2, writes as follows: "I am making men's woolen hosiery of finest Angora wool. Any one needing such hosiery will make no mistake in ordering from me. Those in the North will surely need some good, warm hose for winter. I am doing this that I may have something to give to the cause of Christ and to send my little girl to school. Price of hose, one dollar per pair."

G. A. Dunn, Sr., writes: "The audiences at Tusculumbia, Ala., have increased from two to two thousand since I first began to preach there some years ago. Two women asked me to hold a meeting in the courthouse. I have continued to go until now they have a nice brick house within a half block of the courthouse. I am now conducting a meeting in a tent that will seat two thousand, and it is full at times."

J. B. Morris, Brunswick, Tenn., writes: "The Gospel Advocate has been a regular visitor to our home for more than thirty years and is always welcome. It has been a constant source of pleasure and profit to me, and I rejoice over the fact that it has always stood for the truth as 'it is written.' Those who do not read a religious paper do not know what they are missing in the way of instruction and edification. The Advocate played an important part in teaching me 'the way of the Lord more perfectly.'"

J. H. Murrell, McEwen, Tenn., writes: "Since last report I have received contributions amounting to eighteen dollars and fifty cents, for which the donors have my sincere thanks. I am now at home suffering from hay fever. Mrs. Murrell is still in the hospital, and her improvement is very slight. I may have time for one or more meetings soon, if I get well enough. If any one interested in buying a fruit farm in Benton County, Ark., will write me at once, it might help him get a bargain and help me pay my debts."

W. W. Moody, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I notice that some one passing through St. Louis, and who was here on Sunday, has written that he could not locate the church here. Our meeting place is at the corner of Spring and Blaine Avenues, about fifteen minutes' ride on the Park car line from the Union Station. If any one should forget the address, he can find it by going to the large business directory sign in the main waiting room at the Union Station. We like to have brethren who come to St. Louis or pass through to visit and worship with us when possible."

E. P. Watson is in a fine meeting at Eagleville, Tenn.

C. H. Smithson, Hatfield, Ark., reports the work growing there.

W. R. Hassell closed at Ridgely, Tenn., with large crowds, but no additions.

C. M. Pullias will begin at Twelfth Avenue Church, this city, next Lord's day.

J. H. Morris preached in East Florence, Ala., on September 10, and baptized one.

J. Clifford Murphy is in a meeting near Hampshire, Tenn., with two baptisms to date.

J. B. Nelson has changed his address from 127 Pembroke Avenue to 403 W Street, Dallas, Texas.

Hugh H. Miller has just closed at Shady Grove, near Hartsville, Tenn., with four baptisms.

R. C. White recently closed a meeting at New Hope, Ala., with eleven baptisms and three restorations.

W. E. Morgan closed at Gainesboro, Tenn., with fifteen additions—eleven baptized and four restored.

J. L. Hines has just closed a good meeting at Alma, Ark. He will soon take up his work at Cincinnati, Ohio.

B. F. Stivers closed at Weaver Schoolhouse, near Odessa, Mo., with three baptisms. He is now at Neosho, Mo.

J. J. Reynolds recently held a meeting at Owl Hollow, in Tennessee, with two baptisms and two restorations.

Charley Taylor is entering the second week at Rothschild Avenue Church, this city, with eight baptisms to date.

H. W. Wrye is in a meeting at Fifth Street Church, this city, and as we are going to press he has had twelve additions.

J. Bedford Beck has just closed a good meeting at McGregor, Ga., and is now at Brunswick. He will go next to Adel.

Harry Hayes will be able to hold meetings after October 1. He and Brother Hassell are in a meeting at Vaughn's Grove.

C. B. Laws reports two baptisms recently among the students at Dasher Bible School, Dasher, Ga., in the "dead of the night."

W. R. Hassell and Harry Hayes have just closed at Vaughn's Grove, near Trenton, Tenn., with nine baptized and one restored.

H. D. Jeffcoat closed at Burdette, Ark., with seven additions. He is now at Cleveland, Miss., and will go next to Holly Ridge, Miss.

Brother McCampbell is in a fine tent meeting at Alabama City, Ala., with nine additions to date. J. J. Reynolds is leading the singing.

J. H. Hines is back with the church at Montgomery, Ala., and reports two large crowds at the Highland Avenue Church last Sunday.

R. L. Colley is in a good meeting at Paragould, Ark., with two restored to date. He will live there and work with the church next year.

Charles R. Brewer recently held a meeting at Tompkinsville, Ky., with nine baptisms and two restorations, and fine audiences throughout.

G. B. Lambricht, Jasper, Ala., Route 3, is in a meeting at Holly Grove, near Jasper, and can arrange for another meeting after it closes.

Jack Myer closed a brush-arbor meeting at Anderson, Tenn., with nine additions. Plans have been completed for erecting a house of worship.

F. L. Young reports large audiences and two baptisms on September 10, at Paris, Texas. He is now in a tabernacle meeting at Blossom, near Paris.

J. C. Coffman and John Campbell have just closed a mission meeting at Sunrise, in Hickman County, Tenn., with four baptisms and two restorations.

J. V. Armstrong T aylor recently conducted a tent meeting at Hall's Mill, near Shelbyville, Tenn., resulting in four baptisms. W. F. Clifford led the songs.

J. R. Endsley recently closed a fine meeting near Minor Hill, Tenn., with seven baptisms and one restoration. He soon will enter Freed-Hardeman College.

L. L. Brigance recently closed a fine meeting at McKellar Avenue Church, Memphis, Tenn., resulting in six additions. There have been eight additions since the meeting.

T. G. Curd recently closed at Kennedy, in Union County, Ky., with fifteen additions, and is now at Rosiclare, Ill. He says: "I can hardly wait each week for the Gospel Advocate."

T. A. White has just closed at Flinn Springs Schoolhouse, near Talladega, Ala., with four baptisms and one from the Baptists. Brother White is nearly eighty years of age.

R. E. L. Taylor has just closed at Dixon Springs, Ill., with twenty additions and one restoration. R. P. Horton led the singing. Brother Taylor will go next to Bardwell, Ky.

L. W. Hinson has just closed a meeting on Brush Creek, in Perry County, Tenn., with one addition. He is now in a meeting on Big Swan Creek. Both of these are mission meetings.

J. T. Clark closed at Delina, in Marshall County, Tenn., with four baptisms and one restoration, and is now at Campbell Station, in Maury County, Tenn., with two baptisms to date.

H. M. Phillips recently closed near Summerville, Ga., with three baptized and one restored. He is now near Greenfield, Tenn. He writes: "The people are praising the Gospel Advocate, as they have a right to do."

D. N. Barnett, Macon, Miss., speaks very commendably of the new congregation at Laurel, Miss., started not long since by Brother Hardin. He will preach for them on the second Lord's days in each month.

G. W. Jarrett will go next to Prichard, Ala.; then to Bay Minette; then to Muscogee, Fla. He will be at Candler, Fla., about November 1. Any one wanting a meeting at that time should address him there.

H. M. Phillips reports two good services and one baptism at St. Elmo, Tenn., on last Lord's day. The church there is to send a young man to school to prepare him for preaching. This is a worthy example.

Tommie Nicks reports E. O. Coffman's meeting at Charlotte, Tenn., which resulted in seven baptisms. He says: "G. A. Dunn's meeting at Sheffield is a great success, with twenty-two baptized and six restored."

W. D. Black closed his protracted-meeting work at Lawn, Texas, with four baptized and several restored. He is now taking up his work with the congregation at Ozona, Texas. He says: "The church here has the missionary spirit."

Coleman Overby reports the evangelistic work in the vicinity of Murray, Ky., as progressing. He closed at Kirksey with two additions and a congregation of twenty-five started. He is now at Newburg, Ky., in a virgin field.

A Correction.—In "Evangelistic Notes" in the Gospel Advocate of September 7, W. E. Morgan was reported as conducting meetings at Fairfield and Coldwater, near Woodbury, Tenn., which should have been credited to some one else.

I. A. Douthitt, Sedalia, Ky., recently held meetings at Isom and South Point, in Middle Tennessee, resulting in fifty additions. He is now at Arkland. Everette Derryberry led the singing at Isom, and Bernard Cathey at South Point.

W. S. Long writes from Washington, D. C., September 8: "After an absence of forty-eight days, in which I held two meetings and visited several congregations, I am home again. Sixty discourses were preached, twenty-one churches were visited, and eighteen souls were baptized and others added by return to faithfulness. The churches visited in Tennessee were: Cornersville, Diana, Lewisburg, Manchester, McMinnville, Beech Grove, Wartrace, and Memphis. Those visited in Alabama were: Florence, Mars Hill, Tusculumbia, Russellville, Mount Hope, Moulton, Huntsville, Anniston, Munford, and Birmingham (there are several congregations in Birmingham). On this visit I met some of the noblest people in the world, and among these were some of our strongest and most beloved preachers—namely: Brethren W. B. London, B. Harding, Horton (Tusculumbia), Doughty, Dowdy, Claude Woodroof, Walker, T. B. Thompson, Hill, Herbert Phillips, Clyde Shacklett, Flavil Hall, H. Leo Boles, I. B. Bradley, John T. Lewis, F. W. Smith, Morgan H. Carter, R. P. Cuff, and J. A. Hudson (Memphis). All these churches and preachers were at peace and doing good work."

Women Need More and Better Blood

To be strong, well, equal to demands of home, society, office or shop.

It is a fact proven by thousands of grateful letters that Hood's Sarsaparilla is remarkably beneficial to young or older women.

The most common ailments of women drain and weaken the system and sometimes result in anemia, nervous weakness, general break-down. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives the blood more vitality and better color, makes stronger nerves, and contributes to the length and enjoyment of life.

TETTERINE

Clears Baby's Skin

and drives off the rash and pimples. Harmless, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

PILES CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or call without delay. Private reception rooms for ladies. Established since 1912. Free X-Ray examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

BABIES LOVE
MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

The Infants' and Children's Regulator. Pleasant to give—pleasant to take. Guaranteed purely vegetable and absolutely harmless. It quickly overcomes colic, diarrhoea, flatulency and other like disorders. The open published formula appears on every label.

At All Druggists

TOBACCO

Dear Reader:

I have a harmless remedy that will stop all craving for tobacco in any form, no matter how long you have been using it. Write to me, and I will tell you about it.

L. O. HINTON, Box 23, Spencer, Ind.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

Obituaries

Henderson.

Another of God's children has been called to the heavenly home. Euin, the daughter of Brother and Sister E. E. Henderson, departed this life on August 25, 1922. She was a beautiful girl of twenty-two summers, bearing the Christian graces, faithfulness, patience, purity, and love, to a marked degree. She obeyed the gospel several years ago, and met with the church at Fruit's Chapel, near Hopkinsville, Ky., and, Dorcaslike, she left "garments"—the "garments" of kindness, gentleness, and charity—which we shall ever cherish as did the friends of the ancient Dorcas. Interment in the family burying ground. Funeral services by W. A. Record and the writer.

H. H. WEST,

Frasier.

J. R. Frasier was born on March 7, 1845, and departed this life on August 4, 1922. He was a soldier in the Civil War, and was born into the family of God in 1885. He was married twice. To the first union were born eight children, only three of which are living. He was then married to Nancy Long, in 1887, and to this union were born ten children, four of which have passed to the beyond. In the death of Brother Frasier I have lost a very dear friend. I would say to the bereaved family: Weep not, as those who have no hope; but trust in the same Lord and in his blessed word, and all will be well. I join in the sorrow of this bereaved family in this sad hour.

L. W. HINSON.

Hughes.

On Thursday afternoon, July 20, 1922, the little town of Trenton, Tenn., was made sad by the death of Mrs. Brice Hughes. Before her marriage she was Miss Nev Pounds. She was born and reared near Milan, Tenn. It was my pleasure to know her all her life, and to know her was to love her. At her death she was about forty-six years old. She united with the church of Christ when quite young, and lived up to her duty to her loved ones, to her neighbors, and to her God. She had been an invalid for about five years. She loved the church and all the church members, and was always interested in their welfare. She often expressed herself as being ready to die. She had no children, but leaves a good husband to mourn her death. Brother F. O. Howell preached her funeral, and she was laid to rest in the Milan graveyard.

MRS. CHARLIE COPE.

Read.

Mrs. Serena Read, wife of William Clayton Read, was born in 1844 and died on August 29, 1922, aged seventy-eight years. Her husband died fifteen years ago, leaving her with eleven living children, one being dead. Both were members of the church of Christ, having obeyed the gospel about forty years ago. They were noted for their faithfulness in Christ. Mrs. Read was the oldest member at Victoria, near

SUCH PAINS AS THIS WOMAN HAD

Two Months Could Not Turn in Bed.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Finally Restored Health

Seattle, Washington.—"I had dragging pains first and could not stand on my feet, then I had chills and fever and such pains in my right side and a hard lump there. I could not turn myself in bed and could not sleep. I was this way for over two months, trying everything any one told me, until my sister brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly until all the hard pains had left me and I was able to be up and to do my work again. The hard lump left my side and I feel splendid in all ways. I know of many women it has helped."—Mrs. G. RICHARDSON, 4640 Orcas St., Seattle, Washington.

This is another case where Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought results after "trying everything any one told me" had failed.

If you are suffering from pain, nervousness and are always tired; if you are low spirited and good for nothing, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You may not only relieve the present distress, but prevent the development of more serious trouble.

I CURED MY FITS

by simple discovery. Doctors gave me up, says Mrs. P. Gramm, of 939 Fourth Street, Milwaukee, Wis. If you wish to try the same treatment I did, FREE, write to Mr. Lepso, 835 Island Avenue, Department 36, Milwaukee Wis.

JACOBS
&
COMPANY

SPECIAL ADVERTISING
AGENTS

PRINTERS DESIGNERS
PHOTOENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS

Catalogues
— a Specialty —

HOME OFFICE:
CLINTON, S.C.

ASPIRIN

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for Colds Headache Toothache Lumbago Earache Rheumatism Neuralgia Pain, Pain.

Accept only "Bayer" package, which contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacid-ester of Salicylicacid.

TETTERINE

Makes hair beautiful, free from dandruff, and keeps the scalp healthy.

50c at your druggist's or from the SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, back-aches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

To Reduce Fever
Relieve Headaches
and Neuralgic Pains

Use

Aspitone is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart even in extreme cases of debility or weak heart, neurasthenia or anaemia. Manufactured by a formula in use by leading physicians generally. 19 parts pure Aspirin, 1 part pure Caffeine, 4 parts excipient, in convenient tablet form. 35c per package at your druggists or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

Ashland City, Tenn., and was always at church until about one year ago, when she became disabled. We missed her very much, for she was a mother to us all in the church. She leaves eleven children, about fifty-seven grandchildren, and seventeen great-grandchildren, of which a goodly part are in the church of Christ, and the remainder are in sympathy with the truth. I believe she was loved better by all of her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren than any mother I know of, and also by the brethren and sisters in Christ Jesus. She was always busy. Her dress was neat and for comfort, and not for style, which would be a blessing to us to-day. She was laid to rest in the Read burying ground. O. E. WILLIAMS.

Matthews.

Calvin Matthews was born on December 31, 1891, and died on July 22, 1922. He was married to Ada King, daughter of Brother and Sister E. M. King, of Newton, Ala. He left two bright boys and a widow. Calvin united with the Methodist Church some years ago, but on August 17, 1919, during a meeting held by me, he identified himself with the church of Christ, thus determining to be only a Christian. He was a good man, and was so esteemed by his friends both in and out of the church. It had been my pleasure to be with him a great deal during the last three or four years in the annual meeting at Christian Home, and I had learned to love him. He was a good singer, and helped the congregation much during the worship. He will be missed in the home, in the church, in the community. Brother Matthews possessed one qualification of an elder not found in all modern homes—"having his children in subjection." It is true his children were small, but almost perfect obedience was rendered by them. May the Lord bless and comfort the widowed mother and the orphan children. VAN A. BRADLEY.

Barron.

Samford P. Barron was born in Meriwether County, Ga., on July 29, 1844, and died on December 25, 1921. When about three years of age he moved to Pike County, Ala., with his parents. He obeyed the gospel before the Civil War, while yet a young man. He was married to Susan Darby on November 1, 1866. Unto them six children were born, five of whom still live. Brother Barron moved to Andalusia, Ala., in 1875, where he spent practically all the remainder of his life, save three or four years in Florida. Brother Barron preached a great deal in and around Andalusia, and was instrumental in doing great good for the cause he loved so dearly. I knew and loved him as I have known and loved few men. I spent some three or four months in his home several years ago. He was humble and meek, tender and kind, gentle and loving, in his home life. I am a better man for having known and loved him. The first night I spent in his home he said: "Brother Bradley, I can get my family together only twice each day—at the evening and morning meals; therefore, we have prayer at the table. Lead us in prayer." After an absence of eleven years, I took supper with him again; and again at the table, before we were seated, he said: "Brother Bradley, lead us in prayer." I have never forgotten those two nights. Sister Barron died on September 8, 1921. She was a good woman and a dutiful wife. I expect to meet Brother and Sister Barron on the other side. VAN A. BRADLEY.

FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER

The Indianapolis Cancer Hospital, Indianapolis, Ind., has published a booklet which gives interesting facts about the cause of cancer, also tells what to do for pain, bleeding, odor, etc. A valuable guide in the management of any case. Write for it to-day, mentioning this paper.

Stop Laxatives

Which Only Aggravate Constipation

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe.

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it. Try it to-day.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

Church Furniture
WORK OF THE HIGHEST QUALITY
AT REASONABLE PRICES
Write for Catalogue
BUDE & WEIS MFG. CO.
JACKSON, TENNESSEE

A BRAND-NEW BOOK

"OLD LIMBER"

OR

THE TALE OF THE TAYLORS

By DeLONG RICE

"ALF and BOB TAYLOR, with their eloquence, their fiddles, and their fox hounds, have wrought for themselves a niche of eternal melody in the hearts of their country."

So states the author of this little book, which we present as the best product of the pen of DeLong Rice.

With a "Cast of Characters" extending from a President of the United States to a fox hound, the story touches a wide range of human sentiment; and through it all is the aroma of crackling camp fires and the music of the chase.

THE BOOK is beautifully printed and bound, appropriately illustrated, and packed in a neat gift box, ready for mailing.

PRICE, $1.00 THE COPY,
POSTPAID TO ANY ADDRESS.

Correspondence with Bookstores and News Agencies is invited.
Write to us to-day.

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

FARMERS AND MERCHANTS BANK

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

OFFICERS

A. E. POTTER, President
 JOE S. BOYD, Vice President
 FRANK M. THONI, Assistant Cashier
 EDWARD POTTER, JR., Cashier
 GEORGE W. BATES, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS

O. W. Staley	Harris Solinsky	Leon B. McQuiddy
Jos. C. Scheffer	G. A. Harrington	W. J. Wallace
John P. Stumb	L. Kornman	Justin Potter
A. E. Potter	Chris. J. Power	Louis Huggins
H. Z. Lipscomb	Joe S. Boyd	Edward Potter, Jr.

FOUR PER CENT PAID ON SAVINGS ACCOUNTS
 We Invite Your Banking Business.

HARDEMAN'S TABERNACLE SERMONS

A series of evangelistic sermons preached by N. B. Hardeman during the Great Nashville Meeting, held in the Ryman Auditorium, March 28-April 16. These sermons ring true to the Old Book, and have a charm of style and freshness of illustration that put them in a class by themselves.

All the profits derived from the sale of these books will be used to create a fund to help poor boys and girls attend
 Freed-Hardeman College.

The book will contain about 350 pages, with pictures of Hardeman, Pullias, and the audience, a history of the meeting, about twenty sermons, and an address delivered by Brother Pullias before the Exchange Club.

Bound in cloth, stamped in gold. Price, $1.50.

Book now being mailed to advanced subscribers.

Send all orders to N. B. HARDEMAN, Henderson, Tenn.

STATE BANK AND TRUST CO.
 NASHVILLE, TENN.

BROADWAY BRANCH
 Ninth and Broadway

4 Per Cent Interest Paid on Deposits

You'll feel better as soon as you swallow the first one. Two or three pills usually stop all the pain.
DR. MILES' ANTI-PAIN PILLS are absolutely free from all narcotics and habit-forming drugs. They relieve without danger and without bad after effects. Your druggist sells them.

Field Reports

Clarksville, Tenn., September 11.—
 Yesterday was the initial service in the new house in this city. We had three impressive, uplifting, inspiring services. The three-o'clock meeting was a praise and thanksgiving service, conducted largely by visiting brethren from near-by congregations. Splendid audiences at every service. The new house is a model in neatness. It is also substantial and commodious enough for all present needs. Brother
 J. G. Malphurs is the faithful minister, and is loved and honored by all. This meeting seems promising.—H. H.
 Adamson.

Cairo, Ill., September 14.—The church of Christ at this place, which meets in the W. O. W. Hall over the Alexander County Bank, corner Eighth Street and Commercial Avenue, is pushing forward in the work of the Lord.
 Brother W. F. Etheridge, of Middleton, Tenn., and Brother Joe Ratcliffe, of Bardwell, Ky., paid us a visit, which we all appreciated very much. Any ministers or members of the church of Christ passing through our city will find a glad hand at our services. We have no regular minister and are always glad to have one visit us. We have Sunday school at 10 A.M.; communion services, 11 A.M.—T. G. Roberson.

Monticello, Ky., September 12.— Aside from my regular work during the months of July and August, I held two meetings. The first was at Harrisonville, in Shelby County, Ky., with good interest, large crowds, and five additions. The next was at Union, near Science Hill, in Pulaski County, a two-weeks' meeting, with good interest and crowds and four additions. On September 3 I closed a two-weeks' meeting at Oil Valley, with seventeen additions. Among those baptized was one old man of seventy-five years, another of forty-five. The rest were young people from twelve to twenty-one. This old man makes four persons past the age of sixty I have baptized in that section since spring.
 The cause in Wayne County is in good condition and we are growing.—O. F.
 Shearer.

Stewart, Miss., September 11.—The meeting at Abbeville, Miss., came to a close on Friday night. It was the first meeting ever held there by our brethren; but Brethren Smith and Lowery had preached there once or twice. We had an excellent meeting, especially from the standpoint of attendance. The tent would not hold the people the first night, and we increased the seating capacity by one-half, and still it was full. Four noble ones made the good confession and were baptized, and a congregation of eleven members was left to break

SORES BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg.,
 Nashville, Tenn.

bread on the first day of the week. I am at present in a meeting six miles south of Stewart with a very weak, run-down congregation. The first service was greeted with a full house; for the second service we secured more seats, and they were all filled. We expect to have a good meeting, if we can get the indifferent and sinful brethren straightened out.—Charles F. Hardin.

Oakland, Miss., September 12.—For the past three weeks those of us who live in this section of Mississippi have enjoyed a spiritual feast in listening to the able and instructive preaching of Brother W. H. Owen, of David Lipscomb College. Beginning on the first Lord's day in August, Brother Owen preached seven days at Sylvan Knoll, three miles west from Coffeeville. Throughout the meeting the interest was excellent; and while there were only three confessions and baptisms, yet great good was done in the way of strengthening the faith and renewing the zeal of the membership. From the second Lord's day to Saturday before the third Lord's day, Brother Owen was with us at Enid, preaching eleven discourses. There were two confessions and baptisms during this meeting. On the first Lord's day in this month Brother Owen began a meeting with our home congregation here in Oakland. He continued here until Tuesday evening after the second Lord's day, giving us some much-needed Bible teaching. As a teacher of the Scriptures, Brother Owen is much more capable than many of our average men, and while he was with us he held the undivided attention of the large audiences which gathered to hear him in our new meetinghouse, which is now complete, thanks to those brethren everywhere who so nobly responded in helping us to build this house of worship. On the third Lord's day in August we began our meeting with the Jackson's Grove congregation, in Tallahatchie County, being assisted by the good and very earnest preaching of Brother A. R. Hill, of Charleston. Brother Hill bids fair to become an excellent accession to our preaching force in this part of Mississippi. In connection with this report of work, I want to say that we have gathered together a small congregation of good brethren and sisters about eight miles east of Oakland, near Ford's well, who are struggling to build a plain house of worship. They are now meeting in a schoolhouse; and as they are located in a splendid community, the prospects for building up a good working congregation are good. We want to assist them in building a house. Let me suggest that readers of the Gospel Advocate who are disposed to help write me and tell me about how much they can give on this work. I will then write them and tell them more about it and how to send money.—Lee Jackson.

"Lift up your heads, O ye gates; even lift them up, ye everlasting doors; and the King of glory shall come in." (Ps. 24: 9.)

Goodyear Raincoat FREE. We will send a handsome Rainproofed, All-Weather Coat to one person in each locality who will show and recommend it to friends. Write to-day to The Goodyear Mfg. Co., 7087-R Goodyear Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Dodson's Liver Tone

Killing Calomel Sale

Don't sicken or salivate yourself or paralyze your sensitive liver by taking calomel, which is quicksilver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it regulates the liver, stomach, and bowels better than calomel without making you sick. Fifteen million bottles sold.

W. W. PERRY
President

A. D. PERRY
Manager

W. D. PERRY
Treasurer

We Invite Your Patronage

PERRY FURNITURE
COMPANY

GENERAL HOUSE FURNISHERS

Phone, Main 1491

208 THIRD AVENUE, NORTH
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Renew your health
by purifying your system with

The purified and refined
calomel tablets that are free
from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel
and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c
and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

Renew your subscription to the
Gospel Advocate.

EXPERT DYEING AND DRY CLEANING

SEND BY PARCEL POST

"Over Forty Years"

Experience"

McEWEN'S LAUNDRY

NASHVILLE, TENN.

KEEPING WELL MEANS A CONSTANT FIGHT AGAINST CATARRH

Many diseases may be described as a catarrhal condition. Coughs, colds, nasal catarrh, stomach and bowel disorders are just a few of the very common ills due to catarrh.

Fight it! Fight catarrh with a remedy of assured merit, a remedy which has a reputation for usefulness extending over half a century—

DR. HARTMAN'S

PE-RU-NA

Tablets or Liquid

Sold Everywhere

GIRLS! LEMONS BLEACH FRECKLES AND WHITEN SKIN

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan bleach and complexion whitener.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion into the face, neck, arms, and hands each day, and see how freckles and blemishes bleach out, and how clear, soft, and rosy-white the skin becomes.

The Plum Street Church of Christ, Detroit, Mich.,

New meets in its new building, corner Hamilton Boulevard and Tuxedo Avenue. Visiting brethren welcome.

New York City Church of Christ

239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M., Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6857

DANDRUFF QUICKLY DISAPPEARS WHEN Tetterine

Is Applied. Fragrant and Soothing.
60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Sore Feet? Don't Worry. Here's a Remedy!

Hot foot bath. Dry feet carefully. Rub thoroughly with Eucapine Salve. Towel till dry. Then off to bed with a happy heart for your poor, sore feet will be better in the morning.

*Eucapine
Salve*

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic
(Prevents Infection)(Relieves Pain)(Allays Inflammation)

Is a great comfort in cases of inflamed conditions of the skin and of the membranes of the air passages. 50c per 2 oz. jar, at your druggist's or by prepaid parcel post from the manufacturers. Full size jar free to physicians and quantitative formula supplied if desired.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc.,
Clinton, S. C.

The Work in New York City.

BY E. E. SHOULDERS.

It is quite possible, and highly probable, that there are congregations, and also individuals, who without further hesitation would contribute to the support of the New York work if they had a full detailed report of the work. So, for the benefit of all, and to help those who contemplate helping in the support of this work to reach a quicker decision, I give the following communications between Brother Henry Craft, treasurer and secretary of the Campbell Street Church, of Louisville, Ky., and me. Brother Craft's letter is a reply to a brief report of the work here given by me and also a solicitation of a continuation of their support to this work, their promised year having expired.

Louisville, Ky., August 10, 1922.—Mr. E. E. Shoulders, 699 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.—Dear Brother Shoulders: I have your letter of August 7 with reference to the work in New York City, and very glad to hear from you. As to financial support of the Campbell Street Church to the work for next year, wish to say that so many of our members are out of the city at present that it would not be advisable to have a business meeting now to consider this matter; however, this will come before our next business meeting, which we will have sometime in September, and will then be glad to let you know just what the church decides. In the meantime, in order that I may the more intelligently present this matter, would you mind writing me: About how many members in the New York congregation? How many additions this year? About the average attendance? What amount has the New York congregation contributed to their work the first six months of this year? How much have they received from others the first six months of this year? Is the church in debt? If so, how much?

Fraternally yours,
HENRY CRAFT.

699 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., August 22, 1922.—Mr. Henry Craft, Louisville, Ky.—Dear Brother Craft: Your letter of August 10 was received. Glad to hear from you, and glad you felt free to write as you did regarding the work here.

Please allow me to say that there is not a member of the church anywhere who is more anxious to see this work grow and progress than I, at the same time realizing that every dollar contributed to the support of this work should count.

I wish it were possible for me to make more flattering reports about this work, like those we read from Texas and Tennessee; but the adverse circumstances under which we are laboring forbid such until we can have in this section such influences as go out from Abilene Christian College, in Texas, and David Lipscomb College and Freed-Hardeman College, in Tennessee. New York City, overshadowed by Jewish synagogues, Catholic cathedrals, and schools of skepticism, has a greater population than both Texas and Tennessee, and only one gospel preacher; then, shall we wonder that in seven months greater achievements have not been attained?

I now give attention to your questions.

We have about twenty-three members "on the roll." A few of them live out from the city at such distances that it makes it rather expensive to come to services in New York, also requires more time in transit than most twentieth-century Christians are willing to spend in going to and from church.

We have had no additions this year to the city church by baptism, but four by residence (moved here). However, there are a few adults attending of whom we feel hopeful.

Our average attendance is about sixteen.

Contributions by the New York church from January 1 to August 1 amount to $439.32. Received from outside churches and individuals for the same time, $477.80.

Thus far the church is not in debt, but present indications are that it will be at the end of this month. The

Buy Your Bibles, Testaments, Song Books, Bible Lesson Helps, and Other Books

From Gospel Advocate Company

Let's make it mutual; we will help you, you help us

Address all orders to
GOSPEL ADVOCATE
COMPANY, 317-319
Fifth Avenue, North,
Nashville, Tennessee

Refreshes Weary Eyes

When Your Eyes feel Dull and Heavy, use Murine. It Instantly Relieves that Tired Feeling—Makes them Clear, Bright and Sparkling. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.

MURINE
FOR YOUR EYES

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC
SOLD 50 YEARS
A FINE GENERAL TONIC

HALF THE FIGHT AGAINST ILLNESS

Keep the Liver Prepared to Do Its Duty in Cleansing the System Black-Draught Will Help

Kernersville, N. C.—Mrs. Wesley Mabe, who resides near here, says Thedford's Black-Draught is kept in her home all the time, since it has proved very valuable when used to correct derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels, and to help prevent sickness from developing from such conditions.

"For dizziness, headache, colds, and similar troubles, Black-Draught is a wonder," according to Mrs. Mabe.

"It helps carry away bile and cold the easiest of any medicine I ever saw.

"I have used Black-Draught with my whole family, and will continue to do so, as it has proven its worth. We are glad to recommend Black-Draught. My health is just fine."

Black-Draught has been found a useful adjuvant in breaking up colds, when the use of a laxative or cathartic medicine is indicated. It acts upon the liver as a tonic, helping it to drive poisons and unhealthful matters from the system.

Biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, bitter taste in the mouth, often warn you that your liver is out of fix. Don't neglect it. Prevention of illness is better than cure. Take Black-Draught for your liver. Be sure you get Thedford's.

Most druggists sell Black-Draught. Get a package to-day—Thedford's.

Cuticura Soap

—IS IDEAL—

For the Hands

Soap, Ointment, Talcum, &c., everywhere. For samples address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

THE B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.

We are preparing our mailing list for our New Catalogue. If you are interested in a free copy, write us.

B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.
CHURCH STREET
Nashville, Tennessee

CANCER

HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

promised one hundred and fifty dollars a month from outside churches was in reality around sixty dollars a month; therefore, the small reserve in the treasury was drawn upon each month to meet the deficit until the July disbursements reduced it to three dollars. The time promised by some of those churches composing the sixty-dollar income has expired, leaving an outside income of about thirty-seven dollars a month. This church is alert to its responsibilities and is doing all it can financially. It is composed of working people paying New York City rents and other living expenses, yet the coins of the average contribution basket are foreign to this one, as the adults contribute bills exclusively. For example, last Sunday we had present eleven adults, with a contribution of nineteen dollars and twenty cents. For advertising, free literature, and mission work, we have made special collections amounting to about eighty-five dollars.

We are anxious to hold some mission meetings, but have found no building we can secure free or within our means; but we are preaching on the street and distributing free literature. We know we could grow far more rapidly, preach to more who have not obeyed the gospel, and build up this work generally, if we had a place of meeting which we could use on Sunday morning and evening. As it is, we can have the use of our present place on Sunday afternoon only; though we meet two Sunday evenings a month in the home of an elderly lady (Methodist), and prior to our outdoor meetings we had midweek Bible study in the home of a Baptist family in a New Jersey city near here. Rent here is so high that we can find nothing suitable for less than one hundred and fifty dollars a month.

Again I thank you for your interest and consideration; and if there are any other questions upon which you desire information, don't hesitate to write me.

E. E. SHOULDERS.

Louisville, Ky., August 25, 1922.—Dear Brother Shoulders: Yours of August 22 is received, and your report is full and complete. I will present this at our next business meeting, which will be sometime toward the middle of September.

Fraternally,

HENRY CRAFT.

Secretary and Treasurer.

The following are a few excerpts from letters received by Brother McKee, the treasurer of this church, which he requests that I give in these notes:

From a student in David Lipscomb College: "Find inclosed money order for ten dollars. My mother and I, desiring to help, wish we could send more, but cannot, as she is a widow of very limited means, and I am working my way through school. I wish for your success, and my prayers are to that end."

From a sister in Oklawaha, Fla.: "I am sending a small amount (one dollar) toward the mission work in that great city. I do wish I could send more, for I long to see the cause of Christ firmly established over all the land. I pray that others may feel an interest in that work, and that God will give you faithful few the courage to keep up the fight against Satan."

From a sister in Tampa, Fla.: "Please find inclosed five dollars to help support the great cause which we all should be most interested in. May our Heavenly Father help us increase our faith to carry on his work here for the saving of souls and to honor and glorify his name."

From a sister in St. Petersburg, Fla.: "Find inclosed one dollar for helping Brother Shoulders sound out the word and spread the gospel, which is so badly needed in this day. May you all prosper and in the near future have a strong church of Christ at that place."

From a brother in Birmingham, Ala.: "Please find inclosed five dollars. I will send five dollars a month to that work for one year."

I wonder how many congregations or individuals are willing to pattern after the above by making a monthly contribution of at least five or ten dollars to this work? There are hundreds of you, my dear readers, who are not making the sacrifice that the above contributors are making; neither are you giving as the Lord has prospered you. We are in real earnest about this work. Are you? Yesterday it was pouring down a cold rain, but sixteen found it in their hearts to "forsake not the assembling" of themselves together. Our contribution was twenty-four dollars. Not a coin in the plate. Brother McKee said that in the two years of this church's existence he could not recall there being as much as one dollar in coin contributed at any one time—bills always. We mention this not boastfully, but as an example and to prove our earnestness. We need the support you can give, and we must have it to succeed in our fight against Satan.

Send all contributions to George M. McKee, Box 15, Station N, New York, N. Y.

Permanent Muscular Strength cannot exist where there is not blood strength. Young men giving attention to muscular development should bear this in mind. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives blood strength and builds up the whole system.

FRED K. JONES

Buying, Selling, and Exchanging
REAL ESTATE

I Make an Effort to Assist All
Who Call on Me

43 ARCADE

NASHVILLE, TENN.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

School starts again soon, and the important question of whether or not our boys and girls continue in school will be decided by mothers and fathers and boys and girls themselves.

Also, decisions no less important will be made as to what system of training and what school is best.

My advice would always be a Bible school. "Seek ye first His kingdom" is as wise from a business viewpoint as it is from a religious viewpoint.

Not only is the Bible the true "Book of Life," but it contains the finest and best literature of all ages and the answer to all problems.

Education tacked on as an ornament is of little value. Indeed, we have seen seemingly good material spoiled with a burden of false and vain ideas.

The schools are developing systems of training that are practical and usable, endeavoring to draw out and develop faculties for thought and work, teaching men and women to know their own powers and to organize and work with the powers of nature.

School books are, or should be, made up of principles found out and tried by great minds gone before. While experience is the best teacher, and one never forgets her lessons, yet she requires a long time and many mistakes, usually, and one should learn as much as possible from the recorded experience of others.

A school that does not make a better man and a better workman fails in its service to mankind. So, while a boy or girl should think well before quitting on the job of going to school, they should think no less seriously on the kind of school and the knowledge to be gained.

It is my sincere belief that parents should make every effort to give their children the right kind of education. Since this cannot always be had free, a system of savings should be built up as the child grows, guaranteeing sufficient money to pay for it.

With this in view, our Thrift Policies were brought out. Parents may encourage their children to save 25 cents, 50 cents, or $1.00 a week, investing in a policy that will not only guarantee the necessary funds for higher education, but will teach thrift and self-denial by daily practice and build strong character.

A father or mother may also carry a policy on their own lives, at a small annual cost, that guarantees the welfare of their children, should death interfere.

No part of education is more important than this. Start your child right from the beginning.

A. M. BURTON, President

THE LIFE AND CASUALTY INSURANCE COMPANY OF TENNESSEE

Organized 1903

Capital Stock, $500,000.00

HOME OFFICE—NASHVILLE

We have established a Home Office Training School for the benefit of those who choose life insurance as a profession. Applications to this school may be made to Mr. Russell S. King, Director.

Gospel Advocate

June 1 22
Martindale

Volume LXIV. No. 39.

NASHVILLE, TENN., SEPTEMBER 28, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

The Primary Truths of Christianity.....	913
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	915
"Church" or "Churches;" Which?—How It Feels to Be Turned Out of a Church—Notes from West Tennessee —"The Simplicity That Is in Christ"—Los Angeles (Cal.) Notes—To and Fro Among the Churches— Travels in Texas, Oklahoma, and Tennessee—Soul Insurance—Please Read This—What We Know and Do Not Know—The Aim of Education.....	922
TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT.....	924
EVANGELISTIC NOTES.....	926
HOME READING.....	927
EDITORIAL.....	928
Singing with the Understanding—The Home.....	929
Some Observations.....	930
What Is Success?.....	931
Commendation of Article.....	932
Doing Mission Work—"In His Name".....	933
FIELD REPORTS.....	934
Roll of Students of J. A. Harding.....	935
Nourishing the Body.....	936
Brother Grump.....
Does Christ's Kingdom Now Exist?.....

"THE PRIMARY TRUTHS OF CHRISTIANITY."

[Our readers are treated this week to an article by A. Campbell, published in the Millennial Harbinger of 1861.—H. Leo B.]

"Who are the great preachers? The great preachers of the world have been those who were in direct sympathy with human life, and who had an end to gain with the men before them. But with culture and scholastic habits, men have interpreted the word of God: 'Follow me, and I will make you a preacher of sermons.' The end of preaching is not a good sermon, but a holy heart. Fine sermons have nearly ruined good preaching. If ministers cared more for their people and less for their sermons, they would be more useful. Preaching has almost ceased to be a living business between a man's heart and the wants of his congregation. Learning, rhetoric, eloquence, are good as collateral influences, but no man will win souls who does not feel the throbbing pulse of his whole congregation—who does not know their lives—who does not understand how to take the primary truths of Christianity and apply them to the consciences of men in their daily business of life. Such will be certainly efficacious, and such preaching is necessary to the filling up of the churches. Were such preaching universal in our time, not only would our churches be filled to overflowing, but thousands would have to be built; for you may depend upon it, there is never a man who preaches intelligent truth, and preaches it with a living sympathy for men, that people do not flock to hear him." (Exchange paper.)

This is, indeed, an important and a most interesting inquiry—"who are the great preachers of Christianity?" While we sympathize with the inquirer, we can neither assent to the terms of the inquiry nor to the response which he gives to it.

We never read in the New Testament of preaching Christianity or of a preacher of Christianity. We do, indeed, read of the gospel, and of preaching of the gospel. No one that has been indoctrinated in the schools of the preaching or the teaching of Christianity can either preach the gospel or teach the gospel as presented in the Christian Scriptures.

"Christianity" is an abstract term, a speculative idea, never once named by an inspired apostle, evangelist, pastor, or teacher. It is wholly a barbarous terminology, never used by an inspired preacher, teacher, or writer, in the whole volumes of Divine Revelation. "Christ and Christian" are evangelical terms of apostolic authority, because they have a positive and real existence. We have a real, positive, and actual "Christ" and "Christian" in the evangelical terminology of inspiration. They are positive and real existences. But Christianity, theology, Christology, orthodoxy, heterodoxy, are pure speculative abstractions of human reason or imagination. Hence, they are wholly contraband, unscriptural, and unauthorized by any divinely commissioned apostle, prophet, or evangelist found in the volumes of Divine Inspiration. We, therefore, reprobate and repudiate them in toto. Let us hear Paul: "Moreover, brethren, I declare to you the gospel which I preached to you, which also you have received, and wherein you stand; by which also you are saved, if you keep in memory what I preached to you, unless, indeed, you have believed in vain," or to no purpose.

A preacher is a herald—a proclaimer of news in the form of facts and events. A proclaimer of a theory, a speculation, a philosophy, is not found in holy writ nor in good sense. Teaching doctrines is current and intelligible. We teach a doctrine, not a fact nor an event. We find preaching and teaching in the Acts of the Apostles, in one verse: "Daily in the temple, and in every house, they ceased not to teach and preach the glad tidings that Jesus is the Christ." (Acts 5: 42.) This distinction obtains in various forms. In the Gospel of Matthew, in the commission, it is most amply set forth: "Make disciples of all nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit: teaching them all things whatsoever I commanded you." Teach all nations, teaching them, would be a pleonasm unprecedented in the Holy Scriptures. Preaching to a people is admissible; but teaching to a people is wholly inadmissible. Preaching, teaching, and exhorting are canonized as three distinct works. We preach to a people, but we do not teach to a people nor exhort to a people. We preach to them; we teach them and we exhort them. These are canonized formulas in sacred Scripture.

Sprinkling a babe is neither good sense nor good English. We can sprinkle fluids, but we cannot sprinkle solids. Sprinkling babes or adults is literally impossible. It is possible to sprinkle a fluid, but impossible to sprinkle a solid. We could sprinkle water on or upon a human being, infant or adult. But no man ever found, in any version of the commission, the word "upon," nor any word answering thereunto. Among all the baseless assumptions and presumptions of Bible interpretations, that of rantizing or sprinkling an infant or an adult is the climax of literary, scientific, and religious fancies and presumptions. We can neither sprinkle nor pour man, woman, or child. We can pour or sprinkle a fluid upon them. But the word "upon," or any representative of it, is never once found in connection with baptism in the Christian Scriptures!

But the facts of Christianity—or, rather, the facts of the gospel—are, one and all, superlatively perspicuous as they are superlatively interesting and important. Pouring on or upon, or sprinkling on or upon anything, are sensible and intelligible acts; so are dipping or immersing a solid substance in any fluid. Hence, the oracle or language of the commission is as intelligible and comprehensible as any oracle, precept, promise, or threatening found on the pages of Divine Revelation. But this only by the way.

There are three positive precepts in the Christian kingdom, of the highest authority and of the greatest importance to man. These are believe, repent, and be baptized. They stand in Holy Scripture in this order, in the same immutability as that of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit. We might, with the same propriety, place the Holy Spirit first, the Son second, and the Father third in order, as to place baptism first, repentance second, and faith third. Courteous and inquisitive reader, think of this, ruminate upon this, and digest it if you can.

Were there not, and are there not, always two tables of the law? The first table, Christendom says, teaches and enjoins our duties to God—that is, teaches religion. The second table teaches our duties to man—that is, morality. Did any man of sense ever place morality first and religion second, either in position or in importance?

There is, indeed, an obtuseness of mind, or a paralysis of reason, most apparent in that class of religionists who place repentance before faith, speaking before hearing, and baptism before either faith or repentance. That ox or ass that has the cart before him rather than behind him makes slow progress in his journey to the pasture field. "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth; and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty." (Prov. 11: 24.)

Prejudice is a great and heartless tyrant, and holds in abject abeyance the intellectual, moral, and religious nature of man. Conscience, however, cannot long be bribed. It will at first whisper in a still, small voice; but if unheeded, by and by it will, in terrific and appalling thunder tones, bring the unhappy delinquent to his knees and constrain him to plead for mercy.

Instead of "the primary truths of Christianity," let us substitute for them the primary facts of the gospel. And what are these? Let Paul, the apostle to the Gentiles, answer this all-absorbing question. To the Corinthians (First Epistle, fifteenth chapter) he makes a full declaration—not a preaching—of it, in these express terms: "Now I declare to you, brethren, the gospel which I preached to you, which you also received, and in which you stand; by which you are saved, also, if you keep in memory what I preached unto you, unless you have believed in vain," or to no purpose. "But I delivered to you among the chief things, what I also received; how that Christ died for our sins, according to the Scriptures of the prophets; and that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day, according to the Scriptures; and that he was seen of Peter, then by the twelve [apostles]. After that he was seen by above five hundred brethren at once, of whom the majority remain until now, but some are fallen asleep. After that he was seen by James; then by all the apostles in one assembly. And last of all he was seen by me also, as by one born out of due time. Therefore, whether it were I or they, so we preach, and so you believed."

This is a lucid and definite and an all-authentic exposition and declaration of the gospel of the grace of God. Incomparably more important, more intelligible, and, therefore, more satisfactory, than any, indeed, than all of the modern orthodox or heterodox expositions and exhibitions of it from the first to the last council or conventional assembly, reported or chronicled on the pages of ecclesiastical history, from the first to the last line.

It is these facts, by the Holy Spirit chronicled, that, when received, illuminate the understanding, pierce the conscience, purify the heart, and renew the life of man, and consecrate him as a temple for the Holy Guest—the Spirit of the Father and of the Son.

We care not whether this be called "orthodoxy" or "heterodoxy," because neither of these is canonical, and both of them may in all their hierarchal glory descend into Hades or Gehenna. Satan is as orthodox as Paul, or Peter, or John. And yet he is the adversary of God, of holy angels, and of all good men. But truths and truisms never saved nor damned a human being. They are the pastimes of knaves and simpletons. We believe and hope and rejoice in an exalted, enthroned, and glorified Potentate—the Lord of lords, the King of kings, and the sublime Autocrat of heaven and eternity.

Gospel Advocate Company.

BY H. LEO B.

Every home ought to have many good books in it. New books of great value should be added to the home library and the young people should be encouraged to read wholesome literature. The Gospel Advocate Company will help you to select just such books as will be a blessing to your home.

"Center Shots at Sin. By Arthur Talmage Abernethy. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

An arsenal of religious ammunition, assembled by a strategist experienced in fighting uphill. The author is a strong and virile thinker; his style, clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eye-opener.

"The Glorious Gospel." By Adam K. Adcock. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

"No one except a thorough and devout student of the Scriptures could have written 'The Glorious Gospel.' The author shows excellent analytic and synthetic power and knowledge in the selection and organization of the biblical teaching on the various subjects treated." (Christian Journal.)

"Sermons for the People." By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

Few books of sermons combine the qualities of interest, instruction, and inspiration to the degree in which they are united in this volume. The author is a master in the field of popular sermonizing, and some of his best work is to be found in this collection. There is not a dull page in the book. The text fairly sparkles with original and apt narratives.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume I. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

The gospel is always attractive when presented by W. H. Book. These sermons were not written in a study, but were stenographically reported as the burning words were uttered by the master preacher, under the inspiration of the great audience which flocks to hear him every week.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume II. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

A companion volume to the author's first book of sermons. Reported in the same way and published because of the unusual demand the first volume created.

"The Indiana Pulpit." Edited by W. H. Cook. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

This series of twenty-two practical sermons, each discourse being the best one preached by as many leading Indiana preachers, presents vital Christianity in a most attractive way. "The Indiana Pulpit" will be especially helpful to young preachers. The topics are varied and the discourses are from men of learning and experience. It will make each who reads it better, and it will strengthen the faith of all who carefully peruse its pages." (George A. Miller.)

"Lights on Scripture Truths." (Former title, "Side Windows.") By Mattie M. Boteler. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.

A valuable ready-reference compendium of original, forceful and apt illustrations for the busy preacher, Sunday-school teacher, and religious worker. The striking originality and practical usefulness of each illustration puts this volume in a class all by itself. A carefully prepared topical index and alphabetically arranged table of contents add greatly to its usefulness. Its distinct value is that the author has followed the example of the great Teacher in illustrating profound truths by examples familiar to all. "I found one illustration that was well worth the price of the book." (S. M. Bernard.)

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Our Contributors

"Church" or "Churches"—Which?

BY LEE JACKSON.

I very much enjoyed reading Brother Kurfees' answers to my questions in the Gospel Advocate of August 10. Brother Kurfees writes in an admirable style and spirit, and his articles are always instructive. It is a pleasure to read after men who deal capably and fairly with subjects that are in controversy.

Brother Kurfees quotes Acts 9: 31, and says that this passage justifies using the word "church" in a provincial sense, "as, for example, the church in Kentucky or the church in Tennessee." Apparently the reading of the revised text sustains this claim; yet in the Authorized Version the word "church" is in the plural form. I have before me a list of the manuscript copies which vary in their support of each one of the two different readings; and while it is said that the weight of authority is in favor of the singular form of the word "ecclesia," yet it is by no means certain that this claim is correct. In all other similar forms of expression found in the New Testament the word "ecclesia" has the plural form, unquestioned, and so in all our English Versions we read, "churches of Judea," "churches of Galatia," "churches of Macedonia," "churches of Christ," "churches of the saints," "the seven churches of Asia." And it may here be stated that scholars who have examined into this matter tell us that if this reading of the Revised Version is as it was written by Luke, it is the only instance of such a form of expression occurring in any kind of literature for a period of at least two hundred years following the planting of the first congregation in Jerusalem. One author, Lord King, tells us that all of the early Christian writers, whenever speaking of the Christians of any kingdom or province, always use the plural form, as "churches" or "congregations" of such a kingdom or province, thus following the New Testament rule. Not until the apostasy from the primitive purity and simplicity of New Testament speech had reached a considerable stage of advancement did this custom of calling the aggregated congregations in a province the "church" of that province begin to prevail. In view of all this array of outside testimony, independent translators and commentators have not hesitated to follow the adopted reading of the King James Version, some of them assigning the additional reason that it is more likely that a copyist of early times should have dropped a letter from the word "ecclesia," thus causing it to appear in its singular form, than that such copyist should have added a letter to make the plural. With his extensive facilities for research, and with his well-cultivated natural abilities, Brother Kurfees might make it profitable to some of us by giving a little more information on the "provincial church" idea. In this present age, and under existing conditions, how are we to distinguish the general or provincial "church of Christ" in Kentucky or Tennessee so as to know it as different from the other general bodies of people who also say that they are churches of Christ? If we call all of those who are of our way of thinking and teaching on all matters of difference the one "church of Christ" in Tennessee, how are we to avoid the mistake of making ourselves a denomination?

Admitting the Revised reading of Acts 9: 31 to be a correct expression of what was written by Luke, despite the fact of this being questionable, by substituting the word "congregation" for the word "church," we may read: "So the congregation throughout all Judea and Galilee and Samaria had peace, being edified," etc. This is according to the rendering of the "Living Oracles," as edited by Alexander Campbell, a difference being that I place the word "congregation" in the singular, whereas Campbell has followed the rule of adopting the plural form. The question arises, what congregation does the inspired writer refer to? Does he refer to something as a general or provincial congregation, or does he refer to the Jerusalem congregation which had been dispersed throughout the provinces named upon the occasion of the persecution that arose about Stephen? Only five paragraphs previous to the statement quoted Luke records: "And there arose on that day a great persecution against the church which was in Jerusalem; and they were all scattered abroad throughout the regions of Judea and Samaria, except the apostles. . . . They therefore that were scattered abroad went about preaching the word." (Acts 8: 1-4; compare Acts 9: 13, 14, with Acts 11: 19.) This "church" in Jerusalem was simply the congregation in that city, and it is spoken of in such a manner that it is at once distinguished from any other congregation that may have been in existence at that time; note, "the congregation which was in Jerusalem." In the early chapters of Acts the inspired writer has his attention fixed upon the congregation in Jerusalem—its activities, its trials, and its fortunes; and so he makes this congregation, even in the dispersion of its members, the subject of his records. And this is found to be true whether the word "ecclesia" is to be accepted as singular or plural in this disputed passage. This is more reasonable than to suppose that Luke in this one single instance so far deviated from the general style of his own writing, for subsequent to this he mentions all congregations as separate entities and as belonging to the places where they were situated.

We appreciate Brother Kurfees' information that there is no Greek lexicon which defines "basileia" and "ecclesia" as meaning the same thing, the first of these words meaning the reign of a king, or the domain of a reigning king, while the other one means a congregation or an assembly. Brother Kurfees gives the word "ecclesia" as meaning "'called out' or 'a called-out assembly.'" This helps toward a better understanding of passages in which the word "church" occurs. For instance, we all can understand that the calling out of persons does not constitute a kingdom, and neither does the act of bringing persons together as an assembly make them a kingdom. And we can also understand how it is that under the preaching of the gospel persons are "called out" from the world into a state of salvation in Christ, and yet these "called-out" persons meet together and worship as separate congregations—as separate "churches" of Christ. There were congregations or "churches of God" in Judea, and in the province of Galatia, as in other states and provinces where the gospel had been preached, and all the Christians that made up these congregations were "called-out" persons—the called of God; yet they did not all simply constitute one congregation or "church of God" in these respective provinces, for each province had in it a plurality of congregations. As in Galatia, for instance, in response to the gospel call, all were baptized into Christ, being translated into the kingdom of the Son of God's love, yet they were not all identified in membership with the same congregation or "church of Christ." The seven congregations of Asia, to which John was commanded to write, are not addressed as being one provincial "'church' of Christ;" for those of Ephesus were not associated in membership with the "church of Christ" at Smyrna, and neither were those of Thyatira members at Sardis. And, as head over all, Christ was in their midst as being in the midst of seven separate institutions.

Timorousness is called caution, rashness is called quickness of spirit, covetousness is frugality.—Jeremy Taylor.

"The Simplicity That Is in Christ."

BY O. C. LAMBERT.

More "everyday" people is the crying need of the hour—people without worldly ambition, in love with simple things and content in humble spheres. The laws in control of this universe seem to demand that one of the leading characteristics of everything great or good or beautiful be simplicity. The weakness of our modern civilization lies in the fact that it is so complex that we do not have time to really live. We have drifted away from the simple, wholesome ways, and the church, too, has been tainted with the spirit of the times.

The simple ways are best. The most satisfying drink is water; all the glory of Solomon could not rival for one moment a simple dogwood blossom; the most beautiful bouquet is made of the plainest flowers and grasses; the artist searches for beauty among rustic scenes; the sweetest poetry sings the charms of common things; the songs that touch us most deeply and linger longest in our memories are the hymns our mothers sung. A man may gorge himself with dainties until his taste is perverted and he loses his relish for food; and just so the only religion worthy of the name, that will continue to satisfy the hungry, healthy, growing soul, is the simple worship of Christ and his apostles. All the embellishments of men simply rob it of its power. Expensive houses and fixtures, pompous ceremonies, instrumental music and the like, are adulterations which are fatal to the spirit of Christianity.

It is not because mother is possessed of any of those graces which mark one for distinction or renown that she is idolized in our hearts, but because we see in her the embodiment of simple virtues.

The wonderful things that God is doing all around us in the material universe we personify as Nature. She has a fashion of constructing the most beautiful things of the simplest elements. Refuse animal and vegetable matter comes forth from her fingers reanimated in other forms of life. She distills the crystal dewdrops from stagnant morasses and thrusts her worn-out garments into her magic loom, by which they are transformed into new fabrics of finest texture and daintiest colors. If a man attempted to teach the flowers to bloom, he could only mar and spoil; likewise, when men lay unholy hands upon God's doings in the spiritual realm, the results cannot but be disastrous. Hear the warning of Paul: "But I fear, lest by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtlety, so your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ." (2 Cor. 11: 3.)

There is a danger, or else we would not have had this warning. So let us guard jealously the rich heritage of the gospel of Christ, and attack mercilessly every departure from its original simplicity. There is nothing in the prayers, the Lord's Supper, the study of God's word, the giving of our means on the first day of the week, the simple singing of spiritual songs, that will ever appeal to the vanity of the human heart. Let us never become dissatisfied with this simplicity.

Los Angeles (Cal.) Notes.

BY W. EDGAR MILLER.

Summer is drawing to a close, vacation season is about ended, and the dispersed ones are returning to take up the burden of life again. The result was plainly noticeable last Sunday at the Central congregation, 1720 South Flower Street, where the house was well filled. Brother Witty preached two good sermons to attentive and appreciative audiences and one was added by statement.

Brother Russell King has returned to his home in Nashville, Tenn. We were sorry to see Brother King go, for he had endeared himself to us all during his short stay with us. By his unostentatious manner and homelike ways he makes his way into the hearts of all. Then, too, while here he preached a number of most excellent sermons, which, coupled with the fact that he "filled in" while Brother Wright was on a visit home, made him a most valuable aid to us, and we hope that this may not be his last visit to these parts.

Brother R. E. Wright has returned from his visit home and is in harness again, and we were delighted to welcome him back "home." We only wish he could have brought his family back with him, for then we know he would be here to stay; but we hope that time is not far distant. He is an able and fearless preacher of the gospel, and we have learned to love him, not only for himself, but for his work's sake.

In the meantime the "man who stayed at home" is not to be forgotten. During the hot summer months when others were cooling and resting themselves by the seashore or in the mountains there was one man who just kept "toiling on" day after day, looking after the Lord's business. From early morn till late at night he is on the "go," visiting the sick and needy, looking up the strangers, and encouraging one and all and exhorting to greater service in the Lord's work. Since the beginning of Central Congregation he has proved himself to be level-headed, courageous, a hard worker, and a man who has the cause of Christ at heart, and he preaches the word. That's Samuel E. Witty.

The work in this section of the State is growing and the prospects are good. Pasadena recently had an all-day meeting, in which the most, if not all, of the surrounding congregations took part and which all enjoyed. Santa Ana recently closed a protracted meeting, held by Brother Fuqua, with a number of additions. Sichel Street congregation is to begin a meeting next Lord's day, with Brother Fuqua preaching, and on the last Lord's day in September Pomona is to have an all-day meeting, to which all are invited. On the first Lord's day in October there will be a joint business meeting of the elders and deacons of the Ontario and the Central congregations, to which all who wish to attend are invited.

There is a movement on foot to inaugurate a singing school in a number of the congregations in and surrounding Los Angeles, this school to be taught by Brother Noble Nay. In regard to Brother Nay, it is enough to say that if he cannot teach you to sing, you are hopeless. And we certainly do need some teaching along this line, and we also need to develop some song leaders. One song leader in a congregation is not enough. There should be several who are capable of leading, and most congregations have those who could lead if they but had the training.

SPECIAL OFFER.

We are trying to increase the circulation of the Gospel Advocate, knowing that as we increase its circulation we are broadening its field of usefulness and thereby doing more good for our Master. Will you coöperate with us in this good work? The subscription list of the Gospel Advocate is growing daily, and we want you to help us do even greater things for the Lord through its columns. Here is our Special Offer: If you will send us two new subscribers for a year, we will send you a copy of Peloubet's "Select Notes on the International Sunday-school Lessons." This book includes all the Sunday-school lessons for the year 1922. It formerly sold for $2. The price of the Gospel Advocate is $2 per year. Send to the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

How It Feels to Be Turned Out of a Church.

BY J. G. ALLEN.

The Bible lays down rules to govern man that are absolutely safe. For instance, the Bible says for the child to obey the parent. This is based on the principle that the parent, being older than the child, knows things from an actual experience that a child cannot know experimentally. A child may believe a proposition, but cannot know it experimentally because of tender years.

I recall that many times when I was a small boy my father would tell me about certain evils; but I would think, about like boys do to-day, that father meant well, but just didn't know half as much as I did. But time—yes, time has convinced me that father knew and I did not. We all believe that it borders on to presumption for a child to lay claims of knowing better what is best for its own good than its parent.

God's dealings with man are based on the principle that age brings knowledge to man through experience that cannot be obtained in any other way. Hence, when the church was established, God said not to select a young man as an overseer or elder over the flock, but select one that has obtained knowledge experimentally by first governing his own children; "for if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?" Now, men have tried to violate the divine rule laid down in the Bible; but there has never been one instance but that evil instead of good resulted.

The Bible is a wonderful book. It contains a complete plan from God as to man's duty, first to God, then to his fellow man. When I meet with men to-day that think they know better what is best for man to do, as service to God, than what the Bible says, I feel that such a one is not far from the borderland of presumption, if he has not already passed over.

Personally I know many things, that I have learned from an actual experience, that I never knew until I came out West. I might ask the brethren in Nashville, my home for so many years, how they would feel if they should be placed in a large city where there was no loyal congregation, and many of them just could not imagine how lonesome they would feel, but I know from an actual experience. Then, again, how would you feel if you were actually turned out of a church? I know exactly how a fellow would feel, because I have had that experience. I went to a busy little city in this State not long since, and learned that there was a little band of Christians there at one time, but a wolf in sheep's clothing had gone in among them and scattered the flock. Against his protest, I was given permission to preach in the house on Monday night. After the sermon, I asked them to come back the next night. The preacher arose and objected. He then put it to a vote, and all voted for services next night except four. So next night, when I announced services, he arose and said that I should not preach there any more, and dismissed the congregation. I have learned some things since I came West.

Notes from West Tennessee.

BY JOHN R. WILLIAMS.

A HARD PROPOSITION.

The earnest, devoted, conscientious preacher of the gospel has many hard propositions to grapple with, and some that he is powerless to overcome. Sometimes a congregation will call a preacher for a meeting sometime in the future, and urge him to book the time, for "we shall expect you to hold our meeting without fail." Before the time comes for the meeting they call another preacher and do not so much as inform the first preacher called of the change. He is ignorant of the change until he hears it through outsiders that Brother D— is to hold the meeting. Right now I know of two congregations that have called two preachers each for a meeting in 1923 at the same time and the same place, and both of these preachers are ignorant of this mix-up of things. So some of you preachers that have promised to hold meetings in Obion County in 1923 had better investigate the matter and see how the matter stands.

Sometimes these mix-ups are brought about by the preacher accepting a call from some individual member and not from the whole congregation. When a congregation calls a preacher for a meeting and he accepts and books the call, then the congregation calls another, they are justly and honestly due the first preacher for the time and should pay it. The gospel preacher is to live of the gospel, and congregations should deal fairly and honestly by the preacher. To do otherwise is to act dishonorably—"wrong your brother."

One of the hardest propositions the poor, devoted, sincere preacher has to encounter is the "she-elder" proposition and a few other "she's." When the preacher fails to please the "she elder," his time and labor is wanted no more at that place where the "she elder" presides. What poor preacher has not felt, oftentimes to his loss, the influence of the "she elder" and a few other "she's?"

When these "she elders" and a few other "she's" set their wits to work against the preacher, he had better look for more inviting fields, even though he has to go to Arkansas, Missouri, or Texas. For many years I have noticed, and in many instances felt, the influence of the "she elders." The devil is never better satisfied than when a henpecked husband is appointed elder of some congregation, because he knows full well the wife of that henpecked husband will run things to her notion or "bust" up the whole thing. Women are getting in the lead in nearly everything under the sun, and we need not be surprised to see her in the lead in the church.

The poor henpecked husband is afraid to go against his wife's dictation, for he knows what a storm of protest will arise in his own home. "Now, John, you know we don't want that man to preach for us; he doesn't suit me." When this is said, John would stick his head in the fire before he would call a man that his "she-elder" wife objects to. The sects often select the preacher for a congregation through the "she elders," and through the "she elders" many good gospel preachers are turned down.

In the beginning all the devil had to do was to get the woman in the lead, then followed woe, misery, and death. When a congregation once gets under the influence and leadership of the "she elder," its spirituality ceases and worldliness sets in. Woe to the poor preacher who preaches against these things! He is wanted no more at that place. I know of a congregation that had been built up and served by a preacher for quite a while. Finally the "she-elder" wife of the elder said: "Well, Brother Q— has served long enough; the sects don't like him and say they won't hear him any more; so there must be a change in preachers. The elder dearly loved the preacher who had built up the congregation and had been with them in time of deep trouble, and regretted so much that the faithful preacher must go. As the edict had gone forth from his wife, the "she elder," he well knew the preacher was done at that place. And done he was.

When woman is willing to work and move in the way God has directed, she is the power behind the throne for good; but out of God's way, she is the power for destruction. Brother preacher, when you have to contend with the "she-elder" proposition, you have the hardest proposition of all, and I am truly sorry for you. When a preacher marries the "she-elder" kind, he has a hard proposition to hold the love, esteem, and confidence of the brethren and sisters.

Next, "Something Wrong."

To and Fro Among the Churches.

BY J. G. MALPHURS.

For the last five months I have had occasion to go among the churches in Middle Tennessee in the interest of mission work in Clarksville. Without calling names (unless complimentary), I desire to give the readers the advantage, if any, of my observations.

1. The churches are very good to make appointments for a talk on missions. Some are glad of a chance to learn of the needs of the various fields. One of the elders in the Dickson church told me before the audience that he was glad for a brother to come with the needs of some mission field, that they might more wisely invest the Lord's money. Yet some seem to have a dread of such speeches. At one place I called to talk with one of the elders (and who preaches some), to let him know of my plans and to get his ideas, but he did not show up. He fares "sumptuously every day." At another place I went to a ladies' Bible class in the afternoon, and they got a hint of what I wanted; consequently the attendance at the prayer meeting, at which time I was to speak, was quite slim.

2. The churches of Middle Tennessee are not composed of paupers. True, we do not have many millionaires, neither do we need them to turn "the world upside down." In several counties we exceed the Methodists in numbers and finance, yet the Methodists put out more money to missions than we. Why this, brethren? I refuse to believe that the churches of Middle Tennessee are "poor in this world's goods."

3. Some congregations are not "given to hospitality." It makes the humble gospel preacher feel good to be met at the train with a warm handshake and a "glad-to-see-you" smile, instead of having to go to a hotel. One church in Southern Tennessee is blessed (or cursed) with preachers, yet it is hard for a visiting preacher to get a place to lay his head, except at the hotel. Is it a mark of spirituality for the churches to drop into the custom of sending preachers to the hotel? "Forget not to show love unto strangers: for thereby some have entertained angels unawares." One of the requirements for an elder is hospitality. (1 Tim. 3: 2.) How, then, can a church claim scriptural elders when no home is open for the servant of God?

4. The attendance at night services is poor in nearly all cities. Before the automobile came, people could walk a mile or two, and enjoy the exercise, but it is different now. At one place where I spoke on a Lord's-day night, neither an elder nor a deacon was present. At another place some who were reputed to be leaders were out pleasure riding. This seems an insult to Christianity. At one place I was told that they could scarcely have a prayer meeting, and that the preacher, though a good and useful man, rarely ever came.

5. Well-developed leadership seems to be the keynote of success among the working churches. When men are elders indeed, the church is at work and the membership as a whole likes to follow them. The Lewisburg church, with Dr. Hardison as the senior elder, is well organized. The little congregation in South Columbia has a splendid eldership that can easily determine what the church will do when asked. Just a few-minutes' talk with these elders did as much good as an hour's speech at some other places. I asked a few of the leaders at Cornersville if that church could give fifty dollars, and, to my surprise, they pledged seventy-five dollars. We sorely need men who put business zest into Christianity. Some of the old congregations, whose members fare "sumptuously every day," have not yet taken off their swaddling clothes.

6. The habit of delaying the services is one of the chief reasons for sluggish interest in church work. One city congregation of about three hundred members have their Bible school announced for ten o'clock, yet the song leader scarcely got there till twenty minutes later. Two other congregations have their night services announced a little before time for the train to run, yet a part of the audience must see the train off before they go to church, even if the train is late. Question: How long would the authorities in a public school put up with such slackness?

7. The song service is usually good and beyond what is ordinarily found among churches that have one of "Aaron's golden calves" to bellow. The "New Christian Hymns" is the most popular song book. A few of the churches have dropped into the habit of letting some publishing house unload on them a cheap book every few moons. Many of the churches have a number of good song leaders. This is commendable. I doubt the advisability of importing a song leader every year for the big meeting. Where a church has poor singing, a brother (not a sectarian) should be employed until suitable leaders are developed.

8. Many homes lack Christian literature. It is easy to find daily papers, magazines, and story books, but in some cases where religious papers are subscribed for they are never unwrapped. Children should be encouraged to read religious literature in preference to so many novels. Usually the man that reads his religious paper reads his Bible, and he is the best informed on scriptural subjects.

Travels in Texas, Oklahoma, and Tennessee.

BY H. ISHIGURO.

I entered Abilene Christian College on November 26, 1920, and have been there for two years. I regretted very much to leave my beloved college. I have learned to love every student there, and am very sorry to have to be parted from them. Brother H. E. Speck gave me five dollars when I left, which I appreciated very much, but, above all, I thank him for his big heart and loving-kindness. I especially am very thankful for the help given me by Brother and Sister J. P. Sewell. I can never forget them, for they gave me my board for the last twelve months that I was there. This gave me more time to study. I am truly thankful for this and other blessings that have come to me from Abilene Christian College. Also, I wish to thank Dr. C. B. Leggett for the treatment he gave me, refusing to take any pay for same.

I left Abilene on August 16 and went to Austin, where I stayed in Brother Ledlow's home, spending a very enjoyable time. Brother Showalter, editor of the Firm Foundation, helped me preach in Austin.

I left Austin on the morning of August 18 and arrived at San Antonio on the same day. I was very sorry that I could not preach while there. But the three congregations were holding a tent meeting, and I could find no time. However, I received a kind welcome there and was given more help than I expected. I thank the churches very much for their help to me through Dr. Merrick.

I went to Corsicana on August 19, and visited Brother C. G. Vincent on Friday night and Brother Morgan on Saturday. I preached at White Rock on Saturday night, and on Sunday morning I preached at Corsicana, where Brother Vincent helped me.

I then went to Ennis on Sunday night, where I preached. I thank Brother Vincent very much for helping me at Corsicana, and especially do I thank Brother Sowell for helping me at Ennis. I thank the members at Ennis very much for their kindness and support to me.

I then went to Alma, where I stayed at Brother Lewis Smith's on Sunday night. Brother Smith and I were schoolmates at Abilene, and I had a most enjoyable time. On Monday, August 21, I went to Dallas and spent the night in a hotel. The next day I proceeded to Gunter. Here Brother Matt McCall met me, and I stayed at his home. That night I preached at the Gunter Christian College chapel, with Brother McCall acting as interpreter. Next day we went to Sherman, and I preached that night at the prayer meeting. I took dinner with Brother R. B. Sweet, who is a brother-in-law to Homer Wolf, a former schoolmate at Abilene Christian College (my first year). I also visited Brother White, the preacher at Sherman. Soon after the Wednesday-night meeting I went to Denison. I proceeded then via Vernon to Hobart, Okla., arriving there on August 25. Brother Bruce Currie met me and took me to his home at Sentinel. That night (Friday) we went to Cordell, where Brother Currie had arranged for a gathering. We had a good crowd despite several conflicting meetings. We then went back to Sentinel, where I stayed in Brother Currie's home over Sunday. Sunday morning I preached at the church, having a larger crowd than could be accommodated. That night we went to Rocky, and I had a medium-sized crowd. We then went back to Sentinel and stayed all night, and next morning Brother Currie took me to Hobart, where I boarded the train for Tribbey, Okla. I thank Brother Currie for helping me and carrying me to the different congregations. I stayed with him longer than at any other place. I am very thankful to the people at these places for the good support that they gave me, considering the depressed condition of the country on account of the drought.

I arrived at Tribbey on Tuesday, August 29. Brother A. A. Payne, whom I had known at Abilene, met me at the train, and we stayed at Brother R. M. Fowler's, and went to Oklahoma City next day; but I could not get a time at the church, because Brother G. A. Dunn was holding a meeting at the time. I stopped with Brother J. A. Maddox that night, and the next morning, with Brother Dunn, I started for Nashville. At Memphis I met Brother Batsell Baxter, who is a teacher at Abilene Christian College, and he came with me to Nashville. I arrived at the home of Brother R. S. King on September 2, kept safely all the way by the great grace of our Father in heaven. I am very happy to have met Brother King, and I am staying with Brother King's family, who are very kind to me. I thank God very much for the many kind friends and teachers who helped me on my way, and I am praying that our Lord Jesus Christ may bless them abundantly.

Contributions from the churches at the places visited amounted to $160.81; my expenses were $68.08.

Soul Insurance.

BY CHARLES R. BREWER.

This is the day of insurance. There are more companies and larger companies than were ever known before, I suppose, and not a few men are waxing rich in the business. From observation, I judge that they owe their immense success to systematic advertising and enthusiastic soliciting. Recently I saw a book called "Insurance Bible." Insurance men are tireless workers, and it is almost as easy to get rid of a book agent as it is to get away from a solicitor.

In fact, almost every man you meet carries some kind of insurance. And there is a kind for every possible exigency. The singer has his throat insured; the pianist has his hands insured (I have read that Paderewski carries a policy on each separate finger); the ball pitcher has his arm insured; and the dancer has her feet and legs insured. The farmer insures his crop against failure; the athletic club insures the weather against rain; automobiles are insured against theft, wrecks, or any other possible damage or destruction; homes are insured against fire, wind, and water; and I suppose the majority of American men carry life insurance. Man may also be granted a policy against sickness, accidents, or failure in business undertakings. I have wondered if some daring company would not soon offer policies insuring persons and churches against everlasting perdition.

And yet how few are giving a thought to soul insurance! Man has been so busy preparing for and fortifying against the calamities of this life that he has had no time to think of the life to come. We are so short-sighted that the things that are connected with our present pleasure or profit loom large in our vision, while the things that pertain to our eternal weal, by their seeming remoteness, appear unworthy of any immediate consideration. We think not of the glories "that God has prepared for them that love him." We do not heed the warnings to "flee from the wrath to come," which wrath shall fall upon those "who know not God and obey not the gospel." O why should we be so blind! Jesus says: "What doth it profit a man, if he gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" The worldly-wise man, secured by human holdings and backed by human assurance, says: "All is well; no harm can befall me that I have not anticipated and prepared for." O foolish mortals, know ye not that when ye cry, "Peace and safety, then sudden destruction cometh, . . . as travail upon a woman with child?" Know ye not that the threatening clouds of eternal wrath hang low on the horizon? Know ye not that God shall soon call us into judgment? "Then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided?"

There is a company that is willing to take us and preserve us from the unquenchable fire. Perhaps that institution is not so popular as are some of the "old line" companies; nevertheless, it is far superior to all human organizations, for it is composed of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit. It was organized by the Father, consecrated and dedicated by the precious blood of the Son, and is directed by the Holy Spirit. Under their guidance, we can make our "calling and election sure." Let us accept the proffered policy of God and insure and assure our souls in the blood of Jesus. He can keep us now and for evermore. "For I know him whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to guard that which I have committed unto him against that day."

Please Read This.

BY S. H. HALL.

The following letter that has just recently come to Brother Boles is self-explanatory. Read it carefully and prayerfully:

Without doubt the Gospel Advocate has placed before it for the action of its readers many worthy pleas as to mission work in different sections of the entire country, and you would hardly feel justified to favor by featuring one above the rest, even though you believe the churches are doing far less in mission work than they are able to do and need to be stirred to greater activity therein.

Yet I am constrained to try to persuade you to plead the cause of Brother J. Bedford Beck in his fight for the gospel in Southern Georgia. You know the boy, his consecration, and his unselfishness. He went to that sadly neglected and hitherto unworked field unbacked by any sort of guarantee of support, went there with the intention of making it his home and permanent field of labors, buoyant in the conviction that he could finally make it a success, and he hoped he could demonstrate to some friends and established churches in Middle Tennessee the wisdom and need of the undertaking so that they would assist him till such time as the work would prove self-supporting.

And he is doing some of the finest work I know of anywhere, and without doubt it must soon yield glorious fruit. Yet he is near the limit of his resources. He told me recently that he had done about all he could; that he did not see how it was possible for him to go more than a few months longer without aid from brethren back here. The work is about to fail, and what a pity! What field promises more? To what better ends can we spend our money?

He was in such urgent need of a tent for the work there that I took it upon myself to write to some ten or twelve congregations in Tennessee that knew him personally and of his undertakings to urge them to help me buy that much-needed equipment. Yet not one cent was given! Even the letters remain unanswered! However, with or without assistance from others, I am going to send him that tent by the time he will need it this coming spring.

But I just cannot hold back from appealing to you that you take the matter up in the Advocate. It is in your power to do him, and through him the cause of the Master, a great service by setting his case before the brotherhood in two or three appeals in the paper. And in the name of the cause we love so, I beg that you will do it. And remember: "He gives twice who gives quickly." "The King's business requireth haste." "The souls of men are dying, and the Master calls for you."

I want to commend the above appeal with all my soul. I know of no young man more worthy than Brother Beck and of no work that should be backed till it is fully established than the work in which he is engaged. It is certainly sad indeed for young men to push out into the great work, take hold of the hard places, and the churches seemingly give a deaf ear to their appeals for help. Souls are going rapidly down to death without hope and without God just because we do not give them the gospel of God's grace.

Let those individuals and congregations who can, send help, and that as soon as possible, to J. Bedford Beck, Box 143, Summit, Ga. The Lord willing, I hope soon to visit that section of Georgia, and will look further into the work and do what I can to help.

Churches that are at work are continually flooded with appeals. It clearly indicates to me that the majority of our congregations are not working as they should. While at West End Avenue, Atlanta, appeals came so fast that I sometimes got discouraged and failed to bring all before the elders. The same is true since I came to Russell Street. I know that West End Avenue is doing what she can. The Russell Street brethren are meeting all the calls they can, and we hope soon to take more on our list.

Who will be the first to respond to this worthy appeal for Brother Beck and his work? I am asking Brother Beck to report promptly to the Gospel Advocate as help is sent to him.

What We Know and Do Not Know.

BY A. M. GEORGE.

We know that we are alive at this moment, but we do not know that we will be alive at the end of the next minute. We know that we saw the sun rise this morning, but we do not know that we will see it set this evening. We know that the statements above are true, because we get proof of them almost every day in the sudden death of some one who, so far as any one could see, had as fair promise of long life as any one. A cyclone or a tidal wave may sweep over and destroy a city in a few moments. Such things are common all over the world, and should be a profound and ever-present warning to every living soul.

Should we live to the average limit of human life, or even to the old age of a hundred years, do we not know that at the end we plunge into an eternity of weal or of woe that has no end at all? Now, with all of this before you as plain as the sun at midday, how do you think you should spend these few years, or days, or moments, each one of which is bearing you nearer and nearer to your never-ending destiny?

Let us read a little from the twentieth chapter of Revelation: "And I saw a great white throne, and him that sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away. . . . And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened; and another book was opened, which is the book of life; and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works."

What works are meant? Why, the works, or things, we do in our short life in this world; because, of course, none can work after they are dead, only through the influence their works, good or bad, may have over others with whom they may have associated in life.

Every one of us will have to face that Judge on that great white throne, and then and there get the verdict, according to the character of our works, and that verdict will settle our case and consign us to heaven or hell. Now, what is the character of your works from day to day? Do you think that you will like to face them before that Judge, as you will have to do?

Most of us do things every day that we would be ashamed for our neighbor to know; but that Judge will know it all, and he is the one to be feared.

We are now sowing in this little lifetime what we will be reaping in eternity, and we will reap just what we sow. The only difference is that we finish the sowing in a very short time—it may end before sunset; but the reaping will never end. When the flood came upon the world, not one in a hundred thousand escaped. A flood of fire is fast approaching, and as people are doing now just as they were then, as Christ said in Matt. 24: 37, 38, I think I can safely say that not one in one hundred thousand will escape the fire. Noah warned those people of the flood, but they gave no heed to him; neither will they now. Many so-called "Christians" think they are getting on well, because they belong to some church; but stand their works up against the word of God, and you will discover that they do not know what Christianity is. The larger part, nearly all, of the religionists of this world are in that class that call upon the name of the Lord and boast of their wonderful works in his name, that will be turned away by the Judge as workers of iniquity. (See Matt. 7: 21, 22.) And if this be true, and it is true (see Matt. 7: 13), where shall those who spurn the Bible appear? The apostle said: "If the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear?" Now is your time to heed the warnings, to examine your life to see where you are and what you are doing.

I will tell you one thing that I know to be true, if there be any truth: Every one of us, saint or sinner, is diligently shaping or building his own eternal destiny every day and hour that we live; we are doing it ourselves. When that throne and Judge shall appear, and the world is called up before it, the larger part would gladly give, if it were possible, ten thousand worlds like this for an opportunity, such as they have now, to set themselves right with the God whom they dishonored in life. Begin now; it will be too late then.

The Aim of Education.

BY R. P. CUFF.

(Address delivered at Harper College, Harper, Kan., on September 13.)

It is fitting at this formal opening of a new scholastic year at Harper College to ask once again: "What is the aim of education?" Why should parents spend hard-earned money to educate their children? Why should parents sacrifice the presence and help of those children at home to send them to school? And why should boys and girls spend eight years in grammar school, four years in high school, and then go even to college for further studious toil? Is the object to be attained of sufficient importance, is the end sought by education noble enough, to justify the expenditure of money, time, and toil?

Parents, let us see what education intends to do for your child. The word "education" is thought to be derived from "educere," which means "to lead out." Education is the leading out of the faculties and powers with which God has endowed the individual. Education, accurately defined and correctly construed, aims to develop body, mind, and soul—the whole man. The educated man is one whose powers, close-shut in the days of youth, have unfolded as the bursting of the buds in spring. Like the flowers that spread freshness and fragrance to passers-by, the educated man has petals of power that lie open for service to the contingent world.

Real education leads into the large life of usefulness and happiness. The best way to be happy is to be useful. Those who live for self-aggrandizement and to their own glory, and who make the curbstone immediately in front of their own house the line beyond which all who reside without dare not go, never taste the sweets of happiness. I have often imagined that if one could put his ear to the bosom of a miserable, miserly, contracted, exclusive, selfish man, he could almost hear the dripping of the blood as it falls from a broken heart. Think not that the selfish man is happy! He feels in the very vitals of his being the gnawings of desired friendship and companionship that pierce him through with many sorrows.

Some false conceptions of education abound in the world that should be forever discarded. Sometimes parents decide to educate their children for an easy time in life. They do not want their children to have to work. But work is no disgrace. Work is ennobling. Shiftlessness is a curse to a race, a nation, an individual—to all concerned. No man has the right to be a leech on society. Somebody must produce, as long as people continue to eat, and wear, and enjoy.

Another conception of education closely connected with that of the easy life, and which is also false, is that education should be used as the door to wealth. Wealth is to them the thing of luster and dominance, all else being subsidiary. Though money and earthly possessions are not sinful per se, they are by no means the principal parts of life. To so regard them is gross error. Recently the Houston Post made a very pungent remark: "It is better to leave your kid an inheritance consisting of a good constitution, a good head, an honest conviction, and seventeen cents in money, than to die and leave him a million dollars. But if you have that much money, you will not be able to comprehend it." In the "Odes of Horace," Book III, Ode I, that Latinist said: "Sicilian dainties will not force a delicious relish to that man over whose impious neck the naked sword hangs; the songs of the bird and the lyre will not restore his sleep. Sleep disdains not the humble cottages and shady banks of peasants." At the end of that ode he wrote: "Since then nor Phrygian marble, nor the use of purple more dazzling than the sun, nor the Falernian vine, nor the Persian nard composes a troubled mind, why should I set about a lofty edifice with columns that excite envy, and in the modern taste? Why should I exchange my Sabine vale for wealth which is attended with more trouble?" Wealth will not satiate. It takes more than dainties to make man hungry and to satisfy his hunger. Mansions alone will not bring restful sleep to quiet tired nerves and to build up lowered vitality. Wealth will not calm the tempestuous seas of an anxious heart. A greater than Horace said: "Godliness with contentment is great gain." (1 Tim. 6: 6.) A contented mind, a heart resting in the satisfaction derived from service—these are the things we want, the things we can have, and the things that make life worth living now.

A third false conception of education seems to be that education is some sort of cheating machine. The conception is voiced in George Eliot's "Mill on the Floss" when Mr. Tulliver states his resolution about his son Tom: "What I want is to give Tom a good eddication; an eddication as'll be a bread to him. That was what I was thinking of when I gave notice for him to leave the academy at Ladyday. I mean to put him to a downright good school at Midsummer. The two years at the academy 'ud ha' done well enough, if I'd meant to make a miller and farmer of him, for he's had a fine sight more schoolin' nor I ever got; all the learnin' my father ever paid for was a bit o' birch at one end and the alphabet at th' other. But I should like Tom to be a bit of a scholard, so as he might be up to the tricks o' these fellows as talk fine and write with a flourish. It 'ud be a help to me wi' these lawsuits, and arbitrations, and things. I wouldn't make a downright lawyer of the lad—I should be sorry for him to be a raskill—but a sort o' engineer, or a surveyor, or an auctioneer and vallyer, like Riley, or one of them smartish businesses as are all profits and no outlay only for a big watch chain and a high stool. They're pretty nigh all one, and they're not far off being even wi' the law, I believe: for Riley looks Lawyer Wakem i' the face as hard as one cat looks another. He's none frightened at him." Far be it from education to do nothing but enable a man to talk fine and write with a flourish, and to deal in a rascally way in some "smartish" business with his fellow men. Something called "education" may stop at such training, but it is a false brand.

True education leads to honesty, uprightness, and integrity. True education is both practical and cultural. The educated read the daily papers, the periodicals, and the magazines with greater pleasure and deeper insight than the uneducated. Everything the man of culture and learning sees means more to him than to the untutored mind, because colored by a larger experience. True education, apart from its purely cultural values, lends itself to service. That person whose God-given powers have really unfolded uses himself for the enlightenment and betterment of men and for the glory of God. May we ever hold in mind the lesson of Holy Writ: "The fear of Jehovah is the beginning of wisdom; and the knowledge of the Holy One is understanding." (Prov. 9: 10.)

Let me close with a bit of verse from John Oxenham:

To every one there openeth
A way, and ways, and a way,
And the high soul climbs the high way,
And the low soul gropes the low;
And in between on the misty flats,
The rest drift to and fro.
But to every man there openeth
A high way and a low,
And every man decideth
The way his soul shall go.

Publishers' Items.

Send us a new subscriber to-day for the Gospel Advocate. Price, $2 a year, in advance.

"Questions Answered," by David Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell, should have a place in every library. Those who have seen and examined it closely are highly pleased with it. Cloth bound; 700 pages. Price, $3, postpaid.

"The People's New Testament, with Notes." (Two volumes.) By B. W. Johnson. A splendid commentary, comprising the entire New Testament. Volume I., four Gospels and Acts; Volume II., Epistles and Revelation. Price, per volume, postpaid, $2.50.

"Commentary on Acts." By David Lipscomb. A commentary on the Acts of Apostles, with questions suited for the use of families and schools. This commentary is especially adapted to the comprehension of the masses of the people. It also contains a chronology of the Acts, map showing Paul's missionary journeys, brief biographies of the apostles, and an introductory chapter on the Holy Spirit. Cloth; 250 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

"Life of Elder John Smith." By John Augustus Williams. A biography that is a romance of religious experience. "Raccoon" John Smith was the Peter Cartwright of the Restoration, and a humble, powerful, fearless man of God, with strong convictions and gigantic faith. It presents a graphic account of a period in the history of the early days of the Reformation in Kentucky. This narrative of great self-sacrifice and devotion has seldom been equaled. His wonderful personality, his utter fearlessness, and his wide knowledge of the Scriptures and of the great issues of life are among the great heritages of the Restoration movement. Cloth. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Texas-Oklahoma Department

By C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

The Preacher.

BY C. R. N.

WAS I A COWARD?

When I have lived long enough to be an old man, and preached a sufficient number of sermons to be called an "old preacher," I may write some reminiscences which grow out of my experiences.

I suppose I had about the same amount of physical bravery possessed by the average boy of my section of the country when I was a lad. At least I had about the usual number of altercations for the average boy, and was never called a coward. Be it remembered that it requires a wonderful amount of bravery to stay out of a fight at times; too, that it is no disgrace to be called a coward. There are some things I am afraid to do now, but it is not because I am a coward.

As a preacher I recall that many times I suffered from compunction of conscience and a lacerated heart as a result of having failed to do my known duty—to preach the whole truth. Have you?

I search my heart now and try to determine if I was ever so weak that I sought to please my brethren by suppressing some of the truth. Do you?

I know that for a number of years of my life as a preacher I never one time mentioned the matter of money in a sermon or to the people where I was preaching, or how much money brethren should pay into the Lord's treasury, or how much they should pay me for my work through a series of meetings. I feared some one would say: "He is preaching for money." I think I must have been an accommodating coward.

I am persuaded that my brethren do not give of their means as they should; that the members of the denominations are more liberal than are my brethren; too, I am positive that I have failed to do my duty in teaching the churches where I have labored the importance—yea, the necessity—of investing in the Lord's work.

How many times have I heard some brother say: "I invited Mr. — to come hear you preach to-night. He has become disgusted by attending the meeting over at the other place, for they stuck a collection basket at him every time he went there. I told him there would be nothing said about money here, nor would he be asked to contribute one cent." I was certain to say not one word about money. The entire meeting would be one in which I would not say one word about money. I was a plain coward, I guess. I do not intend to intimate that there was another man in all the ranks so weak.

Do I preach on money now? You should hear me!

My brethren are not stingy. We have the men, we have money, and we can do anything we want to do. We want to do all the Lord would have us do. Teach us.

How well do I recall that many, many times at the close of meetings brethren would come to me and say: "How much do we owe you?" I would reply: "I will be satisfied with whatever you brethren give me." Yes, but sometimes I was not. I think I was a coward. I feared some one would say: "So much preach for so much pay." I feared some one would accuse me of "commercializing the gospel."

How many times have you heard a brother on the last Sunday of the meeting say: "Brother — has labored faithfully with us; now let us show our appreciation by a liberal donation, that we may make him a nice gift!"

We pay our doctors, our teachers, and the lawyer; and the preacher—well, just "give" him something. Do your best to make him feel like he is a beggar.

Do you insist that one should not be paid to preach the gospel, or preach so many sermons for so many dollars? I think I agree with you. Let the preaching be free; pay the preacher for his time. Thanks.

✻ ✻ ✻

Things Commanded and Things Permitted.

BY M. O. DALEY.

In the work and worship of the church, the "doctrines and commandments of men" have ever been conveniently at hand. Their employment has always been fruitful in apostasies. The history of the church is largely a record of extremes. Men are swayed by sentiment, and, in turn, create sentiment; and when a certain point is reached, it suddenly swings in the opposite direction and to an opposite extreme.

A generation ago, when the wild imaginations of men were being placed on an equality with the oracles of God, a voice was raised: "Speak, Lord—part the waters—and we'll go forward." "Where the Bible speaks, we will speak; and where it is silent, we will be silent." It fell on listening ears, and a mad rush was on toward another extreme. And thus began the frantic chase of the rainbow's phantom—the expedient—on the one hand, and the feverish search for Gibraltar—the essential—on the other. The motto of the first, "A means to a desired end," and the last, "Bound on all sides by a command;" and with these as a guide, we see the one side shooting up, kitelike, and heading for the destructive snags of sectarianism, and the other plodding toward the wilderness of the world's forgetfulness. Lord, stay the breeze and arrest the journey, and let the light shine. Ah, the blessed sunlight of his love is falling in gentle rays on the dewdrops of prayerful inquiry and making them like "apples of gold in pictures of silver;" but we have closed our eyes and stopped our ears, lest we see with our eyes and hear with our ears, and be converted" and healed. "What meaneth this bleating of sheep and lowing of oxen" about essentials and expedients? "Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams."

An essential is that which must be done; a command. "Teaching them to observe all things I have commanded you." Here both latitude and controversy are denied us. It is final. "They" had to teach us; we have to "observe."

An expedient is that which is fit or proper; lawful. "All things are profitable to me; but all things are not expedient." "It is expedient for you that I go away." It was profitable for them that they have the Spirit, and Christ's going away was "a means to that end." "For if I go not away, he will not come." It was "profitable," because it was to guide them into all truth and thereby "convince the world of sin."

The all-sufficiency of the gospel depends on the power of Christ. Hence: "All power in heaven and on earth is given into my hands. Go ye therefore, and teach all nations." In Acts we witness the all-sufficiency of his word in all the varied conditions of life. To the unbeliever, it finds the way into the heart and produces faith; to the impenitent, it woos to Calvary and impels impatience. To the unbaptized, it leads to the water's edge, yea, into the water, and, by faith, to a resurrection to a new life in Christ Jesus. No failure is noted! But where is the record of an invitation song? Is it a command? No. Does it violate any "principle of the doctrine of Christ?" No. It is a "means" of encouragement to the "end," obedience, and is clearly permissible. It is an expedient. "Where the Bible speaks, we speak; and where it is silent," we sing.

Christ is "head over all things to the church." In the letters sent to "the seven churches of Asia" we find all the varied conditions of church life. In all this, his authority is supreme. It meets every difficulty, corrects every fault, and surmounts every obstacle. But no church house is built by the Lord's command. Shall we, therefore, condemn them? No. Building them violates not one of the "all things" commanded by the Lord. "Where the Bible is silent," we build church houses. And so we should. A house or some other suitable place to meet is a means to the end—"The disciples came together on the first day of the week to break bread." "Do this in memory of me," is the command. Meeting for the Lord's-day worship is observing the Lord's command. Therefore, we are told, to meet for any other purpose is "teaching for doctrines the commandments of men." Then, too, you must meet in the afternoon, because it is the Lord's Supper. In offering thanks, you must kneel, since that is the proper posture in prayer. In passing the wine, you must not use individual cups, for the Lord took "the cup." The collection plate or basket is an innovation, because the Lord said to "lay by in store;" and, besides, "we have always placed our freely offered nickels on the table while we were standing and singing the song, for at the institution of the Supper 'they sang a hymn and went out.'" Neither shall we have a Sunday school in which we divide the congregation into groups, because the Lord commanded us to "bring up our children in the fear and admonition of the Lord." To have women teachers is proof positive of "digression," for Paul expressly says for "the women to keep silent in the church;" and if further proof is needed of one's rebellion against God, it will be found in the Sunday-school literature. Then, in conclusion, a prayer to God to help us to continue "loyal" by "speaking where the Bible speaks and being silent where it is silent!"

We are told that all these things the "digressives" do, and we must keep the worship pure; that to open the gate to one thing, we might as well bring in the organ and the missionary society, for the Lord never commanded any of them. How near-sighted we are when our own conduct is being reviewed! But why drag the "digressives" into this discussion? I suspect for the same reason that ghost stories are told to children—to keep them quiet! The condemned do not always die brave.

Why list instrumental music with the things just mentioned? It is not in the same class. Improper classification produces confusion and is an indication of a conscious weakness.

Is instrumental music a command? Its strongest advocates have long since ceased to so affirm. It is an expedient, they say. Such is its strongest claim. Is it on a par with building a church house? Neither is commanded. Are they both a means to an end? The early Christians "came together" "in one place," and it was in a building or some suitable place. The command is to "come together." This necessitates a place. We provide the place, build a house of our own choice, and it becomes a means to a desired end—coming together.

God commanded "singing" as a part of the worship. The instrument is brought in as an aid to singing—to make better music. But the instrument itself makes music, and for that reason ceases to be an "aid" and becomes the "end" and leaves no place for singing—the end is reached without it. We are told that we are to sing and play at the same time. God said to sing—one thing. When we sing and play, we do two things; and to do so would be to use the means and the end in order to reach the end. Rather strange procedure, don't you think? We use the train as a means to reach the city; but you would hardly load the city on the train with you in order to go to the city, would you?

We are told that we use the instrument in order to sing well. The command is to sing—not to sing well. True, our singing should be as good as we can make it; but, after all, the "melody" is to the Lord, not to men. If we only make melody "to men," the end is not reached, no matter how well we sing. How would it do to render perfectly "The Star-Spangled Banner" at the conclusion of the Lord's Supper? It was sung well, the melody was perfect, and the audience was deeply moved. But God is not worshipped. Why? It is not a "spiritual song." You are to make melody in your heart to the Lord. Again, you are one of the singers—music makers; the organ is also one of the music makers. Each one is to make melody "in the heart." I have the melody in my heart; but in whose heart is the melody of the organ? Not mine, for it is full of the melody of my own making, with no room for any more. Thus it is clearly seen that it is impossible to class it as an expedient.

The same is also true with the missionary society. Its purpose is to have the gospel preached in the regions beyond, to support and build up the church. Is it a command to have missionary societies? No. Expediency is the sum total of its defense. From what source is its power to operate? The church. Without the church contributing to its support, it would be powerless. It, too, like the instrument, is dependent on the "end" for its power as a "means," only more so. The instrument could make a start—make music—but the society cannot even get a start. The church "is the pillar and ground of the truth;" and should the society, like perpetual motion, get started of itself, it would disrupt God's plan the moment it did so, since it would steal from the church the work God gave it to do, and would, therefore, become sinful. Therefore, it cannot be classed as an expedient. It is purely and simply a human specimen of theological class legislation, against which Jehovah thunders his disapproval.

✱ ✱ ✱

Multum in Parvo.

BY R. L. WHITESIDE.

Many a preacher would not have so much heaviness of heart if he had more heaviness in his pocket.

The preacher who complains of "blue Monday" must have showed a yellow streak the day before.

Some men delight in making out a line of monkey parentage, and some women's motherly instinct runs to poodles. These are great times, my countrymen.

God is not so much concerned about the fact that you sinned; but since you have sinned, what are you going to do about it?

And you want to preach? Well, you are not quite ready till you can preach as plainly and with as much assurance to those with power and influence as to the lowly, and to the lowly and outcast with the same passion for their salvation as for the salvation of the rich and honorable.

"Baptized some of the leading citizens of the town." Why make special mention of that fact? Did you think they needed the gospel worse than the poor and obscure?

The faithful gospel preacher, like a good physician, tries to make his services so useful as to render his ministrations useless; the timeserver, like the quack doctor, tries to create conditions that make a continuation of his services necessary.

✱ ✱ ✱

Personal Notes.

Lee P. Mansfield closed in Granbury, Texas, with ten baptized. He can be had for some meetings this fall. Address him at Waco, Texas.

C. R. Nichol is to begin a meeting to continue for a month in Bakersfield, Cal., on October 1. He can be addressed at General Delivery in that place.

The Central congregation in Texarkana, Ark., has purchased a nice lot near the high-school building, on the Texas side of the town, and will soon begin the erection of a nice brick building. J. E. Wainwright will assist them in a meeting this month. The work in Texarkana is prospering.

Evangelistic Notes

B. F. Stivers is in a meeting at Neosho, Mo.

Ira Womack is now in a meeting at Wirt, Okla.

C. R. Nichol baptized thirty-one in Lewisburg, Tenn.

Gus Nichols closed at Macedonia, with thirteen baptisms and some restorations.

Silas E. Templeton's wife, of Altus, Okla., recently underwent a serious operation.

Claud F. Witty will preach for the new West Side Central Church in Detroit, Mich.

Andy T. Ritchie and W. Derryberry are at Grassy Valley, in Humphreys County, Tenn.

Allen Phy has just closed at Tyree's Chapel, near Franklin, Ky., with eight baptisms.

W. O. Norton has just closed at Oakville, Ala., with ten baptisms and two restorations.

Charles Tidwell has closed at Byers Chapel, near Centerville, Tenn., with eight baptisms.

T. C. Little has just closed at Friendship, in Lincoln County, Tenn., with six additions.

J. W. Grant is in a meeting at Sycamore Landing, Tenn. Eleven have been baptized to date.

Charles R. Brewer closed at Tompkinsville, Ky., with nine baptisms and two restorations.

A meeting is reported at Munford, Ala., which resulted in thirty additions. No name is given.

B. L. Douthitt closed at Cedar Hill, near Mayfield, Ky., with three baptisms and two restorations.

R. A. Craig preached last Lord's-day morning at Van Buren and in the evening at Shelbyville, Ky.

J. J. Horton closed at Cedar Point, near Gunter'sville, Ala., with seventeen baptized and one restored.

C. H. Smithson is in a good meeting at Wilton, Ark. He will go next to Smyrna, Ark., then to Texas.

John K. Isenberg, Munday, Texas, a young preacher, wants to become useful in the Lord's vineyard. Write him.

Charles F. Hardin has just closed at Shady Grove, near Stewart, Miss., with one baptism and four restorations.

J. H. Morris preached at Iuka, Miss., the third Lord's day in this month, with three confessions in the morning.

J. R. Endsley closed an eight-days' meeting at Punccheon, near Minor Hill, with seven baptisms and one restoration.

M. H. Northcross will begin a meeting at Buford's Chapel, White's Creek, Tenn., on the third Lord's day in October.

L. E. Pryor closed at Mount Pleasant, Ill., with five baptisms. His address is 4503 St. Elmo Street, St. Elmo, Tenn.

Vernon Rozar recently held mission meetings at Tucker Springs, Niota, and is now at Bethel, in Bradley County, Tenn.

W. T. Gunter closed recently at Sharon Grove, Ky., with two baptisms; since that time, at Everett, Ky., with three baptisms.

William F. Etheridge is in a good meeting at Fair Dealing, near Benton, Ky. Seven additions to date. He goes next to Mayfield, Ky.

A. R. Hill reports an encouraging outlook in the Mississippi field. Brother Billingsley will begin a meeting at Charleston on October 1.

W. H. Gurganus, Cordova, Ala., recently engaged a Methodist in debate at Cordova. He is now in a meeting at Earnest Chapel, near Oakman, Ala.

T. C. King has just closed a meeting at College Grove, Ala., which resulted in fifteen additions. He is now at Elkmont, with seven baptisms in two days.

A. B. Gunter, Humboldt, Tenn., has just closed a good meeting at Cloverdale, Ala., with seven additions and the meeting on the first day of the week revived.

A Correction.—In a recent issue of this paper it was stated that T. Q. Martin was to begin a meeting at Rockwood, Tenn.; it should have been "Cleveland, Tenn."

R. P. Cuff has changed his address to Harper College, Harper, Kan. His report should have been six additions at Little Mountain, near Winchester, Tenn., instead of one.

W. D. Bills closed at Poteet, Texas, with twenty baptized and ten from other sources. There were only thirteen members when the meeting began. They expect to build soon.

Will W. Slater has just closed a good meeting near Checotah, Okla. Twelve were baptized and six were restored and a congregation of twenty members are beginning work.

J. T. Harris has just closed at Rock Church, in Dickson County, Tenn., with fifteen baptisms, eight restorations, and one from the Baptists. He is now at Mount Hebron, in Dickson County.

H. W. Jones has just closed a mission meeting at Altonia, in Marshall County, Ky. Four were baptized and one reclaimed, with a congregation of fifteen beginning work and planning to build.

J. D. Jones, Huntsville, Ala., recently held meetings at Taft and Free Labor, Tenn. There were ten baptized at Taft and sixteen at Free Labor. He is now at Jacksboro, near Morrison, Tenn.

S. S. Bozeman recently closed a meeting at Hester, Okla., under the Methodist straw arbor. Four were baptized and two reclaimed. There is now a congregation of sixteen meeting in the schoolhouse.

James E. Laird closed recently at Bono, Ark., with four teen baptisms and two restorations. Loyd O. Sanderson led the song service. They are planning to build. Brother Laird is now at Mulberry, Ark.

W. F. Lemmons closed at Strangers' Home, Ark., with one baptized and two restored. He is now in a meeting near Alicia, Ark. These are mission meetings supported by the Alicia and Cloverland churches.

J. W. Shepherd closed a meeting at Science Hill, in Rutherford County, Tenn., with fine interest and attention throughout, but only one addition. This was his seventeenth meeting at that place in twenty-nine years.

C. H. Baker recently conducted meetings at Kedron, Ky., and Joiner's Chapel. The latter meeting resulted in four baptisms. He is now at Union Hill. Any one desiring a meeting should address him at Kirkmansville, Ky.

C. C. McCampbell and J. J. Reynolds closed a successful meeting at Alabama City, Ala., with nineteen additions. This is their third meeting this year, and there have been about thirty additions. They have no house of worship.

J. A. Cullum, who has been preaching for two years at Elk City, Okla., will preach next year at Rogers, Ark. He had twenty-two additions recently at Jester, Okla., and nine at Shamrock, Texas. He is now at Mountain View, Ark.

J. O. Barnes will move to West Palm Beach, Fla., on October 1. He preached there to the little band who meet in the home of E. M. Goodson on September 17, and two were added. They will be glad to have Christians from other places when there to worship with them. If you are interested in a winter resort, write E. M. Goodson, Box 263, or J. O. Barnes, 2111 Broward Avenue.

John R. Williams, Hornbeak, Tenn., reports the following meetings: Gladly Hill, with one baptized and one from the Baptists; Jones Chapel, with seven baptized and four restored; Bethel, with thirteen baptized and twelve restored; Rehoboth, with seven baptized and eight restored—a total of twenty-eight baptized and twenty-four restored. He is now in a mission meeting at Minnick.

The disciples of Christ at Waxahachie, Texas, would like to find a young man who has had sufficient experience to enable him to do acceptable preaching and teach Bible classes. The Waxahachie city schools give Bible instruction at the churches one hour on one day every week. The church cannot get along without a preacher. They have been badly pinched by the financial crisis. They can finance a young preacher through university. (Trinity University is located at Waxahachie). We think there are young preachers who would like to take a university course, and this would be a fine opportunity. Write John E. Dunn, 219 South Mont Clair Avenue, Dallas, Texas, for information.

David Lipscomb College opened its fall session last Tuesday.

J. S. Ward preached at Lawrence Avenue, this city, last Lord's day.

Morgan H. Carter is in a meeting at Bellwood, in Wilson County, Tenn.

G. A. Dunn, Sr., will begin at Trinity Lane, this city, on September 29.

Ira L. Winterrowd has changed his address from Norman, Okla., to Cordell, Okla., Box 54.

A. D. Dies will begin a meeting at Philadelphia, in Wilson County, Tenn., next Lord's day.

J. Leonard Jackson reports two good services at Lindsley Avenue, this city, last Sunday, with one confession.

E. Gaston Collins closed at Merrimac Church, at Huntsville, Ala., with two baptisms and seven restorations.

Charles Holder closed at Sale Creek, Tenn., with eight baptisms. He is now at Rossville, Ga., with bright prospects.

Charley Taylor closed a two-weeks' meeting at Rothschild Avenue Church, this city, last Lord's day, with eight baptisms.

J. H. McBroom closed a tabernacle meeting at Granite, Okla. Large crowds were in attendance. He is now at Liberty Mills, near by.

E. D. Martin recently closed at Smartt, Tenn., with thirteen baptisms. He is now at West Riverside, McMinnville, Tenn., with eight baptisms to date.

W. Claude Hall recently closed at Lyles, Tenn., with twenty-seven added. He has since conducted a meeting at Morrison, which resulted in one baptism.

C. D. Crouch is in a meeting at Greenbrier Church, in Cheatham County, Tenn. He and Brother Barfield recently had a fine mission meeting near Ashland City.

A new congregation at Buel, Texas, near Cleburne, with seventeen baptisms, has been established. C. A. Buchanan, evangelist for the Cleburne church, held the meeting.

C. M. Fullias began at Twelfth Avenue, this city, last Lord's day, with overflowing crowds. There was one restoration, and three hundred and forty-one in the Bible study.

S. P. Pittman has just closed a meeting at Little Rock, near Lyles, Tenn., which resulted in one baptism; just before this, at Cross Roads, in Crockett County, with two reclaimed.

Andrew Perry recently held short meetings at Burnesville and Belmont, Ohio, and is now at Neffeta. He has had fifty-five baptisms and ten restorations during the spring and summer.

A. B. Lipscomb is in a splendid meeting at Scottsboro, Ala., with large audiences and good interest. There have been four baptisms to date and others are expected. Prof. A. L. Dixon, of Dellrose, Tenn., is the capable song leader.

J. T. Clark recently conducted a meeting at Campbell's Station, which resulted in four restorations and seventeen baptisms. During this meeting he preached once at Robertson's Fork and baptized one man. He is now at Hays Mill, Ala.

S. W. Colson sends to this office a good report of the Lord's work in Florida. He has recently visited Umatilla and Ocala, and found the cause of Christ growing in favor with God and man. D. A. Martin is doing work with a tent in those parts.

Tice Elkins closed at Springtown, Texas, with six restorations and eleven baptisms—one, a man one hundred and one years old, who had been a Baptist more than three-quarters of a century. Brother Elkins had sixty-four additions there last year.

The discussion at Russell Street Church, this city, on the instrumental-music question, between S. H. Hall and J. J. Walker, has been postponed one week owing to the illness of Brother Walker's mother. It is now scheduled to begin on the night of October 2.

W. M. Behel reports a meeting at Rockwood, Ala., with eight additions; one at Littleville, Ala., with five added; and one at Sherrod Schoolhouse, with twelve baptisms and ten restorations. He is now at Center Hill, Ala. He will be at Long Branch and Brace, Tenn., and Oak Grove, Ala., in October.

L. L. Yeagley recently closed at White Springs, in Jackson County, Tenn., with one baptism and one restoration; then at Free State, with thirteen baptisms and two restorations; then at the Forks of Finn Creek, near Gainesboro, Tenn., with thirteen baptisms and fifteen restorations. He is now at Farmington, near Lewisburg, Tenn.

Will J. Cullum has just closed a tent meeting at Worley's Schoolhouse, near Owen's Cross Roads, in Alabama, with fourteen baptisms and one restoration. Of those baptized, three were Baptists, one of which had been a Baptist more than fifty years. Brother Cullum now returns to Rockwood and Dayton, Tenn., to resume his regular work.

From W. T. Taylor, Carpenter, Okla., September 19: "I have been very busy preaching this year. I have held two mission meetings this summer. Last Lord's-day morning I preached at Carpenter, and at Hammon in the afternoon and at night. I have been preaching regularly at Berlin, Colter, Elk City, Carpenter, and at a schoolhouse near me."

From B. C. Goodpasture, Atlanta, Ga., September 18: "There was one restoration at West End Avenue yesterday. O. D. Bearden preached at Norcross on last Sunday morning. One came from the Baptists. T. J. Hunton and Don Hockaday closed a two-weeks' meeting near Adamsville, Ga., last night. Four were baptized. Hugh E. Garrett is in the first week of a good meeting at Trion, Ga."

The church at Hustburg, Tenn., commonly known as "Big Bottom," in Humphreys County, have under construction a house of worship and are unable to complete it. They need six hundred dollars to ceil and seat it. There are only a very few members who are able financially, and they have done all they can. Any person desiring to contribute to this worthy work may address and make all checks payable to the church of Christ, J. C. Crockett, treasurer, Denver, Tenn., Route 1.

From J. G. Allen, Muskogee, Okla., September 21: "We have just closed a twelve-days' meeting at C Street Church that encouraged us all with the work here in many ways. The meeting should have continued longer, but a pressing engagement forced us to close. John W. Hedge, of Kilgore, Texas, was the preacher, and Homer Ferguson, of Bishop, Texas, was song leader. Both endeared themselves to every member of the congregation by the godly manner in which they conducted themselves while among us. Four new members took their stand with us during the meeting."

Thomas H. Burton writes from Union, S. C., September 20: "One confession at the morning service last Sunday. We had a large crowd present, and it was rather interesting to see so many sitting on rough planks that were resting on nail kegs, boxes, and a few broken chairs. Brother, how would you enjoy going to church under such circumstances? The crowd here seemed to be thankful that we were so comfortably situated. In the afternoon I was with the congregation at Moore, where we had about one hundred present, seated on rough lumber in a grove in front of a man's yard. I have never seen a congregation more determined than these people. At night I was at Jonesville, where we had a fair crowd, perhaps one hundred. The meeting will close there Thursday night, as there is very little interest manifested. We plan to begin a meeting in this town on Saturday night."

Claud F. Witty writes from Detroit, Mich.: "For more than seven years the Warren Avenue Church has conducted its meetings in a temporary building at the corner of Fourteenth and Warren Avenues, but the time came when it was very evident that a larger and more permanent building was necessary. Now it so happened that the St. Barnabas Episcopal Church had a very valuable piece of property at Fourteenth, Grand River, and Forest Avenues that they were willing to sell; and since the location was one of the very best in the entire city, we set to work to secure it. Never did Christians pray more earnestly for an enlarged opportunity than we prayed for this one, and, with the divine help and the liberal assistance of brethren outside of the congregation, we secured it. The name of the congregation was changed from the Warren Avenue Church to the 'West Side Central church of Christ.' Sunday afternoon was set for the opening meeting, and a grand meeting it was. The auditorium was packed to the doors and the interest was the very best. W. G. Malcomson delivered a fine address, and the singing, both congregational and special, was of the kind that stirs one to the very depths of his soul. During the day six new members were added to the congregation, and the outlook for the future is certainly very encouraging. R. V. Cawthon is to begin a meeting for us in about a month, if the Lord wills."

Home Reading

Kind Words.

How many days might lose their gloom,
How many nights their sorrow,
If we should wait to criticize
Until a kindlier morrow!
A night oft changes hate to love;
A taunt, if left unspoken,
May change to sympathy and cheer,
And keep a heart unbroken.

How many tears we might be spared,
How many hours of sadness,
If men should utter only good,
And speak but cheer and gladness!
A word may break a lonely heart,
Or save a life that's broken;
Then let all evil words be stilled,
And only good be spoken. —Exchange.

✻ ✻ ✻

Sarah Jane, Assistant M.D.

Sarah Jane lived with Dr. Knipe, and in some of his cases even the kind and wise physician would not have known how to get along without her assistance. She never looked at people's tongues nor felt their pulse like the doctor did, but she was often worth more than medicine to some of his patients. Indeed, Sarah Jane might have been regarded as medicine, since it is something that helps cure people when they are sick; for sometimes medicine is fresh air or sunshine or exercise or even a good laugh.

Sarah Jane was a little black-and-tan terrier, so small that in very cold weather the doctor carried her in the pocket of his great fur coat. Often when the doctor and the fathers and mothers of the sick boys and girls were unable to get them to do what was needful for their recovery he would say: "O, I understand this case; all he needs is a dose of Sarah Jane." And she would always come to their assistance.

There was Helen Bath, who would not take the milk the doctor had ordered; so the next morning when he came he brought Sarah Jane with him.

"Sarah Jane, you show Helen how a little lady takes her milk when the doctor orders it." And Sarah Jane sat up on a chair beside the doctor and looked very obedient as he fastened his handkerchief about her neck. Then the doctor took from his medicine case a little glass and a tube, poured some milk into the glass, and as he held it Sarah Jane slowly drank it through the tube.

Helen laughed and thought she might drink some, too, if she had a small glass and a tube like Sarah Jane used.

Helen really got to like the milk, and she would ask for it every hour; but she could not drink it without the little glass tube.

Harry Wagner had the measles and did not want to take his medicine, so the doctor had to call in his assistant.

"Sarah Jane, you show Harry how to take it, will you?" And she jumped up on a chair, opened her mouth, and the doctor gave her some out of a special bottle. Harry laughed and opened his mouth, and thought it great fun to take it every time the clock struck the hour.

Charlie Lewis had broken his leg by a fall, and when it was taken out of the cast, he was afraid to try to put his foot to the floor, for it hurt him every time he attempted to do so.

"Well, never mind to-day, Charlie. I'll bring my assistant with me to-morrow, and she will show you how to do it."

The next morning the doctor and his assistant came to see Charlie.

"Charlie, this is my assistant," said the doctor. "Speak to Charlie, Sarah Jane."

Sarah Jane stood up on her hind feet and said, "Bow!

wow! wow! wow!" which the doctor said, meant "How do you do?"

"Now, Sarah Jane, show Charlie how you walk when you are lame." And she started off on her two hind feet, limping a bit as she went.

"You try it, Charlie, and see if you can do as well," kindly urged the doctor. Charlie tried; and though it hurt him some, he persevered, and was soon able to run about as well as ever.

All the boys and girls wanted the doctor to give them Sarah Jane, but he always said: "Come, Sarah Jane, we must go to some one else who needs us."—Exchange.

✻ ✻ ✻

Playing Jokes on Carlo.

Mr. and Mrs. Price had gone for a visit to relatives in the next county. It was before the days of automobiles, so they drove Dollie in the buggy. To Helen and Herman it seemed like a very great adventure, because it was so far, and there was a mountain to cross. It took nearly all day to make the trip.

The children had to stay home with Aunt Alice, who kept house while their parents were gone. Although they loved her dearly, they grew quite lonely until the three days were over and their parents returned. Their father and mother had missed them, too, and had a surprise for them.

Father came into the yard carrying a box, and on opening it they saw the ugliest, most ungainly, but most friendly puppy imaginable. Of course they loved him on the spot; and though they are now middle-aged folk, they laugh like children when they talk over the sport they had with Carlo.

He grew into a very large dog, with long, shaggy hair, but he never seemed to outgrow his puppy innocence. They fooled him often, but he never grew suspicious.

For instance, Herman made harness and hitched him to his express wagon. Carlo did not like to pull and would run away at sight of the harness; so Herman would hold the harness behind his back, take a piece of bread in his other hand, and call Carlo. The dog always came at sight of the bread, when Herman would catch him and hitch him up.

The jokes were not always kind. There was the time when Herman called him near a hornets' nest and then threw a stone into the nest, so that several hornets came out and stung him. What looked funny to Herman was the way Carlo rolled in the grass, and he never thought of the pain he was causing.

Carlo hated to get wet, yet when any one threw sticks into the water he would plunge in and bring them out in his mouth. One day Helen had a visitor. The two girls were dressed in nice, clean clothes. They ran races with Carlo; Herman gave them each a ride in the wagon with Carlo as horse, and when they were tired of this he was unhitched and they went to the pond.

"Here, Carlo, get this," said Helen, throwing a stick far out into the pond. "He just hates to get wet, but it is such fun to see him splash," she told the other girl. With a great bound the dog went in, swam to the stick, brought it out, and, laying it at Helen's feet, gave himself a mighty shake. His long, curly hair was full of water, which flew every way.

In dodging backward to keep from getting splashed, Helen slipped over the edge and fell into the pond. It was not deep, but her mouth and eyes were full of water; she coughed and strangled and was too frightened to know what to do.

Her little friend stood on the bank screaming and crying, but Carlo jumped right in and began pulling her toward the bank. With his help she scrambled out and, putting her arms around his neck, cried: "O, you dear dog! I'll never play another mean trick on you."—Exchange.

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50 in advance.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 217-219 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS,
Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

Singing With the Understanding.

BY J. C. M'Q.

We should be careful to sing the truth in our songs. Songs proclaim the sentiment of the people who sing them. A light, frivolous people will produce songs that are not elevating and soul-inspiring. As it is wrong to tell a lie, so it is wrong to sing a lie. Like David, we should sing praises unto our God. With the spirit and with the understanding we should sing unto the Lord a new song. Christians are admonished to "be filled with the Spirit; speaking one to another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody with your heart to the Lord." (Eph. 5: 19.) Again, the Holy Spirit exhorts Christians: "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly; in all wisdom teaching and admonishing one another with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts unto God. (Col. 3: 16.) If our people are ignorant of the truth and love it not, we cannot expect a spiritual sentiment to pervade our hymnology. Those who do not know the Bible cannot give it to others through their hymns. The people must know and love the truth before any great measure of the Bible will pervade our religious or national songs. More attention should be given to the songs we sing. Nothing inspires us more to do our best than do spiritual, heavenly songs. How often do we see hardened sinners moved to tears by the singing of scriptural hymns! If our national hymns are not religious, may it not be because we have not given the importance to our songs that we should have done? The Literary Digest, commenting on the lack of scriptural sentiment in our national hymns, speaks as follows:

That an Anglo-Saxon nation like the United States, "reared and nurtured in the atmosphere of the Bible," should not respond in a more generous measure to the message and spirit of the Bible in its patriotic poetry is something of a surprise to a Jewish writer. Not that the influence of the Bible is entirely absent, continues Dr. Leon Spitz in the Jewish Tribune (New York). Indeed, there is an unquestionable Biblical spirit, and a considerable use of scriptural style and Biblical lore. One possible reason why American national hymns are not so religious as they might be is the fact that "the earlier patriotic poets of the revolutionary period are known as the atheistic school." Summing it all up, Dr. Spitz thinks that a fair general statement would be that "scriptural influence in American patriotic poetry is not deep-set, but occasionally intense." The Jewish writer points out that:

"Several of the so-called patriotic poems evidence no direct Biblical influence at all. Among these should be classed the anonymously written 'Yankee Doodle' and the old version of 'Dixie.' 'Columbia, Gem of the Ocean,' betrays the use of only a few Biblical terms—to wit: incense, spices, and the phrase 'perfumes as of Eden.' 'America,' written by Samuel Francis Smith, reveals the sentiments of freedom and of love of land. The expression, 'Land where my fathers died,' is an instance of Biblical stylistic influence, as are also those other expressions, 'Our Fathers' God' and 'protect us by thy might.' The poem also contains, what is by far more important, an entire stanza conceived in the style of the book of Psalms:

Let music swell the breeze
And ring from all the trees,
Let mortals' tongues awake,
Let all that breathe partake,
Let rocks their silence break.

"We have here the Biblical notion of nature participating to the full in the joy of freedom. It bears comparison to several Psalms.

"The Star-Spangled Banner,' by Francis Scott Key, composed during an hour of storm and stress, a revolutionary hymn, is profuse with Biblical expressions, such as 'havoc of war,' 'the battle's confusion,' 'pollution,' 'the terror of flight,' 'the gloom of the grave,' 'war's desolation,' and the interesting slogan, 'In God Is Our Trust,' still a familiar inscription on our coins.

"Maryland, My Maryland,' a secession hymn, shows no Biblical association whatsoever; but, on the other hand, 'Dixie,' by Albert Pike, contains 'stronger than lions, swifter than eagles,' adopted from David's lament at the death of Saul and Jonathan in Second Samuel, and also the urge to fight

Till the spoilers are defeated,
Till the Lord's work is completed.

"Whittier and Holmes have to their credit some campaign hymns on the Civil War, but those are of a partisan rather than all-American nature.

"The Battle Hymn of the Republic,' by Julia Ward Howe, is the only patriotic song that is truly and intensely solemn and religious in its tone. The author exults at the fact that 'Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord,' and she invokes 'the fateful lightning of his terrible swift sword.' He will 'crush the serpent with his heel,' 'He is sifting out the hearts of men before his judgment seat,' and the concluding sentiment, 'O be swift my soul to answer Him, be jubilant my feet.'

"Holmes' 'God Save the Flag' enjoys the distinction of being the only patriotic hymn which makes use of Biblical lore:

Burning with star-fire, but never consuming,
Vainly the prophets of Baal would rend it,
Vainly his worshipers pray for its fall.

Borne on the deluge of old usurpations,
Drifted our ark o'er the desolate seas,
Bearing the rainbow of hope to the nations.

"We have here clear instances of Biblical lore, allusions to the burning bush in Exodus, a possible allusion to the scene at Carmel in First Kings and to Noah's ark and the rainbow that appeared after the flood in Genesis."

There's a time to part and a time to meet,
There's a time to sleep and a time to eat,
There's a time to work and a time to play,
There's a time to sing and a time to pray,
There's a time that's glad and a time that's blue,
There's a time to plan and a time to do,
There's a time to grin and show your grit—
But there never was a time to quit.—Selected.

The Home.

BY J. C. M'Q.

Much is being written about what is the matter with the schools. That our schools are not perfect will not be denied. That the Bible is not taught in the schools is to be deeply deplored. It is discouraging to know that our universities are teaching destructive higher criticism instead of a pure and unadulterated Christianity.

The way our people are leaving their homes and living in boarding houses, hotels, and apartments forebodes evil for them. The manner in which some women leave their homes and husbands, go out into the business world and contend with its problems, means the destruction of the home. When you destroy the home, you destroy the church, the state, and society. As the church is the salt of the earth, so the home is the salt of the church. The children in the church who study the Bible and love the truth are from the best homes. God ordained the home for the preservation and elevation of society. Hence, in the beginning it was said: "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh." (Gen. 2: 24.) Both Christ and Paul quote the above scripture with approval. The husband and wife should work and pray together first for the salvation of their children, then for the salvation of their neighbors, and then for the redemption of the world. Hence, the Holy Spirit admonishes: "Wives, be in subjection unto your own husbands, as unto the Lord. For the husband is the head of the wife, as Christ also is the head of the church, being himself the savior of the body. But as the church is subject to Christ, so let the wives also be to their husbands in everything. Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself up for it." (Eph. 5: 22-26.)

The family is the unit of that which is good. With the family and home neglected, our civilization is sure to come to grief. When there is no religion of Christ in the home, there can be none in society, in the church, or in the school. With ignorance of the Bible prevailing in the home, it will also prevail in society and among the people. With a prayerless home, we will have a prayerless people. With a lack of respect and reverence for the Bible in the home will be a lack of respect for God in society. If we would correct our evils, we must begin in the home.

God requires the reading and teaching of his word in the family. "Thou shalt love Jehovah thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might. And these words, which I command thee this day, shall be upon thy heart; and thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up. And thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thy hand, and they shall be for frontlets between thine eyes. And thou shalt write them upon the doorposts of thy house, and upon thy gates." (Deut. 6: 5-9.) In different words the same duty, yet more sweeping and comprehensive, is enjoined upon Christian parents: "Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right. Honor thy father and mother (which is the first commandment with promise), that it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth. And, ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but nurture them in the chastening and admonition of the Lord." (Eph. 6: 1-4.) Again, the man of wisdom, Solomon, says: "Train up a child in the way he should go, and even when he is old he will not depart from it." (Prov. 22: 6.) To fail to correct a child is to ruin the child. Solomon also says: "He that spareth his rod hateth his son; but he that loveth him chasteneth him betimes." (Prov. 13: 24.)

If good boys come from Christian homes, so bad boys come from ungodly homes. To me nothing appears much more shocking than to see children have absolutely no respect for their parents. In the light of the word of God, I can picture no good that the future has in reserve for them. How horrible for a boy to regard his father as his slave and to refuse to see anything good in him! Verily children are acting as though God had said: "Parents, obey your children." David has well said: "The fool and the brutish alike perish." It is not possible for a disobedient, disrespectful child to grow to a useful manhood. The young are so ignorant of God's word that it would be a miracle if they did not go astray. While we are asking what is wrong with our schools and with our civilization, would it not be well to inquire what is the matter with our homes? Have we not pulled down our family altars, and are we not permitting our children to grow up in ignorance, irreverence, and disobedience? Are we not failing to read and study the Bible as we should? It is no new thing for evil to pursue those who neglect God. David says: "Now consider this, ye that forget God, lest I tear you in pieces, and there be none to deliver: whoso offereth the sacrifice of thanksgiving glorifieth me; and to him that ordereth his way aright, will I show the salvation of God." (Ps. 50: 22, 23.)

Instead of being a nation of money-makers, let us be a race of home-makers. Give us Christian men and women who are devoting the best that is in them to the making of well-ordered homes in which God as Father and Jesus as Elder Brother dwell. Give us fathers and mothers who make it the business of their lives to love the Lord Jesus Christ with all their hearts and to bring up their children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Then will we have happy homes where confidence and love dwell as twin sisters, and then will we have fewer foolish, ignorant women seeking to pile up gold for themselves when there is no reason or necessity for such conduct.

Some Observations.

BY A FRIEND.

[It is profitable to "watch ourselves go by" and at least occasionally "see ourselves as others see us," and it is with pleasure that we submit to our readers the following "Observations" of a friend, and commend his suggestions as very timely.—O. C. Lambert.]

The writer is not a member of the church of Christ, and would probably be classed as a "nonconformist," "sectarian," or "denominationalist." However, I married two of your members—wife and stepdaughter; and this, coupled with the great and abiding admiration that I entertain for the church and its most excellent members, may excuse me for "butting in."

I have been greatly interested in the discussions, both oral and written, on the subject of instrumental music in the churches. Being a member of the Episcopal Church, I had never heard the question discussed or heard questioned the propriety of having instruments of music in the worship, and it was, of course, a virgin field of thought for me.

I believe the advocates of the "vox humana" to be right on this subject. The debate seems to hinge on "psallo." Well, "psallo" is Greek; therefore, the Greeks, of course, know better than any one else the real meaning of this word, and in the orthodox Greek Church instruments are not used in the worship. I used to think that "high-class" music could not be rendered without orchestration. I was totally ignorant in this line of thinking; for, lo and behold, the Sistine Choir came to Nashville and rendered, in a way to charm the soul, the most difficult liturgical music of the Roman Church. This church is not a stickler for "the Bible as the sole rule of faith and practice," as she regards sacred tradition as binding as holy writ; yet I find that in the great churches of Rome—viz., St. Peter's Basilica, St. John Lateran, and Sistine Chapel—no instruments have ever been used, and the human voices of these great choirs were a revelation to the great Mozart, who expressed his utter amazement at the perfection of their singing unaided by any instrument.

In our law courts, when one wishes to be heard, who has no real right to a hearing on the record, he proceeds amicus curiæ—friend of the court; so, as a friend of the church of Christ, which I attend almost exclusively, to the utter neglect of the one I am a member of, I wish to make a few general observations on this subject of church music, being thoroughly in accord with the position taken by the Gospel Advocate relative to the use of instruments.

I have been delightfully entertained—and, let us hope, edified—by the preaching of your preachers, such as Elam, Srygley, Hardeman, Pullias, A. B. Lipscomb, and Ritchie (whose daily life is a sermon), but I have always been disappointed in the character of the songs sung. I note an entire abandonment of the old standard hymns, which have done so much and have been such a potential factor in the promotion of a reverential spirit in the worship.

For one thing, there seems to be no connection between the theme of the sermon and the hymns. For instance, I recently heard a most powerful sermon by Mr. Elam, whose subject was "The Goodness of God;" yet the songs, both before and after the sermon, were as far from the subject of the discourse as the east is from the west. Why not sing this on such an occasion?

When all thy mercies, O my God,
My rising soul surveys,
Transported with the view, I'm lost
In wonder, love, and praise.

In commemorating the passion of the Savior in the Lord's Supper, what could be more appropriate than to sing this sublime hymn?

When I survey the wondrous Cross
On which the Prince of Glory died,
My richest gain I count but lost,
And pour contempt on all my pride.

See from His hands, His side, His feet,
Mercy and love flow mingled down.
Did e'er such love and mercy meet,
Or thorns compose so rich a crown?

Feasts and fasts are not kept in the church of Christ; but when the sermon is based on the Holy Nativity, would it not be most appropriate to sing that great hymn, "Brightest and Best of the Sons of the Morning?" Would not all be benefited by these lines?

Vainly we offer each ample oblation,
Vainly with gifts would His favor secure;
Richer by far is the heart's adoration,
Dearer to God are the prayers of the poor.

When the preacher takes as his theme "The Risen Christ," see how well this song fits in:

Look, ye saints, the sight is glorious,
See the Man of Sorrows now,
From the fight returned victorious,
Every knee to Him shall bow.
Crown Him, crown Him, angels crown Him,
Crowns become the Victor's brow.

I heard that great preacher, Mr. Hardeman, preach a wonderful sermon on "The Church." If after the sermon we could have sung this old hymn, led by Mr. Pullias as only he can lead, would it not have been inspiring?

The church's one foundation is Jesus Christ, the Lord;
She is his own creation by water and the blood,
From heaven he came and sought her to be his only bride,
With his own blood he bought her, and for her life he died.

Elect from every nation, yet one o'er all the earth;
One charter of salvation; one faith, one Lord, one birth;
One holy name she blesses, partakes one holy food,
And to one hope she presses with every grace endued.

When did you ever hear a congregation sing any of the following: "Approach, my soul, the mercy seat;" "Before Jehovah's awful throne;" "Lord, for to-morrow and its needs I do not pray;" "Arise, my soul, arise;" "Jesus, I my cross have taken;" "Depths of mercy, can there be?"

"Jesus, the very thought of Thee with sweetness fills my breast;" "O for a thousand tongues to sing!" "Awake, my soul, stretch every nerve;" "Hasten, sinner, to be wise."

I could name a hundred more which are becoming obsolete and are never used in the worship. These are veritable lyric treasures. Stately in meter, sound in theology, and tuneful, harmonious, and inspiring, they are proper expressions of praise to Him unto whom belongs all "might, majesty, and dominion." Are not these old hymns, which for so many years brought consolation to countless thousands of Christian people, preferable in every way to these latter-day ecclesiastical "ragtime" productions, which endure for a short season and then give way to others no better?

What Is Success?

BY O. O. LAMBERT.

Men from time immemorial have been searching for the philosopher's stone, the four-leaf-clover, or the end of the rainbow. The reputed talisman that opens the enchanted door to the place where our cravings and longings can be satisfied is always in some other country or in some other age. The delusive, elusive mirage of complete happiness forever tantalizes our vision. We see the thing which gives every appearance of affording unalloyed happiness; we toil and stagger across the desert sands in an endeavor to reach the oasis, the beautiful lake surrounded by cool shade; but as we approach almost to the point of realization of our fondest dreams, it all vanishes, only to reappear still farther in the distance. The beast lies down at night completely satisfied with himself and his surroundings, but man is endowed with something which the beast does not have. He is harassed with longings which this world cannot satisfy. If there is not something somewhere that will satisfy this longing, then the lot of a beast is better than that of a man. The apostle interprets this longing which a man has as evidence of a future existence. (2 Cor. 5: 5.)

We see the wicked prosper and live long, while the righteous live in want and poverty and tribulation. It absolutely requires a future existence to equalize the lot of Dives and Lazarus. It is not in man to direct his steps. Man in his endeavor to obtain the highest good in life invariably gets farther from it. The civilization of which man loves to boast consists in taking the savage from an existence of almost absolute satisfaction, where his wants are few and are gratified, and placing him in an artificial, unnatural surrounding, increasing his wants and making it impossible for him to gratify them. If this is all we have gained by our boasted civilization, what is it, after all? This is what results from man's trying to direct his steps. "All things work together for good to them that love God." "The world by wisdom knew not God." "If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable." "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; he leadeth me beside the still waters." Why not let the Lord lead? "No good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly."

What are some of the routes by which man pursues the elusive phantoms of happiness? Pleasure, honor, and wealth are the principal thoroughfares. What is the route which God has pointed out? "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me." "I am the door." "I am the way, the truth, and the life." "He that entereth not by the door into the sheep-fold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber."

Kind looks, kind words, kind acts, and warm handshakes—these are secondary means of grace when men are in trouble, and are fighting their unseen battles.—John Hall.

If You Are Too Tired to Eat

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla. A well-known Justice of the Peace in Indiana says Hood's Sarsaparilla makes "food taste good." After taking three bottles he eats 3 hearty meals a day, works hard and sleeps well.

A grateful woman writes: "I earnestly recommend all women who wish to be made new, or who are troubled with that tired feeling, to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. It wonderfully relieved me of sour stomach, distress and belching."

Get Hood's, and only Hood's.

Stop Itching

Skins with Tetters

60c. at your druggist's or from

SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Sore Feet? Don't Worry. Here's a Remedy!

Hot foot bath. Dry feet carefully. Rub thoroughly with Eucapine Salve. Towel till dry. Then off to bed with a happy heart for your poor, sore feet will be better in the morning.

*Eucapine
Salve*

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic

(Prevents Infection)(Relieves Pain)(Allays Inflammation)

Is a great comfort in cases of inflamed conditions of the skin and of the membranes of the air passages. 50c per 2 oz. jar, at your druggist's or by prepaid parcel post from the manufacturers. Full size jar free to physicians and quantitative formula supplied if desired.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc.,
Clinton, S. C.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

PARKER'S
HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling—
Restores Color and
Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

Commendation of Article.

BY CHARLES F. HARDIN.

In the Gospel Advocate of August 31, Brother C. R. Nichol has an article on the subject of "Coöperation in Mission Work," which I wish to commend heartily—first, because of its own merit, then because of the ability of Brother Nichol to write on such subjects; and by way of emphasis, and not because it is not correctly or plainly put, I wish to add an echo of experience to what he has said. Not all, but many, congregations should read the account of the cleansing of the ten lepers and ponder deeply the lesson of gratitude taught therein. If we could see our own selfishness as God sees us, surely we would be about the King's business more.

I never knew the real joy that comes from mission work until last spring, when I was asked to do work in the great mission field of Mississippi, where that godly man, Brother M. C. Cayce, was working before his death. I had done almost all kinds of work in the cause, but never before had I done work where the field was almost totally destitute; and by experience I have learned that this kind of work is fraught with more keen joy, more real pleasure and gratification, than any other work. Brethren, if you could be here and see the people listen to the truth for the first time in life, and see the expressions on their faces, and hear their significant comments on it, and see noble ones turn to obey the truth when they hear it, and see congregations set in order to keep house as "it is written," and receive the thanks of people who have been led out of error, and reciprocate the mutual joy, surely it would create such a strong and undying hunger and passion for service that you could no longer withhold it from the cause. I am very grateful indeed to note signs of an awakening along this line that indicates better times; and this is not written to condemn, but to encourage others to "go and do likewise."

I would not have any one think for one moment that the praise of being in mission work here is due your humble servant, not at all; but the praise belongs to God and those rare and worthy brethren who are making it possible for me to do this work. I very modestly suggest that had it not been for the untiring efforts of those Nashville brethren and the good brethren in Jackson, Miss., I would not have been here. The small congregation at Jackson, Miss., and the Lawrence Avenue congregation, the Eleventh Street congregation, and the David Lipscomb College congregation, of Nashville, Tenn., are supporting me in this work, and I honestly feel that it would be hard to say too much in the behalf of these brethren. I could not be satisfied to close this letter without saying words of true praise for Brother A. M. Burton, of Nashville, one of the most active Christians I know of, and who is doing as much or more in a financial way than any one I know. May God bless him with a long life of such useful service. I mention these facts for example, and not to invite publicity, and feel sure that many will take courage at these few remarks and do more for the cause. I am not the only one being supported in this field by the Nashville brethren. They have Brother Fox, at Natchez, Miss., doing the same kind of work; also, they are assisting Brother Roy Vaughn to do the great amount of good that he is doing in this field. Others who have lived here are doing untold good in this State, and to them I am very closely drawn, as they are doing all they can for the cause under adverse circumstances. They are as strong in consecration and zeal and sacrifice as any one, and, therefore, truly great. With such able men contending and doing as the Nashville brethren and Brother Nichol, I take courage and press the fight with more ardor.

Neutralizes Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. In order to be cured of rheumatism, it is necessary to neutralize this acid. RENWAR is a scientific combination of salts prepared to neutralize the uric acid in the blood. There is nothing in Renwar to injure the stomach or affect the heart. It acts solely upon uric acid, completely eliminating it from the blood and thereby relieving your rheumatism. It is harmless, but effective. Positively guaranteed by money-back offer. It is a Godsend to sufferers from rheumatism. Renwar also corrects constipation. Mr. J. M. Willis, of the Nashville Railway and Light Company, says: "I must say that Renwar far surpassed my expectations, for it gave me almost immediate relief. Too much cannot be spoken in behalf of Renwar for rheumatism." Sold by druggists (price, 50 cents) or by mail from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

THE B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.

We are preparing our mailing list for our New Catalogue. If you are interested in a free copy, write us.

B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.
CHURCH STREET
Nashville, Tennessee

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

Doing Mission Work.

BY WILLIE HUNTER.

A congregation, to be after the New Testament order, must have the missionary spirit—that is, a burning zeal to do mission work. But most of the small congregations only support one little meeting annually, and that on a very small scale.

When mission work is named, the cry is generally made: "We are few in number and poor in this world's goods;" "Our house needs repairing;" "Hard times;" "Bad crops;" "Bad luck;" etc. Most of the time it is merely an excuse.

It seems that the three greatest hindrances to the cause of Christ today are a failure to study the Scriptures, to go to church on Lord's day, and to lay by in store. (1 Cor. 16: 1, 2.) If the first fault was remedied, the other two would adjust themselves.

It seems from the actions of some people that they have a very narrow conception of the Lord's work. We hear of strikes among the miners and railroad men, but I believe we have strikes in just a little different form and under a different name among the professed followers of Christ at this day and time. A "dearth of preachers" is hardly more or less than a strike of preachers, brought about possibly and generally by a failure on the part of the church, which is supposed to be the pillar and ground of the truth (1 Tim. 3: 15), in doing its duty. Those preachers who have labored out in the "sticks" and waste places and borne the burden and heat of the day patiently for a very meager sum in the way of remuneration have begun to hear of the highly paid "pastor," desirably located, with the comforts of life and even the pleasures of life fully furnished; and so they have begun to wonder why the laborer is not worthy of his reward in the rural communities as well as in the cities and towns. (See 1 Cor. 9; 2 Cor. 8-11.) A preacher that is in the work just for the price he gets is not fit to be in the field, and a congregation that knows its duty and does not appreciate a preacher's labors enough to remunerate him liberally is not worthy of one's labors.

That the church is obligated to send the preacher, no one will doubt, inasmuch as the church is the support of the truth (1 Tim. 3: 15); and before the work will become self-sustaining in any locality it must come to see and realize this fact. We take, for instance, Jackson County, Tenn., which has some twenty congregations. A small sum from each congregation would support liberally a man in this mission field all of his time and would do a good and much-needed work; whereas now they merely support their annual meeting and possibly look after a small amount of local work in their immediate community, and any work of a mission nature is left undone. This does not apply to any special county, but it is the case in many places; and we see souls being lost, while we, as God's representatives here on earth, are sleeping on our job. So let us awake and get busy, for the King's business requires haste.

"In His Name."

BY H. M. PHILLIPS.

In Col. 3: 17 we are told to do all in the name of Christ; in Acts 4: 12 we learn that there is no other name by which we are saved; in 1 Pet. 4: 16 we are asked to glorify God in "this name" (R. V.); and in John 16: 23, 24 the thought is for our prayers to be in the name of Christ. In his name evidently means by his authority, or according to his will. So if we pray and ask it for Christ's sake, we have no assurance that it is a scriptural way. God has promised to do a number of things for Christ's sake, but prayer is to be in the name of Christ. When we pray, it is for our sakes more especially, and we should know that Christ has very little need now. For the sake of the cause or our welfare we may pray, but in the name of Christ, and not for his sake. To ask a thing for his sake does not carry with it the idea of according to his will. To offer thanks for his sake hardly expresses the idea of giving thanks unto the Father by him.

But some might say that it is not necessary to so say in our thanks and prayers, just so you mean it at heart. Then would it do to leave out stating "in the name of the Son" when one is baptized? If so, when would it be necessary to put it in? At least I know if I pray and ask all in the name of Christ, no one can gainsay it. If I offer thanks in the name of Christ, it is safe, for the Book so states such to be done; but nowhere does it teach us to do such for Christ's sake.

I hear so many use this expression at the close of their prayers and when they offer thanks for the bread and the fruit of the vine and at the regular meals that I felt it not amiss to call attention to it.

Now, I have not said it is a great sin to say "for Christ's sake," but I do say that the word of God says for us to ask in the name of Christ and nowhere tells us to ask for his sake. So I know what the Word clearly commands is safe, and the other is too risky for me, and I want all to follow a "Thus saith the Lord" for what we do. Think on this matter till you see what the word of God teaches and do as it says, and all will be well. May the Lord help us to do all in his name, for salvation is in no other.

Loss of Vitality is loss of the principle of life, and is early indicated by failing appetite and diminishing strength and endurance. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a great revitalizer. It acts on all the organs and functions, and builds up the whole system.

TETTERINE for the COMPLEXION

60c at your druggist's or from
Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

PILES CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or call without delay.
Private reception
rooms for ladies.
Established since
1912. Free X-Ray examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, back-aches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

JACOBS & COMPANY

SPECIAL ADVERTISING
AGENTS

PRINTERS DESIGNERS PHOTO-ENGRAVERS ELECTROTYPERS

Catalogues —
— a Specialty

HOME OFFICE:
CLINTON, S.C.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

WILL ANSWER ANY WOMAN WHO WRITES

Woman Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Makes This Offer

Cumberland, Md.—“My mother gave me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was between thirteen and fourteen years old and was going to school, because I suffered with pains and could not rest. I did not have any more trouble after that until I was married, then I always was troubled in my back while carrying a child and could not do my work until I took the Vegetable Compound. I am strong, do all my washing and ironing and work for seven children and feel fine. I always have an easy time at childbirth and what it did for me it will do for other women. I am willing to answer any woman if she will write asking what it did for me.”

—Mrs. JOHN HEIER, 53 Dilley St., Cumberland, Md.

During girlhood and later during motherhood Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought relief to Mrs. Heier. Her case is but one of many we constantly publish recommending our Vegetable Compound. She is willing to answer your letter. Write to her.

YOU ARE WANTED for a GOOD POSITION at a BIG SALARY

All that you need is training. Draughon's Practical Business College will train you, at your home, within only a few months. This is the College that has trained more than 300,000 men and women for good positions. Ask for big book, “Guide to Business Success.” It's FREE. Address DRAUGHON'S BUSINESS COLLEGE, Dept. GA, Nashville, Tenn.

CANCERS CURED AT THE KELLAM HOSPITAL

The Kellam Hospital cures Cancers, Sores without the use Burns, and Chronic Tumors, Ulcers, X-Ray of the knife, X-Ray, Radium, Acids, or Serum, and we have cured over 90 per cent of the many hundreds of sufferers treated during the past twenty-three years. Ministers treated free.

KELLAM HOSPITAL, Inc.
1617 West Main St. Richmond, Va.

McShane Bell Foundry Co.
BALTIMORE, MD.
CHURCH, CHIME and PEAL
BELLS
Memorials a Specialty

Cuticura Soap Complexions Are Healthy

Soap, Ointment, Talcum, 25c. everywhere. For samples address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

Field Reports

Lewisburg, Tenn., September 22.—The meeting of twelve days' duration in Clarksville, Tenn., closed last night. While there were only about twelve additions to the church, yet I think we left every soul rejoicing. They have a splendid new building and an untiring worker for a minister—Brother J. G. Malphurs. Brother S. F. Morrow, of Nashville, was with us the first five days, and he kept the “pot a-bilin” all the time. The following preachers attended once or more: J. G. Malphurs, S. F. Morrow, F. P. Taylor, C. L. Talley, C. E. W. Dorris, H. R. Daniels, W. H. Owen, and George Bethurum. Members from about ten congregations attended at different times in the meeting. We are expecting great things at Clarksville.—H. H. Adamson.

Summit, Ga., September 8.—I have just closed a twelve-days' meeting at McGregor, Ga., and am glad to report a good meeting. The crowds were good throughout, and also the interest, the last night of the meeting bringing the best night gathering of the meeting. There were three sermons on each Lord's day of the meeting. The brethren had announced that dinner would be brought to the church ground and served, and the sisters and their friends did their part well. The Summit brethren intended being there on the last Lord's day, but were hindered on account of transportation. Sister Fowler and family, from Soperton, Ga., were there. She is a native of Tennessee, coming from Lebanon, and is now trying to establish the church in her home town. Brother Garrett is to hold a meeting there soon. The meeting at McGregor resulted in ten additions to the church. I am to be in a few-days' meeting with the brethren at Adel, beginning on the fourth Lord's day in this month.—J. Bedford Beck.

Lexie, Tenn., September 18.—On the third Lord's day in August I began a meeting with the Reid Avenue congregation, in Nashville, Tenn. Brother Will J. Cullum working with me in the song service and otherwise. The meeting continued thirteen days, with one service each day through week days and two services on Lord's day. Brother Cullum and I visited among the members and friends during the day, talking up the meeting and trying to get people interested in the cause of Christ. Three young ladies were baptized during the meeting and others seemed to be almost persuaded. The Reid Avenue Church is composed of some very fine people. They are planning for greater things, and we have every reason to believe that there is a great future before them. We learned to love them very dearly. Brother Cullum is a fine coworker and makes things count where he goes. On the first Lord's day in September I began a meeting with the church at Lois, Tenn., this being my fifth meeting with the church there. The meeting continued ten days, with two services each day except Saturday. The attendance was fine both day and

GIRLS! LEMONS

BLEACH SKIN WHITE

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents; shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms, and hands each day; then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach, because it doesn't irritate.

CHARACTER

OR

THE MAKING OF THE MAN

SUPREMELY
ELOQUENT

DELIGHTFULLY
INSTRUCTIVE

By E. W. CARMACK

AGENTS WANTED

SHOULD BE READ
BY EVERYBODY

The verdict of the thousands who have read the book is: “No lecture extant is more interesting, charming, and philosophical. It is a classic and easily ranks with the best productions of modern authors. A million copies should be sold.” Thousands of copies have been sold in a few days. It is beautifully bound in sheep ooze, or library binding. Write at once to the publishers.

PRICE, $1.50 THE COPY

ADDRESS

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY

Department

NASHVILLE - - - TENN.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Renew your health
by purifying your system with

The purified and refined
calomel tablets that are free
from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel
and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c
and 35c packages, bearing
above trade-mark.

"I'll be all right in the morning"

"When I feel like this—dizzy, black spots before my eyes, bad taste in my mouth, stupid and lazy—I know what's the matter. I'm bilious,
I just take a couple of

DR. MILES' LIVER PILLS

They fix me up in short order.
Why don't YOU try these little wonder workers? You'll find them easy to take and mild but effective in operation.

Your Druggist sells Dr. Miles' Preparations.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate, and send us a new subscriber.

night, notwithstanding there was another meeting running near by.
Nineteen persons were baptized, and one took her stand to be a Christian only and to be a member of the New Testament church. I began here at Lexie yesterday, with two services and dinner on the ground. The audiences were very large, there being visiting brethren from Winchester, Hunt-land, Lois, and other communities.
Prospects are good for a fine meeting.
Brother R. C. White, with a competent singer, is to begin a meeting at Jefferson City, Tenn., this week.
This is purely a mission point—only five or six members there. Our fund for East Tennessee mission work is running very low. We have but little on hand to support this meeting. We would so much appreciate contributions for this work. Do not overlook it, brethren. Brother T. Q. Martin is to begin a tabernacle meeting with the church at Cleveland, Tenn., on the first Lord's day in October, and we are looking forward to a great meeting.
It will be within reach of the brethren from the congregations at Chattanooga, Tyner, Ooltewah, Union Grove,
Calhoun, Riceville, Athens, Etowah,
Englewood, and Niota. The church at Cleveland will be pleased to have them visit the meeting.—George W.
Farmer.

Roll of Students of J. A. Harding.

We again call attention of the readers of the Gospel Advocate to the fact that there is being formed a roll, or list, of the names of the students of J. A. Harding.

In the twenty-one years in which he was president of the Nashville Bible School, now David Lipscomb College, and Potter Bible College, many boys and girls, men and women, were his students, and will be glad to do him honor.

We are seeking to collect a complete roll of these students. The call has already been made in the papers and names are coming in. As stated in the first call, we do not want to miss a single name. To do this, every one that sees the call must help. In no other way can a complete roll of these students be made.

In sending in names, let no one think that some student that he knows will send his own name or that some one else will send it. He may not see the call, or for some other reason we might not get that name; therefore, we are asking that every one send his own name and the name of every other student that he knows.
Certainly the same name will be sent by different ones, but we can weed

What This Buffalo Physician Has Done For Humanity

The picture which appears here of Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., was taken in 1910. As a young man Dr. Pierce practised medicine in Pennsylvania and was known far and wide for his great success in alleviating disease.
He early moved to Buffalo and put up in ready-to-use form, his Golden Medical Discovery, the well-known tonic for the blood. This strength-builder is made from a formula which Dr. Pierce found most effective in diseases of the blood. It contains no alcohol and is an extract of native roots with the ingredients plainly stated on the wrapper. Good red blood, vim, vigor and vitality are sure to follow if you take this Alternative Extract. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery clears away pimples and annoying eruptions and tends to keep the complexion fresh and clear. This Discovery corrects the disordered conditions in a sick stomach, aids digestion, acts as a tonic and purifies the blood. Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., and receive confidential medical advice without charge. All druggists sell Discovery, tablets or liquid. Send 10c for trial pk.

out the doubles in making the roll.
So send in every name you know that belongs on this roll. Do not omit even one. Even though you may be certain that we know the name and have the address, send it anyhow.
The roll cannot be complete unless we all pursue this course in sending names. If you know a name and do not know the address, send the name and we will hunt for the address.

Send all names to Memorial Committee, J. N. Armstrong, Secretary,
Harper, Kan.

Ever since the reign of Christianity began the loftiest intellects have had a practical faith in God.—Bonaparte.

The ordinary uneventful days of a believer's life are usually a better test of his true character than is an emergency or a crisis.—Selected.

Use MURINE FOR EYES

Irritated by
Sun Wind Dust and Cinders

RECOMMENDED BY DRUGGISTS AND OPTICIANS
WRITE FOR FREE EYE BOOK. MURINE CO. CHICAGO

Goodyear Raincoat FREE. We will send a handsome Rainproofed, All-Weather Coat to one person in each locality who will show and recommend it to friends. Write to-day to The Goodyear Mfg. Co., 7067-R Goodyear Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

ASPIRIN

Insist on Bayer Package

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept only "Bayer" package, which contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacid-ester of Salicylicacid.

Buy Your
Bibles, Testaments, Song Books, Bible Lesson Helps, and Other Books

From
Gospel Advocate
Company

Let's make it mutual; we will help you, you help us

Address all orders to
GOSPEL ADVOCATE
COMPANY, 317-319
Fifth Avenue, North,
Nashville, Tennessee

TETTERINE

Makes low necks and short sleeves possible. It clears the skin

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

Nourishing the Body.

BY J. E. WAINWRIGHT.

Lessons from life by inspired teachers have served to intensify our interest and appreciation of beautiful Bible truths. When material comparison is offered, it is imperative that we closely examine the reference and thereby prepare ourselves to grasp more fully the spiritual significance.

In chapters 1 and 5 of the Ephe-sian letter the church is called "the body." Christ is designated as the head and individuals as members of the body. Able writers have said many excellent things about the church body. I will not tax your patience, but deal with another phase not overworked. Nourishing the physical body presents a wonderful study. The mouth receives the food and delivers it to the internal organs in bulk form. The internal organs serve as "dividers," which Webster defines: "A distributor; one who deals out to each his share." The dividers dispatch the various shares to different members of the body in order to replenish and keep them in healthy condition. Their position is very important. Should they fail to function properly, the entire system is liable to be thrown into a state of disorder. The shares must be properly dispatched to the brains, bone, delicate tissues, etc. Shares for one member will not apply to another. Members must not be neglected, as contamination will set up and endanger the whole body.

The spiritual lesson is that Jesus and his inspired apostles have given to us a wonderful bulk of wholesome food in perfect condition. (James 1: 25.) It is called the "bread of life." (John 6.) The necessity of "dividers," or teachers, is plainly embraced in 2 Tim. 2: 15. The qualifications are outlined in 2 Tim. 2: 2—"faithful" and "able." Why this necessity? A careful study will readily reveal the importance in order to rightly divide this spiritual food and dispatch to the various members of the church body according to the ages and ability. When dividers fail in their duty, we soon observe unhealthy members. When food applicable to one member is forced on another member, we find disorder and dissatisfaction. The food is to be properly distributed to the right members at the right time and in the proper way. It is sad to view the multiplied thousands who have perished and are perishing for lack of nourishment, while some self-styled reformer waxes hot with arguments as to the "one-how" the dividing must be done.

Before drawing the curtains we wish to view for a while the beauty of the "other side of life." Behold a wide-awake congregation proving their faith by their works. The "dividers" are kept busy dispatching nice, wholesome food, properly prepared, to various members of the body. The members display bright, healthy appearances, because they are being exercised in godliness—a picture like unto the bride of the rose of Sharon. Note their growth in grace and knowledge. Indeed, "Tis a beautiful sight to behold."

BOILS

Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

For Fever Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

An Improved Aspirin tablet which is absolutely safe to use even in cases of extreme debility and weak heart. Relieves headaches, neuralgia and rheumatic pains, and reduces fever. No depressing effects. Made by a formula which is in general use by leading physicians. 35c per package at your druggist's or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

CANCER

HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

A BRAND-NEW BOOK

"OLD LIMBER"

OR

THE TALE OF THE TAYLORS

By DeLONG RICE

"ALF and BOB TAYLOR, with their eloquence, their fiddles, and their fox hounds, have wrought for themselves a niche of eternal melody in the hearts of their country."

So states the author of this little book, which we present as the best product of the pen of DeLong Rice.

With a "Cast of Characters" extending from a President of the United States to a fox hound, the story touches a wide range of human sentiment; and through it all is the aroma of crackling camp fires and the music of the chase.

THE BOOK is beautifully printed and bound, appropriately illustrated, and packed in a neat gift box, ready for mailing.

PRICE, $1.00 THE COPY, POSTPAID TO ANY ADDRESS.

Correspondence with Bookstores and News Agencies is invited. Write to us to-day.

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Brother Grump.

BY F. P. FONNER.

Brother Grump is a self-centered, oversensitive individual who is continually taking offense at what others say and do. His grievances are more often imaginary than real. In almost every congregation of Christians he is more or less in evidence; and, in fact, he is becoming rather too numerous in many localities. He is a snappy, snarly, contentious individual, and is never happy unless he can have his own way about everything; and yet we are plainly told that "if any man seem to be contentious, we have no such custom, neither the churches of God." (See 1 Cor. 11: 16.) These snappy, snarly, contentious, and contrary persons succeed admirably in destroying the peace of churches and families. They are a continual menace to the peace and happiness of other persons. They are also very successful in making themselves unhappy and in hindering the Lord's work in many places. Some of them are subject to moods, and you never know where to find them or how to approach them. If you ask them a question, you seldom get a decent, sensible answer. You are obliged to pull out of them all you get. Sometimes such persons come into the assembly on the Lord's day, showing by their actions that they are mad; and this casts a gloom over the whole congregation. This is a downright shame. It will finally destroy the individual who does it. Numerous instances might be cited where preachers and others have thus ruined themselves. If these self-centered, "grumpy" individuals want to be useful, they must correct this evil disposition in themselves. They must repent heartily of this great sin before they can correct the faults of others.

Some preachers afflicted with the "grumps" have been known to sit like stumps in the assembly, utterly refusing to do anything at all. When the "grumps" attack a preacher, it is usually a very bad case, and it soon results in spiritual death.

One of the most potent causes of this deadly spiritual disease is too much self-esteem. This is forbidden in the New Testament. "For I say, through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith." (Rom. 12: 3.) When due to this cause, the means of cure can be found in this and other verses of scripture.

Jealousy is also another cause producing this spiritual malady. Some say that jealousy has been reduced to a minimum, and that it scarcely exists at all among preachers. In fact, it does not exist among that class of men who have given their all for Christ's sake and who have followed him through evil report as well as good. These battle-scarred veterans of the cross have never had time to become jealous of others. They have cultivated those qualities of the soul which make men great in the eyes of God. They are superior men. They are a noble army of workers for God. May God bless and prosper every one of them. Not one of them must be allowed to suffer in old age for the necessities of life. But there is a class of men among whom jealousy exists to an alarming extent, but these are always inferior men. In every case there is some weakness or some defect of character. This class of men are incapable of doing much good, but they are continually placing obstructions in the way of others who can do good. They, although many of them are the merest novices, assume to know more than the most profound Bible scholar in the entire church of God. Some of them do not know their own language; but in their own estimation they are wiser than all the reformers, from the Campbells down to the present moment. This is egotism gone to seed. Thus it appears that inferior men are continually criticizing the efforts of men who are their superiors in every respect. It is the inferior man who becomes jealous of the superior man; and if everything does not go his way, he very often has a severe attack of the "grumps," to the detriment of the true cause of Christ.

It is to be hoped that if this short article reaches Brother Grump it will cause him to think seriously in regard to his own spiritual condition, because he is surely in a bad fix. It is also to be hoped that he will do better in the future.

I CURED MY FITS

by simple discovery. Doctors gave me up, says Mrs. P. P. Gramm, of 939 Fourth Street, Milwaukee, Wis. If you wish to try the same treatment I did, FREE, write to Mr. Lepso, 895 Island Avenue, Department 36, Milwaukee Wis.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL

Look at the address label that comes with each copy of the Gospel Advocate. If it bears a date that has passed, please send renewal of subscription —$2.00 a year.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE
Nashville, Tenn.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

SOLD
50
YEARS

If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

"Baby improved wonderfully in health" — recommend the excell

Thessalon, Ont.
Box 95
March 29, 1920

Anglo-American Drug Co.,
New York, N. Y.
Gentlemen:—

In regard to Mrs. Winslow's Syrup: My baby suffered greatly with colic, and a friend told me of this Syrup and after I used it, baby improved wonderfully in health.

I can recommend this medicine to be excellent.

Yours truly,
(Name on request)

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP
The Infants' and Children's Regulator

quickly relieves diarrhoea, colic, flatulency and constipation, and regulates the bowels. Non-narcotic, non-alcoholic. Formula on every label.

At All Druggists.

Write for free booklet containing letters from grateful mothers.

ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO., 215-217 Fulton St., New York

General Selling Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc.,
New York, Toronto, London, Sydney

Does Christ's Kingdom Now Exist?

BY W. L. REEVES.

Any man who believes what the Bible says most certainly believes that Christ is now King and that his kingdom does exist at the present time. We give some quotations which clearly teach that this is true:

"Jesus Christ, . . . who is the blessed and only Potentate, the King of kings, and Lord of lords." (1 Tim. 6: 13-15.) This passage does not say Christ shall become King, but it declares that he is the "King of kings."

"These shall make war with the Lamb, and the Lamb shall overcome them: for he is Lord of lords, and King of kings." (Rev. 17: 14.) The reader will notice this verse says that he is "King of kings" and that he "shall overcome." It does not say, "He shall become King after he has overcome," as some among us are teaching. The verse teaches very clearly that because he is King he will overcome all who "make war with the Lamb." Brethren beloved, the fight is on now, and all of us should see that we are on the King's side, fighting the fight of faith and leaving off all divisive speculations in obedience to the command: "Endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace." (Eph. 4: 3.) Let us not be of those who wish "to draw away disciples after them." (Acts 20: 30.)

I appeal to all to reject all these wild speculations about the kingdom of Christ yet to be set up on earth at his coming. Why not just be satisfied with what the Book unmistakably says in such passages as the following: "Giving thanks unto the Father, . . . who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son?" (Col. 1: 12, 13.) These Colossians were in the kingdom of God's dear Son; therefore the Son of God has a kingdom. I never have met a man who believes Col. 1: 13 if he contends that the kingdom is yet to be set up on earth.

Let us carefully read another passage. To the Thessalonians Paul said: "As ye know how we exhorted and comforted and charged every one of you, as a father doth his children, that ye would walk worthy of God, who hath called you unto his kingdom and glory." (1 Thess. 2: 11, 12.) It is strange to me that men who absolutely know that Christ said, "All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth," will refuse to recognize him as King. It is clear that the kingdom now exists; that people have been translated into it; that the territory over which Christ has all power is both heaven and earth; and when the earth is annihilated, the souls of the righteous will enter into that part of the present kingdom called "heaven," which shall never be destroyed. (Dan. 2: 44.) Remember that now there is just one kingdom of Christ, and it is Christ's wish that his will be done on earth as it is in heaven. (Matt. 6: 10.) This being true, Paul prayed thus: "Wherefore we receiving a kingdom which cannot be moved, let us have grace, whereby we may serve God acceptably with reverence and godly fear." (Heb. 12: 28.)

A Correction.

My Dear Brother McQuiddy: Recently I sent to the Gospel Advocate a group of my own poems, and with them a poem, entitled "What Do They Say," and the name of the author not given. I notice in your publication of the poem it was accredited to me; therefore, I am writing to ask you to make the correction in your next edition, lest the unknown author think I am poaching on his or her preserves.

Thanking you and with good wishes for the Advocate and yourself,

Yours very truly,
CLARA COX EPPERSON.

The Plum Street Church of Christ, Detroit, Mich.,

Now meets in its new building, corner
Hamilton Boulevard and Tuxedo Avenue.
Visiting brethren welcome.

New York City Church of Christ239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M., Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush
Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6857.

Dodson's Liver Tone Instead of Calomel

Calomel is quicksilver. It attacks the bones and paralyzes the liver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it will regulate the liver, stomach, and bowels better than calomel, without sickening or salivating you. Fifteen million bottles sold.

BOOK OF COMFORT

Specially designed gift for the bereaved. Contains choicest gems of comfort from greatest writers. Each selection a masterpiece. Memorial record page for the deceased. Beautifully decorated. Flowers fade, but "consolation" may be cherished for years. Price $2.00, postpaid. Send to McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative it cannot gripe. It is in no sense a medicine. And like pure water it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

HARDEMAN'S TABERNACLE SERMONS

A series of evangelistic sermons preached by N. B. Hardeman during the Great Nashville Meeting, held in the Ryman Auditorium, March 28-April 16. These sermons ring true to the Old Book, and have a charm of style and freshness of illustration that put them in a class by themselves.

All the profits derived from the sale of these books will be used to create a fund to help poor boys and girls attend
Freed-Hardeman College.

The book contains 287 pages, with pictures of Hardeman, Pullias, and the audience, a history of the meeting, twenty-two sermons, and an address delivered by Brother Pullias
before the Exchange Club.

Bound in cloth, stamped in gold. Price, $1.50.

Send all orders to N. B. HARDEMAN, Henderson, Tenn.

Gospel Advocate

Volume LXIV. No. 40.

NASHVILLE, TENN., OCTOBER 5, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

Why Did Paul Thank God That He Had Baptized None of the Corinthians but Crispus and Gaius and the Household of Stephanas?.....	937
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	938
Brother Smith's Wandering Rejoinder—Think on This—Does the Explanation Explain?—Christian Growth and Development—More Baptist Bunk—The Greatest Woman—Reaping and Sowing.
EVANGELISTIC NOTES.....	944
EDITORIAL.....	946
Has Brother Briney Been Misrepresented?—Respect for Law—"Freewill Offerings from 'Outsiders'"—Book Reviews.
HOME READING.....	950
TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT.....	951
Are You Led by the Spirit?.....	954
The Work in Calloway County, Kentucky.....	955
Our Little Girl Gone Home—The Fight Is On at Quitman	957
Adversity.....	958
Why Our Singing Often Fails.....	958
History of Clarendon Church.....	960

Why Did Paul Thank God That He Had Baptized None of the Corinthians but Crispus and Gaius and the Household of Stephanas?

[Our readers are given a reprint from the pen of P. S. Fall this week. This article was printed in the Gospel Advocate of 1876.—H. Leo B.]

Perhaps it may be well to inquire why, if the Lord sent him "not to baptize," he did it at all; and, if the fact that this omission in his work indicates that baptism is of no importance, whether the fact that it is not omitted, but is positively enjoined, in the commission to the eleven, does not prove that it is of very great importance.

The name of the man, which signifies "little," has been urged as a reason why he did not baptize more; but this is as good a reason against his baptizing any. That his "bodily presence was weak" is doubtless true; but it does not require much strength to baptize the hand in a basin of water and to lay that baptized hand on the head of a convert, supposing that to be divinely required; nor much to raise even a large person out of a liquid that has an upward pressure, especially as the human body is of nearly the same specific gravity with water, and as some human bodies will float in it. That Paul did baptize some persons is unquestionable; and this teaches that he regarded the rite as of indispensable obligation upon those who would acknowledge the Lord of all and would wear his name. He was accompanied usually by a "minister," and here had Aquila, Silas, and Timothy, who, doubtless, baptized the very numerous converts made at Corinth, a few of whom Paul himself, because of special reasons, saw fit to immerse. Gaius, his host, and Crispus, the chief ruler of the synagogue, were persons of influence, and, together with Stephanas and his family, were the first fruits of his ministry in Achaia. Two households, all of mature age, were thus the nucleus of the church of Christ at Corinth, and it was perfectly fit that Paul should himself baptize them. He may have baptized others, in like manner, elsewhere; but here he was thankful that but few had received the initiating rite at his hands.

Now, what reason could he have had for congratulating himself upon this? Ordinarily preachers are glad to report their successes, and to thank God for them, as well as to rejoice in opportunities of administering baptism. Paul, too, had recently left Athens, where he had made a comparative failure, possibly because he had thrown himself into the popular current, and had thought to win learned men by means of learning, while preaching to them "Jesus and the resurrection." Here, on the contrary, his success was wonderful: "Many of the Corinthians hearing believed, and were baptized." He had "determined" to know nothing among them, but Jesus the Christ, and him the crucified One, having been taught by unsuccessful experiment that "the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God," and that the one name is the sole foundation for the one church. It is natural to suppose, then, that he would gladly have availed himself of this opportunity to baptize many.

He gives two reasons for his thankfulness that he had not done so. One is: "Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the gospel."

We learn, hence, that Paul acted under a different commission from that of the eleven—they were sent especially to "make disciples" by baptizing them; and while he felt himself at liberty to administer this ordinance, it was not his commission that gave him the authority, but simply his discipleship. The eleven were commanded to teach the disciples to observe all things whatsoever Christ had taught them to observe; and this justifies the performance of the rite by any disciple of whom the congregation to which he belongs may require it; otherwise there is no authority for its performance now. This reason for not having baptized more of the Corinthians may have applied likewise to every other congregation gathered by Paul: he might do as he preferred—either baptize with his own hands or delegate the duty to a minister; but in no case recorded in the Acts of the Apostles was baptism omitted when discipleship followed preaching of the word. Many things might be said in this connection that are precluded by the length of this essay.

The other reason given for thankfulness at not having baptized more of the Corinthians is: "Lest any should say that into mine own name I had baptized."

The congregation at Corinth had been guilty of the sin of sectarianism. Parties had been formed in the church under leaders who may have been "ministers by whom they had believed." Every one of you saith, I am of Paul, and I of Apollos, and I of Peter, and I of Christ." The whole body seems to have been schismatized, but among them not many could say truthfully, "I am of Paul," since he had baptized but very few.

Thus at an early age of the church divisions crept in, and the basis of them was a personal attachment to the ministers who had baptized the converts. Paul had reason to congratulate himself that the party that had assumed his name was but a small one, knowing, as he did, that upon the oneness of the body of Christ depended the conversion of the world. (John 17: 21.)

It is impossible to read 1 Cor. 1 without observing that the apostle condemns, in the most emphatic manner, these schisms: "Was Paul crucified for you"—that you should wear his name? Or "were you baptized into his name"—that you should say, "I am of Paul?" Does he not teach us thus, that no name is to be worn in the church and before the world, but that of Him who died for us, and by whose authority and into whose name we are baptized?

If there were but one believer in Christ in the world, that believer would have been cut off from the world by his faith. He would then be a sect in the world. The same would be true were there a million of believers in the world. They would be a sect in the world, because cut off therefrom by their faith; in the world, but not of the world. So long, then, as a church exists, there must be a sect in the world; and this is of divine authority. But when the church, which is the body of Christ, divides itself into schismatic parties—either on account of those who baptized them, or because of attachment to a set of doctrines, or of a form of government, or of a particular ordinance—then appears that criminality which the apostle condemns. No wonder he says by way of introduction to that condemnation: "Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ [which you wear], that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions [sects] among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment." (1 Cor. 1: 10.) He must have regarded these schisms as a most serious matter, if he could thank God that so few belonged to his party. The spirit he breathes is not that of the denominations of the day, which pride themselves on their numbers and on their worldly influence, and labor unceasingly to increase both.

The present state of things is sometimes justified by saying that, if "the church" was not thus divided, it would become formidable to the state, and would usurp all authority, as witness the efforts of John Calvin at Geneva, and of the fifth monarchy men in England. There would be some reason in this were the church of Christ one denomination under a form of government adopted by itself. Romanism has shown what it would do, and so has the Parliamentary Church in England. As each denomination has attained to power, it has persecuted non-conformists. This is admitted. But those who argue thus do not understand the structure of original Christianity. It is impossible for that to become a worldly power, because it can never assume the denominational form. In its normal state, each congregation was as perfect an exhibition of the kingdom of heaven on earth as though no other than itself existed. Moreover, there were no ties by which these congregations were united into one ecclesiasticism. While, therefore, the early congregations suffered most terrible persecutions, and sympathized most acutely with each other, they did not unite in a body to repel their oppressors; much less could they, although numbered by millions, assume to be a power in the state. Their kingdom was not of this world. The advocates of original Christianity now desire to copy this model, to endeavor to form each separate congregation after it; and while, for all good and legitimate purposes, they may cooperate, they can never consent to see the whole formed into a denominational ecclesiasticism. So far as they are concerned, then, the argument against oneness fails. It may apply, in all its force, to those denominationalists who employ it.

SPECIAL OFFER.

We are trying to increase the circulation of the Gospel Advocate, knowing that as we increase its circulation we are broadening its field of usefulness and thereby doing more good for our Master. Will you cooperate with us in this good work? The subscription list of the Gospel Advocate is growing daily, and we want you to help us do even greater things for the Lord through its columns. Here is our Special Offer: If you will send us two new subscribers for a year, we will send you a copy of Peloubet's "Select Notes on the International Sunday-school Lessons." This book includes all the Sunday-school lessons for the year 1922. It formerly sold for $2. The price of the Gospel Advocate is $2 per year. Send to the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Our Contributors

Brother Smith's Wandering Rejoinder.

BY J. B. BRINEY.

Brother Smith's reply to my article in the Gospel Advocate of September 14 is somewhat of a curiosity. He uses three columns and a half to reply to an article that occupies just nine lines more than one column! This shows that he realizes that he is under the weight of a staggering load in attempting to sustain his affirmation that the Scriptures "plainly forbid" the use of an instrument in worship. His first column is wholly irrelevant to the issue between him and me. O. E. Payne's book and editorial notes in the Christian Standard have no bearing whatever upon Brother Smith's affirmation as indicated above. When my good brother opened up this discussion in the Gospel Advocate, I was led to hope that we would have a frank, straightforward, and brotherly investigation of this disputed question in the light of New Testament teaching; but I am now constrained to confess that that reasonable hope seems destined to disappointment, for my dear brother appears to be simply sparring for some sort of advantage before his readers.

This first column of Brother Smith's reply is not only irrelevant, but it is made up largely of misrepresentations (unintentional, no doubt, but misrepresentations all the same.) The caption of his article is entirely misleading. I have not deserted O. E. Payne in anything that I ever said about his book. I have said that he abundantly sustains his thesis as expressed in the title of his book—namely, "Instrumental Music Is Scriptural"—and I still say that he proves that thesis to a demonstration. I have never indorsed the extreme position of the book that the New Testament "enjoins" the use of an instrument in worship, nor do I believe that proposition. It is certainly a new idea in regard to book reviews that a reviewer, in recommending a book in a general way, thereby indorses everything in the book! If Brother Smith wanted to fairly represent my views on the use of instrumental music in worship, why did he not examine my book on that subject, in which my position is fully developed?

For forty years or more my position has been that an instrument may be used as an aid to singing, and I have never varied from that position, and no one has any trouble in "permanently" locating me, who desires to do so, and will take the trouble to examine what I have written on the subject. In view of the facts in the case, Brother Smith's talk about me "throwing down my gun and fleeing the field without firing a single shot" is the merest buncombe! But now comes something a little more serious. Brother Smith says: "Again, in the Standard of June 3, 1922, editorially, and over the signature of Brother Briney, we have the following relative to Payne's position: 'The author has made an exhaustive research of the meaning of psallo, precisely as Campbell and others have made the same investigation in regard to baptizo. The result is an overwhelming conviction that not only was instrumental music allowed in the worship of the primitive church, but that it was positively enjoined.'" Now, that means that I wrote the language just quoted, when the fact is that it is in an editorial introduction to what I did write, for which I am no more responsible than is Brother Smith! This misrepresentation can only be excused on the almost inexcusable ground of careless reading. The book notice to which my name is appended begins with "To Whom It May Concern," and it does not contain the language attributed to me! Is this progress in an honest investigation?

I am sorry that I have had to occupy so much space in correcting Brother Smith's erroneous representations, but it was absolutely necessary. Now for his arguments. I am surprised at his incense logic. The burning of incense belonged to the dispensation that passed away to give place to the dispensation of the new covenant. Besides, the burning of incense was typical of something; and when the thing typified comes, the type passes away. I find that I did use "water" instead of "meat" in my illustration based on the Lord's Supper, but that makes no difference, as the principle is the same. There is absolutely no place for water in that institution. The Master says, "This is my blood" (not water), and water is in no way helpful in partaking of the Supper, and hence the cases are not parallel. Infant baptism does not aid believer's baptism, but displaces it and becomes a substitute, and hence is not parallel.

If I misunderstood Brother Smith's "cow illustration," his language is responsible for it; but he has a right to explain what he meant, and I gladly accept his explanation, which does not help him in the least degree. The offering of a cow would in no way assist in the offering of a sheep, and therefore it is not parallel with the use of an instrument to aid in singing. Hence, Brother Smith's cow impales him on either horn. The Jew might do anything in offering a sheep that would aid him in making the offering, and in singing one may employ that which aids one in that form of worship.

In paragraphs 6 and 7 Brother Smith assumes that the word "sing" as used in the New Testament is a specific word whose meaning excludes the use of an instrument. That assumption never has been proved and never will be. On the contrary, it has been shown to a demonstration that in New Testament times it meant to sing either with or without an instrument. Of course that question cannot be argued here and now, but the fact is as just stated, and I am prepared to prove it if this discussion is permitted to go on. When Brother Smith introduced this discussion into the Gospel Advocate, he did it with somewhat of a flourish of trumpets, saying: "It is with much pleasure that I undertake to answer Brother Briney's question, for it affords me an opportunity of doing what I have desired for a long time—viz., getting some light from him on what seems to me to be a most important matter." But it now seems that the light is getting too strong for Brother Smith's eyes, and there are indications that he wants to turn the light off instead of turning it on! In paragraph 7 Brother Smith asks a number of questions that are based on the assumption that no instrumental music was used in New Testament times, without offering any proof of that threadbare assumption. Yes, he does prove it by my fifty-year-old statement that it was "born five hundred years out of time." How fortunate for my good brother that I wrote fifty years ago! That old statement has been shown to be entirely incorrect.

Brother Smith's quotation from 2 Chronicles fails to sustain his contention. Does it follow that because instrumental music was used for a given purpose at one time, it cannot be used for a different purpose at another time? The Jews used instrumental music to praise God, and I can use it simply to sustain and help my voice in praising God, my purpose being merely to aid me in singing. What's the matter with my brother's logic, anyhow? In paragraph 8 Brother Smith utterly fails. God has as much legislated on seeing and hearing as he has on singing. He says seeing is to be done with the eye, and hearing by the ear; and if singing with the voice excludes the use of an aid, so do seeing with the eye and hearing with the ear exclude the use of aids. From this conclusion there is no escape. God has been just as specific in telling us how to see and hear as he has been in telling us how to sing. But this is not all. If God's legislation on the subject excludes an instrument, it also excludes the voice. Eph. 5: 19 says: "Speaking one to another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody with your heart to the Lord." The singing and making melody is to be done with the heart, and not with the voice. The vocal cords are not in the heart, and hence they are excluded if any other instrument is. Furthermore, the singing of Eph. 5: 19 and Col. 3: 16 is not worship at all, for it is to be addressed by the brethren to one another, and of course they are not to worship one another, and this takes the foundation from under Brother Smith's whole contention.

Heb. 13: 15 says not one word about singing or making music of any kind. Here it is: "Through him then let us offer up a sacrifice of praise to God continually, that is, the fruit of lips which make confession to his name." There is no hint here about singing or any other kind of music, and one can offer a sacrifice of praise to God and not utter a note of music. One might whistle with the lips in praising God. Would Brother Smith object to that? I repeat that the musical staff in an instrument does no more in guiding the voice through the ear than the printed staff does to guide the voice through the eye. God says no more about a printed staff than he does about one in an instrument. I account for the fact, if it be a fact, that the New Testament says nothing about the use of an instrument in singing, on the ground that it was so common among the Jews that it was not necessary to mention it. If the use of an instrument is such a great sin, how does Brother Smith account for the fact that it is not expressly condemned in the New Testament? The Jews were brought up to it, and would naturally continue it unless they were expressly forbidden to do so. But such is not the case. On the contrary, the Jewish Christians continued to worship in the temple where and when instruments were used, and not one syllable of dissent or reproof is recorded in the New Testament. How does my brother account for this crushing fact which eviscerates his whole contention of all life and force? "Now Peter and John were going up into the temple at the hour of prayer, being the ninth hour." Here are two leading apostles going into the temple at the hour of prayer, and they could be going into the temple at that hour for no other purpose than to worship. There is no doubt of this on the part of any one who has not an unscriptural theory to try to support. Musical instruments were used in the temple worship, and here we have apostolic approval of such worship. Let Brother Smith stay his hand against it, lest he be found to be fighting against God.

[See Brother Smith's reply on page 946.]

Think on This.

BY S. H. HALL.

In 1 Tim. 3: 15, Paul says: "The church of the living God, the pillar and ground [stay or support] of the truth."

Now, what does Paul here say is the ground and support of the truth? He says it is "the church of the living God." Then, in order for us to be "the church of the living God," we must support the truth. We dare not support our own doctrines and theories. When we do this, we cease to be the church of the living God; for to be it, we must support the truth. The faithful disciples of our Lord constitute this house. (See Heb. 3: 6.)

Now let us get this well fixed in our hearts. One of the marks of the true church of our Lord is that it supports the truth. This is just another way of saying that God's people support his word. For Christ says: "Thy word is truth." (John 17: 17.)

Had you ever thought of how strongly this fact declares the all-sufficiency of the doctrine of our Lord? For we are to support his truth, not something else. We cannot afford to add to the truth, then support these additions, for in supporting what we add to his word is not supporting the word itself. The same is true of subtractions. We are not to take something from God's word and try to defend ourselves in this act; for in doing so we are actually declaring that what we have subtracted is not needful, and this would be to make war on the truth. We are not to pervert the gospel, then defend our perversions, for this is equivalent to supporting another gospel altogether. (See Gal. 1: 6-9.) Then for us to be the kind of church Christ would have us be, we are simply shut up to what our Lord teaches—no more, no less. This is the happy and joyful life to live. Let us live it.

But some one will say: "Brother Hall, I thought the truth supports and sustains us." In this you think correctly. But God's truth supports and sustains only those who support it. Indeed, it is the rock on which we stand for support. But we must stand on it, not on the doctrines of men. We must stay with the truth, if we wish to be indeed the church Christ would have us to be.

Does the Explanation Explain?

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

It will be remembered that I copied from the Firm Foundation an article by Brother J. M. McCaleb on "War Is Right," in the Gospel Advocate, and reviewed it. Recently in the same paper Brother Elam makes an effort to explain Brother McCaleb's article in the following way:

BROTHER McCaleb's ARTICLE ON "WAR IS RIGHT."

Dear Brother Showalter: May I say a word in regard to Brother McCaleb's article on war?

I read this as copied in the Gospel Advocate, and I have just read your comment upon it.

I took it as a piece of irony. Every one knows lying, stealing, incest, etc., are grievous sins, strongly condemned by the Lord; so is war. Some good brethren wink at the great sin of war with all its devastation and carnage, and seem even to justify it under certain circumstances; hence, lying, stealing, incest, etc., are just as justifiable under certain other circumstances. In fact, did not some brethren argue during the World War, in regard to Christians' engaging in it, just as Brother McCaleb now argues in regard to their lying, stealing, committing adultery, etc.? If Christians are ever justifiable in engaging in war—shedding blood, burning houses and cities, making widows and orphans, cripples and maniacs, and hurling millions of unprepared souls into eternity—then they are just as justifiable in lying, stealing, committing adultery, incest, and in committing many other sins on earth.

I am glad that the brethren who seemed in any way to favor war while war was in progress see the weakness and foolishness of Brother McCaleb's reasoning, as they seem to think he intends it.

All who see that lying, stealing, incest, etc., are condemned by the Lord should see also that war is.

A serious, thoughtful, and studious preacher took Brother McCaleb's article as I do.

Understanding his article as any may, I am glad he wrote it. It will serve to bring out the sin of Christians' engaging in war.

David could see most readily the sin of the rich man in taking the poor man's one little ewe lamb; but—O, well, some of us poor and weak mortals cannot see ourselves as others see us, and most especially as God sees us. How readily some brethren can see that lying, stealing, adultery, incest, etc., are wrong, while unable to see that war, which embraces all these sins and almost all others, is!

We shall be glad to see Brother McCaleb's explanation of his own article.

Since this subject of Christians' engaging under any circumstances in carnal warfare is still before us, I should be pleased to see a thorough discussion of it by thoroughly Christian and competent men, and altogether in the light of the word of God, without prejudice and passion, free from personalities, and only to learn the will of our Father in heaven, that we may all first practice and then teach it to others. On this, as on "all things that pertain unto life and godliness," there is the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace.

E. A. ELAM.

Brother Elam says of McCaleb's unscriptural position, "I took it as a piece of irony;" but he offers no proof that it is irony, only "a serious, thoughtful, studious preacher took it" the same way. That fact evidently puts Brother Elam in good company; but I am unable to see how either one of them took it that way unless they had more evidence before them than the article itself. As far as I am able to see, there is not a sentence, a word, a syllable, or a punctuation point in the article that would indicate irony. The first sentence in the article reads: "I have reconsidered this question, and for the following reasons it would seem that war is right." That statement is either true or false. If it is true, Brother Elam is wrong; and if it is not true, there is a word that describes it, but that word is not "irony."

I do not know to whom Brother Elam refers in his statement: "I am glad that the brethren who seemed to favor war while war was in progress see the weakness and foolishness of Brother McCaleb's reasoning, as they seem to think he intends it." Neither do I know what he means by "seemed to favor war while war was in progress." If brethren favored war while it was in progress, why does he have to say they "seemed" to do it? And, again, why does he say, "as they seem to think he intends it?" There is too much uncertainty in Brother Elam's mind in this sentence. But he says further: "Understanding his article as any may, I am glad he wrote it." Understanding his article as I do, it contains as much error and as little truth as any article of its length that I remember to have ever read, and I am unable to see how Brother Elam could be glad that he wrote it, with my understanding of it. "Rejoiceth not in unrighteousness, but rejoiceth with the truth." (1 Cor. 13: 6.)

I, too, will be glad to see Brother McCaleb's explanation of his article which was published in the Firm Foundation three months ago; and if he explains it as Brother Elam does, I shall believe that his explanation is too far removed from the subject. Explain it as he may, and yet it will confirm many in the belief that the Advocate acted wisely in ceasing to push J. M. McCaleb as a missionary. While Brother Elam's explanation is not satisfactory to me, I am willing for the readers to see it and give it all the weight they can in arriving at a correct conclusion as to Brother McCaleb's fitness as a religious teacher. As to the sinfulness of war, I am glad to have that pointed out and all the scriptures against it brought to view, but I am unable to see how Brother McCaleb's article helps any at all in bringing about this result. If Brother Elam is right, this is a new way of presenting the question, and I can but doubt the wisdom of it.

Christian Growth and Development.

BY J. G. ALLEN.

It has been my pleasure, in days gone by, to listen to many discourses on the above subject, which I enjoyed very much, and I think that among the best sermons I ever heard F. W. Smith preach was on this subject, and yet there is much more to be said.

I have been troubled in mind many times since I came West over good brethren being divided over so many different questions, and to-day it makes me sad at heart. Just think! Brethren are divided over Bible schools, Sunday schools, how to run a religious paper, and other things too numerous to mention.

I have believed for years, and still believe, that it is impossible for two or more to be divided on any question that causes division among brethren, and both be right; they both may be wrong, but they both cannot be right, because there is but one right way. So when I find brethren differing on any question, I am slow to draw a conclusion until I investigate the question myself. The result of this course on my part has caused me to stand aloof from either side, because I believe that both sides have gone to extremes, and, in the language of Brother David Lipscomb, "extremes are dangerous," and oftentimes you will find "the truth on middle ground."

Now, by way of illustration: One brother objects to the Bible school, another with equal ability favors it, and, instead of discussing their differences in the spirit of Christ, they fly into a rage and say hard things about each other, until to-day I believe both sides are wrong in the main. Perhaps some may jump at the conclusion, from what I have just said, that I am trying to get up a new party. No, brother, you have me wrong.

I receive four papers published by good brethren, and I have measured what has been said by able men on both sides of this question by the Bible, and this is my conclusion: that any man that would object to the Bible being taught anywhere and everywhere is either one of two things—he is ignorant of what the Bible teaches or else he has not “the Spirit of Christ; because, the Spirit of Christ revealed to us in the Bible does not prescribe any fixed method of teaching, but only gives the command to “preach the word,” and leaves it to the individual to use every opportunity given or make one; but in either case the command is to “preach the word,” whether in school or out of school, at home or abroad, on land or on sea.

Standing opposite to those who oppose the Bible school are those who favor Bible schools, and in their zeal for Bible schools they have practically set the church in the background, and frequently the burden of their preaching is Bible schools instead of Christ. So you must realize what the Bible teaches in all things.

I am well aware that I have digressed somewhat from the thought expressed in the heading of this article, but one more question I want to notice before I leave this thought—that is, the use of Bible helps. I have met good brethren that objected stoutly to Sunday-school helps, and before we parted company they would hand me a religious tract. Now, pray tell me what is the real difference between a tract and Sunday-school helps? Only the difference between tweedledum and tweedledee. Pshaw! Let's stop this foolish wrangling, brethren, and “preach the word.”

I am sure if we all observe God's ways, we will be just all that God expects us weak mortals to be in this life, and go to heaven when we die. If every elder of every congregation of Christians would make a strong effort to develop all the talent in these congregations, much of this wrangling would fade away like the mist before the morning sun. The church is the custodian of the Bible, and the eldership of the different congregations are the God-appointed overseers. So get busy, brethren, and develop song leaders and other helpers in your respective congregations. I have serious doubts about an elder of any congregation being saved, that makes no effort to develop the talent that is placed under him. My humble prayer to God is that we may all spend our time here on earth in God's service, and thus be prepared to enjoy eternity in his holy presence.

More Baptist Bunk.

BY W. H. CARTER.

In the Baptist Flag of September 7 we have more of C. B. Massey's bunk, which, by the more illiterate, is, no doubt, thought to be invincible. Of course Mr. Massey thinks it to be a soul winner and a Campbellite destroyer. Were it not for the hope of reaching a few intelligent Baptists, I would waste no time in writing this article.

Mr. Massey has been traveling so long in the sectarian bogs with his eyes closed against heaven's truth, and since D. H. Knight tied him hand and foot at the Gap of the Ridge as an apostate from the Primitive Baptist Church, he has been seeing ghosts, hobgoblins, and many “scarry” things. One horrid specter, by him called “Campbellism,” seems to be haunting him both day and night. Having ingloriously failed in his attacks upon the living, he has gone to the dead, who he knows cannot speak in defense of themselves. We quote him as follows: “God made a test of Campbellism here in Macon County a few years ago. The first was the case of Brother George Meador. He had been a Campbellite believer all his life, but had not joined them, and finally he got poorly and decided he wanted to be saved, and a Campbellite preacher from Lafayette went and baptized him, and in a few days he told his son, Ed Meador, who was a good man and Baptist, that there would have to be more done for him than had been done or he would have to go to hell when he died; so they sent for a Baptist preacher, and he told him how to be saved; and in a few days, and one morning about five o'clock, he professed and was perfectly happy.”

Now, Mr. Massey stated that which is not true when he says “a Campbellite preacher from Lafayette went out and baptized him.” I myself baptized him, and I know I am no Campbellite preacher, and Mr. Massey knows it, too. There is an old saying: “Falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus”—false in one thing, false in everything.

I visited George Meador, and, at his request, I talked with him, quoting such scriptures as John 20: 21; 3: 14-17; Luke 13: 3; Mark 16: 15, 16; Acts 2: 37, 38; 22: 16; Rom. 6: 3-7; Gal. 3: 26, 27; Eph. 1: 3-7; Col. 1: 13, 14; etc. He told me he believed this, and said he intended to be baptized. I told him that if he wanted me to assist him in this service, I would come at any time.

Now, if George Meador believed on Christ, as he said he did, and repented of his sins, confessed Jesus before men, and was baptized in obedience to Christ, what more does the gospel require? What more did that Baptist preacher tell him to do? Why did he not tell this, and give chapter and verse? Why did your “good man” and “Baptist,” Ed Meador, keep all this from his mother and sisters and brothers until after his father was dead and in his coffin? Now, I have been informed that Sister Meador denounced it as untrue, and that Ed's brother Joe told him he knew that it was not true.

This is not the first time such crooked work has been done by men who have not learned the difference between ignorance and prejudice and true religion.

But Mr. Massey has another case. He says: “Uncle George White, who had been a Campbellite for sixty years, found that he only had a few days to live, and was not ready. He said he wanted religion like his son Johnnie, who could shout and was not afraid to die. So Brother P. S. Dyer was sent for, and, just like all other Baptist preachers would have done, told him what to do to be saved; and in some days Uncle George professed religion and was happy until death.”

About forty years ago George White obeyed the gospel. He believed on Christ, repented of his sins, confessed Jesus with the mouth, and was baptized. What more did P. S. Dyer tell him to do to be saved? Will Mr. Massey answer this, giving chapter and verse? Now, I am informed that Brother White's wife and daughter says this tale told on “Uncle George” is positively not true.

His third case, by which he would disprove “Campbellism” and establish his Baptistism, is a young man, Parkhurst, at Lafayette, who was so badly burned from an explosion of gasoline that he died. He had been here for some time, but did not attend the Lord's-day meetings. I did not know that he had been a member of the church until after his death. A tale was told about him about this time, but I gave it no attention, thinking it possible that, if one would not do what God said while he lived, he might be persuaded by a Baptist preacher to do something God did not say when he came to die.

Sorrow, like a stream, loses itself in many channels; and joy, like a ray of the sun, reflects with a greater ardor and quickness where it rebounds upon a man from the breast of his friend.—South.

The Greatest Woman.

BY MRS. D. F. DRAPER.

Some might say that the greatest woman that ever lived was some noted musician, artist, or writer; but really the greatest woman that ever lived was Mary, the mother of Jesus. First, because she was a believer in God, pure, holy, and good; and second, she had the privilege and honor of being the mother of the Savior of the world, the Redeemer. In that way God gave to the world its greatest blessing. Had you ever thought that God permitted woman to be the mother of Jesus, but not man the father?

Now, you might ask, if Mary gave to the world its greatest blessing, what woman gave to us the greatest curse? We would answer, Eve, of course. Through her transgression she brought sin with all its awful consequences—tribulation, all manner of sickness, and finally death—upon all humanity. What greater curse could she have brought upon us?

We can all readily see the results of the righteous and unrighteous woman. Solomon says: "Who can find a virtuous woman? for her price is far above rubies." (Prov. 31: 10.) Again: "A virtuous woman is a crown to her husband: but she that maketh ashamed is as rottenness in his bones." (Prov. 12: 4.) A splendid comparison of the two kinds of women. The thirty-first chapter is a beautiful tribute to the deserving woman, and ends by saying: "She looketh well to the ways of her household. . . . Her children arise up, and call her blessed. . . . Give her of the fruit of her hands; and let her own works praise her in the gates." Her own works is what is going to bring her reward. The same personal responsibility rests upon woman as upon the man. Her influence is as great, if not greater, for either good or evil. For instance, let every girl absolutely quit dancing for twenty-five years, and at the end of that time there wouldn't be a man who could dance. Then, too, let every woman quit the church and use her influence against the church, and see what kind of a church it would be in a few years.

Paul said: "Help those women that labored with me in the gospel." In what way do you suppose they labored with him in the gospel? "Labor" is a little stronger word than "work." So they toiled with him, coöperated with him in the work, faithful in all their duties; lived a consecrated Christian life, preaching all the time by their godly lives; visited the sick, made garments for the poor. It is said of Dorcas, in speaking of this kind of work, that she was "full of good works which she did." Yes, they helped teach the word. Paul said of Aquila and his wife, Priscilla, that they were his helpers in Christ Jesus; and when Apollos came to Corinth preaching only the baptism of John, that this man and his wife taught him "the way of the Lord more perfectly." I would not leave the impression that woman should have the preëminence over the man, for God condemns that; but I would have the girls and women of to-day realize that there is a work that no one can do but them—that there is an abundance of work in the vineyard of the Lord for the devout Christian woman, especially in the teaching of their children when young.

We have a beautiful demonstration of this in the case of Timothy. From a child, Paul says, he had known the "holy scriptures," and had been taught them, not only by his mother, but by his grandmother as well. What greater service could they have rendered to the world than to prepare this child for God's service?

There is a work for the aged women. They should teach young women to be sober; to love their husbands and children; to be chaste, keepers at home, obedient and good; and Peter tells us how she ought to dress—that is, with modesty. We all know the meaning of that word; no use to dwell on that. Let the adorning be of the inner man, but not to the neglect of our body, which is the temple of God; and he would have us protect and care for it as such, as it is the abiding place of the Spirit.

Jesus, while here on earth, had friends that he loved very much; and a little family, Mary, Martha, and their brother, Lazarus, were among those friends. On one occasion, when he was in their home, Martha was much concerned about the temporal things of life; while Mary sat at his feet to learn of things eternal, thereby teaching a lesson that is applicable to us—that temporal things are earthly and soon perish, while eternal things are everlasting. Mary had chosen the good thing. So let us be more like Mary, and seek things eternal.

Then the Mary that anointed Christ's head for his burial was rebuked by the disciples; but Christ said: "Let her alone; she hath wrought a good work; she hath done what she could." What a wonderful statement to make of any one! Can we say that we have done what we could? And could Christ say of us, as he did of the poor woman that came to him and said, if he would say the word only, that her daughter would be whole, and he proclaimed: "O woman, great is thy faith?" Let us pray for faith that is as strong as the faith of those women that followed Christ to the tomb, and were there on the morning of his resurrection, and were told by the angel to go and tell his disciples that he was not there, but arisen. Had you thought that women were first to bear the glad tidings of his resurrection?

On the cruel cross and in the agony of his death, Jesus Christ made provision for his mother. He beheld her in the crowd and said, "Woman, behold thy son;" and to John, "Behold thy mother," which was to say: "John, I am going away now, and you must care for mother; give her every comfort." He shifted the responsibility on John, his beloved disciple. He gave her the best home that he could; and, as far as we know, she lived with John until her death. What a splendid lesson for us! He appreciated what she had suffered and was still suffering for him, and his heart went out in compassion for her. He made provision for her in her old age.

While none of the women of to-day can be the mother of Jesus, we can be Christ's sisters and heirs with him, and sit with him and each other in heavenly places, and have the same hope and promise that she had. If we do what we can, we will be given an abundant entrance into his everlasting kingdom. So let us realize that our work is as essential as that of the men, and use every opportunity for doing good, blessing humanity, and magnifying God and the church, and ever live worthy of the name we wear.

Reaping and Sowing.

BY I. A. DOUTHITT.

"Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." (Gal. 6: 7.)

If it were possible for man, in either the natural or the spiritual kingdom, to sow one thing and reap another, he would be deceived and surprised and the God of nature would be mocked. But this never happens, for we reap what we sow. If we sow corn, we reap corn; if we sow oats, we expect to reap oats; and so on all the way around. But if a man should, in the natural kingdom, sow one thing and reap another, yet that will never happen in the spiritual realm; for God "cannot lie." (Tit. 1: 2.) There are only two sowings possible, and all are sowing to one of these (Gal. 6: 8); there are only two reapings, and we are soon to experience one of these; only two ways, and we are in one of them (Matt. 7: 13, 14); only two ends to those ways, and we are rapidly approaching one of them; only two masters, and we are serving one of them (Matt. 6: 24); only two sides to the judgment, and on one side or the other we must soon stand (Matt. 25:

31-46); only two rewards, and we shall soon receive one of them. And it all centers in the fact that we reap what we sow.

For about six thousand years people have been sowing, and for just that long they have been reaping. We, as individuals, will soon stop sowing, but we will have all eternity in which to reap. Is it not strange that though we know, by the experience of all who have lived before us and by God's word, that if we sin, our sin will find us out, and that we will reap our sowing, yet intelligent people will continue to sow to the flesh?

The Bible is filled with examples of people's sowing and reaping and sinning and their sin finding them out. Of course we could find hundreds and hundreds of examples right here in the land where we have seen it with our own eyes to demonstrate this; but as this is a Bible principle, I want to go to the Bible for a few examples and see the picture just as God drew it.

Read the second and third chapters of Genesis, and you will find the history of the sin of Adam and Eve. When God made man, he gave him dominion over all things created, from the minerals under the ground to the birds that fly through the heavens. And manifesting still further interest in man's happiness by preparing a paradise on earth in which man might dwell forever, God told man what he could do and could not do, but man disobeyed God. He sinned, and it found him out, and it was then that he demonstrated the fact that he was human by offering excuses and trying to put the blame on Eve. But that did not satisfy God, and he drove them out. Suppose I were to walk up to Adam, by faith, and ask him, just as he is leaving the gates of that Edenic home and going out to make a living by the sweat of his face, toiling among the thorns and thistles, shoeing his feet, covering his hands, and clothing his body to protect himself from the things that would pain his flesh: "Why all this change from a life in Paradise to one of toil and hardship, trials and troubles, sickness and death?" Can't you hear his answer? Here it is: "I sinned, and it found me out; I sowed, and now I am reaping." That will be your answer sometime. You may think you will escape; but you are no exception, and if you sow, you will reap.

For another example, read the fourth chapter of Genesis. Cain killed his brother, Abel. No one saw it, so no one could tell on him; but he sinned. After a little while God asked him the whereabouts of his brother, and though he played the part of a scientific dodger, his sin found him out—yours will, too—and I see him as he leaves all that is near and dear to him, going out as a fugitive and a wanderer in the earth. You may think the reaping pleasant, but here is what Cain thought about it: "My punishment is greater than I can bear." Suppose I ask Cain why all of this sadness and sorrow. Here is his answer: "I sinned, and it found me out; I was sowing then, and I am reaping now." That will be your answer just as certain as you sow to the flesh and sin.

Finally, I want you to see a big man sin, and see how he comes out. You and I look at the deeds of big folks just as though we expected God to measure them by a different standard, but they all look alike to God. If the President goes to heaven, he will go the same route the poor beggar goes. (Acts 10: 34; Eph. 6: 8; Heb. 5: 9; 2 Thess. 1: 7-9.)

Read 2 Sam. 11, 12. There was a man (David) who had brains enough to rule all Israel successfully, but he sinned. He committed adultery with the wife of Uriah, and on top of that had Uriah killed. But Jehovah sent Nathan unto David, and he related the parable found in 2 Sam. 12: 1-7, in which a man is accused of stealing a sheep, and David's decision of what should be done with a sheep thief—"He is worthy to die," etc. My friends, this is how it looks to a human for a man to steal a sheep. I wonder how it looks to God for a man to steal the purity of a home! Yes, the man who steals our chickens, horses, cars, money, and temporal belongings is a black-hearted thief; but he, to my mind, is as white as a snow bank compared to a man that steals the purity of a home. We take the man who steals our mules and send him to the penitentiary (where he should be), while we take the man that steals all that makes our homes sacred, and compliment him and advertise him, and then put a premium on adulterers. When it gets where we cannot risk the purity of our mothers, wives, sisters, and daughters in the private company of citizens without the fear of all that is sacred being stolen, we are in a bad state of affairs. Still worse is the condition when we cannot risk them in the care and company of church members. But how much worse is it when we get where we are afraid for them to be in private company with the leaders, elders and preachers! God speed the day when it will look just as bad to us for a boy to "go to the dogs" as it does for a girl! May the time soon come when every adulterer, whether man or woman, boy or girl, behind the plow, in the store, in the school, or in the pulpit, will be so ousted, ostracized, and ignored by decent people that civilization will arise in the strength of Israel's God and put an end to that sinful practice! God bless you, my friend, if you steal my money, I can get more in its place; but if you steal the purity of my home, that cannot be restored; you have robbed me of all that makes my home dear to me. Yes, it is bad for a girl to wreck her future, shame her home, disgrace her name, and break the heart of her mother, but it is just as bad for a boy.

Poor old David sinned, and it found him out; he sowed, and he reaped; and so will you. It seems to me that this sad conversation that David had with Nathan would have been enough punishment for any one; but he had sowed, and he must reap. And of all the sad reappings of which I have ever heard, the saddest is that that overshadowed the king's house in appalling darkness and domestic shame.

Young people, you are sowing now, and you will have an endless eternity in which to reap. Be careful what you sow. "Be sure your sin will find you out."

Gospel Advocate Company.

BY H. LEO B.

Every home ought to have many good books in it. New books of great value should be added to the home library and the young people should be encouraged to read wholesome literature. The Gospel Advocate Company will help you to select just such books as will be a blessing to your home.

"Center Shots at Sin. By Arthur Talmage Abernethy. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

An arsenal of religious ammunition, assembled by a strategist experienced in fighting uphill. The author is a strong and virile thinker; his style, clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eye-opener.

"The Glorious Gospel." By Adam K. Adcock. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

"No one except a thorough and devout student of the Scriptures could have written 'The Glorious Gospel.' The author shows excellent analytic and synthetic power and knowledge in the selection and organization of the biblical teaching on the various subjects treated." (Christian Journal.)

"Sermons for the People." By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

Few books of sermons combine the qualities of interest, instruction, and inspiration to the degree in which they are united in this volume. The author is a master in the field of popular sermonizing, and some of his best work is to be found in this collection. There is not a dull page in the book. The text fairly sparkles with original and apt narratives.

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Evangelistic Notes

R. L. Colley has just closed at Paragould, Ark., with four additions.

L. B. Jones is in a meeting at Highland Home, near Montgomery, Ala.

J. C. Hollis closed at Athens, Ala., with four additions. There was much opposition.

L. L. Yeagley has just closed at Farmington, in Marshall County, Tenn., with ten baptisms.

Emmett G. Creacy has just closed at Wisdom, in Metcalfe County, Ky., with thirteen baptisms.

George W. Graves closed at Fairview, in Putnam County, Tenn., with good attendance and six additions.

A. B. Lipscomb preached at Reid Avenue, this city, last Lord's day. B. H. Murphy led the song service.

Charles L. Speir and Frank Grammer are in a good meeting at Purdin, Mo. They go next to Browning, Mo.

W. P. Jones recently closed at Fame, Okla., with three additions, and then at Ozark, Okla., with four baptisms.

Will W. Slater changes his address from Fort Smith, Ark., to Beaumont, Texas, where he will labor next year.

W. M. Oakley recently closed at Brownsboro, Ala., with two baptisms. He is now at Bethlehem, near Woodbury, Tenn.

J. Pettey Ezell reports the work at Cookeville, Tenn., as in fine condition, with the finest night audiences since he has been there.

E. E. Joynes, of Philadelphia, Pa., recently preached a few times at Melvin, Mich. At the same time Leslie G. Thomas was at Flint, Mich.

Will J. Cullum has recently moved his family to Rockwood, Tenn., and he reports a fine service on September 24 at Dayton, with one baptism.

W. A. Record began last Lord's day at Berea, near Vienna, Ill. He goes next to Akin, then to Liberty, near Galatia. All these places are in Illinois.

E. P. Watson recently closed at Bon Aqua, Tenn., with thirteen baptisms and seven restorations. He held a successful meeting there last year.

Willis G. Jernigan has just closed at Yeiser, Col., with nine baptisms. This place was settled in 1882, and this was the first preaching of any kind ever done there.

H. D. Jeffcoat reports three additions at Deen, near Cleveland, Miss. He is now in a meeting near Indianola, Miss., after which he will return to Ackerman, his home.

Thomas H. Burton closed at Jonesville, S. C., with one baptism. He moved his tent back to Union on September 24. He reports good services and one baptism on that day.

Alonzo Williams closed at Hardin, Ky., with ten baptisms. Any one desiring to correspond with him may address him at Abilene, Texas, care Abilene Christian College.

G. B. Howell will do evangelistic work by the fellowship of the church at Fort Smith, Ark. He is now at Arkana, near Fort Smith. His meeting at Cavanaugh resulted in fifteen baptisms.

Mrs. Will E. Walker, Winchester, Tenn., subscribes for the Gospel Advocate for two other persons besides herself. If all our readers would do this, its usefulness could be multiplied three times.

P. D. Lawson is now situated so that he can answer calls for preaching and singing. He would like to locate near some good school and where he could be busy all the time. Write him at Marvell, Ark.

The congregation at Lakeland, Fla., meets each Lord's day at the usual hours at 210 South Massachusetts Avenue, in the Woman's Club and Library Building. Any visiting Christians will be heartily welcomed.

S. W. Bell recently held mission meetings at a schoolhouse and at Boonesboro, in Howard County, Mo. There had once been a congregation at the last-named place, and sixteen were persuaded to begin work again.

Joe Ratcliffe was compelled to close his meeting at Wysox, Ky., on account of his illness. There were eight baptisms and one restoration. We are very sorry to learn of his illness and pray for an early recovery.

Robert Alexander has conducted two meetings during the summer, besides taking a course in Oklahoma University. Sixteen were baptized and five restored. He is a teacher in Western Oklahoma Christian College, Cordell, Okla.

R. W. Jernigan, Bridgeport, Ala., has been preaching several weeks in Coffee, Grundy, Warren, and Dekalb counties, in Tennessee. His last meeting resulted in fourteen baptisms. He is now at Big Springs, near Christiana, Tenn.

A. B. Lipscomb has just closed a fine meeting at Scottsboro, Ala., which continued ten days and resulted in ten baptisms. He will begin at Hamilton, Ala., on the third Lord's day in October. His address is Box 814, Nashville, Tenn.

H. M. Phillips has just closed an interesting meeting near Greenfield, Tenn., with three baptisms and three restorations. This is his last protracted meeting for the season, and he now returns to the St. Elmo Church at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Coleman Overby has just closed at Newberg, near Murray, Ky., with fine interest. He was challenged by Old Baptists for a debate, which was accepted. He is now at Taylor's Store. He is the evangelist supported by several churches near Murray.

H. Ishiguro, of Japan, is in this city, taking a course at David Lipscomb College and Vanderbilt University, and would appreciate very much any recognition from the Christians. He will be able to interest you very much concerning the habits and customs among his people. We should encourage him all we can.

Willie Hunter preached five days recently at Arcot, in Clay County, Tenn., with good crowds and one reclaimed. Since that time he has held a meeting at Haydenburg, in Jackson County, resulting in twelve baptisms and three restorations. He baptized one at Big Bottom on his way home. He goes next to Hebbertsburg, in Cumberland County.

Hugh H. Miller, on his way from Tennessee to Cooleage, Texas, his home, preached a few times at "Red Top," near Hallsville, Mo., which was a source of great encouragement to the church there. S. W. Bell has also preached some for them recently. To-day is the one hundredth anniversary of the organization of this church, which began on October 5, 1822.

Mrs. P. M. Drane, Bakersfield, Cal., writes: "We were quite happy last Lord's day to have Brother and Sister H. A. Bearden, of Shelbyville, Tenn., with us. They will be here during Brother Nichol's meeting, and we hope to have them locate here. Two Sisters Newman, of Etheridge, Tenn., have located near Bakersfield, for which we are very thankful. Interest in the cause here is increasing. We only hope that more of you good people will come to this nice country."

For some years J. W. Shepherd has been compiling a list of the names and addresses of the preachers in the church of Christ and publishing in booklet form. The list heretofore was necessarily incomplete, and efforts are made each year to correct and complete the list. All who know of any changes to be made or names to be added will please send to J. W. Shepherd, 430 Grand Boulevard, West Detroit, Mich., or to H. Leo Boles, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

From C. M. Stubblefield, Paducah, Ky., September 28: "Beginning on Tuesday, October 17, and continuing four days, there will be a debate at Hatler's camp ground, near Martin, Tenn., between C. M. Stubblefield and J. T. Panks. The first two days will be devoted to the discussion of infant baptism; the last two, to the design of baptism. Those who care to attend from a distance should write L. A. Winstead, Martin, Tenn., who will make proper arrangements to care for them."

From George W. Farmer, Cleveland, Tenn., September 30: "I closed a ten-days' meeting with the church at Lexie, Tenn., on Wednesday night. There were seven baptisms and four restored. The congregation was much encouraged and reset in order for work. We confidently look and listen for greater things from this church. J. J. Reynolds led the song service, and did it well. He is a young preaching brother of much promise. T. Q. Martin is now here in the tabernacle meeting, with good prospects. I am at home doing the scotching for the meeting."

G. A. Dunn, Sr., is in a fine meeting at Trinity Lane, this city.

R. L. Ludlam, Jr., has just closed his work at Ottumwa, Iowa.

James A. Allen is conducting a meeting at Pilcher Avenue, this city.

M. C. Kurfees and Bryan Holloway are in a fine meeting at Shelbyville, Ky.

T. M. Carney is now located with the congregation in Weatherford, Texas.

C. M. Pullias is in the midst of an interesting meeting at Twelfth Avenue, North, this city.

J. H. Morris has just closed a mission meeting at Morning Star Schoolhouse, near Florence, Ala.

Thorp Spring Christian College has just opened its fall session with an encouraging enrollment.

R. N. Moody's meeting at Hebron, in Morgan County, Ala., had resulted in nine baptisms when last heard from.

C. H. Smithson has just closed a fine meeting at Wilte, Ark., with twenty-five additions. He is now near De Queen, Ark.

The church which meets at Fifty-fifth and Blackstone Avenues, Chicago, Ill., will welcome you when you are in that city.

W. H. Mansur, Lexington, Okla., closed a twenty-days' meeting at Judsonia, Ark., with twenty baptisms and one restoration.

J. D. Derryberry can make engagements to sing for meetings anywhere. Address him at 1803 Russell Street, Nashville, Tenn.

Thomas C. King closed at Elkmont, Ala., with thirteen baptisms. He is now at Summertown, Tenn., with five baptisms to date.

It is only the great-hearted who can be true friends. The mean and cowardly can never know what true friendship means.—Kingsley.

Religion secures to the just man two inestimable advantages—unbroken peace during life and blissful hope in the hour of death.—Plato.

R. C. White and J. D. Derryberry recently closed a meeting at Jefferson City, Tenn. Brother White will begin next Lord's day at Canmer, Ky.

W. E. Morgan closed at Whitleyville, Tenn., with eleven additions—nine baptized and two restored to fellowship. He began at Stone last Friday.

Religion has many dialects, many diverse complexions, but it has one true voice—the voice of human pity, of mercy, patient justice.—Morley.

From J. T. Clark, Pulaski, Tenn.: "The longer I read the Gospel Advocate, the more I learn to appreciate it. I would not want to be without it."

It is ordained in the eternal constitution of things that men of intemperate minds cannot be free. Their passions forge their fetters.—Edmund Burke.

Service is the supreme commitment of life. I would rejoice to proclaim the era of the Golden Rule and crown it with the autocracy of service.—Warren G. Harding.

It is right to say: "I wish I knew God's will more perfectly." It is better to pray: "O God, help me to do thy will, as I know it, more perfectly than ever."—Babcock.

"Poverty in youth is often a good thing. It lays bare the hideousness of the real and creates desire for the ideal, thereby pricking the tardy soul and will to aspiration and effort."

J. L. Hines has just closed a short meeting at Lafayette, Tenn., with splendid crowds and one addition. He goes now to Cincinnati, Ohio, where he will spend the fall and winter.

J. Clifford Murphy recently closed at Bert, in Maury County, Tenn., with seven baptisms and five restorations. He is now assisting W. H. Owen in a meeting near Clarksburg, Tenn.

William F. Ethridge is in a good meeting at Mayfield, Ky. He recently closed at Fair Dealing, with fine interest and twenty additions. The congregation will begin to meet regularly again.

H. R. Daniel closed at Bellwood, with two baptisms and bright prospects for the future. He is now at Center Point, and will go next to Philippi. All these places are in Stewart County, Tenn.

R. V. Cawthon asks the prayers of God's people in behalf of his mother, who has just undergone a serious operation. If her health will permit, he expects to begin at Smithville, Tenn., on next Lord's day.

P. H. Robbins, Plainview, Texas, writes: "The Gospel Advocate is our most welcome guest every Monday morning. We read every line. I was with the congregation at Clovis, N. M., on September 24."

In the soul of man, good and evil lie near each other. If the latter, for want of education, gets the upper hand, the man falls beneath himself. But education which promotes goodness raises him above himself.—Plato.

The flowing tide is with those who seek to make a better world; the stars in their courses fight for them, notwithstanding all appearances to the contrary; the eternal powers promise and pledge ultimate success.—W. L. Watkinson.

Is it nothing to have God continually at our right hand? Is it a small thing to walk in the light of the divine countenance? Is it a trifle to be able to hide oneself in the cleft rock until the calamities of life be overpast?—Joseph Parker.

L. S. White recently held a meeting in a schoolhouse near Sherman, Texas. About thirty persons indicated their willingness to meet regularly. He is now in a meeting at Tioga, Texas. John Pigue and Dodson Lewis are leading the songs.

J. E. Green recently conducted a meeting at Abilene, near Statesville, N. C., resulting in fifteen baptisms; then at Corinth, near Germanton, with three additions. Later he was at a schoolhouse near Walnut Cove, with two baptisms when last heard from.

If all were as intent upon earning all they collect as they are in collecting all that they earn, most of the world's problems would be solved. It is the greed that seeks to collect without earning that disturbs the world and disorganizes society.—W. J. Bryan.

J. W. Grant closed an eight-days' meeting at Sycamore Landing, Tenn., on the last Lord's-day night in September, with twenty-one baptisms and one restoration. Immediately following this he began a meeting at Three Forks, Ky., which started with fine attendance and prospects.

J. H. Hines, Montgomery, Ala., writes: "The work at Highland Park Church is moving along well. Two more were added last Sunday by statement. Our fall work has taken on new life. We have purchased hundreds of tracts and will begin our fall campaign next week. I go to Ozark next week to hold a short meeting."

David Lipscomb College opened its fall session on September 26, with an encouraging enrollment. A large crowd of patrons and friends was present. Addresses were made by J. Pettet Ezell, of Cookeville, Tenn.; David Lipscomb, of Fanning Orphan School; C. M. Pullias, of Murfreesboro, Tenn.; and E. A. Elam, head of the Bible department.

C. D. Crouch recently conducted a meeting at Greenbrier, in Cheatham County, Tenn., which resulted in two baptisms and two restorations. He is now at home nursing his sick wife. He will engage E. H. Greenwell (Baptist) in a four-days' discussion, beginning on October 24. The design of baptism, close communion, and apostasy will be discussed. The debate will be held in Ashland City, Tenn.

L. R. Wilson recently closed at Pennington, Ark.; next, at Armstrong Springs, with seven baptisms and one restoration; next, at Step Rock. At the last-named place he organized a congregation five years ago. Since that time they have built a nice house, held two debates, and two or three meetings each year. Practically everybody in the vicinity are now members of this congregation. He is now at Harper, near Newport, Ark.

You believe that Christ is present with you, nearer than your nearest and truest friend. You believe that he sympathizes with you, that he loves you, that he is not looking at you to blame you or criticize you, but to help you, to give you cheer and encouragement. You believe him when he says: "I am with you all the days." Now practice that faith. Act as if you believed it. Make the fact real by faith, and then do just precisely as you would do if you looked up and saw his face beaming upon yours.—J. R. Miller.

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50 in advance.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 217-219 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS
Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter
Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

Has Brother Briney Been Misrepresented?

BY F. W. SMITH.

On page 938 will be found a reply from Brother Briney in which he charges misrepresentation. Read that before reading this.

1. As to whether or not, with the exception of attributing to him the editorial in the Standard of June 3, 1922, written by some other editor, he has been misrepresented regarding his indorsement of O. E. Payne's book, I am perfectly willing to let the facts in the case settle. He says: "I have not deserted O. E. Payne in anything that I ever said about his book. I have said that he abundantly sustains his thesis as expressed in the title of his book—namely, 'Instrumental Music Is Scriptural'—and I still say that he proves that thesis to a demonstration." Well, now, how did Brother Briney tell us in his indorsement of Payne's book that the author had proven to a "demonstration" his "thesis" that "Instrumental Music Is Scriptural?" He did it in these words: "The author aims to prove that instrumental music in Christian worship is scriptural; and when I say that his effort is a complete success, I state the case conservatively. Mr. Payne builds his argument almost exclusively upon the meaning of the Greek word 'psallo,' which occurs in some form five times in the New Testament, and hence the Scripture sanctions the doing of whatever this word meant when the New Testament was written. The author first points out how the meaning of the Greek word 'baptizo' (baptize) is ascertained, and by the same method he demonstrates (I use the term advisedly) that when the New Testament was written 'psallo' carried with it the idea of the use of the instrument of music. This he does, first, by such an array of Greek lexicons as I have never seen assembled in the support of the meaning of any other word."

Note carefully that our brother says: "Mr. Payne builds his argument almost exclusively upon the meaning of the Greek word 'psallo,' which occurs in some form five times in the New Testament, and hence the Scripture sanctions the doing of whatever this word meant when the New Testament was written." Now, since he says that Payne's argument based upon the meaning of "psallo" "carried with it the idea of the use of the instrument of music," I insist that, whether he so intended it or not, Brother Briney indorsed what he terms O. E. Payne's "extreme position" that "we must unite in agreeing that if we forego musical instruments we cannot conform to the divine injunction to psallein." There is no logic on the earth that can free our brother from the indorsement of O. E. Payne's "extreme position," if, as he contends, Payne "demonstrates that when the New Testament was written 'psallo' carried with it the idea of the use of the instrument of music." How can "psallo" carry with it "the idea of the use of the instrument of music," unless that "idea" is in the meaning of "psallo?" Most certainly we are commanded to do whatever is in the meaning of "psallo," precisely as we are commanded to do whatever is in the meaning of "baptize;" and if instrumental accompaniment is in "psallo," then we cannot obey God in the command to "psallein" without the instrumental accompaniment. I do not blame my brother from balking at this irresistible conclusion of his indorsement of Payne's book, and the only way to extricate himself from the predicament in which his indorsement of that book has placed him is to repudiate what he has said about the book. The word "supper," as applied to the Lord's table, carries with it the "idea" of bread and wine, and our brother would as well undertake to obey God in the observance of the Supper with simply one of those elements as to undertake to obey God in praising him with simply vocal music, if, as he contends, "psallo" carries with it "the idea of the use of the instrument of music."

2. I do not need to read Brother Briney's book in order to "locate" him, for in his indorsement of O. E. Payne's book he "located" himself as teaching by the meaning of "psallo" that we cannot obey God without the use of musical instruments, and in this discussion he has "located" himself as teaching that the use of such instruments is simply an "aid" or "help" in doing what "psallo" enjoins, and has used some illustrations in his efforts to prove it.

3. He says: "For forty years or more my position has been that an instrument may be used as an aid to singing, and I have never varied from that position." Just how our brother can harmonize that statement with his indorsement of Payne's book is a profound mystery to me, unless, indeed, he could show how a command of God (which is most certainly the case if "psallo" "carries with it the idea of the use of the instrument of music") can be converted into an "aid" in obeying the command to "psallein." This shows the extremes to which men will go in their efforts to defend an unscriptural practice.

4. He has utterly failed in his attempt to answer my questions: "Is the burning of incense in Christian worship forbidden? If so, how?" Listen to him: "The burning of incense belonged to the dispensation that passed away to give place to the dispensation of the new covenant." I reply by saying: "The instrumental music belonged to the dispensation that passed away to give place to the dispensation of the new covenant." If his is a valid argument, so is mine. But he says: "Besides, the burning of incense was typical of something; and when the thing typified comes, the type passes away." He gives this as his reason for opposing the burning of incense in Christian worship, but evidently forgot this argument when further along he asks: "Does it follow that because instrumental music was used for a given purpose at one time, it cannot be used for a different purpose at another time?" I reply: "Does it follow that because the burning of incense was used for a given purpose at one time, it cannot be used for a different purpose at another time?" This knocks the bottom out of his "reason" for opposing the burning of incense in Christian worship, and the questions, "Is the burning of incense in Christian worship forbidden? If so, how?" still confront him unanswered.

5. Our brother banks heavily on "parallelisms" in his efforts to escape the invincible argument based upon the law of exclusion enacted by the use of specific words. This is not a question of parallelisms, as to whether the baptism of an infant could or could not be an "aid" to believer's baptism, or the offering of a cow could or could not be an "aid" to the offering of the sheep; but it is a question of the law of exclusion expressed in the specific word "believeth" found in the commission, which forbids the baptism of an "unbeliever" for any purpose whatever, and the specific word "sheep" which forbade the offering of any other animal for any purpose whatever, just as the specific word "sing" forbids any other than vocal music in the worship.

6. With Brother Briney the word "sing" ("psallo") is a most accommodating term; for, says he, it is not a "specific" word as used in the New Testament, but "it meant to sing with or without an instrument." It has been shown that such a thing is impossible; for if the word "psallo" involved instrumental accompaniment, then the command to "psallo" could not be obeyed without the instrumental music, and hence his "with or without" vanishes into thin air. Besides, the New Testament does not use the generic term "music," which would include both vocal and instrumental, or either one to the exclusion of the other, in giving the command to praise God, but distinctly used the specific word "sing," which means vocal music.

7. He asks: "Does it follow that because instrumental music was used for a given purpose at one time, it cannot be used for a different purpose at another time?" I reply: "Does it follow that because the burning of incense was used for a given purpose at one time, it cannot be used for a different purpose at another time?" If not, then on what ground does Brother Briney oppose the incense? I oppose the instrumental music in Christian worship (1) because God has excluded it by telling us with what kind of music to praise him—namely, vocal music—and (2) because it is of such a nature as to render it impossible to separate it from the vocal music; for when the two are made together there is a coalescing that combines the two kinds of music into "one sound" and hence one cannot be offered as praise to God without the other. (2 Chron. 5: 13.)

8. I deny that God has legislated as to with what one "sees, hears, or walks," but that he has so legislated as to what kind of music we shall use in praising him—namely, vocal; hence, our brother's illustrations fail to illustrate. But, says our brother, "if God's legislation on the subject excludes an instrument, it also excludes the voice;" for, says he, "the singing and making melody is to be done with the heart, and not with the voice." He forgets that he has repeatedly said the instrument "aids" the voice in singing; but how could that be, unless the singing was done with the voice? The truth is, the "singing" is one thing, done with the voice, and making melody is another thing, done with the heart. But to cap the climax, he declares that the singing in Eph. 5: 19 and Col. 3: 16 "is not worship at all," notwithstanding the fact that it is plainly said, "making melody with the heart to the Lord." Any cause that demands such a handling of the word of God as this must be in desperate straits. I never read where "one might whistle with the lips in praising God," and neither do I believe it can be done.

9. He says: "I account for the fact, if it be a fact, that the New Testament says nothing about the use of an instrument in singing, on the ground that it was so common among the Jews that it was unnecessary to mention it."

The Catholic can reply to Brother Briney regarding his incense thus: "I account for the fact, if it be a fact, that the New Testament says nothing about the burning of incense in the worship, on the ground that it was so common among the Jews that it was unnecessary to mention it." Surely if the practice of instrumental music obtained, it could not have possibly been more common than prayer, the contribution, the Lord's Supper, and singing; and yet all these are mentioned many times, while instrumental music is not mentioned one single time.

10. Brother Briney asks: "If the use of an instrument is such a great sin, how does Brother Smith account for the fact that it is not expressly condemned in the New Testament?" A sufficient answer to this is: "If the burning of incense is such a great sin, how does Brother Briney account for the fact that it is not expressly condemned in the New Testament?" But he says of the music: "The Jews were brought up to it, and would naturally continue it unless they were expressly forbidden to do so." The Catholic replies regarding his incense: "The Jews were brought up to it, and would naturally continue it unless they were expressly forbidden to do so."

11. Finally, our brother has now had three opportunities to comply with my request—namely, to produce authority from the New Testament for instrumental music in Christian worship—and the nearest approach he has made to it is nothing more than a wholly unwarranted and bald assumption that Peter and John went into the temple to worship with the unbelieving Jews who had rejected the Christ, and whom Peter had charged with the murder of God's Son. (Acts 2: 23.) A man can prove any religious vagary under heaven if permitted to take such license with the word of God as Brother Briney has here dared to take. All the facts in the case are against his baseless assumption which he coins into an "apostolic approval!" (1) Peter and John got no further than Solomon's porch, where, because of the healing of the lame man at the door of the temple, and who was still clinging to them, "all the people ran together unto them in the porch that is called Solomon's, greatly wondering." (See Acts 3: 1-11.) (2) Peter then began to do the thing which he and John started into the temple to do—namely, preach the resurrection of Christ and salvation through him. (Acts 3: 12-26.) (3) For doing this they were arrested and put in prison, and after their release "they came to their own company" (Acts 4: 1-23), which shows that their "own company" was separated from the infidel Jews. (4) But to settle beyond all dispute the purpose for which Peter and John were going into the temple, let the Holy Spirit testify: "Go ye, and stand and speak in the temple to the people all the words of this Life." (Acts 5: 20.) Hence, instead of going into the temple to worship with the infidel Jews and murderers of God's Son, as Brother Briney would have us believe, they were going there to preach the gospel to them. Now, unless this whole discussion can appear in the Christian Standard or in some other leading paper on the other side, this will positively close it. Unless the Standard will publish it, that paper should hang its head in shame in view of its charge that we were unwilling to investigate this subject.

Respect for Law.

BY J. C. M'Q.

A disregard of the law of God has never failed to lead to disastrous results. It was disobedience to the law of God in the garden of Eden that brought sin into the world with all its fearful consequences. It is not possible for one to disregard the divine law and at the same time have respect for the law of the land. The man who ignores God's law will in all probability disobey the civil laws in so far as he dares to do so. It is apparent that there is a growing disposition on the part of many to disregard all authority.

The Littleton (New Hampshire) Courier publishes under the head of "The Bootlegging Trade" the following timely editorial:

All over the country a vast machine is being built up for the distribution of liquor illegally. However one may feel about the Eighteenth Amendment, here is a development that all good citizens ought to view with repugnance. A multitude of people are getting rich by a profitable trade in harmful and illegal liquor, and many who call themselves good citizens connive at and enjoy the results of this crooked game. Millions of people must reach the conclusion that laws are not intended seriously; that it is a smart thing to break them; that if you can evade them and not get found out you are entitled to brag about it as an exploit in which you can take justifiable pride.

The folks who are gaining that impression will not stop with the breaking of this particular statute. They will be encouraged to think that all laws have no binding quality; that any citizen is free to break any of them. Our government is built upon respect for law. With millions of people losing this regard for authority and disobeying it so far as they dare, a canker of decay is introduced to the heart of American institutions. The idea is spread about that the rich man can break the law with impunity and can have his booze freely, while the poor man is denied his simple refreshment. Another element tending to promote class warfare is introduced. Those who violate this statute so lightly will soon be lamenting because their rights are ignored by the lawlessness of people who have been swayed by their pernicious example.

The people who connive at these violations of the law are playing with fire. Every time they patronize a bootlegger, they not merely run serious risks of injury to health and possibly fatal results, but they help break down the noble government that was built by the sacrifice of the fathers, the security and efficiency of which are necessary for the peace and well-being of every citizen.

If we would not devour and destroy one another, we must learn well the lesson of obedience to God and to man when obedience to man does not run counter to obedience to God. Man cannot with impunity refuse to accept the authority of God. His authority is as supreme to-day as it was when he said to Adam and Eve: "Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat: but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." (Gen. 2: 16, 17.) God's law must be obeyed or ruin and death will follow. The consequences that flow from sin and disobedience are not arbitrary, but inevitable. All who laugh at God and mock at his word must suffer. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth unto his own flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth unto the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap eternal life." (Gal. 6: 7, 8.) In all our sin and weakness, we should gladly accept the sovereignty of God and respect the powers that be. The prophet Isaiah says: "Come now, and let us reason together, saith Jehovah: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool. If ye be willing and obedient, ye shall eat the good of the land: but if ye refuse and rebel, ye shall be devoured with the sword; for the mouth of Jehovah hath spoken it." (Isa. 1: 18-20.) This was true of the people of Judah, and it is true of the peoples of to-day. Those who refuse to acknowledge the authority of Jehovah and those who refuse to be guided by him will be devoured by the sword and will sink down to eternal death. As this or any other nation departs from obedience it is traveling the road that leads to destruction. "As righteousness exalteth a nation," so disobedience, or unrighteousness, degrades it. A lack of respect for authority and law is a great menace to this nation. The children need respect for parental authority. Terrible are the woes which follow the child who refuses to honor father and mother. The children of the present generation will not make the men and women they should unless they are taught obedience and learn to respect parental authority. Discouraging and appalling is the lack of respect often displayed by children for their parents. Such conduct forebodes only evil. How much better and wiser for children to heed the following injunction of the Holy Spirit: "Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right. Honor thy father and mother (which is the first commandment with promise), that it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth." (Eph. 6: 1-3.) Obedience has the promise of this life and of that which is to come. Christ himself gave us an example of obedience that we should walk in his steps. "Have this mind in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: who, existing in the form of God, counted not the being on an equality with God a thing to be grasped, but emptied himself, taking the form of a servant, being made in the likeness of men; and being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, becoming obedient even unto death, yea, the death of the cross." (Eph. 2: 5-8.) Those who imitate Christ will not be little and disobey the law of our country. The Holy Spirit commands: "Be subject to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake: whether to the king, as supreme; or unto governors, as sent by him for vengeance on evildoers and for praise to them that do well." (1 Pet. 2: 13, 14.) Men who love and obey God will respect and obey the ordinances of men when they do not in any way conflict with the law of God. If we as a nation are to prosper, we must respect and obey God and encourage the whole world to do likewise. Laxity in the observance of the law of God will lead to disrespect for the law of the land. Such a course persisted in will eventually bring us to ruin in this life and in the world to come.

"Freewill Offerings from 'Outsiders.'"

BY M. C. K.

From Brother E. E. Shoulders, of Brooklyn, N. Y., I have received the following questions:

Is it wrong for an outsider (sinner) to contribute on the Lord's day when the basket is passed, and should we criticize this one for his seemingly good intentions? Is it wrong to accept freewill offerings from "outsiders" in the case of raising funds, or rather an extra fund for building, advertising, etc., in church work?

The reader will please note that no question is here raised about soliciting contributions from outsiders, which would be an entirely different matter and involve a different principle. The exclusive point of inquiry is as to the correctness or propriety of the church or Christians accepting freewill offerings from outsiders—offerings not solicited, but made voluntarily by the donors because they wish thereby to do good. The querist himself makes the following comment: "It seems to me that if our brethren would quit straining at gnats and swallowing camels, it would indeed be a blessing to the cause." (He should have said "strain out the gnat, and swallow the camel"—see Matt. 23: 24.) As we shall see, his observation here is assuredly correct.

This question belongs to a class of questions not settled by specific statement in the New Testament, yet they are very clearly settled there in principle either by general statements or by illustrative examples recorded for the specific purpose of teaching and inculcating upon Christians certain important principles of conduct. As an illustration, consider carefully the following examples:

And a certain centurion's servant, who was dear unto him, was sick and at the point of death. And when he heard concerning Jesus, he sent unto him elders of the Jews, asking him that he would come and save his servant. And they, when they came to Jesus, besought him earnestly, saying, He is worthy that thou shouldest do this for him; for he loveth our nation, and himself built us our synagogue. And Jesus went with them. And when he was now not far from the house, the centurion sent friends to him, saying unto him, Lord, trouble not thyself; for I am not worthy that thou shouldest come under my roof: wherefore neither thought I myself worthy to come unto thee: but say the word, and my servant shall be healed. For I also am a man set under authority, having under myself soldiers; and I say to this one, Go, and he goeth; and to another,

Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it. And when Jesus heard these things, he marveled at him, and turned and said unto the multitude that followed him, I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel. And they that were sent, returning to the house, found the servant whole. (Luke 7: 2-10.)

Jesus was a Jew, brought up under strict Jewish training, in the Jewish synagogue, and these elders were Jews; but the centurion was a Gentile, was distinctly an "outsider," and some of the Pharisees, drawing about them their robes of self-righteousness, and, with their ever-ready hairsplitting distinctions, would no doubt have repelled him under their choice dictum that they must not even "eat and drink with publicans and sinners." (Mark 2: 16.) But these elders, evidently sincere and godly men, said to Jesus, "He is worthy that thou shouldst do this for him," and the proof they offered was the following beautiful tribute to the centurion's high character for benevolence: "For he loveth our nation, and himself built us our synagogue." With this record to his credit, added to other evidences of his clear conception of the divine Person and mission of Jesus, the latter said to the multitude, "I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel;" and, in grateful and benevolent recognition of the centurion's worthiness, the Master miraculously healed his servant.

Precisely the same principle is taught and illustrated by the case of the good Samaritan. (Luke 10: 25-37.) The priests and Levites were the officials to whom was especially assigned the conduct of religious services in connection with the tabernacle and the temple, and the Samaritans were not only "outsiders," but with them the Jews ordinarily had "no dealings." (John 4: 9.) In this case, the "priest" and the "Levite" are both conspicuous for their lack of even ordinary humanity and good deeds to the man who "fell among robbers;" but the Samaritan is exalted and praised by Jesus because "when he saw" the plight of the unfortunate victim of robbers, "he was moved with compassion, and came to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring on them oil and wine; and he set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him." (Verses 33, 34.)

Here are two cases in which Jesus indorsed, in the highest terms, good deeds done by "outsiders;" and of course his followers should do the same thing. Why not? If an "outsider," prompted by kind impulses toward the cause of religion and humanity and the desire to do good to men, drops in a contribution "on the Lord's day when the basket is passed," surely we should let the good deed, in imitation of our Savior's example, accomplish whatever good it may accomplish.

Of course, in the acceptance of all such contributions, the question of motive must be considered. If there is known proof that an "outsider" proposes to make a contribution to the church from some sinister motive, as in the case of a liquor dealer or one otherwise engaged in a course of wrong and who hopes thereby to silence the church against condemnation of such a course, then the offering should be spurned and such a proposed donor should be politely informed that the church does not propose to enter into league with Satan by accepting hush money. Neither money nor anything else should ever be received by the church if the purpose is to effect any sort of compromise or abatement of the church's effort to stand aloof from and oppose the world. Furthermore, it places the church in an inconsistent attitude to go to the world and solicit from it contributions to carry on the church's work. The church and the world are in antagonism with each other and should remain separate. In fact, the mission of each arrays them in deadly conflict with each other. Hence, for the church to ask the world for the means wherewith to fight and oppose the world is inconsistent; but if somebody in the world is sufficiently interested in the work the church is thus doing "to contribute on the Lord's day when the basket is passed," the good deed, like that of the centurion or that of the good Samaritan, may be consistently accepted and used to accomplish more good. In all such cases, the gift of money or any other act of benevolence may be consistently accepted from the people of the world when the act is sincere and is no part of a scheme to uphold wrongdoing.

Hence, when brethren, in the name of loyalty, stop to "criticize" and split hairs over such an act from a kindly disposed "outsider," they would be spending their time much more profitably if they would put it in studying the Bible till they know what it is to be loyal to it. Churches should never uphold wrong or encourage upholding it by accepting gifts of money or in any other way; but when they can accept them without such result and thereby encourage the accomplishment of good, they should do it.

Book Reviews.

BY H. LEO B.

THE ROAD OF THE STAR. By Walter Russell Bowie.

This is a volume of addresses on the general theme of Christianity, proposing to interpret the principles of Christianity in harmony with the needs of men. The author seizes the idea expressed in Matt. 2: 10, "And when they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy," and gives a spiritual interpretation and application of this text to all of the roads or ways of life. He says "the Road of the Star leads on to many roads" and that they will lead heavenward. He uses such subjects as "The Road of the Common Days," "The High Road of Hosannas," "The Companion on the Shadowed Road," "Wells in the Desert," and "The Gallantry of Hope." His language is simple and his presentation of the subject is vigorous. The book contains 222 pages. Price, $1.50. It may be ordered through the Gospel Advocate Company.

WHEN JESUS WROTE ON THE GROUND. By Edgar DeWitt Jones.

This is a book of seventeen sermons by one of the leading preachers in a city of many churches. Each sermon seeks to accomplish some specific thing. The author brings consolation to the bereaved, courage to the wavering, and hope to those whose heart is the home of shame. He uses unique subjects, such as "The Towel and the Basin," "When Jesus Wrote on the Ground," "Three Times a Day," "The Mantle of Elijah," "The Ladder of Prayer," "The Church in Thy House." The last-named theme is an earnest, pathetic appeal for the family altar. All of his sermons are elevating and calculated to cultivate Christian piety and fidelity to the sacred duties of life. It is a splendid book and may be read with profit. The book contains 234 pages. Price, $1.50. It is published by the George H. Doran Company, New York, and may be ordered through the Gospel Advocate Company.

SERMONS AND ADDRESSES. By J. B. Briney.

In this book the author has treated old themes in such a way as will stimulate freshness of thought and clearness of conception. He presents twenty addresses; and while the themes are old, yet they are vital. The author is, in the main, true to the Bible, which is the greatest complement that can be paid to any book. His treatment on "The Bible," "The Inspiration of the Bible," "The Bible and Science," and "The Bible and Evolution," is profound and important. These themes should be studied by all young people, and especially those who are brought under the influence of the teaching of "the higher learning" or those who are possessed with the tendency toward "the modern viewpoint of learning." The book contains 430 pages. It is published by the Standard Publishing Company. Price, $2.50. It may be ordered through the Gospel Advocate Company.

Home Reading

Legacies.

Unto my friends I give my thoughts,
Unto my God my soul,
Unto my foe I leave my love—
These are of life the whole.

Nay, there is something—a trifle—left;
Who shall receive this dower?
See, Earth Mother, a handful of dust—
Turn it into a flower.

—Ethelwyn Wetherald.

✱ ✱ ✱

Why Things Went Wrong.

Mrs. Weston had many proofs that Bobby and Mary and Betty loved her. Each night, at bedtime, when the prayers had been finished and mother was ready to turn out the lights, the children assured her over and over again how much she meant to them, and that they never wanted to leave her as long as they lived. To this Mrs. Weston smiled and replied that, some day, when the big world called to them to do their parts, they would have to leave her, but never would they be without the mother love that would go with them into every nook and corner of the earth.

Bobby was ten years old, Mary was eight, and Betty was seven. With such a big family to take care of, it was no small wonder that Mrs. Weston became tired and that daddy insisted upon getting her away to grandma's for a little visit and a rest. The children were very thoughtful of their mother, but in spite of this it was evident that she needed a rest and a change. Mrs. Weston often told her friends of the thoughtfulness of her children, and how Bobby so willingly ran errands for her after school, while the other boys hastened off to the ball field to play. Bobby was just as anxious as the other boys to get to that field, but with a smiling face and a whistle on his lips he did the few things that mother asked of him before he played.

Mary and Betty helped in many ways, too, and Mrs. Weston felt that she was greatly blessed in having three such dear and loving children:

When it came time for mother to take the train for grandma's, Bobby had a big lump in his throat that just would not go down. Of course, he was too much of a man to cry; and if that old lump hadn't stayed where it did, things would have been all right.

Mary and Betty were "just girls," and if they cried as the train pulled out no one was surprised, for girls have a way of doing just that sort of thing at the very time they are trying to be bravest.

Aunt Ella had gladly consented to stay with the Westons while mother was away. She was nothing like Mrs. Weston, perhaps because she had never had a husband and children to take care of. She had lived most of her life with an older sister, who was now dead, and even though she tried to take mother's place, things were different.

Mary just couldn't say her prayers for Aunt Ella like she could for mother. Bobby just couldn't enjoy the bread and molasses after school like he could when mother fixed it. And Betty just couldn't enjoy the stories Aunt Ella told her at night when after supper she would crawl up into her lap and hear how the wolf pursued Red Riding Hood, or how the three little pigs made their homes.

Somehow, even daddy wasn't half so eager to romp at night when he came home from his business, and many evenings he, like the children, would be snugly tucked into bed before the clock struck eight-thirty.

One day Bobby came home from his play with a very black eye and a lump on his forehead. He had been hit by the ball while playing catch on the school team, and the whole game had been "called off" because of the accident. When Aunt Ella caught sight of Bobby's face, she fainted, and it was left to Bridget to bathe and bandage the injured boy. That it was an ugly bruise no one could deny, but Bobby knew that mother could have fixed it up quickly and with the sweet assurance that "it will be all right in a day or two." Home didn't seem like home to Bobby.

Funny, but the lump would not seem to go down, and the eye continued to be very black. If only Bobby could have written mother about it, he thought things would be better; but Mr. Weston had decided that mother should know nothing of such things, so Bobby had to suffer in silence.

Then, one night, after mother had been away for a week, Fluffy, the pet kitten, disappeared, and when, after two days, she failed to return, Betty and Mary shed many tears over her. Bobby inquired all around the neighborhood, daddy advertised in the papers, and Mary and Betty searched the attic and cellar thoroughly, until Fluffy was finally given up as lost. And Mr. Weston noticed that three appetites were lost at the same time.

Ten more days before mother's return.

On the eleventh day of mother's absence Mr. Weston came home from the office earlier than usual, unable to speak above a whisper. Mother always knew just what to do in such cases; but Aunt Ella's remedies seemed to do very little good, with the result that daddy had to be put to bed, and there he stayed all the rest of the following day. He had to be kept very quiet, too. (And mother not due home for another week.)

When night came, Bridget fixed up a dainty supper, and Aunt Ella helped her arrange it for Mr. Weston, on a little table beside his bed; but the supper was untouched. Bobby, who now felt himself the "man of the house," with the responsibilities resting upon his shoulders, decided that he should write to mother about the whole business, and ask her to hasten her home-coming. His eye still bothered him a great deal, but, in spite of this, he seated himself at the desk in his room and started his letter. Suddenly he stopped! A machine had driven up to the house and some one was coming up on to the porch.

Bridget opened the door and there stood—mother! She held out her arms to the children, who fairly flew down the stairs, and, after hugging and kissing each one of them, she asked: "Where is daddy?" Aunt Ella announced that he was a "very sick man;" so Mrs. Weston hastily took off her hat and coat and went upstairs. In his room lay Mr. Weston, with the first real smile on his face since mother had left. No one was more surprised than he himself to hear the words, "Mother, what brought you home?" from a man who had been unable to speak above a whisper for nearly two days.

And what brought mother home? Isn't it strange that mothers have a way of knowing when things are not all right? Mrs. Weston said afterwards that she had a "feeling" that she should go home, and, too, she couldn't stay away from her dear family another day!

Well, before mother had been in the house half an hour, daddy was sitting up in a chair, eating a pretty substantial meal for a sick man. And Aunt Ella said she never believed it possible that a person's voice could come back in such quick time.

When Bobby left for school the next morning, his eye was almost well, and mother couldn't even find the place where the lump had been!

But, strangest of all, when the grocer boy arrived with the provisions for lunch, something scampered into the kitchen at his heels, and Fluffy, the prodigal kitten, was mewing for milk.

And Bobby, Mary, Betty, and daddy all agree that home isn't home without a mother.—Christian Guardian.

Texas-Oklahoma Department

By C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

The Preacher.

BY C. R. N.

The duty of the preacher, as a preacher, is to preach the word. It should be remembered that there is a positive as well as a negative message to be delivered to the people. To the young preacher, Timothy, the command was: "Preach the word; be urgent in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with all long-suffering and teaching." (2 Tim. 4: 2.) In rebuking, we should do so in a spirit which will make the people know we find no delight in adverse criticism. Tell the folk that the friend criticizes for the good of those criticized; the enemy finds fault. Remember ever that the church is the bride of Christ. It is sin in the church you need to point out, not the church with which you find fault.

He who persuades himself that he has discharged his full duty when he has presented the constructive side of the gospel has failed to read carefully the teaching of the Bible. When you have preached the gospel with all that goes to make it a full gospel, you will have condemned false teaching, exposed false doctrine, and denounced sin in all its forms. The goody-goody, namby-pamby, mushy-gushy preacher, engaging in "union meetings, who can say "Hades," but fears to say "hell" for fear it will grate on the sensitive ear of some one in the audience, and who constantly fears that his audience will decrease if he preaches something which could be called a "doctrinal sermon," is an apostate from the faith; and if, indeed, he is a good man at heart, he is not a faithful preacher.

Recently I had a letter from a preacher, in which he said:

Soft preaching? Some of it is being done, but there are lots of us who tell it like it is. Some few, I suppose, apologize when we quote a God-inspired passage of Scripture, and I have seen brethren wince when I merely quoted a certain passage. But the majority enjoy hearing it preached with a kick to it, and I enjoy making sectarians miserable in their sectarianism. Tact and good judgment are indispensable; but nothing God has said should be withheld from the people, and the man who is guilty of so withholding it to cater to the popular feelings is a traitor. His convictions are not skin deep. Some men are undoubtedly too rough—no love in their preaching—harsh, crude. The horny tongue is not always desirable, but is preferable to the one that is slick as a serpent's on both sides. I do not like the preacher who talks glibly of the faults of "our people" and oilily points out the excellencies of somebody else's people.

Colleges cannot make preachers. Preachers are not made to order. The college has a great work to do; but when the college takes a promising piece of material and works it into a preacher, puts a diploma into his hand, and hides his anatomy in white linen and a long coat, then some boy rises up out of the brush and preaches circles all around him. A lot of foolish things have been said by lots of folk about the preacher. Every preacher is better prepared for the work if educated, but a college education cannot make a preacher out of a man when it is not in him. Sometimes the process brings out more fool than preach. Thoughtful people—those who know the Book and regard its teaching—will not attempt to chase a boy through college where he has a few courses in the sciences and English and history and the Bible in literature, and then put a cap and gown on him and ordain him as a preacher.

When a pronounced sectarian hears me through a series of sermons, indorses what I have preached, and remains contented in his sectarian affiliation, I will review my sermons and question my ability to preach the gospel effectively. The gospel faithfully preached will make sectarians uncomfortable. I do not intend to convey the idea that the preacher should be abusive. Such a course would be unwise. The preacher, to meet the approval of the Master, must be a Christian gentleman; but he has not discharged his duty when he does not warn the people of the error of their way.

In the Old Testament Jehovah required the watchman to warn the people of their errors: "I have set thee a watchman unto the house of Israel; therefore hear the word of my mouth, and give them warning from me. When I say unto the wicked, O wicked man, thou shalt surely die, and thou dost not speak to warn the wicked from his way; that wicked man shall die in his iniquity, but his blood will I require at thy hand. Nevertheless, if thou warn the wicked of his way to turn from it, and he turn not from his way; he shall die in his iniquity, but thou hast delivered thy soul." (Ezek. 33: 7-9.)

Why should any one hesitate to make reference in a courteous way to the teaching of the sectarians and point out the false position or false doctrine they teach? Is it that you fear you will offend them and thereby become unpopular with them? Whom are you seeking to please?

Recently I preached what I thought was a strong sermon. Commenting on the same, a brother said: "How can one remain in a sectarian church after hearing that sermon?" Another brother replied: "Not one out of ten of the members of sectarian churches know the doctrines of their churches."

Recently a brother, one of my best friends, criticized "Sound Doctrine," Volume I., because the book contains references to what the Presbyterians, Methodists, and Baptists teach on some points, calling the names of these religious bodies. The brother thought it would have been more "dignified" to have made reference to the teaching, but not to have said anything as to who taught such doctrines. True, this same brother, twenty years ago, often made reference to what the denominations taught, and called the names of the people teaching the doctrines he had reference to. If I cannot expose false doctrine and be "dignified," I shall not worry, but continue to expose false doctrine. I am neither afraid nor ashamed to point out the errors of the false teachers, nor to preach the gospel. People hear me preach, too. Where is there in all the world such a fearless body of men as gospel preachers?

Personal Notes.

Claude Kele, Box 895, Waco, Texas, can be had for some work this winter, after October.

Foy E. Wallace, Jr., reports eighteen baptisms in the meeting he recently conducted in Plainview, Texas.

Ira Womack has just closed at Wirt, Okla., with seven baptisms and two restorations. He is now at Ringling, Okla.

Tice Elkins reports the work with the Southside congregation, Fort Worth, Texas, progressing nicely, with additions often.

T. W. Phillips, who now labors with the Beacon Hill congregation, San Antonio, Texas, reports the outlook for the new congregation the best.

J. K. Bentley closed near Lubbock, Texas, with twenty-five baptisms. This summer Brother Bentley has baptized one hundred and three and established congregations in two new places.

A. H. Clark, who labors with the church in Winters, Texas, reports three meetings in which he assisted—Bradshaw, Texas; Crete, Okla.; and Wall, Texas. The three meetings resulted in sixty-four baptisms.

A. N. Kennedy has time for some meetings anywhere. So write him at McKinney, Texas. The church there want a preacher to work with them (not for them). Brother Kennedy would be glad to communicate with some church who might desire his services another year.

Roots Herbs

Barks Berries

Such as physicians prescribe for ailments of the blood, stomach, liver and kidneys are combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla,—

Sassaaparilla	Mandrake
Yellow Dock	Dandelion
Uva Ursi	Stillingia
Blue Flag	Pipsissewa
Guaiaac	Juniper Berries,
Gentian	Wild Cherry

and other excellent tonics, thus making one of the most successful of all medicines. Get only Hood's.

TETTERINE Drives Away Pimples

and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 60c at your druggist's or from the SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, back-aches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

Heres Relief

Why suffer from nervousness, insomnia, hysteria, nervous dyspepsia, nervous prostration or any ailment due to a disordered condition of the nerves?

DR. MILES NERVINE

will give you prompt and lasting relief.

It produces refreshing sleep, builds up the shattered nerves and promotes a normal distribution of nerve force.

Your Druggist Sells It, Ask Him.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Field Reports

Mansfield, Ark., September 25.—I have just closed a four-days' debate with the Seventh-Day Adventists, near Ozark, Ark. Their man was able and kind, so we had a good time. I am now at Liberty, three miles south of Mansfield, in a mission meeting. We have a good church house here. At one time we had a good congregation, but some members took the organ fever, brought the organ into the church, and divided and tore it up. So the organ party went to other parts, and most of the loyal members joined the devil, and the boys cut up the organ and threw it out of the window. So I hope to capture many back from the devil during the meeting. We need a preacher located in this part of Arkansas all the time.—J. D. Tant.

Natchez, Miss., September 25.—I closed my protracted-meeting work on Sunday night, at Kitchener, Miss. I held a good meeting there in July, and they have met every Lord's day for worship since the close of the meeting. Since coming to Mississippi for work the first of March, I have spent a good portion of my time in Natchez, trying to permanently establish the cause of our Master. Together with Brother J. R. Vaughan, of Jackson, Miss., I held a fifteen-days' meeting here in June. Five were baptized and one was restored to fellowship. I have held six meetings out of Natchez, resulting in twenty-two baptisms, five led out of Baptist errors, two small congregations encouraged to meet regularly for worship on each Lord's day, and, I trust, much other good accomplished. Prospects are brighter for our future work here in this new field. Let all pray that our work here may be to God's glory and honor.—T. C. Fox.

Nashville, Tenn., September 28.—Frequently I am asked by my friends why I do not report my work in the papers. I have never accomplished anything that I thought was worth the space it would take to tell about it, still I realize that we like to know what each other is doing and that the reports make interesting reading. From the following it will be seen that I have not been idle for the past year. Since coming to Nashville twelve months ago, besides teaching in David Lipscomb College till noon each school day, I have done a year's graduate work in Peabody College (receiving the A.M. degree on August 29), preached every Sunday during the school year, and held six meetings as follows: Haleyville, Ala., July 23 to August 2; Sylvan Knoll, near Coffeeville, Miss., August 6-12; Enid, Miss., August 13-18; near Benton, Ky., August 20-27; Oakland, Miss., September 3-12; Oakland congregation, near Clarksville, Tenn., September 17-24. Brother Lee Jackson was with me in the three meetings in Mississippi. I was much benefited by associating and talking with this good and thoughtful man. In my judgment, there are few who are his equal in a knowledge of the Bible. I can learn much by sitting at the feet of such men. He lives at Oakland. The congregation there

Dodson's Liver Tone

Killing Calomel Sale

Don't sicken or salivate yourself or paralyze your sensitive liver by taking calomel, which is quicksilver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it regulates the liver, stomach, and bowels better than calomel without making you sick. Fifteen million bottles sold.

W. W. PERRY
President

A. D. PERRY
Manager

W. D. PERRY
Treasurer

We Invite Your Patronage

PERRY FURNITURE COMPANY GENERAL HOUSE FURNISHERS

Phone, Main 1491
208 THIRD AVENUE, NORTH
NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Plum Street Church of

Christ, Detroit, Mich.,

Now meets in its new building, corner Hamilton Boulevard and Tuxedo Avenue. Visiting brethren welcome.

New York City Church of Christ

239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M., Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6857.

ECZEMA

PSORIASIS—ITCH

RU-BON Will Remove Every Spot.

Ask Your Druggist.

SPURLOCK-NEAL COMPANY,
Wholesale Distributors.

THE B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.

We are preparing our mailing list for our New Catalogue. If you are interested in a free copy, write us.

B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.
CHURCH STREET
Nashville, Tennessee

Reader Takes Newer Form of Iron—Feels Years Younger

"Six weeks ago I saw a special offer in the paper, telling how thousands of people grow old in looks and energy long before they are really old in years, because, as examinations by physicians have shown, an enormous number of people do not have enough iron in their blood. I have been taking the newer form of iron, known as Nuxated Iron, for two weeks. The results are simply astounding. The roses have come back in my lips and cheeks, and I can conscientiously say that I feel ten years younger."

The above is a typical hypothetical case showing the results that have been achieved by a great many people since we started this "satisfaction or money back" offer on Nuxated Iron. We will make you the same guarantee. If, after taking the two-weeks' treatment of Nuxated Iron, you do not feel and look years younger, we will promptly refund your money. For sale by all druggists.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron has been used for years whenever needed in the family of the advertising representative of this paper with excellent results. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

For the HAIR—

To make it soft, fluffy, and free from dandruff, use

TETTERINE

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

FRED K. JONES

Buying, Selling, and Exchanging
REAL ESTATE

I Make an Effort to Assist All
Who Call on Me

43 ARCADE

NASHVILLE, TENN.

PIANOS

AND

VICTROLAS

Sold for Cash or on Easy Payments

M. F. SHEA

305 Fifth Avenue, North
NASHVILLE, TENN.

PILES CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or call without delay. Private reception rooms for ladies. Established since 1912. Free X-Ray examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

have just finished a neat and comfortable house of worship. It required a sacrifice for them to do this, but they do not regret it. There is a fine opening there for a good Christian physician. Any one interested would do well to write W. A. Burford.—W. H. Owen.

Mercer, Tenn., September 27.—Through the courtesy of our Presbyterian neighbors, Brother F. O. Howell preached the first gospel sermon ever preached here on September 5. For six nights he presented the simple story of the lowly Nazarene in such a forceful, clear-cut, concise way that the people here are now discussing the Bible on the streets, and we believe that the Bible is being read more here than ever before. Many of the people here thought that they would hear nothing but "water salvation," but Brother Howell dispelled that belief by stating the first night that "the blood of Christ cleanseth from all sin," and "without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sin." He later urged the people to lay aside all human institutions, take the word of God alone, become one body in Christ, and devote their united efforts to the cause of the Master. We are very thankful to some of our Baptist friends for furnishing the current to light the building. There were no additions, but we feel that later on the seed sown will bring forth a bountiful harvest. There are no members here except my wife and I, but we commune on "the first day of the week" "as it is written," hoping thus to establish the cause of the Savior here. My father, J. H. Mason, was with us during the meeting.—W. R. Mason.

West Point, Miss., September 23.—In August I held a meeting at Deen, near Cleveland, Miss. The attendance was fine. Six were baptized. One of the six came from the Methodists. He will make a fine leader. We have a few at this place. They were well pleased with the result of the meeting. They engaged me for next year. Including the first Lord's day in September, I held a week's meeting near Hudsonville, Miss. The attendance was small and the opposition strong. There were no additions, but the brethren say that prejudice was much less in evidence later in the meeting. Brother Cullum held meetings here a few years ago and started a good work; but other work was done later, and there is where the opposition began. I was engaged for another meeting at this place in 1923. On the second Lord's day in September I began a meeting near Thorn, ten miles west of Houston, Miss. I held a meeting here last year. This is a mission point. Only a very few here, and no one who can lead in the worship. The attendance was fine. Five were baptized. I am to be with these people again next year. I have just closed a few-days' meeting at Vardaman, Miss. The brethren expected a brother from Tennessee, but he did not come. They sent for me, and we had only a few days' preaching at night only. One young man obeyed. These brethren engaged me for next year. I go now to Lamar County, Ala., for a meeting. I grew up in that county, and have done much preaching there. When my meetings here are over, I expect to run down to Florida for the winter, then back up here for the warm months. I hope to find plenty to do down in Florida. Wherever I go I try to get our brethren to read our papers and books. May the Lord bless us all, and may we all try harder to do our part well.—H. C. Harris.

Loss of Appetite is commonly gradual; one dish after another is set aside. It is one of the first indications that the system is running down, and there is nothing better for it than Hood's Sarsaparilla—a good tonic medicine.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 15C.

Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C.—Special.—People everywhere are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated news and story paper to new readers thirteen weeks for 15 cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, but he says it pays to invest in new friends. You will like this paper; it is chuck-full of just the kind of reading the people want, as its half million subscribers testify; it will keep you posted on activities at the nation's capital and the world over. Splendid stories and rare miscellany; question box is a mine of information. Only 15 cents in stamps or coin mailed at once to Pathfinder, 11 Langdon Station, Washington, D. C., will bring you for 13 weeks the breeziest, cleanest, sanest, most entertaining paper there is. You will be delighted.

Stabbed by Neuritis!

Many people suffer attacks by this arch-fiend, commonly called "nerve inflammation." The first warning is usually a sharp, stabbing pain, which may "come and go" or hurt constantly. You may feel it in the shoulder, neck, forearm, small of the back, or down the thigh and leg to the heel. It is sometimes mistaken for sciatica, rheumatism, or neuralgia, which often end in neuritis.

No matter where you have nerve pains or what caused them, you can get quick relief without using narcotics or poison. Just apply Tysmol over the part that hurts, and in a few minutes the pain will be gone.

Tysmol is absorbed through the pores of the skin. It has a soothing, healing effect upon the diseased nerves, gradually helping to restore them to a healthy condition.

Don't suffer any longer. Send $1.00 to Tysmol Co., Mfg. Chemists, 420 Sutter St., San Francisco.

PILES

DON'T BE CUT

Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment. My internal method of treatment is the correct one, and is sanctioned by the best-informed physicians and surgeons. Ointments, salves, and other local applications give only temporary relief.

If you have piles in any form, write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets, and you will bless the day that you read this. Write to-day.

E. R. PAGE,

430J, Page Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Rodeheaver's Gospel Songs

Our New Book ready Oct. 1st.

Also: Victory Songs,
Awakening Songs*Songs for Service

For all religious occasions. Shaped or round notes

Singly	45c Cloth	(Quantities)	40c
prepaid.	35c Limp	Not	30c
	30c Manila	Prepaid	25c

Catalog of Sheet Music, Song Books, Bibles—
Books and Folding Organs on request.Rainbow Sacred Records

Favorite Gospel Selections 75c each not postpd.

Ask for Complete List

THE RODEHEAVER COMPANYChicago, Ill. Philadelphia, Pa.
681 McClurg Bldg. Dpt. 26—814 Walnut St.

Sore Feet?

Don't Worry. Here's a Remedy!

Hot foot bath. Dry feet carefully. Rub thoroughly with Eucapine Salve. Towel till dry. Then off to bed with a happy heart for your poor, sore feet will be better in the morning.

Eucapine Salve

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic
(Prevents Infection)(Relieves Pain)(Allays Inflammation)

is a great comfort in cases of inflamed conditions of the skin and of the membranes of the air passages. 50c per 2 oz. jar, at your drug-gist's or by prepaid parcel post from the manufacturers. Full size jar free to physicians and quantitative formula supplied if desired.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc.,
Clinton, S. C.

Laxatives Replaced

By the Use of Nujol

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe.

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving.

Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it. Try

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

The new meetinghouse of the church of Christ in Clarksville, Tenn., on Franklin and Seventh Streets. The building fronts sixty feet on Franklin Street and fifty feet on Seventh Street. On each end are two classrooms, which can be thrown into the auditorium by folding doors, and two dressing rooms in the rear, which are used for classes, making in all six classrooms. The finishings inside are mahogany and white. Many churches and individuals have pledged help, some of which has been paid and some to be paid next year, for which the brethren are thankful. Churches that have worshiped in a cold courthouse can rejoice with the faithful little band in Clarksville.

Are You Led by the Spirit?

BY J. W. ATKISSON.

What is it to be led by the Spirit of God? It is to be governed by what God's word says, for the mind or Spirit of God spoke his word. Hence, to do what God's word says is to be led by the Spirit; to follow the teaching of God's word is to "walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit." (See Rom. 8: 1, 2.)

Then, to be led by the Spirit, to walk after the Spirit (and man is active in walking), is to be made sons of God and governed as such. Paul proves this when he said: "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God." (Rom. 8: 14.) He tells us how they became sons. (See Rom. 6: 17, 18; also verses 3, 4.) This he calls "the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus" (see Rom. 8: 2), and says that it made him "free from the law of sin and death." Why does he call this "the law of the Spirit of life?" Because the Spirit spoke or gave this law. The Spirit revealed it to the apostles, and they gave it to mankind. Paul received it by revelation of God or from God. Why? "That your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God." (1 Cor. 2: 5.) This is why Paul calls the gospel of Christ "the power of God unto salvation." (Rom. 1: 16.) This is why it "pleased God by the foolishness [simplicity] of preaching to save them that believe." (1 Cor. 1: 21; also Acts 14: 15.) Because the gospel was spoken by the Spirit in the apostles, that the people might hear what the Spirit said and that we might be led to believe its word, and this faith cause us to obey it from the heart, and in so doing we would be made free from sin by the power of God; because this is his law, given by the Holy Spirit to free us from sin and constitute us heirs of God and joints heirs with Christ.

Now, will the Spirit of God lead us if we refuse to submit to his righteousness—that is, his righteous methods as they are set forth in the New Testament? No. (See Rom. 10: 1-4.) Will the Spirit of God lead us if we refuse to believe what his Spirit has said by the inspired apostles? Will the Spirit lead us if we pray to God to baptize the people in the Holy Spirit and in fire? No. (Read Matt. 13: 15.) So he answers no. The Holy Spirit does not save us by a baptism in the Spirit and in fire, but by giving us "the law of the Spirit of life," which is the gospel of Christ and is God's power to save us, and when we obey it we are made free from sin. (See Rom. 6: 17, 18; Acts 15: 7-9; 1 Pet. 1: 22.)

The Spirit leads us by teaching. The sinner is drawn of the Father to Christ by teaching—that is, by hearing and learning what is taught. (See John 6: 44, 45.) And he teaches the people through the inspired apostles. (See Matt. 28: 19; Mark 16: 15, 16; Luke 24: 47, 48; Acts 5: 17-21.) When we hear, heed, and obey the teaching of the Spirit in the apostles, or in the gospel, we know by the testimony of the Spirit in the New Testament Scriptures that we are children of God. (Read 1 John 5: 2, 3.) And Paul tells us (Rom. 8: 16) that the Spirit itself bears witness with (not to) our spirits that we are children of God. Now, to bear witness is to give testimony, is it not? Then, if you take away the inspired Scriptures, or the words of the inspired apostles, you take away the Spirit's testimony, and we would be left without any witness. Take that away, and there is no testimony from God to hear and obey, and, therefore, no way to be led by the Spirit, and no way to become children of God, and no witness of the Spirit.

To-day there are many religious people in this world who reject the teaching of the Spirit in the apostles of Christ and go about to establish their own visions and dreams and the imaginations of their hearts; they have not submitted themselves to the righteousness (righteous methods) of God. Jesus said: "In vain do they worship me, teaching for their doctrines the commandments [traditions] of men."

Just as far as we do what God in his word tells us to do, we know it, and we know that so far we have been led by the Holy Spirit. Then that far the Spirit of God bears witness that we are children of God. For illustration: Just as far as you do what I tell you to do, you know it, and that far you know that you are approved by me. But the moment you cease to do what I tell you to do, and do something else that I never told you to do, I cease to approve you. You might imagine in your heart that I approved you, but you would have no testimony from me that I approved you; and if you have no testimony that I approve you, how do you know that I approve you? You may feel that I approve you, but feelings are no evidence.

So when we cease to do what the Spirit says, we cease to be led by the Spirit and turn to some other leader—a leader who will, as "the gods of this world" always do, blind your eyes to the teaching and witness of the Spirit as it is set forth in the gospel of Christ (see 2 Cor. 3: 4); and when we do this, we cease to obey God's word and obey the word of men.

The Work in Calloway County, Kentucky.

BY DAVID THOMPSON.

Calloway County (the writer's home county) has twelve churches of Christ, half of which are more than able to care for their home work, and most of which have been doing a small amount of missionary work both at home and abroad for a number of years. We have had a tent in the county most of the time for the last fifteen years, which has been used in and out of the county as various preaching brethren found time and

EXPERT DYEING AND DRY CLEANING

SEND BY PARCEL POST

"Over Forty Years"

Experience"

McEWEN'S LAUNDRY

NASHVILLE, TENN.

HARDEMAN'S TABERNACLE SERMONS

A series of evangelistic sermons preached by N. B. Hardeman during the Great Nashville Meeting, held in the Ryman Auditorium, March 28-April 16. These sermons ring true to the Old Book, and have a charm of style and freshness of illustration that put them in a class by themselves.

All the profits derived from the sale of these books will be used to create a fund to help poor boys and girls attend
Freed-Hardeman College.

The book contains 287 pages, with pictures of Hardeman, Pullias, and the audience, a history of the meeting, twenty-two sermons, and an address delivered by Brother Pullias
before the Exchange Club.

Bound in cloth, stamped in gold. Price, $1.50.

Send all orders to N. B. HARDEMAN, Henderson, Tenn.

STATE BANK AND TRUST CO.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

BROADWAY BRANCH

Ninth and Broadway

4 Per Cent Interest Paid on Deposits

occasion to use it, and in this way a good deal of work has been done and some congregations established. Most of the work thus begun has fallen, however, from lack of follow-up work.

In an effort to get the congregations of the county better acquainted with each other and with conditions in general over the county, it was decided by a representative gathering of brethren from the various congregations to hold a coöperative meeting at Murray, the county seat. Brother A. B. Barret, of Columbia, Tenn., was secured to do the preaching, and Brother A. B. Reavis, of Dresden, Tenn., to lead the song service. This meeting began on Friday night before the third Sunday in June and continued until the following Sunday night week. Brother Barret presented the Jerusalem gospel in a masterful way, dealing with the fundamental principles of the gospel, innovations, higher criticism, etc. The work of both preacher and song leader was well done. The congregations over the county attended well, considering the extremely busy time.

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Drug-gists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

Renew your health
by purifying your system with

The purified and refined
calomel tablets that are free
from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel
and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c
and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

ECZEMA IS CURABLE

Write me to-day, and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. Send no money—just write me—that is all you have to do. Address
DR. CANNADAY, 1225 Park Sq., Sedalia, Mo.

On Friday of the meeting an all-day service, with a basket dinner, was the program, with both forenoon and afternoon services devoted to a round-table discussion of the work in the county and its needs. This resulted in a move being started to employ a gospel preacher to put in his entire time doing mission work in the county. At this and a subsequent service devoted mostly to this purpose the necessary money was raised. A meeting of the elders of the various congregations was afterwards called, and Brother Overbey, of Murray, was chosen to do the work. The congregations in the county had purchased a new tent and other necessary equipment, so nothing remained but to actively begin the work.

The first meeting was held at Kirksey, a beautiful little village in the northwest part of the county. This resulted in two baptisms and the gathering together of a congregation of about thirty-five members who are meeting regularly in a store building until they can make arrangements to build. Since that a meeting has been held at Newberg, and one is now in progress near Harris Grove.

Now, I have not written to boast of what we are doing, but merely to state facts that others may go and do likewise. There are some things connected with this work, however, about which I want to speak particularly. It is easy to do work if you can only get people to studying and thinking about it and interested in it. Times are hard in Kentucky at this time, and most of the congregations have felt that they were burdened to keep up their home work, and had this matter been suggested to them they would have thought it impossible to raise the necessary money to put this work on foot; but when they were brought together and the matter presented, it was a comparatively easy matter.

This whole work from beginning to end was accomplished without any organization outside of the local church, and one hundred cents out of each dollar contributed went directly into the work. Not only was a missionary society not needed, but it would have been a positive hindrance and dead expense in doing the work. This has all been done through the local congregations. The man doing the work is directly responsible to the local congregations, and whatever credit is attached thereto goes to God through his church. The best way in the world to fight unscriptural ways of doing mission work is to demonstrate in actual practice the right way. What we have done in this county is nothing like as much as we ought to have done, and I am persuaded that it is only a beginning.

IOWA PHYSICIAN MAKES STARTLING OFFER TO CATARRH SUFFERERS

Found Treatment Which Healed His Own Catarrh, and Now Offers to Send It Free to Sufferers
Anywhere

Davenport, Iowa.—Dr. W. O. Coffee, Suite 726 St. James Hotel Building, this city, one of the most widely known physicians and surgeons in the Central West, announces that he found a treatment which completely healed him of catarrh in the head and nose, deafness, and head noises, after many years of suffering. He then gave the treatment to a number of other sufferers, and they state that they also were completely healed. The Doctor is so proud of his achievement, and so confident that his treatment will bring other sufferers the same freedom it gave him, that he is offering to send a ten-days' supply absolutely free to any reader of this paper who writes him. Dr. Coffee has specialized on eye, ear, nose, and throat diseases for more than thirty-five years, and is honored and respected by countless thousands. If you suffer from nose, head, or throat catarrh, catarrhal deafness, or head noises, send him your name and address to-day.

UNCOMFORTABLE AFTER MEALS?

Then Try a Pinch of Black-Draught. This White-Haired Alabama Lady
Says It Helped Her.

Dutton, Ala.—In recommending Thedford's Black-Draught to her friends and neighbors here, Mrs. T. F. Parks, a well-known Jackson County lady, said:

"I am getting up in years; my head is pretty white. I have seen medicines and remedies come and go, but the old reliable came and stayed. I am talking of Black-Draught, a liver medicine we have used for years—one that can be depended upon and one that will do the work.

"Black-Draught will relieve indigestion and constipation if taken right; and I know, for I tried it. It is the best thing I have ever found for the full, uncomfortable feeling after meals.

"Sour stomach and sick headache can be relieved by taking Black-Draught. It aids digestion; also assists the liver in throwing off impurities. I am glad to recommend Black-Draught, and do, to my friends and neighbors."

For simple, common ailments, due to disordered stomach, liver, and bowels, you will find Thedford's Black-Draught a useful and valuable remedy. The purely vegetable ingredients of which Black-Draught is composed gently stimulate the liver, increasing the flow of digestive juices, thereby helping to prevent or relieve constipation in an easy, natural way.

Insist upon Thedford's, the original and only genuine Black-Draught powdered herb and root liver medicine.

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry, mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup," and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful to-day may prevent a sick child to-morrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful; has cold, colic; or if the stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother! You must say "California," or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Our Little Girl Gone Home.

BY E. S. JELLEY.

Last night (August 1) the summons came and little Theodora Joy Jelley went to be with the Good Shepherd. We must tell the mother to-day, which is hard, for she is in bed with a baby born last night. Such things make infidelity and so-called "modernism" like the philosophy of India hollow mockeries. They may be suitable for people without natural affection; but for people with souls, there can be only faith in God and blank despair to choose from. Thank God we have heard the blessed gospel and know that our Redeemer liveth.

Brethren who have not yet suffered bereavement, let me tell you that since I left Vancouver for this work I have been bereaved of father, mother, three children, and my eighteen-years-long helpmeet, which things are among the causes why at the age of forty-four my hair is so near white.

I have been bereaved of four of my own household here in India as the price of the work I am doing. In every case hardships or insanitary domicile was the cause to a considerable extent. I am finding no fault. Our supporters are sending us a living wage, and I do not wish to impose more upon them. But there are others who are doing nothing for missions; and if it should occur to some of them that it is worth while to preserve the precious lives of their missionary's family, I could get a sanitary location and build a sanitary domicile. This has been done by every sectarian mission board I know of; but I do not suppose sound and loyal disciples are likely to take this up without a lot of begging, which I do not want to do.

Brethren or churches believing it to be cheaper to preserve missionaries than to send out new ones may send through the papers or direct, and contributions will be acknowledged.

Christ House, Vambori, Ahmednagar District, British India.

[Since this was received we learn that Brother Jelley has lost his baby also.—Ed.]

The Fight Is on at Quitman.

BY J. D. TANT.

It seems that our mission meeting at Quitman did much good, as the Methodists sent for one of their big men to come and kill out the effect of the meeting. We challenged him to meet us in debate, but he ran. Then the Baptists had the noted Bolin, of Fort Worth, Texas, to try his hand. I just got in last night to hear him, and notwithstanding he has put a number of our leading brethren out of commission (if he tells the truth), yet I called his hand last night and got the Baptist Church to back him up. So we will hold a six-days' debate on the differences between the church of Christ and the Baptist Church, the debate to be held at Quitman, Ark., beginning on November 21. While I am fighting the battle alone here and have worship in our home each Lord's day until we can convert more, yet I will care for all who will come to the debate, and hope many brethren who have written me that they are coming to look at this country can come at that time. With five hundred Baptists and Methodists on the other side and my family only to represent the Lord's side, we will feel lonely; yet I have no fear, as I have the Lord and his word on my side. Brethren, as Paul teaches that one brother should not be burdened and another eased, should there be any brother or church who is interested in having the gospel defended in a mission field in Arkansas and can help in the financial support of this debate, I am sure you will be doing God's service. If you do not, then, like Elijah, I will fight the battle alone.

Look to Your Eyes
Beautiful Eyes, like fine
Teeth, are the result of Constant
Care. The daily use of Murine
makes Eyes Clear and Radiant.
Enjoyable. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.

MURINE
FOR YOUR EYES

Let Me Send You
FREE on trial a Pair of Handsome Tortoise Shell Glasses

For many years people have been coming to me from every part of Chicago on account of my wide reputation for supplying glasses that fit. I am now offering the benefit of this wide experience to people everywhere. No matter where you live, I positively guarantee to give you a perfect fit or there will be no charge whatever. I promise to send you a pair of glasses that will enable you to see perfectly and satisfy you in every way, or you will owe me nothing. They will protect your eyes, preventing eye strain and headache. They will enable you to read the smallest print, thread the finest needle, see far or near.

SEND NO MONEY

I will not accept a single penny of your money until you are satisfied and tell me so. Simply fill in and mail the coupon below, giving me the simple easy information I ask for and I will send you a pair of my Extra Large Tortoise Shell Spectacles for you to wear, examine and inspect, for 10 days, in your own home. The glasses I send are not to be compared with any you have ever seen advertised. They are equal to spectacles being sold at retail at from $12 to $15 a pair. You will find them so scientifically ground as to enable you to see far or near, do the finest kind of work or read the very smallest print. These Extra Large Size Lenses, with Tortoise Shell Rims, are very becoming and your friends are sure to compliment you on your improved appearance. There are no "ifs" or "ands" about my liberal offer. I trust you absolutely. You are the sole judge. If they do not give you more real satisfaction than any glasses you have ever worn, you are not out a single penny. I ask you, could any offer be fairer?

SPECIAL THIS MONTH

If you send your order at once I will make you a present of a handsome Velveteen Lined, Spring Back, Pocket Book Spectacle Case which you would be proud to own. Sign and mail the coupon NOW. Dr. Ritchey, Madison & Laflin Sts., DR 1621, Station C, Chicago, Ill., Doctor of Optics, Member American Optometric Association, Graduate Illinois College of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology, Famous Eye Strain Specialists.

ACCEPT THIS FREE OFFER TODAY

OR
Ritchey, Madison & Laflin Sts.,
DR 1621 Station C, Chicago, Ill.
You may send me by prepaid parcel post a pair of your Extra Large Tortoise Shell Gold Filled Spectacles. I will wear them 10 days and if convinced that they are equal to any glasses selling at $15.00, I will send you $4.49. Otherwise, I will return them and there will be no charge.
How old are you?
How many years have you used glasses (if any)
Name
Post Office
R. R. Box No.
State

MRS. RUTH WILLIAMSON

A Mother's Advice

Health is Vital to You, Mothers!

Birmingham, Ala.—"After becoming a mother my health gave way. I suffered severely with a pain low down in my right side. My sister-in-law, having been cured of a bad case of feminine trouble by taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, advised me to take it, which I did. I am now starting on my third bottle and the pain has all left me. My husband said to me the other day, 'That Favorite Prescription must be a wonderful medicine, I don't hear you complaining any more.'"—Mrs. Ruth Williamson, 4016 First Avenue.

You should obtain this famous Prescription now at your nearest drug store, in tablets or liquid, or write Dr. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

To Reduce Fever Relieve Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

Use

Aspitone is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart even in extreme cases of debility or weak heart, neurasthenia or anaemia. Manufactured by a formula in use by leading physicians generally. 19 parts pure Aspirin, 1 part pure Caffeine, 4 parts excipient, in convenient tablet form. 35c per package at your druggists or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

Cuticura Soap
—SHAVES—
Without Mug
Cuticura Soap is the favorite for safety razor shaving.

CANCER

HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

Adversity.

BY GERTRUDE COCKERELL.

What is adversity? It is the touching of our life by adverse circumstance, affliction, or misfortune.

The derivation of the word—ad to, vertere to turn—explains its working. It is the ill side of persons, things, circumstances, that persistently or occasionally, seemingly or of set purpose, assume toward us a menacing attitude. In itself, therefore, we can only regard adversity as "opposed to," "unfortunate," "injurious." Ours, then, the language of pessimism. "All these things are against me," "Every one is against me," in presence of the evil look, the slanderous tongue, the malevolent deeds that strew our path with thorns, the affliction or limitation that handicaps us at every turn, the oftentimes "slip 'twixt the cup and the lip." And yet, there is not one adverse thing that touches your life and mine, reader, that may not turn out to be a blessing in disguise.

One said, comparing his brightest hours with his darkest: "I am afraid that all the grace I have got out of my comfortable and easy times and happiest hours might almost lie on a penny. But the good I have received from my sorrows, and pain, and grief, is altogether incalculable. What do I not owe to the hammer and the anvil, the fire and the file? Affliction is the best bit of furniture in my house."

And one sorely afflicted and a great sufferer made this his prayer: "Go, Lord, with each of us to rest. If any lie awake, temper to them the dark hours of watching. And when the day returns, return to us, Lord Jesus, our Sun and Comfort. Call us up with morning faces, and with morning hearts, eager to labor, eager to be happy if happiness shall be our portion; and if the day be marked for sorrow, strong to endure it."

"Sweet are the uses of adversity," if the outcome be patience, breadth of view, sympathy. Why should adversity leave us crushed, rebellious, or embittered? Surely not, when the "injurious" element may be taken out of things adverse, and "unfortunate" spell to us fortunate; "injurious," without injury.

The dastardly conduct of Joseph's brethren in depriving him of liberty, and, seeing the anguish of his soul, turning a deaf ear to his entreaties (Gen. 42: 21), might have ever remained to him a bitter memory. But, no, he rose superior to his circumstances, and, as a prisoner, won respect and honor. And when next he met his unworthy brethren, it was as a man of fame and high degree, "a father to Pharaoh, and lord of all his

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2.
Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

JACOBS & COMPANY
SPECIAL ADVERTISING AGENTS
PRINTERS DESIGNERS
PHOTOENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS
Catalogues — a Specialty
HOME OFFICE
CLINTON, S. C.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

house, and a ruler throughout all the land of Egypt." (Gen. 45: 8.) And did he take advantage of his guilty brethren, reduced by want to seek his succor? Nay, nay. This his only comment: "Now therefore be not grieved, nor angry with yourselves, that ye sold me hither. . . . It was not you that sent me hither, but God." (Gen. 45: 5-8.) "Ye thought evil against me; but God meant it unto good, to bring to pass, as it is this day, to save much people alive." (Gen. 50: 20.) O, do you and I, reader, thus see God in seeming ills? As Christians, do we really believe that "all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose?" (Rom. 8: 28.)

So unprepared are we for the untoward in life that we are taken by surprise. We blame things and persons for life's ills. We do not begin our day with God. Ours is not vital union with our risen Lord. With us, "first things" are not first. Is this so, reader? Then let us turn right about face, even toward Him who will make our Baca a well of blessing. (Ps. 34: 6.)

Why Our Singing Often Fails.

BY H. M. PHILLIPS.

Leaders are often lacking, and no one is able to take the work up and go on with interest. Quite a few do not try to sing, and the choir effect discourages others. To call out a few and get them in a huddle makes the impression that others are not wanted, and they feel like saying: "Just let them do it all."

A great hindrance is in getting a new book every year. The old people cannot keep up with the songs, and only those who know music are able to sing, and but a few take part. We claim to believe in congregational singing, and yet go just about opposite in our efforts to have such. We do not encourage solos and quartets, yet so many new songs are sung a solo is often heard. To have a song practice when all ought to sing as a part of the worship is a failure even if it might be entertaining. To sing to show off some leader before the crowd is but worldly, and to fill in time by singing is void as far as real worship to God is concerned.

To spend so much time on the music and so little on the words and sentiment of the song is surely an extreme that is often seen. Some would think the music is all there is to a song. I am sure it is well to get the music, but that is not the most important part of a song. Some seem to get the idea that all the melody is in the mouth, or voice box, and not in the heart; but in Eph. 5: 19 and Col. 3: 16 it is stated that the heart is the place for the melody and grace.

Paul says in 1 Cor. 14: 15 that he will sing "with the understanding." Now, from the context, the words are evidently what is stressed, and not the music; yet I am sure but few pay any attention to the words, and often do not know whether the words are in scriptural terms or not. This is caused by a lack of impressing the meaning and teaching intended. If we are to teach and admonish one another in singing (Col. 3: 16), how can such be done if we do not know the words used? Some songs are sung so fast that no one could even get the words without a few extra volts of electricity to help him keep up. Music may touch one's feelings, but feelings without teaching may lead some into forbidden paths. The old songs, like "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," reach the heart in feelings and teaching. One song sung in a manner pleasing to God is by far better than many sung just for man.

The song service ought to be studied, and practice should be had from time to time; but to use several new songs in worship, such as on the first day of the week, when only a few will or can sing, is but to fail. Let us all think more of pleasing God and the words of the song and less of entertaining, and not put all the stress on the music, and the song service will not be such a failure.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

SOLD 50 YEARS — A FINE GENERAL TONIC

If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

A UNION OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Healthy Housewife---Happy Home

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Helped Form Many

For the ailing, half-sick housewife such a union is impossible. Often times even the slightest form of housework cannot be accomplished. Yet the work must be done.

Many women struggle along for years suffering from some form of female trouble that make their lives miserable and their homes far from happy.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped thousands of just such women regain their health and strength. Just give your thought to the following letters and remember that the women who wrote these letters knew how they felt before taking the Vegetable Compound and again afterwards. It helped them—let it help you.

Had Nervous Spells

Horatio, Ark.—"I had nervous spells and awful bad feelings. My right side and my back hurt me all the time and I had been going down in health for six or seven years. For three years I had not been able to do my work without help. I weighed only 95 pounds when my husband's mother persuaded me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now I heartily recommend it to all suffering women, as I have gained weight and health. I can do all my work, anything I want to do."—Mrs. JIM REARICK, Horatio, Arkansas.

Reading, Pa.—"I was a nervous wreck and could hardly do my housework. I always had to have help or I would never have got it done. Through the advice of friends I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my nerves and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine for my blood and I am feeling fine and doing my work all alone. I can recommend these medicines to any one, for they certainly helped me. I suffered for five years and Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines pulled me through."—Mrs. WALTER U. STOYER, 1218 Mulberry St., Reading, Pa.

Recommends the Vegetable Compound

New Orleans, La.—"I have found relief from my troubles by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I praise it wherever I go. I could not do my work as it should be done for I would sometimes have to lie down because of the pains I had. A friend induced me to take your Vegetable Compound and I have got great results from it. I keep house and am able to do all my own work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to mine."—Mrs. T. FOECKLER, 1915 N. Derbigny St., New Orleans, La.

History of Clarendon Church.

BY A. O. COLLEY.

The meeting at Clarendon, Texas, closed last night (September 26), after continuing fourteen days. It was an interesting meeting from the beginning. We began in the middle of the week—Wednesday night—with a good attendance. Both interest and attendance increased to the close. There were forty accessions to the congregation. Of this number, there were six from the "Christian Church" who were willing to lay down the innovations and work as the Lord directed, twenty-four baptisms, one by membership, and the others were restored to their "first love."

Many of the brethren will recall the starting of this church about eight years ago, when D. A. Leak and the writer held a debate there on the music and society questions. There were but few disciples there at the time of the debate, and no church except the music and society church. There were a goodly number of brethren and sisters living in and around Clarendon, who had been worshipping with the others, that were willing to follow the New Testament teaching when they heard it. At the close of the debate I preached one night and had twenty-four additions. These have been doing nicely in the Lord's work since, and have had some of our most efficient workers preach for them, among whom are W. W. Brewer, Charles R. Nichol, Foy Wallace, Cledie Wallace, and Thomas E. Milholland.

Last August the "Christian Church" had John W. Tyndall come there for a meeting, who, near the close of the meeting, preached on instrumental music, affirming it to be in harmony with the Scriptures, and also challenging our brethren to find a man to debate with him on it. They again invited me, and, assisted by Brother Nichol and other good brethren, I met their best champion upon our differences on that question. This was during the Christmas holidays last year. At that time they arranged for me to hold a meeting for them, which was held with the results above mentioned.

Some think debates do no good, but I am a strong believer in the right kind of debates. I do not think light joking and harsh criticisms of an opponent do much good; but when we debate the issues and teach the people, it results in good.

SORES

BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER

The Indianapolis Cancer Hospital, Indianapolis, Ind., has published a booklet which gives interesting facts about the cause of cancer, also tells what to do for pain, bleeding, odor, etc. A valuable guide in the management of any case. Write for it to-day, mentioning this paper.

5,000 CHRISTIAN WORKERS WANTED

To sell Bibles, Testaments, good books, and handsome velvet Scripture mottoes. Good commission. Send for free catalogue and price list.

GEORGE W. NOBLE, Publisher,
Dept. 2, Monon Building, Chicago, Ill.

PYORRHEA CURED

Or No Pay—Free Trial Treatment

Write to-day for Sample Bottle, sent free with booklet fully describing this guaranteed wonder cure for Pyorrhea, Loose Teeth, Bleeding and Ulcerated Gums, Abscesses, Gum Boils, etc. Send name and address to-day. MOORE'S LABORATORIES,
Dept. 1093, 1422 Lydia, Kansas City, Mo.

TETTERINE

Ends Complexion Worries

Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant

50c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-
TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

MRS. CARL LINDER
R. F. D. No. 2, Box 44,
Dassel, Minnesota

THANKFUL FOR GOOD

PE-RU-NA DID HER YEARS AGO

Keeps the Medicine with Her for Safety

Mrs. Carl Linder, R. F. D. No. 2, Box 44, Dassel, Minnesota, writes: "I want to thank you for your kindness and the good your remedy did me years ago. I am perfectly well and visiting in Spokane, Wash. Were it not for Pe-ru-na I would not have been able to make this trip. I always take your medicine with me for safety should I take cold. Praise to Pe-ru-na."

As an emergency remedy for everyday ills, Pe-ru-na has been in use fifty years.

TABLETS OR LIQUID

SOLD EVERYWHERE

SEND US YOUR ORDERS FOR

SILKS, SUITS, COATS, AND DRESSES

Timothy Dry Goods
and Carpet Co.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

We will send you samples. We will quote you prices. We will sell you only Reliable Rugs, Art Squares, and Linoleums.

YARD-WIDE SATINS AND TAFFETAS

All Colors—$1.50

CANTON CREPES

All Colors

$2.00 to $3.50

Gospel Advocate

Volume LXIV. No. 41.

NASHVILLE, TENN., OCTOBER 12, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

Words and Phrases of Doubtful Propriety.....	961
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	962
History of Old Salem Church—"When Was Paul Converted?"—The Individual Man, Commonly Called "The Layman"—Cookeville, Tenn.—Friendship.
QUERY DEPARTMENT.....	967
EVANGELISTIC NOTES.....	968
EDITORIAL.....	970
"Be Ye Kind One to Another"—Evolution and Education—Shall the Daughters Desert the Home?—An Appeal.
CURRENT COMMENT.....	973
HOME READING.....	974
TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT.....	975
Eighteen Months in the Homeland—As to Preaching the Gospel.....	978
Words of Appreciation.....	979
FIELD REPORTS.....	980
OBITUARY—Profitt.....	981
"Walk by Faith".....	982

WORDS AND PHRASES OF DOUBTFUL PROPRIETY.

[The following article is a reprint from the Millennial Harbinger of 1861, by A. Campbell. Some of the "words and phrases" mentioned by him may be obsolete in the average church member's vocabulary of to-day, but there are many new ones that we hear to-day of "doubtful propriety." The subject should be studied with profit.—H. Leo B.]

In my occasional readings of the productions of the religious press, I occasionally meet with some phrases of very questionable propriety. Of these I may occasionally take some notice. We have been for some time meditating upon the propriety of noticing some of them. We will at present present a few specimens.

"Evangelical Christians." Are there any unevangelical Christians?

"Truly regenerate believers." Are there any truly unregenerate believers?

"The three powers of the Godhead." Are three powers of the Godhead equivalent to three persons of the Godhead? Do powers necessarily indicate personalities?

"From one moral state into another." Are there two moral states? If so, what shall we call the first and what the second?

"Essential nature of the Godhead." Is there a nonessential nature of the Divinity or Godhead?

"Old and New Testaments." Does not this imply a plurality of Old Testaments and a plurality of New Testaments?

"The Divine Being." This is a deistical or a theistical formula. It is not the language of Revelation.

"Ministers of the gospel." Who are they? Teachers, preachers, dogmatists, or exhorters?

"A new manifestation of the essence of God." A manifestation of essences, divine, angelic, or human, is rather a metaphysical adventure on the part of scholists or young Americans.

"Consecration of self to God, Christ, and the Holy Spirit." There is no such consecration named in the gospel or among the primitive Christians. A cloud of false philosophy lowers upon that mind that entertains the idea of the consecration of one's self to the consecrator, or the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit consecrates us, or sanctifies us, to the Lord who redeemed us.

"Climax of Divinity." There is no such climax in divine Revelation. Nor have we "a full revelation of the Infinite

One in his threefold character." Even "threefold personality" is scarcely tolerable. But "the Infinite One in his threefold character" is still more unscriptural and less acceptable. Are the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit three divine persons, or three divine characters of one Jehovah?

I have recently read somewhere that a preacher in Illinois still affirms that "we are now committed before heaven and earth to take up our crosses and bear them after Jesus."

No one ever read this once in the Acts of the Apostles or in any one of the preachings of Peter, or Paul, or of any other apostle after the ascension of the Lord Jesus and the descension of the Spirit on Pentecost.

Christians, in our country, in the true and scriptural sense of the word "cross" as found in the Christian Scriptures, have no cross to bear. The freedom of thought, of speech, and of religious action guaranteed to us constitutionally in this new world has annihilated the cross in the sense employed by the Lord Jesus and his apostles.

This fanciful style of applying holy Scripture is superlatively lax and exceedingly dangerous.

In early life I formed some acquaintance with a volume whose title was "No Cross, No crown." But of its contents I can say but little, farther than that self-denial was essential to salvation, but could not gain a crown.

If, indeed, we desire a crown, we must not only deny ourselves, but we must carry our cross and fight against all temptation from without and within.

The Christian's armor is not adapted to the outer man or to the fleshly house in which we now live. "The sword of the Spirit" is, indeed, the only offensive weapon in the Christian's armory. "The shield of faith" is always in good keeping. By it we may "quench all the fiery darts of the wicked one."

But in advancing upon the adversary, we must have on our head the helmet, the hope of salvation, our feet shod with "the preparation of the gospel of peace," around our loins "the girdle of truth," in our right hand the sharp, two-edged "sword of the Spirit," and in our left the broad shield of faith, by means of which we may be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked one: and in the midst of the conflict we must be always praying with all prayer and supplication for ourselves and for all our fellow soldiers.

Every Christian man must be a hero, and every Christian woman a heroine, in this holy war for heaven and immortality.

Sure I must fight if I would reign,
Increase my courage, Lord;
I'll bear the toil, endure the pain,
Supported by thy word.

Thy saints, in all this glorious war,
Shall conquer, though they die;
They see the triumph from afar,
And seize it with their eye.

When that illustrious day shall rise,
And all thy armies shine
In robes of victory through the skies,
The glory shall be thine.

"Sacraments." The French, the Italians, the Spaniards, have, like the English, transferred this word into their respective tongues.

Webster, the most popular English lexicographer, we presume, in America, or anywhere else, gives the following definitions of the term "sacrament:" "An oath, a mystery, an outward and visible sign of inward and spiritual grace; or more particularly, a solemn religious ordinance, enjoined by Christ, the head of the Christian church, to be observed by his followers, by which their special relation to him is created, or their obligations to him renewed and ratified."

He adds: "The Roman Catholic and Greek churches have long held to seven sacraments—viz.: baptism, confirmation, the eucharist, penance, extreme unction, holy orders, and matrimony. The Protestants maintain that there are only two sacraments—viz., baptism and the Lord's Supper." He adds: "Thus baptism is called a 'sacrament,' for by it persons are separated from the world, brought into Christ's visible church, and laid under particular obligations to obey his precepts." "The eucharist, or communion of the Lord's Supper, is also a sacrament; for, by commemorating the death and dying love of Christ, Christians avow their special relation to him, and renew their obligations to be faithful to him as their Divine Master."

"When we use sacrament without any qualifying word, we mean by it the eucharist, or Lord's Supper." (Addison.)

We presume, and, therefore, assume, that these definitions are as canonical, and as generally approved and assented to by all Protestants, as any that could be produced by Greek, Roman, or Protestant, of any theological or Christological school in Europe or America.

But we must affirm, without fear of successful contradiction, that the word "sacrament" is wholly uncanonical; not once found in the Old Testament or New. It is, therefore, a word of doubtful propriety. The word "ordinance" is canonical, and is found in both Testaments, Old and New, singular or plural, some fifty times. It is, indeed, applied to both divine and human institutions, moral and positive, but especially the latter. Nor do we find "constitution" or "institution" in our common and legalized Jewish or Christian Scriptures.

"Covenant" in our Common Version, in both the Jewish and the Christian Scriptures, is found more than fifty times. Thirty-three of these are found as the representatives of diatheke. Suntheke, which represents human covenants, is not once found in the Christian Scriptures. The essential difference between suntheke and diatheke, is this: the former parties are equals, the latter parties are unequals.

In the former, the parties may stipulate and restipulate until they agree. In the latter, one party stipulates and the other acquiesces. Such are all God's covenants or institutions.

We find for this a most acceptable reason in the fact that a parent's affection for his offspring is greater than that of his offspring for one another. This, at least, is the general if not the universal law. "Such pity as a father has for his children, such pity has the Lord for them that fear him." (Ps. 103: 13.) Again, says Jehovah, by Malachi, of them who feared the Lord: "A book of remembrance was written before him for those who feared the Lord, and who thought upon his name. And they shall be mine, saith Jehovah of hosts, in that day when I make up my jewels, and I will spare them as a man spares his son that serveth him." "Then shall you return and discern between the righteous and the wicked, between him who serveth God and him who serveth him not."

We have "servants" occurring one hundred and twenty-three times in the Christian Scriptures, represented in the original by three words—doulos, diakonos, and huperetees. Of these three words, huperetees is the most honorable. Hence, it represents officer, minister, and servant. Its whole currency in the Christian Scriptures is twenty times.

Diakonos occurs thirty times—twenty times represented in the Common Version by the word "minister," seven times by the word "servant," and three times by the word "deacon."

A. C.

Our Contributors

History of Old Salem Church.

BY H. R. MOORE.

It has been suggested that a report of the recent meeting at Old Salem Church, in Franklin County, Tenn., be made for the Gospel Advocate, and a sketch of the origin and work of the church there. The recent meeting was well advertised. A. B. Lipscomb did the preaching; E. Gaston Collins, of Algood, led the singing. Large, respectful, and attentive audiences attended during the entire twelve days. Several congregations were represented from time to time at the sumptuous dinners on the ground and at the interesting and impressive services. There were eleven additions, two restored, one from the Methodists. One of the eight, an old man of high moral character, who has passed the three-score-and-ten marker on life's eventful highway.

Lipscomb and Collins are of pioneer ancestors. Each and his father were born near Salem. Lipscomb left in early youth; Collins, later. They were welcomed because of ancestral lines and of their activities during their long absence. They are far-off, cube-root cousins. A. B. Lipscomb, son of Granville the evangelist, son of Granville the pioneer; E. Gaston Collins, son of James, son of Will L., son of James and Eliza Collins (the sister of Granville the pioneer). Each is highly respected by mutual friends and relatives in the Old Salem and adjacent localities. Their equipments for usefulness are of the best. Lipscomb is cultured and has a clear conception of the subject-matter he proposes to present and is successful in imparting to others. Collins is similarly endowed and gifted. Each is fortunately mated to a superior manager.

William Lipscomb and wife, Ann Day Lipscomb, reared their large family in Louisa County, Va. They came with their sons, William, Granville, Dabney, and John, and daughters, Ann (Mrs. John Brown), Fanny (Mrs. Isaac Vanzandt), Eliza (Mrs. James Collins), Tappie (Mrs. C. A. Hunt), and all located in Franklin County, Tenn., about one hundred years ago, in the early twenties. William and Granville were married before leaving Virginia. The other brothers took wives and all four of the sisters took Tennessee husbands. Granville's subsequent career was that of a successful farmer, a good citizen, and a thoughtful, independent thinker on political and religious questions. His family consisted of Keren (Mrs. N. B. Smith), William, David, John, Granville, Horace G., Ellen (Mrs. J. J. Gardner), and Lou (Mrs. W. J. Woods).

The respective careers of at least four of the sons are historic in Tennessee and adjacent States—William's as teacher and preacher, David's as preacher and Gospel Advocate editor, Granville's as an evangelist, Horace's as a business man. Their father's schoolhouse training was limited. He died at middle age, but had given his older children the best available advantages, and the younger ones were not neglected. He and his aged widow mother, a woman of very strong character who lived to a great age, three of his brothers and three sisters, were Primitive Baptists, and belonged to the Bean's Creek organization, overlooked at the time by William Woods, a prominent citizen, preacher, and man of affairs. He was enterprising and charitably inclined. He had on his premises a meetinghouse, a gristmill, cotton gin, and stillhouse, all recognized essentials. About this time the kind old brother was advised of the sad misfortune of one John Smith, who subsequently was known as "Raccoon" John Smith. Smith was an Old Baptist preacher, resided across the State line in Alabama. His wife died, his residence burned, and he sick near unto death. William Woods had the unfortunate brother brought to his well-supplied home and kindly cared for him.

At this time Granville Lipscomb, his mother, and all of his brothers and sisters, save one of each, as is understood, were members, in good standing, of the Woods Old Baptist Church. Then a wave of religious discontent, in many localities throughout our great country, was under consideration by many. The appeals of Thomas and Alexander Campbell, Walter Scott, Barton W. Stone, Philip S. Fall, Tolbert Fanning, and many others in various localities, for a line-up in the one body, on the terms and conditions plainly set out in the New Testament, were being thoughtfully considered by many. Through the influence of a visiting kinsman, Lunsford Linsey, of Kentucky, formerly of Virginia, Granville Lipscomb and others were induced to subscribe for and carefully peruse "The Christian Baptist" and then "The Millennial Harbinger." These and a more careful study of the Bible brought about manifest discontent. This gradually grew and finally resulted in charges of heresy against those who had been reading, thinking, and talking. After much wrangle and disputation, the accused were turned out of the church.

Soon those turned out, and some others, under the leadership of Granville Lipscomb, united and began to worship "as it is written" in the Christian Scriptures. The little band met from house to house, at times in an outhouse, on Lipscomb's premises, and under broad-spreading oaks when the weather favored. Occasional preaching by Calvin Curlee, Thacker Griffith, and others, whose visits were then few and far between. David Lipscomb says Thacker Griffith is the first preacher he remembers. (See his article in "Franklin College and Its Influences," page 58.) The reproduction and spread of this article by "D. L." would enlighten many.) The little, original band grew in faith, works, and numbers by the observance of the maxim that gave potency to the restoration movement: "We will go where the Bible goes, and stop where it does." Preachers became more plentiful and accessible. A house was erected and furnished on Bean's Creek for the comfort and convenience of the growing congregation. For a time, during the Civil War, ruffians in the United States Army took possession, occupied for a camp outfit, burned the floor and seats, had their fire on the ground inside the walls. Doors and windows disappeared. Until the house was repaired after the war closed, the members were forced to meet from house to house for regular Lord's-day service, and in an unoccupied church house near by for preaching occasions. Additions more frequent than before or during the cruel war, under the preaching of T. J. Shaw, Jesse L. Sewell, David Lipscomb, and others. These served the congregations only when convenient to do so. Weekly meetings and Sunday schools were held regularly.

An extract from an old church record, made just after a protracted meeting of much interest, conducted by T. J. Shaw, Jesse L. Sewell, and Dr. T. W. Brents, indicates conditions. The protracted meeting was appointed for Jesse L. Sewell. Two days before he was to begin, T. J. Shaw and a Cumberland preacher were to hold a debate. Dr. Brents attended. The debate exploded. All then held a meeting of much interest.

Christian Church, Salem, Tenn., October 2, 1869.

Be it known, Thomas F. Moseley, Robert N. Mann, Nathan W. Carter, and H. R. Moore were, by fasting, prayer, and laying on of hands, ordained and set aside as elders in and for this congregation.

Officiating: Jesse L. Sewell, Dr. T. W. Brents, and T. J. Shaw.

Also, Granville Lipscomb, on said occasion, was set apart to the work of an evangelist in the same way by said preachers and elders. H. R. MOORE, Secretary.

Up to this time, three Lipscombs, sons of Granville the pioneer, and the turned-out Primitive Baptists, had been prepared for preaching. Soon another, Ed Gillespie, who found work in Arkansas; then George A. Faris, who went to Alabama, next to Texas.

Another extract from the old record, showing growth and progress, follows:

Christian Church, Salem, Tenn., May 1, 1875.

A number of brethren met to consider whether the Bean's Creek house should be repaired or a new one built.

T. F. Moseley called the meeting to order. R. G. Henson was called to the chair, and H. R. Moore authorized to act as secretary.

Much talk ensued, some in and much out of order. It was finally agreed to build a brick 50x33x14, to cost about fifteen hundred dollars.

R. N. Mann, G. Lipscomb, and P. C. Breeden were made a committee to receive funds—R. G. Henson was added—and report at next meeting, Saturday before the fourth Lord's day. Adjourned.

R. G. HENSON, Chairman.
H. R. MOORE, Secretary.

The meetinghouse then under consideration, and the one in which the Lipscomb-Collins meeting was held, was duly elected. R. G. Henson did the brick work and James H. Crawley and others the woodwork.

The congregation met regularly on Lord's day and was organized from year to year in well-graded classes, taught by efficient teachers.

At no time in the long and eventful history of the little band organized by Granville Lipscomb, the pioneer, and others, and its successors, can any hurtful frictions be recalled. When the material swarmed out of the old hive and settled in Huntland, there was some protest; so also as to the material that went to Hatchetts, Lexie, and Shady Grove. It goes without saying, it is natural and best for bees to swarm. It is unquestionably best for live, prosperous congregations to go into more convenient and less cultivated fields. From Jerusalem the word is destined to go to all the world.

Much historic material developed, from time to time, in the active doings and busy scenes of workers who entered the original band and those that succeeded down to the present. The different environments, conditions, and results might with propriety be included.

A fuller sketch might be given of the swarm that went out from the mother hive and settled in Huntland, a new and more inviting field, and of Hatchetts, Lexie, and Shady Grove. Each has faced in the right direction, but none has grown and expanded as the worthy cause for which it stands merits and demands.

The peculiar conditions, the prominent and persistent actors, briefly outlined, should not fade as the years come and go, but be honored and emulated.

Time and space, not subject-matter, suggest that this story be closed. I reluctantly comply.

"When Was Paul Converted?"

BY C. W. SEWELL.

From the Gospel Advocate of August 24, 1922, page 807, I quote the following:

When was Paul converted? This question is sometimes asked, and the answer perhaps has some practical as well as doctrinal value. When, lying on the Damascus roadside, Saul of Tarsus looked up into the face of Jesus Christ and said, "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" old things had passed away and everything had become new; his will had been surrendered to that of Christ, and he was henceforth "not his own, but had been bought with a price." His subsequent experience of receiving sight and baptism was a mere incident of his conversion. They were not necessary to it, although they were needful to prepare him for the service he was ordained to render. (Western Recorder.)

I do not quote this for the purpose of criticizing or finding fault with what the Advocate says about the question, for it is good and to the point. But the question brings to mind the way I used to answer this question when I was in the work of an evangelist, and I thought that it might be profitable to some to see my manner of handling the question.

In my preliminaries I showed that under the Christian dispensation all were and are converted the same way; that God is no respecter of persons; that conversion is progressive, consisting of different steps or acts, and that the word "convert" might be, and sometimes is, applied to any or all of these steps; that Saul's case is a model, and that all conversions to-day should be modeled after it.

I then asked the question: "When was Saul's conversion so complete that he was saved, pardoned, made a child of God?" To determine this, I went to the case as found in the ninth chapter of Acts, as follows:

Verses 1, 2. In these verses he obtained letters from the high priest and went to Damascus to bind any Christians he might find there. All agree that he was not converted then.

Verse 3. "And as he journeyed, he came near Damascus: and suddenly there shined round about him a light from heaven." Was he converted when this light shone round him? If this light was the means of saving him, then all to-day must see just such a light. But was he saved then?

Verse 4. "And he fell to the earth." Is that the way converted people do? "And heard a voice saying unto him, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?" Did that voice bring peace to his soul?

Verse 5. "And he said, Who art thou, Lord?" Then he is not converted yet, for he does not even know who the Lord is. The Lord said: "I am Jesus whom thou persecutest."

Verse 6. "And he trembling and astonished—" Why did he tremble? Why was he astonished? Because he now realized that that Jesus whom he was persecuting was the Christ, the Son of God. Saul is now a true and firm believer. But is he saved? If the doctrine of justification by faith only is true, he is saved, for he now believes. If Paul is now saved, the doctrine is true, and all men must be saved that way; but if he is not yet saved, then the doctrine is false, and no one can be saved by faith only. But was he saved then and there? The Western Recorder, in the quotation at the head of this article, evidently teaches that he was saved right then. But was he? We think we can determine by following up the narrative.

Verse 6. "And he trembling and astonished said, Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" Do for what? To be saved, or because he is saved? The narrative will certainly enable us to tell. "And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do."

Verse 8. "And Saul arose from the earth; and when his eyes were opened, he saw no man: but they led him by the hand, and brought him into Damascus." No evidence here of a pardoned man.

Verse 9. "And he was three days without sight, and neither did eat nor drink." In verses 10-16 we have a conversation between the Lord and a disciple named Ananias, in which the Lord instructed Ananias to go to Saul. The only thing in these verses that bears on our question is that the Lord said to Saul, "For behold he prayeth." Thus we find Saul goes for three days in which he neither eats nor drinks, is blind, and continues praying. Does this look like a saved man? The evidence, it seems to me, is clear that he is not yet saved.

Verse 17. "And Ananias went his way, and entered into the house; and putting his hands on him said, Brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus, that appeared unto thee as thou camest, hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with the Holy Ghost."

Acts 22: 16. "And now why tarriest thou? arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord." Here we have him told to do something to "wash away" his sins; hence, he was not saved before this time. Besides, we have nothing in his manner or actions to indicate that he was saved. But we ask you to note the change in his manner in the next verses.

Acts 9: 18. "And immediately there fell from his eyes as it had been scales: and he received sight forthwith, and arose, and was baptized."

Verse 19. "And when he had received meat, he was strengthened. Then was Saul certain days with the disciples which were at Damascus."

Verse 20. "And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that he is the Son of God." Here we have the clearest evidence that Saul is a converted man. He had been fasting and praying for three days and nights, but as soon as he is baptized he receives food and begins to preach Christ. There is absolutely no evidence in what is said in the record or in Saul's conduct to show that he was saved till he had obeyed the command to "arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins." He had believed when the Lord said, "I am Jesus whom thou persecutest," and had been penitent for three days, as is evidenced by his change of conduct, but was not saved till he had obeyed the Lord in baptism.

The Individual Man, Commonly Called "The Layman."

BY JOHN ALLEN HUDSON.

"What is man, that thou art mindful of him? and the son of man, that thou visitest him?" (Ps. 8: 4.)

Where shall I write the beginning, or when or where shall I write finis of man—the individual man, the layman? He is a well, a tree, a house, a sheep; obversely, he is a well without water, a tree without fruit, a house that is the habitat of wicked spirits, a wolf with the garb of a sheep. And yet he is none of these things. He is a fire, chaff, a stone enlivened by the Spirit of Almighty God. He is a raving maniac, possessed by dementia; he is a devil in human form; he is an angel of mercy and a ministrator of divine grace. He is a crippled, distorted human form, bowed, bent, and twisted. He is a brawned, ruddy-cheeked giant, fearless and chivalrous. He is a torch, a flame, burning his way into the hearts of others. He is a violent furnace of ambition, setting the world on fire with his own selfish plans. He is a faint voice of life, so faint as to be heard by none but himself. But still he is man, diverse from all others, but like them.

The Hebrews sometimes called man a "worm." "How much less man, that is a worm!" (Job 25: 6.) The Psalmist said: "I am a worm, and no man." (Ps. 22: 6.) He writhes his way in the dust of earth; he wriggles and twists his way upon the ground with dust in his eyes, ears, nose, and mouth. He eats things of dust and is all but covered by it. He goes all of his life and makes but a few inches or feet. Hundreds of thousands of miles of space are untraversed over his head. He pillows his head on dust and beholds the twinkling lights of the stars of God in the zenith. He is overawed by mountains and storms and belching volcanoes. He is a microcosm.

But man is enough for God to notice. Inestimable, illimitable, unfathomable love of God that brings consideration for so small a thing!

But man is a world within himself. Sentient, with nerves, brain, a body compacted, he can feel a smooth object with delight, receive pricks with pain, become ecstatic, become sad and lugubrious. His joys are his; his pains are his. He is a world coming in contact with the world about him. He reasons about the stars, about day and night, about questions of morals and religion. He is a wonderfully small thing. He is great enough, as he lives a worm, to inspire the pity of the Infinite. Encased in an earthly tabernacle made of dust, he is as close to the earth as the reptile encased in its native shell, as the oyster clinging to its native rock, as a sheep covered by its native wool. But he is more. O, "what is man, that thou art mindful of him?" He is an emanation of the infinite God, endowed with deathless being. He is a macrocosm and a microcosm. Nothing else in all of this broad world is like him, is equal to him. All of the rest is earth. Man is earth and spirit. So God considers him.

This two-world relationship enhances man's responsibility. He cannot live as does the snake, the oyster, the sheep. The oyster that lifeless lies in its shell, the snake that sleeps in the sun, and the sheep that chews its cud with perfect peace in the shade of a tree are not condemned for their indifference. They are fulfilling nature's own plan for them. But man needs only rest, then he must work again.

By so much that man is above the beasts of the field, by just that much is his responsibility increased.

The feeling of responsibility in man has made him cross seas and trackless deserts; has made him disregard the hurting, benumbing cold of winter and the sweltering, wilting heat of summer. It has caused him to brave dangers and death thousands of times. As a mighty urge of God upon him, man's responsibility has driven him into exile and away from loves and ties to do its bidding. Paul forsook all that he might gain Christ. He braved death among mountain banditti, in the great mountain passes of Asia, to preach to regions beyond "the unsearchable riches of Christ." He made tents with his own hands, that "he might not be chargeable to others," to preach Christ. Stoned at Lystra, he rose from a pool of his own blood and went again into the city to preach Christ. This faith, this courage, this weight of responsibility, makes man more than a worm. It makes him the wonder of the earth.

Responsibility made James A. Garfield go miles from home and drive mules for towboats on a canal to support a widowed mother. The same feeling, the same urge upon his being, made him go miles from home to Hiram College for an education. It made him cast the last cent he had in the world into the treasury on the Sunday following his arrival. More brethren ought to have a weight of responsibility upon them; ought to feel that they owe relatives, owe friends, owe God. Then they would do.

But the moral sluggard seems to be impervious to the pangs of conscience over duty remiss and opportunities neglected. The man with the one talent hid it. In other words, he did not heed the call of responsibility. His enfeebled, slow-working mind did not register need of action. Like the seismograph, an apparatus that registers shocks of the earth, that has been impaired, he registers not.

O for more men, who, having talents, feel that they must use them! If we had the conviction of Paul, "Yea, woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel!" we would do it. Can the storm-tossed waves of the sea still themselves? Can two impacting clouds and different strata of air stifle the thunder that would issue? Can a stone belched from the belly of the earth by a volcano stop its precipitation in midair? Can the impetus imparted from Almighty God to my being be denied and resisted? No! For it is God who worketh in us "both to will and to do of his good pleasure." God works in us. If he does not, it is just simply because we will not allow him to. But once being attuned to God, loving God, being open to his divine will, we will work like the waves of the sea in storm, like the projected rock from the volcano, like the intended crash of thunder from two clouds at contact.

"God hath set the members every one of them in the body, as it hath pleased him." (1 Cor. 12: 18.) "And God hath set some in the church, first apostles, secondarily prophets, thirdly teachers, after that miracles, then gifts of healings, helps, governments, diversities of tongues. Are all apostles? are all prophets? are all teachers? are all workers of miracles? have all the gifts of healings? do all speak with tongues? do all interpret?" (Verses 28: 30.) Here is varied responsibility. God hath set the members in the body (church) according to ability, and that is the measure of responsibility in each part as well. Recently, walking down the street, a lot of boys in various ages of adolescence sang a song in voices ranging from a fine nasal to a deep bass. There was a wide difference, but somehow the song was pleasant to the ear. The body of the Lord Jesus Christ has just as great variation, but there is harmony. All together make one grand total. There is the highest and there is the lowest, and between there are many others. But all are honorable; all are necessary. I am thinking of the great body of the church not designated as officers. In this class one is neither elder nor deacon. He is neither preacher nor apostle. He is just a member, the member commonly called the "lay member." It is his responsibility that I am talking about. But it is just as keen, just as pungent, just as awakening as that of the preacher, the elder, or the deacon. It is his and not another's. It makes him think and act.

It is possible that some try to stifle the voice of God in their souls. One who does it is either hardened or awakened to greater life. It is too bad that one can become hardened, but he can. When Paul preached at Iconium, many who would not hear the word of God were hardened. As expressed by the apostle Paul, some sear their consciences with a hot iron. They become insensible to the call of duty. They become careless and sluggards in the vineyard of the Lord. The Lord will not reward them. They are condemned. What a state! If one stifles the voice of God in his being and it hurts and burns in his bones like it did in Jeremiah's, he is awakened to greater life. Dominated by the thought of the supreme good, anxious to bless and benefit others, feeling that he has been made a debtor by the sacrifice of Jesus on Golgotha's sloping knoll and that he can never repay the debt of love and service that he owes, his soul is filled with desire for service. He becomes a flaming torch that burns his way into the blackness and sin and ignorance of others and scatters light and brightness all about. He becomes a clarion call in life and by word to the sleeping earth in trouble and despair and announces the dawning of the day of God upon the earth. Millions of him will bring God's paradise to us here.

Cookeville, Tenn.

BY T. B. LARIMORE.

There may be many Cookevilles, but certainly none more worthy of honorable mention than Cookeville, Tenn.

When Mrs. Larimore and I were preparing to leave Washington City for a month's meeting (August) at Cookeville, Tenn., Brother Jere Whitson wrote us a characteristic letter, requesting us to invite, in his name, the entire Washington church of Christ to attend the Cookeville meeting, from beginning to end, promising to take care of all who came, even though not one might be left behind.

This was no bluff or joke. Jere Whitson is a prince among men—a princely entertainer—and the bountiful Giver of all good has not yet made any better women than Sister Whitson, I think; and I think others think so, too. Moreover, their posterity is worthy of such parentage.

The Cookeville church is strong in every good sense of that word, and meets in a commodious, well-furnished house, J. P. Ezell, with whom everybody seems to be perfectly satisfied, being the minister.

Brother Whitson says I am to preach there again, which I am confidently expecting to do, notwithstanding I shall have lived in this beautiful, wonderful world eighty long, eventful years, if I live to see the light of July 10, 1923—fourscore years of hope and fear, of joy and sorrow, of poverty and plenty, seventy of those years being years of almost incessant toil of some sort, either mental or physical, and many of them of both. I am as willing to work to-day as I have ever been, but not quite as able.

Friendship.

BY O. C. LAMBERT.

"A friend loveth at all times; and a brother is born for adversity." (Prov. 17: 17.)

From this scripture it is seen that one of the most obvious uses of adversity is to reveal to us our friends. "A friend in need is a friend indeed." When dark clouds are lowering; when calamity is impending; when the heart is breaking with the weight of some sorrow too sacred to be babbled to the world; when we are staggering under some load, and the road ahead seems interminable and the mountain appears insurmountable, what a priceless boon it is to have some one see through the thin veil into our troubled hearts who is willing to carry part of our load!

"The rich have many friends." Many a man will flatter you for your favors only to desert you the moment his hope of gain is gone. The prodigal son no doubt had companions whom he believed to be friends; but when he found himself penniless and hungry, "no man gave unto him." When Job was rich, he was honored and flattered; but when misfortune overtook him, he was abandoned. So be not discouraged should you put your friends to the test and find them fewer than you had expected, for one true friend is worth a million worlds like this. When you are down, he puts his shield before you, he links his fortune with yours, and stands or falls with you. Let us not lose our faith in humanity because of the Hamans and Judases.

The word "friend" is one of the most sacred in the language. Though David longed for a drink from the well at his childhood home from which he was exiled, he poured it out as too sacred for such a common use, because it had been sanctified by the sacrifice and devotion of his friends. Take the idea of "friend" from that of "mother" and nothing is left; it is the tie which renders all others worth while. When God decided to honor Abraham, he might have done so in a myriad of ways, but for some reason he chose to do so by calling him a "friend of God." Jesus, in commenting on the tender tie that had grown up between him and his disciples, said: "I no longer call you servants; for a servant knoweth not what his master doeth: but I have called you friends." It is a wonderful blessing to be counted a friend by men; to be thought worthy of admittance into the sacred recesses of their hearts; that their interests and secrets are safe in your hands; yet it is an infinitely greater privilege to be called a "friend of God" or of Jesus, his Son.

A friend is one who unbosoms freely, advises justly, assists readily, defends courageously, and continues a friend unchangeably. He does not discard me after my first or second mistake, but bears my imperfections with patience and helps me to grow out of my faults. When I act wisely, he commends me, that I may have strength always to do so; and his love for me is such that he will not allow me to continue to do foolishly without rebuke. "Faithful are the wounds of a friend." (Prov. 27: 6.) "Ointment and perfume rejoice the heart: so doth the sweetness of a man's friend by hearty counsel." (Prov. 27: 9.) In sorrow's hour he mingles his tears with mine. It is said that once a group of professional people were trying to define the beautiful word. "The acrobat defined it as the balance pole, which enables us to walk the tight rope of life without falling; the physician, as a soft bandage for our cuts and bruises; the jeweler, as the golden link in the chain of life; and the florist, as the vine that clings round about us, hiding our rough places and imperfections; and the greater the ruin, the closer it clings."

Doubtless you are now thinking of some one who is dearer than all else besides, who was instrumental in all your promotions, who saw something in you, who believed in you when no one else did, who was your inspiration and ideal. It might have been father or mother or brother or sister or wife or husband, or, as is often the case, some one connected to you by no other earthly tie except that of "friend." The friendship of Abraham was the salvation of Lot. Elisha in all probability would have remained an obscure farmer had the sacred spark not been kindled by Elijah. David might have been a different character had it not been for his friendships. We are made to see the soul of Ruth expand under the genial influence of Naomi's friendship, like a lily in the sunshine. Think what it must have meant in the life of Timothy to have the friendship of Paul! How many of us would have been swallowed up by defeat, failure, and discouragement, if it had not been for our friends! God never bestows upon us a greater earthly blessing. Paul in his darkest hours comforted himself with the thought that he still had friends, though sometimes they could not assist except by their continual, fervent prayer in his behalf. My feeling toward each person that it has been my happy lot to test and to know as a friend is expressed in the words of the poet:

I'd like to be the sort of friend
That you have been to me.
I'd like to be the help that you've Been always glad to be.
I'd like to mean as much to you
Each minute of the day
As you have meant, old friend of mine,
To me along the way.

I'd like to do the big things and
The splendid things for you;
To brush the gray from out your skies,
And leave them only blue;
And say the friendly, kindly things
From you so oft I've heard,
And feel that I could rouse your soul
The way that mine you've stirred.

I'd like to give you back the joy
That you have given me;
Yet that were wishing you a need
I hope will never be.
I'd like to make you feel secure
As I who travel on Undaunted in the darkest hours,
With you to lean upon.

If my friendships have meant so much to me, should I not express my gratitude to God for his rich providence in this particular and be looking out for an opportunity to return this grace to others? It is the lost who need saving, the sick who need a physician, and the friendless who need a friend. What good can I do in the world if I am a friend to those only who do not need me? "Let me live in the house by the side of the road and be a friend of man." "To the hungry soul every bitter thing is sweet." The rich and powerful do not desire or value friendship, just as a full man does not desire food. Your proffers to be of assistance, by them would be spurned; but there are millions who would never forget even your kind words and your smiles. Jesus did not waste his time among the rich, but cast his lot with the lowly, "The common people heard him gladly." Let us follow his example and carry the "good news" to the poor and the friendless.

As much as our earthly friends may love us, there are times when they must stand by in mute helplessness. Loved ones must stop on the bank of the Jordan of death, but there is a Friend who can cross with us, One who can part the turbulent waters. He is "a Friend that sticketh closer than a brother" and possesses all the requisites of a friend magnified. He tells me more, he bears with me longer, he entertains me more tenderly, he helps me more bountifully, he continues with me longer and goes with me farther than any and all my earthly friends. He loved me before I loved him, and how can I slight him now?

The Christian way of destroying an enemy is to convert him into a friend.—Selected.

Query Department

BY J. C. McQUIDDY

John Godwin writes as follows: "(1) Please tell us what 'spiritual wickedness in high places' is? (2) In the beginning of the church at Jerusalem, why was it necessary for those who had possessions to sell them to sustain the life of others? (Acts 2: 44, 45.) Was it because they were poor and had been isolated by friends and relatives because of accepting the Christian religion, or was it because it was something new and the people just wanted to stay around Jerusalem?"

1. "Spiritual wickedness in high places" must mean the devil and the host of wicked spirits working with him. The Revised Version reads, "spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places." In Eph. 2: 2 Satan is called "the prince of the powers of the air."

2. Acts 2: 44, 45 reads: "And all that believed were together, and had all things common; and they sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all, according as any man had need." They were not required to do this, but did it voluntarily. No other church followed the example; so I conclude it was done simply as a matter of preference. It is evident that there is no law requiring a man to sell all he has and deposit the proceeds in a common fund. Peter said to Ananias, who sold a possession and kept back part of the price of the land: "While it remained, did it not remain thine own? and after it was sold, was it not in thy power?" (Acts 5: 4.) This shows that there was no law requiring him to sell and to cast it all into a common treasury. Doubtless it was done because the money was all needed to supply the wants of the poor and the early flight from Jerusalem and the destruction of the city were apprehended.

✱ ✱ ✱

W. H. Robinson, Gladeville, Tenn., is concerned about debates and the "pious unimmersed." He says: "(1) The question has arisen in the church as to whether it is right to debate with the sectarians. Some argue that it is wrong, but the majority where I worship think it right. Please give your views on the subject. (2) Is it possible for a pious unimmersed person to be saved?"

1. It is certainly right to teach the truth on all occasions, and we should not fail to do so because we sometimes find it necessary to expose error in order to teach it. The Holy Spirit says: "Beloved, while I was giving all diligence to write unto you of our common salvation, I was constrained to write unto you exhorting you to contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints." (Jude 3.) Paul debated with Peter. "But when Cephas came to Antioch, I resisted him to the face, because he stood condemned. For before that certain came from James, he ate with the Gentiles; but when they came, he drew back and separated himself, fearing them that were of the circumcision. And the rest of the Jews dissembled likewise with him; insomuch that even Barnabas was carried away with their dissimulation." (Gal. 2: 11-13.) Peter was in error, though a great apostle; but Paul did not fail to resist him on account of his greatness. Christ debated with the devil. But men should not discuss religious subjects for the sake of victory, but for the sake of the truth. A man who loves his party more than truth is not fit to discuss religious subjects with anybody. The discussions that are not conducted in the love of the truth and to elicit truth should be avoided. Partisans should not debate.

2. The Bible says nothing about the "pious unimmersed." It is not my province to say what is possible with God. I know who is promised salvation from past sins. Christ says: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." (Mark 16: 16.) Christ said to Nicodemus: "Except one be born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." (John 3: 5.) The man who becomes a Christian and adds to his faith the Christian virtues and continues faithful unto death will enter into the heavenly kingdom. It is wise to spend our time in obeying God, and foolish to attempt to tell what is possible with God when he has not revealed himself on the subject. Better be among the obedient so as to enjoy the fulfillment of his promises.

✱ ✱ ✱

C. W. Cox, Mount Pleasant, Texas, inquires to know (1) the difference between the "Word" and the "Spirit," and (2) between the "Holy Ghost" and the "Holy Spirit."

1. The Holy Spirit is one of the Trinity composed of the Father, Son, and Spirit. The Spirit performed the same office in the material world that he performs in the spiritual world. In the material world God provided all things; Christ, the Word, created all things. (John 1: 1-3; Heb. 1: 2; Col. 1: 16.) After the creation of all things, the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters and brought order out of chaos. So in the spiritual world, God provided, Jesus created, and the Spirit on the day of Pentecost came to the new creation, organized it, gave it laws, and took up his abode in these laws, and is guiding it forward to the accomplishment of the work it was created to do. The Spirit works through the word. He preached the gospel to the world through the disciples. He still does this. The word is "the sword of the Spirit." (Eph. 6: 17.) The Spirit takes up his abode in the laws of the spiritual world just as he did in the laws of the material world. "It is the Spirit that giveth life; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I have spoken unto you are spirit, and are life." (John 6: 63.) That the Spirit gives life and the words are Spirit-filled and life-giving are the points that correspond and are explanatory of each other. The words that are Spirit-filled and living must be received into the heart in order to receive spiritual life. "The seed is the word of God." (Luke 8: 11.) In the seed dwells the principle that is to be quickened into life.

2. The Holy Ghost and the Holy Spirit are one and the same. "Spirit," however, is the correct translation, as the Holy Spirit is not the ghost of dead beings.

✱ ✱ ✱

A. J. Moore, Watertown, Tenn., asks me (1) to explain the clause, "wash away thy sins," in Acts 22: 16. He says: "Are we to understand that to mean that our sins are washed away by the water of baptism or by the act of baptism?" (2) He also wishes a clear explanation of the term "heartfelt religion," and how we may get it.

1. The full passage reads: "And now why tarriest thou? arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on his name." Neither the water nor act of baptism washes away sins. "Wash away" is a figurative expression. Inasmuch as immersion is the act of faith in which God forgives sins, and it is a washing, it is called a "washing away of sins." The believer is baptized into the death of Christ. (Rom. 6: 3.) In his death his blood flowed. In the act of baptism the believer is cleansed by the blood of Christ. Baptism is an act of faith, grows out of faith, and is inseparably joined to faith.

2. The phrase "heartfelt religion" is not in the Bible. "Religion" is a Bible word, and so is "heart." The idea contained in the phrase "religion of the heart" is in the Bible. Religion is from two Latin words which mean to rebound or bind again. The heart in its full sense embraces the understanding, the affections, and the will. It is that with which we understand, love, and obey. The man who is rebound or religioned to Christ understands the truth, loves the truth, and obeys the truth. He loves God with all his heart. This religion of the heart is commonly called "heartfelt religion" because it is heartfelt.

Evangelistic Notes

J. W. Dunn has just closed at Tyler, Texas, with several additions.

Charles F. Hardin is in a meeting at Moorhead, Miss., with bright prospects.

J. Clifford Murphy is in a meeting at Prescott, Ark., in a rented hall. Fine crowds are in attendance.

R. E. L. Taylor has just closed at Bardwell, Ky., with ten baptisms and good crowds. He is now at Milburn, Ky.

When last heard from, I. B. Bradley had had two baptisms and two by letter, also fine crowds, at Huntsville, Ala.

A. B. Gunter, when last heard from, was in Charleston, Mo., with good crowds and two baptisms. This is a mission point.

From Mrs. R. T. Chance, Summit, Ga.: "We enjoy each issue of the Gospel Advocate and are much benefited by reading it."

L. K. Harding has changed his address to 591 Euclid Avenue, Toronto, Canada. This will be his address until April 1, 1923.

Lee Sanders, Wellington, Texas, reports good work in that church, with one restoration last Lord's day. This is his second year there.

J. H. Morris, Tuscumbia, Ala., reports one restoration at East Florence, Ala. He will preach on the second and fourth Lord's days.

J. H. McBroom has just closed at Granite, Okla., with eleven baptisms and one restoration. He will return in 1923. He is now at Bohon.

John H. Arms recently closed at Hermitage Springs, Tenn., with one baptism. He is now at Leonard, Tenn., with nine baptisms to date.

M. S. Mason closed at Burkhart Cemetery, near Racine, Mo., with eight additions and much good done otherwise. He is now at Poplar Bluff, Mo.

J. O. Barnes will do evangelistic work in West Palm Beach, Fla. He began a month ago with three and has increased the number to twelve.

Thorp Spring Christian College has had a good opening, with eleven young preachers in attendance. These boys are going to evangelize the surrounding territory.

Dr. Jere Watson, Anniston, Ala., recently preached at the Catoma Street Church in Montgomery, Ala. He does not allow his practice to interfere with his worship.

William P. Walker recently closed at Dover, Tenn., with nineteen baptisms and one restoration. Since that time he closed at Tharpe, in Stewart County, with six additions.

F. L. Paisley has just closed at Grantsburg, Ill., with five baptisms and two from the Baptists. J. Oscar Paisley directed the singing. He is now near Ludowici, Ga., a mission field.

J. T. Harris has just closed a meeting at Mount Hebron, in Dickson County, Tenn., which resulted in four baptisms, three restorations, and one from the Methodists. He is now at Antioch, near Mount Hermon.

Vernon Rozar has just closed at Mount Bethel, in Bradley County, Tenn., with good crowds and two baptisms. A. B. Blazer led the singing and continued the meeting. Brother Rozar is now at Saulsbury, in Wilson County.

Freed-Hardeman College, at Henderson, Tenn., had a fine opening, with an enrollment of nearly two hundred, and new pupils are arriving daily. The class of students are above the average. They are from good homes.

E. G. Creacy and J. M. Isenberg have just closed a three-weeks' tent meeting at Wisdom, Ky. Brother Creacy did the preaching and Brother Isenberg led the singing. Thirteen were added, besides much good done otherwise.

H. D. Jeffcoat has recently found about twenty-five members at Indianola, Miss., who have no preaching or worship. They have no preaching at Cumberland and Dancy. He is planning to make some arrangements for them.

Elam Derryberry has assisted J. Pettey Ezell in three meetings this year and one last year. He also conducted the song service in T. B. Larimore's meeting at Cookeville, Tenn. The brethren are well pleased with his work.

J. M. Dennis has just closed at Corinth, in Sumner County, Tenn., with large crowds and sixteen baptisms. Since that time he closed at Bush's Chapel, near South Tunnel, Tenn., with twelve baptisms and four restored.

Emmett G. Creacy closed a tent meeting at Cave City, Ky., with one from the Baptists and one restored. Money was pledged to build. A lot was bought, and they have the "restrictive clause" in the deed. The congregation numbers about fifty.

Arkansas Christian College, Morrilton, Ark., has opened with an encouraging enrollment. Brethren Hardeman, Hinds, Barber, and others made addresses. Brethren in Arkansas are requested to write them if any have books which they would donate to their library.

A. D. Dies recently baptized three at Center Chapel, near Mount Juliet, Tenn.; next, at Castalian Springs, Tenn., he baptized two and two were restored. He is now at Philadelphia, in Wilson County, with good interest. He will go next to Flat Rock, near Lebanon, Tenn.

J. D. Tant writes from Mansfield, Ark.: "I am in a great meeting here, with sixty-one added to date, and five days longer to run. There has been more shouting than I have heard in twenty years in a church of Christ. One Freewill Baptist preacher, who has been preaching forty years, has come out on the Lord's side. I am looking for many more before the meeting closes."

Fred M. Little, Theron Cottle, and W. T. Grider recently closed a meeting at Elba, in Coffee County, Ala., which resulted in twenty additions. A lot was purchased and sixteen hundred and fifty dollars raised toward erecting a house. The society people tried to establish here years ago but failed. W. T. Grider is the evangelist supported by ten churches in that territory, and is doing a good work.

Thomas H. Burton recently closed a four-weeks' meeting at Moors, S. C., which resulted in thirty-six new members. These and six old ones started work as a congregation. The first day they started a Sunday school, with about seventy-five. They will begin a church building in a few days. The collection at the first service was eighteen dollars and eighty-seven cents. They are very grateful to Christians in Tennessee who made the meeting possible and also A. M. Burton for his check toward their building.

From Charles F. Hardin, Jackson, Miss.: "The meeting at Moorhead, Miss., was one of the very best meetings I have held in this work. We had fine crowds almost every service, and left with the respect of the best people of the town, and they were in regular attendance during the last of the meeting. Three were reclaimed and two were baptized, and, with these, we left a congregation of thirty-two members to meet for worship under good, substantial leadership. We were permitted the use of the large, new school building for the meeting place. I am sure they will be able to build there soon. Pray for us in this great mission field."

As W. W. Freeman is teaching views that are calculated to discredit the inspiration of the Scriptures, and as on this account he is no longer connected with the Abilene Christian College, the Gospel Advocate, in justice to the truth and righteousness, declines to publish reports from him. Paul called the names of men and warned against them. Unless he comes clear on the subject of higher criticism, shows he does not teach it and disavows it, we must decline to put him before the churches, and make this brief statement that they may know why. The line should be sharply drawn between truth and error. If a preacher is unsound in the faith, the churches should be warned against him.

I. B. Bradley writes from Birmingham, Ala.: "I have just closed a good meeting with the Central church of Christ in Huntsville, Ala., lasting two weeks. The church expressed herself as being well pleased with the meeting and as having the best interest seen for many years. There were two baptized and two by letter added to the faithful there. The interest and attendance were very gratifying throughout the meeting. The church is making progress under the efficient leadership of their evangelist, T. B. Thompson. He and his good wife are held in very high esteem by the church. Mrs. Bradley and I made our home with the Thompsons while there. The brethren and sisters treated us royally, and we learned to love them very much. May the Lord lead them on to greater things."

J. Pettet Ezell is in a meeting at Franklin, Ky.
 H. Leo Boles is in a meeting at Sellersburg, Ind.
 F. P. Fonner reports a good day at Buffalo, W. Va.
 G. A. Dunn is in a meeting at Trinity Lane, this city.
 Ben F. Harding is in a meeting at Waverly-Belmont, this city.

W. L. Karnes is in a meeting at Smith Springs, near Una, Tenn.

J. C. Mosley is in a tent meeting at Hardyville, Ky., with two baptisms to date.

Ben West, who is located with the church in Sinton, Texas, reports the work there promising.

R. A. Largen has just closed at Corinth, near Athens, Ala., with twelve baptisms and three restorations.

W. S. Long has just closed at Wartrace, Tenn., with good crowds, three baptisms, and one from the Methodists.

E. W. Sewell changes his address from Thornton, Wash., to 816 East Thirty-fifth Street, North, Portland, Oregon.

G. A. Dunn, Jr., changes his address from Gainesville, Texas, to Abilene, Texas, care of Abilene Christian College.

C. M. Gleaves has just closed at Cane Creek, near Petersburg, Tenn., with twenty-one baptisms and one restoration.

T. H. Womack recently closed at Mount Carmel, near McMinnville, Tenn., with three baptisms and four restorations.

L. B. Jones recently closed at Highland Home, Ala., with seven baptisms. He is now at Dilton, near Murfreesboro, Tenn.

C. M. Pullias is in the midst of a meeting at Twelfth Avenue, North, this city, with six baptisms and three reclaimed.

H. H. Adamson recently closed at Wilson Hill, near Lewisburg, Tenn., with nine additions. He is now at home for the winter.

T. H. Kirkman recently closed an interesting meeting at Blueville, a suburb of Crafton, W. Va., resulting in three baptisms.

J. P. Watson recently closed at Eagleville, Tenn., with large attendance and one addition. He promised to return next year.

W. F. Lemmons, Little Rock, Ark., has just closed his second meeting near Alicia, with good crowds and increasing interest.

James E. Laird has just closed at Mulberry, Ark., with seven baptisms and three restorations. He is now in Ripley County, Mo.

W. M. Oakley has just closed at Bethlehem Church, near Bert, Tenn., with three baptisms. He will begin next Lord's day at Oakman, Ala.

J. W. Howell, Columbus, Miss., reports a good service there, with several visitors from elsewhere. He and Frank Ellis are preaching in that vicinity.

E. Gaston Collins was at Fanning Orphan School on October 1, with two baptisms, and at Eleventh Street, this city, on October 8, with two good services.

J. T. Harris has just closed at Antioch, in Dickson County, Tenn., with two restorations. He will begin next Lord's day at Vanleer, in the same county.

W. M. Behel has just closed at Long Branch, Tenn., with fourteen baptisms. He says this good work is due largely to the good work of J. T. Underwood last year.

There will be a four-days' discussion between Ben M. Bogard (Missionary Baptist) and R. L. Whiteside (Christian) at Hutson, Ark., beginning on October 24.

A. B. Barret, Murfreesboro, Tenn., recently held a fine meeting at Ostella, Tenn. Five were baptized and two were reclaimed. They invited him to return in 1923.

W. T. Beasley reports meetings as follows: Refuge, Tenn., with four baptisms; Granite, Okla.; Ozark, Okla.; Lake Creek, Okla., with five baptisms. He is now at Wynnburg, Tenn.

E. E. Shoulders reports a good service at New York. Remember New York with its millions and only one little mission! Address George M. McKee, treasurer, Box 15, Station N.

Jack Meyer has changed his address to Abilene, Texas, Abilene Christian College. He will be glad to arrange for meetings in Tennessee and surrounding territory after June 15, 1923.

R. B. Henry recently conducted a mission meeting at Johnson City, Tenn., which resulted in sixteen baptisms. He baptized one at McNeill Schoolhouse, one at Gowan, and three at Plant.

Dr. C. C. Young, one of the foremost and most exemplary Christian men in this city, died at his home after a short illness. We extend to the bereaved family our sympathy in this sad hour.

J. G. Malphurs reports a splendid day at Clarksville, Tenn., in their new house. There were fifty-eight in the Bible classes and several visitors. He is now trying to establish the work at Indian Mound.

Volney T. Trimble has just closed at Briner Springs, with nine baptisms and two by membership. He baptized two of his schoolmates, one sixty and the other sixty-one. He helped start this church forty years ago.

M. D. Baumer recently closed at Antioch, in Clark County, Ky., with eighteen baptisms. The Fairfax (Winchester, Ky.) congregation has arranged to support him in ten meetings for small churches during the fall and winter.

F. C. Sowell has just closed a good mission meeting in Maury County, Tenn., with five baptized and two reclaimed. Amos Timmons did the financing. He intends to repeat this every year. Will not some churches do as much as this man does?

J. E. Wainwright reports that the meeting with the new congregation at Texarkana, Texas, resulted in eleven additions. This congregation, though small, is full of zeal. They have purchased a lot in a splendid section of the town and will erect a house soon.

F. O. Howell reports the work at Jackson, Tenn., in fine condition, with additions at every service. He will begin a meeting at McKinney, Texas, on October 15. Address him there for fifteen days. He expects to begin a meeting with his home church at Jackson in November.

W. A. Sisco reports a meeting at Coble, Tenn., with one baptism and much good done otherwise. This was followed by a meeting by W. R. Hassell, resulting in twenty-one baptisms and two restorations. Next, Brother Sisco held two meetings in Lewis County, resulting in nine baptisms. He will be next at Flatwoods, near Hohenwald.

We have just learned that Sister Dollie Holder Stubblefield, wife of Ross Stubblefield, died at her home at David Lipscomb College on last Lord's day and was buried at Viola, Tenn., on Monday. Her husband's father is our venerable preaching brother, J. R. Stubblefield, at Viola, Tenn. The Gospel Advocate force extends sympathy to the bereaved family.

John R. Williams recently closed at Minnick, Tenn., with twenty-two baptisms and two restorations, including one Baptist, five Methodists, and one Presbyterian. They started to work as a congregation of thirty-nine. This is one more congregation in Obion County. He held his first meeting there thirty-six years ago, but the congregation ceased to exist long ago. He is now at Turnage Schoolhouse.

D. F. Draper writes: "J. E. Black, of Texas, is at Dixon Springs, Tenn., in a meeting, and, so far as I know, has not arranged for any other work in that State. He is a good man and a strong preacher, and I would like very much for brethren to arrange for another meeting or two while he is in those parts. Brother Black lives in Fort Worth, near my home. He has no hobbies, and will adorn the doctrine of Christ wherever he goes."

A. B. Barret and Byron Hughes have just closed an eight-days' meeting at Hillsboro, Tenn., which resulted in five baptisms and large crowds. They urgently requested for the meeting to continue; but this was not possible, as Brother Barret was due to begin at Horse Cave, Ky. Elam Derryberry is leading the songs there. Brother Barret will return to Texas (November 1 to January 1) to work in the interest of the Bible chair in the University of Texas. It is planned to raise one hundred thousand dollars, of which about one-fourth has already been raised. Brother Barret has time for one meeting in this month, beginning about October 16. He expects to begin his evangelistic work again on January 1.

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS,
Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

"Be Ye Kind One to Another."

BY J. C. M'Q,

The connection from which the above is taken reads: "Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamor, and railing, be put away from you, with all malice: and be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving each other, even as God also in Christ forgave you." (Eph. 4: 31; 32.) Brethren in their dealings with each other often act as though they were infallible and never committed a sin to be forgiven. Instead of being kind and tender-hearted to one another, they are unjust, harsh, and cruel. Brethren bear false witness against a brother, rush into print with their false charges, and then refuse to correct them. The journal that prints the false charges will not permit the misrepresented brother to correct the misrepresentations through its columns. This forces the wronged brother to make correction through another paper, if any correction is made. The correction should be made in the paper where the accusation is made. This is the only just, fair, and honorable course. An editor should not be a party to condemning any man without a hearing.

When a contributor to one paper makes ugly charges against an editor of another journal, the charges should not be published until the publisher is satisfied they are true and that to publish them will do good. How often are our hearts made to bleed by seeming charges in print that no reason can be assigned for their publication but malice and anger? Not one single good motive can be given for their publication: The accuser violates all laws of decency and propriety by refusing to allow the accused to state his own faith and define his own language. He assumes to know what the accused meant to say or did say better than he himself knows. The accuser contends that the language of the accused must not be taken at face value. Finally, when the charge fails for the want of proof, the accuser does not retract his statement and apologize for the wrong he has done. Such conduct stirs up bitterness and strife among brethren. All right-thinking people will use their influence to have brethren to discontinue their talebearing, evil surmisings, and evil accusations. Nothing should be charged unless it is true, unless it is right, and unless it will do good to charge it. Those who are guilty of such conduct should read prayerfully the following: "Love suffereth long, and is kind; love envieth not; love vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not its own, is not provoked, taketh not account of evil; rejoiceth not in unrighteousness, but rejoiceth with the truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things." (1 Cor. 13: 4-7.) By a failure to concede honesty of purpose to our brethren in the absence of proof to the contrary, we do them a great injustice; and then when we publish them to the brotherhood as handling the word of God deceitfully, we sin grievously. "There are six things which Jehovah hateth; yea, seven which are an abomination unto him: haughty eyes, a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood; a heart that deviseth wicked purposes, feet that are swift in running to mischief, a false witness that uttereth lies, and he that soweth discord among brethren." (Prov. 6: 16-19.)

This is not all. A preacher may misrepresent his brother, fail to correct and apologize for the wrong he has done, and yet be fellowshiped and supported by the churches as though he had done nothing wrong. The papers publish him to the brotherhood as a brother in good standing and full fellowship and as honorable and upright. All his wrongs are buried and his virtues are extolled and magnified. The policy of the journal is questioned which declines to publish to the brotherhood the preacher who is guilty of falsehood and misrepresentation as worthy and in good standing. It is true that all are weak and fallible, but is there to be no distinction between good and bad? Are we to treat those whom we know to be guilty of unconfessed falsehood as we do those whom we believe to be righteous and truthful? The Bible does not so teach. Paul says: "Your glorifying is not good. Know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump?" (1 Cor. 5: 6.) We may wink at or compromise with evil until the evil will predominate in the churches. Recently I heard a strong gospel preacher say: "Evil so abounds in the churches that they are hardly able to exercise discipline upon an unruly member."

One of the greatest evils of our journalism is the supporting and upholding of some who are guilty of gross misrepresentations for which they have never apologized. How much better to confess our sins and endure the frowns of the world and the approval of Jehovah than to refuse to confess them though thereby we retain the approval of the world and lose the approval of Jehovah! God hates every false way. We should so hate evil that we will not take up a false report.

It is possible that we notice false accusations when we should pass them by in silence and leave it to God to take vengeance upon the evildoer. The misrepresentations of men may damage our reputation, but not our character. It is not the falsehoods that men tell on us that damage us with God, but the falsehoods that we tell ourselves. The man who does much will have a big job upon his hands if he notices every ugly thing that is said about him. Better let some things die a natural death. Many people do not attach much importance to their own utterances.

man can afford to suffer for righteousness' sake. "For it is better, if the will of God should so will, that ye suffer for well-doing than for evil-doing." (1 Pet. 3: 17.)

It should be our constant purpose to so live that we have malice toward none and love for all. Christ had his enemies, but he was an enemy to no man. It is noble and Christlike to be kind to each other, and, when in our weakness we make mistakes, to confess them and draw nigh to God that he may draw nigh to us. "Speak not one against another, brethren. He that speaketh against a brother, or judgeth his brother, speaketh against the law, and judgeth the law: but if thou judgest the law, thou art not a doer of the law, but a judge." (James 4: 11.) "May we all be "compassionate, loving as brethren, tender-hearted, humble-minded: not rendering evil for evil, or reviling for reviling; but contrariwise blessing."

Evolution and Education.

BY H. LEO B.

Our whole system of education has been greatly modified by the theory of evolution. Moral and spiritual values have been changed in order to conform to the standard of this vague and visionary theory. Schools and colleges have arranged their curricula to include this theory; their methods of instruction have been adjusted to the evolutionary theory; nearly all the textbooks of all grades have been "shot through" with this theory. The spirit of our educational system has been influenced by evolution; the teachers and professors are lending encouragement to it. How are our young people to escape its baneful effects?

Education is the harmonious development and training of all the powers, faculties, and attributes of the entire being. It accomplishes its full aim when it trains all its powers of body, mind, and soul to function as God ordained that they should. When youth is trained to fulfill and fill its mission on earth, then youth will be truly educated. Any thought, theory, spirit, method—anything—that hinders a full development and free exercise of the God-given powers must be rejected as detrimental to our educational system if the best results are obtained. The faculties of mind, soul, and body must be trained to function with the fullest and freest harmony. Just as all the parts of a complex and delicate piece of mechanism must work in harmony for the machinery to be a success, so all the powers and faculties of our entire being must operate in harmony or else there will be chaos and not organism. If the intellectual powers are trained to contradict the spiritual faculties; if the moral attributes are trained to nullify the finer spiritual powers, or if the physical powers are developed so as to hinder or contravene the moral and spiritual, then confusion, pandemonium, and chaos will be the result.

Any theory that rejects the Bible or contradicts any of its principles or truths will vitiate any system of education and render it very defective. It has been seen in these brief studies on evolution that many of the facts and principles of the Bible are contradicted by the theory of evolution. Hence, education in its true sense is nullified by it and our system of education cursed by the theory. The purpose and aim of education are to develop the native powers of human personality and make man a full-orbed being, with all faculties functioning freely and harmoniously; but when the methods of education become a "cramming process," a mere acquisition of theories and hypotheses, then the whole system needs a revision. The acquisition of facts, dates, theories, formulas, and hypotheses is not education in the true sense; the acquisition of these is merely incidental to an education and can be a help only so far as they are true.

One of the most noticeable effects of such a system of education is to be seen in Germany. For a long time that country claimed to be at the head of all the nations of earth in education. The German schools, colleges, and universities were regarded as the best on earth. The system of education and theories of knowledge found there were accepted as the standard of education for all nations. If the theory had the stamp or brand, "Made in Germany," that commended it to educators in this country. In settling questions and solving problems of our own educational policies and values, appeal was made to the standards of German colleges and universities. If these institutions of learning taught a certain theory or used certain methods of instruction, that was sufficient proof for us. The acceptance and approval of the German schools were the highest courts of appeal for us.

The German universities became the institutions which gave all of our college and university professors their "finished education;" they became the institutions in which our college presidents and university chancellors and deans did their "postgraduate work." The rationalistic spirit which boldly attacked the Bible was dominant in the German schools. Theories and hypotheses were presented with disregard for Bible teaching. When a theory was found to be in conflict with a Bible statement, the theory was applauded and the Bible discredited.

As the result of the skeptic spirit of "higher learning" in Germany, our own educational system has been influenced by German rationalism; our own colleges and universities have imbibed the spirit of the evolutionary theory. The presidents and deans of our colleges, with their "finished education," "made in Germany," have transferred the rationalistic spirit from the German schools to our modern system of education. It is difficult to find a college or university in the United States that has not been affected by the highly speculative and atheistic teaching brought over from Germany. Even many religious institutions of learning have been cursed with it.

During the summer session at Peabody College about sixteen hundred teachers were enrolled as pupils, and they represented approximately sixteen hundred schools in the Southland. Many noted lecturers visited this great institution of learning. It was the custom of the institution to hold "vesper services" each Sunday evening. At one of these services Dr. Edwin Mims, of Vanderbilt University, delivered a lecture, in which he cast reflection upon the Bible, especially some portions of Genesis. He was reported to have said that the account of the ark and the flood was only folklore. When I heard this report, I addressed the following note to him, and received the accompanying reply:

Nashville, Tenn., July 10, 1922.—Dr. Edwin Mims, West Avenue, Vanderbilt Campus, City.—Dear Sir: You are reported as saying in a lecture at Peabody, July 9, that "the story of Noah and the ark was written for children, and not for intelligent people to believe. When the time comes for me to believe that story, I will bid farewell to my reason." Will you please verify or correct this report and mail to me at 1400 Cedar Lane, Nashville, Tenn.

Yours truly,
H. LEO BOLES.

Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., Department of English, July 12, 1922.—Mr. H. Leo Boles, Nashville, Tenn.—Dear Sir: I have not a manuscript of my speech at Peabody and do not know exactly the words that I used, but I said substantially what I am reported to have said.

Yours sincerely,
EDWIN MIMS.

These letters are quoted here to substantiate the statement that rank infidelity is taught in our schools and colleges. Possibly not all of the professors of any college have accepted the "modern viewpoint" in regard to the Bible, but some one in the college is usually tainted with the theory. It is difficult, if not impossible, for a young man or young lady to go through college now, having received such teaching, without being influenced by it. They usually come out with their faith shaken and a disrespect for the Bible. Just recently Abilene Christian College has dismissed one of its professors because of his too liberal views in regard to the Bible. This professor and preacher did not get his skeptical views from Abilene Christian College, but from the university from which he was graduated two or three years ago.

Professor Charles Ellwood, a noted author and educator, says: "It is regrettable that the problem of moral and religious education remains unsolved, not only in a practical sense, but also in the sense of theoretical agreement of experts; for it must be evident to all thoughtful minds that if modern civilization is to emerge from its present crises, a different sort of education is needed by our young people." It is a hopeful sign when educators can see the danger. It is alarming to one who views it from a Christian's point of view. The only cure for all of the social ills and educational defects is to be found in the word of God. Unflinching faith in the Bible and loyalty to its precepts will redeem a people from the curse of atheistic systems of education. May all who are interested in true education see that the teachings of Christ, the great Teacher of man, are the guides in education as well as in other walks of life. May the far-off star of perfection in Christ guide us back to faith in the Bible and lure us onward and upward to a true system of education for our young people.

Shall the Daughters Desert the Home?

BY J. C. M'Q.

In creation God adapted and fitted woman for the home. Paul admonished Titus: "Speak thou the things which befit the sound doctrine: . . . that aged women likewise be reverent in demeanor, not slanderers nor enslaved to much wine, teachers of that which is good; that they may train the young women to love their husbands, to love their children, to be sober-minded, chaste, workers at home, kind, being in subjection to their own husbands, that the word of God be not blasphemed." (Tit. 2: 1-5.) It is natural for woman to love home. The feminine desire for domesticity is not entirely crushed by the modern industrial and independent movement offered to women, as is evidenced, in the case of French women, by a questionnaire recently put to them. The French women have entered into public activities almost as extensively as the American women have done. We are told by the Rocky Mountain News that recently a French newspaper asked some of the successful women in their particular lines whether, if they have daughters, they wish them to follow in their footsteps. A majority of the answers are decidedly in the negative, the objection being not so much to professional life as to the particular line of business in which the women were engaged. The News correctly and pertinently says:

These women all indicated a wish that their daughters should lead domestic lives, some saying so frankly; but no one is quoted as objecting to their entering into some lucrative occupation if necessity requires, though it must be other than that of their mothers. This is quite in line with the attitude taken by many men who do not favor the entrance of their sons into their own calling, the real reason being that they see the drawbacks and difficulties of their own as of no other occupation. But men expect their sons to engage in some sort of life work, whereas women probably as a class approve of a business career for their daughters only if necessity calls for it, and then only until marriage ends the need of self-support.

This is natural and feminine and a view likely to prevail in this country as well as in France, in spite of all the industrial and professional opportunities open to women, and the alleged independence given to them by the ballot. Domesticity shifts its characteristics as time goes on. A life spent in cooking, washing dishes, and bending over the washtub does not invite the girls of to-day, but they want their own homes none the less.

The human race will bring greater and more terrible disasters upon itself as it pulls down and destroys the home. Men who fail or refuse to do their duty as husbands are as culpable as the feminists who voluntarily rush into business and then viciously declare that motherhood should be endowed by the State. If we would bring usefulness to a disturbed people, we must abide by God's order. Truth and righteousness will eventually prevail, but we should not follow after the newfangled ways of the world, lest haply we be found to fight against God.

An Appeal.

BY H. LEO B.

Special attention is called to the following appeal of Sister Lipscomb, which fully sets forth an urgent need that should receive the earnest consideration of our readers:

Brother Boles: Miss Sarah Andrews, after a year and a half in America to regain her health, is now preparing to return to Japan and to the work that has been kept alive during her absence by her Japanese helper, Miss Naemura. Sister Sarah worked for fifteen months very successfully in Okitsu before her health gave way. She is of the temperament that will overwork—and there was such need of work. Almost alone, with the help of this truly remarkable Japanese woman, a working congregation was built up. Besides, a large number of children were taught in kindergarten and Sunday school. The seed thus sown will yet bear fruit to the glory of God and the blessing of the people of Okitsu.

Sister Sarah lived during this time in a Japanese house; and while she has never complained, I know she suffered much inconvenience and discomfort. She is giving herself to this work without expectation of reward in this world, but for the love of souls perishing for lack of the gospel of our Lord and Savior. She should have a comfortable house in which to live and teach her Bible classes.

Will you not make an appeal through the Gospel Advocate for funds to build such a house? Thousands of dollars were given by our churches to feed the starving children of Belgium and Armenia. Can we not be as generous to send the Bread of Life to the spiritually starving? I hope this may meet your approval and that a space in the paper may be kept for acknowledging such offerings as may be sent. Appeal especially to our sisters, and let us do at once what is needed. You know how limited my resources are now, but I will gladly head the list with one hundred dollars.

MARGARET LIPSCOMB.

We are glad to give space to Sister Lipscomb's letter and lend encouragement to the work that Sister Sarah Andrews is doing in Japan. She should go back to Japan with a united and liberal brotherhood giving her substantial encouragement. She should be assured of a good, healthful, comfortable, and convenient house in which to live, nourishing and wholesome food, and sufficient and respectable clothing to wear.

It is noble in Sister Andrews to dedicate her life to the service of the Japanese people. She is not moved by a romantic spirit to travel and "see the world," neither has she a morbid desire to be "different from other folk;" she has a deep conviction that she can best serve God in that field and is determined to "spend and be spent" in helping to teach the will of God in a humble way to those people.

The churches should respond cheerfully and liberally. Sister Lipscomb has set the example with a generous amount. Sister Andrews will be wholly dependent on the liberality of the Lord's people here. Her work is separate from any other work of those who are now in Japan and her support is independent of any of the missionaries in Japan.

Let us have contributions from individuals and churches. Send directly to Sarah Andrews or to this office in care of H. Leo Boles.

If a man believes he is the descendant of the ape, he can go to the zoölogical garden and speculate on how far he has come; if he believes the Bible, he goes to church and considers how far he has to go.—W. J. Bryan.

Current Comment

All Sinners Alike.

An unregenerate and selfish heart is precisely the same in a man or woman of genius as in the common sinner. The readers of books will do well to remember that. There are plenty of openings even in a novel for propaganda. Resentment at moral restraint is keen in those whose talents make it possible for them ordinarily to do as they please. Some of them undertake to use their genius to break down those barriers. Many a "movie queen" has decided that she need not behave. It is a mistaken notion. Moral instincts are deep-seated in human nature. Sometimes they seem to be weakening, then presently the tide returns, and the vicious man or woman—actor, artist, statesman—is buried out of sight.—St. Louis Christian Advocate.

Yes, "all sinners are alike" in being guilty before God. Some are greater than others. Jesus, in talking to Pilate, said: "He that delivered me unto thee hath greater sin." (John 19: 11.) Some have more power and influence than others; and when this power is used for sin, great is the sin. But sin is sin. All sin must be repented of. Big sins, little sins, secret sins, public sins, popular sins, and base sins—all sins—must be forgiven, but they must be repented of before one can enjoy the hope and promise of forgiveness.

Idio—Sin—Crazy.

In the barber shop a few days ago as we glanced to the chair next to us sat a young woman undergoing the tonsorial operation of having her hair bobbed. She wore a dress all flowered up like a gay window curtain which left exposed about two feet and a half of her lower extremities. When this barbarous procedure was finished, she went over to a chair where a tow-headed chap of ten years was suffering a similar disfigurement. She proved to be the mother of this hopeful (?). Mother has always had to us a sacredness next to that of our religion. But in this case I could hardly connect the idea with the object before me. Has flapperitis seized hold of the mothers? Have we come to this? Are we to look for a generation of idiots next in line? Well, no; we hardly think so; but it is painful to see a specimen like this abroad.—The Baptist Record.

"Current Comment" wishes to put in contrast with the above the following, called "Mother's Creed," clipped from an exchange, which is more in harmony with God's description of a "worthy woman" as found in Prov. 31: 10-31:

I believe in little children as the most precious gift of heaven to earth.

I believe they have immortal souls created in the image of God.

I believe that in every child there are infinite possibilities for good or evil, and that the kind of influences with which we surround their early childhood largely determines their future character.

I believe in play as the child's normal effort to understand himself through free self-expression.

I believe, too, in work suitable for childhood, and that the joy in doing such work should come to the child largely from the doing of it well.

I believe in wisely directing, rather than stifling activity.

I believe in inspiring the child to choose the good, the true, and the beautiful, and to contribute to the happiness of others by word and deed and gift.

I believe that in all things my example counts for more than my precept.

I believe in cultivating the intellect and the will, but I believe, too, in soul culture, and that out of this cultivation comes the more abundant life, bringing forth the fruits of the Spirit—kindness, gentleness, joy, peace, truth, hope, faith, love, reverence for God, respect for age, consideration for each other, and thoughtfulness for all of God's lowly creatures.

I believe that the calling of motherhood is the holiest, and should be the happiest, of all earth's tasks.

I believe that the Christ, who was once himself a child, born of a human mother, is the one never-failing source of help for perplexed, discouraged, or wearied motherhood.

Since to this work, Father, thou hast called me, help me to give to it all that thou hast given me of insight and wisdom and strength and love and gentleness and patience and forgiveness.

How Men Are Justified.

"Men are justified by faith, by nothing before faith, by nothing along with faith, by nothing after faith, but by faith pure and simple, by faith as a mere instrument, by faith only. The words 'believe' and 'faith' and 'faithful' are found five hundred and sixty times in the New Testament. The word 'believe' occurs one hundred times in the Gospel of John. John says that he wrote his Gospel 'that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye might have life through his name.' (John 20: 31.) 'He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him.' (John 3: 36.) 'Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life.' (John 5: 24.) And in Acts 13: 39: 'By him all that believe are justified from all things.' And Peter (1 Pet. 1: 9) says: 'Receiving the end of your faith, the salvation of your souls.' (Baptist News.)

How is that from the pen of a man who used to be a Campbellite preacher?—News and Truths.

No one gets the "mind of Christ" or "will of God" on any one subject until one gets all that God has said or revealed on that subject. A theory of religion built upon a phase of truth and not upon the whole revealed truth of God will be misleading and erroneous. "Men are justified by faith," but not "by faith alone" or "only by faith." "Men are saved by hope" (Rom. 8: 24), but no one is "saved by hope only" or "only by hope." A theory based on "hope only" would be as erroneous as one based on "faith only." Again, we are said to be saved, or justified, by grace, by baptism, by the Spirit, by his blood, by his life, by works. And, again, we hear the Holy Spirit through Peter saying: "Save yourselves from this crooked generation." (Acts 2: 40.) He who builds a religious system on any one of the things by which men are said to be saved, to the exclusion of the others, makes a mistake and deceives people by his theory and robs his own life of blessings.

Let us read with honest hearts these scriptures and take them as our guide, with all that God speaks on this theme: "This is the end of the matter; all hath been heard: fear God, and keep his commandments; for this is the whole duty of man." (Eccles. 12: 13.) "Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams." (1 Sam. 15: 22.) "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father who is in heaven." (Matt. 7: 21.) "Good Teacher, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?" (Mark 10: 17.) "Brethren, what shall we do? And Peter said unto them, Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins." (Acts 2: 38.) "What shall I do, Lord? And the Lord said unto me, Arise, and go into Damascus; and there it shall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do." (Acts 22: 10.) "He became unto all them that obey him the author of eternal salvation." (Heb. 5: 9.) "Ye see that by works a man is justified, and not only by faith." (James 2: 24.)

"How is that from the pen" of men "who used to" speak "as it were oracles of God?"

The fundamental idea of Christian giving is that we belong to God by a twofold title: we are his by creation and by redemption. We give back to him a part of what he has given us, not as if his right extended over a part, but in acknowledgment of this right of eminent domain over the whole.—Alfred E. Myers.

Home Reading

The Best Place.

My mother's lap's a warm, sweet place,
And the safest ever found;
I jump up there and hide my face
When the Sandman comes around.

Outside North Wind flies all about—
I can hear him blow and blow;
But I'm not 'fraid, we keep him out,
And mother sings "sweet and low."

And then she tells me pretty things—
They are all so very nice—
And then she shuts her eyes and sings
About the children's Christ.

Then while my mother rocks and sings,
The old Sandman goes away;
I go to sleep and dream of things,
And when I wake 'tis day. —Selected.

Ben's Shower.

"Why can't I have a shower?" Ben asked. He had often heard his older sisters talk about showers for brides and for other people on their birthdays. They sounded like pleasant things, Ben thought.

"We men are out of it, Ben," his father said. "It's only women folks that have that kind of fun."

Ben looked downcast. "But I do wish somebody would give me a shower, all the same," he said.

That was at breakfast time. But before supper time Ben had forgotten all about his wish for a shower; he had only one wish, and that was to find his lost kitten, Fluff. Never before had little black Fluff strayed away for even an hour. But now she had been gone all day, and though Ben had searched the whole neighborhood, she could not be found.

Before dark some one telephoned that a black kitten with two white feet had been run over by a car in front of the drug store. Fluff was black, with two white feet. Ben tried not to cry, but it was hard work. Every one in the neighborhood felt sorry for him, for they knew how he loved cats, particularly Fluff.

The next morning, while Ben was trying to eat his oatmeal, the doorbell rang. Following his mother out into the hall, he saw a man hand in a queer-looking box made of straw. There was a card attached to the box, and on it was written: "With many regrets, from the owner of the car that ran over the little cat." Ben unfastened the catch; inside the basket was a beautiful white kitten.

Ben could not help loving the newcomer, which was soon racing round the hall after spools, as lively as a cricket.

Very soon the doorbell rang again, and that time Ben answered it himself. A little girl was standing on the porch with a black kitten in her arms.

"Please, won't you take this?" she said. "I heard about the kitten you lost, and so I brought you one of mine." Before Ben could thank her she was gone.

The two kittens played joyfully together. Ben, watching them, almost forgot his grief. He had just made up his mind to name them "Ink" and "Snowball" when for the third time the bell rang.

That time it was Ben's favorite teacher, Miss Cary, who stood at the door.

"Ben," she said, "I haven't a kitten to give you, but if you will take old yellow Tom, I'll be very glad. He needs a good settled home."

"Mother," said Ben, as Miss Cary went away, "I am getting rich in cats. O, just look how old Tom stares at the kittens!"

The old cat's face was so funny and solemn that Ben laughed aloud for the first time in twenty hours.

He laughed still more when, a little later, his grandmother's hired man drove up to the door with a large wicker basket. Grandmother had heard of Ben's loss and sent the old gray-and-white farm cat, Patches, with the four gray-and-white kittens.

"They're to visit you as long as you like," Jim said.

Ben spent the rest of the morning surrounded by cats. Patches purred on his knee, old Tom dozed at his feet, and the six kittens played wildly all round the room.

"If any more come, we'll have to enlarge the house," mother said.

"Won't daddy stretch his eyes, though?" answered Ben.

Daddy did. "Two cats and a half-dozen kittens! Here a nice mix-up—look what old Colonel Hill sent Ben. Said he thought 'twould help console him."

Daddy raised the flap of his pocket. A black-and-tan head was poking out over the edge. There was a sharp bark, and quick as a wink a tiny fox terrier scrambled over into Ben's willing arms. There he sat erect and barked with might and main.

But the cats! With one bound old Tom was on top of the piano; Snowball and Ink disappeared under the sofa like two streaks of black and white; old Patches arched her back and bristled, while her four kittens went scrambling wildly up the lace curtains at the window. Such bristling and spitting and barking as never was seen or heard before!

Ben laughed until he could barely stand. "O, daddy, I'm having a shower, sure enough!" he cried. "And makes almost as much noise as a thunder shower, too."

Then, just as he was about to carry the little dog out of the room, he had a great surprise. Through the open door right into the midst of the barking dog and angry cats and kittens, came Fluff, walking briskly and purring loud with joy.

Ben dropped the dog and grabbed her. "It must have been another cat that was killed!" he cried. "O, how alive she is!"

That night it was hard to find sleeping places for all Ben's new family.

"Well," said his father when the last drowsy kitten had been tucked away, "it has rained cats and dogs sure enough this day."

"No, it wasn't a rain," said Ben, "it was my shower, and the best part of the shower was the last."—Eva O. B. Gilbert, in the Youth's Companion.

What Pleases Pets.

Love your pets and do not let them feel forgotten or neglected. After we have taught them to love us, we must be very good to them. A pet spaniel whose little mistress was sick for a long time began to be sick, too, and by and by they asked the doctor about it. He said: "Give it to somebody who can 'mother' it and cuddle it. The poor little thing is dying of lonesomeness." Talk to your canary. Say "Nice pussy!" whenever you pass the cat. Talk pains to say at least "Good dog!" when Roger wags his tail at you. He likes that better than a bone any day.—Exchange.

A Dangerous Practice.

BY A. T. POTTER.

Many children lose their lives each year from tetanus or lockjaw caused by stepping on the points of nails thoughtlessly left protruding from boards which are thrown down and left where barefoot children or children with worn thin shoe soles can step on them. It takes only a few moments to remove the nails from the boards. Better be safe than sorry.

Texas-Oklahoma Department

By C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

The Preacher.

BY C. R. N.

THE PREACHER AS A CITIZEN.

What should be the attitude of the preacher toward vice, ball games on Sunday, picture shows, the "blue laws," etc.?

The gospel obeyed will bring about the conditions the Lord would have prevail at all times and in all places. As a preacher, you meet and discharge the full measure of your duty when you preach the gospel. You should remember, though, there are those who are not preachers, and they as well as you sustain a relationship to the community in which you live and the country of which you are a citizen.

In many cities there is now an aggregation of men, composed of the pastors of the various churches of the town, called the "Pastors' Association." Membership in the "Pastors' Association" is not compulsory on the part of any pastor of the town.

There is a tendency on the part of some of these "Pastors' Associations" to develop into a dictatorial organization and demand certain legislation in their respective cities in the name of, or as, the "Pastors' Association."

Such is not the business of a gospel preacher. Do not misunderstand me. Your duty as a citizen, as well as your duty as a Christian, demands that you give the full weight of your influence against everything inimical to the civic righteousness of your country.

Is it not hard to get away from the idea that ministers belong to a special class—hard to get the minister, as well as the other members of the church, away from that idea? If as a teacher you recognize the minister as belonging to a separate class from the other church members, as a citizen he does not, nor should he feature his clergymanhood as the ground for prestige or special favors.

Preachers should ring foursquare on every issue.

Paul did not cease to be a Roman citizen when he became a minister, nor was he ashamed of his citizenship; and when his rights were not respected, he appealed to the civil law.

As a preacher, your duty is to preach the gospel. If you are a married man, there are obligations you must discharge in that relationship. Being a preacher does not increase your marital obligations, nor does it increase your moral obligations and responsibilities. Being a preacher does not increase your obligations as a citizen. Your relationship as a citizen is the same as that of any other law-abiding man. Your obligations are no greater because of the fact that you are a preacher.

As a citizen, let your value be measured by your intrinsic worth. Do not seek favors on the ground that you are a preacher, nor demand more at the hand of your fellows than any other citizen of first rank should expect.

Multum in Parvo.

BY B. L. WHITESIDE.

There is a difference between encouraging people for their good and flattering them for your gain.

Truthfulness and the party spirit cannot abide in the same house.

A party may be founded on a principle, but no principle has ever been found strong enough to control a party.

Some people use the Bible as a guide; others use it as a club to beat the other fellow over the head with.

When a young fellow begins to pick the Bible to pieces, it is a sure sign that he has become so smart that he ain't got no sense.

Some young church members chew wax while the older members chew the rag.

In the following sentence it makes little difference whether you put "man" or "balloon" in the blank space: "The fuller of gas a — is, the higher — will fly."

A preacher has tribulation when he strikes a place where the flies and mosquitoes work by shifts and the bedbugs come in as an extra crew.

When a young man goes to college and gets his head full of gas and thinks it is knowledge, the wise begin to hunt their gas masks.

Chinese Philosophy for the Young.

BY C. R. N.

Christians speak and think of the Chinese as a very ignorant people, and as a whole they are; but let us not forget that there are some wonderfully wise men among them, and they have said many things which reveal the fact that they are thoughtful. Read carefully, again and again, the following bits of philosophic teaching by the Chinese:

There are three things for a man to guard against:

1. The lust of the flesh in early life.
2. The spirit of combativeness in middle life.
3. Ambition as the years go on.

There are three things to command your reverence:

1. The ordinances of heaven.
2. Great men.
3. The words of the sages.

There are three times three things to be remembered:

1. To be clear in vision.
2. Quick in hearing.
3. Kind in expression.
4. Respectful in demeanor.
5. True in word.
6. Serious in duty.
7. Inquiring in doubt.
8. Self-controlled in anger.
9. Just and fair when the chair of success is before your door.

Remember that you are young. What thou dost know is not to be compared with what thou dost not know.

Take time to read the foregoing again. It will do you good. Ponder well each expression, and digest the advice.

Personal Notes.

C. W. Holley has located in Gainesville, Texas, and will labor with the church there for part of his time.

J. G. Allen reports the church in Muskogee, Okla., corner C Street, doing good work. John W. Hedge was with them recently in a series of meetings.

A. R. Holton, president of Thorp Spring Christian College, Thorp Spring, Texas, reports a splendid opening. They expect not less than two hundred students this year.

G. E. McCaleb, who labored for three years with the church in Madisonville, Texas, is now with the church in Trinity, Texas. W. P. Skaggs has located with the church in Madisonville.

R. D. Smith writes from Wichita Falls, Texas, October 2: "The meetings yesterday were good. There were six added to the congregation at the night service. Four were received by membership, one was restored, and one made the confession. There will be a meeting and baptizing to-night. During last week the church conducted meetings at the East Side Presbyterian Church in Wichita Falls. Next week we will hold meetings in Scotland Addition, on the north side of the city. Foy E. Wallace, Jr., will begin our meeting at the church, corner of Tenth and Austin Streets on the last Sunday in this month. We are expecting a good meeting. Our prayers are for all, and we ask yours also."

Is Your Blood Good or Thin and Watery?

You can tell by the way you feel. You need Hood's Sarsaparilla to make your blood rich, red and pure, tingling with health for every organ.

You need it if weak and tired day in and day out, if your appetite is poor, sleep unrefreshing, — for humors, boils, eruptions, scrofula, rheumatism, headaches, nervous prostration. It is simply wonderful to give strength to your whole body.

It is agreeable, pleasant and convenient to take, and embodies a long-tried and found-true formula.

Constipation

Relieved Without the Use of Laxatives

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe.

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it. Try it today.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

PILES CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or call without delay. Private reception rooms for ladies. Established since 1912. Free X-Ray examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Why Not Be Attractive

WHY PAY FANCY PRICES

When the finest Perumes, Cream Chocolates, Bon-Bons and Beauty Creams are easily made at home. Costs but few pennies to make. Send 25c for formula and great free Catalog. Address

THE AVION CO.,

6309 Yale Av., Dept. A. Chicago, Ill.

Eighteen Months in the Homeland.

BY SARAH ANDREWS.

The year and a half in the homeland has been very pleasantly and, I trust, profitably spent, and now I am at home with mother and father, making preparations to return to Japan. The Lord willing, I plan to leave here about the last of November, hoping to catch the boat leaving Seattle on December 24. My health has greatly improved since I reached Florida and have taken a much-needed rest.

Many have been the pleasures of my stay, some of which are a five-months' visit with loved ones here at Avon Park, a trip to Tennessee with Brother and Sister Bradley in their car, the visit at Dickson (our old home), greeting of old friends and making of new ones at several places in Alabama and Tennessee, the meeting with large concourses of people in worship, the year at David Lipscomb College and the very happy privilege of spending the school year in the home of Sister Lipscomb ("Aunt Mag"). Though I was not able to take as full advantage of the opportunity as I had hoped, I believe I go back to Japan better qualified to do more efficient work for the Master by having had the year in school and the splendid influence which the school and the neighborhood in general afford. I feel indebted to all who made the year there possible and pleasant for me, but wish to make special mention of the gift of Clarke's Commentaries (six volumes) and a copy of "Josephus," presented to me by a number of friends and students there.

But there is a call from the islands of the sea, and though it is hard indeed to leave loved ones and friends again, I rejoice to soon resume my labors among the Japanese. One ceases to think of sacrifice, as such, in whole-hearted service to others. With God's help, I hope to sow the seed in my God-given sphere as I have never done before, trusting God for a bountiful harvest.

Below are clippings from letters received during this year from my native helper, who, with the other Christians at Okitsu, has faithfully and earnestly carried forward the work during my absence:

The work is getting on nicely. The kindergarten children are all fine. Viscountess Matsudaira came to see the children and gave them cakes. Children are so glad, and we are glad, too, because children did so well in every way. Ishikawa San gave us a gray rabbit, and children love it, but it was taken in the night. We felt like crying. Fourteen children go to school from kindergarten this year, and I miss them, but have enrolled thirty-nine. (Several were refused on account of lack of room.) The Sunday school is fine, too. A hundred

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR—
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS

Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

There is Strength in Every Tablet of This Newer Form of Iron

One dose often helps commence to enrich your blood and revitalize your worn-out exhausted nerves—it is a newer form of iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach. It is so prepared that it will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. It is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood while some physicians claim metallic iron which people usually take is not absorbed at all. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of this newer form of iron—three times per day, after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

NOTE—The manufacturers of this newer form of iron known as Nuxated Iron are thoroughly reliable; since its introduction it has reached the stupendous sale of over 4,000,000 packages annually, and it has been used and highly recommended by former U.S. Senators, Members of Congress, Judges of U.S. Courts and many physicians. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater results than you expect from Nuxated Iron the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron has been used for years whenever needed in the family of the advertising representative of this paper with excellent results. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expected from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

Rupture Cured

In Thirty Days or No Pay

Write to-day for our GUARANTEED proposition and free copy of book describing this wonder treatment and record of marvelous results obtained. Just send your name and address to Dr. Andrews, 304 Koch Building, Kansas City, Mo.

YOU ARE WANTED for a GOOD POSITION at a BIG SALARY

All that you need is training. Draughon's Practical Business College will train you, at your home, within only a few months. This is the College that has trained more than 300,000 men and women for good positions. Ask for big book, "Guide to Business Success." It's FREE. Address DRAUGHON'S BUSINESS COLLEGE, Dept. GA, Nashville, Tenn.

I Cured My Fits

by simple discovery. Doctors gave me up, says Mrs. P. Gramm of 839 4th Street, Milwaukee, Wis. If you wish to try the same treatment I did, FREE, write to Mr. Lepso, Dept. 36 895 Island Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.

McShane Bell Foundry Co.
BALTIMORE, MD.
CHURCH, CHIME and PEAL
BELLS
Memorials a Specialty

cards are hardly enough for them. They are too many for me, but I will try to do my best. Children come regularly. I have great hope in Sunday school and kindergarten. Little boys' class is getting bigger and bigger. Now about twenty-five of them on Monday evenings. All are waiting to see you. Nobuyasu San said he will believe the Christ the Son of God. Tashiro San brought two of his friends to the Sunday-evening Bible study. His friends and Sato San study very earnestly. I hope they will understand Lord's words by the time you come back. We finished Mark last Sunday evening, and Fukushima San, the boy, says he believes the Christ is the Son of God, and he also believes he needs baptism for the remission of sins—not sprinkle, but immerse in water. I was so glad to hear that from his mouth, it seemed from his heart. I believe he will be ready by the time of your coming, for we are going to study Acts from next Sunday. Others are also very earnest to study Bible. I am sorry that you must leave dear ones soon, but there are many people wait you here to hear and learn the Lord's words from you. This is a hard country for the work, and I know it will be hard on you, but please bear that for the Lord's sake, and many, many people here in Japan need your help. Also please remember that there are people who will welcome you heartily, and I am surely one of them. Please do not work too much and come back to small Japanese house when the Lord allows you. I will pray for you all the time that God guide you and keep you well all through the journey. Brother Sato, seventy-three, comes often, and leads the service on Sunday. Ishikawa San and Tashiro San are earnest Christians and strong in faith. They come every Sunday for Lord's Supper. They will surely do great work for the Lord here. Young Christians want to do street preaching. I think they will, after you come back. I think we could do nice work here among young men, if we can have proper Japanese man worker—true worker; not for money, but who willing to do work for Christ. Asakura San [kindergarten teacher who helped in the work two years] has gone to her home in marriage. We had farewell meeting for her, and kindergarten gave her five yen and five yen from several members of the church [five dollars in all]. I had a card from Tezuka San's mother this morning telling that he died last August. I think he is in heaven with happiness, but am so sorry for his mother. [Brother Tezuka was baptized in February, 1920]. I have no one to help now in kindergarten, so I will do all and wait till you come. I am well, but tired. Everybody prays for you, and I believe you will, too, for us.

I can but fondly hope for great achievements in the Master's vineyard there, since I have the coöperation of Japanese Christians who, so soon after coming out of heathenism, were able to carry the work forward so nobly for a period of almost two years independent of help from any missionary.

The Hot-Weather Test makes people better acquainted with their resources of strength and endurance. Many find they need Hood's Sarsaparilla, which invigorates the blood, promotes refreshing sleep, and overcomes that tired feeling.

DR. ANDERSON'S TESTIMONY

Noel, Va., February, 1922.

On October 30, 1912, I went to the Kellam Hospital, Richmond, Va., suffering with a cancer of the right cheek, which was completely cured. I was under treatment five weeks. At this writing it has been nine years and four months since I was cured, and not the slightest indication of return has been felt or seen.

I have sent the following persons to the Hospital, who were all cured and returned home:

Mrs. James A. Holmes, cancer of the nose (1910). She was then fifty-five years old, and is still living and well.

Mr. John P. Montgomery, cancer of the lower lip (1912). He was sixty-five years old; is living and well.

Mrs. Richard Moore, cancer of the breast (1920). She is entirely well; forty-five years of age.

Mr. Elisha Jackson, cancer from right ear more than half around the back of head. He was entirely cured; sixty-nine years of age.

Mrs. Harry Duke, cancer on right temple, which involved the temple bone. The temple bone was also removed without the use of the knife. She has been cured (1922).

There are many others from my county who I know have been cured. I have visited the Kellam Hospital frequently since I was cured there, visiting the dressing rooms, and seen all kinds of cancers of the face, neck, breast, back, body, and womb. I saw many cases cured while there and since, of the gravest nature. The whole breast was taken off, leaving a clean surface of at least ten inches in diameter, and the flesh and skin was grown back, with hardly a scar visible. Some had the superior maxillary bones taken out, and many other unbelievable things unless you were to see them.

I am glad I know the Kellams and what they are doing for mankind in curing cancers. I consider Kellam treatment the only one worth using in cancerous troubles.

Yours very truly,

H. B. ANDERSON, M.D.,

Health Officer of Hanover County, Va.

$362.50 Commission On One Order

We offer a very attractive commission proposition to responsible men selling our line of guaranteed monuments, in Marble and Granite. On one deal our Mr. Fuller of North Carolina, made $362.50; Mr. Bryan of West Virginia, $206.25; Mr. Duncan, of Tennessee, $193.25; Mr. Willard, of Illinois, $131.25. These commissions have all been earned within the last 60 days. We have many other agents making from $200.00 to $400.00 per month.

Our monuments are well finished. No trouble to sell. Write for full particulars and confidential contract.

National Marble & Granite Corporation
Dept. A., BALL GROUND, GA.

In answering advertisements, please mention this paper.

Renew your health
by purifying your system with

The purified and refined
calomel tablets that are free
from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel
and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c
and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

DANDRUFF
QUICKLY DISAPPEARS WHEN
Tetterine

Is Applied. Fragrant and Soothing.
60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-
TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

JACOBS
&
COMPANY
SPECIAL ADVERTISING
AGENTS
PRINTERS DESIGNERS
PHOTOGRAPHERS
ELECTROTYPERS
Catalogues
— a Specialty —
CLINTON, S. C.

Let Cuticura Be Your Beauty Doctor

Soap, Ointment, Tablets, etc., everywhere. For samples address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

As to Preaching the Gospel.

BY S. R. DRAKE.

Dear Brother McQuiddy: Glad to have your reply to my questions of July 31, 1922, in the August 10 issue of the Gospel Advocate. Thanks.

I wish to state, first of all, that your article in the Advocate of July 27 was very satisfactory to me, except the two sentences upon which I based my questions: "The difference is not in the word, but in the soil. God himself does not expect to make saints out of dishonest people." It seemed to me that these two sentences limited God's purpose and willingness to make Christians or saints out of dishonest people; but in your answer I think I understand your meaning better, when in your reply you state: "I preach the gospel to people who are dishonest to make them honest. When they become honest, they may soon be led to Christ; but as long as they remain dishonest, there is no hope for them."

In reading your answer, my mind reverted to Jesus' explanation of the parable of which he said: "The seed is the word of God." (Luke 8: 11.) The gospel you preach to make people honest is called the "incorruptible" seed—"the word of God, which liveth and abideth forever." (1 Pet. 1: 23.) By preaching this gospel you hope some at least will become Christians and saints. This is the purpose and object of your preaching.

This brings me to some other questions I had in mind, and which I have thought much about of late—namely, the preparation of the soil, when to sow the seed, what to preach, and how to preach.

We have the four kinds of soil, or hearers, to deal with. It matters not whether we preach from the pulpit or through the printed page, we should guard with care the kind of seed we sow—when and how to sow it. The prophet Jeremiah (4: 3) said: "For thus saith the Lord to the men of Judah and Jerusalem, Break up your fallow ground, and sow not among thorns"—and we might say with equal propriety, "sow not thorn seeds." "Sow to yourselves in righteousness, reap in mercy; break up your fallow ground: for it is time to seek the Lord, till he come and rain righteousness upon you." (Hos. 10: 12.)

It is true that the general effects produced by the preaching of the gospel depend very much upon the character of the hearer—the soil—the nature and condition of the heart. The admonition of the Savior, "Take heed therefore how ye hear," suggests the habit of profitable hearing. (Luke 8: 18.) Blessed are the eyes that see, and the ears that hear; prophets and righteous men had longed to see and

Dodson's Liver Tone

Instead of Calomel

Calomel is quicksilver. It attacks the bones and paralyzes the liver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it will regulate the liver, stomach, and bowels better than calomel, without sickening or salivating you. Fifteen million bottles sold.

SUFFERING?

Most of the pain we suffer is unnecessary. Why continue to endure it—to sacrifice your youth, beauty, and enjoyment to it?

The combination of simple harmless medicines found in Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills is especially effective in relieving pain without bad after-effects.

For more than thirty-five years sufferers from headache, neuralgia, backache, toothache, sciatica and pains from other causes have found relief by taking these pills.

Why don't you try them?

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST

PIANOS AND VICTROLAS

Sold for Cash or on Easy Payments

M. F. SHEA

305 Fifth Avenue, North
NASHVILLE, TENN.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling—
Restores Color and
Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Cal-
louses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

hear the gospel story Jesus came to tell. (See Matt. 13: 16, 17.) The soil can be made better by the manner of preaching. Using a figure of speech, the soil needs fertilizing, sterilizing, and cultivating.

The habit of attentive hearing and the manner and method of preaching will depend very largely as to results. No hope for the man whose heart remains dishonest, obdurate, and unrepentant. The only standard of honesty is found in the teaching of Christ and the apostles. God is really the only judge of the human heart. (1 Sam. 16: 7; 1 Chron. 28: 9; Jer. 11: 20.)

[I am glad to publish this. It would have been published earlier but for the fact that I was away from home when it came.—J. C. McQ.]

Words of Appreciation.

BY MRS. S. M. SPEARS.

Words fail to express our appreciation of what has been and is being done for us. From the beginning of Mr. Spears' illness, which was early in the spring, the Twelfth Avenue church of Christ, of Nashville, Tenn., with which we have made our home for the past year, has stood by us and cared for us as a brother in the flesh would care for another. This church gave the check that enabled Mr. Spears to make the trip to Northwest Texas, where he has gone hoping to regain his health. Others have also helped us, which has enabled us to pay some of our debts. We have always had to make debts during the winter and spring months since Mr. Spears has been giving all his time to the study and preaching of the word. Since the beginning of his ministry our motto has been: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added." How well we have lived up to it we leave for others to say. While we have never been blessed with much of this world's goods, we have been cared for by our Father through his children, for which we thank and praise him through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Selections.

Faith is not a way of talking, but a way of walking. It is not a problem to answer, but a path to follow. It is the habitual loyalty of a disciplined life to a living and loving God.

We desire our life to be a life of freedom, a life of noble service, a life of glad and happy labor for that which is highest and best. There is only one way to make it so, and that is to live it under the controlling power of the great price that has been paid for us.

SEND US YOUR ORDERS FOR

SILKS, SUITS, COATS, AND DRESSES

Timothy Dry Goods
and Carpet Co.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

We will send you samples. We will quote you prices. We will sell you only Reliable Rugs, Art Squares, and Linoleums.

YARD-WIDE SATINS AND TAFFETAS

All Colors—$1.50

CANTON CREPES
All Colors

$2.00 to $3.50

HARDEMAN'S TABERNACLE SERMONS

A series of evangelistic sermons preached by N. B. Hardeman during the Great Nashville Meeting, held in the Ryman Auditorium, March 28-April 16. These sermons ring true to the Old Book, and have a charm of style and freshness of illustration that put them in a class by themselves.

All the profits derived from the sale of these books will be used to create a fund to help poor boys and girls attend
Freed-Hardeman College.

The book contains 287 pages, with pictures of Hardeman, Pullias, and the audience, a history of the meeting, twenty-two sermons, and an address delivered by Brother Pullias
before the Exchange Club.

Bound in cloth, stamped in gold. Price, $1.50.

Send all orders to N. B. HARDEMAN, Henderson, Tenn.

BUY 25 POUND FEATHER BED $7.95

30 lb. bed $8.95. One pair 6 lb. pillows, $1.95. All new feathers, odorless, and dustless, best eight ounce ticking. MAIL ORDER TODAY or WRITE for Free Catalog of Iron Beds, Springs, Mattresses, Rugs, Blankets, Spreads, Window Curtains, Pound Remnants, etc. $1,000.00 deposited with Charlotte Bank & Trust Co., guaranteeing satisfaction or money back.

SANITARY BEDDING COMPANY, Dept. L CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Field Reports

Bowling Green, Ky., October 4.—The meeting on Jennings' Creek, at Beech Grove, was a good one, and closed with six baptisms. Since then I have been in a meeting at Polkville, Ky., twelve miles from this place. It was during this meeting that I baptized at one service a boy, fourteen years of age; his father, forty; and his grandfather, seventy-three. I had never seen such an occasion until then. The next meeting in which I am to labor will be with the Chapel Avenue congregation, in Nashville, Tenn. I am to reach that place on the evening of October 16.—M. L. Moore.

Springfield, Mo., October 2.—I have recently returned home from a very enjoyable trip to Tennessee. On this trip I paid a very brief visit to my mother's home in Pulaski, also assisted in two meetings. The first was with the South Columbia Church, with large crowds and two added to the one body. Brethren Sowell, Morton, and Largen were with me part of the time. The second meeting was with the brethren at Culleoka. This meeting followed a big union meeting held by the different churches of the community. Religious feeling was considerably aroused and we had a most excellent meeting, with eight added. Prejudice is a great hindrance in Culleoka. Brethren from all the near-by congregations attended this meeting and aided much. The work here is very encouraging along all lines.—J. W. Brents.

Huntsville, Ala., October 2.—The meeting with the Central church of Christ in Huntsville is in the second week, with fine interest, excellent attention, and good crowds, which are growing at each service. The brethren report that the crowd last night was the largest seen in the house for many years. Everybody is delighted with the outlook and hoping for good results. There have been two baptisms and two added by letter. There seems to be brighter and better days before the church here, which has been torn with dissensions and divisions in the past. Peace, harmony, and brotherly love are predominant now, and a successful future seems to be the outlook of the congregation. Under the efficient leadership of Brother T. B. Thompson, who is held in very high esteem by the entire church, the church has taken on new life and is doing a fine work. I have yet two other meetings to hold before the year's work in protracted effort is finished—one in Selma and one in North Birmingham. I have calls for two debates, to take place as soon as they can be conveniently arranged—one with the Seventh-Day Adventists and one with the Second Adventists. The

MURINE
FOR YOUR EYES

Night and Morning.
Have Strong, Healthy
Eyes. If they Tired, Itch,
Smart or Burn, if Sore,
Irritated, Inflamed or Granulated, use Murine often. Soothes, Refreshes. Safe for Infant or Adult. At all Druggists. Write for Free Eye Book. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

time and place for each of these debates will be published in the papers in due time to give all an opportunity to get ready to attend who may wish to do so. Pray for me, brethren, that the Lord may use me to his glory and the advancement of the truth.—I. B. Bradley.

BOILS

Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

Homes Furnished Complete
Terms to Suit Everybody
TELEPHONE, MAIN 1096

HILARY E. HOWSE

FURNITURE, CARPETS
STOVES AND RANGES

We Exchange Furniture as Part Payment
304-306-308 BROADWAY
105-107-109 THIRD AVE., N.

Keep Stomach and Bowels Right

By giving baby the harmless, purely vegetable, infants' and children's regulator.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

brings astonishing, gratifying results in making baby's stomach digest food and bowels move as they should at teething time. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Safe and satisfactory.

At All Druggists

MOTHER!

Your Child's Bowels Need
"California Fig Syrup"

Hurry, mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup," and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful to-day may prevent a sick child to-morrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful; has cold, colic; or if the stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother! You must say "California," or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

BOOK OF COMFORT

Specially designed gift for the bereaved. Contains choicest gems of comfort from greatest writers. Each selection a masterpiece. Memorial record page for the deceased. Beautifully decorated. Flowers fade, but "consolation" may be cherished for years. Price $2.00, postpaid. Send to McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

The Door of Opportunity

will open to you when you open the door of our Savings Bank and deposit your first dollar to save. Rockefeller said his first thousand dollars were the hardest to get, but after he had saved them all the rest were comparatively easy. Begin saving for that first thousand right now.

4% Paid on Savings

Broadway National Bank

Corner Broadway and Third Avenue
A. E. POTTER, President

Obituaries

PROFFITT

N. W. Proffitt was born in Monroe county, Ky., on August 16, 1858. He obeyed the gospel at the age of nineteen, at Summer Shade, Ky. He was married to Miss M. J. Strickler in 1879. To this union one child was born—Walter B. Proffitt. The mother died a few hours after his birth. In 1882 he was married to Miss Zona Strickler. To this union six children were born. Five children, fifteen grandchildren, one great-grandchild, an aged father, six brothers, and two sisters survive him. Brother Proffitt had been preaching for thirty-five years. He has been doing regular evangelistic work for thirty-three years. His work was done principally in Kentucky and Tennessee. Eleven years ago he came to Texas, and has done much work in Texas, Oklahoma, and Arkansas, also spending a part of each year in Tennessee and Kentucky preaching the word. His sickness lasted through a period of ten months. He died on July 11, 1922, near the age of sixty-four years. He was buried near Paris, Texas, in the Union Grove Cemetery, beside a little grandchild. He was loved and respected by all who knew him. He held important places as a citizen in his community. Brother Young, Brother Smith, and Brother Garrett spoke at his funeral. We believe that he did his part well, and has entered into the "eternal tabernacles."

LEE GARRETT.

Scrofula Most Progressive Now.

Sudden changes of weather are especially trying, and probably to none more so than to the scrofulous and consumptive.

The progress of scrofula during a normal autumn is commonly great.

It is probable that few people ever think of scrofula—its bunches, eruptions, and wasting of the body—without thinking of the benefit many sufferers from it have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla, whose success in the treatment of this one disease alone would be enough to make it what it is—one of the most famous medicines in the world.

There is probably not a city or town where Hood's Sarsaparilla has not proved its merits in more homes than one, in arresting and completely eradicating scrofula, which is almost as serious and as much to be feared as its near relative—consumption.

Hood's Pills, the cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla, in cases where one is necessary, are gentle in action and thorough in effect.

Words of Wisdom.

The greatest need of the world is the resurrection of the spiritual life.—The Christian Work.

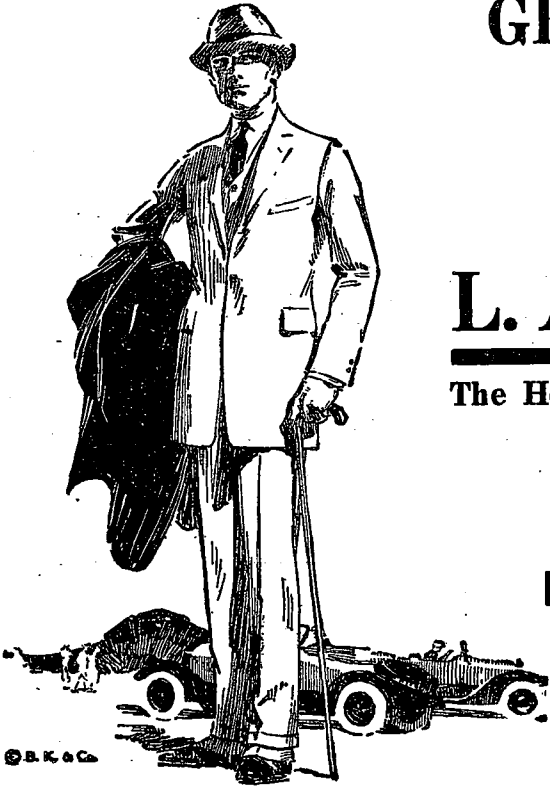

Discontent is not new and is but the growing pains.—Dr. Charles P. Marshall.

The Christian religion must claim and save the new world.—The Churchman.

Industry must be regarded as primarily a national service.—Archibald Ramage.

In religion, worship does not come first; brotherliness comes first.—Dr. Charles E. Jefferson.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPIING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

© K. & C.

GEORGE H. PORCH

WITH

L. A. BAUMAN CO.

The House of Kuppenheimer Good Clothes

417-19 Church Street
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

"Men's Wear That Men Wear"

MRS. C. C. OLDHAM

A Healthy Woman is Always Beautiful In The Eyes of Man

Lexington, Ky.—"During the time of middle life I used Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I cannot praise it too highly for the good it did me. I believe the Favorite Prescription is bound to become a favorite remedy with each woman who gives it a fair trial. I have also used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for stomach trouble and for colds, etc., and I believe it to be the best general tonic that can be had."—Mrs. C. C. Oldham, 553 Breckenridge Street.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has made many women happy by making them healthy. Get it at once from your nearest druggist, in either liquid or tablet form. Write Dr. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free, confidential medical advice.

TETTERINE

Clears Baby's Skin

and drives off the rash and pimples. Harmless. Soothing. Fragrant.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

25c AND 75c PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

"Walk by Faith."

BY J. OSCAR PAISLEY.

We hear many things said about faith, such as "saved by faith," "justified by faith," "children of God by faith," all of which are as true as anything ever spoken by Almighty God; but seldom, if ever, do we hear such teaching as "walking by faith," as found in 2 Cor. 5: 7, or being "faithful unto death," as in Rev. 2: 10.

Why is this? Is it because such preachers and teachers have never learned that 2 Cor. 5: 7 and Rev. 2: 10 are in the Bible? I would not charge them with such gross ignorance in this land of Bibles. It is nothing short of courting a world of carnality. Carnality is enmity against God (Rom. 8: 7), and pleads with the sons and daughters of men to do just as little of what God tells them to do as possible, but to do as the up-to-date merchant—handle the goods the public demands, that will bring the most customers and the biggest profits. In order to gain a popular name in the world, many teach man that he has not one thing to do for his salvation, but that he is saved the very moment he believes, and eternally saved, for the world does not want to entertain the idea of walking by faith.

What is it to walk by faith? Faith comes by hearing God's word. (Rom. 10: 17.) God spoke in time past to man by his prophets, and speaks to us to-day by his Son. (Heb. 1: 1-4.) We hear, believe all he says, and act in obedience to what he says. We walk by faith, are justified by faith, and are children of God by faith; for he points us to heaven and heavenly things and all that heaven means, unseen by mortal eye, of which faith in his word produces a hope, and is the substance and evidence of the same. (Heb. 11: 1.)

Faith being the foundation upon which to build a Christian life, when used in that way, is nothing short of the divine injunction to "walk by faith, not by sight," which is believing God, taking him at his word, and acting according to the commands given in the Sacred Volume, without addition, subtraction, or modification, and leaving the results with Jehovah, counting him to be faithful who has promised. So when God commands us, upon hearing him, to believe his word (John 8: 24; Heb. 11: 6); to repent of all our sins (Luke 13: 3; 2 Cor. 7: 9, 10; Acts 17: 30); to confess the name of Christ with the mouth before men (Rom. 10: 9, 10; Matt. 10: 32); and to be baptized into his death (Rom. 6: 3-5), into the sacred name of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, giving clearly in the same commands the reward he has in store

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds Headache
Toothache Lumbago
Earache Rheumatism
Neuralgia Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

THE B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.

We are preparing our mailing list for our New Catalogue. If you are interested in a free copy, write us.

B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.

CHURCH STREET

Nashville, Tennessee

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, back-aches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

CANCERS CURED AT THE KELLAM HOSPITAL

The Kellam Hospital cures ALL Tumors, Ulcers, X-Ray Burns, and Sores without the use of the knife. Radium, Acids, or Serum, and have cured over 90 per cent of the LAST hundreds of sufferers treated during the past twenty-three years. Ministers treated free.

KELLAM HOSPITAL, Inc.

1617 West Main St.

Richmond, Va.

CANCER

HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium, and X-Ray unnecessary. Book-let giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

for the obedient and the condemnation that awaits all those who are disobedient, and we obey his will, trusting him with the results that we see not now, we are walking "by faith, not by sight" (2 Cor. 5: 7). So, being led thus far by the Spirit of God, we are the sons of God. (Rom. 8: 14.)

Since the word "walk" suggests the idea of advancing from one state or place to another, when God commands and we obey, we advance onward and upward "toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus" (Phil. 3: 13, 14); but if we refuse to obey, we are sure to meet with the punishment inflicted on all the disobedient by the God of heaven. Hence, let us ever be mindful of the sacredness of keeping God's word in all things, taking for examples such great, noble, God-fearing men as Noah, Enoch, Elijah, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Let us move as God speaks, take him at his word, believe all he says, practice it in our lives, ever "looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith," hoping to attain the things God has in store for the faithful. This is walking by faith.

But some one will say that Paul says (Rom. 4: 4, 5) that justification is not of works, but of grace; if by works, it is of debt; but it is to him that worketh not. Yes, he does; but he was speaking of the works of the law of Moses. In Rom. 3: 28 he says: "Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law." Again, in Gal. 2: 16, he says: "A man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ." In Rom. 10: 1-3, the Jews were very zealous toward God, but not according to knowledge, and, being ignorant of God's righteousness, went about to establish their own righteousness. If God did not approve of such in them, in their ignorance, what will be the consequences toward those who teach and practice such to-day, when they know better, or have a chance to know what God says? (See Heb. 10: 23-31; 1 Cor. 10: 11, 12; Rom. 15: 4.)

Let me suggest that there is not one thing we can do in obedience to God that could purchase our salvation. God would be just as pure, holy, righteous, loving, and merciful without our doing one thing as he would otherwise. All we are commanded to do is to love God, and not to benefit God. Therefore, our salvation is a free gift by grace, through faith; but it is on conditions.

Let me illustrate. Suppose Henry Ford should notify me that he had put one million dollars in bank for me on the condition that I go before night and have my name registered in the bank book. Could I run fast enough or work hard enough in complying with these conditions to purchase that million dollars? All I would do would be for myself; it is a free gift by his grace (or favor) to me; and upon my faithful obedience to the end the million dollars is mine. I believed it all the time till I received it, then it became knowledge. Faith is lost in sight. I walked by faith to the bank, then a reward at the end of my faith. (1 Pet. 1: 9.) We agree on things temporal thus far. But suppose I should reason about it this way: "I know what Mr. Ford said about the conditions upon which I am to get the money, but there is no use in my going through the heat down to the bank. That is a nonessential. I have a telephone, and I shall call up the bank and ask that my name be registered there and my money sent to me."

Could I get the money that way? You say: "No, no." And yet there are thousands of people to-day, who will continually cry "nonessential" to the conditions of salvation and will not do a thing but fall to their knees and call up the Great Bank of the Heavenly King and ask that their names be registered in the Lamb's book of life and their reward (the salvation of their souls) be sent to them direct, regardless of the conditions. Will they get what they ask? Never. John said: "Whatsoever we ask, we receive of him because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight." (1 John 3: 22.)

What is the matter? They will not endure sound doctrine. (1 Tim. 4: 1-4.) The old Jerusalem pattern is too old. Brethren, let us ever be watchful to follow the old paths; then we can say we are saved by faith, justified by faith, and children of God by faith. "Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city." (Rev. 22: 14.)

RENWAR VS. RHEUMATISM.

It is certainly a pity that so many people suffer year after year the intense pains of rheumatism when it can be so easily expelled from the system by the simple treatment of taking Renwar Rheumatic Salts. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood; and in order to effect a complete cure, it is necessary to entirely eliminate this acid from the blood. Renwar is guaranteed to relieve, or your money refunded. It contains no injurious drugs. It is the one sure remedy, and it does not in the slightest degree injure the stomach or affect the heart. Mr. Joseph L. Boehmer says: "One 50c bottle has done me more good than all sanatorium treatments; and what it did for me, why should it not do the same for others? Should any one doubt the virtue of Renwar and the certainty of curing this malady, refer them to me." For sale by druggists; price, 50c; or by mail on receipt of price from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

GIRL NOW WELL AND STRONG

Daughter Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as Mother Advised

Wauseon, Ohio.—"My daughter always had backache and leg-ache at certain periods and could not be on her feet at those times. We read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound doing girls so much good so she began to take it. That is two years ago and she is a different girl since then able to do any work she wants to do—although she is still careful not to do heavy work—and so well and strong. We recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers with ailing daughters, and I give you permission to publish this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. A. M. BURKHOLDER, Route No. 2, Box 1, Wauseon, Ohio.

Something out of balance will affect the finest clock, causing it to gain or lose. The proper adjustment made, all is well. So it is with women. Some trouble may upset you completely.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct the cause of the trouble and disagreeable symptoms will disappear as they did in the case of Mrs. Burkholder's daughter.

MOTHERS — it is worthy of your confidence.

The Plum Street Church of Christ, Detroit, Mich.,

Now meets in its new building, corner Hamilton Boulevard and Tuxedo Avenue. Visiting brethren welcome.

New York City Church of Christ

239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M., Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6857.

TETTERINE

Makes hair beautiful, free from dandruff, and keeps the scalp healthy.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TEINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

SOLD 50 YEARS
A FINE GENERAL TONIC

Castner's Semiannual Profit-Sharing Sale

EXCEPTIONAL VALUES

IN EVERY DEPARTMENT

BEGINS

MONDAY, OCTOBER 16

ADVANCE SELECTION DAYS

OCTOBER 12, 13, 14

PROFIT-SHARING MEANS

You receive your share of profits in reduced prices, the sales people receive their share from sales made, and Castner's share by the increased volume of business such low prices will create.

THE ONE REALLY BIG SALE OF THE YEAR

Plan to be in Nashville MONDAY, OCTOBER 16, the opening day of this great sale. Read the Banner of Sunday, October 15—a full eight-page section of the most remarkable values ever offered—and see the great SHOPPING GUIDE TO VALUES on back page of the Tennessean of Sunday, October 15.

The CASTNER-KNOTT DRY GOODS CO.

"The Best Place to Shop After All"

ON CHURCH STREET

Seventh Avenue to Capitol Boulevard

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Gospel Advocate

Volume LXIV. No. 42.

NASHVILLE, TENN., OCTOBER 19, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

"Instruments of Music in the Service of God".....	985
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	986
The Drive Driven—A Criticism of "Sunday Schools" —"Hot Shot" Warmed Over—That Convention
Again—Diotrephes and Moses.....	992
EVANGELISTIC NOTES.....	992
EDITORIAL.....	994
More of the New Testament Sense of the Term
"Church"—Sinning Against the Holy Spirit—The "Sunday School".....	997
"Lost in Transit".....	998
HOME READING.....	998
QUERY DEPARTMENT.....	999
FIELD REPORTS.....	1000
OBITUARIES.....	1002
Goodrich—Tooley—Arrington—Foster—Poe—Kilgore
—Williams.....	1004
"My Cup Runneth Over".....	1005
Meeting at Liberty, Ark.....	1006
An Urgent Appeal for Mission Fund.....	1007
The Popular Preacher.....	1007
New York City Mission.....	1008

"Instruments of Music in the Service of God."

[The following from the pen of Brother D. Lipscomb will be read with interest just now. It was published in the Gospel Advocate in 1901.—H. Leo B.]

It seems there cannot be a doubt but that the use of instrumental music in connection with the worship of God, whether used as a part of the worship or as an attractive accompaniment, is unauthorized by God and violates the oft-repeated prohibition to add nothing to, take nothing from, the commandments of the Lord. It destroys the difference between the clean and the unclean, the holy and the unholy, counts the blood of the Son of God unclean, and tramples under foot the authority of the Son of God. A Christian loyal and true to the Lord Jesus Christ cannot do this, nor in any way countenance the setting aside the order of God by adding to or taking from his appointments, even in the smallest matters, as washing of hands, while forbearance and love should be exercised in showing them the error of their way. When the church determines to introduce a service not required by God, he who believes it wrong is compelled to refuse in any way to countenance or affiliate with the wrong. To do so is to commit a double sin. It is to sin against God and their own consciences and to encourage by example others to violate their consciences and the law of God; it is to lower the standard of regard for right. It is generally insisted that the peace of the congregation should not be disturbed by as small a matter as the use of instruments. The test of a congregation of Christ is: It recognizes God as the only Lawgiver. It serves God alone. When it consciously changes the smallest appointment of God, it dethrones God as the only Lawmaker and ceases to be a church of God. The test of personal discipleship to God is: That in all matters in which God has given order we will do what God commands, adding nothing thereto, taking nothing therefrom. To add as simple and harmless a thing as the washing the hands as religious service before eating destroys discipleship to Christ. (Matt. 15: 5-15.)

"Whoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, shall be called least in the kingdom of heaven: but whosoever shall do and teach them, he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven." (Matt. 5: 19.) "He that is faithful in a very little is faithful also in much: and he that is unrighteous in a very little is unrighteous also in much." (Luke 16:

10.) Our fidelity to God is tested as easily in little things as in great ones; rather, nothing is little where God's authority is at stake. Witness the sin of our first parents. Paul kept a good conscience in all things; so God honored him and chose him to be the great apostle to the Gentiles.

Sometimes when a part of a church insists on and adopts the wrong, had I not better yield than to create division in the church? A church that requires disobedience to God to maintain peace in it is already an apostate church; it has rejected God as its only Ruler. While forbearance and love should be exercised in seeking to show them the right and persuading them to do it, it is sinful to so affiliate with them as to encourage and build up a church that is going wrong. It is a greater sin for those who know it is wrong who yield to and go with those in the wrong than for those who think it right, because those who know it wrong sin against light and knowledge. The greater sinners in every congregation that departs from God's order in these things are those who know the wrongs, yet remain with and build up the congregations that practice the wrongs. "That servant, who knew his lord's will, and made not ready, nor did according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes; but he that knew not, and did things worthy of stripes, shall be beaten with few stripes." (Luke 12: 47, 48.) There can be no doubt that those who cling to the church and build it up, knowing that it is maintaining practices contrary to the word of God, are worse sinners before God than those who introduce them believing they are right.

Often our lifelong friends and associates are in the church, our children and grandchildren are there, our brothers and sisters. Shall I leave them or remain with them? To leave them is to bear our testimony to them for the truth and to warn them there is danger and ruin in departing from the law of God; to go with them is to affiliate with and build up the wrong and to encourage them in the way that leads to ruin; to depart from the order of God to go with them is to love friends, father, mother, brothers, and sisters more than God. "He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me: and he that loveth son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me." (Matt. 10: 37.) "If any man cometh unto me, and hateth not his own father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple." These mean that a man must be willing to separate from and give up all to be true to Christ. True love to these friends and ourselves demands the same course. There is no real kindness in going with them in wrong courses and encouraging them in setting aside the law of God; it only helps them forward to ruin. Love is the fulfilling of the law. True love to every creature in the universe is perfected and manifested in doing the will of God. That is love to God, and love to God is love, the only true love, to every being in the universe of God; and be sure God is not pleased when his children violate his law to preserve standing in and harmony with a church setting aside his order.

Then my faith is that it is the duty of those who believe a church sets aside the order of God to strive to correct that wrong, to be patient and forbearing in it; and if they fail in this, to withdraw and at once go actively to work to form a true church and observe the true service of God.

If they quit work because some have gone wrong, they will die and the cause of truth will perish in their midst. Go to work to maintain the truth of God and to induce others to accept it, and God will bless you. "I call heaven and earth to witness against you this day, that I have set before thee life and death, the blessing and the curse: therefore choose life, that thou mayest live, thou and thy seed; to love Jehovah thy God, to obey his voice, and to cleave unto him; for he is thy life." (Deut. 30: 19, 20.)

Gospel Advocate Company.

BY H. LEO B.

Every home ought to have many good books in it. New books of great value should be added to the home library and the young people should be encouraged to read wholesome literature. The Gospel Advocate Company will help you to select just such books as will be a blessing to your home.

"Center Shots at Sin." By Arthur Talmage Abernethy. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

An arsenal of religious ammunition, assembled by a strategist experienced in fighting uphill. The author is a strong and virile thinker; his style, clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eye-opener.

"The Glorious Gospel." By Adam K. Adcock. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

"No one except a thorough and devout student of the Scriptures could have written 'The Glorious Gospel.' The author shows excellent analytic and synthetic power and knowledge in the selection and organization of the biblical teaching on the various subjects treated." (Christian Journal.)

"Sermons for the People." By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

Few books of sermons combine the qualities of interest, instruction, and inspiration to the degree in which they are united in this volume. The author is a master in the field of popular sermonizing, and some of his best work is to be found in this collection. There is not a dull page in the book. The text fairly sparkles with original and apt narratives.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume I. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

The gospel is always attractive when presented by W. H. Book. These sermons were not written in a study, but were stenographically reported as the burning words were uttered by the master preacher, under the inspiration of the great audience which flocks to hear him every week.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume II. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

A companion volume to the author's first book of sermons. Reported in the same way and published because of the unusual demand the first volume created.

"The Indiana Pulpit." Edited by W. H. Cook. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

This series of twenty-two practical sermons, each discourse being the best one preached by as many leading Indiana preachers, presents vital Christianity in a most attractive way. "The Indiana Pulpit" will be especially helpful to young preachers. The topics are varied and the discourses are from men of learning and experience. It will make each who reads it better, and it will strengthen the faith of all who carefully peruse its pages." (George A. Miller.)

"Lights on Scripture Truths." (Former title, "Side Windows.") By Mattie M. Boteler. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.

A valuable ready-reference compendium of original, forceful and apt illustrations for the busy preacher, Sunday-school teacher, and religious worker. The striking originality and practical usefulness of each illustration puts this volume in a class all by itself. A carefully prepared topical index and alphabetically arranged table of contents, add greatly to its usefulness. Its distinct value is that the author has followed the example of the great Teacher in illustrating profound truths by examples familiar to all. "I found one illustration that was well worth the price of the book." (S. M. Bernard.)

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Our Contributors

The Drive Driven.

BY A. B. BARRET.

Sometime ago I called attention to the fact that the "digressives" of West Tennessee had reorganized, in the form of a Pastors' Association, for the purpose of putting on a great drive to establish "progressive Christian" churches throughout that section of the State. We found from newspaper reports that it was their intention to make "Covington the center of the drive." The following clipping, taken from the Covington Leader, indicates what has been accomplished at the "center" of the drive, and is suggestive of a few observations which I wish to make:

The Christian protracted meeting, which has been in progress here under a large canvas tent for more than four weeks, will close with the service next Sunday night, when Evangelist J. E. Raum will deliver a sermon on "Christ and Pilate; or, What Shall I Do with Jesus?"

The purpose of the meeting to organize a progressive Christian church has already been realized, and the officers of the new congregation will be elected Sunday. Sunday morning the Sunday school, which will have a membership of about one hundred persons, will be organized. Friday afternoon a conference of all Christian members in West Tennessee will be held, at which time the matter of locating a place of worship will be determined.

At the beginning of the meeting the possibility of organizing a new church in Covington seemed doubtful, but it has been accomplished with complete satisfaction to Evangelist Raum. It is probable that the new congregation will have a membership of one hundred people in the beginning. Members have come forward from various sources, some by conversion during the meeting and others from different denominations, who came voluntarily to unite with the new church.

Friday night Mr. Raum has selected as his subject, "Religious Reformations;" Saturday night, "Last Opportunities;" Sunday morning, "What Must a Christian Do to Be Saved?" Sunday afternoon Prof. C. B. Clark, director of music, will deliver a lecture at three o'clock.

Miss Junia Sells, of Newark, Ohio, joined the evangelistic company Sunday. She is a contralto singer and a pianist of exceptional ability. The music is a feature of every service.

It is planned to hold the customary baptismal service Sunday afternoon at some place near this city. The exact number to be baptized will not be known until the end of the week.

Large delegations from the churches of neighboring towns and cities continue to attend the meeting. Not a few people from the country are also attending the services with increasing interest. On Sunday night, when the last service will be held, a record crowd is expected, and arrangements will be made to seat everybody comfortably.

Professor Clark and Miss Sells will render special music at each service aside from the congregational singing.

"Christian meeting!" I wonder! What does it take to make a meeting a "Christian meeting?" If making up a cheap sort of opera troupe to furnish the music, vocal and instrumental, with soloist and pianist, making it a feature of every service; if representing a religious movement that sustains no actual relation to the work of the Lord—a movement that fosters the spirit of innovation, a departure from the faith, higher criticism; Darwinism, evolution, baby dedication, reception of the pious unimmersed, delegate conventions, and the like; if dividing churches of Christ by "driving" the avowed "purpose" of such an effort as these disturbers of the peace of Zion have set forth, the purpose being to establish progressive Christian churches where there are churches of Christ, then, and only then, that "Christian" meeting in Covington was a Christian meeting indeed; otherwise, it was not.

"Baptismal service to be held last of this week near the city." "It is planned to hold the customary baptismal service Sunday afternoon at some place near this city."

This sounds very much like the report of a Baptist or some other sectarian baptizing—"the last of this week." Now, there must be one of two things true about this "customary baptismal service." The preacher either did not place the "customary" New Testament emphasis upon baptism as being a condition of the remission of sins, such emphasis as would lead to being baptized "the same hour of the night," perhaps, as it seems it was the custom in the days of the apostles, or he thought so little of it that he could put it off to the close of the meeting, as a matter of convenience, and by getting all of his "converts" together he could "make a show of them openly." It perhaps has become "customary" among the progressive Christian churches to hold such a "customary baptismal service," but not so the churches of Christ; they still teach, as the Book teaches, that baptism is for the remission of sins—that it is well not to delay the matter, but to go "the same hour of the night," if you will. But such procedure only goes to show just how the spirit of denominationalism has fastened upon the work of these poor, misguided brethren, as blight upon the herbage of the fields.

Some of the evangelist's subjects for discussion are interesting. One was: "Christ or Pilate; or, What Shall I Do with Jesus?" And I wonder just what he and his brethren have done with my Lord. John says: "Whosoever goeth onward [taketh the lead, progresseth] and abideth not in the teaching of Christ, hath not God: he that abideth in the teaching, the same hath both the Father and the Son." Now, this is just exactly what these "progressives" have done, and they pride themselves in their progress! But John says they have not God, which is to say they are atheists. Of course this does not necessarily mean, though it might be so as it pertains to a number of them, that they are atheists in the sense that they deny the existence of God, as the fool of the Psalms; but they are atheists in the sense that they have left God in the background. He is no longer the object of their worship; they neither have the Father nor the Son. This is what they have done, therefore, with Jesus—they have discarded him.

Another of the preacher's subjects is of further interest just at this point: "Religious Reformations." I well know the course he must have taken in this discussion, and I am equally aware of a much-needed course that he did not take. The same things that made it necessary for Luther to begin the work of "religious reformations" in 1517 are now being offered to the public by the "progressive Christian" churches; hence, a "reformation" is sorely needed right here in their own ranks; but, of course, Evangelist Raum did not advocate that. When a people get to the point that they do not hesitate to divide the churches of Christ by just such a "drive" as they have on at Covington, it is high time for a reformation among them. Paul says: "Mark them that are causing the divisions and occasions of stumbling, contrary to the doctrine which ye learned: and turn away from them." This is the crime of "progressivism." And we are not true to Paul if we do not mark these wreckers of faith. "For they that are such serve not our Lord Christ, but their own belly; and by their smooth and fair speech they beguile the hearts of the innocent." We ought to remember what John says about such characters: "If any one cometh unto you, and bringeth not this teaching, receive him not into your house, and give him no greeting: for he that giveth him greeting partaketh in his evil works." All who assisted in this meeting are thus condemned of God, and it is the duty of all who love the Lord to mark them and have no part with them in their evil deeds.

And there is still a third subject in the evangelist's list that attracts our attention: "What Must a Christian Do to Be Saved?" Yes, what must he do? Must he do what those who are participants in this "drive," that only results in driving the wedge of division, contrary to the doctrine which we have learned, into the body of Christ, are guilty of having done? I wonder if there is a man among the "digressives" who would go to Covington and affirm in public oral debate that the things that distinguish them from the churches of Christ are necessary as conditions of salvation to the Christian. I wish I could find one of their men who has the courage to do so; but "conscience makes cowards of us all." So I have no hope of finding the man with the nerve to do this thing. I wish I could. But if these things are not necessary to salvation, why force them in upon the consciences of godly men and women and stand condemned as dividers of the family of God? I would not want to go to the judgment bar of God with such a crime laid at my door. Christ says: "It is impossible but that occasions of stumbling should come; but woe unto him, through whom they come! It were well for him if a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he were thrown into the sea, rather than that he should cause one of these little ones to stumble."

According to this report, it was thought at the beginning of the meeting it would not be possible to organize a new church in Covington, but the deed has been accomplished. I could have told the troupe before they entered upon their engagement that they could do what they had set out to do, for any sect under the sun can go to a town the size of Covington with a brass band and a tent and gain a following. In fact, a patent-medicine show could get followers under such circumstances. I am not at all surprised that as many as one hundred were gathered together into this progressive Christian church, especially when I consider the sources from which they came. In addition to the "converts" that were made, some came voluntarily from the denominations. I am aware that some had moved to Covington and gone into the denominations instead of uniting with the congregation where they belonged, and I suppose they are the ones who came from the denominations. And now how much better off are they than they were? They have but gone from one denomination to another.

So the "drive" has been launched, and it is being driven with a vim; and we may expect these dividers of churches to open up at some other point where they may hope to create trouble among the disciples of Christ. I think all loyal preachers and elders should mark these preachers and do all they can to expose them in their work of Satan. Brethren, let me again call upon you to do all you can to crush this evil work of division. I have received quite a number of very complimentary and encouraging letters from some of our ablest preachers about my former article. I hope they will see this article and do all they can to help in this campaign to spike the guns of the enemy. When the "digressives" wish to hoodwink some unsuspecting saint into accepting their corruptions, they contend that there is so little difference between us and that the things on which we differ are of so little importance that we really ought to be one; but when they wish to divide the church of Christ, they do not hesitate to establish their own cause, thereby showing that they think more of those innovations that are of so little importance to them than they do of the unity for which Christ prayed and the fellowship of their brethren.

A Criticism of "Sunday Schools."

BY H. F. BROOKER.

In the Gospel Advocate of August 3 "a sister who wishes her name withheld for prudential reasons" wishes answers to the following questions:

(1) "Is it right to have classes in the church?" Brother McQuiddy says, "So long as Christians have different capacities, so long will it be necessary to have different classes," and refers to Heb. 5: 12-14. Brother McQuiddy well knows the babes he refers to have no room in Heb. 5:

12, because he knows Paul has reference to members of the church, who, by reason of the length of time they had been in the church, ought to have been teachers. He says the class may be one or many. Chapter and verse, please, for this statement. He says he knows of no law of God that dividing into classes violates. Let us see. "Now these things, brethren, I have in a figure transferred to myself and Apollos for your sakes; that in us ye might learn not to go beyond the things which are written [are classes written?]; that no one of you be puffed up for the one against the other. For who maketh thee to differ? and what hast thou that thou didst not receive?" (1 Cor. 4: 6, 7.) Did we receive dividing the church up into classes from Paul? And is not this the thing that has us puffed up the one against the other? Brother McQuiddy says: "For a teacher to teach a class in one part of the house while another teaches in another part of the house does not create confusion." It might not, where a congregation had no member that had learned enough about God's word to know that it is unauthorized, unscriptural, and wrong. It has caused enough confusion here to divide the congregation. O, that we could all speak where the Bible speaks and speak the same thing!

(2) "Is it right to use literature?" "Every scripture inspired of God is also profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction which is in righteousness: that the man of God may be complete, furnished completely unto every good work." (2 Tim. 3: 16, 17.) Is not this enough? Then, chapter and verse for classes, if a good work. "Let God be found true, but every man a liar." Now, please do not take offense; this is scripture. (See Rom. 3: 4.)

(3) "Is it right for a woman to teach the children's class in the church?" To try to prove this is right, Brother McQuiddy gives us Acts 18: 24-26. Brother McQuiddy, is it possible that you do not know this is a misapplication of God's word when applied to prove women's teaching a class of little children in an assembly of Christians assembled to worship God on the first day of the week? This man Apollos was a man "mighty in the scriptures," but he did not not know enough about baptism. (Now close here.) "When Priscilla and Aquila heard him, they took him unto them." Honestly, does this apply to women teaching a class of children in public worship? Please don't dodge; answer yes or no. But you say Lois and Eunice taught Timothy when a babe. Let us compare this with Paul's letter to the Ephesians and see how nice the two passages agree. "Children, obey your parents. . . . Fathers, provoke not your children." (Eph. 6: 1-4.) Whose children? Each father's children or everybody's children in the worship on the first day of the week. If this good lady had followed the example of Lois and Eunice, obeying the apostle Paul's command to the individual Christian parents, "bringing up your children [not mine or somebody else's] in the nurture and admonition of the Lord," she would, no doubt, have learned enough about God's word to know about these things without asking Brother McQuiddy. Paul says if they would learn anything, let them ask their own husbands at home.

(4) "Is it right for the elders to stay away from the meeting until the classes are over?" Brother McQuiddy, which way did you go? You have just about lost me. I found you trying to prove women teaching in the church, now I find you trying to prove that the elders ought to do this.

(5) Thanks for your last quotation—1 Cor. 14: 34, 35. You say the context shows that it was public speaking. It was speaking to the whole church, as we learn from verse 23. You have proven the very thing that I have been trying to prove—that teaching a class of children is not what the apostle Paul was talking about; hence, is unauthorized and going beyond "what is written."

"Hot Shot" Warmed Over."

BY H. LEO B.

This is a booklet by Walter McMurtry sent to this office for review. "Hot Shot" is a twenty-four-page pamphlet by Elder C. H. Cayce, of Martin, Tenn. Walter McMurtry reviews and answers these questions in his booklet, "'Hot Shot' Warmed Over." I know no better way to introduce it to our readers than to quote a few pages of it.

Question 1. Of what church are you a member?

Answer. The one Christ said he would build when he used the language recorded in Matt. 16: 18. As he used the possessive pronoun "my," it is, then, the church of Christ (Rom. 16: 18); church of the first-born (Heb. 12: 23); and when viewed in its relationship to the Father, it is the church of God (Acts 20: 28; 1 Cor. 1: 2).

Q. 2. What is the name of your church?

A. I do not own a church, but the church of which I am a member belongs to the Lord Jesus Christ. Spiritually, I am very poor; I do not even own myself, having been bought with a price—the blood of Christ. (1 Pet. 1: 18, 19; 1 Cor. 6: 19, 20.)

Q. 3. Are the members of your church all agreed on the name?

A. As I have no church, it has no "all" to be "agreed on the name." But all Christians who are true to Christ are agreed that the church which he built belongs to him. And when any one so far apostatizes as to lay claim to the church which Jesus purchased with his own blood, he is in danger of rejecting Christ. (Acts 20: 28.)

Q. 4. How old is your church?

A. In Mark 9: 1 Christ said some standing there would see the kingdom of God come with power before they died. In Acts 1: 8 he promised his disciples power when the Holy Spirit was come. Acts 2: 1-21 shows that the Spirit came on the first Pentecost after the resurrection of Christ. Therefore, the kingdom or church of which I am a part was established on the first Pentecost after his resurrection.

Q. 5. Who is the founder of your church?

A. I am still poor. But Jesus Christ said he would build his church (Matt. 16: 18), and I believe he did so, and also believe I have been added to that number which constitutes his body. (Acts 2: 41; Col. 1: 24; 1 Cor. 12: 27.)

Q. 6. Did your church have any existence prior to 1811?

A. As I have no church, it certainly did not. But God promised that the kingdom which Christ would establish should stand forever, and not be left to other people (Dan. 2: 44), and I do not believe that even the Primitive Baptists have been able to flimflam him out of it. So I believe it is still the church of Christ, and contains all the elect of God, and the elect only.

Q. 7. Where was your church in 1800?

A. "Your [my] church" was like myself in the year 1800—neither it nor myself had any existence; but I came into existence in the year 1873, and about the year 1893 I "obeyed that form of doctrine" which was delivered by Paul to the people, and was "made free from sin, and became a servant of righteousness" (Rom. 6: 17, 18); and the Lord added me to his church, and I have been content with that arrangement ever since, and hope to remain so. The church of Christ was with the people of God in 1800, by reason of the fact that they composed it.

Q. 8. Can you name a member of your church who lived in 1800?

A. Not being able or disposed to own a church, it follows that I cannot give names of its members. Not having been appointed judge of God's servants, and not being able to look into hearts and determine motives, it is impossible for me to say with any degree of certainty who are members of Christ's church. I can speak only for myself. Benedict says all Protestants through the Dark Ages claimed to be Christians, and members of the church of Christ only, but that their enemies nicknamed them.

Q. 9. When was your church originated?

A. As there is no such thing as "your [my] church," it never "originated," but the church of Christ originated in the year A.D. 33. Proof: The kingdom of God was to "come with power." (Mark 9: 1.) The power came on the day of Pentecost. (Acts 1: 8; 2: 1-4.) Therefore, the kingdom, or church, came on that day.

Q. 10. Was your church ever heard of before Alexander Campbell's day?

A. I do not think it was, and I hope it never will be. I greatly fear if such men as you are the only ones through whom the world is to hear of the church of Christ, it will never gain that knowledge.

Q. 11. If so, who heard of it?

A. No one heard of my church, because I have no church. But the entire world heard of the church of Christ in the days of the apostles. (See Rom. 10: 18; Col. 1: 6, 23.) And if it had not been for men starting up rival institutions, many others would have heard of it who have only heard of the Primitive Baptist Church and such like.

Q. 12. Is the church of God a project?

A. No. In no sense is it a project, but many men have "projected" with it; hence the Primitive Baptist Church.

Q. 13. Are you in any way identified with the movement inaugurated by Alexander Campbell?

A. No, sir; for Campbell being in a human institution (the Baptist Church), it was necessary for him to move away from it. I having never been in such an institution, could not join him in the "move."

Q. 14. Did not Campbell call his movement a project? ("Christian System," page 7.)

A. He may have done so. To him, the thing he undertook was a project, as he doubtless knew of no one who had left a human institution and found the church of Christ. But, in the face of much opposition and in view of many failures, he set out with his field notes (the Bible) and his compass "Where the Bible speaks, we speak; and where the Bible is silent, we are silent", and after forcing his way through much human speculation he came to the place where he saw that the kingdom of God was righteousness (right-doing), which brings peace with God, in which we can rejoice in the Holy Spirit. (Rom. 14: 17.)

Q. 15. How can your church be apostolic, seeing it is a project?

A. Neither I nor any one else ever saw my church; therefore, it has not been seen to be a project. A project is something done, not that which exists. The church of Christ has existed ever since A.D. 33, and every one who has obeyed the gospel has become a member of it.

Q. 16. Was Alexander Campbell an apostle?

A. Claiming to be an apostle was not among the faults of Campbell. He only claimed to be a disciple of Christ, and, so far as is known to me, no one ever set up the claim for him. Do you know of any one who has done so?

Q. 17. How can your church be apostolic in origin, seeing it originated with Campbell?

A. If it could be seen that I have a church, and that it had its origin with Campbell, it would be as clearly of human origin as is the Baptist Church, which is not even hinted at in the entire Bible.

Q. 18. Are you not about eighteen hundred years too young to be of apostolic origin?

A. Yes, just about that much too young, as I was born about the year 1873.

Q. 19. Then why do you claim to be apostolic in origin?

A. I make no such claim for myself, seeing I was born in the year 1873. Yet I think it possible for one of my age to be a member of the church of Christ, which had its origin with Christ and his apostles. If possible, then why not all be members of it and be Christians only?

Q. 20. Are you not practicing deception when you claim to be apostolic in origin?

A. When I claim that Christ established his church and that he now invites all who are willing to forsake sin and obey him to become members of it, or when I tell a penitent to be baptized for the remission of sins (Acts 2: 38), or, "Arise, and be baptized and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord" (Acts 22: 16), I do not think I am practicing deception; but I would be if I were to tell them that the Baptist Church is the one Christ said he would build, or that they had to do nothing to be saved, as do Primitive Baptist preachers.

Q. 21. Is not the word "church" translated from the Greek word "ekkleesia"?

A. I believe it is.

Q. 22. Does not the word "ekkleesia" mean an assembly, called out?

A. I notice that W. J. Hickie, M.A., in his Greek-English Lexicon of the New Testament, defines the word "ekkleesia" as follows: "An assembly, a congregation, an assembly for worship, a church, the whole body of Christian believers." The word "assembly," or its equivalent, "congregation," expresses all that is contained in the Greek word "ekkleesia." The time, place, manner, purpose, and name of the assembly, as well as the authority by which it convenes, are all learned from the context, and not from the word itself. When used in the Bible with reference to God's people, it, with its contexts, shows that they have been called by Jesus Christ through the gospel to be saints, in fellowship with himself and his Father, the idea of the "call" being expressed by the Greek term "kaleo" and its kindred words. The Greek word "ek," which means "from," "out of," "of," shows that in coming to Christ we leave something; and the context shows that "something" is the world (the ways of the world). Again, in certain other connections, it shows God's people gathered in one place as a local assembly for the worship of God. In the first is embraced the people of God in the aggregate, but in the latter is included only those who are actually present in answer to God's requirements of his people to assemble themselves together. And this coming together of God's people into one place constitutes the local church (assembly), and does so without any resolutions passed by any one. We have Christ saying: "Come unto me, . . . and I will give you rest." When this call is obeyed, the one obeying is added to the church (general assembly), or to the Lord. And when, in the discharge of their appointed duties, as servants of Christ, they come into one place for the purpose of worship, according to the apostolic model, those so coming constitute the church (local assembly) at that place.

Q. 23. Were you not called out about eighteen hundred years too late to be apostolic in origin?

A. No; for Peter, on the day of Pentecost, said the promise was not only to the Jews there present, and to their children, but to as many as the Lord should call, even though they might be a great way off. With this before me, I do not think the year 1893 too late to heed the gospel call.

Q. 24. Were you not called out by the wrong party for you to be apostolic?

A. No, for I read in Rev. 1: 3: "Blessed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein." I have both heard and read God's word, and tried to keep the things written therein.

Q. 25. Was not your society called out by Alexander Campbell?

A. No. Even if Campbell started a church, I am not a member of it; for I have only obeyed the teachings of God's word without any reference to what Campbell may have taught. If Campbell taught as I have believed and practiced, it is only better for him and none the worse for me.

Q. 26. If your church is not the one which was founded by Mr. Campbell, will you please tell who is the founder of your church?

A. Again I state that I have no church; but Jesus Christ founded the church of which I am a member. (Matt. 16: 18.)

Q. 27. Where was it founded?

A. The church of Christ was founded in the city of Jerusalem.

Q. 28. Do you belong to any church?

A. I am a part of the purchased possession of Christ (Eph. 1: 14; Acts 20: 28), and, as such, I have been added to the church (Acts 2: 47).

Q. 29. What is your church for?

A. I suppose if I had one (which I haven't) it would be either for personal glory or for confusing the people, as the Baptist and all other churches do which are not mentioned in the Book of God. But I am glad to inform you that the church of Christ has a grand mission in the world—to preach the gospel to every creature and through its influence subject the world to the will of God and restore to man his lost position in the universe.

This booklet can be had from Walter McMurphy, Cordova, Ala., for twenty-five cents.

SPECIAL OFFER.

We are trying to increase the circulation of the Gospel Advocate, knowing that as we increase its circulation we are broadening its field of usefulness and thereby doing more good for our Master. Will you coöperate with us in this good work? The subscription list of the Gospel Advocate is growing daily, and we want you to help us do even greater things for the Lord through its columns. Here is our Special Offer: If you will send us two new subscribers for a year, we will send you a copy of Peloubet's "Select Notes on the International Sunday-school Lessons." This book includes all the Sunday-school lessons for the year 1922. It formerly sold for $2. The price of the Gospel Advocate is $2 per year. Send to the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

That Convention Again.

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

In the Gospel Advocate of August 24 I made a few general observations on the convention of our would-be progressive brethren which was held at Ovoca Park, Tullahoma, Tenn., last June. I had no thought that what I said in that short article would provoke my "sweet-spirited" brethren to use ugly language about me, but it seems that it did; for, among other things which have been said about that article, the following letter came to the Advocate office:

Editor Gospel Advocate, Nashville, Tenn.—Dear Sir: In your most recent issue I notice an article from the pen of Brother Srygley, which, in my opinion, and that of many others also, violates what should be the method and principle of procedure of any journal, and especially one entitled "Gospel Advocate."

It is evident that there is little or no truth in his most injurious, unwarranted, insulting inferences. I call your attention to the fact that O. E. Payne has been denied the privilege of your columns in defense of his magnificent book, and that on the ground that the Gospel Advocate believes him guilty of unjustly accusing one Brother Kurfes. If this be true, where is the consistency in opening your columns to one who willingly and falsely accuses, not one, but all the representatives of the convention of the churches of Christ, and that in a way that all but borders on obscenity?

In my opinion, and that of many others also, it will be difficult for you to claim consistency in your method of procedure, and without apology should you let this man thus get by, you will hear further from this matter. After reading it carefully, I am convinced of the truth of a statement made by one of the prominent members of the church of Christ, which is as follows: "There will never be union in the church of Christ so long as the Gospel Advocate is published." Most respectfully, J. J. WALKER.

P.S. Please remind Brother Srygley that since in his opinion the convention is an unscriptural meeting, that likewise, and for the same reason, the Gospel Advocate is an unscriptural institution.

The brother says: "There is little or no truth in his most injurious, unwarranted, insulting inferences." That is a long string of ugly adjectives to use in describing my little article. "Most injurious, unwarranted, insulting inference," with "little or no truth" in it! That may come from a sweet spirit, but it sounds rather rancorous to me. I have no disposition to injure any one or to make an unwarranted inference, neither do I wish to insult these sweet-spirited brethren. I wish the brother had been more specific about the matter and had pointed out just what I said in the article that was injurious and what part of it was unwarranted and what statement was insulting. I am perfectly willing to withdraw and apologize for any statement in the article that is untrue; but as for the injury or insult, if the facts truly stated cause injury, they are to blame for it, and not the one who states them. It will be remembered that I drew my conclusions from the report of the convention as made by H. L. Patterson, who signed himself as the reporter for the convention, and in said report he made the following statement:

The annual convention of the churches of Christ in Tennessee that met at Ovoca Park, near Tullahoma, June 12-16, stands in the history of our work in Tennessee as the greatest convention to date. Ovoca, the home of the orphans of the Knights of Pythias, by its cottages built under the shade of the trees, overlooking a beautiful lake where delegates enjoy delightful bathing privileges, is coming to be recognized as the choice convention location of our Southland.

The ugly inference complained of must have been the inference that men and women went in bathing together. This was, to my mind, a reasonable inference, because this report says the delegates could "enjoy delightful bathing privileges;" and as the delegates are made up of men and women both, it was natural to infer that they went in the lake together. In other bathing places in and around Nashville they go in together, and, as the reporter made no exceptions in this case, I naturally supposed they went in together. Others thought the same thing and mentioned it to me. If I was wrong in this conclusion, the reporter for the convention should share with me the abuse which I am receiving on account of a reasonable supposition based upon his statement. I am wondering whether any of these ugly adjectives have been hurled at him. I have seen no correction of his report, which should have been made if the men and women delegates did not go in bathing together. I called up the brother on the telephone whose signature is to this letter and told him if he would make a statement that the men and women did not go in bathing together, I would gladly correct it, but he refused to do it. All I got out of him was that he did not go in the lake at all, and he told me not to use his name. As to this last request, I am trying to do my best to carry it out, notwithstanding the word has come to me that he has used my name publicly in his pulpit, and I am sure that my name is as good as his, and I am not herein boasting of my name, either. I have done all I could to get the facts in this case, and others have helped me. In answer to the direct questions, "Do men and women go in the lake together at Ovoca Park?" and, "Did the delegates to the convention of the Christian Church use the bathing beach?" the following reply came to the Advocate office:

Tullahoma, Tenn., September 19, 1922.—I am sorry, but have been unable to get the desired information through a reliable source. Have just talked with Mr. M. F. Martin, superintendent of Ovoca, who is reliable, and says men and women go in bathing together at Ovoca. The delegates of different conventions have access to bathing privileges and use them. He said he was not sure whether men and women of the Christian Church delegation bathed together or not; that each delegation made their own rules as to time and way of bathing, but must observe his rules, which will not permit of anything unusual. Yours, FRANK ANDERSON.

While the superintendent does not say positively the men and women went in bathing together, all can see from his statement as repeated by Brother Anderson that it is a most reasonable inference, and I do not believe that I deserve that long string of ugly adjectives for so inferring. I made no charge of immorality against the delegates of this convention; and whether they went in the lake together or the men went in at one time and the women at another, I still say the usual practice is for all to go in together, and the New Testament condemns the practice. "In like manner, that women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with shamefastness and sobriety." (1 Tim. 2: 9.) I am bound to say that the modern bathing suit for women is not "modest apparel," and I believe it ought to be condemned by Christian people. It is unnecessary to plead the custom of the country, for custom cannot change a divine prohibition.

As to the brother's charge that my article borders on obscenity, I am not able to see it, and I wondered what the brother could have seen in my article which bordered on such a thing. I perhaps would never have known to what he referred had it not been for a question asked by a gentleman at Crockett Mills, Tenn., who also got stirred up and thought he saw something, and so he wrote and asked me this question: "What do you mean to imply by the relations of these young people under this thin covering?" I said nothing about the young people under a thin covering, and why any one thought so is more than I can see. What I said in that article about a thin covering is in these words: "These conventions furnish good opportunities for preachers to distinguish themselves with great speeches and the older ladies to pass resolutions while the young people frolic in the lake. How long will it take people to see through such a thin covering? The convention is an unscriptural meeting, and it leads to more ungodliness."

What I meant was that the real enjoyment of many who attend these conventions is hidden by a thin veneer of religious zeal, and why these brethren could not see that was what I meant is strange to me.

As to your conviction and that of your brother that there will never be union in what you call "the church of Christ" while the Gospel Advocate is published, I myself hope it will never be accomplished except on the word of God alone. If this union must be brought about by all accepting an unscriptural organization like the convention which was held at Ovoca Park and by the use of instrumental music in the worship of God, and the Advocate can prevent such an unholy alliance, I hope it may continue to be published till Jesus comes again.

I have now explained everything I can think of except the brother's postscript, and as that was addressed to me directly, I will try my hand on it. I had understood that the Gospel Advocate Company is a business organization controlled by brethren for the purpose of teaching the word of God and making a living while doing so, just as every school or farm owned and controlled by Christian people should be used to teach the word of God and forward the kingdom of Christ in every possible way; while the convention is organized by a few churches which claim to be the "church of Christ" to preach and do the work which Christ delegated to his body. It sets aside the church and gives the glory to a human institution rather than the divine one. "Unto him be the glory in the church and in Christ Jesus unto all generations forever and ever. Amen." (Eph. 3: 21.) Whenever the Gospel Advocate, a business organization, takes the place of the church as the convention does, it ought not to be published any longer. But if the Gospel Advocate is wrong, it does not prove that the convention is right, and no man will attempt such an argument as that who has any scriptural support for his position, for two wrongs will not make a right. Now I hope the brother understands me this time.

Diotrephes and Moses.

BY L. E. J.

A long time ago an old man who had done a great work was writing to one in whom he had a deep interest. The burden of his message was the well-being of the church. As is usually the case, there was a flaw and hindrance. This time it was one Diotrephes "who loveth to have the preëminence," and of whom the writer says: "Therefore, if I come, I will bring to remembrance his works which he doeth." (3 John.)

Still longer ago God had a vast work to be performed. Through years and years he had been preparing one for it, though this one did not know God's plan for him. There were the years in which he had the opportunity for acquiring the learning of the age and of associating with the wisest and most exalted of that time. Then came a long period of work, of solitude and thought. But when the long preparation had been made and this chosen one was called to lead a nation from bondage into the land of promise, he lacked all the assurance of which so many lesser ones have abundance. He did not think of the honor and glory of the position, and the "desire for leadership" did not so much as enter his mind. Instead, he said: "Who am I, that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt?" It took God's spoken reassurance, with much divine help and the promise, "Certainly I will be with thee," to convince this meekest man that he was the one to undertake the work. (Ex. 3, 4.)

But though so modest about undertaking the great work, he was wondrously faithful in its performance. The Israelites whom he led were almost entirely a forgetful, ungrateful, jealous lot, falling easily into sin, and then, when sin brought its results, blaming Moses and murmuring against him. They "spoke against God, and against Moses," reproaching because "ye brought us out of Egypt to die in the wilderness;" and when they tired of the manna from heaven, "Our soul loatheth this light bread." (Num. 21.)

Yet faithful Moses stood steadfast. And once, when they had committed a grievous sin and had met punishment, he pleaded with God for them: "Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin—; and if not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou hast written." (Ex. 32: 32.) Notwithstanding all their sins, all their thanklessness, their envy and reproaches, he offered himself in their place when punishment was to be meted out. Truly he was a great leader; for the great leader must forget himself and give himself for those he leads.

Read carefully all the history of those troublesome Israelites on the road to Canaan. See how trying and how unworthy they were and how grand by comparison was the wise and meek and patient Moses. Read also, in the fifteenth chapter of Revelation, how the victorious ones around the "sea of glass mingled with fire" "sing the song of Moses the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb." Was ever any other so honored as to have his praise sung by so glorious a company, and, most exalted honor, sung together with that of the Lamb of God?

The church needs a Moses. It is weak, wayward, wandering, scattered, like Israel. There are some faithful ones, as there were then; but most are murmuring about the bread God sends, or pining for the fleshpots of Egypt, or secreting the wedge of gold, or putting strange fire on the altar, or making a calf of their gold to worship; or, when they might have the richness of the valley of Eshcol, they are terrified by the thought of the Jebusites and the Amorites and the Amalekites. And when Caleb persuades them to keep quiet long enough to listen, and says, "Let us go up at once and possess it," an evil report is spread which causes them to lift up their voices and to "murmur against Moses, and against Aaron." They weep and want to go back to Egypt, forgetting all its hardships and its hopelessness; and they want to choose a captain to lead them there. And Moses pleads with Jehovah for mercy for them.

The church needs a Moses. God must be with him, or much of the time he will be very much alone. God must be with him; "for without me ye can do nothing." God must be with him. "Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith Jehovah of hosts." (Zech. 4: 6.)

SERMON OUTLINES

A Book of One Hundred and Fifty New Sermon Outlines

Just the book for preachers, elders, deacons, Bible-class teachers, and others that take public part in church services.

The book has one hundred and fifty sermon outlines and a helpful supplement containing funeral texts, marriage ceremonies, forms for church letters, and Hedge's "Rules" for debate.

A good book to use in your Lord's-day services, prayer meetings, and young people's meetings. Let the leader announce the subject, hand slips of paper containing different sections of the outline to the members who are to take part in the next meeting, requesting them to make a talk or read the scriptural references on that section of the outline. Or, let the leader put the outline on the blackboard, omitting the scriptural references, then ask the congregation to supply the correct scriptural references at the next meeting, and give reasons why they selected these references.

Price, $1, postpaid. Address the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Evangelistic Notes

Lee Sanders, Wellington, Texas, is in a meeting at Reed, Okla.

W. E. Morgan recently closed at Stone, Tenn., with eight additions.

A. C. Traylor changes his address from Pikeville to Cannon Creek, Tenn.

Brethren Speir and Grammar have just closed at Purdin, Mo. They are now at Browning.

C. M. Pullias has just closed at Twelfth Avenue, this city, with six baptisms and three restorations.

Charles Holder, Bridgeport, Ala., closed at Rossville, Ga., with nineteen baptisms and two restorations.

M. C. Kurfees has been in a meeting at Shelbyville, Ky., and had had four additions when last heard from.

G. H. O'Neal has just closed at Chestnut Grove, near Viola, Tenn., with five baptisms and one restoration.

A. F. Thurman, Chillicothe, Texas, reports two large crowds and two additions. The work there is doing well.

J. H. Hines reports a good day and two additions at Highland Park, Montgomery, Ala. This makes five this month.

Leslie G. Thomas preached in Akron, Ohio, on Friday evening, and in Flint and Bay City, Mich., on Sunday, to fine audiences.

J. V. Armstrong Traylor preached at Walter Hill, Tenn., on the second Lord's day in October, and says that they are doing well.

Charles Tidwell recently closed a meeting at Sweet Home, in Dickson County, Tenn., and another at Nunnely, Tenn., with three baptisms.

J. L. Hines changes his address from Mount Juliet, Tenn., to 2428 Jefferson Avenue, Norwood, Ohio. He reports the work as doing well there.

Vernon Rozar recently conducted a meeting near Cleveland, Tenn., resulting in two baptisms. It was continued by A. B. Blazer, with three more.

Porter Norris recently conducted a meeting at Gadberry, Ky., which resulted in one baptism, and one at Locke, with three baptisms and ten restorations.

R. W. Jernigan, Bridgeport, Ala., writes: "I congratulate you on the success which you are achieving. The Gospel Advocate gets better with each issue."

B. F. Stivers closed at Neosho, Mo., on October 1, with one by statement. He is now at Kansas City. His address will be 2412 Norton Avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

J. Clifford Murphy is in the midst of a good mission meeting at Prescott, Ark., with large crowds and one baptism to date. This is a stronghold of the "progressives."

Ira Womack closed at Ringling, Okla., with twelve baptisms and one restoration and the church put to meeting regularly. They are planning to build soon. He is now at Pennell.

R. D. Smith reports two good services at Wichita Falls, Texas. He is now in a meeting at Scotland Addition, near by. Foy E. Wallace will begin their meeting on October 29.

Abilene Christian College, despite the financial depression, has opened with a record enrollment, representing fourteen States and Mexico. The enrollment has multiplied five times in six years.

G. B. Lambright, Jasper, Ala., Route 5, reports three fine services at Big Ridge on the second Lord's day in October. He is now in a mission meeting at Arley, Ala., and hopes to establish a congregation.

H. D. Jeffcoat is in a mission meeting at Duffee, Miss. There are only two members there, but prospects are bright. This is the first gospel preaching ever done at that place. He goes next to Pearl, Miss.

Harvey W. Riggs, Tompkinsville, Ky., reports his meetings as follows: At regular appointments, two baptisms; Sulphur Ridge Schoolhouse, eight baptisms and regular service arranged for; Mount Gilead, four baptisms.

Thomas H. Burton, Union, S. C., reports two baptisms. The church at Moors is cutting the logs preparatory to building. The building at Greenville is already under construction. This will make three houses in South Carolina.

A. G. Freed was expected to begin a meeting at Henderson, Tenn., on last Lord's day, which is scheduled to continue two weeks. He will meet I. N. Penick (Baptist) in debate at Loneoak, near Paducah, Ky., beginning on October 31.

J. D. Jones recently conducted a meeting at Jacksboro, near Morrison, Tenn., which resulted in five baptisms and two restorations. The attendance was good. Later he held a meeting at Red Hill, with one restoration, then at Pleasant Ridge, near Gassaway, Tenn., with two baptized and three reclaimed. Pleasant Ridge has had two meetings this year.

A. R. Holton, president of Thorp Spring Christian College, writes, October 4: "Thorp Spring Christian College is now in the third week of the first term. Students are still coming, and our enrollment will perhaps reach two hundred by Christmas. Three Bible classes have been organized thus far. We have the largest class of young preachers that the school has had in several years. The church here is becoming active in missionary work in using these young men over Hood County. We feel that great good can be accomplished in this way."

The Walker-Hall discussion of the instrumental-music question, which began at the Russell Street Church, this city, on October 2, originally scheduled to run five consecutive nights, was concluded at the Ryman Auditorium on the night of October 10. After three nights at the Russell Street Church it was suspended until the following Monday night on account of severe hoarseness on the part of Brother Walker. The Russell Street auditorium would not accommodate the crowds, notwithstanding the fact that we had four meetings in progress in the city at that time, and it was unanimously agreed to have the two remaining sessions at the Ryman Auditorium. A more extended report will appear later.

The many friends of U. R. Beeson will be interested in knowing that he and Miss Leila Beasley, of Waldo, Ark., were married recently. Brother Beeson was a student one year in Thorp Spring Christian College, teaching some classes while doing his graduate work in the school there. He is a man of sterling qualities—a Christian. The past year he was dean in the Western Oklahoma Christian College. This past summer he has been busy in protracted meetings. Mrs. Beeson is popular where she is known because of her intrinsic worth and high ideals. Her devotion to the church is known by all who have met her. Ulrich Beeson has shown wisdom in selecting a Christian woman for his life companion, and she will be his constant helper in bringing out the best within him. For the present they may be addressed at Waldo, Ark.

From R. A. Craig, Shelbyville, Ky., October 15: "An all-day meeting was conducted at the Forks of Elkhorn on the second Sunday in September. About ten churches were represented at this meeting, and we feel that the churches were encouraged to greater effort in the Lord. M. C. Kurfees delivered the morning address, and his theme, 'Walking by Faith; or, How to Worship God Acceptably To-day,' was one of the best lessons we have ever heard. It completely routed every one who would contend for things which are not commanded in the worship. At the afternoon service we heard a number of reports from the different churches, after which Thomas D. Rose gave us a good lesson on church conditions. The writer spoke at the night service. We predict that a glorious success will crown our efforts. The Kurfees-Holloway meeting came to a close last night. Considering the adverse circumstances under which it was held, we think this was a great meeting. In all, fourteen were added to the church—six by baptism and nine by letter. From the beginning of this meeting there was a combined effort of the religious bodies to affect the attendance, but the masterful preaching of Brother Kurfees stirred the town. The fair-minded of many of the denominations attended. The minister of the Christian Church never came, yet we heard that he attended the Baptist meeting which was in progress. Some of the prominent men of the town took their stand with us, and they will be of great help in the work. We consider that M. C. Kurfees is one of the greatest preachers of the reformation. His respect for the word of the Lord and his clean-cut logic command the highest respect wherever he goes. We feel that we will reap much fruit from his labors in this meeting."

F. B. Srygley is in a meeting at Celina, Tenn.

M. L. Moore is in a meeting at Chapel Avenue, this city.

John T. Lewis, of Birmingham, Ala., paid us a short call recently.

Lee P. Mansfield closed a meeting in Sulphur, Okla., with two baptisms.

J. L. Jackson preached at Lindsley Avenue, this city, last Lord's day.

Foy E. Wallace, Jr., closed in Holdenville, Okla., with sixteen baptized.

A. S. Landis had two good services at Fifth Street, this city, last Lord's day.

J. W. Le Fan, Killen, Ala., writes: "The Lesson Helps for the Bible study are excellent."

A. D. Dies has just closed at Flat Rock, near Lebanon, Tenn. Large crowds were in attendance.

C. R. Nichol is in a meeting in Bakersfield, Cal., which will continue through the month of October.

W. A. Record has just closed at Berea, near Vienna, Ill., with fifteen baptisms. He will return in 1923.

Granville Cullom preached at Rural Hill, near Nashville, last Lord's day, with one confession and baptism.

William T. Etheridge recently closed at Mayfield, Ky., with four additions. He is now at Gilbertsville, Ky.

S. H. Hall reports two fine services at Russell Street, this city, with one confession and three by statement last Lord's day.

Ben Harding's meeting at Waverly-Belmont, this city, is doing well, with one baptism and one from the "Christian Church."

J. E. Black, Fort Worth, Texas, recently closed at Dixon Springs, Tenn., with seventeen baptisms. He is now at Antioch, near Hartsville, Tenn.

J. W. Grant recently closed at Three Forks, Ky., with four baptisms and one restoration. He is now in a meeting at Georgetown Church, at Finney, Ky.

O. C. Lambert preached at the State Prison at 9 A.M., at the Tuberculosis Hospital at 11 A.M., and at Eleventh Street, this city, at 7 P.M., last Lord's day.

J. H. McBroom has just closed at Bohon, Ky., with one baptism and one from the "Christian Church." He will begin next Lord's day near Smithville, Tenn.

Western Oklahoma Christian College now has an enrollment of two hundred and twenty-two. They have full credit from the Board of Education in that State for sixty hours of work.

C. L. Hanan and Miss Phala Norman were married in Muskogee, Okla. J. G. Allen officiated. Brother Hanan is a promising young preacher. The Gospel Advocate extends congratulations.

John W. Hedge closed in Wainwright, Okla., with twenty baptisms and six additional additions to the congregation. He will begin work again with the congregation in Bishop, Texas, on November 15.

G. A. Dunn, Sr., has just closed at Trinity Lane, this city, with fine crowds and eight baptisms. He will return in 1923 for a big tent meeting there. He is now in a meeting at Sparta, Tenn.

T. M. Carney, who now labors with the church in Weatherford, Texas, reports the work there promising. Two were baptized the first week of his work with the congregation, and two united with the congregation by letter.

The Charlotte Avenue Church, this city, had a home-coming service last Lord's day. About fifteen hundred were present, and a sumptuous dinner was spread in Richard Park. E. A. Elam preached morning and night, and Ben Harding in the afternoon.

The church at Mount Pleasant wants to support an evangelist in that field, and would like to correspond with a man of experience, who is enthusiastic for the Lord's work. Address the elders of the church there, in care of J. T. Marrow, Mount Pleasant, Tenn.

J. E. Wainwright, with V. O. Teddlie directing the song service, closed a meeting in Dangerfield, Texas, which resulted in establishing a congregation in that place with about forty members. He reports that the outlook there is bright for the continued advancement of the work.

R. H. Johnson recently held the following meetings: Blakemore, near England, Ark., with fourteen baptisms (his third meeting there); Star Schoolhouse, near Greenwood, Ark., with one from the Baptists; Haskell, Ark. He will begin next Lord's day at Healing Springs, Ark.

T. B. Clark, Gallatin, Tenn., tells us that the Gallatin church, in coöperation with Old Union and other congregations, expects to put an evangelist in that county. This is a step in the right direction, and it is a very wholesome sign when so many are doing the same thing. May there be others.

W. S. Long reports a very pleasant visit to the church at Dickson, Tenn., and also to the Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tenn. He has many fine things to say of both places. He preached at Dickson on October 8, and on his visit to Henderson addressed the student body at their chapel exercises.

H. J. Stafford, a brother who lives at Milan, Tenn., desires to locate near the city on a truck or poultry farm, to be near church and school. He is thirty-nine, and his family consists of his wife and four children, three of which are large enough to do good work. He can give good reference. Write him at Oner, Tenn.

J. O. Barnes, 2111 Broward Avenue, West Palm Beach, Fla., writes as follows: "Wife and I are now at this place. In addition to looking after the little flock here, we are doing much house-to-house work in behalf of the church, scattering religious literature, tracts, etc. Any one who reads this can greatly aid the work by sending us tracts and leaflets suitable for free distribution in a new field."

John T. Hall, Jackson, Tenn., writes: "For more than twenty-five years I have been reading the Gospel Advocate, and I feel sure that I am speaking the truth when I say that the writers for this paper are second to none. I urge the people, especially members of the body of Christ, to subscribe for it and read it diligently, that they may more fully understand the great lessons of the Bible. One article oftentimes will be worth more to one than the price of the paper for one year."

W. T. Grider, evangelist for ten coöperating churches in South Alabama, has just closed at Friendship, in Covington County, with one baptism. There are now about twenty members, and they have bought two acres of land preparatory to building a house. This makes three houses in prospect as a result of this work. Brother Grider preached at Selma, Ala., last Lord's day, and C. A. Buffington preached at Catoma Street, Montgomery, Ala. Fred M. Little preached at Fort Deposit.

George W. Farmer writes as follows: "We must begin work on the meetinghouse at Niota, Tenn., soon. We have made some appeals for help and have received a number of small contributions, and we appreciate them much, but we have not yet sufficient means to build. I earnestly request as many congregations and individuals as will do so to make a contribution to this fund on the fifth Lord's day in this month (October). This is a deserving place and a place of eminent needs. Brethren, help us to build this church house. Send your contributions to me at Cleveland, Tenn."

U. G. Wilkinson writes: "Beginning on October 2 and continuing six nights, there was a discussion near Oilton, Okla., between U. G. Wilkinson, of the church of Christ, and Charles C. Platt, of Stillwater, Okla., who claimed to be a member of the Church of the First-born, a kind of no-water, no-ordinance, dry-land Holiness. Mr. Platt is a scholarly gentleman and conducted himself well, representing his side of the debate as well, perhaps, as it could be done. Wilkinson affirmed for three nights that water baptism is the one baptism, and Platt affirmed the other three nights that Holy Spirit baptism is the one baptism. Very large crowds attended every service and seemed to take great interest. I think it can be said great good was done. Four young gospel preachers attended the discussion—Lloyd Vandiver (who served as timekeeper, song leader, and chairman throughout the debate, and who did his work with great credit to himself and to the delight of all), Loyd Wills, Tillman Pope, and W. L. Oliphant. Brother Oliphant attended the last night only. The brethren at Oilton want me to spend the winter with them and assist in building up the cause, and, if my health will permit, I will try to do so. I am now in a short mission meeting at Buckeye, five miles from Oilton, with large audiences and splendid interest."

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS,
Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

More on the New Testament Senses of the Term "Church."

BY M. C. K.

In our issue of September 28, 1922, we published an article from Brother Lee Jackson in which he calls for more light on the question whether Acts 9: 31, according to the best authorities, uses the term "church" in the "provincial sense." The passage in the Revised Version reads thus: "So the church throughout all Judea and Galilee and Samaria had peace, being edified." The question is whether the term "church" in this passage should be singular, as in the Revised Version, or plural, as in the Authorized Version. After mentioning "a list of the manuscript copies which vary in their support of each one of the two different readings," Brother Jackson makes the following call for more light on the subject:

With his extensive facilities for research, and with his well-cultivated natural abilities, Brother Kurfees might make it profitable to some of us by giving a little more information on the "provincial church" idea. In this present age, and under existing conditions, how are we to distinguish the general or provincial "church of Christ" in Kentucky or Tennessee so as to know it as different from the other general bodies of people who also say that they are churches of Christ? If we call all of those who are of our way of thinking and teaching on all matters of difference the one "church of Christ" in Tennessee, how are we to avoid the mistake of making ourselves a denomination?

In response to this kind and courteous request, I think it proper to consider the following points:

1. The manuscripts. Concerning the weight of manuscript authority, there is too much in the way of fact which stands decidedly against the plural form of the noun to accept it. As "distance lends enchantment to the view," so that magnificent piece of scholarly workmanship called the Revision of 1881, though throughout the forty years of its existence it has steadily gained and is still gaining in its hold upon the English-speaking world, yet it seems destined to require a still longer period before it takes its well-merited place as a translation of the word of God. Barring its omission in common with the Authorized Version to translate baptizo and its cognate terms, which is easily explained, it is even now unsurpassed in the estimation of scholars. There were sixty-seven eminent Biblical scholars on the British side of the Revision and thirty-four on the American side—a grand total of one hundred and one men on the two sides, constituting a body of scholars not only eminent and world-renowned in the field of Biblical research, but unsurpassed by any other such body since the establishment of Christianity. This distinguished body of scholars not only diligently compared, sifted, and weighed the evidence from all sources, including the manuscripts, but they reached the unanimous conclusion that God's word in the passage in question says "church" and not "churches." Hence, as matters now stand, I say "church" in this passage because God's word says it. And we shall see that the Revision on this point is sustained by the internal evidence in the New Testament.

2. Independent of this passage, the "provincial sense" of the term "church" is taught in the New Testament. Hence, so far as doctrine is concerned, as I think Brother Jackson will see upon reflection, it matters not one iota whether we have "church" or "churches" in the passage in question. The same idea distinctly appears elsewhere in the New Testament. This is shown by two New Testament facts. First, God's people under Christ, being a called-out people, are called God's "church." Secondly, this term, as universally used in the New Testament, always and everywhere includes all of God's people in the territory to which it is applied. Now, no matter what extent of territory be named, whether Kentucky, Tennessee, Galatia, or the whole world, it is distinctly and uncontrovertibly a New Testament idea that God's people in it are God's "church" in and throughout that territory. Please observe, too, that God's people in any territory, whether all of them are in one congregation and meeting at one place, or in a hundred congregations and meeting at a hundred places, are still, when contemplated throughout the territory, God's "church" in that territory. For example, when Paul speaks of "the churches of Galatia" (Gal. 1: 2), he refers, of course, to the different congregations meeting at different places in Galatia; but what, according to the New Testament, did all of those congregations constitute in Galatia as a whole? Of course they did not constitute different churches in the general sense, for God has but one church. Again, take all the Christians in all the world, do they not, according to the New Testament idea, constitute "the church of Christ" or "the church of God" in the world? If they are God's called out in all the world, then they are God's church in all the world. If not, why not? All persons familiar with the New Testament will not only see, upon proper reflection, that this is true, but they will see that it cannot be any other way. Now, the distinguishing difference between the church in the "general or provincial sense" and the local sense is that in the latter, but not in the former, the church is organized. There is nowhere recognized in the New Testament any general organization of Christians. The local church is independent and supreme in the way of organization and oversight in religious or ecclesiastical affairs.

3. "Making ourselves a denomination." Brother Jackson seems to think that if we accept the "provincial sense" of the term "church" as recognized by the Revision in Acts 9: 31, we are liable, in thus using it, to make ourselves a denomination, but we shall now see that Brother Jackson will encounter precisely the same difficulty if we adopt the reading in the Authorized Version. Let us see. Paul speaks of "the churches of Galatia," and Brother Jackson seems to think if we follow that phraseology universally and never use the term in the "provincial sense" by speaking of "the church of Galatia," we will "avoid the mistake of making ourselves a denomination." But how? Suppose we follow the Authorized Version, and then, referring to "all of those who are of our way of thinking," instead of calling them "the one 'church of Christ in Tennessee,'" suppose we call them "the churches of Christ in Tennessee," that would be purely denominational precisely as the other would be, for the simple reason that there are Christians in Tennessee not "of our way of thinking" and not included in the expression. Hence, it is purely denominational. I am contending for the New Testament usage which, neither "under existing conditions" nor under any other conditions, will involve "the mistake of making ourselves a denomination." The churches in Tennessee to which Brother Jackson refers are "churches of Christ in Tennessee," but they are not "the churches of Christ in Tennessee," for the simple reason that some of those who are Christians and constitute "churches of Christ" are in Tennessee who are not included in such an application of the term. "The churches of Galatia"—which, of course, means the churches of Christ in Galatia—includes all Christians in Galatia; and "the churches of Christ" in Tennessee, if we speak according to the New Testament idea, must include all Christians in Tennessee. When, using the provincial sense, I speak of "the church of Christ in Tennessee" or "the church of Christ" in any other district or territory, I include all Christians in the said territory, and not merely those of the little sect or denomination which is tending to crystallize itself around the name "church of Christ," not only to the exclusion of other Christians in the territory to which it is applied, but to the exclusion of other names by which God's church is divinely called. Precisely the same mistake is being made by this modern use of the term "church of Christ" that was and is made by the use of the term "Christian Church." Neither, when thus used, includes all the people of God in the territory to which it is applied, and hence, in all such cases, both are sectarian. In the midst of modern denominational jargon, it is difficult to speak as the word of God speaks, but we should try always to do so.

Sinning Against the Holy Spirit.

BY H. LEO B.

The Bible presents the Godhead as a triune Being—God, the Father; Christ, his Son; and the Holy Spirit. Paul said in his speech at Athens: "Being then the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and device of man." (Acts 17: 29.) Again, Paul wrote to the Colossians and, in speaking of Christ, said: "For in him dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead bodily." (Col. 2: 9.) Each member of the Godhead is an intelligent, speaking personality or Being; each is spoken of in the masculine gender and is a divine Person. These three agree in one, and have operated both in the material and spiritual realms since creation. Sometimes one has been more manifest than the other.

All through the patriarchal dispensation and through the Jewish dispensation Jehovah God was more prominent in the affairs of men. His laws and authority were given to control men, and especially the patriarchs and Jewish nation. They sinned against God in refusing to do his will. David said: "Against thee, thee only, have I sinned." (Ps. 51: 4.) And again: "I said, O Jehovah, have mercy upon me: heal my soul; for I have sinned against thee." (Ps.

41: 4.) Jehovah said to Abraham: "I know that in the integrity of thy heart thou hast done this, and I also withheld thee from sinning against me." (Gen. 20: 6.)

In the last days of the Jewish age the Christ came, and during his advent upon earth he was more prominent in the affairs of men than either of the other members of the Godhead. He represented the Father; he was vested with all authority; in him dwelt the fullness of the Godhead. He expressed divine law and exercised divine authority as he moved among men. People sinned against him. He was evil treated, chastised, cast forth, mocked, bruised, condemned, and crucified. He said to Pilate: "He that delivered me unto thee hath greater sin." (John 19: 11.) His teachings were perverted, rejected, and blasphemed. No one, it seems, had been sinned against so much as the Christ while he was here upon the earth. His life was made an object of derision and his teachings nullified in the hearts of the people.

When Christ left, the Holy Spirit came. Christ had to leave the earth before the advent of the Holy Spirit. He said: "If I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I go, I will send him unto you." (John 16: 7.) Christ left the earth, and on the day of Pentecost the Holy Spirit came. This dispensation is preëminently the Holy Spirit's dispensation. All things that Christ taught were reiterated by the Holy Spirit so that all of the New Testament Scriptures, as well as the Old Testament, had been given by the Holy Spirit. It should be remembered that this dispensation may be called a spiritual dispensation. The law is said to be spiritual (Rom. 7: 14); the teachings of the New Testament are said to be spiritual (1 Cor. 9: 11); we are said to eat spiritual food (1 Cor. 10: 3); as newborn babes, we are said to long for the spiritual milk (1 Pet. 2: 2); Christians are said to be built up a spiritual house and to offer up spiritual sacrifice (1 Pet. 2: 5); our service is called a spiritual service (Rom. 12: 1); and we are to be given a spiritual body after the resurrection (1 Cor. 15: 44). These and many other scriptures show that the present age is preëminently and dominantly a spiritual age with God's people.

All of the laws, commands, promises, and warnings of the gospel age have been given by the Spirit. All that we know about God as a loving Father and Christ as a Savior has been revealed unto us by the Spirit. "No man can say, Jesus is Lord, but in the Holy Spirit." (1 Cor. 12: 3.) To reject the testimony of the Spirit, or disobey its commands, or blaspheme its promises, or neglect its warnings, is to sin against the Holy Spirit. We have observed that the patriarchs could and did sin against God, and that the Jews sinned against Christ while he was on earth; so people to-day may sin against the Holy Spirit. When they sinned against Christ, who represented the fullness of the Godhead, they were sinning against God and the Holy Spirit; so, in sinning against the Holy Spirit to-day, we sin against God and Christ. We stand so related to the Godhead that to sin against one member of it is to sin against all. The Godhead, being a triune personality, cannot be separate. To be blessed of one member of the Godhead is to be blessed by all, and to be cursed by one member is to be cursed by all; to be saved by one member is to be saved by all, and to be condemned by one member is to be condemned by all.

The New Testament Scriptures clearly teach that there are different ways of sinning against the Holy Spirit. There may be clearly outlined seven specific sins against the Holy Spirit. (1) There is the sin of defiling the temple of the Holy Spirit. Individual Christians are said to be the temple of the Holy Spirit. "Know ye not that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit which is in you, which ye have from God?" (1 Cor. 6: 19.) Again, the church is said to be the temple of the Holy Spirit. "Know ye not that ye are a temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? If any man destroyeth the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, and such are ye." (1 Cor. 3: 16, 17.) When a believer defiles his body or corrupts the church, he is sinning against the Holy Spirit. The church is the body of Christ in which the Holy Spirit dwells, and we must keep it without spot or blemish. (2) We may grieve the Holy Spirit. Paul said: "And grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, in whom ye were sealed unto the day of redemption." (Eph. 4: 30.) When one comes into the church or body of Christ, the Holy Spirit takes up his abode in the believer. All the sins that we commit as children of God, whether by omission or by commission, grieve the Holy Spirit. There is a demand and strong appeal for a pure and consecrated life. (3) Again, there is the sin of quenching the Holy Spirit. "Quench not the Spirit." (1 Thess. 5: 19.) A failure to let the Holy Spirit lead us in all the ways of righteousness is to quench it. We must give the Holy Spirit the right of way in our lives. We must follow his teachings or else he will leave us; and "if any man hath not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his." (4) There is the sin of tempting the Holy Spirit. "But Peter said unto her, How is it that ye have agreed together to try the Spirit of the Lord?" (Acts 5: 9.) Ananias and Sapphira planned a scheme attempting to deceive the early church. Their deception was exposed by the Holy Spirit through Peter and they were punished. Peter calls this trying the Spirit, or tempting him. The punishment shows that this was a great sin. (5) There is the sin of despising the Holy Spirit. "Of how much sorer punishment, think ye, shall he be judged worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant wherewith he was sanctified an unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the Spirit of grace?" (Heb. 10: 29.) When one has been taught the gospel, reared in a Christian home, and had pious environments, yet spurns all of these, he is despising the Holy Spirit. When one is determined to live a sinful life in the face of all New Testament teachings, he is despising the Holy Spirit. When a Christian deliberately and willfully refuses to be guided by the teachings of the Holy Spirit, he is committing the awful sin of despising the Holy Spirit. This is a fearful thing to do. (6) There is the sin of resisting the Holy Spirit. Stephen said to his hearers: "Ye stiff-necked and uncircumcised in heart and ears, ye do always resist the Holy Spirit; as your fathers did, so do ye." (Acts 7: 51.) When the gentle influence of the Spirit is brought to bear on the heart of the sinner through the gospel appeal, and it is resisted, the sinner is resisting the Holy Spirit. It is dangerous for a sinner to resist the Holy Spirit. One is resisting the Holy Spirit when one hardens one's heart and turns a deaf ear to the gentle wooings of the truth of God. (7) And last, there is the sin of blaspheming the Holy Spirit. Jesus said: "And whosoever shall speak a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him; but whosoever shall speak against the Holy Spirit, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, nor in that which is to come." (Matt. 12: 32.) He had said in verse 31: "Every sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men; but the blasphemy against the Spirit shall not be forgiven." When one speaks evil of the Holy Spirit or rejects and perverts the work of the Holy Spirit, he is blaspheming the Holy Spirit.

The "Sunday School."

BY J. C. M'Q.

On page 987 of this issue is an article from H. F. Brooker, of Bradentown, Fla. Read that article carefully before reading this reply.

Before noticing his fallacious criticisms and his claims "to speak where the Bible speaks and to be silent where it is silent," I will clearly define, to the best of my ability, the Bible teaching on the subject. In the worship of the public assembly are the following items: teaching, fellowship, the breaking of bread, the prayers, and the singing. (Acts 2: 42; Col. 3: 16.) My authority for teaching is found in Matt. 28: 19, 20, which reads: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you: and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." Teaching is an act of service or worship. The early church "continued steadfastly in the apostles' teaching." (Acts 2: 42.) But while teaching is service to God, no specific method of teaching to the exclusion of other methods of imparting knowledge is revealed. The "Sunday school" is simply a method of teaching the word of God. The Bible gives us neither precept nor example for a Sunday school any more than for using a blackboard in teaching the word of God. Those who oppose the "Sunday school" as a method of teaching do so because the Bible does not give direct precept or example for this method of teaching. On the same ground they might oppose the teaching of the Bible altogether, for no manner of teaching to the exclusion of other ways of teaching is revealed. By the same course of reasoning we can discontinue to partake of the Lord's Supper, for the manner of observance is not revealed. By the same course we may discontinue the contribution, for the Bible nowhere gives direct precept or example for the manner of the contribution. When my critic puts his five cents into the contribution plate or walks up to a table and puts it into a hat or a basket, he cannot give chapter and verse for his action. He has neither precept nor example for his conduct. If he partakes of the Lord's Supper at 11 A.M. or 3 P.M. on the Lord's day, he has neither precept nor example for what he is doing. For going to prayer meeting on Wednesday night he has neither precept nor example. Will he never learn "not to go beyond the things which are written?" He should know that God has left the manner of contribution, and the way of observing the Supper, whether sitting, kneeling, or standing, and the method of teaching, to the exigencies of the case, so long as we contravene no law of his. In fundamentals we must be guided by "it is written," but in expedients we enjoy liberty. A command of God carries with it the authority to do the things necessary to obey it. When some one asks our brother to stand, as is often done, when he partakes of the emblems, he should say: "Please to excuse me. I respect the motto: 'Where the Bible speaks, we speak; and where the Bible is silent, we are silent.'" While I am charitable, I cannot "excuse" our brother, for he is constantly taking the same step for which he is condemning others. "Wherefore thou art without excuse, O man, whosoever thou art that judgest: for wherein thou judgest another, thou condemnest thyself; for thou that judgest dost practice the same things." (Rom. 2: 1.)

But some one may be ready to claim that the Sunday school and instrumental music belong in the same class; but this is inconsistent, illogical, and unscriptural. The Sunday school is simply a means and a method of teaching, while playing a musical instrument is not a method of singing. Neither is the missionary society a method of teaching the Bible, but it usurps the work and functions of the church. The Sunday school is not the church, and its intents and purposes and performances are wholly and clearly different from those of the missionary society. Men have no right to bind the church when and where God has not bound it.

I did not deny that the Hebrews should have been full-grown men, but stated the patent truth that milk is for babes and solid food for full-grown men. (Heb. 5: 12-14.) Our brother has neither precept nor example for feeding babies solid food and full-grown men milk. Because some congregations divide over Sunday schools is no evidence that they are wrong. The denominational world is divided over what the Bible does or does not teach. The ignorant not only wrest the Sunday school to their destruction, but the word of God itself. The Spirit, by Peter, says of the writings of Paul: "As also in all his epistles, speaking in them of these things; wherein are some things hard to be understood, which the ignorant and unsteadfast wrest, as they do also the other scriptures, unto their own destruction." (2 Pet. 3: 16.) Shall we burn the word of God because the ignorant and unsteadfast wrest it to their own destruction?

A. McGary locates a Sunday school in the woods far away from any church house. He says:

A certain disciple living in a backwoods community where there was no church of Christ, but where the woods were full of sectarians, conceived the idea of calling the children of that community together on Sundays to teach them the Bible, which he did regularly, Sunday after Sunday. Their regular meeting place was under a spreading oak, centrally located, as the doors of the sectarian house were closed against them. This disciple taught those children the Bible faithfully, observing the right divisions of the word.

Now, no man can deny that this was a Sunday school; for it was a school—a school taught only on one day—Sunday. Therefore, it is not in any way inappropriate to refer to it as a "Sunday school."

The four walls of a meetinghouse are not the church. Now, why cannot a man do the same thing in a meetinghouse? Although it is moved into the city and is meeting in the church house, it is the same institution that it was when it met in the woods under the oak.

The brother forgets that when he quotes the Bible he is using literature. But my reviewer teaches that nothing is a good work that the Bible does not specifically name; and as the Sunday school is not mentioned, it is not a good work, but a bad work. Sitting in communion is not named; therefore, sitting in communion is a bad work. "The Apostolic Way," the paper of the anti-Sunday-school cult, is not named in the Scriptures; so The Apostolic Way is not a good work, but a bad work. (2 Tim. 3: 16, 17.)

I teach that it is right for a woman to teach children in the church house and not in the church. If our brother does not know the difference, he should not attempt to discuss Bible subjects.

We know that Priscilla helped her husband teach Apollos the way of the Lord more accurately. Priscilla is mentioned first, which gives her the most prominence. A. McGary exposes those who oppose women's teaching in the Sunday school by showing that Paul should not have said, "Greet Priscilla and Aquila my helpers in Christ," but should have written as follows: "Greet Aquila my helper in Christ Jesus, but keep a watchful eye on his wife, Priscilla; for she is a hinderer in Christ Jesus, because she does not 'keep silence.'" Warn her to keep her mouth shut until she gets back home. Tell her that she may then and there ask her husband if she wants to know anything."

From Acts 21: 9 we learn that Philip had four virgin daughters who prophesied. It is the duty of women to teach. Woman should teach at home, teach her neighbors, and teach in the Sunday school; but in all her teaching, she should do it in a modest and womanly way.

It is the duty of the elders to teach the word of God. They must be apt to teach. Teaching is service to God. They should be in the Sunday school encouraging teaching and stimulating others to teach the word of God. No scriptural elder will refuse to teach the word of God because of the Sunday school, which is simply a means or a method of teaching.

Happiness is reflective like the light of heaven; and every countenance bright with smiles and glowing with innocent enjoyment is a mirror transmitting to others the rays of a supreme and ever-shining benevolence.—Selected.

"Lost in Transit."

BY T. B. LARIMORE.

The Gospel Advocate of August 24 says: "L. D. Perkins and wife stopped in the city en route to Cookeville, Tenn., to attend Brother Larimore's meeting."

Brother Perkins was evidently delayed or "lost in transit," for we—Mrs. Larimore and I—left Cookeville on August 31, and he had not reached Cookeville when we left there. Putnam County, of which Cookeville is the capital, is the county of his nativity, however, and it would be very natural for him to be delayed by stopping off to see friends he had long wished to meet again.

His wife and their charming daughter, Ruth Larimore Perkins, "sweet sixteen," one of my voluntary namesakes, reached Cookeville, however, in time to enjoy the meeting and add much to its interest. Ruth Larimore is a recent high-grade graduate of a California high school, and the California standard of education is high. Nevertheless, dancing is considered an important part of the high-school curriculum in California; but Ruth Larimore side-stepped that part of the curriculum, considering modern dancing, card playing, etc., incompatible with Christian character.

Brother Perkins, whom I appreciate as one of my very best friends, migrated from Tennessee to California several years ago, and finally settled at Armona, where he owns and successfully manages the largest mercantile establishment in the town. He is very earnest, very generous, very liberal, preaches the gospel acceptably, and, probably, accomplishes as much for Christ and his cause as any man in California. One of his graduation gifts to his only daughter, Ruth Larimore, was a visit "back to Tennessee," accompanied by her mother, and both of them seemed to be, when we saw them, enjoying the gift to the utmost.

"Hardeman's Tabernacle Sermons" Commended.

"Hardeman's Tabernacle Sermons" is having a remarkable sale. Nearly four thousand copies have already been sold. At the present rate the entire edition of five thousand will soon be gone. Better get yours now.

Some unsolicited expressions from those who have read "Hardeman's Tabernacle Sermons" follow:

Dear Brother Hardeman: I have just read your book of sermons preached at Nashville, Tenn., and must say they are wonderful, and will add that they have made me stronger in the faith.—J. E. Michie, Boswell, Okla.

Dear Brother Hardeman: It has been a pleasure to me to place about thirty-five of your book of sermons in the homes of the people of this vicinity, and all who have read it are highly pleased. It ought to be in every Christian home; and if put into homes of others, it would be the means of accomplishing untold good. Many have described it as the best piece of literature they have ever read.—J. Pettet Ezell, Cookeville, Tenn.

I have examined your book of Nashville sermons, and it is one of the best I have seen of that kind of literature. Every sermon is a gem.—C. D. Crouch, Ashland City, Tenn.

I think you have the happiest, kindest, plainest, and the most convincing way of expressing God's truth I ever heard or read. I think the brotherhood would have made a very great mistake if they hadn't had your sermons put in book form; for it will last through time, and eternity alone will reveal all the good it has done. I have read and re-read many of these sermons.—S. L. Carver, Antioch, Tenn.

Order the book from N. B. Hardeman, Henderson, Tenn. Price, $1.50, postpaid.

Some Modern Beatitudes.

Blessed is the man whose calendar contains prayer-meeting nights.

Blessed is the man who will not strain at a drizzle and swallow a downpour.

Blessed is the man who can endure an hour and a quarter in a place of worship as well as two hours and a half in a place of amusement.—Selected.

Home Reading

A Cowboy's Prayer.

O Lord, I've never lived where churches grow,
But I can see creation as it stood
That day you finished it so long ago
And looked upon your work and called it good.
I know that others find you in the light
That's sifted down through tinted windowpanes;
And yet I seem to feel you near to-night
In this dim, quiet starlight on the plains.

I thank you, Lord, that I am placed so well,
That you have made my freedom so complete;
That I'm no slave of whistle, clock, or bell,
Nor weak-eyed prisoner of wall and street.
Just let me live my life as I've begun
And give me work that's open to the sky;
Make me a partner of the wind and sun,
And I won't ask a life that's soft or high.

Let me be easy on the man that's down;
Let me be square and generous with all.
I'm careless sometimes, Lord, when I'm in town,
But never let 'em say I'm mean or small!
Make me as big and open as the plains,
As honest as the horse between my knees,
Clean as the wind that blows behind the rains,
Free as the hawk that circles down the breeze.

Forgive me, Lord, if sometimes I forget.
You know about the reasons that are hid.
You understand the things that gall and fret;
You know me better than my mother did.
Just keep an eye on all that's done and said,
And right me, sometimes, when I turn aside,
And guide me on the long, dim trail ahead
That stretches upward toward the Great Divide.
—Badger Clark, in Exchange.

The Little Boy and the Big Umbrella.

The little boy stepped out of the school building just as it began to rain, and the big umbrella went up over him like a small tent. You could hardly see the little boy under it, for he was so very little and the umbrella was so very big; but if you took pains to stoop down and take a peep at him, you would see a very nice little boy with apple-red cheeks and such dear blue eyes and a mouth that knew how to smile instead of to pout.

"Hello, Edgar!" said somebody. "Where did you get so much umbrella?"

"It belongs to my Grandpa Gray," said the little boy, proudly. "He lent it to me 'cause my mother can't afford to buy me one. Isn't it fine? It never leaks a speck, no matter how hard it rains, it covers me all over."

"I should say it does," said another little somebody. "You look like a toad under a cabbage leaf."

"You be another toad and get under my cabbage leaf with me, then," said the little boy, generously. "You haven't any umbrella at all, neither has Davy Wilson. It is plenty big enough for all of us, my Grandpa Gray's umbrella is; and those two little girls who haven't got any, they can walk under it, too, right along in front of us, so. It'll cover every one of us, you see."

And so it did, and pretty soon the big umbrella moved down the sidewalk, sheltering five little people from the storm, and the teachers stood watching it and saying to each other: "That dear little Edgar Gray is the kindest, most thoughtful little boy I ever saw."

The little boy and the big umbrella had to go a good deal out of their way in order to leave the little people at their homes.

But by and by the little boy and the big umbrella were left alone, and then they started home, bobbing and whistling. But they had not gone far when the little boy saw a young lady with her arms full of packages waiting for a street car. It was raining pretty hard, and the young lady had no umbrella, and she was greatly astonished to see one approaching her and a sweet little voice under it saying: "If you please, ma'am, if you'll hold it, I'll hold the packages for you. I can't reach your hat, and it'll be all spoiled."

"You certainly are the very nicest little boy I ever saw in my life," said the young lady, "and this is the best umbrella." And she gave the little boy a kiss and the umbrella a bright silver dime for their kindly service; but, of course, the little boy had to take care of the dime.

Now, what do you think of the little boy and the big umbrella?—Susan M. Griffith.

Ruth's Honor.

Ruth was the smallest girl in school. Her brown head was just even with rosy Isabel's shoulders, while big, strong Catherine often picked her up in her arms for a joke.

The girls all loved little Ruth, she was so sweet and obedient. She was the first to get her lessons done, but she was not the least bit proud over it.

One day Miss Wells, Ruth's teacher, began a new kind of number work. Each girl wrote answers on a blue strip of paper for four minutes. Then she gave the paper to the girl behind her, who corrected the answers. Ruth was not good at this. When Miss Wells looked at her watch and said, "Begin!" in a crisp, sharp voice, poor little Ruth trembled and forgot the answers.

Nearly all the children liked this. They had strips of cardboard with new numbers, as they got perfect papers, but Ruth was still on the first lesson. Miss Wells was a little cross about it, and one morning Ruth cried.

Isabel sat behind Ruth. So she was the one to mark the answers on Ruth's slip. To-day she put a big black "A" on it. This meant that Ruth had all the answers right.

Ruth's eyes shone when she saw the paper.

"The children who had perfect papers stand!" said Miss Wells.

Ruth was the first to stand. Everybody was happy that Ruth had got the hard lesson.

When she sat down, she smilingly counted the list of one hundred perfect answers. Then her cheeks grew a bright scarlet and her eyes lost their sparkle. Isabel had marked two answers right that were wrong. Ruth did not stop a minute to think. She slipped out of her seat and hurried to Miss Wells' desk.

"Isabel made a mistake on my paper," she whispered. "I have two wrong answers."

Miss Wells put her hand on Ruth's shoulder. "You are a brave girl," she declared. "It is better to keep your honor as bright as the stars than to have a thousand perfect papers."

A second little girl decided that it was worth while to keep one's honor bright and shining.

"Miss Wells," said Isabel, "I saw those mistakes, but I wanted little Ruth to be perfect."

"I don't want a perfect paper if I didn't earn it," said little Ruth.

But a strange, but pleasant, thing happened soon after that. Ruth learned to put answers down so rapidly that she was able to race with Miss Wells' watch, and everybody was happy.—Christian Leader.

Mr. Gladstone, speaking to an American boy of sixteen who managed to get an interview at Hawarden, said: "Remember that fame and notoriety are not the things which count at the last. I would be very unhappy if I felt that in being a statesman I had sacrificed any of the principles I embraced with the Christian faith."—Selected.

Query Department

BY J. C. McQUIDDY

W. J. Sweet, Juno, Tenn., sends the following question: "Suppose one is truly initiated into the body of Christ, but afterwards willfully and persistently fails or neglects to meet with brethren in the Lord's-day worship and church work, what is such a one's chance for heaven?"

Absolutely none, if he persists in such a course until death.

A sister who for satisfactory reasons wishes her name withheld inquires to know if crackers should be used in the Lord's Supper. She says: "The congregation with which I now worship uses bought crackers for the 'bread' in the communion. I have been taught from a child that the bread should be baked in one unbroken loaf. I have read every passage in the New Testament and am unable to come to a conclusion on this point. Please give me the scriptural teaching on this point. Are crackers as good to represent 'the body' as individual cups are 'the cup' or the blood?"

The loaf represents one body and not many. The passover was eaten with unleavened bread. "In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at even, ye shall eat unleavened bread, until the one and twentieth day of the month at even." (Ex. 12: 18.) As they were eating the passover supper, "Jesus took bread, and blessed, and brake it; and he gave to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body." (Matt. 26: 26.) Those who have proper respect for the New Testament will not use crackers in the Lord's Supper. The "cup" means the contents of the cup. The wine, and not the individual cups, represents the blood of Christ.

H. J. K. asks three questions concerning Cornelius' prayer. He says: "(1) For what was he praying? (2) Was his prayer answered direct, or did God, knowing Cornelius' heart, send Peter because he knew Cornelius would hear? (3) Could this instance be used (correctly) to prove that God will hear a sinner's (one out of Christ) prayer?"

1. The Bible tells us that Cornelius "prayed to God always," and also that he was "a righteous man and one that feareth God, and well reported of by all the nation of the Jews." He was serving God according to the light that he had and prayed to God always in harmony with his knowledge of God; but as the plan of salvation as it is in Christ had not been revealed to him, he did not know and could not know what to do to be saved until the way was revealed to him. But when a man honestly seeks the truth, God makes provisions for him to learn the truth. "If any man willeth to do his will, he shall know of the teaching, whether it is of God, or whether I speak from myself." (John 7: 17.) So the Lord sent Peter to Cornelius, of whom it is said, "who shall speak unto thee words, whereby thou shalt be saved, thou and all thy house." So far as I know, the Bible nowhere tells us exactly for what Cornelius was praying, but, judging from the answer he received, he must have prayed to know just what the Lord would have him to do.

2. The prayer was not answered direct, but Peter was sent to him to tell him words whereby he would be saved, because God had ordained that men should "preach the gospel to every creature." (Mark 16: 15, 16.) "So belief cometh of hearing, and hearing by the word of Christ." (Rom. 10: 17.) God heard his prayer and sent an angel to Cornelius, instructing him to send for Peter, who would tell him what to do to be saved. The angel did not tell

Cornelius words whereby he could be saved, but had him send for Peter, the object being to bring the unconverted man and Peter face to face, so that he might preach the gospel to him, which is God's power unto salvation. (Rom. 1: 16.)

3. This conversion does not encourage us to believe that God hears the prayer of him who turns away his ear from hearing the law. (Prov. 28: 9.) God hears the prayer of the man who heeds the law and who in faith moves forward in obedience, calling on the Lord. The sincere believer will pray.

An earnest inquirer wishes the language of Jesus in Matt. 19: 9 and that of Paul in Rom. 7: 1-3 harmonized. He says: "Please harmonize Matt. 19: 9, where Jesus gives a legal cause for one to marry again while both parties are living, the cause being fornication, and Rom. 7: 1-3, where Paul speaks very positively of death as the only cause that frees one to marry again. Now, since the Holy Spirit did not mention fornication as a releasing cause, through the apostles, as Christ stated it, does that nullify that cause and make death the only scriptural release to marry again, regardless of the life of the companion, when they themselves are known to lead a clean life morally?"

The passages read: "And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and he that marrieth her when she is put away committeth adultery." (Matt. 19: 9.) "Or are ye ignorant, brethren (for I speak to men who know the law), that the law hath dominion over a man for so long time as he liveth? For the woman that hath a husband is bound by law to the husband while he liveth; but if the husband die, she is discharged from the law of the husband. So then if, while the husband liveth, she be joined to another man, she shall be called an adulteress: but if the husband die, she is free from the law, so that she is no adulteress, though she be joined to another man." (Rom. 7: 1-3.) Christ in Matt. 19: 9 shows that fornication by either party breaks the marriage tie, and it is the only sin that does break it while both parties live. Christ was not considering death, but divorce, and stated fornication as the only sin for which either party could divorce the other. When either party is dead, the union is broken and no divorce is needed. In this connection Christ said nothing about death, because it had always been understood that the death of either party broke the marriage relation, and that in such a case divorce would be a farce. Paul was considering that death gives freedom from the law, and not the sin of fornication that severs the marriage tie. As the death of the husband frees the woman from the law of her husband, so when the Romans became dead to the law by obedience to Christ, they were freed from that law. Being dead to the law of Moses, that law no longer had dominion over them. As new creatures they could be espoused to another, even Christ. Paul was not considering the law of divorce at all, and in his illustration takes a loyal, faithful, and true husband and wife. Nothing but death separates such. Christ was considering that even with the unfaithful fornication was the only cause for the granting of a divorce.

Publishers' Items.

"Questions Answered," by David Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell, should have a place in every library. Those who have seen and examined it closely are highly pleased with it. Cloth bound; 700 pages. Price, $3, postpaid.

"The People's New Testament, with Notes." (Two volumes.) By B. W. Johnson. A splendid commentary, comprising the entire New Testament. Volume I., four Gospels and Acts; Volume II., Epistles and Revelation. Price, per volume, postpaid, $2.50.

The Door of Opportunity

will open to you when you open the door of our Savings Bank and deposit your first dollar to save. Rockefeller said his first thousand dollars were the hardest to get, but after he had saved them all the rest were comparatively easy. Begin saving for that first thousand right now.

4% Paid on Savings

Broadway National Bank

Corner Broadway and Third Avenue

A. E. POTTER, President

SEND US YOUR ORDERS FOR

SILKS, SUITS, COATS, AND DRESSES

Timothy Dry Goods
and Carpet Co.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

We will send you samples. We will quote you prices. We will sell you only Reliable Rugs, Art Squares, and Linoleums.

YARD-WIDE SATINS AND TAFFETAS
All Colors—$1.50

CANTON CREPES
All Colors
$2.00 to $3.50

Send us a new subscriber to the Gospel Advocate

Field Reports

Rockwood, Tenn., October 4.—After being absent for two months, I have returned to my regular work with the congregations at Rockwood and Dayton. In addition to the home work, I have held three meetings, resulting in sixty-three additions. I will now devote my efforts to the work in this part of the State. Last Lord's day was a good day at Rockwood. We had one hundred and twenty at our Bible study and a full house at night. I will be at Dayton next Lord's day, and after the first of the year will confine my efforts to Roane County, except to hold a few meetings at other places.—Will J. Cullum.

Chattanooga, Tenn., October 13.—The Ridgedale church has engaged Brother N. B. Hardeman, of Henderson, Tenn., for a meeting, to begin on the second Sunday in June, 1923. The St. Elmo Church will have Brother Gus Dunn, of Texas, to begin a meeting with them on the second Sunday in May, 1923. The Central Church has engaged Brother C. M. Pullias for a meeting in the fall of 1923. The Cowart Street Church has the promise of Brother R. E. L. Taylor to be with them in a meeting in April, 1923. The Rossville and East Chattanooga churches are planning for some good meetings next year also. So great things may be expected from Chattanooga next year, if our plans all materialize.—Jesse Beall.

Summit, Ga., October 9.—I have just closed a ten-days' meeting near Adel, Ga., which resulted in four additions to the little band that is worshipping there and striving to build up a good congregation. The nearest congregation to this one is the one at Hahira, which is some few miles from it. The interest and attendance were good throughout, and seed was sown that will spring up into a harvest later. I am now back at Summit, and the work here is in fine shape. We had a good service on Lord's-day morning. Let me say here that those who are fellowshiping me in this work may rest assured that we appreciate their help and need it all the way, for we do not have an easy road to travel in opening the way down here, and we have almost had to do it single-handed for the last year; but the joy that comes when we see the cause prosper makes it worth while.—J. Bedford Beck.

Cleveland, Ohio, October 6.—I am now at home, after being away eight weeks, and am feeling better than I have felt for a long time. Wife was with me on this trip, and she feels well over the trip. While away I preached at the following places, but only on Lord's days, for I was not physically able for protracted-meeting work: Blueville, Mount Nebo, Joetown, Sistersville, Pursley, Marietta (Ohio), Daybrook, and Red Sulphur Springs (on my father's old farm). Large and attentive audiences greeted me at all of these places. While on this trip I met the following-named preachers: Ira C. Moore, J. M. Rice, Russell Rice, J. F. Ice, A. W. Wagoner, C. D. Moore, T. H. Kirkman, W. E. Danks, Finley

B. Sapp. I also saw a host of Baptist and Methodist preachers, both North and South and black and white. The trip was both an enjoyable and profitable one in the way of recuperation of health. I am now ready to receive donations to help me to buy tracts, and especially Brother M. C. Kurfees' review of O. E. Payne's book on instrumental music, to circulate in this city. In my judgment, this is the greatest work of Brother Kurfees' life. It should be in the hands of all, especially in the hands of digressive preachers.—A. A. Bunner.

Pulaski, Tenn., October 9.—On the fourth Lord's day in September I preached for my home congregation in Pulaski, and baptized one young lady in the afternoon. That night I began a meeting at Hays Mill, Ala., and continued it one week. In that meeting I baptized two and restored one. On the first Lord's day in October I preached at New Zion, one of my regular monthly appointments in Giles County, and baptized three. The work at New Zion is steadily growing under the faithful leadership of Brother Rogers and his zealous coworkers. Brother and Sister Paisley are greatly missed there, but others have come in to fill up the gap. Yesterday I preached at home again. At the conclusion of the service Brother Shackelford was added to the eldership of the congregation and Brother Worley to the diaconate. Brother Frazier, another one of our elders, made a splendid talk, and, after some very appropriate remarks with regard to my labors with the congregation, announced that the elders had decided to give me a month's vacation. I have often used that word "vacation," but this is the first time its realities have ever come to me. All my life it has been necessary for me to work hard at something, in the field, the schoolroom, the store, or the church. I am glad my first vacation comes to me in the Master's service. I hope to visit some, work a little, and rest whenever I feel like it. When that is over, I hope to return with new energy, to take up my work for the tenth year with the Pulaski and surrounding congregations.—J. T. Clark.

Worth While.

A cheery smile will often prove
A most contagious thing.
It spreads and scatters happiness
Like blossoms in the spring.

And when things all go crookedly
And everything looks blue,
A cheery smile is well worth while
And always helps you through.

—Selected.

Homes Furnished Complete

Terms to Suit Everybody

TELEPHONE, MAIN 1096

HILARY E. HOWSE

FURNITURE, CARPETS
STOVES AND RANGES

We Exchange Furniture as Part
Payment

304-306-308 BROADWAY

105-107-109 THIRD AVE., N.

FARMERS AND MERCHANTS BANK

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

OFFICERS

A. E. POTTER, President
JOE S. BOYD, Vice President
FRANK M. THONI, Assistant Cashier
EDWARD POTTER, JR., Cashier
GEORGE W. BATES, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS

O. W. Staley	Harris Solinsky	Leon B. McQuiddy
Jos. C. Scheffer	G. A. Harrington	W. J. Wallace
John P. Stumb	L. Kornman	Justin Potter
A. E. Potter	Chris. J. Power	Louis Huggins
H. Z. Lipscomb	Joe S. Boyd	Edward Potter, Jr.

FOUR PER CENT PAID ON SAVINGS ACCOUNTS
We Invite Your Banking Business

STATE BANK AND TRUST CO.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

BROADWAY BRANCH
Ninth and Broadway

4 Per Cent Interest Paid on Deposits

A Gateway to Nature's Bounty

From the great Appalachians on the East to the "Father of Waters" on the West and from the mighty Ohio on the North to the powerful Tennessee on the South is a country wonderfully blessed with natural resources—both agricultural and mineral.

Located in the fertile valley of the Cumberland, in the center of this remarkably rich region, lies Nashville—the natural gateway to this great wealth.

For nearly forty years this bank has had an important part in the development of these native resources for the prosperity of our citizenry.

THE AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK

NASHVILLE

"A GREATER BANK

for GREATER NASHVILLE."

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

W. W. PERRY
President

A. D. PERRY
Manager

W. D. PERRY
Treasurer

We Invite Your Patronage

PERRY FURNITURE
COMPANY
GENERAL HOUSE FURNISHERS

Phone, Main 1491
208 THIRD AVENUE, NORTH
NASHVILLE, TENN.

PILES DON'T BE CUT
Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment.
My internal method of treatment is the correct
one, and is sanctioned by the best-informed physicians and surgeons. Ointments, salves, and other local applications give only temporary relief.

If you have piles in any form, write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets, and you will bless the day that you read this.
Write to-day. E. R. PAGE,
430J, Page Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

Obituaries

Goodrich.

On January 14, 1922, the congregation at Fayetteville, Tenn., lost one of the oldest, most faithful, and most loved of its membership in the death of Sister Anne Feeney Goodrich. Sister Goodrich was born on June 17, 1846, and was "born again" just as she came into womanhood, having been a member of the church of Christ more than fifty-seven years. Not only was her fidelity exhibited on the days of meeting of the congregation, but many fevered brows were soothed by her kind and tender hand, many acts of helpfulness were done "in His name," and many mistakes were overlooked in the lives of those around her because her faith in God and his children always looked for the best. Such a life can be nothing less than a living testimony to the blessedness of being in and dying in the Lord. Surely her labors were such that she can now rest from them.

J. M. GAINER.

Tooley.

Martha A. Tooley, wife of J. R. Tooley, was born on October 19, 1834, and died on September 28, 1922, making her stay on earth eighty-seven years, eleven months, and nine days. She was the daughter of John A. and Eliza Adams. She was married to J. R. Tooley on May 8, 1856. To this union were born six children—three boys and three girls. Four of them are living. She leaves her husband ("Uncle John," as he is now called), four children, nineteen grandchildren, forty-one great-grandchildren, and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn their loss. Sister Tooley obeyed the gospel in the year 1870. She was a follower of Christ about fifty-two years. She worshiped most of that time with the little band of disciples at New Liberty, in Macon County, Tenn. In the death of Sister Tooley we bid adieu to a faithful wife, a loving mother and grandmother, and a faithful, devoted, consecrated, Christian. "Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep!"

J. M. DENNIS.

Arrington.

Brother R. W. Arrington departed this life on September 17, 1922. He was born on August 8, 1867, near Stephens, Ark., not far from the place of his death. By previous request of Brother Arrington, Brother Hartsell, of Waldo, Ark., spoke words of comfort to the sorrowing family and friends at the burial. On Thursday before his death he announced to his family that he would meet his Lord at sundown on Lord's day. This statement was literally fulfilled at sundown on that day. His affliction began about three years ago, and his suffering increased rapidly during the past year and became intense as he neared the end. He was baptized by Brother Hookins, and spent about twenty years preaching the word. He was active and zealous in both preaching and debating. He was true to the word and very bold in defending it. He started many young men to preaching the gospel.

Like the waves of the great deep, the influence of his labors will reach to shores beyond. His wife and children shared with him the labors and sacrifices of his life. E. V. MILLS.

Foster.

Brother George W. Foster, seventy-nine years of age, died at his home, near Fayetteville, Tenn., on September 16, 1922. He had been a member of the church of Christ for thirty-eight years. While he never took part in the public work of the church, his faith in the word of God and its power to save never wavered, and he died in the triumph of the Christian faith. He was twice married, and leaves a wife and thirteen living children, two having preceded him to the grave. In 1861 he enlisted in Company A, Eighth Tennessee Regiment, C. S. A.; was severely wounded at the battle of Murfreesboro, Tenn.; and was afterwards transferred to Forrest's Escort, where he served with marked bravery until the surrender at Gainesville, Ala., on May 9, 1865, where he was paroled. He was an honorable and upright citizen, a kind and faithful husband and father, and a true friend. Funeral services were held at Belfast, Tenn., by Brother B. F. Hart and myself, after which he was laid to rest in the family burying ground in the beautiful cemetery there. T. C. LITTLE.

Poe.

Sister Carrie Wright Poe, wife of the late John T. Poe, was buried at Longview, Texas, on September 15, by the side of her husband. Eight days before her death she was amusing some children in the yard, when she stepped backward on a stick, falling and crushing her hip, from which she died. She and Brother Poe were married in the year 1863. Six children were born to them, but only four girls are now living. Brother Poe died nearly five years ago. One of the outstanding and worthy features of Sister Poe's long life of seventy-eight years was her service rendered to suffering humanity. Like holy women of old, she was full of almsdeeds and served humanity cheerfully. She knew what it meant to be a faithful helpmeet to a minister of the gospel and labored earnestly with him for many years. Many of her friends of long years attended the funeral and mourned her departure with the girls. Thus ends the earthly career of a faithful mother in Israel, to unite with the ransomed throng where "pleasures are untold and joys are for evermore." Our sympathies are extended freely to the four daughters and many friends.

J. W. DUNN.

Kilgore.

Brother Vickrey and family started from Perry, Ark., on August 11, with his brother-in-law, S. M. Kilgore, and wife, she being a sister of Sister Vickrey, to "Ford" it through to California. They traveled on till in the mountains of New Mexico, when Mr. Kilgore took seriously ill, and they stopped and doctored him up for nearly a week, thought he was better, and started on again, when he grew worse, and at the Needles in California they flagged the train and put him and his wife on, sending them to the hospital in San Bernardino. Mr. Kilgore died at the hospital on Saturday morning, September 23, at 1 A.M. Mrs. Kilgore came on to Sierra Madre, shipping the remains here, and the body was laid to rest in the Sierra Madre Cemetery, the writer conducting the services. It was a very sad affair indeed. Mr. Kilgore had contracted malaria before leaving Arkansas. He and his wife were well and favorably known in Dallas and El Paso, Texas, also at Russellville, Ark., where they were living before coming to California. They were married in Dallas, Texas, on August 12, 1908, by Brother L. S. White, and lived most happily together. Having been a strong, healthy man, his sudden death was a terrible shock to those near and dear to him, especially his dear companion, who is in delicate health. J. H. MOORE.

Williams.

On July 6, 1922, the immortal spirit of James A. Williams quietly passed to the great beyond. He had many friends and loved ones who with willing hands waited upon him during his afflictions, among whom was his loving wife, to whom he was married on October 29, 1867. They were truly devoted to each other as husband and wife from the date of marriage to the hour of death. Sister Williams is very lonely because of his death, but she is willing to submit to the will of the Heavenly Father who has blessed them with a long and happy life fraught with many blessings secured by diligent services. Too, she has loving children to comfort her in her lonely hours—Mrs. Fillmore Roddy, James A. Williams, Jr., and Dr. W. Miles Williams, of Nashville, Tenn., and T. K. Williams, of Decherd, Tenn., (Dr. Walter Williams died in early manhood), being five children born to their union. Brother Williams was born in Wilson County, Tenn., on January 23, 1838. He entered the Confederate service in May, 1861, and joined the Seventh Tennessee Cavalry under Col. Robert Hutton, and served as a faithful soldier until the close of the war, after which he came to Jackson County and settled and lived in and near Gainesboro until the time of his death. He was a man very active in business, owning and operating a good farm on the river, also connected with the mercantile business. In 1889 he was instrumental in organizing the Bank of Gainesboro and served as cashier until 1914, at which time he became president and held said position until his death. Brother Williams was a very successful business man, but the fact that he was a Christian gives the greater consolation to his friends in the hour of distress. He obeyed the gospel in the latter part of 1877, and was an active member of the church of Christ until death. Because of his noble life in faithful services here the Lord will give him an abundant entrance into that heavenly kingdom where the redeemed ones forever abide. He was a man that possessed the sweetest spirit, the strongest faith, the most active zeal, the kindest manners, pure life, and firm convictions. Truly it can be said of him: "The world is better because of his having lived." He now rests from his labors, and, if we live righteous lives in Christ Jesus, we shall join him "over there." JOHN W. FOX.

Send No Money

When You Answer This Advertisement

Dear Friend:

I believe I have a spectacle better than any I have ever handled before and I would like every reader of this paper to try a pair. The lenses are guaranteed to be perfect. They are ground of the same crystal as the most expensive glasses are made of, and by the same manufacturers. I want you to take particular notice of this latest style frame which is 10K Gold Filled and has ZYLO SHELL RIMS around the glasses which gives them a most beautiful appearance and prevents a great deal of breakage.

They Will Help You to See Perfectly

Through these glasses of mine you will be able to read fine print easily at reading distance. You will not have to hold your reading at arm's length or even farther off to read the fine print, as you may be doing now, and thereby straining your eyes. They will fit you for any close work if that is what you want them for, or to look way off in the distance, whichever you prefer, so that you can easily recognize a friend even at a good distance away. They will help you to see plainly to file your saw or to sight your gun perfectly if you go hunting. I claim they are perfect in vision and the most comfortable to wear, that is why we call them Perfect Vision Zylo Shell Rim Comfort Spectacles.

I Don't Want You to Take My Word For It.

Try Them Out For Yourself. You Have Nothing to Lose.

I want to send you a pair of these Perfect Vision Zylo Shell Rim Comfort Spectacles on one condition only, that you are to try them out thoroughly for ten days and only keep them if they fit you perfectly. If, however, you are not fully convinced after you have given them a proper test that they are a perfect fit and are perfectly comfortable to wear you are to return them to us without a cent of pay and you will owe us nothing for this Free Trial. Can anything be fairer? Fill out the below coupon at once and let me send you these glasses including a Spring Back Pocket Book Spectacle Case by return mail.

Cut Out the Coupon on This Line

ST. LOUIS SPECTACLE HOUSE, Room 12 ST. LOUIS, MO.

I herewith enclose this coupon, which entitles me, by return mail, to a pair of your Gold-filled Zylo Shell Rim Perfect-Vision Comfort Spectacles, complete, in a fine Spring Back Pocketbook Spectacle Case, without any cost to me, so I can try them out for fully ten days. If I like the glasses and keep them, I am to pay you $3.85 only—no more and no less. But if, for any reason whatever, I don't wish to keep them I will return the spectacles to you without paying you a cent for them. With this understanding I mail you this coupon.

Don't fail to answer the following questions:

How old are you?.....How many years have you used glasses?.....

Name

Post Office

Rural Route.....Box No.....State

Street No.

USEFULNESS OF BLACK-DRAUGHT

Louisiana Lady Tells How This Well-Known Liver Medicine Helped Her Obtain Relief.

Baton Rouge, La.—“After having used many laxatives, I chanced to hear of Black-Draught, and decided to use it as a liver tonic,” says Mrs. E. B. Odom, of 838 South Boulevard, this city.

“Black-Draught acted on my liver, cleansed my system, and I was in much better condition after having used it,” says Mrs. Odom.

“Black-Draught relieves the swimming, or lightness, in the head.

“It relieves the heavy feeling after meals, which indicated to me it was good for indigestion.

“So I keep Black-Draught in the house and use it for colds, headache, sour stomach, and torpid liver. I have told my friends, and they use it also.

“My present health is improved wonderfully.”

Thousands of people have learned of the value of Black-Draught from personal experience and have chosen it as their favorite powdered liver medicine. It is purely vegetable; not disagreeable to take; causes no bad after-effects.

When you get up in the morning with a bad taste in your mouth, stomach not right, bilious, or have a headache, try a dose of Black-Draught. Keep a package in your home, ready for immediate use when needed.

Ask your druggist for Black-Draught liver medicine. See that the package label bears the name, “Thedford’s.”

“My Cup Runneth Over.”

BY CLAUD F. WITTY.

God serves with a lavish hand. Witness how much light and heat we get from the sun; see how many stars he has placed in the heavens, how much water in the seas, rivers, and clouds; how many fishes in these seas; how many beasts in the fields and forests; and observe how freely he has given us the flowers.

Also, he is very generous with the necessities of life, such as the coal, oils, gases, metals, and chemicals he has placed in the bosom of the earth; the fruits, vegetables, and grains, and many other things that he has placed in his great storehouse for man's free use.

Nor has he withheld in the slightest degree the beauties of nature, such as the Grand Canyon, the Yosemite Valley, the Niagara Falls, the Wonders of the Yellowstone National Park, the mountains of Colorado, Switzerland, and other places.

Suppose that God had made the world on the same principle that a stingy landlord builds a tenement house. There would be just enough room for us to get around in, just enough thin air for us to breathe, just enough water for us to make out with, just enough fuel to keep us from freezing, just enough cotton and wool to cover our bodies (no silks or furs at all), just enough flowers for the sick, just enough light to enable us to feel our way around in, just enough coarse food to keep us from starving—just enough of everything to enable us to barely get by on.

Satan, on the other hand, serves in a stingy manner. What did he ever give his most faithful servant that was really worth while? “Give,” did I say? He doesn't give; he takes. He takes the blush from the cheek of virtuous womanhood; he takes the smile from the face of innocent childhood; he takes the coal from the bin of the freezing, the last crust of bread from the mouth of the starving, the education from the mind of the ambitious boy, and the priceless treasure of purity from young womanhood; and in mock generosity he gives the deceptive bubble of worldly pleasure.

Let me serve with a Christian hand. Let me serve as my Master served. So generous was he that he even gave his life. He fed the thousands in the desert on the bread of this world, and offers the bread of life to the millions of hungry souls in all generations. He gave of his time, he gave of his sympathy, he gave forgiveness; he gave love, and he gave salvation to all that were weary and heavy-laden, and down through the ages his call is: “Whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely.” Truly, he serves till our cups are running over.

Health Brings Beauty Every Woman Should Read This

Bankston, Ala.—“I had been down with trouble of a feminine character for a good many years. I took medicine from different doctors, but it did not do me any good. Then I heard of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and I ordered some of this medicine. I took six dollars' worth of it, and I would not take sixty for the good it did me. I surely can praise Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I don't intend to be without it in my home as long as I can get it. I would advise every woman that is bothered with trouble from which women suffer to use this prescription.”—Mrs. Williamson, Route 2.

Get this Prescription of Dr. Pierce's in tablets or liquid and see how quickly you will have sparkling eyes, a clear skin, and vim, vigor, vitality. Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

HER AILMENTS ALL GONE NOW

Mrs. Sherman Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg- etable Compound

Lake, Michigan.—“About one year ago I suffered with irregularities and a weakness and at times was obliged to stay off my feet. I doctored with our family physician and he finally said he could not understand my case, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After I had taken the first bottle I could see that I was getting better. I took several bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I am entirely cured of my ailments. You may publish this letter if you wish.”—Mrs. MARY SHERMAN, Route 2, Lake, Mich.

There is one fact women should consider and that is this. Women suffer from irregularities and various forms of weakness. They try this and that doctor, as well as different medicines. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, and Mrs. Sherman's experience is simply another case showing the merit of this well-known medicine.

If your family physician fails to help you and the same old troubles persist, why isn't it reasonable to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

Renew your health
by purifying your system with

The purified and refined
calomel tablets that are free
from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel
and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c
and 35c packages, bearing
above trade-mark.

“Don't knock the schools too hard unless you are sure that you are doing your part in the home.”

Meeting at Liberty, Ark.

BY J. D. TANT.

Five years ago we had a good church at Liberty, but some introduced the organ and tore it up. Then the organ lovers went to other parts, and the church house has been standing idle.

Through the efforts of W. C. Evans and J. B. Martin, I was called there for a mission meeting. During this meeting we had more shouting and rejoicing than I have seen in the church of Christ for twenty years. Quite a number were baptized, and, with those who came back from the devil's side and confessed their wrongs, there were sixty-seven additions in all. I appointed leaders for the church and four Bible teachers for their classes, and all went to work.

One good man who had preached in the Freewill Baptist Church for forty years heard me one week, and he seemed to be surprised to know that there was a church of Christ which taught the Bible doctrine. He said he had been teaching the same for forty years, contending with the Baptists that there is only one church, and that the church of Christ, and that baptism is for the remission of sins. He begged to have fellowship with us. He said he did not come changing his faith, as he had been teaching the Bible as I was teaching it for forty years. He and his whole family took a stand with the church of Christ at Liberty; and as they all have good records, I am sure they will do much good.

Brother W. C. Evans, an able preacher and a good man, is clerking at Mansfield, and there is an effort now on foot for the five churches of Christ in that part to put him out as an evangelist all the time next year. If they fail, I hope some other church will support him to preach all the time.

They wanted me to promise three more meetings there next year, but I do not promise any church a second meeting until I see how the last medicine I gave them operates. If they go to work, I will be glad to help them. If they do not, I cannot waste two meetings on sorry members.

Unhappy is the man to whom his mother has not made all other mothers venerable

Refreshes Weary Eyes

When Your Eyes feel Dull and Heavy, use Murine. It Instantly Relieves that Tired Feeling—Makes them Clear, Bright and Sparkling. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.

MURINE
FOR YOUR EYES

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS

Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

The Plum Street Church ofChrist, Detroit, Mich.,

Now meets in its new building, corner
Hamilton Boulevard and Tuxedo Avenue.
Visiting brethren welcome.

PYORRHEA CUREDOr No Pay—Free Trial Treatment

Write to-day for Sample Bottle, sent free with booklet fully describing this guaranteed wonder cure for Pyorrhea, Loose Teeth, Bleeding and Ulcerated Gums, Abscesses, Gum Bolls, etc. Send name and address to-day.
MOORE'S LABORATORIES,
Dept. 1093, 1422 Lydia, Kansas City, Mo.

BE YOUR OWN BOSS
RUN A BUSINESS
OF YOUR OWN
BE RICH

Why Not Be Attractive

MAKE YOUR OWN CANDY PERFUMES
TOILET ARTICLES

WHY PAY FANCY PRICES

When the finest Perfumes, Cream Chocolates, Bon-Bons and Beauty Creams are easily made at home. Costs but few pennies to make. Send 25c for formula and great free Catalog. Address

THE AVION CO.,
6309 Yale Av., Dept. A. Chicago, Ill.

IOWA PHYSICIAN MAKES STARTLING OFFER TO CATARRH SUFFERERS

Found Treatment Which Healed His Own Catarrh, and Now Offers to Send It Free to Sufferers
Anywhere

Davenport, Iowa.—Dr. W. O. Coffee, Suite 726 St. James Hotel Building, this city, one of the most widely known physicians and surgeons in the Central West, announces that he found a treatment which completely healed him of catarrh in the head and nose, deafness, and head noises, after many years of suffering. He then gave the treatment to a number of other sufferers, and they state that they also were completely healed. The Doctor is so proud of his achievement, and so confident that his treatment will bring other sufferers the same freedom it gave him, that he is offering to send a ten-days' supply absolutely free to any reader of this paper who writes him. Dr. Coffee has specialized on eye, ear, nose, and throat diseases for more than thirty-five years, and is honored and respected by countless thousands. If you suffer from nose, head, or throat catarrh, catarrhal deafness, or head noises, send him your name and address to-day.

FRED K. JONES

Buying, Selling, and Exchanging
REAL ESTATE

I Make an Effort to Assist All
Who Call on Me

43 ARCADE

NASHVILLE, TENN.

I Cured My Fits

by simple discovery. Doctors gave me up, says Mrs. P. Gramm of 939 4th Street, Milwaukee, Wis. If you wish to try the same treatment I did, FREE, write to Mr. Lepso, Dept. 36 895 Island Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.

ONLY A COLD

BUT DON'T NEGLECT IT

A cold is an acute catarrh which can easily become chronic. A great many diseases may be traced to a catarrhal condition of the mucous membranes lining the organs or parts.

PE-RU-NA

AN IDEAL EMERGENCY REMEDY

Just a few doses taken in time have saved thousands from serious sickness. For fifty years Pe-ru-na has been the popular family medicine for coughs, colds, catarrh, stomach and bowel disorders and all diseases of catarrhal origin.

KEEP IT IN THE HOUSE

Tablets or Liquid Sold Everywhere

Dodson's Liver ToneInstead of Calomel

Calomel is quicksilver. It attacks the bones and paralyzes the liver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it will regulate the liver, stomach, and bowels better than calomel, without sickening or salivating you. Fifteen million bottles sold.

PIANOS
AND VICTROLAS

Sold for Cash or on Easy Payments

M. F. SHEA

305 Fifth Avenue, North
NASHVILLE, TENN.

PILES
CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or call without delay. Private reception rooms for ladies. Established since 1912. Free X-Ray examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

"A God-sent Blessing"

is what one mother writes of Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. Thousands of other mothers have found this safe, pleasant, effective remedy a boon when baby's little stomach is upset. For constipation, flatulency, colic and diarrhoea, there is nothing like

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

The Infants' and Children's Regulator
It is especially good at teething time. Complete formula on every label. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients.

At all Druggists
Write for free booklet of letters from grateful mothers.
ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO.
215-217 Fulton St. New York

General Selling Agents:
Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc.
New York, Toronto, London, Sydney

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate, and send us a new subscriber.

An Urgent Appeal for Mission Fund.

BY I. B. BRADLEY.

Our efficient and consecrated mission worker, Sister Sarah Andrews, has so greatly improved in health that she is ready to go back to Okitsu, Japan, to her field of labor and continue the good work she began there three years ago last July. Since coming to America for her rest and recuperation her health has not been very good until within the last three or four months. She has grown so much stronger and her health has improved so rapidly that she has determined to return at the end of this year to take up her labors again.

This presents the problem of getting the means for her transportation and support on foot once more. So I am writing this to the churches and brethren that supported her during her former five-years' stay in Japan and asking that you take up the work again. She needs no commendation to you, other than to say that she is better qualified to do the work than on her first trip, having spent the last school year in David Lipscomb College. She accomplished a great work during the five years she spent there before, and we can but expect as good service—or even better—this time. So I want to request those who have been and are still interested in mission work—and in Sister Andrews—to send me your contribution for this work. It will require five hundred dollars to take her to Japan and supply her with funds for the first month. This is not a very large sum for the church of Christ to raise, and I trust that there will not be any delay on the part of those who believe in missions in getting this amount ready for this work. When I made the appeal for her expense money seven years ago, for her first trip, it required only a little over two months to get up the required amount. Sister Andrews wants to be ready to sail on a boat leaving sometime about the first to the middle of December. So we will have to do our work quickly to have the needed funds ready for her. Do not let her be delayed in making the start, but let us have the money ready when the set time comes, so that she may get to her post and ready to begin with the new year. Her work is one of the most promising in the Oriental outposts and should be well supported and encouraged every way.

Do not lay this aside and forget it, but get your check book out and send me a liberal donation while it is on your mind. The Master said: "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." Also: "This gospel shall be preached in the whole world." It is bearing fruit among the Japanese, and it is well worth while that we support the work that has been begun in so promising a field. Ask yourself the question: "Were our position and that of the Japanese reversed, would I appreciate the support of the gospel among us by them?" Then remember that the Master said: "All things ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them." Send me a liberal contribution to this fund and tell me that you will stand by the work.

She has asked me to take the pleasant task of looking after the support for this work again, as I did when she was on her first stay, and I have agreed to do so. My address is 513 St. Charles Avenue, West End, Birmingham, Ala. Send your contribution to me at once, and let me get the matter in hand in time to get her on her way at the time she has set—December.

To be poor toward God is to be poor indeed.—Christian Work.

FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER

The Indianapolis Cancer Hospital, Indianapolis, Ind., has published a booklet which gives interesting facts about the cause of cancer, also tells what to do for pain, bleeding, odor, etc. A valuable guide in the management of any case. Write for it today, mentioning this paper.

TETTERINE

Makes low necks and short sleeves possible. It clears the skin

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Deafness

Perfect hearing is now being restored in every condition of deafness or defective hearing from causes such as Catarrhal Deafness, Relaxed or Sunken Drums, Thickened Drums, Boaring and Hissing Sounds, Perforated, Wholly or Partially Destroyed Drums, Discharge from Ears, etc.

Wilson Common-Sense Ear Drums

"Little Wireless Phones for the Ears" require no medicine but effectively replace what is lacking or defective in the natural ear drums. They are simple devices, which the wearer easily fits into the ears where they are invisible. Both safe and comfortable. Write today for our 128 page FREE book on DEAFNESS, giving you full particulars and testimonials. WILSON EAR DRUM CO., Incorporated 240 Inter-Southern Bldg. LOUISVILLE, KY.

Church Furniture
WORK OF THE HIGHEST QUALITY
AT REASONABLE PRICES
Write for Catalogue
BUDDE & WEIS MFG. CO.
JACKSON, TENNESSEE

Skin Troubles
— Soothed —
With Cuticura

Soap, Ointment, Talcum, 25c. everywhere. Sample free of Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

Stop Itching

Skins with Tetterine

60c. at your druggist's or from
SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Chronic Constipation

Relieved Without the Use of Laxatives

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe.

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving.

Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it. Try it today.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

The Popular Preacher.

BY H. M. PHILLIPS.

There has been, is, and will be an effort by many to be a popular preacher. The effort should be made to please God. When a preacher makes it his aim to please and attract the crowd instead of preaching the word, it is time some one should kindly, yet firmly, insist on his proclaiming the word. Paul, in 2 Tim. 4: 1, 2, charged Timothy to "preach the word"—to "be instant in season, out of season." This, I think, would leave no room for preaching something else other than the word. Now, for a preacher to tell a lot of yarns at the beginning of a meeting to draw the crowds and fail to preach the word, so that you cannot tell him from any denominational preacher, surely is not what God wants. Some one might be there who would not be there again, and he needs the word. "But," says one, "we do that to get the crowd, and then we will preach the word." So to such it means that the gospel is not enough to draw, nor do they intend to use the power of God, but tell a lot of things to entertain and then use God's power. In fact, it means use man's power a part of the time and then God's. I have heard persons say that they used solos, instrumental music, and such like, to get the crowds. Many would say that that is not right, but the word is to draw; and if the word will not attract, it is not right to use worldly inventions. Many preachers will say this is true, and at the same time will tell a lot of yarns to get the crowd. Now, which is worse—to have good music to get the crowds, or tell yarns? For a man to preach several sermons and be so indefinite that from his preaching you cannot tell what he is, or fail to preach the plan of salvation when he is supposed to be there to tell sinners what to do, is failing to preach the word. A sermon without any points, edges, corners, or projections in it is evidently too smooth to make an impression pleasing to God. What we need is more Bible preaching and less of the entertaining, attractive, worldly kind. There are too many who want this compromising sort of preaching, and not a few preachers fall for it to get the crowds, as well as the praise and money that go with it. A preacher who preached only the Bible the first year, and less the next, and so little the third year that he could not be told from a sectarian, surely had a motive, which was not to follow Paul's charge to Timothy. If the church of Christ and her preachers have any right to exist, it is because the word is practiced and preached; and when that is neglected, I fail to see why such an existence should be main-

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels with
"California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels, and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

THE B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.

We are preparing our mailing list for our New Catalogue. If you are interested in a free copy, write us.

B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.
CHURCH STREET
Nashville, Tennessee

ECZEMA IS CURABLE

Write me to-day, and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. Send no money—just write me—that is all you have to do.

Address
DR. CANNADAY, 1225 Park Sq., Sedalia, Mo.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, back-aches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

tained. If the church of Christ and her preachers act and preach as the denominations, it means one of two things—the church has become denominational or the denominations have become the church of Christ. It is not always a good sign for the denominations to speak so well of, and to be so dearly in love with, a preacher of the church of Christ. To select a preacher merely because he will get the different churches to come to hear him is not always best for the one cause. It is true that there were no denominations by the names which we call them in the days of Paul, but religious sects were existing that in principle advocated much that is stressed to-day. Paul and others encountered them, and no compromise was made. We should do the same. The popular preacher gets the reward of men, but not the approval of God. The preacher who preaches to entertain and attract the crowds by neglecting to preach the word is surely not one of the called of God, and the members who are so well pleased by such are not the elect, faithful, and true. The present time as much as ever demands real faithfulness to the Book. Let us all contend for the faith, speak the truth in love, and preach the word, regardless of popularity.

New York City Mission.

BY E. E. SHOULDERS.

As a result of our open-air street meeting last evening (September 27), one young lady made herself known that she was a member of the church. From now on we hope to have her with us regularly. We feel that we are doubly paid for our preaching on the street through the summer. We expect to keep the street work going until cold weather.

This spurs us on to work harder and to faithfully "preach the word." We are confident, "according to the Scriptures," that all who have been praying for the success of this work and sending contributions to keep it going are now being rewarded for their steadfastness in their support. "So shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and prosper in the thing whereto I sent it." Let us continue to be patient in preaching His word, that it "may run and be glorified." Send all contributions to George M. McKee, Box 15, Station N, New York, N. Y.

SORES

BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPIING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

TETTERINE for the COMPLEXION

60c at your druggist's or from
Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

SOLD
50
YEARS

If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

EXPERT DYEING AND DRY CLEANING

SEND BY PARCEL POST

"Over Forty Years"

Experience"

McEWEN'S LAUNDRY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Book-let giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

BOOK OF PRAYERS
Complete Manual of several hundred terse, pointed, appropriate Prayers for use in Church, Prayer Meetings, Young People's Society, Sunday Schools, Missionary, Grace and Sentence Prayers. Question of How and What to Pray in Public fully covered by model, suggestive and devout Prayers. Vest Pocket size, 128 pages. Cloth 25c, Morocco 35c. postpaid, stamps taken. Agents Wanted. GEO. W. NOBLE, Monon Building, Chicago, Ill.

DEEP-SEATED FRECKLES

Need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women for over 14 years, and rid yourself of these homely spots. Ask for

Othine--Double Strength

At all Druggists and Department Stores.

Stop that Pain!

It's spoiling your enjoyment and ruining your health.

When you're suffering from headache, neuralgia, sciatica, rheumatism, earache, toothache or any other pain.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will bring relief without unpleasant after effects.

Buy them of your Druggist.

Gospel Advocate

Volume LXIV. No. 43.

NASHVILLE, TENN., OCTOBER 26, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

Is the Bible of God?.....	1009
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	1010
What We Have Seen—The Gospel—Queen of the Home—Notes from West Tennessee—John Baptist: The Man and the Mission—Walking by Faith—Too Quick to Believe and Too Slow to Believe—Our Missionary to Japan.....
EVANGELISTIC NOTES.....	1016
EDITORIAL.....	1018
"The Kingdom of God Cometh Not with Observation"—"Because I Do Not Believe It.".....
Bellbuckle, Tenn.....	1020
An Important Matter.....	1021
A Worthy Brother in Need.....	1023
An Explanation.....	1025
Colley-Tyndall Debate.....	1026
Who is to Blame?.....	1027
OBITUARIES.....	1028
Dodson—Mingle—Pennington—Dotson—Price.....
Lesson to Young Parents.....	1029
"The Great Commission".....	1030
An Appeal.....	1031

IS THE BIBLE OF GOD?

[The following is a reprint from D. Lipscomb in the Gospel Advocate of 1901. It was written in answer to a communication in reference to the advocacy by a certain "freethinker" of "the gospel of science, the Darwinian theory of evolution, skepticism, Ingersollism, and every other ism that is calculated to lead many of the saints away."—H. Leo B.]

There are many marks that prove the divine origin of the Bible. Its scope and compass are above the powers of the human mind. A man could come as near creating a world as he could originate and carry forward a revelation covering the origin, duty, and destiny of man, with an unbroken continuity reaching through four thousand years. Through four thousand years this revelation goes forward by different persons, in different stations of life, in different countries, keeping constantly in view one and the same end and purpose, this revelation becoming clearer, broader, and rising higher with each forward step. There is, in other words, harmony and oneness in the design and purpose of the Bible from the first verse of Genesis to the last chapter of Revelation. The first and last chapters of the Bible are closely connected, and are related to each other as cause and effect; yet they were written thousands of years apart and in different countries and languages. All the intervening books and chapters are connecting links between these and connect the aim and end. To one capable of apprehending the truth this of itself settles the question of its divine origin.

The spirit and style of the writings of the Bible assert their superhuman origin. In all the Bible there are no compliments paid or praises of the heroes or any partisan tinge to the spirit of the narrative. Transparent, passionless fairness and impartiality mark all of the narratives of the Bible. There is never an expression of praise or blame in any of the biographies given. The life and doings of Christ are written by those who adored him as their Savior, their Lord and Christ; yet not one word of praise is given him in all the records. They tell that he did or said this or that. They tell that some said he was a good man; others, that he was a bad man; but no opinion of his merits, not one word of praise or partiality from them, is found in their writings. When giving an account of the enemies, opposers, and persecutors of the people of God and of Christ and the writers, not a word of reproach or blame is found. A simple, plain, untinged narrative of facts is given, and these are left to make their impression on the reader. No human being unaided by the Spirit of God has ever been able to write a document so impartial—not even a page or two. They all either praise or blame, show partiality for or against their heroes. The writers were lifted above this weakness of fallible mortals.

Then the character of the God of the Bible commends itself to the consciences of all true men. He is the omnipotent Creator of the heavens and the earth, the all-wise Ruler of the universe. "Justice and righteousness are the foundations of his throne." He is holy and pure; he inhabits eternity, dwells in the high and holy place, also with him—that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the hearts of the lowly and the contrite ones. (Isa. 57: 15.) "The Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth, keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, and that will by no means clear the guilty; visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, and upon the children's children, unto the third and to the fourth generation." (Ex. 34: 6, 7.) This last quality is sometimes objected to, yet it is but a different form of expressing the law of creation—that like begets its like—and this same law transmits the good of the fathers to the children for a thousand generations. (Deut. 7: 9.) Take this character of God and tell what quality you would strike from it; that would not mar and destroy its perfection, and what you could add to it, without the same result. Men in all ages and among all tribes of earth, from the beginning, have been making for themselves gods. Tell me which one can be compared with the God of the Bible in character, power, or work. Gods of man's make have all been gods of lust and cruelty and weakness and crime. The character and work of God as presented in the Bible proclaim the Bible divine in its origin, end, and aim. Nothing approaching or akin to it can be found in all the books of human mythology. Then when we come to compare what some narrow minds call the "cruelties" and "fables" of the Bible, they will all be found, when examined in all their relations, in perfect harmony with and growing out of this perfect character of God as presented in the Bible—not of a one-sided character growing out of one quality unaffected by the others, but of a character formed by the harmonious blending of all these qualities that enter into the formation of the character of the God of the Bible. I am willing to undertake to show that all of the acts attributed to God are in harmony with this character, if any wish to put me to the test. Now what would become of man—how helpless and hopeless his condition would be!—if he had not a God like the God of the Bible to deal with him? Left to himself, man could never formulate such a character of God.

Jesus Christ, when he sowed the seed of his kingdom, challenged the world to judge the tree by its fruits. That tree has been growing on earth for nearly nineteen hundred years. It has had ample time to prove, by its fruit, its true character. I am ready to say that if the fruit borne during this nineteen hundred years does not vindicate its divine origin and right to live it ought to die. We cannot judge of this fruit by comparing one reared in a Bible land, who disbelieves the Bible, with others in the same land who believe it. This unbeliever received his intellectual, moral, and spiritual training under influences derived from the Bible. The Bible has developed intellectual and moral influences where its teachings have been known, of which no one reared in them can divest himself. Mr. Ingersoll and our friend both received their intellectual and moral training under Bible influences. It is said that Mr. Ingersoll tried to make the Sermon on the Mount the rule of life in his family. They learned from the Bible not to beat their wives or to plug saw logs. There is not a people in the world where the Bible is not known that think it wrong to beat their wives or to cheat, nor do the wives think it wrong for the husbands to beat them. The Bible forbids wife beating and stealing, as our friend knows; and it is as dishonest for him to attribute these wrongs to it as it is for his Christian neighbors to beat their wives or plug their saw logs, as he intimates they do. One slanders God in attributing to his word what he knows God forbids; the others slander him by professing to be his followers, yet violating his laws. Men and women may learn morality and virtue from the Bible, and yet turn against it; but virtue and morality are almost unknown where the Bible is unknown. The Bible has never injured a soul, but has lifted up and purified every one, the lowest and the vilest as well as the better trained, who have followed its teachings.

Gospel Advocate Company.

BY H. LEO B.

Every home ought to have many good books in it. New books of great value should be added to the home library and the young people should be encouraged to read wholesome literature. The Gospel Advocate Company will help you to select just such books as will be a blessing to your home.

"Center Shots at Sin. By Arthur Talmage Abernethy. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

An arsenal of religious ammunition, assembled by a strategist experienced in fighting uphill. The author is a strong and virile thinker; his style, clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eye-opener.

"The Glorious Gospel." By Adam K. Adcock. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

"No one except a thorough and devout student of the Scriptures could have written 'The Glorious Gospel.' The author shows excellent analytic and synthetic power and knowledge in the selection and organization of the biblical teaching on the various subjects treated." (Christian Journal.)

"Sermons for the People." By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

Few books of sermons combine the qualities of interest, instruction, and inspiration to the degree in which they are united in this volume. The author is a master in the field of popular sermonizing, and some of his best work is to be found in this collection. There is not a dull page in the book. The text fairly sparkles with original and apt narratives.

"The Indiana Pulpit." Edited by W. H. Cook. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

This series of twenty-two practical sermons, each discourse being the best one preached by as many leading Indiana preachers, presents vital Christianity in a most attractive way. "The Indiana Pulpit" will be especially helpful to young preachers. The topics are varied and the discourses are from men of learning and experience. It will make each who reads it better, and it will strengthen the faith of all who carefully peruse its pages." (George A. Miller.)

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume I. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

The gospel is always attractive when presented by W. H. Book. These sermons were not written in a study, but were stenographically reported as the burning words were uttered by the master preacher, under the inspiration of the great audience which flocks to hear him every week.

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Our Contributors

What We Have Seen.

BY F. B. SEYGLE.

At the close of the Hall-Walker discussion at the Ryman Auditorium on the night of October 10, Brother John B. Cowden circulated a poster in which he seeks to make the impression that I shut him out of the Gospel Advocate because I saw something that I did not want the public to see. If this is true, I do not know it, and I have a better chance to know it than he has. He says in this poster that the essentials of the discussion had been agreed to, and refers to his own statement in the Advocate of June 1 and July 13. I do not know what he calls the "essentials" of a debate, but I do know that I never agreed to debate either of the two propositions he mentions. I know, furthermore, that our correspondence came up over O. E. Payne's book and the position he takes in that book on the music question, which is as quoted by me in the Advocate of June 15: "We must unite in agreeing that if we forego musical instruments we cannot conform to the divine injunction to psallein." (O. E. Payne's book, page 172.) The brother says in his poster: "We did not agree to discuss O. E. Payne's book." I am not asking you to discuss the book or defend it, but to affirm the position which Mr. Payne takes in his book. You have been circulating the book, and gave it your public indorsement over your own signature. Writing to O. E. Payne, John B. Cowden said: "Your book on the church-music question is the most exhaustive, thorough, and convincing treatise of the subject, or, indeed, of any other subject, that I have ever seen. In my investigation I had but touched the hem of the garment, not dreaming that the confirming facts were so many and so convincing. What Alexander Campbell did for the baptism question you have done for the music question—settled it. The pity is that some one did not make this research and publish the facts while the people were open to conviction." With this most fulsome indorsement by John B. Cowden before me, I had a right to expect that he would defend the position which O. E. Payne takes in his book, when he says that Payne settled the question. Well, if he settled it, as Brother Cowden says, he settled it by proving that one cannot obey the divine injunction to psallein without the use of a musical instrument. But Brother Cowden says he will not defend O. E. Payne's position in debate; then he ought to defend what he said to Payne. When I get so I cannot defend what I said, I will apologize for saying it. But the brother says O. E. Payne is able to defend his own book. Well, John B. Cowden ought to be able to defend what he has said about the book. Brother, I am not asking you to defend Payne, but I am asking you to defend your statement. You say Payne is able to take care of himself; then you ought to be able to take care of yourself also. I must say if O. E. Payne is able and willing to defend himself, he beats John B. Cowden.

The propositions submitted by Brother Cowden are indefinite, and a debate on such propositions would be largely over the meaning of the propositions. One of the first rules of honorable controversy is that the terms of the propositions should be so clearly defined that there can be no misunderstanding respecting them. His first proposition is: "Instrumental music is scripturally permissible." There might be some misunderstanding over what is meant by "permissible," or there might be some misunderstanding over when instrumental music is permissible. That proposition did not state when it is permissible or how it is permissible. I judge that it is permissible in some places myself, and there are many places and times when it might be permissible, and neither I nor any other man would care anything about whether it is or is not permissible. The other proposition is nearly as bad: "Instrumental music in the church is scriptural." This proposition does not say what is meant by the "church." The word "church," to some, simply means a meetinghouse. Whatever the brother means by it, he does not mean the worshipping assembly, for he says in the same poster that he will not affirm that it is scriptural in the worship, for that would make it an integral part of the worship. From that statement I conclude that he does not use the word "church" in the sense of a worshipping assembly. Then, what does he mean by it? Cowden says I ought to deny his proposition or accept it; but I beg his pardon, for I could not do either. It looks like he stated his proposition that way on purpose so I could not deny or accept. Your Brother Gast debated the proposition with me in Portsmouth, Ohio, June 27-30: "Instrumental music is scriptural in the worship of God." I told him he was a braver man than his brethren were in Tennessee.

Again, the brother says: "O. E. Payne's book has nothing to do with this discussion (except possibly you fear the facts therein contained)." Why should I fear these facts in your hands when you do not believe them yourself? At least, you do not believe them strong enough to affirm one of them—namely: "No one can obey the divine injunction to psallein without the use of the musical instrument." It was my contention throughout our entire correspondence that you ought to affirm that instrumental music is scriptural in worship; and when you flatly refused to do this, I told you that that was all I had asked you to do and that my part of the matter was done and you could call the committees together and see if they could agree on some other proposition for a debate; but, instead of doing that, you get out a poster, I suppose, hoping that you could create the impression that you were very anxious for a debate, but that we had all got afraid of you and quit.

Brother Cowden in his poster further says: "As to my rejection of the phrase, 'in the worship,' from our statement, Instrumental music is scriptural, this makes instrumental music an integral part of worship, which no church that I know anything about does." Now, if that is true, then no church you know anything about believes O. E. Payne's book, which you said was the "most exhaustive, thorough, and convincing treatise of the subject, or, indeed, of any other subject," you ever saw; and Brother J. B. Briney said of Payne's book:

The author aims to prove that instrumental music in Christian worship is scriptural; and when I say that his effort is a complete success, I state the case conservatively. Mr. Payne builds his argument almost exclusively upon the meaning of the Greek word "psallo," which occurs in some form five times in the New Testament, and hence the Scripture sanctions the doing of whatever this word meant when the New Testament was written. The author first points out how the meaning of the Greek word "baptizo" (baptize) is ascertained, and by the same method he demonstrates (I use the term advisedly) that when the New Testament was written "psallo" carried with it the idea of the use of the instrument of music. This he does, first, by such an array of Greek lexicons as I have never seen assembled in the support of the meaning of any other word.

Notice, Brother Briney says: "The author aims to prove that instrumental music in Christian worship is scriptural; and when I say that his effort is a complete success, I state the case conservatively." But Brother Cowden says no church believes that instrumental music in worship is scriptural; then no church believes what J. B. Briney says Mr. Payne proves completely. I am sorry for you, brethren, but you did it yourselves. Now we have it, Brother Cowden, in your Brother Briney's own words: "Instrumental music in Christian worship is scriptural." He is a better debater than you are, and these are his own words.

Remember, now, I am not asking you to defend Payne's book—I know you cannot do that; but will you defend J. B. Briney's statement of the question?

Again, the brother says: "But your committee refused to consider either of these statements, and offered instead four statements, or, rather, one statement in three forms—namely, that instrumental music is demanded, commanded, or authorized in Christian worship. We thereupon resented their offering of these statements as offensive presumption on the grounds that every person and party have the right to make their own statements of their faith and practice, and we claimed this just right, and resented their effort to deprive us of it. If we do not know what our faith and practice is, then we are not capable of discussing this question; and if we know, and would not state it correctly, then we are not worthy of discussing it. Either view was an offense; and there was no other view to take." I know you pretend it is a great offense to ask you to affirm that instrumental music is scriptural in worship, but Brother Briney says O. E. Payne proved it. Do you believe Brother Briney was right when he said that? If so, why take offense at me for asking you to affirm it in debate; and if not, why don't you say that Briney was wrong and that Mr. Payne never proved any such thing?

But hear another wail from the poster: "Note from the above that the proposition made and accepted was that we affirm our practice, and you deny the same, and vice versa." Yes, there is where the trouble always arises, because when you try to state your practice you always try to do it so no one can deny your proposition, and then hope to make some one believe you want to debate and no one will debate with you. Now let me try it with this statement before me; and to get exactly straight, I will try the "vice versa" first. We practice singing in Christian worship, and, while I do not expect my brother to deny my proposition, it is all the music we practice; so I will state in regular form an affirmative proposition which I am willing to sign:

Proposition 1. Singing is scriptural in Christian worship.

..... Affirms.

..... Denies.

Proposition 2. Playing an instrument is scriptural in Christian worship.

..... Affirms.

..... Denies.

I go to your meeting when you have met to engage in Christian worship, and you are doing this very thing—playing an instrument. Now, are you doing an unscriptural act? If so, why don't you quit? If not, why don't you affirm it? If John B. Cowden will sign the above propositions, I will undertake to have them signed in proper order. But as I am sure he cannot sign the first, for he believes it as well as I do, yet he ought to sign or get some one to sign the other, and this will be better than writing posters for free distribution.

Yes, Brother John, I wrote that letter, and you knew I wrote it, and if it was not signed it was an oversight, which you could have easily learned; but he perhaps thought that to talk about an anonymous letter would help his sensation. You would know who wrote this without my signature, but to be orderly I will let it go at the beginning of the article.

You never get to the end of Christ's words. There is something in them always behind. They pass into proverbs, they pass into laws, they pass into doctrines, they pass into consolation, but they never pass away; and after all the use that is made of them, they are still not exhausted.—Dean Stanley.

The Gospel.

BY J. V. ARMSTRONG TRAYLOR.

In every age it seems that there are some who preach doctrines of men. Man made creeds in order to bring forth the right and true effect, but that mistake is very sad.

Man cannot preach Mohammed, Luther, or Wesley, and by it produce the effect. The preacher cannot get results without preaching the Cause, which is Jesus Christ. Philip preached the Cause to the eunuch, and it brought forth results. One could not show people that God loved the world by a mere declaration, but must stamp on their minds the fact that God made a great sacrifice by his incarnation—by revealing himself to the world as a personal being through his Son, Jesus Christ.

We learn in John 1: 18: "No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, who is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him." The word "declare" comes from the same word from which "exegete" comes; therefore, the Lord Jesus came to exegete or interpret God to sinful men. Paul stood at Rome and said he was not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, but I fear there are many—yea, some preachers—who are ashamed of it or some part of it.

I read with pleasure Brother Nichol's article on "Was I a Coward?" Many times, I fear, we lack courage; we need to be braver in the true sense, and, moreover, not be ashamed of any part of the gospel.

The gospel of Christ was not intended for a few learned or wise men, but for "every creature," learned or unlearned, wise or foolish. That which was intended for all people must be very simple and easy to comprehend; hence, very great is that preacher who has the ability to present the gospel, not in wisdom of words, but in a simple form in order that a fool need not err therein.

The gospel that saves the children of men from their sins should be preached in such a simple manner that the people can lay hold of it without long, deep, and profound research. Possibly there are times when we would be ashamed at least of some parts of the gospel—namely, teaching Christians their duty toward contributing to the cause of Christ, the great cause which every Christian should lend a helping hand to spread. When children of God fail to partake of the Lord's Supper, fail to give of their means, or fail to preach the gospel, they are in that sense failing to confess Christ—ashamed of the gospel; hence, they are tearing down the cause for which they claim to stand.

In every age popularity is loved very much, it seems; but the gospel will not give popularity. The less gospel one preaches, the more popular that person becomes; the farther the Christian gets away from God, the more popular that one becomes; and many times those things lead people to be ashamed of the gospel. The simplicity of the gospel is grand. "And a highway shall be there, and a way, and it shall be called The way of holiness: the unclean shall not pass over it; but it shall be for the redeemed: the way-faring men, yea fools, shall not err therein." (Isa. 35: 8.)

The gospel of Christ is not popular; it will not draw large crowds. Moreover, when Jesus was on earth, many turned away from him; even some of his disciples followed him no more. Paul looked down the stream of time and spoke of the time that would come when sound doctrine would not be endured by some.

The purpose of the gospel is not to save unbelievers like Felix and Agrippa, but its purpose is to save those who will comply and obey all its commands. Let us notice four peculiar qualities of the gospel. (1) It is God's power to save. (Rom. 1: 16.) There are three powers that antagonize salvation—the world, the flesh, and Satan. The soul desires to climb upward, but the world tries to pull it down and destroy it. Nothing short of the gospel can overcome these evils and cleanse man of his sin, or bring forth the effect, because that is the purpose for which God ordained it. (2) It actually saves. "Now I make known unto you, brethren, the gospel which I preached unto you, which also ye received, wherein also ye stand, by which also ye are saved, if ye hold fast the word which I preached unto you, except ye believed in vain." (1 Cor. 15: 1, 2.) No man can reject it and be saved, but it only saves him who believes and obeys it. (3) "For I make known to you, brethren, as touching the gospel which was preached by me, that it is not after man. For neither did I receive it from man, nor was I taught it, but it came to me through revelation of Jesus Christ." (Gal. 1: 11, 12.) (4) "As we have said before, so say I now again, If any man preach unto you any gospel other than that which ye received, let him be anathema." (Gal. 1: 9.) This ought to be considered with great care, because the intention of it is to preserve the gospel in its purity, as the Lord gave it, without being perverted in any way.

The purpose of the gospel is not to save believers who love this present world more than they love God. "Nevertheless even of the rulers many believed on him; but because of the Pharisees they did not confess it, lest they should be put out of the synagogue." (John 12: 42.) "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him." (1 John 2: 15.)

The purpose of the gospel is not to save men from physical harm. Yet, if the world would obey the gospel, we would need no jails, no officers, no locks on the cribs; there would be no enemies to destroy your property; neither would any one persecute you, but would take great delight in helping bear your burdens, because all would desire to fulfill the law of Christ.

The gospel, if received by the world, would save the world from carnal war. It gives a man a better warfare to fight, with better equipments; he is shielded perfectly; moreover, he has a sword to use (the word of God) that will cut many ways.

The purpose of the gospel is to redeem man, to recreate his soul in the image of Christ.

The purpose of the gospel is to save the church from division and strife. Where there is division and strife, the gospel is crowded out; it has not full sway. There is no room for Christ in the heart that participates or engages in division and strife. How is the gospel serving you? What are you doing with Jesus, who is called Christ?

Queen of the Home.

BY O. C. LAMBERT.

When most people do what the Bible teaches on any subject, it is because it is their preference and not because it is the law of God. The persons who allow their personal preferences, their likes and dislikes, to play any part in determining whether or not they shall do what God says are not really obedient. Practically all the sins and failures mentioned in the Scriptures came about because men consulted their intelligence (?) and reason (?), and all of them because men would have their own way. I grant that many times it appears to our intelligence that some other way would be better. A person who does as he likes is lawless. "Sin is lawlessness." (1 John 3: 4.) Saul did the part of God's command which pleased him, and, no doubt, would have done it all if it had been according to his notion, but he was condemned as a very great sinner. In their relations to God most people assume the attitude of the lovesick young lady who applied to the newspaper editor for advice and closed with this postscript: "If you advise me like I want you to, I will take it." They are willing for the Lord to lead if he will lead where they want to go.

Much has been said in recent years about "woman's work." For all obedient, God-fearing people, whatever the Bible says will settle the matter forever. I am sure that when we follow the Bible plan in any matter it will bring us greatest returns in happiness for ourselves and real service to the world. When we run counter to the teaching of God's word, we and the world around us are bound to suffer. I am sure our Heavenly Father wants each of us to fill the place where our powers will count for most in this world, and real Christian women are willing for him to direct in this matter. He said: "I will therefore that the younger women marry, bear children, guide the house, give none occasion to the adversary to speak reproachfully." (1 Tim. 5: 14.) Again: "The aged women likewise, that they be in behavior as becometh holiness, not false accusers, not given to much wine, teachers of good things; that they may teach the young women to be sober, to love their husbands, to love their children, to be discreet, chaste, keepers at home, good, obedient to their own husbands, that the word of God be not blasphemed." (Tit. 2: 3-5.)

It is not disputed that a man would be out of place as a housekeeper, and it is a condition not of the Lord's making when the women of the land yearn for public life to the neglect of the home and despise the advice of the Scriptures. Shall father make little Millie's new dress, while mother attends conventions, sits on the jury, and discharges the other public duties which women of to-day are assuming?

I see a weary, faded woman, on whose cheeks long since the cares and vexations of public life have replaced the glow of youth with furrows of care. Instead of that gentle, feminine air, she has that hardened, determined, masculine bearing so distasteful in one of the fairer sex. She once faced the future as a confident advocate of woman's rights. She disdained the tame domestic life advised in the Scriptures. Now she has been laid aside as a worn-out garment, because she can no longer hold her own. She is weary of the battle. The future now offers nothing. What has been the reward for all her years of toil? What means that vacant stare? No one to care for me! No children to repay me in kindnesses in my helplessness! This comes from disregarding the advice of inspiration.

I see an old mother upon whose head the frosts of many winters have gently laid a white mantle, but whose face is still radiant with the smile she wore in youth, only it has been refined and sweetened. She looks the satisfaction it has been her lifelong lot to feel. See her at the head of the long table, for it is Christmas time, and around her are gathered her stalwart sons and dutiful daughters, the care of her early life, the joy of her prime, and now the support of her age. She has availed herself of the most satisfactory insurance. Ask her if she has gotten anything out of life! Ask her if she is happy! She who rears a large family has clothed herself in more real glory than the haughtiest conqueror, and occupies a pinnacle more exalted than the throne of the proudest monarch, and has done more real good and reaped more genuine satisfaction for herself than all the celebrities combined. Let us pray for a return of the good old days when woman was content with her God-given place as queen of the home.

Notes from West Tennessee.

BY JOHN B. WILLIAMS.

SOMETHING WRONG.

That many things are wrong in the home and in the church is abundantly in evidence, no one can deny. No one has a better opportunity to see many things that are wrong than the preacher as he goes from place to place. Already some have charged me with being too personal in some things I have written. If the parties are guilty of the things I have said, they should quit them; if innocent, why bring a charge against me?

I well know that "she elders" are wrong from the fact that they are self-appointed, and by this self-appointment they are guilty of wrongdoing and of disobedience to God. Many times in my life while trying to conduct a meeting I have stayed in homes where the wife was head of the family. By her conversation you would not know that she had a husband unless it be by the fault she found in him. Everything "mine"—"my house, my land, my car, my horses, my cows," etc. From general orders, directions, accusations, etc., one would think the poor "henpecked" husband was only a hired hand, and not a very good one, at that. Oftentimes have I heard it said of some poor "henpecked" husband: "Poor fellow! He gets only his victuals and clothes, with never a kind word, for all his labor."

When a man is selected by a congregation for its elder who has a bossy wife, the congregation will be handicapped and kept in continual disorder. The bossy, dictatorial, overbearing, domineering "she elder" will ruin any congregation and render it powerless for good.

Let a preacher be called to preach for a congregation under the rule of the "she elder," and, unless he is her choice, she at once gets busy in poisoning the minds of members who are not well acquainted with the preacher by saying: "He is too hard on the sects; they won't hear him; and he says many things I do not like." I have gone to places—and so have many other preachers—and labored faithfully where this "she elder" influence was at work, and knew nothing of it until the meeting closed. If there should be no additions: "I told you so! What did I tell you?" If several additions: "O, well, they were already taught—just waiting for some one to baptize them."

All "she elders" are faultfinders; they look for nothing and see nothing but the faults of others. They see no good in any one, except their own dear girls. They see no good in their husbands. In their own dear girls they see no wrong. In years gone by a good man, an elder of a congregation, said to me: "All the trouble that wife and I have is about our girls. She upholds them in all they do—in what I tell them not to do. When they do things or go to places that I told them not, she will conceal it from me. If I should learn of their wrongdoing and speak to them about it, she at once takes their part and condemns me for having no confidence in our girls." Results proved the bad effects of that mother's influence.

God makes "he elders;" the devil makes "she elders." God said: "The husband is the head of the wife." The devil said: "The wife is the head of the husband." God said: "Children, obey your parents." The devil said: "Children, rule your parents and make them obey you." So when the wife rules in the home or in the church, we know where she gets the authority.

It is impossible for "she elders" to beget "she elders," and they, knowing this, lose no time in teaching and training "little she's" to become effective and efficient "she elders" when a little older. In many young girl members you can see this "she elder" disposition at work.

No good wife, no good sister in the church will take any exceptions to what I write. Only where the aim is correct and the object hit will the howl be heard. I am not the only preacher that has witnessed the bossy wife and felt the influence of the "she elder," but among the first to "speak out in meetin'" against such wrongdoing in the hope that this wrong may cease and God's will have its proper place in the home and in the congregation. The few more years that I have to live on earth I shall put in trying to correct my own wrongs and the wrongs of others, even though it be at the cost of censure at the hands of some. More anon.

Blessed is the man who is generous to his neighbor in all things except the application of the sermon.

John Baptist—The Man and the Message.

BY H. H. ADAMSON.

While the Sunday-school lesson of October 15 is fresh in our minds, it seems in season to reconsider some of the great lessons suggested by the life and work of John the Baptist.

SOME QUESTIONS.

Which is better—a dead preacher and a living message, or a living preacher and a dead message? John died for being true. Wherever the gospel has been preached the courage and loyalty of John Baptist has been told. All men who love and honor real manhood, courage, and fidelity, love and honor the great Baptist. As the dead Abel still lives and speaks through his faith, so the dead Baptist still lives and speaks through his loyalty to the message of God.

Which is better—a dead Jesus and an everlasting gospel, or a living Jesus and a dead gospel? Of course none will doubt that Jesus is living and "ever lives," but had it not been for his death we would have, because we could have, no living gospel. Paul not only indicates in 1 Cor. 15: 1-3 that the death of Jesus was necessary to procure the gospel, but that the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus is the gospel.

Which is better—to save life and lose the truth, or to save the truth by losing life? Is not the blood of martyrs the life of the church? We can only conjecture where the church and the truth would be to-day if more than sixty thousand men and women had not made the supreme sacrifice. Killing men and women who stood for God and the Christ spread the flames of truth like a gust of wind spreads the flames of a forest fire.

Does God exalt the messenger or the message? Is not the message divine and the messenger human? Do we not have the divine treasure in earthen vessels? (2 Cor. 4: 7.) Is God not all and the preacher nothing? (1 Cor. 3: 6, 7.) Yes, we surely have our wires crossed, for we are continually exalting the messenger rather than the message and praising the creature rather than the Creator. In fact, some of "our folks" have a few pets or idols, and they won't let Christ in unless "my preacher" comes with him. "Keep yourselves from idols."

JOHN'S GREATNESS.

I think the greatness of John the Baptizer may be embraced in five strong words—namely: Simplicity, humility, courage, fidelity, service.

John was a simple, plain, everyday kind of man who commanded universal respect. His diet was plain and common—"locusts and wild honey." His dress, like his food, was plain, but fitting—just camel's hair with a leathern belt. But it was a very suitable "ministerial garb" and a splendid baptismal suit.

His humility is the marvel of all ages. I am not able to understand why so much has been said about the courage of John and so little about his humility. Evidently, there is nothing on record more striking than the deep, earnest humility of this powerful preacher. It is a hard thing to resign power gracefully. Few (even preachers) ever do it. No "lunkhead" will do it. No preacher who thinks himself great will do it. Only those great men who do not know they are great can do it. John did it, for John did not know he was great. He said: "I am only a voice in the wilderness; I am nothing, but Christ is all—he is everything. 'He must increase, but I must decrease.' What graciousness! What humility!"

The courage of this Elijah the Second, who would take his life in his hands and rebuke a king for his sins, is known to all. It cost him his head, but enabled him to give an example worthy of all emulation.

His fidelity and service to the God who called him and sent him is well known by all students of the gospel records. Thus I will leave this great preacher of prestige and power and direct attention to the message.

THE MESSAGE.

It seemed that the time was ripe for a great revival. The people were ready for a message like a trumpet call clear and loud. The call to repentance by John was just that kind of a message. But it was not simply repentance without Christ. It was not a Christless reformation. The text, the subject, the center, and the object was: "Behold, the Lamb of God." Wherever he went the wilderness was made to echo and reëcho with the one word repent, repent, repent.

This great message was practical and heart-searching. There was no indication, no flattery, no duplicity. It was so direct and personal that Pharisees and Sadducees cowered under these fierce assaults. A little preaching in these days of that type would be as exhilarating as the mountain air and as stimulating as old wine. John's message was so earnest, so pointed, so disturbing, that the multitudes cried out under deep conviction: "What must we do?" The message was such a center shot at sin that men went away deeply moved. They went away talking about the message and what it meant to them, rather than talking about the messenger. That preacher has already failed who gets men to talking more about him than about the burden of his message. It takes a man with the humility of the great Baptist to hide behind the cross and hold up the Christ.

John had just one great mission, and that was to prepare the people for the coming of Christ and to introduce Christ to the people. John filled this mission full and died without ever knowing how much good he had done in the world. One great mission filled full is enough for any man. Paul had just one aim, one object in life, and that was to be a Christian. The wise plan of God that kept John and Paul from knowing how much good they did in the world will keep you and me from knowing. It is well that we do not understand fully the amount of good we are doing. After all, there is just one great question in life, and that is: "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" May God help us to answer that question as God directs, and do it in the patience of hope and the labor of love.

Walking by Faith.

BY J. OSCAR PAISLEY.

In a former article I tried to deal principally with the teaching and practice so common in our land among the various religious denominations claiming to be governed by the Bible, but at the same time in open rebellion against God by their absolute disregard for, and disobedience to, Heaven's authority, and, therefore, standing in a condemned state before God. In this I call attention to the fact that individuals and even whole congregations who have rendered obedience to God's law of pardon, thus becoming, as individuals, "Christians," and, collectively, "churches of Christ," being led by the Spirit of God, and, therefore, walking "by faith" thus far, have long since ceased to "walk by faith," but walk "by sight" instead, thus reversing God's divine order.

"Well," says one, "how do you know they are not walking by faith?" Because they have changed God's order in part and will not be governed by his word as a whole, which produces faith; and whatsoever they do in accordance with the Book, they do it not so much because God said it, but because they approve of it in their judgment, and so it is not by faith.

Some one asks: "How can you prove that?" From the fact that they have rejected what God has so plainly taught in his divine law, in both word and example, and substituted their own reasoning and judgment. James says: "Whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all."

"Well," says one, "how do you know they are walking by sight?" Because they say: "Our raising money by festivals and shows and subscriptions is a good work, from the fact that we are building great meetinghouses; and surely the instrumental music is approved of God, for look at the big crowds we have." Now, what are they doing? Seeing—walking "by sight, not by faith." Take a look at Paul's admonition as stated in Phil. 4: 9: "Those things, which ye have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, do: and the God of peace shall be with you." What does he say of the word of God? That it is able to furnish the man of God unto every good work. (See 2 Tim. 3: 16, 17.) What else? That it "is living, and active." (Heb. 4: 12.) What does he say about raising money for the church? "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him." (1 Cor. 16: 2.) What does he say of music in the worship? He tells us to sing with melody in our hearts to the Lord (see Eph. 5: 19; Col. 3: 16); and it must be "the fruit of our lips" (Heb. 13: 15).

By following Paul's admonitions and examples, what are we doing? Walking "by faith." If, then, we walk by sight, according to our own fancies, what then? We are walking by sight, or opinion, and not by faith; for walking by sight with respect to the Scriptures is always prompted by opinions. By faith we are justified (Rom. 5: 1), by it we are saved (1 Cor. 15: 1, 2), by it we are made children of God (Gal. 3: 26), and by it we walk (2 Cor. 5: 7.) Listen to the law and testimony: "Ye shall not add unto the word which I command you, neither shall ye diminish aught from it, that ye may keep the commandments of the Lord your God which I command you." (Deut. 4: 2.) Again: "What things soever I command you, observe to do it: thou shalt not add thereto, nor diminish from it." (Deut. 12: 32.) How does that apply to us in this age, since this was spoken to the Jews hundreds of years before Christ walked among men? "Whosoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning" (Rom. 15: 4) and "for our admonition (1 Cor. 10: 11).

Hence, those who are guilty of changing God's order of things, which he has given the children of men as a waybill to guide us from this earth life to the land of endless day, and continue not to follow the divine directions given therein, God is not with them in such work and worship (2 John 9); and the substance of their reward is made known to them in Rev. 22: 18, 19. "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man." (Eccles. 12: 13.)

Too Quick to Believe and Too Slow to Believe.

BY G. A. DUNN, SR.

If Christ was raised from the dead, God thereby owned him as divine. Being divine, Christ must have given a divine message. The divine Christ stamped his approval on the Old Testament. Therefore, the divinity of both Old and New Testaments is established by an established fact—the divinity of the Christ. Hence, people should not be too quick to disbelieve in the divinity of the Scriptures.

Evolution is a hypothesis, a conjecture, a guess, a speculation, a theory, not based on any established fact. It is not a new theory, but has been taught throughout recorded history. Grecian philosophers taught it hundreds of years before Christ. Heathen philosophers, without any revelation from God, guessed at the origin of things. The foundation for this guess is so many other guesses; therefore, no one has a right to believe it. No one should believe in a thing more strongly than the evidence supporting it. The evolutionist is too quick to believe, and really claims to believe a proposition which has no real evidence to support it. Every person should believe a proposition to the extent of the evidence supporting it. The evidence supporting the Bible is abundant, and, therefore, should be believed. The theory of evolution has never been proved, despite the length of time its advocates have had in which to bring the proof. Not being supported by proof, it should not be believed.

One trouble with students in the universities is that they take the assertions of the professors as proof. If they will demand explicit evidence in support of any theory, they will not find themselves under obligation to believe upon the mere assertion of any man.

Evolution is a very old theory—at least twenty-five hundred years old—to account for the origin of things apart from revelation. Biologists teach that all known life comes from an antecedent life, which necessitates a living "First Cause."

When people demand absolute evidence instead of unproved hypotheses, they will have less trouble in believing the Bible and more trouble in believing the wild speculations of the evolutionists.

Our Missionary to Japan.

BY ROBERT S. KING.

I was glad to see Sister Lipscomb's appeal for Sarah Andrews, with Brother Boles' indorsement, in the Gospel Advocate of October 12. I am glad to see something constructive started in foreign mission work. The mission of the church is missions. The great commission says: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all nations." (Matt. 28: 19.) "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation." (Mark 16: 15.) It is time to begin to practice some of these things we have been preaching so long. It is time we were producing a brand of religion that is known when seen. The Christian who must be labeled with a pin or button to distinguish him from the world should be reheated and made over. Let us begin to practice some this "Go ye therefore."

There are about five hundred million Christians in the world, counting Catholics and all denominations, and something like a billion human beings who have never heard of God. Man longs after a being greater than himself; so wherever there is man, there are temples, shrines, or churches. In mountains, forests, deserts, or villages, man's voice is heard in prayer to his god. Some worship the snake; others, the elephant, cow, or other animal; while some bow down to sticks, stones, or graven images. "As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, O God." (David.) Why have they never heard the gospel? Why have they never received their inheritance? Because He has no one to carry it to them but you and me, and we have long neglected our duty.

Sarah Andrews has been very successful in the work she has undertaken at Okitsu and has proven that a woman can do something in missionary work. She has labored under great difficulties and has had very poor facilities. Part of her work has been carried on in the courthouse, where there were often drunken men. Let us make things more comfortable for her. She is making and has made great sacrifices uncomplainingly. Let us put this work on a permanent basis. The mission of the church is missions; and the more we export, the more we have left. The church at David Lipscomb College will give one hundred dollars.

Blessed is the man whose watch keeps church time as well as business time.

Evangelistic Notes

W. C. Phillips recently held a good meeting at Antioch, near Cleveland, Tenn.

Mrs. Ethel Pittman, Twinton, Tenn., is expecting to have a meeting soon. There is no church there.

F. B. Srygley's meeting at Bradyville, Tenn., resulted in twenty additions. He is now at Celina, Tenn.

Emmett G. Creacy is in an interesting meeting at Temple Hill, Ky. Tolley Phemister is leading the songs.

W. T. Hines is in a meeting at Woodward, Okla., and will go next to Doby Springs. Prospects are good.

A. R. Lawrence baptized two at Highway, in Dickens County, Texas. Only a small congregation at that place.

A. N. Kennedy, McKinney, Texas, is in a mission meeting at Batson, Ark., with three baptisms when last heard from.

J. C. Foster, Hillsboro, Texas, preached at Floresville, Texas, on October 8, and there were three baptisms. The brethren were well pleased.

Charles L. Speir and Frank Grammar are in a fine meeting at Browning, Mo. This makes six weeks' work together in Northern Missouri.

E. D. Martin recently closed at St. Mary, Roleta, near McMinnville, Tenn., with fourteen additions; later, at Riverside, McMinnville, with fourteen added.

G. W. Graves recently closed in Bell's Bend, near Nashville, Tenn., with fifteen baptisms and two restorations. Three of his children were among the number.

Harvey Scott, Itasca, Texas, says that the work is increasing there, with larger night crowds than any place in town—a houseful. The sisters work for the orphans every Monday.

G. F. Gibbs reports great progress at Greenville, S. C. The church house is under construction and his dwelling nearly complete. There have been four baptisms since last report.

H. H. Turner changes his address from Altus, Okla., to Burneyville, Okla. We are very sorry to learn of the death of his wife recently. He expects to be as busy as his health will permit. He is now seventy-three years old.

J. O. Barnes, 2111 Broward Avenue, West Palm Beach, Fla., reports a good meeting there last Lord's day, with all members present and one addition. There are now thirteen members. He says: "Pray for us and watch us grow."

R. E. L. Taylor has just closed a good meeting at Milburn, Ky., with thirty-two baptisms, two by statement, and three confessing their wrongs. Brother Revis, of Dresden, Tenn., led the singing. Brother Taylor is now in Bledsoe County.

Joe L. Netherland recently closed at Roellen, near Dyersburg, Tenn., with eight additions. One was from the General Baptists and one from the Methodists; and one was seventy-five years old. Brother Netherland closed at Largo, Fla., on October 15, with nine baptisms.

Ira Womack has just closed a short meeting at Pennell, Okla., with five baptized and one restored. During his six-weeks' vacation from school work he has held meetings at Wirt, Ringling, and Pennell. During the winter he will preach regularly at Paul's Valley, Elmore City, and Ardmore. His address is Sulphur, Okla.

Willie Hunter has just closed at Hebbertsburg, in Cumberland County, Tenn., with good crowds. He preached the first sermon in the new brick church house at Baxter. He is now in a meeting at Clemensville, Clay County. He is looking for a location near a good school where he can give all his time to preaching. He has a supply of Harris' book, "Gleanings from the Field," which can be had for fifty cents per copy.

Will J. Cullum writes from Rockwood, Tenn., under date of October 16: "Yesterday was a busy day for Rockwood, with three services—two at the regular place of worship, at 11 A.M. and 7 P.M.; and hearing of a few members sixteen miles in the country, fifteen of our number went out and had a service at three o'clock in the afternoon. They have now promised to meet regularly, and we hope to work this place as a mission of the Rockwood church. We had one hundred and twenty-one at the Bible study at Rockwood yesterday."

H. D. Jeffcoat was compelled to close his meeting at Duffe, Miss., on account of an attack of malaria. He left his tent, and he expects to return for another tent meeting in the spring. This was our first preaching there, and very fine interest was manifested. Work there is growing so fast that he needs a man to help in his territory. He offers a correction in the Gospel Advocate of October 12: "I found about twenty-five members at Mayben instead of Indianola." He intends to hold a meeting at Maben about the middle of November.

We recently published a notice of the death of two of Brother Jelley's children and the serious illness of his wife. In a recent communication he says: "Despite all the sickness in my family since my arrival here, I have managed to live within my income, although the 'Holy Roller' missionaries receive twice as much as I do. I am not complaining, but simply wish to say this that the brethren may see that I am doing the best I can and am not trying to lay a burden upon them." Men and women who give up all in order to carry the "good news" should at least have sanitary quarters in which to live and wholesome food to eat. Brother Jelley's address is Christ House, Vambori, Ahmednagar District, British India.

"The Dover meeting began Sunday morning at the church of Christ, and large crowds are attending all services. Good singing is a feature. The Rev. William P. Walker is doing the preaching, and J. M. Waggoner is directing the song services, with Miss Minerva Brandon, pianist." The foregoing news item, clipped from one of the Nashville daily papers of recent date, contains a bit of information which Brother Walker's reports in the Gospel Advocate have been silent upon—viz., that he has a "pianist." A short time ago a report of the "Tennessee Christian Missionary Society" stated that Brother Walker was on their pay roll in November and December, 1921. We feel sure the people who read his reports do not know this, and that the Advocate should make this additional information public.

E. E. Shoulders, New York City, writes: "Considering the circumstances, yesterday was another fine day for us. We are very much encouraged over the seemingly bright prospects of the future, and I am sure that it will be quite gratifying to all who are directly interested in this great work. Not a Sunday passes but that we have visitors who are passing through the city stop over and make it a point to worship with us, or it may be some one who has moved to the city expecting to make this his home. I am still anxious to have names and addresses of people who you think would be interested in going to church. I again call attention to the fact that the work is still lacking financial support, and I urge upon every one who would like to 'lend a helping hand' in giving out 'the bread of life' to perishing souls here in this vile and wicked city to begin now. 'The night cometh, when no man can work.' Send all contributions to George M. McKee, treasurer, Box 15, Station N, New York, N. Y."

R. L. Whiteside, Denton, Texas, writes: "Beginning on August 17 and continuing through eight two-hour sessions, I met Mr. I. P. Whitaker (Russellite) in a discussion at a schoolhouse about six miles north of Randlett, Okla. Four propositions were discussed, embracing the nature of man, endless punishment, the millennium with a second chance, and baptism for the remission of sins to Jew and Gentile alike. Large crowds attended, the best of order prevailed, and everybody kept in a good humor. I do not think there was the least degree of ill will generated during the entire discussion. In fact, it seemed to be generally recognized that a better feeling prevailed after the debate than before. I had a good opportunity to observe the effects on the community, as I remained and preached a few days. Many of Mr. Whitaker's supporters heard my preaching and complimented the sermons. I mention this to show that they had no ill will toward me. Yet I heard many expressions from them indicating that the discussion left them not nearly so strong for Russellism. The opposers of Russellism among all denominations, so far as I could learn, were well pleased with the discussion. In that section Mr. Whitaker is regarded by his supporters as their strongest man in the Southwest. He has had much experience in debating, having met many of the strongest men in the field. He is pleasant and good-humored. It would afford me pleasure to meet him again in discussion."

Ben Harding has just closed at Waverly-Belmont Church, this city.

J. A. Hudson reports a baptism at Harbert Avenue, Memphis, Tenn.

J. Porter Sanders preached on last Lord's day at Twelfth Avenue, this city.

H. Leo Boles has just closed at Sellersburg, Ind., with eleven baptisms.

G. W. Jarrett has changed his address from Fairhope, Ala., to Candler, Fla.

F. B. Srygley preached at Columbia, Tenn., last Lord's day, with two large audiences.

C. W. Holley, who is now located in Greenville, Texas, recently baptized three in Rocky Comfort, Mo.

E. Gaston Collins preached at Florence, Ala., on last Lord's day, and reports a very pleasant visit.

F. W. Smith preached at Franklin, Tenn., last Lord's day, with a crowded house at both services.

Cled E. Wallace closed in Del Rio, Texas, with five added. A. Leroy Elkins labors with this congregation.

Robert E. Wright reports two good services at Ontario, Cal. Their house of worship is in course of construction.

O. C. Lambert preached at the State Prison at 9:00 A.M., and at Rothschild Avenue at 11 A.M. and 7:30 P.M., last Sunday.

T. Crews, Rogersville, Ala., has been in evangelistic work, and reports the work at Rogersville as in a flourishing condition.

H. R. Daniel closed at Center Point, Tenn., with twenty baptized and three restored; also, large crowds. He is now at Philippi.

J. E. Black has just closed a meeting at Dixon Springs, Tenn., resulting in seventeen baptisms. He recently closed at Antioch, Tenn., with three restorations.

D. S. Ligon, who labors with the church in Burkburnett, Texas, held a meeting there, with one baptized and three to identify themselves with the congregation.

Tice Elkins is planning to hold a mission meeting at Carlsbad, N. M. He has a singer. If you desire to fellowship them, address him at Fort Worth, Texas.

F. S. Vance reports a crowded house at Hollis, Okla., at both services on October 16. The church is at peace and pulling together. Interest is increasing in all services.

A. B. Lipscomb is in a good meeting at Hamilton, Ala., county seat of Marion County. W. S. Tidwell, a noted song writer, is leading the songs. Brother Lipscomb will preach at Scottsboro, Ala., next Sunday.

Sister A. M. Bibb wishes to correct a report of A. B. Gunter's meeting in the issue of October 12. His meeting was held near Charleston, Mo. They are planning to have a meeting in Charleston in the spring.

J. D. Jones, Huntsville, Ala., on account of smallpox, did not preach at Taft, Tenn., but he preached at Free Labor instead, and baptized two. This makes twenty-eight he has baptized in this community since September 1.

E. V. Cowan, Ravenden Springs, Ark., has just closed two mission meetings with good results. He says they need a good leader there, and would welcome any Christian who would like to move there. They have a good climate and land. Write him.

From J. D. Smith, Dry Fork, Ky., October 17: "The meetings at Moss and Rich Pond, Ky., which continued eight and thirteen days, respectively, were very interesting. The audiences grew till the last in each instance. Five were added at Moss and seven at Rich Pond."

H. L. Olmstead recently closed a meeting with the Bethel congregation, near Franklin, Ky. Five were baptized and one came from the Baptists to be a Christian only. Allen Phy preaches there once a month, and is held in high esteem by the brethren. Brother Olmstead is now at Monterey, Tenn.

A. B. Barret preached at Horse Cave, Ky., on October 3-15. Brother Friend began this meeting on October 1. The interest was fine throughout. Brother Barret preached at Springfield, Tenn., on last Lord's day. The church there is planning an extensive evangelistic campaign in the county.

W. S. Long, 1219 Kenyon Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., addresses this to the brotherhood: "Those of you who come to this city for any purpose should send me your addresses. The church is blessed with a noble band of people who are ready to do anything to make you feel at home. You will have a warm welcome."

We are gratified over the results of the recent discussion of the music question in Nashville. We have heard of six persons who before the discussion were members in the "progressive" churches of the city who have taken their stand with us. But the biggest result is the confirmation of members of our congregations who before were indifferent.

Tim Walker, Haleyville, Ala., preached at the place near Haleyville which he established in August, and three more were added, two of which are heads of families. They have started to build and have six thousand feet of lumber. Any help will be appreciated. Send your donations to him. They have just received ten dollars from the church at Moulton, Ala.

M. C. Cuthbertson closed with the church in Waco, Texas, with thirty-four additions to the local congregation. E. W. McMillan labors with the congregation regularly. Brother Cuthbertson's meeting with the congregation in Madill, Okla., resulted in nineteen additions to the local congregation. Wilbur White labors with this congregation. Brother Cuthbertson continues regular work with the congregation in Denison, Texas.

From Tice Elkins, Fort Worth, Texas, October 17: "The protracted meeting at Southside Church, this city, has increased in interest and attendance from the first night. Fair crowds at all services now. There have been four additions by membership—three yesterday. I am teaching the Bible one hour each evening before preaching, giving an analytical investigation of Ephesians. We take it word by word, and leave nothing undone that will add to the pupil's stock of knowledge or interest. The meeting will continue all this week. The Southside Church is in the best condition it has ever been in since I have known it, with a steady growth and great interest manifested in God's word."

A. R. Holton, Thorp Spring, Texas, writes: "Sunday, October 15, was a good day for the preachers at Thorp Spring. Ideal weather conditions enabled every one to get to his place. R. McDougald filled his regular appointment at Scurry. Brethren Rigney and Ferguson were at Tolar, and Brethren Maxey, Clark, and Tedley were at Irby. Lowell Tedley led the song service at the college chapel service. This is the second Sunday in our campaign to reach every schoolhouse in Hood County. We hope to have every young man in school busy before the year is over. The prospects of school were never brighter than they are now. Everybody hard at work. We are enjoying life to the fullest extent."

From F. L. Paisley, Ludowici, Ga., October 16: "The meeting closed here to-night with twenty-one additions. Twelve came from the Baptists and four from the Methodists. The Baptists have called for a debate, which will begin Wednesday. When I arrived here the very few 'Christians only' here believed in using, and used, instrumental music. Against my advice, they played the first night. They have not seemed to want it since, but turned the face of the instrument to the wall. I know of some of them who insist that singing is God's order. These are fine people, and brethren pressing the work in this section have a fine chance to do mission work. I have enjoyed building on 'no man's foundation.' They are calling for a longer meeting, but I must return to West Tennessee. I hope to return later."

Horace W. Busby writes from St. Louis, Mo., October 21: "Austin Taylor and I are here in a splendid meeting, with interest increasing daily. Two young men were baptized last night. The church here has made splendid progress in the last few years. A nice lot in the best part of the city has been purchased and a nice brick building begun, the basement of which is finished, and we are holding the meeting in it. This property is located at the corner of Spring and Blaine, and has cost, to date, about ten thousand dollars. A number of churches and individuals over the country have helped these worthy brethren to get started, and now we may expect a splendid growth of the church in St. Louis. I had promised to be with the Central Church in Fort Worth, Texas, at this time, but they released me for this work, and I am glad we were able to make the sacrifice to come over and help in this worthy work in this great city."

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS,
Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

"The Kingdom of God Cometh Not With Observation."

BY J. C. M'Q.

Christ was not born of the learned, rich, or influential, but from among the humble. He was reared in Nazareth, a village in lower Galilee, and out of which it was thought no good could come. He was born in a manger, was brought up in comparative obscurity, and was a homeless wanderer. He did not have the advantage of a university education nor the backing of the rich and influential. He devoted his life to laboring among and blessing the people. "For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might become rich." (2 Cor. 8: 9.) He left us an example that we might walk in his steps. The Holy Spirit admonishes: "Have this mind in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: who, existing in the form of God, counted not the being on an equality with God a thing to be grasped, but emptied himself, taking the form of a servant, being made in the likeness of men; and being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, becoming obedient even unto death, yea, the death of the cross." (Phil. 2: 5-8.) Man is so prone to look on the outward appearance and to depend on the wisdom of men and not the wisdom of God that the people of his own country said of him: "Whence hath this man this wisdom, and these mighty works? Is not this the carpenter's son? Is not his mother called Mary? and his brethren, James, and Joseph, and Simon, and Judas? And his sisters, are they not all with us? Whence then hath this man all these things? And they were offended in him. But Jesus said unto them, A prophet is not without honor, save in his own country, and in his own house." (Matt. 13: 54-57.) Jesus did not many mighty works there because of their unbelief. Jesus is not only the most humble being the world has ever known, but he loves the man of a broken and contrite spirit. He has no respect for a person inflated with haughtiness, pride, and conceit.

Jesus selected his apostles from the humble walks of life. He chose illiterate fishermen of Galilee and made them fishers of men. The Spirit shall tell of this in his own words: "Where is the wise? where is the scribe? where is the disputer of this world? hath not God made foolish the wisdom of the world? For seeing that in the wisdom of God the world through its wisdom knew not God, it was God's good pleasure through the foolishness of the preaching to save them that believe. Seeing that Jews ask for signs, and Greeks seek after wisdom: but we preach Christ crucified, unto Jews a stumblingblock, and unto Gentiles foolishness; but unto them that are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God. Because the foolishness of God is wiser than men; and the weakness of God is stronger than men. For behold your calling, brethren, that not many wise after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble, are called: but God chose the foolish things of the world, that he might put to shame them that are wise; and God chose the weak things of the world, that he might put to shame the things that are strong; and the base things of the world, and the things that are despised, did God choose, yea and the things that are not, that he might bring to naught the things that are: that no flesh should glory before God." (1 Cor. 1: 20-29.) Men should not glory in learning, in the flesh, or in power, but in the Lord. Man is prone to vaunt himself, to boast of his learning and wisdom. He leaves God out and takes all the glory to himself. How easy for many to say: "Mine own hand hath saved me!" Man in his own successes and his own learning and wisdom forgets God. Higher critics inflated with conceit and a little learning have rejected the inspiration of the Bible. They scoff at the idea that the apostles spoke for all ages and all peoples. Whenever I can accept such a view, I am ready to burn the Bible. I am not ready to accept present-day scholars as my priests and call on them to interpret the Scriptures for me. The common people do not need such interpreters. If the Bible is not for all ages, but must be interpreted differently for every generation, then we are at sea without chart or compass. I am sure that God in his wisdom and goodness has so revealed his will to men that they can accept and obey it and go to heaven when they die. I am not ready to turn over the Bible to Roman Catholic priests or any other priests to interpret for me. The "common people" can take the Bible as it has been handed down to us, obey it, and be saved. The prophet declares: "And a highway shall be there, and a way, and it shall be called The way of holiness; the unclean shall not pass over it; but it shall be for the redeemed: the way-faring men, yea fools, shall not err therein." (Isa. 35: 8.) A greater and nobler than Isaiah has said: "Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you: for every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened." (Matt. 7: 7, 8.) Would God say through the prophet that fools would not err in the way, and then fail to make it plain? Never. If it had been necessary, he would have dispatched every angel out of heaven in order to preserve it plain and intact for the human race. I am grateful that we are not dependent on the scholars for salvation, but on the Lord. God will take care of the people who put their trust in him. Scholars just as everybody else must bow to his will.

We all should learn more and more humility. The Lord looketh not on the outward appearance, but on the heart.

When we view costly church edifices and listen to the strains of the ponderous pipe organ, we would naturally conclude that God dwelt in temples made by hands, if the Spirit had not plainly told us: "Howbeit the Most High dwelleth not in houses made with hands." (Acts 7: 48.) Appreciating our own weakness, let us in humility cleave to the Lord. Jehovah was not in the wind, the earthquake, the fire, but in "a still small voice." By gentleness, not by force; by simplicity, not by display; and by humility, not conceit, does God lead the world up to the noblest and purest life.

"Because I Do Not Believe It."

BY F. W. SMITH.

The words composing the heading of this article are the exact words of Brother John B. Cowden, uttered before a large audience at the Tabernacle debate as the reason why he, as one of the committee on arrangements for another discussion of the music question, would not affirm the conclusion of O. E. Payne's argument on "Instrumental Music Is Scriptural"—viz.: "We must unite in agreeing that if we forego musical instruments we cannot conform to the divine injunction to psallein." This our brother did, notwithstanding the fact that he had so enthusiastically and unqualifiedly indorsed Payne's position in the following words: "Your book on the church-music question is the most exhaustive, thorough, and convincing treatise of the subject, or, indeed of any other subject, that I have ever seen. In my investigation I had but touched the hem of the garment, not dreaming that the confirming facts were so many and convincing. What Alexander Campbell did for the baptism question, you have done for the music question—settled it. The pity is that some one did not make this research and publish the facts while the people were open to conviction." Now, what will Brother Payne think of his Brother Cowden for publicly repudiating his once unqualified indorsement of his book, which Brother Cowden said had "settled" the music question? Again, Brother Cowden told me in so many words this spring that he indorsed Payne's position in his book. He was circulating that book, and gave as the reason for so doing that he believed Payne's position; but now, lo, and behold, before a large audience he said he did not believe it!

Seemingly not satisfied with the effort J. J. Walker has made to defend the proposition, "Instrumental music in church worship is scriptural," John B. Cowden came before the audience the last night of the debate, in person and through a circular, with the following propositions for the next discussion: "Instrumental music in the church is scriptural," or, "Instrumental music is scripturally permissible in the church." The committee, of which I am a member, insisted that the opposition affirm that instrumental music in Christian worship is authorized by the New Testament Scriptures. In his circular distributed at the Tabernacle, Brother Cowden says this: "As to my rejection of the phrase, 'in the worship,' from our statement, Instrumental music is scriptural, this makes instrumental music an integral part of worship, which no church that I know anything about does. To illustrate, the washing of feet is scriptural, but it is not in the worship, as the Primitive Baptists believe and practice. There are many things rightfully in the church that are not in the worship, one of which is instrumental music." This is but a flimsy subterfuge, the very embodiment of moral cowardice, as an effort to evade affirming the real issue involved in this controversy. Any man who will practice a thing in religion, and refuse to affirm that the word of God authorizes that thing, should be ashamed of himself. But note that Brother Cowden says instrumental music is not "in the worship;" but listen to Brother J. B. Briney, who is by far the ablest man on Brother Cowden's side of this question. Brother Briney, in commending Payne's book, said: "The author aims to prove that instrumental music in Christian worship is scriptural; and when I say that his effort is a complete success, I state the case conservatively." The difference between Brother Cowden and Brother Briney is, one says that instrumental music is in the church, just as "foot washing" is, but not in the worship, while the other says that instrumental music is in the worship, and that O. E. Payne has proven it. I really think that Brother Cowden and Brother Briney should first have a debate as to whether instrumental music is or is not in the worship, so we may know just what Brother Cowden's side does really believe on the question.

But this is not all. The Christian Standard, the leading organ on Brother Cowden's side of this controversy, and with, perhaps, the largest constituency of any paper on that side, has a right to be heard in this matter, and here is what the Standard (June 3, 1922) says of O. E. Payne's book: "The author has made an exhaustive research of the meaning of the word 'psallo,' precisely as Campbell and others have made the same investigation in regard to 'baptizo.' The result is an overwhelming conviction that not only was instrumental music allowed in the worship of the primitive church, but that it was positively enjoined." Please note the fact that the Christian Standard says: "Not only was instrumental music allowed in the worship of the primitive church, but it was positively enjoined." In the worship, of course, for that is what the Standard is talking about. Who, let me ask, is more likely to know what "we" believe on the place such music occupies on the side represented by Cowden—he or the Christian Standard?

But, worse still, Brother Cowden, who sat on the platform for five nights by the side of J. J. Walker as his chief counselor, while Walker was defending the proposition, "My reasons for believing that instrumental music in church worship is scriptural," now says that such music in connection with other acts of worship is not in the worship, but is simply in the church! Throughout that discussion he was trying his best to help Walker prove what he says he does not believe! J. J. Walker, with John B. Cowden's hearty assistance, tried to prove that the apostles engaged in the temple worship with the Jews where instrumental music was a part of the worship, but now, before the discussion is cold, Cowden denies a thing he through Walker tried to prove! His conversion from his faith that instrumental music was in the worship may be due to the fact that S. H. Hall showed that if the apostles' going into the temple at the hour of prayer proves that they worshiped with instrumental music, it also proves that they worshiped with the burning of incense, hence an apostolic approval of burning incense in Christian worship also. On the principle that that which proves too much proves nothing at all, Brother Cowden saw the handwriting on the wall and experienced a conversion.

Now, the church can do only two things—namely, work and worship; and since Cowden says instrumental music is "in the church," in which department will he put it? Is it in the work of the church? If so, how does it function? But there is one church in Nashville, at least, that believes instrumental music is in the worship—viz., Woodland Street Christian Church; for that church indorsed J. J. Walker, its pastor, to defend that proposition, and one of its elders acted as moderator for Walker. Does Woodland Street know what Brother Cowden's "we" believe? If any one doubts the converting power of M. C. Kurfees' review of O. E. Payne's book, I point them to John B. Cowden as a concrete example. He said Payne's book had "settled" the matter, but has now publicly stated that he does not believe Payne's arguments and conclusions. The truth is, O. E. Payne's conclusion from his argument on the meaning of "psallo" is absolutely the only consistent one that any living man can draw, and the Christian Standard shows its consistency by flat-footedly saying we are "positively enjoined" to use instrumental music in the worship.

Without consulting the committee on the other side, Brother Cowden sprang the subject of another discussion of the music question before the Tabernacle audience with the declaration that his side would be at the Tabernacle either in October or November to conduct a discussion of the proposition he published in his circular. But I respectfully inform Brother Cowden that there are others to be heard in this matter; and if his side is willing to affirm that "instrumental music in Christian worship is authorized by the New Testament," with the distinct understanding that the terms of the proposition are to be clearly defined, we are ready to meet them, but otherwise they will have to conduct a one-sided discussion, in which, I am constrained to believe, an intelligent public will have little interest. Brother Cowden, since Kurfess' review of Payne's book, stated to me in the presence of a number of brethren that he regarded instrumental music "as a non-essential." Now, in view of this statement, one of the most serious questions confronts our brother that ever confronted any mortal—viz.: Why persist in dividing the church Christ bought with his precious blood over a non-essential? He would as well face this question now, for he will have it to face at the judgment bar of Almighty God.

As undoubted proof that J. J. Walker and some of his members were dissatisfied with his efforts in the discussion of the music question, the following fully attests:

The Rev. J. J. Walker, pastor of the Woodland Street Christian Church, announces a four-nights' meeting at the church, beginning Sunday. The subject to be discussed is, "The Big Things of Religion." The services will begin each night at 7:45 o'clock, the series closing on Wednesday night.

Mr. Walker, it will be recalled, was one of the speakers in the recent discussion of the instrumental-music question, which came to a close at the Ryman Auditorium on Tuesday night, and during the course of his talks he characterized the contention that instrumental music is not scripturally authorized as one of the "petty" things of religion, and the coming series is undertaken at the request of his friends and church members in following up some of the points made by him in his recent debate, it is announced. (Nashville Banner, October 14.)

Bellbuckle, Tenn.

BY T. B. LARIMORE.

From Cookeville, Tenn., Mrs. Larimore and I went—via Nashville—to Bellbuckle, where I delivered thirty discourses in a good house, to good audiences, with satisfactory results.

Our home while in Bellbuckle was the home of W. B. McQuiddy; and our brief sojourn there was delightful, especially so because W. B. (Willie) and his wife, Chappelle, were among my very best pupils at Mars' Hill when they and I were younger than we are now. Moreover, the father of each of them—Newton McQuiddy and John D. Wade—helped me heroically in those strenuous days, when I was struggling to establish our school at Mars' Hill and build up and strengthen the cause of Christ there and in the region round about, as did many other faithful friends, whom I hope never to forget.

Amos Hill Taylor, a bright boy of eleven summers, grandson of Willie and Chappelle, was the first one baptized in the Bellbuckle meeting. Immediately after he obeyed the gospel he became my right-hand helper, and so continued till the meeting closed. He asked permission to help me in the dressing room, where he rendered most efficient service. He talked to his schoolmates and exerted a strong influence on them, successfully persuading some of them to make the good confession.

At one time he told me seven had promised to make the confession that night—six girls and one boy. The half dozen girls made the confession when Amos Hill had said they would, and the next morning he rounded up the boy, who had unavoidably failed to attend the meeting the night before, and he made the confession at that morning service and was baptized that night.

I commend to other boys the course of this little Christian soldier—a real hero in the service of the Savior. I am expecting great things of him, backed as he is by his beautiful mother and encouraged by a fond, wise, faithful stepfather, grandfather, and grandmother.

The night the six girls made the confession they and another young girl who had made the confession the night before were baptized, and it was more than a delightful picture—a picture that will linger long in the memory of those who saw it—those seven fair young girls, robed in white, standing on the brink of the fern-fringed pool, and then going down, one by one, into the water, to be buried with their Lord by baptism into death and raised up to walk in newness of life. If faithful until death, each of them shall receive a crown of life. So mote it be.

The joy of our meeting was marred by one sad, sad incident at the last. During the early part of the meeting Brother and Sister Mingle, with their five children, attended every service, Brother Mingle leading the songs at the day services, Brother Silas Beachboard being the song leader at the night services. All the children of the Mingle family, we thought, were good-looking, well-trained, well-behaved little folks; but the baby, an especially fine-looking boy, with a magnificent head, attracted much attention, especially from Mrs. Larimore and me. He was taken suddenly sick during the last week of the meeting and passed away about the close of the last Sunday-morning service.

In Christ Jesus the bereaved father and mother find consolation, knowing their sinless little one, though lost to them here, is saved and safe for evermore. "Of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Bellbuckle is the seat of the justly celebrated Webb School for boys, the school that is said to have made Bellbuckle the prosperous place that it is. It is said that "Old Sawney," as the scholarly founder of the Webb School is affectionately called, tried to establish his school at Culleoka, but the hoodlum element of that community drove him away. That element is a curse to any town, but such a school as the Webb School is a blessing to any community, county, or country.

If Bellbuckle had a good system of waterworks, including, of course, thorough, up-to-date drainage and sewerage, it would be, I think, an ideal place for such a school; but, in this advanced age, no place without such water system, thorough drainage and sewerage included, is a proper place to which to send children to school.

Neither love of money nor any other evil should be allowed to keep Bellbuckle, the seat of the great Webb School, from having the best system of waterworks, especially sewerage, possible. Health, happiness, and life are more important than money, notwithstanding some people seem to think otherwise. When, if ever, Patrick Henry said, "Give me liberty or give me death," he may not have meant liberty from filth or flies; but such liberty is sufficiently important to justify that thought, as well as any reasonable outlay for a cleansing water system in any community or town.

I have never meddled with politics much. I have voted but once. But I cast that vote with the clearest kind of a conscience; for I knew then, and know now, that I voted for the health, happiness, and life of every man, woman, and child in that town then or ever to be there. I voted for water in a school town that needed it as badly then as Bellbuckle needs it now.

In that town sanitary conditions were deplorable then, but they are decidedly otherwise now, and the school, the life of the town, flourishes as a priceless tree bearing an abundance of the very best kind of fruit—fruit for body, soul, and spirit, for time and for eternity. Long may it flourish, and stronger and better and greater may it continue to grow.

It is marvelous that men will cling to their cash till they die and leave it, to curse their posterity, instead of using it for the good of themselves and all others concerned. A childless husband had a tempting gold reserve. His wife insisted on his spending some of it for things they needed. He declined emphatically—profanely emphatically. She cried, of course, but finally said: "You may just as well spend it. You can't take it with you when you die, and, if you could, it would do you no good—it would melt as soon as you got there!"

He didn't keep it till he died, however. Jesse James and his gang came that way a few days later and relieved that unfortunate man of all his golden burden, which may have been a blessing in disguise. No mortal knows.

An Important Matter.

BY C. E. HOLT.

In this article I wish to make an appeal to the churches of Christ throughout the country. It is a fact, however much we may regret it, that the majority of congregations go into winter quarters so far as active work is concerned. They have their protracted meetings in the summer and early fall, and then go into spiritual hibernation—just drag along during the winter months. We thus lose about all we gain in our protracted meetings. Many who obey the gospel in the protracted meetings drift away and are lost forever. Some few may renew at the next protracted meeting.

This is one of our greatest mistakes. How can we correct this? I would suggest that each congregation in the country and small towns, and some in the cities also, improve their Bible knowledge and their singing during the winter months. This is the plan I would recommend: Arrange with a competent Bible teacher, a preacher who is able to give a sensible and systematic course in Bible study, and let the entire membership and all others who might be interested in studying the word of God take a course in Bible instruction. Also secure a competent man to teach the congregation in vocal music. It is deplorable that the majority of our congregations know almost nothing about the principles of vocal music. When they have a protracted meeting, they will secure a man from some place to lead the singing. On such occasions the men employed will sing a few of the old songs which the congregations can sing, or the songs that they think they can sing, and so no real progress is made. One of our strongest congregations in North Alabama has to hire a man to lead the song service every Lord's day. That congregation has been in existence forty years and has never developed a song leader. Very few of the congregations know anything about the principles of music. They sing "by ear," as we sometimes say. If they sing any song correctly, it is only an accident. Why is it that people do not learn to sing? If singing is a part of the worship—and it is—why do we not learn to sing? The winter months is the time, and may be profitably used in this way. Why not do it?

If you need a singing school, write me at once, and I will undertake to help you in the matter. If you need a good instructor in Bible study, write me at once. I hope to hear from a number of congregations soon. Winter is almost here. Address me at Florence, Ala.

It is better to live always in an unfeathered nest than to get caught feathering one.—Exchange.

Commendation of "Hardeman's Tabernacle Sermons."

BY G. A. DUNN.

This is a book of two hundred and eighty-seven pages, twenty-four sermons. (1) These sermons were delivered under very favorable circumstances, being delivered to audiences of from three thousand to seven thousand people who were very enthusiastic. (2) The sermons are all scriptural and timely. (3) The spirit of the sermons is good, being kind and courteous, and, at the same time, courageous and without apology for God or the Bible. (4) The book will accomplish a double purpose. First, it will help all who read it, and, second, the money is to be used to assist young people to get an education. I heartily commend the meeting, the book, and the use of the money received from the sale of the books.

Publishers' Items.

Sunday School Record. This record is neatly and substantially bound, and has space for fifty-two Sundays. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

"Questions Answered," by David Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell, should have a place in every library. Those who have seen and examined it closely are highly pleased with it. Cloth bound; 700 pages. Price, $3, postpaid.

"Civil Government"—Its Origin, Mission, and Destiny, and the Christian's Relations to It. By David Lipscomb. This book is the outgrowth of the author's most matured thoughts on this subject. Attractively bound. Pages, 158. Price, $1.

"The People's New Testament, with Notes." (Two volumes.) By B. W. Johnson. A splendid commentary, comprising the entire New Testament. Volume I., four Gospels and Acts; Volume II., Epistles and Revelation. Price, per volume, postpaid, $2.50.

This company is headquarters for Bibles, song books, Bible Lesson Helps (including Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary Quarterlies, Lesson Leaf, Picture Cards, and Young People), the Gospel Advocate, and religious books too numerous to mention.

"Salvation from Sin." By David Lipscomb. This book is composed of the editorials of David Lipscomb, collated by J. W. Shepherd, and contains many of the best and most profound thoughts of its author. It contains an index to subjects and an index to scriptures. Cloth; 440 large pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

"Commentary on Acts." By David Lipscomb. A commentary on the Acts of Apostles, with questions suited for the use of families and schools. This commentary is especially adapted to the comprehension of the masses of the people. It also contains a chronology of the Acts, map showing Paul's missionary journeys, brief biographies of the apostles, and an introductory chapter on the Holy Spirit. Cloth; 250 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

"Life of Elder John Smith." By John Augustus Williams. A biography that is a romance of religious experience. "Raccoon" John Smith was the Peter Cartwright of the Restoration, and a humble, powerful, fearless man of God, with strong convictions and gigantic faith. It presents a graphic account of a period in the history of the early days of the Reformation in Kentucky. This narrative of great self-sacrifice and devotion has seldom been equaled. His wonderful personality, his utter fearlessness, and his wide knowledge of the Scriptures and of the great issues of life are among the great heritages of the Restoration movement. Cloth. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

Many others too numerous to mention can be had by writing the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Home Reading

The Naughty Word.

I lost a very little word
Only the other day—
A very naughty little word
I had not meant to say.
If only it were really lost,
I should not mind a bit;
I think I should deserve a prize
For really losing it.

But then it wasn't really lost
When from my lips it flew;
My little brother picked it up,
And now he says it, too.
Mamma said that the worst would be,
I could not get it back;
But the worst of it now seems to me
I'm always on its track.

Mamma is sad; papa looks grieved;
Johnnie has said it twice.
Of course it is no use for me
To tell him it's not nice.
When you lose other things, they're lost;
But lose a naughty word,
And for every time 'twas heard before,
Now twenty times 'tis heard.

If it were only really lost,
O, then I should be glad;
I let it fall so carelessly
The day that I got mad.
Lose other things, you never seem
To come upon their track;
But lose a naughty little word,
It's always coming back.

—The Expository Times.

* * *

When Red Dresses Were the Style.

The other day Peggy came in and sat down in that tired, disgruntled fashion that could mean only one thing—something had gone wrong. And that something turned out to be a desperate need for a new dress, and no money to get one.

"Dear me!" I sympathized, "but I thought your plaid dress was as good as new."

"It's so dull," Peggy groaned.

"O!" I sighed. When anybody tells me that green and blue and tan plaid is dull, then what more is to be said? Unless, indeed, one tells a story.

"That reminds me of the governor's daughter's," I reminisced.

Peggy brightened: "Are they a story?"

"They are."

She curled up in the big chair delightedly. "Let me hear all about them, how old they were, what they looked like, why I remind you of them, and everything."

"Well," I began, "I never really knew them, but once when I had a dress I detested my father told me about the governor's daughters; and although I am ever so old by this time, I have never forgotten them. Never! You see, they were rather conspicuous little girls all of a sudden when their father became governor of their State and they all moved to the capital to live. And up to the very last moment they had supposed that of course they would have lots of new clothes now that they had become so very important. But would you believe it? Not one single new dress did they get—not one. Their mother said to them in a surprised way: 'But, my dears, your little red dresses are in perfect condition and almost new.'

"But red isn't stylish, mother."

"It's such a bright red, mother."

"We did so awfully want new dresses, for I guess everybody will take a look at the governor's daughters, mother."

"And nobody wears red nowadays. Nobody!"

"But although they begged and pleaded and made all sorts of little suggestions, Mrs. Governor-Elect thought their red dresses would be plenty good enough. Plenty! And neither tears nor sighs nor pouts could make her change her mind about the becomingness of that particular shade of red. How do you like the story, Peggy?"

"It's great!" sighed Peggy. "But what happened?"

"Well, they moved to the capital to live, and on Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Governor and the little Misses Governor went to church—yes, in red dresses, of course. And, would you believe it, on the way home Serenity Arethusa Quiggin said to her mother: 'Mamma, did you ever in your life see darlinger dresses than the governor's daughters had on? Don't you think it would be ever and ever so becoming to me to have a new red dress?'

"But, Serenity," gasped her mother, 'your brown dress is almost as good as new!'

"But red's so much more stylish."

"W-e-l-l, I guess maybe it is. I tell you, Serenity dear, maybe we can manage it somehow or other."

"And although the Quiggins were poor, the first thing anybody knew Serenity Arethusa was going to church in a red dress every Sunday and feeling very stylish. But that is not the end of the matter, for on that first Sunday morning Phoebe Elvira Piper also saw those red dresses, and she gave her parents no rest until she had one herself. And when Minerva Drusilla Skinner found that Phoebe Elvira Piper and Serenity Arethusa Quiggin each had red dresses, life held no joy for her until she had one, too. So what do you suppose happened?"

"What?," questioned Peggy, all eyes.

"Why, my dear, red dresses became the rage. And people stormed the dry goods stores for the same kind of material that the governor's daughters had in their lovely red frocks. Which just shows you that to strange eyes another girl's dresses look lovely and attractive and desirable, because they're new and different from your own that you're so used to."

Peggy sparkled her adorable smile at me.

"And the moral of that is, be contented with your old plaid dress, Peggy. But, tell me, is there anybody anywhere that likes it enough to copy it and make it the style?"

For answer I picked up the newspaper and showed her an advertisement of a plaid dress that really might have been her own. So, poor child, she feels that both she and the governor's daughters are a year ahead of every one else. The delightful part of it is that the following Sunday when Peggy went to church the minister preached on fashions, and his text was: "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart." So when she next came in to talk, we decided that thoughts and wishes and deeds mattered more than any little old plaid dress in the world, and that nobody ever loved anybody else on account of clothes, anyway.—The Baptist.

* * *

"Be a Lady."

Little Nellie had been taught never to put her fingers into her bowl of bread and milk, but always to use her spoon, like a little lady.

When she visited her grandfather one summer, she was allowed to eat her luncheon out on the stone step. One day a wee white pig came up and rudely pushed his little pink nose into her bowl of bread and milk. "O! O!" screamed the baby. "Be a lady! Take a 'poon, pig; take a 'poon!"
—Selected.

A Worthy Brother in Need.

BY U. G. WILKINSON.

I see in the papers that Brother G. W. Thompson, of Wilson, Okla., is sick and in need of our assistance. I hasten to say that there is no more worthy man among us than he. For many years he has preached the gospel faithfully among the destitute fields of Oklahoma and Texas, and very many have been led to Christ through his work. As he preached it, so he lived it. I have known him for almost thirty years, having been engaged much in work in the same field. I cannot speak too highly of him as an altogether worthy servant of God. Let us send him a substantial remembrance. This is the very least that we can do to show our appreciation of a brother so worthy. Address him at Wilson, Okla.

An incident illustrative of his noble and unselfish character occurred last spring. Having been sick so long myself, I was at Healdton, Okla., under treatment at the hospital there, and on Lord's day he was to have preached at Wirt in the afternoon. He begged me, if I felt able to do so, to preach in his place, which I did. At the close of the sermon he requested the church to make the contribution to me instead of to him for that day. Of course we would not do any such thing, but gave him the support that was rightly his, and the brethren made other arrangements to assist me also. What a grand man of God he is! May the Lord abundantly bless him in every way, and may he soon be restored to us, to do much more in the service of the King. Brethren, again I say, remember him.

If You Are a Mother—

- Don't scold.
- Don't be cross.
- Don't fret or whine.
- Don't be despondent.
- Don't work too hard.
- Don't be complaining.
- Don't set bad examples.
- Don't forget to be a lady.
- Don't neglect the children.
- Don't rob yourself of sleep.
- Don't read worthless literature.
- Don't forget to be kind and sweet.
- Don't wear uncomfortable clothing.
- Don't allow yourself to be nervous.
- Don't try to do two days' work in one.
- Don't forget to love and caress the children.
- Don't go without a lunch when you are faint.
- Don't forget that your husband is your old lover.
- Don't slump the shoulders and become hunchbacked.
- Don't forget that the home without mother is desolate.—Selected.

Send No Money*When You Answer This Advertisement

Dear Friend:

I believe I have a spectacle better than any I have ever handled before and I would like every reader of this paper to try a pair. The lenses are guaranteed to be perfect. They are ground of the same crystal as the most expensive glasses are made of, and by the same manufacturers. I want you to take particular notice of this latest style frame which is 10K Gold Filled and has ZYLO SHELL RIMS around the glasses which gives them a most beautiful appearance and prevents a great deal of breakage.

They Will Help You to See Perfectly

Through these glasses of mine you will be able to read fine print easily at reading distance. You will not have to hold your reading at arm's length or even farther off to read the fine print, as you may be doing now, and thereby straining your eyes. They will fit you for any close work if that is what you want them for, or to look way off in the distance, whichever you prefer, so that you can easily recognize a friend even at a good distance away. They will help you to see plainly to file your saw or to sight your gun perfectly if you go hunting. I claim they are perfect in vision and the most comfortable to wear, that is why we call them Perfect Vision Zylo Shell Rim Comfort Spectacles.

I Don't Want You to Take My Word For It.
Try Them Out For Yourself. You Have Nothing to Lose.

I want to send you a pair of these Perfect Vision Zylo Shell Rim Comfort Spectacles on one condition only, that you are to try them out thoroughly for ten days and only keep them if they fit you perfectly. If, however, you are not fully convinced after you have given them a proper test that they are a perfect fit and are perfectly comfortable to wear you are to return them to us without a cent of pay and you will owe us nothing for this Free Trial. Can anything be fairer? Fill out the below coupon at once and let me send you these glasses including a Spring Back Pocket Book Spectacle Case by return mail.

Cut Out the Coupon on This Line

ST. LOUIS SPECTACLE HOUSE, Room 12 ST. LOUIS, MO.

I herewith enclose this coupon, which entitles me, by return mail, to a pair of your Gold-filled Zylo Shell Rim Perfect-Vision Comfort Spectacles, complete, in a fine Spring Back Pocketbook Spectacle Case, without any cost to me, so I can try them out for fully ten days. If I like the glasses and keep them, I am to pay you $3.85 only—no more and no less. But if, for any reason whatever, I don't wish to keep them I will return the spectacles to you without paying you a cent for them. With this understanding I mail you this coupon.

Don't fail to answer the following questions:

How old are you?.....How many years have you used glasses?.....

Name

Post Office.....

Rural Route.....Box No.State

Street No.

Dodson's Liver Tone

Instead of Calomel

Calomel is quicksilver. It attacks the bones and paralyzes the liver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it will regulate the liver, stomach, and bowels better than calomel, without sickening or salivating you. Fifteen million bottles sold.

PILES CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or call without delay. Private reception rooms for ladies. Established since 1912. Free X-Ray examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

BE YOUR OWN BOSS
RUN A BUSINESS
OF YOUR OWN
BE RICH

Why Not Be Attractive

MAKE YOUR OWN CANDY
PERFUMES
TOILET ARTICLES

WHY PAY FANCY PRICES
When the finest Perfumes, Cream Chocolates, Bon-Bons and Beauty Creams are easily made at home. Costs but few pennies to make. Send 25c for formula and great free Catalog. Address

THE AVION CO.,
6309 Yale Av., Dept. A. Chicago, Ill.

GET RID OF THAT FAT

Free Trial Treatment on Request

Ask also for my "pay-when-reduced" offer. My treatment has often reduced at the rate of a pound a day. No dieting, no exercise, absolutely safe and sure method.

Mrs. E. Bateman writes:—Have taken your treatment and it is wonderful how it reduces. It does just as you say. I have reduced a pound a day and feel fine.

Mrs. Anna Schmidt writes:—I weighed 178 pounds before I started your treatment and I now weigh 138 pounds. You may print this if you like.

These are just examples of what my treatment can accomplish. Let me send you more proof at my expense.

DR. R. NEWMAN, Licensed Physician
286 Fifth Avenue, New York. Desk H967.

BOOK OF COMFORT

Specially designed gift for the bereaved. Contains choicest gems of comfort from greatest writers. Each selection a masterpiece. Memorial record page for the deceased. Beautifully decorated. Flowers fade, but "consolation" may be cherished for years. Price $2.00, postpaid. Send to McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Field Reports

Cookeville, Tenn., October 11.—I have had some illness this year that hindered me from answering several calls, but I am glad now to say it pleased the Lord to give me strength to hold a few meetings. On September 10 I began a ten-days' meeting at Beard's Mill, closing with one confession. On September 24 I began a ten-days' meeting at Celina, Tenn. The interest was fine, and we closed with twenty-three additions. At present Brother M. Keeble is with us in a week's meeting, and he is giving some very fine lessons.—Gilbert A. Johnson.

Holdenville, Okla., October 6.—We had two confessions at Gum Springs last Sunday night. This gives them even fifty members in the congregation where one month ago there was no church of Christ. Brother T. H. Wiggs and I intend looking after them until they can take care of themselves. Brother W. P. Jones has just closed a meeting at Ragtown, with four baptisms. This place one year ago was also a mission point a short way out of Holdenville, but has now an active congregation of earnest disciples of Christ. I am now ready to start for meetings in the eastern part of the State.—R. H. Howard.

Fairmont, W. Va., October 17.—I began preaching at Union, near Philippi, W. V., on Saturday night of last week and closed last night. We had a good and attentive hearing all the time, but no additions. In May last we had forty baptisms and three by membership. One was led to obey on Sunday before I began this meeting. I hear good reports of the growth and faithfulness of the young members. We had a Bible drill nearly every night before preaching. The congregation has built a good addition to the church house since our first meeting. I will go to Fairview, Ohio, to begin work to-morrow night.—Andrew Perry.

Corinth, Miss., October 17.—I was called to Rienzi, Miss., by a white brother who made arrangements for a place for me to preach in (the Baptist church), also a place for me to stay while there. I preached three sermons for them, and much good was done. This is a mission point. These people had never heard the gospel before. I had two preachers in each service, one a Baptist and the other a Methodist, and each of them made a talk the last night and said they had learned more about the Bible these three nights than in all of their reading, and told all in the house that I was right and that it was plain. A great work can be done there. The church of Christ at Nashville, Tenn., on Jefferson Street, by Brother P. H. Black, sent us fifteen dollars to help in building our church, and Brother T. J. Stormont (white), of Iuka, Miss., sent us two dollars to help us in rebuilding the house that was blown away in March. We have been meeting from house to house ever since. I closed the meeting at Tusculumbia, Ala., and baptized six. The church at this place is doing well, meeting each Lord's day and breaking the loaf.—J. Hannon.

Winston-Salem, N. C., October 12.—I make this final report not to advertise my own work, but that the readers of the Gospel Advocate may have some idea as to the progress of the cause of Christ in this State, because I know of some who are interested in it. There are only ten loyal congregations in the State. Those that I was with are trying to keep house for the Lord and seem to have a zeal for God. The harvest in this field certainly is ripe, with not half enough laborers. These congregations are all near Winston-Salem. Brother W. L. Reeves has lived there for several years, and has done a great work. At the time I sent in my last report I was in an interesting mission meeting near Walnut Cove. It continued eight days and resulted in six baptisms, with a number of others almost persuaded. This is the first time that the gospel in its fullness has ever been preached in that community. This is the second summer that I have spent in this field of labor, and I have enjoyed it very much. It has kept me busy this year since June 18. The brethren made a strong effort to launch other mission meetings, but were denied the use of Methodist and Baptist meetinghouses, schoolhouses, courthouses, and halls. During these four months I have held eight meetings, with forty-two baptisms, most of whom were Methodists. I was with the congregation in Winston-Salem last Lord's day. A large crowd was present. Two were baptized in the afternoon. I will leave here this week for Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tenn. May every Christian put on the whole armor of God, with a renewed interest and a greater determination to fight for the extension of God's kingdom among men.—J. E. Green.

Murray, Ky., October 16.—On the second Lord's day in August I began my fifth meeting with the church at Capleville, Tenn. In the beginning I discovered that most of the preaching should be done to the church, and when the meeting closed they were greatly encouraged and edified. I have always loved to labor with this church, because they have assisted me in my work for the last few years. While there they looked out Brother James Stewart, a very faithful man, to serve them as overseer; and with him and Brother Moses Allen as overseers, I predict a great spiritual growth. On the fourth Lord's day in August I began my fourth meeting at Foster-ville, Tenn., at a place known as "Flat Rock," under a brush arbor, and the interest was good from start to finish. On the first day of the meeting I preached to people from Nashville, Shelbyville, Christiana, and Murfreesboro, and all seemed to enjoy the services. These are fine people to work with. This meeting continued eight days and resulted in one being added to the church. After closing this meeting I stopped over at Christiana, where Brother T. H. Busby was engaged in a splendid meeting. I remained over with him two nights, and he insisted on my preaching each night; and as he had the fire burning, I gladly put on more fuel. The white people attended in large numbers both at Christiana and Foster-ville, and aided much in supporting the work.

When I left, five had been baptized by Brother Busby. I am now at Murray in a tent meeting. The white church has me here doing mission work among my people. I baptized fifteen here last year, and it made me very happy to find them continuing steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine. The white brethren here have met with them each Lord's day and helped them to conduct the services and have strengthened them.—M. Keeble.

An Explanation.

BY L. C. OTEY.

Since I have ceased to participate in the work and worship and withdrawn my support and indorsement from the church at Salem, Va., I deem it appropriate to explain my reasons for so doing. My motives have been misunderstood and misrepresented in the matter. Several reasons have been given, none of which are correct.

I wish to say, first, that the house of worship at this place was built about twenty years ago and deeded to trustees of the church of Christ. For a long time the work and worship was after the divine pattern. Then they got on the mailing list of the Standard Publishing Company. They began to get the literature put out by this publishing house, and soon added the organizations advocated by such literature. Thus it continued till there would have been no objections offered to almost anything suggested in the name of the church. I moved into this community almost two years ago, and, finding not much enthusiasm with reference to these innovations, decided to see what I could do toward eliminating all such practices and get the worship back as it had started and be a church of Christ once more. After many conferences with the good brethren who were elders and deacons, it was decided to eliminate all practices which were not of divine authority and be known as the church of Christ again. We were delighted with the progress made for some time. Considerable interest was manifested and a new home for the preacher was built. About three months ago an influence was exerted again for those things which are so interesting to those who are not satisfied with divine things, and, as a result, the older and best brethren submitted, "rather than have trouble," as one put it.

And since I now believe that they will become a "Christian Church" with all of its innovations, even the extreme to which some of them have gone, I can no longer participate in the worship and indorse and help to support the work. This was my reason for my action in the matter; and when I saw there was no possibility of the divine plan of worship and work being restored, I ceased my efforts, and will remain so till I see some disposition to return to New Testament authority, and this I do not expect to see.

I regret having to take this action, as there is no congregation of the church of Christ in all this country with which to meet for worship.

The "Christian Church" with all of its organizations and practices has no more divine authority to exist than any of the other sectarians. I cannot see any New Testament authority for participating in the work and worship with the "Christian Church," any more than I can any of the other denominations.

Pure religion may generally be measured by the cheerfulness of its professors.—Chatfield.

Rupture Cured

In Thirty Days or No Pay

Write to-day for our GUARANTEED proposition and free copy of book describing this wonder treatment and record of marvelous results obtained. Just send your name and address to Dr. Andrews, 304 Koch Building, Kansas City, Mo.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, back-aches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

McShane Bell Foundry Co.
BALTIMORE, MD.
CHURCH, CHIME and PEAL
BELLS Memorials
a Specialty

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

PRICES OF OUR HYMN BOOKS.

PRASE HIM.

Music Edition—Boards.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Single copy.....	$ 50	Single copy.....	$ 60
Per dozen.....	4 80	Per dozen.....	6 00
Per fifty.....	17 00	Per fifty.....	22 50
Per hundred.....	32 50	Per hundred.....	43 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

CHRISTIAN HYMNS.

Music Edition—Boards.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Single copy.....	$ 55	Single copy.....	$ 65
Per dozen.....	6 00	Per dozen.....	7 20
Per fifty.....	23 00	Per fifty.....	28 00
Per hundred.....	45 00	Per hundred.....	55 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

WORDS OF TRUTH.

Music Edition—Boards.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Single copy.....	$ 45	Single copy.....	$ 50
Per dozen.....	4 80	Per dozen.....	6 00
Per fifty.....	18 00	Per fifty.....	23 00
Per hundred.....	35 00	Per hundred.....	45 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

VOICE OF PRAISE.

Music Edition—Boards.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Single copy.....	$ 35	Single copy.....	$ 16 00
Per dozen.....	4 00	Per dozen.....	30 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

CHRISTIAN HYMNS AND WORDS OF TRUTH, COMBINED— CHRISTIAN HYMNS AND VOICE OF PRAISE, COMBINED.

Music Edition—Boards.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Single copy.....	$ 70	Single copy.....	$ 75
Per dozen.....	7 20	Per dozen.....	8 75
Per fifty.....	28 00	Per fifty.....	36 00
Per hundred.....	55 00	Per hundred.....	70 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

GOSPEL PRAISE.

Music Edition—Boards.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Single copy.....	$ 50	Single copy.....	$ 60
Per dozen.....	6 00	Per dozen.....	7 20
Per fifty.....	23 00	Per fifty.....	28 00
Per hundred.....	45 00	Per hundred.....	55 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

SEVENTY-SEVEN SWEET SONGS.

Flexible Cloth.		Flexible Cloth.
Single copy.....	$ 25	Single copy.....	$ 7 50
Per dozen.....	2 50	Per dozen.....	14 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

NEW CHRISTIAN HYMN BOOK.

Music Edition—Boards.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Single copy.....	$ 40	Single copy.....	$ 50
Per dozen.....	4 80	Per dozen.....	5 60
Per fifty.....	16 50	Per fifty.....	22 00
Per hundred.....	32 00	Per hundred.....	42 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Colley-Tyndall Debate.

BY W. T. HINES.

This debate took place at Hunnewell, Kan., as the result of a challenge issued to the church of Christ at Braman, Okla., about nine miles from Hunnewell, by Brother John W. Tyndall and his brethren of the Christian Church. They wrote the propositions, set the time, and arranged every detail, and then demanded that the church arrange for their man to be there. Brother Colley was notified by wire and was on the ground at the appointed time.

The propositions covered the principal points of difference between the two churches on instrumental music, and they chose one of the strongest men in their ranks to defend their contentions.

On the first day Tyndall led out on his affirmative, in a one-hour's type-written speech, which he read, setting forth every passage in the Old Testament where music is mentioned. This was route number one. When Brother Colley came to reply, he showed the proper division of God's word; that the law under which instrumental music was found did not embrace any Gentile Christian; that the promise that was given to Abraham in Gen. 12: 3 was fulfilled in Christ (Gal. 3: 16, 17); and, to find instrumental music commanded or binding on us, he must come to where the Gentiles were embraced. This could not be until the law was taken away. This occurred in the death of Christ on the cross. (Col. 2: 14.) Tyndall insisted on Colley's reading every passage he had read whether it applied to the subject or not. Colley maintained that, if it was under the law, it did not apply to the subject, and, therefore, declined to grant his request.

Then Tyndall took route number two, trying this time to prove that the Psalms of David did not belong to the law, but applied to this age as well. Colley showed that Christ called it "law" in John 15: 25—"That the word might be fulfilled that is written in their law, They hated me without a cause" (see Ps. 35: 19); and again in John 10: 24—"Is it not written in your law, I said, Ye are gods?" (see Ps. 82: 6).

Then Tyndall chose the third route to prove instrumental music in worship; that David wrote some law and some prophecy, and it was the prophecy of David that he depended on for proof. He employed many tactfully arranged arguments upon this point to show that the Psalms of David were quoted so many times in the New Testament, and he (David) by the Holy Spirit told us to sing and play when he said, "As well the singers as the players on instruments shall be there" (Ps. 87: 7); that Christ was to open his mouth upon a harp (Ps. 49: 4; 78: 2). Brother Colley showed that Ps. 49: 4 did not refer to Christ, for it said in the next verse that the writer had "iniquity" upon him. Tyndall tried to show that Christ did have iniquity upon him. Colley showed wherever a prophecy of the Old Testament described any feature of New Testament worship, it was repeated, "as it is written;" but no passage in the New Testament was quoted from the Old Testament where any inspired man ever said that any instrument was ever used.

Tyndall chose a fourth route and surprised his people by saying that instrumental music was a "nonessential," anyway. Colley then showed how he had surrendered every point. First, not in the law; second, Psalms of David binding to-day; third, not in types; fourth, it was taught by the Holy Spirit through the prophets to be observed in the New Testament, but a "nonessential." Colley asked him to roll out his nonessential, as Paul said he would do by eating meat if it offended his brother, and pleaded with him to quit dividing the church over what he conceded to be a nonessential. This had a telling effect upon his audience, who wonder still why the Holy Spirit through the prophets taught a nonessential.

Everything passed off pleasantly, and the debaters agreed to meet again at any church where both churches are represented and invite them. The next one will be in Dallas, Texas, about January 15. The proposition agreed to for the Dallas discussion is: "The Bible teaches that instrumental music is authorized in divine worship." Tyndall has agreed to affirm this for two days. The contract agreed upon is: "Each speaker shall be allowed to select one moderator, and they shall select the third moderator; the third one not to be a member of either church represented in the discussion."

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate, and send us a new subscriber.

MOTHER!

Open Child's Bowels with
"California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

For the HAIR—

To make it soft, fluffy, and free from dandruff, use

TETTERINE

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

PIANOS

AND

VICTROLAS

Sold for Cash or on Easy Payments

M. F. SHEA

305 Fifth Avenue, North
NASHVILLE, TENN.

PARKER'S
HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling—
Restores Color and
Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc. Stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

Clear Baby's Skin
With Cuticura
Soap and Talcum

Soap, Ointment, Talcum, 25c. everywhere. For samples address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

Mrs. NANNIE KELLEY

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Here Is Good Advice For You!

Lexington, Ky.—“I have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and the Golden Medical Discovery in my family for years, and I cannot recommend them too highly. During the period of middle life the Prescription and the Discovery were a wonderful help to me. No woman should try to do without them at that time.”—Mrs. Nannie Kelley, 731 Jackson St.

Your health is most important to you. It's easily improved. If you suffer from heat flashes, dizziness, or any of the symptoms common to women at the critical period in life, just ask your nearest druggist for this Prescription of Dr. Pierce's, in tablet or liquid form. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., if you wish a trial pkg. and write for free, confidential medical advice.

TETTERINE

Ends Complexion Worries

Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-
PERINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Sure Relief
FOR INDIGESTION

25c AND 75c PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

OTHINE

For the treatment of

FRECKLES

In Use for Over 14 Years

Your freckles need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use Othine—double strength—the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women, and rid yourself of these homely spots.

At all Druggists and Department Stores.

Who Is to Blame?

BY A. F. THURMAN.

“Judge not, that ye be not judged,” says the Lord. It is lawful for one to judge righteously—that is, to let the Lord judge for him. The Lord tells us that we may know by their fruits as to their kind—character. Good fruit grows on good trees, evil fruit grows on evil trees. “By their fruits ye shall know them.” (Matt. 7: 16.) First, one must let the Lord tell him what is good and what is bad. Otherwise, he could not and should not say yea or nay. When one is really filled with the love of God, he will not be as hasty in saying things that would and do cast reflections on the name of his brother. We should be as careful to say nothing that will injure our brother as we would to say nothing that will hurt ourselves. In other words, we should do unto others as we would have them do unto us. This is the thing to be done every time—always. Then no harm can accrue to either party. The good, the best, will always follow. Then the Lord is glorified—the soul is saved. Until we will do this, have we the right to say we are partakers of the divine nature in the Christ? Do you not remember that the Book teaches us to love our neighbor as we love ourselves? Do you really love your neighbor as you do yourself? Do not answer too soon. Give yourself time to think, then answer. Do you watch yourself as closely as you do your brother or neighbor? When you do wrong, do you fall out with yourself as you do with your neighbor? Do you get to that point where you will not have anything to do with yourself because you do wrong? When you look at yourself in the mirror, do you try to look as hateful as you hope to look to your neighbor when you meet him? Do you put on a good appearance when you are with your brother, then when he has gone give him what you think is coming to him? Don't you think that it would be better to “debate the cause with thy neighbor himself,” as the Book teaches? Debate thy cause and not thy neighbor.

I fear that we are too prone to desire the exaltation of ourselves to that of the downfall of our neighbors. Does it seem to you that the only right way to show yourself approved is to show the other fellow disapproved? Do you think that the best way to advertise your goodness is by word of mouth? Do you not think it likely that you will expose yourself in trying to make known the evils in your neighbor? Do you think that the one to whom you are talking is made to know that you are good because of the many bad things that you say of the other fellow? Do you really know what it means to think of your neighbor as you do of yourself? If we love our fathers, mothers, wives, husbands, children, and even our enemies, as we should—as ourselves—do you think the same is made known by word of mouth only? Do you really think it becoming in people to confess their faults one to the other? James thought it good to do so. He knew it good to do so, and therefore commanded it. Come, let us obey this blessed commandment.

Ousts Rheumatism.

Here it is. Those awful pains of rheumatism so common during the cold, rainy weather are completely forgotten, and the rheumatism is expelled from your system, by the very simple treatment of taking Renwar Salts, which neutralizes the uric acid in the blood, and Renwar attacks the very cause of this malady and expels the uric acid from the system. Renwar is entirely dependable. It does not in any way injure the stomach or affect the heart. It is prescribed by the best physicians, and your money is refunded if Renwar fails to relieve you of rheumatism. Give Renwar a trial, and you will never regret it. Mr. Benagh, of the Nashville Railway and Light Company, says: “Within two or three days after using Renwar my rheumatism disappeared.” Price, 50 cents. Ask your druggist for it, or write WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Homes Furnished Complete

Terms to Suit Everybody

TELEPHONE, MAIN 1096

HILARY E. HOWSE

FURNITURE, CARPETS
STOVES AND RANGESWe Exchange Furniture as Part Payment

304-306-308 BROADWAY

105-107-109 THIRD AVE., N.

THE B. H. STIEF
JEWELRY CO.

We are preparing our mailing list for our New Catalogue. If you are interested in a free copy, write us.

B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.
CHURCH STREET
Nashville, Tennessee

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

Renew your health
by purifying your system with

The purified and refined
calomel tablets that are free
from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel
and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c
and 35c packages, bearing
above trade-mark.

No More Rupture— Sound as a Dollar!

Ohio Man Finds Remarkable Device Which Succeeds
Where Many Fail.
Sample Sent FREE.

This is an invitation that no man or woman who reads this paper, and who is suffering the terrible handicap of dangerous Rupture, can afford to ignore. I want to send you, absolutely free, a sample of my latest Sponge Rubber Rupture Pad, that so many users say has, when fitted to their cases, not only given them instant relief from all the tortures, dangers, and discomforts of Rupture, but has effected a complete, lasting recovery, so that all evidence of Rupture is gone and they are in perfect health and as "sound as a dollar."

Don't say this is too good to be true. Try it. Send no money—just your name and address, plainly written, and say, "I am ruptured," and I will quickly send you a sample Sponge Rubber Rupture Pad and full particulars of my generous offer in a plain, sealed envelope. Address E. H. Scott, Hernia Expert, 525H, Scott Building, Akron, Ohio. Do this to-day—before you forget. You may not see this notice again.

New York City Church of Christ

239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M., Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6857.

The Plum Street Church of

Christ, Detroit, Mich.,

Now meets in its new building, corner Hamilton Boulevard and Tuxedo Avenue. Visiting brethren welcome.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Obituaries

Dodson.

Brother Charley Dodson fell asleep in Jesus on October 6, 1922, at the age of twenty-seven years, being sick only ten days. He was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dodson. At the age of about fifteen he obeyed the gospel, and since that time had lived a consistent, Christian life. A wife, six children, other loved ones, and friends many are left behind. We mourn not as those who have no hope, for the Scripture saith: "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them." The writer spoke words of comfort, after which the body was tenderly laid to rest in Lone Oak Cemetery.

J. W. HOWELL.

Mingle.

James Cathey Mingle was born on February 13, 1852, near Auburn, Tenn., and died on April 2, 1922. He obeyed the gospel under the preaching of Brother Rice Sewell about 1874. He was married to Emma Gaither on February 20, 1879, to which union were born one daughter and five sons, all of whom are now living. He died at Glen Rose, Texas, while on a visit to his daughter. His wife preceded him to the grave eight years ago. It was my privilege to know him as a father, a husband, and as a Christian, in all of which he was above reproach. He loved the church and loved his family, and we always found him faithful and at his post of duty. Funeral services were conducted by Brother W. B. McQuiddy, assisted by the writer, after which his body was laid to rest near Bellhuckle, Tenn., his former home.

C. M. GLEAVES.

Pennington.

Ben Pennington, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Pennington, of Stover, Miss., died on September 16, 1922, just as the glow of the setting sun was fading into night, at the age of eighteen years. He was accidentally killed at the old homestead where he was born. He obeyed the gospel in the winter of 1920, under the preaching of Brother N. B. Hardeman, of Henderson, Tenn., and lived a consistent, Christian life until the end. He was preparing himself to preach the gospel, the greatest work on earth for man. He held his first meeting at this place last August, and baptized three precious souls—his mother, his sister, and one other. His Christian life was a hard one to live. He was greatly persecuted, but stood firmly for Christ until the end.

Use MURINE FOR EYES

Irritated by Sun Wind Dust and Cinders

RECOMMENDED BY DRUGGISTS AND OPTICIANS

WRITE FOR FREE EYE BOOK. MURINE CO. CHICAGO

My heart goes out to the sorrowing mother and father, four brothers and two sisters, who are left to mourn their loss.

Mrs. C. H. MELTON.

Dotson.

Sister Susan Dotson, wife of Hiram J. Dotson, was born in Simpson County, Ky., on April 6, 1859, and died on September 15, 1922. She was the daughter of T. J. Cornwell and wife. She was married to H. J. Dotson on April 20, 1876, and was ever a true, devoted, and loving helpmeet. Brother and Sister Dotson lived happily together for a period of forty-six years. To them were born nine children—eight boys and one girl. Six of the sons and the daughter are still living, and all were with her in her last hours. Sister Dotson had been a member of the church of Christ about forty-five years, and her husband and all of the children, except one son, are also members. I had known Sister Dotson for about thirty years, and recognized in her a faithful wife and mother, an obliging neighbor, a true friend to the poor and homeless of earth, and a devoted Christian.

J. M. DENNIS.

Price.

On the morning of September 16, 1922, Nona Lowder Price fell asleep in Jesus. Had she lived until October, she would have been twenty-eight years old. Nona was one of those rare, sweet, modest girls, so unassuming, so kind and tender, and so conscientious, who shun the very appearance of evil. She obeyed the gospel when very young and was faithful unto death. She was a diligent Bible student and encouraged others to read it. Her husband said: "I have read the Bible more this year than I ever did in all my life before." She was a patient sufferer for several years, and her loving mother had made every effort to have her cured. After a year spent in California she seemed improved, and in June, 1921, was married to Elbert Price. The next June a precious baby girl was given to them; but in three months Nona was carried to her mother's, and she said: "Mamma, I've come home to die. I want you to have Annie Laurie." God's ways are past finding out. We cannot understand why our loved ones are taken from us when we need them so much, but we know God knows best. Nona's suffering is over and she has gone to her reward, and if we are faithful we shall meet her in the home where there is no death.

Mrs. J. M. CAPPS.

BOILS Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

Lesson to Young Parents.

BY A. ELLMORE.

It would hardly be doubted if I were to say that the faithful Christian is the most useful and important character to the citizens of the world; and it will be admitted that the most destructive character to the church is he who is an infidel, loud in his unbelief and a busy seed sower of his filth. Perhaps living in your community are two men representing these different characteristics. Now, these two men were once the sinless babes of loving mothers, and the great question is, what power was wrought upon them which caused this great contrast? Did those children, of themselves, form this great extreme? Impossible that these small parcels of inert matter, possessing neither hope, fear, purpose, nor aim, could have performed such a work. They each possessed undeveloped talents, and in order to the bringing out of those latent forces some additional power must be exerted upon them.

Now, the great Creator has ordained that, by the association of marriage, man and woman may reproduce themselves in lawful offspring. But how came these great variations among men?

To illustrate: Two pairs of young people in a given community, greatly adverse in character, married. One pair were strictly Christian and very pious; the other pair were immoral, bold and bad. They each rear a family. The Christian parents were very strict. When their children were small, their world was their home; when grown into school age, they were put for training under pious, Christian teachers; and from their cradles they were taught by precept and example to attend the public worship, and were forbidden to associate with dancers, saloon characters, racers, Sunday baseballists, and other dissolute characters. Those children were taken early into the church, where they lived lives of usefulness and honor. The children of the other family from their infancy heard lessons of obscenity and rudeness, the parents allowed parties and dances in their home, and their children were taught to dance; at a very early age they were put out into society, and mingled with the rude and the gay; they had no taste for Christian literature, but they read novels and stories of fiction.

Now, if two communities possessing these very great extremes—one class almost all good, the other nearly all bad—could be found, a church in one and a saloon in the other, need it surprise any thoughtful person as to the result in the near future? What would be the state of society in each community?

God makes people neither good nor bad morally. He furnishes through the parentage the machine, and man develops and manages the combination. Have you been to the potter's shop and seen him throw the ball of tempered mortar upon the wheel and watched the skillful molder how he makes the great variety of vessels from the same kind of material? It is there you may learn how the great varieties of people are formed. God furnishes the talents through the parents, and allows man to develop them, and some of these are molded after the instruction of the great Architect and made into honor, but they are few.

Young parents, be on the watch. Begin with the proper training at the cradle, keep the lambs out of reach of wolves, pray to God for help, and he will give you grace, and finally glory.

Men are ready to believe everything when they believe nothing. They have diviners when they cease to have prophets, witchcraft when they cease to have religious ceremonies; they open the caves of sorcery when they shut the temples of the Lord.—Chateaubriand.

Newer Form of Iron Quickly Increases "Pep" Strength and Energy

"You cannot be well and strong and full of vigor, force, and power unless your blood is rich in iron," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Department), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. "It is your red blood that enables you to resist and overcome disease and that nourishes every organ in your body. Without iron your blood becomes thin, pale, and watery. Poor blood cannot nourish your vital organs, and, as a result, you may have pains in your heart or kidneys, indigestion, headaches, and feel all run-down and tired-out."

When your blood lacks iron, do not waste your time taking stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, but directly enrich your blood with the newer form of iron sold by all druggists under the name of Nuxated Iron, which is like the iron in spinach, lentils, and apples, and is in a form easily assimilated into your blood.

Get a bottle of Nuxated Iron to-day. Take it for two weeks; and if you have not, like thousands of others, obtained most surprising health, strength, and energy, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money. Your local druggist will sell you Nuxated Iron with this "satisfaction or money-back" guarantee.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron has been used for years whenever needed in the family of the advertising representative of this paper with excellent results. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will prompt refund your money.

BUY 25 POUND FEATHER BED $7.95

30 lb. bed $8.95. One pair 6 lb. pillows, $1.95. All new feathers, odorless, and dustless, best eight ounce ticking. MAIL ORDER TODAY or WRITE for Free Catalog of Iron Beds, Springs, Mattresses, Rugs, Blankets, Spreads, Window Curtains, Pound Remnants, etc. $1,000.00 deposited with Charlotte Bank & Trust Co., guaranteeing satisfaction or money back.

SANITARY BEDDING COMPANY, Dept. L CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Have you lost your appetite? Do you get so tired with the day's duties that you're unable to enjoy an evening with friends or at the movies once in a while? Are you losing your rosy cheeks and your springy step?

Dr. Miles' Tonic

was made to restore health to people in your condition. It has been of permanent benefit to thousands who were afflicted just as you are. Why don't you try a bottle? Get in line for better health—beginning today. Every Drug Store carries Dr. Miles' Medicines.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

SOLD 50 YEARS — A FINE GENERAL TONIC

If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

ALWAYS TIRED NO AMBITION

Nervous and Dizzy, Everything Seemed to Worry Me.
How I Got Well

Larwill, Indiana.—"My back was so bad I could not do my washing. I was always tired out and had no ambition, was nervous and dizzy and everything seemed to worry me and I had awful pains in my right side. I felt badly about four years and could not do my work as it should have been done. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised so much and it did so many people good that I began to take it myself. I am feeling fine now and everyone tells me they never saw me looking so well. I live on a farm, do all my work, and have three little girls to take care of. I am recommending this medicine to my friends and know it will help them if they use it like I do." — Mrs. HERBERT LONG, R. R. 3, Box 7, Larwill, Indiana.

Many women keep about their work when it is a great effort. They are always tired out and have no ambition. When you are in this condition give it prompt attention.

Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it is especially adapted to correct such troubles, as it did for Mrs. Long.

CANCERS CURED AT THE KELLAM HOSPITAL

The Kellam Hospital cures Cancers, Tumors, Ulcers, X-Ray Burns, and Chronic Sores without the use of the knife, X-Ray, Radium, Acids, or Serum, and we have cured over 90 per cent of the many hundreds of sufferers treated during the past twenty-three years. Ministers treated free.

KELLAM HOSPITAL, Inc.
1617 West Main St. Richmond Va.

JACOBS & COMPANY
SPECIAL ADVERTISING AGENTS
PRINTERS
DESIGNERS
PHOTO ENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS
Catalogues — a Specialty
CLINTON, S.C.

The Great Commission.

BY W. T. BEASLEY.

After Jesus had suffered on the rugged cross of Calvary, had been buried, and had been raised from the dead, just before he took his departure for his throne in heaven, according to Matthew's Gospel, he said: "All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." (Matt. 28, 19, 20.) According to Mark, he said: "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." (Mark 16: 15, 16.) According to Luke, he said: "Thus it is written, and thus it behooved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day: and that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem." (Luke 24: 46-48.)

I understand, according to this last commission of our Lord and Master, that the disciples were to go and teach or preach the gospel to "all nations," or "every creature." They were to believe, repent, and be baptized, with the promise that Jesus would save them from their sins. Notice the order: (1) Preach, (2) faith, (3) repentance, (4) baptism, (5) the promise of the forgiveness of sins. But in these latter days some one might raise an objection. Is it to preaching? No, for Jesus has said "teach all nations" (Matt. 28: 19), "preach the gospel" (Mark 16: 15) and "remission of sins" (Luke 24: 47). Peter said: "Hearken to my words." (Acts 2: 14.) Paul says: "How shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?" (Rom. 10: 13-17.) Peter said: "Men and brethren, ye know how that a good while ago God made choice among us, that the Gentiles by my mouth should hear the word of the gospel, and believe." (Acts 15: 7.) Again: "Forbidding us to speak to the Gentiles that they might be saved." (1 Thess. 2: 16.) There are other expressions used as equivalent to the gospel of Christ. (1) "The faith which once he destroyed." (Gal. 1: 23.) (2) "Preach the word." (2 Tim. 4: 2.) (3) Paul and Silas preached the word. (Acts 16: 32.) (4) Philip preached Christ. (Acts 8: 5, 12, 35.) (5) It pleased God to save that way. (1 Cor. 1: 21.) (6) Thereby the word is sown in the heart. (Luke 8: 11, 12.)

Is it faith? No. Jesus says: "Except ye believe that I am he, ye shall die in your sins." (John 8: 24.)

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

TETTERINE Drives Away Pimples

and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 60c at your druggist's or from the SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative it cannot gripe. It is in no sense a medicine. And like pure water it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertise-ment.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

You cannot please God without faith. (Heb. 11: 6.) Our hearts are purified by faith. (Acts 15: 9.)

Is it repentance? No, for Jesus says: "Except ye repent, ye shall . . . perish." (Luke 13: 3.) Again, he says to preach repentance among all nations. (Luke 24: 47.) And Peter has said: "Repent, and be baptized." (Acts 2: 38.)

Is it baptism? Is baptism a non-essential to pardon? Jesus said: "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them," etc. (Matt. 28: 19.) "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." (Mark 16: 15.) Reader, do you believe that Jesus ever taught a nonessential?

That is a part of the great salvation that our blessed Savior brought with him from the glory world. (See Rev. 14: 6; Heb. 2: 3.) The apostles went forth and labored under this commission.

Peter was the first to preach the gospel in fact, being guided by the Holy Spirit, and, therefore, could not make a mistake. Hear him: "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." (Acts 2: 38.) Ananias said unto Saul: "And now why tarriest thou? arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord." (Acts 22: 16.) Paul said to the Romans: "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death?" (Rom. 6: 3.) Again, he said: "For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ." (Gal. 3: 27.) Again, he said: "That he might sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water by the word." (Eph. 5: 26.) Yes, "having our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience, and our bodies washed with pure water." (Heb. 10: 22.)

Could any Bible reader think for one moment of denying just one statement of the blood-bought and blood-washed law of pardon of our Lord Jesus Christ? This baptism, the consummating act, is nothing else but a burial in water. "See, here is water; what doth hinder me to be baptized?" (Acts 8: 36.) Yes, "buried" with your Lord in baptism. (Rom. 6: 4.) Yes, you must be buried and raised again to walk in "newness of life." (Col. 2: 12; Rom. 6: 4, 5.) You must "be born of water and of the Spirit." (John 3: 5.) Again, Paul says: "But ye have obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine which was delivered you. Being then made free from sin, ye became the servants of righteousness." (Rom. 6: 17, 18.)

There are three facts to be believed—the death, burial, and resurrection; three commands to be obeyed—faith, repentance, and baptism; three promises to be enjoyed—remission of sins, the gift of the Holy Spirit, and the promise of eternal life.

An Appeal.

BY JACK MEYER.

In a meeting recently conducted by the writer at Anderson, Tenn., there were nine additions and two restorations. Also, plans were made and a considerable amount of money subscribed to build a church house. There is a far-reaching opportunity presented to the church for increasing the strength of the cause at that place. Only one who has visited Anderson can appreciate the good to be done from the building of a house there. For the sake of the cause we claim to love, for the sake of the principles we are taught to practice, I urge Christians throughout the country to contribute to this cause to prevent this work from failing, and thus share in this glorious opportunity for proving our love for Christ. Make all contributions payable to Lark Willis, treasurer, Anderson, Tenn.

It Does Not Pay—

To live at all unless we can live for all.

To have an enemy if we can have a friend.

To sow wild oats if we have to buy our own crop.

To lose our temper at the expense of losing a friend.

To be discourteous, irreverent, cynical, cruel, vulgar.

To cheat a corporation at the expense of robbing our own souls.

To go to church in the morning if we are planning to go to the devil in the evening.—Charles M. Sheldon.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPIING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
—SOLD EVERYWHERE—

SEND US YOUR ORDERS FOR

SILKS, SUITS, COATS, AND DRESSES

Timothy Dry Goods
and Carpet Co.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

We will send you samples. We will quote you prices. We will sell you only Reliable Rugs, Art Squares, and Linoleums.

YARD-WIDE SATINS AND TAFFETAS
All Colors—$1.50

CANTON CREPES
All Colors
$2.00 to $3.50

TENNESSEE ORPHAN HOME

A Home for the Homeless Children

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR ENSUING YEAR

J. C. McQUIDDY, President, Nashville, Tenn.
JOHN W. FRY, V. Pres. & Treas, Columbia, Tenn.
MISS ESTELLE FINLEY, Sec'y, Columbia, Tenn.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE OF WOMEN

MRS. F. O. DERRYBERRY, Columbia, Tenn.
MRS. J. H. NEELD, Columbia, Tenn.
MRS. G. D. ALEXANDER, Hartsville, Tenn.
MRS. T. B. BAKER, 2009 Hayes St., Nashville, Tenn.
MISS WILLIE RUTH DAVIDSON, 805 Russell St.,
Nashville, Tenn.

DIRECTORS ELECTED FOR ENSUING YEAR

DR. S. T. HARDISON, Lewisburg, Tenn.
W. D. Fox, Lewisburg, Tenn.
J. C. McQUIDDY, Nashville, Tenn.
S. F. MORROW, Nashville, Tenn.
A. M. BURTON, Nashville, Tenn.
F. C. SOWELL, Columbia, Tenn.
T. L. CUNNINGHAM, Columbia, Tenn.
S. R. HARDISON, Columbia, Tenn.
JOHN W. JACKSON, Columbia, Tenn.
W. C. SALMON, Columbia, Tenn.
O. L. DORTCH, Columbia, Tenn.
GEORGE W. JOHNSON, Franklin, Tenn.
C. M. McDANIEL, Franklin, Tenn.
JOHN W. FRY, Columbia, Tenn.

The Tennessee Orphan Home is nonsectarian and undenominational in its work. A Christian home for homeless children, who are managed by good women. Controlled by a Board of Directors and Officers of the church of Christ. The best of care and attention is given all needy children received. The strictest economy is practiced, but the welfare of the children is regarded.

Our source of income is voluntary contributions from individuals and churches. The present contributors can be relied upon to continue, but, owing to scarce money, their contributions are in smaller amounts.

We hope to interest those not heretofore contributing to join in the work. We trust all who read this will join present partners and become regular in their fellowship.

If a congregation will set apart one Lord's day in each month for making contributions to the Tennessee Orphan Home, the plan will become habitual and regular.

There are a few congregations who have one regular Lord's day in each month for contributing to the Orphan Home; and while some are small, they are regular and can be counted on.

Every contribution is acknowledged by letter as received.

Good Christian homes are wanted for both boys and girls, ages from four to twelve years. Those putting the Home in touch with good Christian family homes who will take children will render a good service to the Home, to the child, and to the family receiving it.

All contributions should be made to the Tennessee Orphan Home, and letters addressed to the Tennessee Orphan Home, Columbia, Tenn., will receive prompt attention.

Visits to the Home by contributors and others interested will be encouraging to the ladies in charge, the children in the Home, and appreciated not only by them, but by all connected with the Home.

Address all communications to

TENNESSEE ORPHAN HOME

COLUMBIA, TENNESSEE

Gospel Advocate

Volume LXIV. No. 44.

NASHVILLE, TENN., NOVEMBER 2, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

Is It Right to Teach Only a Part of the Truth?.....	1033
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	1035
Parental Anxiety—Behold, Now Is the Time!—Elders —Walker—Hall Discussion—Indorsement of Appeal Made—A Belated Explanation—A Dark Picture— The Sarah Andrews Home Fund.
EVANGELISTIC NOTES.....	1040
EDITORIAL.....	1043
Notes—The Christian Standard and Honorable Con- troversy—Amusements—The Going Away of a Good Man—E. G. Sewell—Sellersburg, Ind.
TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT.....	1048
OBITUARIES.....	1049
Mingle—Hill—Filippo—Pope.
Meeting at Cleveland, Tenn.....	1050
The Good of Missions—The Covington-Cincinnati Work..	1051
The West Palm Beach Work.....	1052
More About the Church.....	1054
Can We Stand?.....	1055

IS IT RIGHT TO TEACH ONLY A PART OF THE TRUTH?

[This week our readers are given another article from D. Lipscomb. These articles, though written some years ago, deal with the vital issues of to-day.—H. Leo B.]

This question is asked in view of the association of bodies known as the Young Men's Christian Association. This association had its origin, no doubt, from an appreciation of the evils of parties and sects in religion, and is an effort upon the part of the young men and old who enter these associations to remedy these evils. We certainly sympathize with all who feel these evils and who make an earnest effort to relieve themselves from the difficulty. Yet we are not insensible to the truth that men frequently make efforts to free themselves from difficulties which only involve them and others the more deeply. In such cases, while we condemn and oppose the means used, we heartily sympathize with the effort made to relieve them from the difficulties. Still the goodness of the motive does not destroy in the least the evil of the misdirected effort. A man that runs into the fire from a desire to save a suffering fellow man is not shielded from the effects of the burning flames.

But few men act in this world from consciously bad motives—that is, they are not aware that a bad motive prompts them to act. Our selfish feelings, our ambition, our lusts, our appetites, and our covetousness persuade us that certain things are right, and we, blinded by these, do the evil. We deceive ourselves much more easily than we deceive others. Interest or passion blinds judgment, and judgment is at fault, not motive. Paul is a remarkable example. He did as wickedly as a man can well do. He persecuted, imprisoned, and slew the best and purest of men and women for no wrong, for only believing and obeying God. Yet under the influence of fierce passion he persuaded himself that it was right, that he was doing God's service. His ignorance, mingled with his zeal of religion, made him persecute the right. It made him a sinner, a vile sinner, the chief of sinners, he says, and that he received mercy only because he did it ignorantly in unbelief.

If a man is conscious of acting from a bad motive, doubts may well be entertained if it is possible for him to obtain pardon. It is close akin to the presumptuous, willful sin.

Sects are wrong. Divisions in the body of Christ are among the highest crimes known to the Bible. Yet we doubt if ever a single sect was started from a motive consciously bad on the part of its founders. The Romish Church, the first and great mother of sects, is the great offender of all. She has gone further in her assumptions of divine prerogatives and set the example that has corrupted all other sects. Yet I do not doubt that the originators of the power of Rome persuaded themselves that they were acting for the good of humanity and the glory of God in asserting and building up the supremacy and the power of Rome. Ambition and self-interest helped to blind the judgment and conceal the evil. The evil came none the less, and it is none the less a great crime before God and a curse to humanity. The Pope and the great mass of the Romish ecclesiastics, beyond a doubt, believe that in upholding and exalting the papacy they are honoring God and benefiting humanity. Their ambition and partisan zeal blind them to the truth. Luther, Calvin, and Wesley built sects, denominations, and did many other evil things amid many good deeds, but, we doubt not, with the purest of motives. Each convinced himself that the cause of true religion was bound up in his party. Hence, in building it up he was doing God's service. Those at this day who are laboring to consolidate the disciples of Christ into an organic whole—a body, a party—have convinced themselves that true church unity is found in this consolidation. While we believe this movement fatal to the cause of God, we give those doing the work full credit for being as honest as Paul was when he was persecuting the church of Jesus Christ or as he was when striving to build up that same church. Honesty of purpose or purity of motive does not shield from the consequences of wrongdoing. It makes pardon possible if we turn from the wrong; it leaves room for repentance. Unless the repentance takes place, it shields from no penalty connected with the violated law. Even in the crimes against morality, in murder, whoredom, stealing, except when done under the strong impulse of momentary passion, we think the majority of people convince themselves by some means or other that what they do is right. Their interests or desires suggest reasons that satisfy their consciences. And even the petty thieving is often done with a satisfied conscience.

The sin is in letting these selfish impulses so gain the mastery over us as to blind our judgment to the truth. It shows an exaltation of self in some of its selfish manifestations over and above God. We have more respect for self than for God. We have more confidence in self-wisdom than in the wisdom of God. We are often unconscious of this; we often mistake our wisdom, our feelings, desires, for divine wisdom. This mistake only shows how completely we have deified self and lost sight of God. The less consciousness we have of this exaltation and deification of self, the more completely self is deified and God forgotten, so greater is the sin. Unconsciousness of sin in violating a command of God is frequently an aggravation or multiplying of the sin rather than a mitigation of it. It always is so when the failure to see the violation of God's law arises from the complete satisfaction with ourselves. Self-sufficiency is an enemy to humility. Humility is a friend of God; self-sufficiency is the bitter enemy of God. Its presence drives out all respect and reverence for God and his laws and institutions. Self-sufficiency satisfies the conscience with ourselves without Christ or his law. This much in reference to good motive.

The Young Men's Christian Association was originated in the laudable desire of avoiding some of the evils of sectarianism. There is but one effective way of doing this. That is by a full and hearty return to God's appointments as the complete and all-sufficient means of serving God and accomplishing his work in the world. This excludes all platforms, broad and narrow, save the Bible, the whole Bible, and nothing but the Bible—the Bible in its fullness and completeness as God gave it to man—the Bible in all its parts, its faith and its works, all its commands and its appointments, its threatenings and promises, its kingdom with its organization and laws. If every individual in all the churches in the world were to unite together on any platform save the Bible in all of its teachings, as liberal or as narrow as could be desired, were they to work without a jar or a discord, still they would be a huge sect against God and would stand in the way of the upbuilding of a true church approved of God.

Were all of the denominations that now afflict Christendom to finally merge into the Young Men's Christian Association, there might be fewer sects and on a more liberal basis, but still there would be no fewer sectarians. They might have exchanged a number of narrow sects for one broad one, but they would be sects and sectarians still. And because united and strong, the more powerful to oppose the truth and the more dangerous to the true church.

The result of the movement of the Young Men's Christian Association, we think, will be to add another sect to the number already cursing the church and the world. Many are tired of the narrowness of the old sects. Many think the speculations of Calvin and Luther and Wesley dead issues and no true basis for a live church. Those growing tired of these old sects and their antiquated creeds go into the Young Men's Christian Association. Their attachments for their old associates grow weak, those for the new grow stronger, until they finally break their connection with the old. Many associate with this who never had other church associations, and a new, distinct, and separate body is formed, with a broad latitudinarian basis, neglectful of the teachings, indifferent of the ordinances, and disobedient to many of the commands of the Scriptures. A new party is thus formed. It is not the church of Christ. It has neither its faith, its practice, nor its ordinances. What is it? What are those helping to build up who are aiding in its increase and spread?

So much for the principle of it. Its practice is worse. Men of diversity of ideas enter it and harmonize those diversities. How do they do this? By those best taught, most earnest and tenacious for the practice of the whole will of God, bringing the others up to their standard? Nay, verily. But by the better taught letting down to an equality with the more lax, ill-taught. And the faith and practice of the more lax become the standard for the faith and practice of the whole. Demoralization of the whole body is the necessary result.

Now, among professed Christians many believe that faith alone will save a man. Others believe that faith must be made perfect by submission to the whole plan that God has revealed for justifying man. In this association no man can teach anything as necessary to salvation, except those acceded to by the most lax of its members.

The Baptists believe that none are baptized save those who believe and are buried with Christ into death. None dare teach this truth in this association. It would give offense to the others.

Others believe that none have the promise of pardon unless they believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, repent of their sins, and are buried with Christ in baptism. None dare in this association teach the duty of being baptized for the remission of sins.

No inspired man of God ever preached faith to a sinner without teaching how faith must work and manifest itself to be effectual. In this association men are told to believe, to have faith alone, and they shall be saved. Every member of the association lends the weight of his influence to impress this, although in direct contradiction to the word of God and his faith. No inspired man of God ever preached Christ to a single ignorant sinner without telling him what to do to enjoy the blessings of Christ, so far as we are told. We at least know they did, in preaching Christ, tell them what to do to enjoy Christ. We have no intimation that one ever preached him without preaching faith, repentance, and baptism. He who does it now, does it not with divine example or through divine wisdom, but through a feeling of human self-sufficiency. God never set an example of such preaching. Man is dependent on his own wisdom for authority for it.

Then, again, to preach only a part of the requirements of God as sufficient to secure his blessing is to say the other requirements are of no value, are nonessential. Yet Christ said of the law of Moses sealed by the blood of bulls and goats: "Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven." Paul says: "If they escaped not who refused him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven."

To fail to declare the full counsel of God, every command of the law, is to turn away from hearing him, is to reject him and his counsel and substitute our own wisdom. It is to reject God as our counselor and adviser. It is to turn back from following God.

Can Christians do this? Can they avoid declaring the full counsel of God without forfeiting their claims as disciples of Christ? Can a man teach that faith in Christ saves without teaching what faith requires at our hands, without falsifying the word of God, especially when all understand by the use of the term "faith" faith only, or faith separated from the obedience which faith demands? When it was used in the Bible, it was always used as faith in active obedience to the word of God. The association, then, is unjust to the truth. It is unequal and unjust in its work with its members. It permits some to declare their full faith, forbids others so doing. It practically does this whether in precept it forbids it or not. Were a Baptist or disciple of Christ who believes that faith is made perfect by works, and that works without faith is dead, to declare his whole faith or convictions of what the word of God teaches, it would be an introduction of controverted points and create disturbance in the society. Yet the agents of this society can ridicule those ordinances which many believe to be the sacred appointments of God and not to be neglected or lightly treated without incurring the displeasure of God. We do not see how one of this latter class who respects either his own convictions, his conscience, or his manhood, or, above all, who reverences God and has regard for his law, can associate with or lend his countenance or influence to the upbuilding of the association. It ought to be treated just as other sectarian bodies—approved so far as it harmonizes with the will of God, opposed and rejected whenever it departs from that law. All opportunities it offers should be improved to kindly point its members to the only Heaven-ordained platform and institution for union and harmony among the people of God, the only one that is possible or practical or beneficial to man or honorable to God. But no man, out of deference to any body of men, ought to fail to declare the whole counsel of God.

The church cannot countenance violent methods, or an unfair day's pay, or an unfair day's work, or the breaking of agreements; but it must never lose its interest nor forget its obligation in the Master's name for the great multitude in the hard places in life.—Edwin S. Lines.

Our Contributors

Parental Anxiety.

BY CLAUD F. WITTY.

Earth has many sad and distressing experiences, and not the least of them is parental anxiety. We often speak of the anxiety of mothers as they, with all the longings of their mother heart, worry over the dangers that beset their children; but now I wish to speak of the anxiety of godly fathers over the conduct of their ungodly sons.

The first case that I shall refer to is that of the patriarch, Job. This good man was very rich and very great—more so, even, than any man of his time. Now, he had seven sons and three daughters, and, as is often the case with the sons of the rich and the great, they seem to have gone in pretty strong for what we, in these modern times, call "society," entertaining and being entertained. Job was a wise old father, and he certainly knew the dangers that lurked near the banquet table and in the house of pleasure. He was awake to the fact that merrymaking and having a good time was very likely to cause young people to lose their balance and to renounce God in their hearts; so, while the young people were thus exposed to this great danger, their saintly old father was full of parental anxiety for their welfare and spent his time imploring Heaven to keep them safe during their time of danger. What a sight to behold! A fine old man, loving his children and loving his God, yet knowing that his children might lose their love for God. Apparently unable to reach his children, he tries to reach his God. With his heart full of fear and anxiety, while theirs were full of mirth and revelry, the battle goes on. Suddenly the issue is decided. A messenger rushes into his presence and announces that while a great feast was in progress in the home of the oldest son a terrible storm struck the house and killed every one of the ten children and their families. Poor old father! What will he do? Will it shake his faith in God? Ah, no! Hear what he says: "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord." "In all this Job sinned not, nor charged God foolishly." How delightful to know that his faith held fast during the terrible trial! But how sad to know that the children he loved so much were not anchored with the same faith!

May I not just here appeal to the young people who read this article to learn a lesson from this, one of the oldest stories on the pages of history? Remember that too much merrymaking, whether it is in drinking wine, feasting, dancing, or reveling in some other way, will almost certainly pull you away from God, put you beyond the reach of your anxious father's and mother's prayers, and suddenly bring you to an awful death and a more awful hell.

The next case of parental anxiety that I shall refer to is the case of the high priest, Eli. Eli was a good old man that feared God and served as high priest to his people. He had two sons that were also priests, but they were very wicked. They neither feared God nor respected their office. They ignored the admonitions of their father, paid no regard to sacred things, and defied the very God they professed to serve. No wonder the white-haired old patriarch was filled with parental anxiety that day when they dared to take the sacred ark of God on the field of battle with them! In my mind I can see him seated on a stool or chair near the gate of the city, his poor old body trembling from head to foot, as he thinks of the wickedness of the boys he still loves in spite of their crimes. Suddenly a runner dashes into view. What is the message? Are the boys safe? Ah, both of them are dead and the ark of God has been captured. What a blow! Poor old father! Suddenly he tumbles over backward and breaks his neck.

Young men, when you shut your ears to the admonitions of your anxious father, disregard the sacred house of God, and sin yourself and lead others into sin, you are taking an awful risk. The blow will come swiftly and strike with terrible effect. Nor will you be the only one to suffer.

Perhaps you can guess that the last case of parental anxiety will be that of King David. The sons of David were, like the sons of Job and the sons of Eli, blessed with a godly father and many of the blessings of this world, but, like them also, they thought only of self and of having their own way. This was especially true of Absalom. A very handsome man, the son of one of the greatest kings that ever lived, loved by his father to the fullest extent, and surrounded with all that could make one happy, yet he is not content. Heedless of his father's admonition, he chooses his own course. At last he conceives a devilish scheme to dethrone his own father and, after murdering him, to steal his throne. In due time a revolution is started and King David flees for his life. To me, one of the saddest pictures in the Old Testament is that of this anxious father fleeing from his ungrateful son. See him as he climbs the rough road up the Mount of Olives, cursed by his enemies, betrayed by his friends, and pursued by his own son! A few days later he reaches a place of safety for himself, but he knows the battle must be fought. Joab and his generals are about to lead the army to the front. "Halt!" cries the anxious father. "Generals, spare the young man's life. I know how wicked he has been; I know what he is trying to do even now; but he is my boy, and, for my sake, spare his life." "Forward march!" shout the generals. David takes up his station at one of the towers of the city to await the coming of the awful news that will mean so much to his great father heart. "A messenger! A messenger!" cries the watchman. Two of them! "O, what is the news? Bring them in at once. Is the young man safe? Is Absalom, my son, safe? 'O, my son Absalom, my son, my son, Absalom! would God I had died for thee, O Absalom, my son, my son!'"

Thus each of these three godly fathers saw the swift-footed messenger rushing to tell them of the death of their ungodly sons. One was able to assert himself and exclaim: "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord!" Another was unable to stand the blow and fell over dead. The third was so affected that he waited that he wanted to die in place of his boy. Young man, does all this mean nothing to you? Have you no thought for parental anxiety?

Behold, Now Is the Time.

BY I. B. BRADLEY.

It is only about eight weeks until our dear sister, Sarah Andrews, wants to start back to her field of labor in Japan, which she left nearly two years ago on account of her health. She has recuperated and is now ready to return. While here she has spent one year in David Lipscomb College to be better prepared to teach God's word to the Japanese, and is now only awaiting the funds necessary for her passage. She is a very earnest, self-sacrificing young woman, who has consecrated her life to this work and is very anxious to get back to her post of service.

Shall she have to wait long? That depends upon what you do, my brother, my sister. Will you allow this worthy servant of the Lord, who is so willing to do the service that you and I cannot do, to wait in vain for the necessary funds to take her back to this field? She has begun a good work there, and it is being held in tact by her worthy and efficient helper, Oiki San. This is the Lord's work, and can we afford to let it lack for a liberal support? We certainly cannot think of permitting such a thing.

There will be needed for the trip across the Pacific about five hundred dollars, and for the support of the work for three months something like one hundred and fifty dollars more. This is a very small amount for the great brotherhood of Christians to raise, and we ought to do it in two or three weeks. May I not entreat you in behalf of this great work of our Master to send me your contribution, and to do it right away, before it slips your mind? Surely you are ready to help teach these people the gospel of Christ. All who know not God, says the apostle Paul, "shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord and the glory of his power" when he comes. Do not stop to argue the question, but just ask yourself: "If I were one of those who know not God, would I not appreciate it in the eternal years of God if some one would send one to teach me?" Then send me your check.

I now have on hand for this trip less than fifty dollars; for the house building fund, about one hundred and sixty dollars; and for the general fund, about fifty-five dollars. I shall publish in the papers from week to week the amounts on hand for these various funds. But send me your contribution now. That is the main thing just at this point. Your donation is needed.

[I am glad to add my indorsement to Brother Bradley's urgent request. The people of God are able to send this faithful and consecrated servant of Christ back to Japan, and I believe that they will respond with liberality and cheerfulness. Remember to send all money and checks to I. B. Bradley, 513 St. Charles Avenue, W. E., Birmingham, Ala.—H. Leo B.]

Elders.

BY T. F. DUNN.

A few days ago a young man said to me while at work at his lessons that it took a man until he was old to really be educated. This young man may have said something more wise than he at first recognized. Dr. T. W. Brents once said to me that his greatest worry about dying was that he could not will his knowledge to a young man with a vigorous body to be used for future generations. Just when a man becomes thoroughly equipped mentally for work his body begins to go down.

The young have the disposition to push, to rush, and to act quickly; while the aged, or elder, act slower, think longer, look farther in front, and see more, and thereby avoid the mistakes the younger oftentimes make. We see this exemplified every day in the business world. The young push and rush things through, but the elder have to act as the governor to the engine. Without the governor, the engine will run away. Just so in the service of the Master. God has seen fit to set apart the aged of the church of Jesus Christ to act in the capacity of the governor—the leaders, or the directors. The young and the aged are necessary to the development of the spiritual life of a congregation just as naturally as that the young and the aged live together in the same community. Just so God saw fit to select the aged to act as the balance wheel in every spiritual body. Now, to say that a young man can be an elder is just the same as to say that a young sprout of two years' growth is an aged oak. (See 1 Tim. 3: 6; 5: 1.)

A few years ago, when the "digressives" wanted to capture a congregation, the first point was to get appointed some young men as elders, then they could carry their point. To attempt to bring about growth and development through those whom God has not designated is no more an exercise of faith in God than it is to attempt to spread the gospel through the State Missionary Board or the Y. M. C. A., and we have no more reason to expect the blessings of God in one unfaithful cause than in another.

While it is right to spread the gospel, God has designated the way. Even so it is right to have elders, but God has designated whom they should be, and to use others than those designated by God is as sure to bring disgrace and reproach to the cause of Christ as that God sits enthroned to direct the human family from earth to glory. And we feel sure that God does not take cognizance of them as elders, but as unfaithful children.

When God saw fit to select assistants for Moses, he selected the aged, or elder, and from this grew the Sanhedrin. Following this teaching, it was easy to develop the principle of the elders. Contrast this, if you please, with the advice given to King Rehoboam, and the lesson is brought forcibly to our minds of God's wisdom as well as his righteousness. When men listen to the counsel of the young, the usual rule is injury to the cause or business.

Now, in justice to man, God could not allow the ones most likely to make mistakes to be the leaders or directors of his church, or the congregation; so he made it a law that the elders should take the oversight of the flock. And when I say "elders," I mean the Bible word "elder," which can only mean the aged. In our zeal some of us have made the mistake to encourage young men as elders who cannot be elders, but only "officers," and officers they are. This is the tuberculosis of the church to-day—the putting of young men where God has designated the aged should be. There are many congregations bringing reproach on the cause of Christ by appointing "officers" of the church instead of allowing Christians to grow and develop into elders as God has directed we should do. Brethren, let us follow after God's plan.

Walker-Hall Discussion.

BY H. LEO B.

This was a discussion between J. J. Walker, of the Woodland Street "Christian Church," Nashville, Tenn., and S. H. Hall, of the Russell Street church of Christ, Nashville, Tenn., on the use of instrumental music in the worship of the church. There was no specific proposition agreed upon. Brother Hall tried for months to get Brother Walker to state clearly and definitely a logical proposition, and the nearest approach to a debatable proposition was this: "I propose to give my very best reasons for believing that instrumental music in church worship is scriptural." This gave him an opportunity to wander, wrangle, and evade the real issue.

Another thing which yielded him an occasion to equivocate was a failure and flat refusal to define the terms of his clumsy proposition. Although both brethren had agreed to be governed by "Hedge's Rules of Discussion" (and all who are familiar with "Hedge's Rules" know that the first rule requires that the terms of the proposition and the exact issue be so defined that all ambiguity be excluded), Brother Walker refused to do this, and was sustained in his attitude toward this rule by his moderator. However, Brother Hall forced him to make a definite issue.

Brother Walker, unfortunately for himself, assigned, in the early part of the debate, as his reason for not defining terms, that they were too simple, that a child could understand them, and it would reflect on the intelligence of the audience to do so; but before the discussion ended the last night he gave altogether a different reason for not doing so, and one wholly contradictory to the one first given.

Brother Hall believes in keeping such discussions on the highest plane, and for this reason secured, before he would enter it, Brother Walker's signature to terms which, if followed, would have forbidden its being otherwise, one of which terms was worded as follows: "It is distinctly understood that these meetings shall be conducted with all the seriousness and prayerfulness in which our regular Lord's-day-morning services are conducted at the two places of worship, and is not to be considered a debate in the commonly accepted use of that term, but a whole-hearted study of the subject on the part of the two speakers for the purpose of finding and testing out the unmistakably scriptural ground on the question." Another term read: "Each speaker pledges himself to do his very best to seek safe and unmistakably scriptural ground for union and to make any concession that does not violate the plainly revealed word of God that the prayer of our Lord in us may be answered."

Brother Hall kept himself on this plane from the beginning to the ending of the discussion, and comments on the contrast between him and Brother Walker in this respect were heard from all sources. Brother Hall showed to the people that a man can discuss a Bible question in a public way and be governed by the Spirit of our Lord. But here we were sorely disappointed in Brother Walker. He showed not the slightest regard for the signed agreement and persistently stayed as far away from the idea of union as he could, endeavored to play on the prejudices of the people, and avoided what would have been called a real discussion as much as possible.

Brother Hall showed rare skill in handling his part of the discussion. He paid but little attention to the much extraneous and irrelevant matter Brother Walker was continually introducing, but dealt crushing blows to everything Brother Walker introduced that had the semblance of an argument to it.

The brethren were well pleased with Brother Hall's work. Much good was accomplished, as is evidenced by the number who have already left the Christian Churches in Nashville and have identified themselves with the faithful congregations. The Lord willing, I hope to give some of the arguments made in this discussion next week or in a later issue of the Gospel Advocate.

Indorsement of Appeal Made.

BY SARAH ANDREWS.

I noted with sincere appreciation the appeal made in the Gospel Advocate of October 12, setting forth the need of a building for the work at Okitsu, Japan, and am thankful to Sister Lipscomb for the one-hundred-dollar contribution to this fund. I wish to assure individuals and churches everywhere that such a house is indeed urgently needed, that the work already begun may grow more rapidly and that we may have health to remain on the field. We live in a one-story Japanese house in a crowded, unsanitary location, but it was the best we could find for rent. On account of thieves, the police require all wooden shutters of Japanese houses to be completely closed at night; and when closed these houses have the appearance of a huge packing box, and, of course, are hot and stuffy inside. According to custom, on account of the mats we must remove our shoes at the entrance; and the houses have no way of being heated except by a tiny charcoal brazier, hence we are subjected to cold and dampness.

But even more important than for a dwelling do we need the house for the work. One house with an upstairs can serve all purposes. The work, including the night school, kindergarten, Sunday school, church meetings, Bible classes, women's meetings, etc., can be carried on downstairs, and Oiki San, her mother, and I can live upstairs. Besides a saving of rent, this plan will place the work and workers together; hence, inquirers will know where to find us. My desire is to have at least a small yard where we can arrange seats, have a clock on the building, and make things as inviting and convenient for the people as possible, so they may feel free to come in and read the tracts they may find in racks attached to the seats and trees. There are no parks in our town, and how much the people would enjoy a retreat of this kind! Land in overpopulated Japan is the most expensive item; but this is the Lord's work, and the prospects are so encouraging I trust his people may be stirred to action in this matter. May we realize more and more that the salvation of every people is inexpressibly dear to our Father's great heart. What a joy it will be to meet with Japanese and other nations in the heavenly home whom we have had a part in saving! "The King's business requireth haste." Please send contributions for this proposed building fund to I. B. Bradley, 513 St. Charles Avenue, W. E., Birmingham, Ala. My address until November 30 is Avon Park, Fla.

The Sarah Andrews Home Fund.

RY H. LEO B.

This fund is to buy or build a house for Sister Sarah Andrews to live in while she works for our Master in Japan. The houses built by the natives are not suitable for one accustomed to American habits of living. It is proposed to buy or build one for her in the town of Okitsu, Japan. This can be used not only for a dwelling, but also for night school, kindergarten, Sunday school, Bible classes, church meetings, etc. After Sister Andrews has filled her mission for the Master in Japan, then other missionaries can use it. It can be held in trust by the church of Christ for future missionaries.

The following contributions have been received and sent to Brother I. B. Bradley:

K. M. Van Zandt, Fort Worth, Texas.....	$100.00
Church at Smyrna, Tenn., by L. N. Elrod.....	40.00
Maida Austin, Scott's Hill, Tenn.....	5.00
"A Sister," Smyrna, Tenn.....	15.30
"A Sister," Boston, Tenn.....	1.00
Total.....	$161.30

Brother I. B. Bradley has kindly consented to handle "The Sarah Andrews Home Fund." It is also the wish of Sister Andrews for Brother Bradley to handle this fund, as he has handled all funds for Sister Andrews since she first went to Japan. I think Brother Bradley is the logical man to handle all the funds that pertain to Sister Andrews' work in Japan. So please send all funds to I. B. Bradley, 513 St. Charles Avenue, W. E., Birmingham, Ala.

Somebody says pertinently: "Daniel took his religion with him even to Babylon. He showed his colors. Some of us cannot be burdened with it in vacation. With some, when vacation comes, religion seems to be excess baggage and is left behind."

SERMON OUTLINES

A Book of One Hundred and Fifty New Sermon Outlines

Just the book for preachers, elders, deacons, Bible-class teachers, and others that take public part in church services.

The book has one hundred and fifty sermon outlines and a helpful supplement containing funeral texts, marriage ceremonies, forms for church letters, and Hedge's "Rules" for debate.

A good book to use in your Lord's-day services, prayer meetings, and young people's meetings. Let the leader announce the subject, hand slips of paper containing different sections of the outline to the members who are to take part in the next meeting, requesting them to make a talk or read the scriptural references on that section of the outline. Or, let the leader put the outline on the blackboard, omitting the scriptural references, then ask the congregation to supply the correct scriptural references at the next meeting, and give reasons why they selected these references.

Price, $1, postpaid. Address the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

A Belated Explanation.

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

About August 1 Brother McCaleb had an article in the Firm Foundation on "War Is Right." I waited for two or three issues of the paper for some one to correct the false teaching, and not a word of explanation or criticism appeared in that paper, and I then republished the article in the Gospel Advocate and reviewed it. After nearly three months Brother McCaleb comes forward with the following explanation:

68 Zoshigaya, Tokyo, Japan, September 27, 1922.—Dear Brother Srygley: On reading your review of my article in a recent issue of the Gospel Advocate, I was astonished out of measure to find that you and others had so far misunderstood me as to take me for what I had said in the article instead of seeing that it was an ironical mode of argument meaning just the opposite. I thought I had made the veil so thin that any one would readily see through it, but I find that I was mistaken and after drawing my picture I should have written under it in bold letters, "THIS IS A HORSE."

I had been thinking for quite a while of that argument some make that in extreme cases war is justifiable. And they illustrate it usually by the case of a ruffian attempting to impose on one's family, in which case they are apt to ask with a flourish of triumph: "Who would not be justified to fight under such circumstances?" Then I said: "If extreme cases prove war right, they also prove every other sin to be right." My article you have reviewed was the result.

Since the Firm Foundation published the article without comment, I think Brother Showalter saw my point; but since others did not and I have made such a radically false impression both on yourself and others, I hasten to acknowledge my mistake with extreme regrets. But I still fail to see how any thoughtful reader, unless he should conclude that I had completely abandoned the faith, could fail to see that I would not take a position that there is no distinction in conduct and that all actions are alike. No one who favors war in extreme cases would admit this—that is, no Christian would; but I attempted to show that this is really where it ends.

No, no, Brother Srygley, my position is, and always has been, that war is just as wrong when the war is on and our own country is involved as at any other time, and that we can no more lend it encouragement then than at any other time. Please believe me that there is absolutely no change in my belief on this question. Please let this go into the Advocate at your earliest convenience and greatly oblige.

Yours in faith, hope, and love,

J. M. McCALEB.

I am astonished that Brother McCaleb should be "astonished out of measure," for, as I have said before, there is not a line, a word, a syllable, that even remotely hints that he meant anything except exactly what he said in that article, and how he expected me or any one else to see the "irony" in it is more than I can tell. The first sentence in the article makes the following unqualified statement: "I have reconsidered this question, and for the following reasons it would seem that war is right." I know of no law of interpretation that could possibly make "irony" out of that sentence, and every other sentence in the article to its close is as foreign to the idea of irony as this one. The last sentence in his article reads: "Is not all conduct alike? And though some deeds may appear to be evil, in reality, does not the whole course of human events tend upward toward a final goal, the ultimate end of which is bliss?" While this statement is in the form of a question, yet I believe that any one who is unbiased would conclude that such a statement is equal to an affirmation that all conduct is alike and that the whole course of human events tends upward to a final goal, the end of which is bliss.

Brother McCaleb says: "I find that I was mistaken and after drawing my picture I should have written under it in bold letters, 'THIS IS A HORSE.'" I suppose the brother means this in "irony," but it ought to be literal, for, if this article is a sample of his pictures, they ought all to be labeled; but I would advise that he use the word

"donkey" rather than "horse," as I believe the long ears would fit better.

Yes, it is true that the Firm Foundation published the article without comment, and after several weeks had elapsed it was criticized; but as to how many readers of the article there may have been who never saw the correction, I do not know, and neither does Brother McCaleb nor the Firm Foundation. The brother now hastens to acknowledge his mistake with extreme regrets, but feels called upon to add: "But I still fail to see how any thoughtful reader, unless he should conclude that I had completely abandoned the faith, could fail to see that I would not take a position that there is no distinction in conduct and that all actions are alike." How could a thoughtful reader, or any other kind, tell how he could take such a position? Brother McCaleb has done several things that I was unable to see how or why he did them. I was unable, for instance, to see how he could take the brethren's money which they gave him to buy school property in Japan and put it in property which was deeded to the Congregational Church and lose every penny of it. I was not able to see how he could, while in Louisville, Ky., lend his influence to Jorgenson when he had driven good men out of the church in the Highlands by his foolish interpretations of the prophecies. I cannot tell why people do things; but when they do them, I have a right to pass on the act itself and not the motive.

Again, the brother says: "No, no, Brother Srygley, my position is, and always has been, that war is just as wrong when the war is on and our country is involved as at any other time, and that we can no more lend it encouragement then than at any other time." I do not suppose that any one would call that statement in question; but might it not be true that, when prison doors were staring men in the face if they made certain statements while our country was in war, good men could afford to be careful, believing they could do more good with their freedom than they could in prison? Whether it is true or not, I am sure that some brethren who are yet criticizing others for not doing some things could have gone to prison themselves if they had so desired. I have been reliably informed that a very prominent preacher in the church of Christ during the war came to the Advocate office and solicited and obtained a statement from some of its editors that he was loyal to the government, while at the same time this same preacher was criticizing the Advocate for not unwisely antagonizing the government on the matter of war. Consistency is a rare jewel, and the lack of it often leads some to criticize others for not doing what they are not willing to do themselves. On a former occasion I said that Brother McCaleb's article on "War Is Right" would confirm many that the Advocate acted right in ceasing to push Brother McCaleb as a missionary, and now, after his explanation, many, no doubt, will still hold to the same position; for, if this is a sample of his mode of teaching, he is a signal failure.

A Dark Picture.

BY S. H. HALL.

Much has been written about the circumstances and conditions that shall characterize the closing days of this old earth, but none so plainly stated as the sayings of God's eternal Spirit. Suppose we note a few things, with the hope that we may bring a lesson home to our own hearts.

1. Infidelity shall be an outstanding characteristic of many in "the last days." "Knowing this first, that in the last days mockers shall come with mockery, walking after their own lusts, and saying, Where is the promise of his coming? for, from the day that our fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation." (2 Pet. 3: 3, 4.) Faith by many will be lost in the declaration: "The day of the Lord will come as a thief; in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall be dissolved with fervent heat, and the earth and the works that are therein shall be burned up."

But infidelity manifests itself in two forms. First, it comes openly and arrogantly declaring its disdain for the divine predictions, and boasts of its feeling of security in the thought that no punishment for sin comes after death; that it will then have nothing to reckon with but non-entity. Then infidelity comes in the form of religion, but teaches a doctrine tantamount to that taught by blatant infidelity. For instance, just a few weeks ago I heard a lecture in the Ryman Auditorium in which the speaker declared that Christ had already come and in the year 1922 he would manifest himself and his kingdom would be set up here on earth, and that those who accepted his reign would never die. This theory is as much out of harmony with the teaching of the Bible on the second coming of Christ as the doctrine that he will not come at all.

2. False religions and heartless and conscienceless religions shall prevail then. I introduce two descriptive statements. First, note the following: "But the Spirit saith expressly, that in later times some shall fall away from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of demons, through the hypocrisy of men that speak lies, branded in their own conscience as with a hot iron; forbidding to marry, and commanding to abstain from meats, which God created to be received with thanksgiving by them that believe and know the truth." (1 Tim. 4: 1-3.) That celibacy is taught and marriage forbidden in some religious orders to certain members, we know to be a fact; and that it is the rule of the monks and nuns to abstain from meat we know. It is also taught that during the forty days of Lent and two days in every week it is a sin to taste flesh or meat. But we have religious orders younger than the Roman Catholics who forbid the eating of meat as a part of their religious ideas. But the point I wish to make with the foregoing description is the fact that these teachers would have us believe that they are exceedingly humble and that their love for God is above that of others. These people cannot be judged by the zeal they put into their work, nor by their consecration to the cause they have espoused, but must be judged by what they teach. They have lied until it is not possible for them to be conscious that they are lying. These lies are branded in their own consciences as with a hot iron. The truth, perhaps, by the apostles themselves was never uttered with more confidence that it was the truth than these teachers are confident that their lies are the truth of God.

But take another description of "the last days." "But know this, that in the last days grievous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of self, lovers of money, boastful, haughty, railers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, implacable, slanderers, without self-control, fierce, no lovers of good, traitors, headstrong, puffed up, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God; holding a form of godliness, but having denied the power thereof: from these also turn away." (2 Tim. 3: 1-5.) Now, this is a dark picture, and it is not my purpose to do more by way of comment than to call attention of the leaders in the church of Christ to the fact that they can be among the number named above! These people described are "godly" people. They have a "form" of religion, and it may be a rather outstanding and noisy sort. What about "lovers of self?" Don't you reckon we have among us those who love self to that degree that they would tear the church of God asunder just to let self have his way? What about "slanderers?" Are we immune to slandering others with our tongues? And don't you think "backbiting" is a dangerous symptom? What about "without self-control?" Now, do you have it in your head that the man who gives way to strong drink is the only one without self-control? If so, you are mistaken. We have preachers among us, doubtless, who know well what the Bible says about doing good for evil and overcoming evil with good; but when some one mistreats them, as they think, where is their self-control? They have none. Their carnal spirit they may hold under for a while, but out it must come. And, too, when it manifests itself, you see it adorned with innocence, but back of its actions is the devilish motive. And they may get their consciences so seared that it is not possible for them to ever think of themselves as other than those clothed with spotless purity. But God knows, and this should never be forgotten by us. Men we can deceive; but Jehovah, never! And what about being "headstrong?" Would it not be well for each of us to take each descriptive term and forget that others live on this old earth and let those terms that hit the evil in us hit hard? It will be too late when life's way with us is ended. If wrong we are in anything, we must get right now or never. I think I have seen things that looked to me like "headstrongness," and such has been at the root of nearly all the trouble that the church of Christ has ever experienced.

But I have said enough. If the words of Paul mean anything, it seems to me we are living in the last days—the very days described by him in the above scripture. What does Christ mean in the following words: "Nevertheless, when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?" (Luke 18: 8.) If he were to come to-day and disrobe all who claim to be Christians of their hypocrisy, how would that institution known as the church of Christ look? Forget about others and study self a while, for you may be dangerously sick and not know it. If I have made one soul think, then this article has not been written in vain.

Where the Difficulty Lies.

A convicted church is always a revived church, and a revived church is always a praying church. When the channel beds are cleared, the freshets from the eternal hills have a free course.

The supreme call of the present day for the churches is not to depend on this or that man for their aid, however conspicuous and divinely sealed his qualifications may be, but to get down before God in honest heart searching and confession. When once the evil things are dealt with that are now choking the springs and intervening between the Spirit of God and his people, there can be no doubt as to the sequel.

If God is proved therewith, he will assuredly pour out such a blessing as shall tax our receptivity. The difficulty is not with God, but with ourselves. He is waiting to renew the richest experiences of the past, but we must be prepared to fulfill his conditions.—The Christian.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC IN THE WORSHIP

By M. C. Kurfees

Cloth. 300 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

This is the most comprehensive book on this important subject now before the public. In it the Greek verb "psallo" is philologically and historically examined, together with a full discussion of kindred matters relating to music in Christian worship. The book is the result of a lifetime of critical study and research, and has become the standard of information on the music question. It has been highly recommended by scholarly brethren in the church of Christ and in the religious world.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY
Nashville, Tenn.

Evangelistic Notes

W. C. Phillips closed a meeting at Lim Rock, Ala., on the third Lord's-day night in October.

O. E. Coffman reports a fine service at his regular appointment at Iron City, Tenn., on October 22. Three were baptized.

J. G. Malphurs, Clarksville, Tenn., has just closed a ten-days' mission meeting under a tent, which resulted in ten additions.

J. T. Harris has just closed a meeting at Vanleer, in Dickson County, Tenn., which resulted in three baptisms and fine audiences.

R. H. Young, Lebanon, Tenn., has just held a meeting at Leeville, in Wilson County. Interest grew to the close. One woman was baptized.

J. Paul Slayden changes his address from Columbia to McMinnville, Tenn. He reports that the work at McMinnville is moving off nicely.

J. T. Sparkman, McMinnville, Tenn., writes as follows: "I am very proud of the Gospel Advocate now. I like the extracts from the old brethren."

W. M. Oakley has just closed at Oakman, Ala., with two additions. He is now at home for the winter, and would be glad to preach on Lord's days.

J. G. Allen reports splendid services on October 22, with one confession, at Muskogee, Okla. They expect soon to evangelize the surrounding territory.

H. R. Daniel has just closed at Center Point Schoolhouse, where he baptized twenty-one and three were restored. They promised to meet regularly for worship.

T. B. Clark preached at Gallatin, Tenn., last Lord's day at 11 A.M.; S. H. Hall, at 2:30 P.M.; and H. L. Olmstead, at 7:30 P.M. William Klingman had charge of the singing.

F. L. Paisley closed at Ludowici, Ga., with twenty-four additions. Twelve came from the Baptists and four from the Methodists. A congregation of about thirty starts work.

J. G. Allen, 1412 Baltimore Avenue, Muskogee, Okla., has some time this fall that he could devote to protracted meetings. He would be glad to hear from congregations near by.

Sister Junius Brown, Aubrey, Ark., asks the prayers of Christians in behalf of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. June Brown, that, if it is God's will, they may recover their health.

Lee Sanders, Wellington, Texas, has just closed at Reed, Okla., with good crowds and three restorations. He preached at home on October 22, and is now in a mission meeting at a schoolhouse near by.

J. H. Hines reports the work at Highland Park Church, in Montgomery, Ala., in a thriving condition. The Lord's-day and other Bible classes are steadily growing. There was one restoration at the last service.

J. A. Cullum, Rogers, Ark., writes: "Our work here is progressing nicely. Congregations in Arkansas, Tennessee, Missouri, or Oklahoma desiring my assistance in meetings should write me while I have open dates."

G. W. Jarrett has closed his mission work in Baldwin County, Ala. He expects to spend the winter at Candler, Fla. This is also a mission field. He has no congregation behind him, but is trusting the Lord for support.

A. B. Lipscomb has just closed a successful meeting at Hamilton, Ala. He baptized four men. One of the number was editor of the Marion County News. Brother Lipscomb will preach next Sunday at Reid Avenue, this city.

J. S. Daugherty has just closed his work in East Texas. He will now make his home in Dublin, Texas. In the twelve years he has labored in East Texas sixteen congregations have been established and many others strengthened.

Aruna Clark, Miami, Fla., reports a very enjoyable service at that place. Joe L. Netherland preached at Miami at 11 A.M. and at Homestead at 3:30 P.M. Brother Clark preached at Fort Lauderdale at 3 P.M. and at Miami at night.

J. Pettet Ezell has just closed a ten-days' meeting at Franklin, Ky., resulting in seven baptisms and one from the Baptists. Brother Ezell reports a very pleasant stay there. Willis H. Allen lives there and labors with this church.

G. A. Dunn writes from Sparta, Tenn.: "After the seating of all aisles and the rostrum the crowds are too large for the house. The meeting will continue until October 29. Five have been baptized to date. Success to the Gospel Advocate."

A. A. Bunner announces a reunion of the Bunner and Sapp families at Red Sulphur Springs, W. Va., on the Bunner farm on White Dog Creek, on Saturday before the third Lord's day in August, 1923. Gospel preaching will be a feature.

Elwin Bost and Miss Phala Norman were married at the residence of C. L. Hanan, in Muskogee, Okla., J. G. Allen officiating. Brother Bost is a popular young evangelist from the Thorp Spring Bible School, and the bride is a former student of Gunter Bible College.

J. C. Pendergrass, Livingston, Tenn., has just closed at Board Valley, with six baptisms and eight restorations. He is now at Andrews Cove, and will go next to Briarstone, Clay County. He has been busy since June, principally at mission points. The Livingston church has helped in his support.

H. M. Evans writes: "The church at Selkirk, Ontario, Canada, has recently closed a meeting of two weeks' duration, with four baptisms and one confession (baptism later). O. E. Tallman did the preaching, and it was well done. The church here is highly pleased with the results of the meeting."

Leslie G. Thomas, Flint, Mich., writes: "Yesterday (October 22) was a great day for the church here. J. W. Shepherd preached both morning and evening. In the afternoon we had a mortgage burning. This was made possible by the Vinewood Avenue and Hamilton Boulevard congregations in Detroit."

Emmett G. Creacy, Horse Cave, Ky., writes, October 25: "The meeting closed at Temple Hill, in Barren County, Ky., last night. Ten were baptized and two were restored. The church at Temple Hill now numbers about sixty members. They promise to meet regularly and keep house for the Master. I shall leave on Friday for Barterville, Nicholas County, Ky."

Andy T. Ritchie, Madison, Tenn., recently returned from Ash Flat, Ark., where he conducted an interesting meeting, with one baptism and one restoration. He also officiated at one marriage. He drove through in his car. He has just closed a meeting at his home which resulted in two additions and one restoration. He considers these the most interesting meetings of the season, as the former place was his childhood home and the latter his adopted home, where he has lived for fourteen years.

From Frank Baker, Middleton, Tenn., October 23: "I am for the present with the faithful at New Hope Church. This is one of the oldest congregations in West Tennessee. The Lord's people have been working and worshipping here since 1841. Here I enjoyed the best song service for ages. Our good brother, J. D. Alford, is the song leader, and he knows what to sing, as well as how to sing. I preached on Saturday night and on Lord's day and Lord's-day night, and, if not stormed out, will preach again to-night. My next point in Tennessee is Macon, then on to Arkansas for a month's work."

J. Clifford Murphy writes from Prescott, Ark., October 23: "On September 30 I came to this town. After going over the town, I found it given over to vain worship entirely, with the apostate Christian Church. We asked them to let us use their house and were refused. We then asked for the courthouse and were refused. So we then rented a building in the business part of town and proceeded with our meeting. After continuing two weeks, three were baptized, and we have persuaded about twenty-five or thirty to come out from the 'progressives' and worship God 'as it is written.' I have labored with them one week since our meeting closed, in order to strengthen them in the work. I shall leave for home to-day to see my family. I would like to come back in about thirty days to encourage these brethren, but am not financially able. If there are any that would be interested in taking up this work, they may write me at Pulaski, Tenn. I am also asking some of the Arkansas preachers to go to the rescue of these brethren in Prescott."

F. B. Srygley reports two fine audiences at Hillsboro, Tenn., last Lord's day.

J. C. Mosley is in a fine meeting at Hardyville, Ky., with six baptisms when last heard from.

J. L. Hill preached at Trinity Lane, this city, last Lord's day, to two fine audiences. One baptism.

Ira Womack reports two fine services at Ardmore, Okla., on October 22. He preached at Berwyn in the afternoon.

Thomas C. King has just closed at Nelson, Tenn., near Lawrenceburg, with thirteen baptisms and eleven restorations.

S. H. Hall reports a good day at Russell Street, this city, last Lord's day, with three by statement and one reclaimed.

F. W. Smith preached to a packed audience at Franklin, Tenn., last Lord's-day morning, and to a fine audience at night also.

J. J. Reynolds preached on last Lord's day at Jordan Springs, near Clarksville, Tenn. He reports good crowds and a very pleasant visit.

W. O. Norton preached on last Lord's day for the Jones Avenue (Joy's Flower Garden) congregation, this city. Good crowds and good attention.

N. B. Cuff, of David Lipscomb College, preached two splendid sermons at Reid Avenue Church, this city, last Lord's day. Song service conducted by Prof. B. H. Murphy.

From R. A. Craig, Shelbyville, Ky., October 30: "Last Sunday I was at the Forks of Elkhorn, with good attendance. At the morning service we had one addition and fine interest. The work at Shelbyville is moving along with good interest. We have a membership numbering forty at present, and hope to make a steady growth."

From Robert E. Wright, P. O. Box 1773, Los Angeles, Cal., October 23: "The work at the Central church of Christ, 1720 South Flower Street, continues to grow and prosper in the ways of the Lord. The work at Ontario is also doing exceedingly well. S. E. Witty was with them last Sunday and makes a fine report. Their new house will be completed by January, I feel sure. Last Sunday was another fine day at the Central Church here. House filled, spirit fine, and two additions to the congregation—one by baptism, one by statement. Three precious souls have been baptized by my own hands this month to date. If you have friends in this great city whom you would have us look up, send their names and addresses."

J. H. McBroom recently closed a good meeting at Keltonsborg, Tenn. The church is small. He is now at Readyville for a few days. This is the last meeting he has arranged, and he would like to have others for November and December. He writes: "It has been my good pleasure to labor with the Main Street church of Christ, Shelbyville, Tenn., for twenty-five months. There are many fine people in this congregation. I like this kind of work and appreciate the many calls I have received for local work next year, but I like evangelistic work better and have decided to devote all my time to it. I will make my home in Murfreesboro, Tenn., after January 1. Churches wanting me for meetings or for monthly preaching this winter should write me at once. My address will be Shelbyville, Tenn., till January 1."

O. E. Billingsley writes from Cordell, Okla., October 24: "Sunday, October 22, was a great day for the church of Christ in Cordell. There were three hundred and five in Sunday school when the record was made. Twenty-five or more were late to their classes and were not present when the counting was done. We had many friendly visitors at the eleven-o'clock service. A total of more than five hundred and fifty people attended church that day, I am told. Some suggested that the number is about one-third of the population of Cordell, according to the United States census. Many faithful people from the surrounding country were in attendance. At the night service the house was filled to overflowing and the attention was fine. It was a most respectful and appreciative audiences. I must commend the people of Cordell for their love of the gospel. I am delighted with my new field of activity. At the evening service three precious souls made the good confession."

R. D. Smith writes from Wichita Falls, Texas, under date of October 23: "The meetings yesterday were all good. There were nearly two hundred in the Bible classes, and the attendance at both the morning and evening hours was above the average. We have lately made considerable repairs on our auditorium, and this adds much to the appearance of things about the building. We are making preparations for our meeting, with Foy E. Wallace, Jr., to do the preaching. One of the things that looked like business to a preacher was the raising of the necessary funds yesterday to defray the expenses of the meeting, so that this matter will not weigh upon the minds of the members further. A great meeting is expected, and we ask the prayers of God's people everywhere to that end."

There is a small band of Christians meeting in Minneapolis, Minn. They have C. E. Plank with them at present as evangelist. The burden of planting the cause in that great field is greater than they can bear alone, and, therefore, they are appealing to the churches for help. This is the only congregation of the church of Christ in Minnesota. It is the center of a group of four States that are destitute of the pure gospel. There are seven hundred thousand people in the twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, and only about twenty-five members of Christ's church to sustain his cause. Brethren, will you not lend your assistance? This is a great field, and it is too great a burden for a few to carry alone. We should all get behind it. Wayne S. Taylor, 119 Second Street, North, Minneapolis, Minn., is the treasurer.

J. A. Hudson who recently changed his field of labor from Oklahoma City, Okla., to Memphis, Tenn., writes as follows: "Through neglect partly, but mainly from the press of new duties, I failed to report the results of the meeting conducted by G. A. Dunn at the Tenth Street Church, in Oklahoma City, with which I closed my work with that church. I stayed until the last day of the meeting, but not for the last sermon. The church worked hard. Brother Dunn labored with great force. There were seventy-one additions. The Tenth Street Church was left with a membership of more than five hundred. It is a great church—one of the greatest I have known. I labored with them for three years and love them dearly. As a bounty they gave me a Ford car, which I drove through to Memphis. The work is encouraging here. I baptized a woman last Monday, and a young lady was buried with her Lord in baptism last night. One placed membership yesterday. The audiences are just splendid. The evening audience is far better than is usually found in a city."

From E. E. Shoulders, 699 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., October 23: "Yesterday was another good day counted in favor of the work here. Sister Baulch was a pleasant visitor among us yesterday. She hails from Fulton, Ky., and expects to remain here until about the first of December. This was her first visit to New York and her first Sunday. Though there is much to be seen in and around this great city, she did not let the sight-seeing craze get the best of her, as seems to be the custom of almost all Christians (?) who come to New York. She says: 'I will be at services every Sunday that I am here.' It makes us feel good when such people having so great faith and zeal come among us. It spurs us on and makes us want to do even more. I am still confident that there are many, many congregations and individuals who are deeply concerned about this mission field, but for some reason or other they have just not got started. Surely it is time for all to cease parleying and to begin to act in the matter. We are working hard, praying, and living in hope of brighter and better days in this work. Send all contributions to George M. McKee, treasurer, Box 15, Station N, New York, N. Y."

Will W. Slater writes from Beaumont, Texas, under date of October 22: "I was with the brethren at Henryetta, Okla., over the second Sunday. I found a fine family of the Lord's people there, meeting in a hall. They have purchased a lot and will build a house soon. We drove from Henryetta to Dallas and spent two days at the fair, also had a pleasant visit with J. B. Nelson. We then made our way to Floyd, where I preached over Sunday. We arrived in Beaumont on Wednesday, and I began regular work with the South Park Church yesterday. We had fine services, with one taking membership and one confession—a man with grandchildren. I was with this church six months this year, and at the close the contract was renewed for a period of two years. We are glad to be here again. Everything starts off well. By agreement these brethren are to let me off for one or two singing schools, or one or two winter and spring meetings; so, if you need a singing school or a short meeting, write me. I also have July, August, and September for protracted-meeting work. Most of my time has already been engaged. All correspondence should be sent to me at 184 Elgie Street, Beaumont, Texas."

Home Reading

What Tob Did.

A little old woman lived all by herself,
And a lonely old woman was she.
All the children she had were a dog and a cat
And little lame chick-a-dee-dee.

At sunrise each morning she lit up her fire
And gave little Toby some meat,
Some milk for her kitty, and then she would spread
Some crumbs for the birdie to eat.

One day the old dame felt exceedingly ill
And unable to rise from her bed;
So the chick-a-dee-dee sang a sweet little song,
And the kitty purred close by her head.

But Toby jumped out of the window, and off
He flew to old Nancy McKay.
He whined at her feet and pulled at her gown
Till she followed him over the way.

Nancy started the fire, made a good cup of tea,
And soon the old dame was quite well;
But if Toby, her dog, hadn't shown such good sense,
What had happened we never can tell.
—Jean Campbell.

✱ ✱ ✱

Humble Heroism.

Negroes frequently exhibit a wonderful heroism in times of danger. An instance of this I witnessed when a freshet in the Alabama River caused the country on each side to be overflowed for many miles.

The negroes on the river plantations were the greatest sufferers. Their cabins would be under water almost before they knew that danger threatened them.

Many relief expeditions were sent out. One day the news came that the negroes on a certain plantation had sought refuge upon a corn barn, around which the water was rapidly rising. Two boats started at once to their assistance. In one of them I went, accompanied by another white man and a negro. A heavy rain was falling, and daylight was beginning to fade away. The poor creatures began to clamber hurriedly down to the boat.

"Stop!" I cried. "The women and children first."

The men obediently resumed their seats. We took in all the children, then the women, and were about pushing off, telling the men we would hurry for them as quickly as possible or send the first boat we met, when an old woman (I noticed she was the last to get into the boat, and had done so reluctantly) seized the corner of the house, and, looking anxiously in my face, said: "Marster, ain't you gwine to take my ole man?"

"No, auntie," I answered, "the boat is too full now. He must wait till we come back."

The words were hardly out of my mouth, when with a sudden spring she was up on the roof again. It shook as she scrambled on it and took her seat by a little, withered, old, black man, whose hand she seized and held as if she were afraid we would tear her away from him.

"Come, auntie," I cried. "This won't do. We can't leave you here, and we can't wait any longer on you."

"Go on, marster," she answered. "I thanks yer, en I pray de good Lawd to fetch you all safe home; but I'm gwine to stay wid my ole man. Ef Simon got to git drowned, Liddy gwine to git drowned, too. We dun bin togedder too long to part now."

And we had to leave her, after throwing some blankets and a lot of provisions to them. As we rowed off in the rain and night a high falsetto voice, tremulous with age, came across the waters. We stopped our oars to listen to their song. It came clear and distinct—first, Liddy's trembling voice, and then a chorus of a dozen or more of the deep bass voices of the men:

"We're a-clingin' to de ark,
Take us in, take us in!
Fur de watah's deep and dark,
Take us in, take us in!"

—From the Christian Leader.

✱ ✱ ✱

The Sundew.

A little plant grew in the meadow. It was a beautiful plant with a long stem and tiny delicate flowers. But the leaves were even more beautiful than the flowers.

Around each leaf was a wonderful green fringe, and the leaves were always covered with tiny drops that shone like diamonds in the sunshine; so the little plant was called the "sundew."

Many flies and other insects came to visit the sundew. They thought the drops shining on the leaves were little drops of dew, and they came to take a drink. But if a little insect stopped to take a drink from the sundew, he never, never went home again; for the sundew was a wicked little plant, and she made the drops of dew and kept them there to deceive the insects. As soon as a fly touched one of her leaves, he stuck fast to the sticky drops. Then the green fringe folded itself tightly over the poor fly and held him fast. The fly tasted very good to the little sundew plant, and she ate him up just as fast as she could. But she could not eat as fast as a little boy or girl. It took her many days to eat the fly.

Then the little sundew opened her leaf quite wide again and waited for another fly to come.

Soon a small green fly came humming along, but he did not stop to visit the sundew. Many other insects passed by, but none of them came to the pretty shining leaves.

"I wonder if I shall have any breakfast to-day," thought the little sundew. Just then a very thin insect flew down and touched one of the pretty flowers. Then he flew straight down to a shining leaf, and the leaf shut up and held him fast. So the little sundew had him for her breakfast.—Frances Camp Duggar, in Child Life.

✱ ✱ ✱

How Clarine Didn't Do Wrong.

There was a little girl whose name was "Clarine." That is an odd name—don't you think so?

She was about four years old, and a plump, jolly little maid, with fingers which dearly liked to touch and take most things that her eyes saw. There are a great many things which it is not best for children to have or to eat, and the mothers have to decide.

Clarine had a kind mother, who wanted her child to do right, and never touch what she must not take. She taught her in such a pretty way. I'll tell you about it, because it's something you can do your own selves.

Every time the mother saw Clarine looking at anything forbidden, with a wish in her eyes, or saw her fingers begin to reach out toward it, she would say in a pleasant voice: "Now, Clarine, put your hands behind you."

Clarine, without crying, would straighten up her plump body and clasp her hands behind her back. She knew what it meant, just as quick as her mother spoke. You know you can't touch anything you shouldn't when your hands are clasped behind you.

I have seen Clarine stand that way many a time when good things were on a table before her, and she never cried about it.—Helen A. Hawley, in Christian Leader.

✱ ✱ ✱

Yesterday and to-day

Have been heavy with labor and sorrow;
I should faint if I did not see

The day that is after to-morrow.

—W. J. Dawson.

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

Encourage People to Live at Home.

To the discredit of the American people it must be said that there is a growing tendency to live away from home. They are living in apartments and patronizing restaurants and eating houses more and more, which weakens the home influence and ties. Any practice that detracts from the home is not best for our people. Living in clubs and restaurants should not be encouraged, only as a necessity. Club life is not productive of good morals and pure living.

The Passing of Lloyd George.

After serving Great Britain for about thirty years, Lloyd George has retired from the premiership. He has just passed through seven most stormy years, and through them all he has shown himself to be a great man. It is feared that England has not acted wisely in failing to keep him at the head of the government. Not only England will miss him, but the whole world will miss his counsels. Until the last he resisted the bloody Turk and withstood France as she held out a sympathetic hand to the Turk.

The United States Quits Bootlegging.

Those who are not pleased with the decision of state to put a stop to the sale of liquors on American ships are not law-abiding citizens, for it is the pleasure of the law-abiding citizen to obey the law. It is the purpose of the government to stop the sale of liquors on American ships anywhere in the world and to stop their sale on foreign ships in American waters. It is now unlawful to sell liquors on American ships anywhere in the world whether owned by the government or privately owned. No foreign ship may bring such liquors within the three-mile limit, sealed or unsealed, whether they are or are not intended for consumption in this country. Instructions have been given by the President to Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board to discontinue the sale and transport of liquors on Shipping Board vessels, and he has instructed Secretary Mellon to deliver similar orders to all private owners of American ships. This is encouraging. Let us hope the day will speedily come when men will cease voluntarily to drink intoxicants.

For Autoists in Japan.

We are informed that the following traffic rules for automobile drivers are posted in conspicuous places on the streets of the cities of Japan:

At the rise of the hand of the policeman stop rapidly. Do not pass him by or otherwise disrespect him.

When a passenger "of the foot" hoves in sight, tootle the horn trumpet to him melodiously at first. If he still obstacles your passage, tootle him with vigor and express by word of the mouth the warning: "Hi, hi!"

Beware of the wandering horse that he shall not take fright as you pass him. Do not explode the exhaust box at him. Go soothingly by or stop by the roadside till he pass away.

Give space of the festive dog that make sport in the roadway. Avoid entanglement of dog with your wheel spokes.

Go soothingly on the grease mud, as there lurk the skid demon.

Press the brake of the foot as you roll around the corner to save the collapse and tie-up.

It is in order for traffic laws for automobile drivers to be more rigidly enforced in this country. The automobile is responsible for many deaths. Its toll is great.

Baptismal Pool Suddenly Filled.

The following is a clipping from the Danville correspondent to the Louisville Post. The preacher, W. R. Davidson, well known and honored in Kentucky, died recently. God says: "I change not." If he could furnish water in the desert for the Israelites, he could furnish water in Casey County, Ky., for the baptizing, if he wanted to.

"Danville, Ky., November 8.—Few people nowadays believe in miracles, but members of the Baptist congregation at Ellisburg, Casey County, were almost convinced that the miraculous had occurred, following a protracted meeting conducted at the little church there by Rev. W. R. Davidson, who resides in this city. The meeting had been in progress several weeks and there were thirty-three converts to be baptized. Rev. J. N. Bowling, now of St. Joseph, Mo., was pastor of the church, but Mr. Davidson was conducting the revival. Sheridan Downy and Vincent Peyton, who were deacons of the church then, still occupy the same positions.

"The weather had been dry for several months and the Big South Fork, where all previous baptizings had taken place, was perfectly dry. A delegation composed of Alfred Coulter, of this city, now councilman in the Fifth Ward, and a number of other men, was dispatched to locate a pool of sufficient depth. They returned with the information that the river bed was dry, and arrangements were made to postpone the ceremony until later in the year, as all members knew the regular baptizing pool was perfectly dry.

"The minister and congregation were startled when a messenger brought the report on the last night of the meeting that the regular pool in the creek near the church had filled with water since the committee had returned from their trip.

"No rain had fallen, and the people were loath to believe the report until they visited the place and saw with their own eyes. Although the whole bed of the river was dry except the one spot, the water rose to the depth of four or five feet, and the baptizing was conducted on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Alfred Coulter and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Young, of this city, were baptized and bear witness to the remarkable coincidence. Rev. Mr. Davidson was interviewed and verified the foregoing statements. He said the water began sinking shortly after the baptizing ended, and that by the following Wednesday the pool was as dry as the river bed. No more water appeared in it until the fall rains set in."—J. G. Bow, in Western Recorder.

The Lord evidently attached much more importance to the baptism of these thirty-three "converts" than do the Baptists, since he worked a miracle to furnish water for their baptism. The Baptists teach that people are saved before and without baptism. No necessity for the Lord to work a miracle in order to perform a nonessential!

The Christian Standard and Honorable Controversy.

BY M. C. K.

In addition to what our readers already know of our own policy of fairness and justice toward all parties concerned in the discussion of matters over which, unfortunately, there is division, and particularly of our treatment of the Christian Standard and its representatives in such discussions, it is due them to know something also of the course which that journal has pursued toward us in recent years in the same line. In its issue of July 8, 1922, commenting editorially on O. E. Payne's book on instrumental music, the Standard made the insinuation about "the papers of our conservative brethren," calling the Gospel Advocate by name, that they exhibit "senselessness" in their debates by not being "open-minded seekers after truth," and made the direct charge that they "have attacked" the said book "bitterly, but without giving their readers an opportunity of seeing for themselves the facts and arguments Brother Payne presents." Accompanying this ugly reflection upon us was the additional charge that these papers "are unwilling to seize upon every opportunity to prove to us that instrumental music is unscriptural, and, in turn, to examine fairly any evidence that we may offer even that it is as permissible an expedient as the Gospel Advocate itself."

Immediately on the appearance of these charges and reflections and "for the Standard's special benefit as well as that of the general public," I published the fact, and courteously asked the Standard to let its readers see it, that our very serious reason, and our only reason, for giving "O. E. Payne no personal recognition in these columns or anywhere else" was "his uncivil conduct." I not only informed our Cincinnati contemporary of "the dishonorable methods in his book," of which the presiding genius over the Standard seemed not to be aware, and which had "put him under the ban and practically killed him with right-thinking people;" how "he cut out the word 'classical' and the words 'chanter, church singer,' and thus concealed from his readers the vital fact that Sophocles makes a broad distinction between the classical and New Testament meanings of psallo;" how, "in order to make it appear that Justin Martyr's writings favor instrumental music in the worship, he added words which Justin Martyr does not use;" and, finally, that, in order to make it appear that "Hastings' great work entitled 'Encyclopedia of Religion and Ethics'" was not against his contention about Justin Martyr, "he cut out the sentence, 'Justin Martyr argues against it;'"—I not only called the Standard's attention to all of these seemingly deliberate and willful perversions of truth, but I gave it the additional significant information that this man's "uncivil conduct" even went to the ill-bred extreme of "charging me with willful falsehood," and that these ugly things were all that barred him from our columns. I was not only careful to apprise the Standard of these facts, but, as a matter of simple justice, asked it to let its readers see them, that they might know the reason why we would have no exchange with the man in question, but not a word of it has the Standard ever let them see! "Open-minded seekers after truth," indeed!

But this is not all nor the worst of it. Instead of letting its readers know the truth of the matter, the Standard permitted this unprincipled man to state in its columns that I "freely tendered to" him "all the space" he "wished in the Gospel Advocate" until I "had read" his book, and that then, according to his insinuation, I found I could not meet his argument and therefore shut him out!! I knew that the Christian Standard knew that, instead of the Gospel Advocate shutting out the Standard's representative and thus refusing to give both sides a hearing in its columns, the very reverse was true, the Standard itself being guilty of that very thing in connec- tion with that same man when the Advocate wanted both sides to be heard in both papers, in confirmation of which I reminded it that "back in the winter of 1917 and 1918," when this man, who afterwards proved utterly lacking in principle, asked for it, I promptly "tendered to him Advocate space" if the Standard would let both sides appear in its columns also, but that when "he went on to Cincinnati to ascertain the 'Standard's wish in the case'" he was met with "the Standard's refusal to let the discussion appear in its columns," and that this was "the reason why there was no discussion." I asked the Standard to let its readers know these facts also, but not a word of it has it let them see! "Open-minded seekers after truth," indeed!! Such procedure may be in harmony with the Standard's conception of honorable controversy, but we are glad to say it is not in harmony with ours. In the face of such facts, the Standard has the temerity to talk about others being "unwilling to seize upon every opportunity to prove to us that instrumental music is unscriptural, and, in turn, to examine fairly any evidence that we may offer!" "O consistency, thou art a jewel!" If that journal does not hang its head in shame at these facts, its failure to do so will not be complimentary to it.

The fact is, in spite of the Standard's "blow and bluster" in recent years about loyalty to the Restoration Movement, in which, we are glad to add, it has said much that is true; its loud call to those who have so far outstripped it in following the path of departure from New Testament ecclesiastical polity, which path was entered by the Standard itself the very day when, under the leadership of its illustrious founder, it set the seal of its indorsement to any general ecclesiastical organization with a central board of supervisors and managers; and its brave attitude toward this glaringly indefensible set of destructive higher-criticism sympathizers in its ranks whom a school-boy tyro in debate could easily meet and defeat;—in spite, I say, of all this apparent fight for the primitive New Testament order, the Standard has given unmistakable evidence that it is afraid to meet the instrumental-music issue which it has raised itself in its indorsement of the Payne book and that it is "unwilling to seize upon" any "opportunity" at all to defend its Payne-book doctrine on psallo when both sides can be heard in its columns. Instead of the Gospel Advocate being "unwilling to seize upon" such opportunities, one of the Standard's ablest editorial contributors in the person of the venerable J. B. Briney—undoubtedly the equal if not the superior of any logician on its staff—has recently been heard on the question in our columns, though quite likely neither to his nor to the Standard's comfort; but not a line of it has the Standard published! "Open-minded seekers after truth," indeed!!! Side by side with the Advocate's established willingness for both sides to be heard in its columns, our readers are entitled to know the fact that the Standard not only refused such a hearing in its columns four years ago, but that it has not published a word of the recent exchange with Brother Briney. Some years ago the impartial and fair-minded Russell Errett opened the Standard's columns to a discussion of the society question between it and the Gospel Advocate, and he himself conducted the Standard's side of the argument, in which he was signally fair, just, and honorable throughout the investigation. The discussion not only elicited general and widespread interest among the constituencies of the two journals, but it called forth the hearty and enthusiastic interest of the beloved and lamented J. W. McGarvey, who, at its close, personally urged me to continue the use of my pen in defense of the supremacy and divine function of the local church. I am wondering where is the generous spirit of Russell Errett to-day, for I cannot think it has been or is back of the Standard's course exposed in this article.

But, so far as the present controversy is concerned, we think we understand the situation. In their hasty indorsement of the Payne book—a book not only grossly dishonorable and unprincipled in its dealings with authorities, but, in my judgment, the most deceptive and fallacious in its reasoning of any work on the music question ever produced in the ranks of the Restoration Movement—both the Christian Standard and our beloved Brother Briney have taken a position which they are unwilling to undertake to defend. However, they must either absolutely and distinctly repudiate what they have said or be held strictly responsible for that position, one or the other. The Payne book boldly and categorically declares that “it is impossible to psallein without a musical instrument,” and that “we must unite in agreeing that if we forego musical instruments we cannot conform to the divine injunction to psallein,” and the Christian Standard says the Payne book leads to the “overwhelming conviction that not only was instrumental music allowed in the worship of the primitive church, but that it was positively enjoined;” and Brother Briney, in clear, explicit, and unambiguous terms, commits himself to the Payne-book position. He says the author of the Payne book “demonstrates”—and he informs us that he uses this word demonstrates “advisedly”—“that when the New Testament was written ‘psallo’ carried with it the idea of the use of the instrument of music.” That clearly and distinctly settles it if he means what he says. His language is not only clear and unambiguous, but it categorically declares, just as plainly and positively as the Payne book and the Standard declare, that “the idea of the use of the instrument of music” was in psallo “when the New Testament was written.” His statement is either true or it is not true, and it is susceptible of no other disposition. But if it is true, then “the idea of the use of the instrument” is in psallo wherever we find it in the New Testament, and therefore, according to this doctrine, openly declared and espoused by Brother Briney, we never do what psallo tells us to do till we have “the use of the instrument.” He says this “idea” is “carried” in psallo. Then, of course, it is in it. Hence, if what this plain and unequivocal language declares is true, every church that does not have “the use of the instrument” in its worship is in open rebellion against God, so far as doing what psallo requires is concerned. All avenues are here closed, and there is absolutely no escape from this position.

Moreover, so far as the Gospel Advocate is concerned, I respectfully add that neither the Christian Standard nor the beloved Briney shall cover up with explanations or evade the issue which they themselves have here created. It is not a question of our construction of their language, but their language itself that is here involved, and it must stand unless they say they did not mean what they said, and therefore retract and repudiate it. Hence, unless they distinctly make such retraction and repudiation—and in that case, away goes the Payne book, so far as they are concerned, and all of its deceptive and misleading defense of their pet theory—then, the Standard must excuse us from any sort of discussion with it about instrumental music as a “permissible expedient,” and Brother Briney must excuse us from bandying words with him over his claim that “for forty years or more” his “position has been that an instrument may be used as an aid to singing.” With all due respect for this venerable champion of many glorious and hard-fought battles, that statement is utterly absurd and ridiculous if “when the New Testament was written ‘psallo’ carried with it the idea of the use of the instrument.” If this latter statement is true, then it is not a case in which “an instrument may be used as an aid” in obeying the command in psallo, but it is a case in which “an instrument” must be used, or otherwise the command in psallo cannot be obeyed. A mathematical demonstration could not be clearer or more conclusive. Hence, begone with your talk about the instrument as a mere “expedient,” “an aid,” or the “liberty” to have or not have a thing which God commands us to have. If “when the New Testament was written ‘psallo’ carried with it the idea of the use of the instrument,” and Brother Briney says it did, then we have no more done what psallo carries with it till we have “the use of the instrument” than we have done what baptizo carries with it till we have immersed. From page 73 of my review of the Payne book, I here quote a statement of its author’s position which is applicable in this connection:

“Hence, according to his teaching, every church of God in the world to-day which does not have and use in its worship an organ or some other musical instrument made by human hands is in open rebellion against God. With him, it is no longer even a question of liberty, but a question of absolute requirement. Hence, according to the doctrine which he now boldly avows, instrumental music is as much in psallo as immerse is in baptizo, and we are no more doing what is commanded in psallo till we play an instrument of music than we are doing what is commanded in baptizo till we immerse. No matter whether any of the churches shall ever accept the unreasonable and absurd doctrine or not, it is clearly and indisputably the doctrine of this book and of its author.”

Finally, while there is no “chip” on our shoulder and we would carefully refrain from any defiant attitude unbecoming in Christians, nevertheless, carrying out the policy which has marked the Gospel Advocate’s history from the beginning, we stand ready at all times to defend, against all comers in dignified and honorable controversy, whatever we believe is taught in the New Testament, and promptly to surrender anything which we may be shown is not therein taught; but most assuredly we ask nothing further on this score from the Christian Standard. It does not comport with our idea of Christian journalism to charge a contemporary with doing wrong in closing its columns in the very identical way and against a discussion of the very identical subject in which we have closed ours, claiming that we did right, or to make statements which reflect upon a contemporary’s conception of honor and justice in dealing with opponents or anybody else, and then, when presented with facts which show we were mistaken in both cases, to refuse to make proper correction. We respectfully but emphatically and radically differ from any such policy, and we leave our Cincinnati contemporary to pursue it without further molestation from us while it does so.

Amusements.

BY H. LEO B.

What are the amusements in which the young may properly indulge? Much depends upon the answer given to this question. Some go to one extreme, denying all forms of amusement; others go to the other extreme, lending encouragement to all modern forms of amusement. Surely the golden mean may be found.

I deem it unnecessary to argue that young people are entitled to—yea, must have—amusement and recreation. We are instructed in Holy Writ: “Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth, and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth, and walk in the ways of thy heart, and in the sight of thine eyes; but know thou, that for all these things God will bring thee into judgment.” (Eccles. 11: 9.) It is pleasing to God that the young rejoice in their youth; but a moderate use should be made of their enjoyment, for all are to be brought before God in judgment. There is no license given to any one to follow the evil propensities of his heart, “the noisy mirth of the fool, and the dissipation of the profligate.” These are warned that “for all these things God will bring thee into judgment.”

Some amusements are necessary and proper, and the difficult question with those who have the responsibility of caring for the young and training them is: What kind of amusements may be permitted without the danger of moral or physical injury to the young? We shall not be able to discuss the merits and demerits of all the games, plays, and methods of diversion and amusement which tempt the young of this age. The best that can be done is to ascertain some general principles which will apply to all kinds of amusements. These principles should be clearly kept in mind by those who are guarding the welfare of youth and should be firmly impressed upon all young people. When they are definitely understood, their application will be made by all as a faithful duty.

One of the fundamental principles relating to amusements and the basic principle of all human conduct is: Is the thing right or wrong within itself? This question should be the first one asked by the parent, and the children should be taught to ask it upon all occasions. The answer in many cases can be easily and promptly found; in some cases the answer may be difficult to determine. Every one is morally bound to do what he believes to be right. No one should violate his conscience. If, in determining whether anything is right or wrong, there should be a doubt, then it should be left alone. There should be no hesitating in refusing to engage in anything that is not clearly and unquestionably right. It matters not how fascinating it may seem or how pleasure-provoking it may appear, if the mind is not satisfied on the question of its being right or wrong, then avoid it. No one can afford to violate one's conscience for the sake of any momentary pleasure.

In determining whether a certain recreation or form of amusement is right or wrong, it will be wise to make the following inquiry: How do good people, in whose judgment we have confidence, regard it? If its history, its associations, and its influences are approved by good people who have had the opportunity to know whether it be right or wrong, then we may safely encourage it; but when good people, spiritual-minded people, advise against it, it is wise and best not to engage in it. Young people cannot afford to disregard the sound judgment and wholesome advice of those who are wiser and more experienced than they; neither can they afford to run the risk of losing the respect of others for the sake of any fleshly gratification. No one has the right to offend his friends by doing what they consider is wrong. The young should be taught to respect the opinions of those who love them and should yield their judgment to the judgment of their superiors. A very thoughtful, self-respecting young man was asked to indulge in a game of cards, but he declined with the following reason: "I have always tried to preserve an unblemished reputation, and I cannot afford to be classed, in the mind of any person, as directly or indirectly associated with gamblers or gaming. There are many good people, whose esteem I should regret to lose, who would hear with much pain that I had engaged in playing cards; therefore, you will excuse me for not running the risk of doing myself and my friends a moral injury."

When any particular kind of amusement becomes so engrossing as to interfere with the duties belonging to the school, the family, or business, it should be stopped at once. Recreation should not be followed as a vocation, nor amusement as an occupation. "He that loveth pleasure shall be a poor man." (Prov. 21: 17.) When duties are neglected, business forgotten, and the mind is diverted from the consideration of serious affairs by amusements, they should cease; when amusement ceases to be a recreation and becomes a business, it should be abandoned. Again, when a strong habit is formed for the dissipation of time by indulging in amusements, it is time to call a halt. If others have been injured by such habits, young people are very foolish to continue the practice. It is not safe for any one to follow the road that has led others to ruin. Many forms of amusement lead one into bad company. One should ask this question: Will this form of amusement put one into disreputable company? Is its exercise confined to the best of society? No one can afford to sacrifice his self-respect by associating with the vicious or vulgar for the sake of temporary gratification.

The Going Away of a Good Man.

BY F. W. SMITH.

The following announcement appeared in one of the daily papers of Nashville, Tenn., recently:

Dr. Clarence C. Young, fifty-three, died at his home on Blair Boulevard at 11:05 o'clock Friday night. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Kate Omohundro Young; one son, C. C. Young, Jr.; three brothers—N. M. Young, of this city, and W. D. Young and Ira K. Young, of Pueblo, Col.; three sisters—Mrs. Mallie Webb and Mrs. L. F. McFarland, of Lebanon, Tenn., and Mrs. L. C. Hunter, of Henderson, Tenn.

Dr. Young died of paralysis, having been stricken Wednesday evening and receiving a second stroke Thursday night.

He was born in Sumner County, Tenn., and had been in the drug business in this city for the past twenty-five years. He began his business career as a prescriptionist in a local pharmacy, later becoming a member of the drug firm of Young & Thompson, Church Street and Eighth Avenue. He was a member of the Lawrence Avenue church of Christ. He enjoyed a wide acquaintance in Nashville and Davidson County, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He married Miss Kate Omohundro, daughter of the late O. C. Omohundro.

Funeral services will be held from the Lawrence Avenue church of Christ Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Elders F. W. Smith and C. M. Pullias will conduct the services.

This announcement was a great shock to the city of Nashville, where Brother Young had lived so long and was so favorably known and highly esteemed. As a business man, he stood at the top for uprightness and strict integrity in all of his dealings with his fellow men, and in his going away the business world has sustained a great loss. For twenty-one years he was a member of the drug firm of Young & Thompson, and during all these years there was not the slightest friction between him and his associate in business. As a member of the church, Brother Young discharged his duties with that simplicity of manner, genial disposition, and loving fidelity to his Lord and Master that go to make up true, Christian manhood. His was one of the gentlest and most pleasing dispositions I have ever known, and to know Clarence Young was to love him. The church has been called upon to give up one of its most useful and beloved members, and it feels keenly the great loss in his leaving. In the relation he sustained to his brothers, sisters, and mother in the flesh, he was all that these sacred ties and holy obligations demanded. The going away to a fairer world of his sainted mother, who was one of God's noble women, was a great stroke to Brother Young, and he had not recovered from that before being called to meet her. His manner and deportment in the social circle was always that of a Christian gentleman. It was freely remarked by his intimate associates that Clarence Young never uttered a word in the presence of men that could not have been uttered in the presence of the most refined women. This stamped him as a perfect gentleman, worthy the emulation of every boy and man in all the world. He did not pollute his lips with unbecoming speech, but ministered grace unto the hearers. As a husband and father, he met and discharged with the tenderest love and affection the sacred obligations these relations bound upon him. Home to him was what God intended it to be, and not merely four walls and a roof.

The splendid type of Christian manhood which shone through the life of Clarence Young will continue to shine long after his body shall have returned to dust. I like to speak of his going away instead of saying he is dead, for he is not dead. "Verily, verily, I say unto you, If a man keep my word, he shall never see death," are the words of our Lord, and I believe them. The Psalmist says of this life: "For it is soon gone, and we fly away." There is that he calls "we," that is not of the body, though dwelling in the body, that "flies away" when the body dies. Yes, it flies away to God who gave it, and those who, like Clarence Young, have not lived by bread alone, "but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God," shall walk with Jesus in white. While his loved ones and his friends who loved him dearly can no more look upon his smiling face in the flesh, nor hear the gentle sound of his manly voice, they can, by the grace of God, see him in a celestial clime, clad in robes of immortal glory, where the angels sing their everlasting songs of joy and praise to the eternal Father.

While the changes wrought by the snapping asunder of these earthly ties are common, still it is hard to realize that we shall no more see Clarence Young face to face in this life. Our heart's deepest sympathy goes out for his dear wife, son, and all his relatives, and we pray God that there may be a reunion in a better world.

E. G. Sewell.

BY H. LEO B.

The venerable E. G. Sewell on October 25 was ninety-two years old. Our readers will be glad to learn that Brother Sewell is enjoying splendid health for one who has labored so long in the Master's vineyard. He made the Gospel Advocate office a visit on October 26 and spoke of his prospects for his future home. He says: "I want to remain here so long as I can do any good." It is encouraging to have Brother Sewell, though impaired by age, to visit the office, and our older readers, who used to read the editorials signed "E. G. S.," will be pleased to learn that he is still gentle and lovable, "ripe for the eternal harvest." May the Lord be praised for "E. G. S."

Sellersburg, Indiana.

BY H. LEO B.

This is a small town in Southern Indiana, about fourteen miles north of Louisville, Ky. The Speeds Mills, producers of the famous Portland Cement, are located near this prosperous town. Sellersburg has fine railway service. Both steam and electric lines run through it.

Of all things that may be said about Sellersburg, the best is that it has a large church after the New Testament pattern. The church was first organized in July, 1832. It has remained faithful to the simple New Testament teaching through these ninety years and has been a great power for good.

The church now has a very comfortable house in which to meet, with a neat, convenient home for the preacher to live in. Its membership enrolls more than three hundred. Brother H. C. Shoulders is their preacher. He has been with them five years. All seem to love Brother and Sister Shoulders. The church has increased greatly in numbers since Brother Shoulders began laboring with it, and peace and good will prevail among its membership. The church, with Brother Shoulders as instructor and leader, is very active in the Master's vineyard. It does much work in looking after the poor and having the gospel preached to them. It helps to support the work in Japan, New York, Minneapolis, and Colorado. The church that is doing this kind of work will grow and will be blessed with means with which to honor God.

It was my pleasure to labor with this church recently in a series of meetings. Good interest was manifested throughout the meeting and large crowds attended each service. Eleven were baptized and three were restored to fellowship. There are many good people in the church there whom I learned to love.

The Gospel Advocate now goes into each home represented in the church, and I trust that it may bear a message of truth and a sermon of encouragement to each home.

May the Lord bless his people in Sellersburg.

Gospel Advocate Company.

BY H. LEO B.

Many splendid books are published and handled at this office. Good, religious books should be kept in each home. They have a refining influence on the young. Their educational value cannot be overestimated. The Gospel Advocate Company would like to help you educate your family by introducing good books to your library. "Evenings with the Bible" is a fine book to develop piety and spirituality, as well as very instructive. "The People's New Testament with Notes" is very helpful to Bible students. Here is a list that should be in every home. How many of them have you?

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume I. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

The gospel is always attractive when presented by W. H. Book. These sermons were not written in a study, but were stenographically reported as the burning words were uttered by the master preacher, under the inspiration of the great audience which flocks to hear him every week.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume II. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

A companion volume to the author's first book of sermons. Reported in the same way and published because of the unusual demand the first volume created.

"Sermons for the People." By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

Few books of sermons combine the qualities of interest, instruction, and inspiration to the degree in which they are united in this volume. The author is a master in the field of popular sermonizing, and some of his best work is to be found in this collection. There is not a dull page in the book. The text fairly sparkles with original and apt narratives.

"Lights on Scripture Truths." (Former title, "Side Windows.") By Mattie M. Boteler. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.

A valuable ready-reference compendium of original, forceful and apt illustrations for the busy preacher, Sunday-school teacher, and religious worker. The striking originality and practical usefulness of each illustration puts this volume in a class all by itself. A carefully prepared topical index and alphabetically arranged table of contents add greatly to its usefulness. Its distinct value is that the author has followed the example of the great Teacher in illustrating profound truths by examples familiar to all. "I found one illustration that was well worth the price of the book." (S. M. Bernard.)

"The Indiana Pulpit." Edited by W. H. Cook. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

This series of twenty-two practical sermons, each discourse being the best one preached by as many leading Indiana preachers, presents vital Christianity in a most attractive way. "The Indiana Pulpit" will be especially helpful to young preachers. The topics are varied and the discourses are from men of learning and experience. It will make each who reads it better, and it will strengthen the faith of all who carefully peruse its pages." (George A. Miller.)

"Center Shots at Sin." By Arthur Talmage Abernethy. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

An arsenal of religious ammunition, assembled by a strategist experienced in fighting uphill. The author is a strong and virile thinker; his style, clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eye-opener.

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Texas-Oklahoma Department

By C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

"The Most Important Part."

BY C. R. N.

Have you observed about the following? It is Sunday morning, and within the meetinghouse where the church assembles for worship there are a number of men and women, boys and girls, congregated for Bible study. Groups of students are arranged according to their age and ability to understand, with a teacher capacitated to instruct each group. Also, within the building are some who have no part in the Bible study, but spend their time talking, looking through a song book, or gazing out of the window. Others may be seen without the building, where they are talking of the current events of the day, crop conditions, or the probable results of the political campaign, etc. Still others have remained home through the period for Bible study that they might read the Sunday-morning paper or attend to some chores about the house or some matters at their place of business.

At eleven o'clock the church assembles for the "regular worship." Those who have remained at home and without the building through the period for Bible study file into the house and occupy seats near the front. I inquire of one of the brethren who was not in one of the groups which spent a season in Bible study if his failure to be one of the number is due to the fact that he is opposed to Bible study. He replies: "Certainly not. It is right to study the Bible on Sunday or any other day in the week, but I am here in time for the 'Lord's Supper,' and that, you know, is the 'most important part.'" After the service I ask him: "Did you contribute this morning?" He did not, but declares that it is right to do so. Semioccasionally he does contribute, but this morning he did not, he says, and then adds: "But I did observe 'the most important part;' I partook of the Supper."

Do you recall the number of times you have heard the brother who presides at the Lord's table say: "Now, brethren, we come to the 'most important part of the services?'"

I would not have you think that I undervalue the importance of regularly observing the Lord's Supper. Indeed, it is necessary if one is to develop in the spiritual life. He who willfully absents himself from the Lord's Supper is not a faithful child of God. When I was a boy and failed to go home for supper one evening, my mother said to me: "Son, I was uneasy about you when you did not come home for supper. So long as you come home for your supper regularly, I will not be much uneasy about you going far wrong." My observation has been that those who regularly attend the services of the Lord and have part therein do not often wander far from the path of righteousness.

But by what authority does any one say the Lord's Supper is "the most important part of the service?"

I fear that many good brethren have allowed themselves to fail in the discharge of duty, studying the Bible, and giving of their money, by persuading themselves that when they have partaken of the Lord's Supper they have done the "most important" thing, and that all other parts of the service pale into insignificance when compared with the Supper, and may, therefore, be omitted. Do not attempt to quiet your conscience by persuading yourself that you may neglect a duty at any point. It is not your province to pass judgment on the commandments of the Lord, declaring that some of them are of less importance than others.

The existence of the church is dependent on the gospel being preached, and of our means we must give that men may be supported in this work.

If each member should give of his time and means to the work of the church the amount you give, brother, what would be the progress made in extending the borders of the kingdom? Do you tell yourself that you have not done as much as you should have done, then execute the resolution that you will do more in the future?

By what process of reasoning do you persuade yourself that you are doing your full duty when you attend the services on Sunday and have no active part in the work of the church? Do you reply that "they" never call on you for anything—that "they" never ask you to do anything in the work? My brother, He who is greater than "they" called you to be a worker in the vineyard. Look about you for some work that needs to be done—and do it!

✻ ✻ ✻

The Preacher.

BY C. R. N.

Does the preacher ever function as a civil officer? The State extends to the licensed or ordained minister of the gospel the privilege of saying the marriage ceremony, which legally binds contracting parties when entering the marriage relationship. This privilege is extended to the minister by the civil law, civil powers; and when he functions as the executor of the law, binding, legally, the contracting parties, is he acting as a civil officer? So far as I know, the minister derived no authority, directly, from the Bible to say a marriage ceremony; nor is there any obligation, religiously, resting on him to say such ceremonies.

Some ministers decline to say the marriage ceremony when one of the contracting parties is a Christian and the other is not, and they are clearly within their rights when they refuse. Though the State extends to the ordained or licensed minister the privilege to say the ceremony, taking no cognizance of the religious or nonreligious character of either of the contracting parties, at the same time the civil powers graciously allow the minister to decline to function in any case or in all cases. I mention this to bring out the one fact that when a minister says a marriage ceremony, authorized by the State, the civil powers, he voluntarily acts. Is he acting as a civil officer when he does?

I hold that a minister can discharge his full measure as a minister of the gospel, as a Christian, and never say a marriage ceremony.

If I entertained the view that the civil power which extends to the minister the right, privilege, to say the marriage ceremony was, is, of the devil, belonging to Satan in his right, I would decline to function, voluntarily, as an officer of his government.

Publishers' Items.

Sunday School Record. This record is neatly and substantially bound, and has space for fifty-two Sundays. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

"Questions Answered," by David Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell, should have a place in every library. Those who have seen and examined it closely are highly pleased with it. Cloth bound; 700 pages. Price, $3, postpaid.

"Civil Government"—Its Origin, Mission, and Destiny, and the Christian's Relations to It. By David Lipscomb. This book is the outgrowth of the author's most matured thoughts on this subject. Attractively bound. Pages, 158. Price, $1.

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Obituaries

Mingle.

Little W. R. Mingle, infant son of Brother and Sister W. R. Mingle, of Bellbuckle, Tenn., was born on February 10, 1921, and died on September 17, 1922. It is so hard to give up our dear little babies, and yet what would heaven be without babies? We ought to rejoice that our little ones came to bless and brighten our homes, though they stayed but a short time; for had they not been born into this world, then they could not have gone to heaven. We are absolutely sure our little ones are safe forever—safe from sin and sorrow, pain and death. We can go to them, but they cannot come to us. Funeral services were conducted by Brother W. B. McQuiddy and the writer. C. M. GLEAVES.

Hill.

Sadness came to many hearts in and near Rockwood, Tenn., by the untimely death of Sister Mary Dorcas Hill, which came suddenly at her home on Friday evening, October 20, 1922. In the death of this good woman a loss has been sustained by more than her immediate family. She will be missed in the community in which she lived and in the church which she loved so much, as only when providentially hindered was she absent from the Lord's-day worship. She was married to J. N. Hill on March 25, 1871, and was for more than fifty-one years in every sense a companion and helpmeet. Those surviving are her husband and seven children. May the Lord help her aged husband to bear his loss, and may the children emulate her godly life of service to her Master.

WILL J. CULLUM.

Flippo.

Milus R. Flippo was accidentally killed at a sawmill on October 11, 1922. He was fifty-five years old and still in the prime of vigorous manhood. He was a member of the church of Christ, having been baptized by Brother Larimore years ago. He was a kind-hearted, gentle, lovable man, and enjoyed the esteem and confidence of all who knew him. He came of one of the prominent old pioneer families of Lawrence County, Tenn. His father, Patrick Flippo, was a public-spirited citizen and was well-known in our county. He leaves a wife, two sons, two sisters, two brothers, and other relatives and friends without number, to mourn his sad and untimely departure. But we sorrow not as those who have no hope; for our hopes are as bright as our Father's great and precious promises, and anchor within the veil. LUCAS NORTH.

Pope.

God, in his wisdom and goodness, saw fit to take from us, on Wednesday morning, October 18, 1922, our dear Bertha, wife of E. P. Pope, Jr. She had been afflicted for some months with an unkindly disease which caused her much suffering, but she bore her sufferings with patience and Christian fortitude. Everything that loving hands could do to restore her to health was done, but all to no avail. God giveth, and God taketh away. She was twenty-two years and a few months old. She was a member of the church of Christ, and was a beautiful, Christian character. Everybody who knew her loved her. She leaves a husband, mother, sisters, and brothers. She was laid to rest in Center Cemetery, in Dyer County, Tenn., beneath a beautiful mound of flowers, to await the coming of the Savior in the resurrection morn, when there will be no more partings nor good-byes. Elder Fred Blanchard conducted the funeral services. MRS. VERA ARNOLD.

PILES CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or call without delay. Private reception rooms for ladies. Established since 1912. Free X-Ray examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

THE B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.

We are preparing our mailing list for our New Catalogue. If you are interested in a free copy, write us.

B. H. STIEF JEWELRY CO.
CHURCH STREET
Nashville, Tennessee

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

TOBACCO HABIT BANISHED QUICK SURE Lasting Results

Tobacco Redeemer is pleasant to take. Absolutely scientific; thoroughly reliable. We positively guarantee you will have no craving for tobacco after using Tobacco Redeemer. Money back if not satisfied. Write for free booklet and proof. Newell Pharmacal Co. Dept. 963 St. Louis, Mo.

HOW TWO WOMEN ESCAPED OPERATIONS

Doctor Advised Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Happy Results in Both Cases

St. Joseph, Missouri.—"Both of my sides swelled and hurt me so that I could not move or do any of my work. There was heavy pressure and pains through my lower organs and the doctor told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for these troubles. He said I had this one chance, and if the Vegetable Compound did not help me nothing but an operation would. After taking several bottles I felt it was helping me and now I am able to do my own work. If my testimonial will help others I shall be glad for them to read it and hope your Vegetable Compound will do them as much good as it did me."—Mrs. WM. LOCKMAN, 513 N. 4th St., St. Joseph, Mo.

White Plains, N. Y.—"I had such a pain that I could hardly walk and the doctor said that I needed an operation. I was sick for a year before I started taking your medicine and I could not work. I saw your advertisement in a little book and that is how I came to take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E.

Pinkham's Blood Medicine, also Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and the capsules and prescription recommended. I am doing all my work and have gained twenty pounds. I am taking the medicines still, but I feel fine. You have my permission to use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. MARY MARK, 37 Hamilton Ave., White Plains, N. Y.

Some female troubles may through neglect reach a stage when an operation is necessary. But most of the commoner ailments are not the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors, or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same.

When distressing ailments first appear, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles. Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Renew your health
by purifying your system with

The purified and refined
calomel tablets that are free
from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel
and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c
and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

I Cured My Fits

by simple discovery. Doctors gave me up, says
Mrs. P. Gramm of 939 4th Street, Milwaukee.
Wis. If you wish to try the same treatment I did,
FREE, write to Mr. Lepso, Dept. 36 895 Island Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.

TETTERINE

Clears Baby's Skin

and drives off the rash and pimples. Harmless, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-
TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

JACOBS
&
COMPANY
SPECIAL ADVERTISING
AGENTS
PRINTERS DESIGNERS
PHOTO-ENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS
Catalogues —
— a Specialty —
HOME OFFICE
CLINTON, S.C.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Meeting at Cleveland, Tenn.

BY GEORGE W. FARMER.

Brother T. Q. Martin, of St. Marys, W. Va., closed a great meeting with the church at Cleveland, Tenn., on the third Lord's-day evening in October. The meeting lacked two days of running three weeks. The brethren built a large tabernacle on Central Avenue, as near the center of town as we could get; and while we had good audiences most of the time, yet we never filled the tabernacle with people at any time. Because our brethren would not and could not enter up to their necks into the great "John Brown union revival" held here very recently, the sects undertook to boycott us. This spirit was especially manifested by our digressive brethren. The church here is sorely persecuted, but, by the help of God, we hope to overcome in the by and by. As results of the meeting, the church was greatly built up and about twenty-four or twenty-five were added to the congregation. Twelve have been baptized to date, some were restored, and some cast their lots to work and worship with the congregation. Some outsiders have expressed themselves as being sorry the meeting closed when it did. They were becoming very much interested.

Brother Martin is a great preacher, true to the Book at all times and in everything. He and Sister Martin endeared themselves to the brethren and sisters and outsiders as well. We hope to have them with us again sometime.

Brother J. J. Reynolds from Winchester, Tenn., conducted the song service most of the time. He is a young preacher with hopeful prospects before him.

Lofty Sentiment.

When Lord Byron was about to go on a journey, a woman relative slipped a Bible into his trunk. Long years afterwards that Bible was found among the poet's effects with the following words written in Byron's own hand on the flyleaf:

In this ample volume lies
The mystery of mysteries;
And happiest they of human race
To whom their God has granted grace
To read, to fear, to hope, to pray,
To lift the latch and force the way;
But better had they ne'er been born
Who read to doubt or read to scorn.
—Exchange.

Look to Your Eyes

Beautiful Eyes, like fine
Teeth, are the result of Constant
Care. The daily use of Murine
makes Eyes Clear and Radiant.
Enjoyable. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.

MURINE
FOR YOUR EYES

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PILES

DON'T BE CUT

Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment.
My internal method of treatment is the correct
one, and is sanctioned

by the best-informed physicians and surgeons. Ointments, salves, and other local applications give only temporary relief.

If you have piles in any form, write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets, and you will bless the day that you read this. Write to-day.

E. R. PAGE,

430J, Page Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Piles

are usually due to straining when constipated.

Nujol being a lubricant keeps the food waste soft and therefore prevents straining. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it not only soothes the suffering of piles but relieves the irritation, brings comfort and helps to remove them.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe.
Try it today.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

Dodson's Liver Tone

Killing Calomel Sale

Don't sicken or salivate yourself or paralyze your sensitive liver by taking calomel, which is quicksilver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it regulates the liver, stomach, and bowels better than calomel without making you sick. Fifteen million bottles sold.

Harmless, purely vegetable, Infants' and Children's Regulator, formula on every label. Guaranteed non-narcotic, non-alcoholic.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP
The Infants' and Children's Regulator

Children grow healthy and free from colic, diarrhoea, flatulency, constipation and other trouble if given it at teething time. Safe, pleasant—always brings remarkable and gratifying results.

At All Druggists

STOMACH TROUBLE

Weakness? Distress?

Ashland, Ky.—"Many years ago my mother used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for her stomach. She had taken treatment from physicians, and had never obtained good results. After commencing to take this remedy she noticed an improvement, and I can say it surely helped her wonderfully. I am pleased to write this to let others know how this medicine helped our family. Any one will benefit by the 'Discovery' if they will try it."—Mrs. M. A. Brown, 642 East Carter Avenue.

Obtain the Discovery in tablets or liquid at your nearest drug store, or send ten cents for trial package to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., and write for free medical advice.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

ASTHMA

The attack is relieved at once and comfortable rest assured simply by vaporizing Cresolene near the bed at night.

Introduced in 1879

Vapo-Cresolene
"Used While You Sleep"

It is the drugless treatment for bronchial ailments—coughs, colds, spasmodic croup, whooping cough and bronchitis. Send for descriptive booklet 43B. Sold by druggists Vapo-Cresolene Co., 62 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

The Good of Missions.

BY E. S. JELLEY.

About the first of September I received a telegram announcing the death of old Brother Zadhav. Later I learned the details of his death. It seems he got up feeling well. He was about ninety-six years old and hearty, but, like Isaac, his eyes were dim. He said that morning: "O God, when art thou going to take me?" His daughter-in-law gave him some food which he liked, and he casually gave her his blessing, and suddenly while he was eating his spirit passed away. In 1911 Brother Zadhav was not a Christian, neither was his dying wife. I saw her a week or so before her death, and she looked up at me with despair written on her face and asked: "Must I lie and die?" And yet some people wonder what is the good of missions to the benighted peoples of earth.

The Covington-Cincinnati Work.

BY J. L. HINES.

I arrived in Cincinnati, O., on October 7, and went direct to our new home at 2428 Jefferson Avenue, Norwood, Cincinnati. On October 8 I preached at Covington at 11 A.M. to an attentive audience and at Ludlow at 7:30 P.M. The following week was spent in getting acquainted and writing cards and letters. On Sunday, October 15, I preached at Branch Hill, Ohio, to a very encouraging crowd. This congregation formerly used the instrument, but set it aside, thus removing the only barrier that existed between us. I can never cease praising them for the spirit the whole church manifested in this noble action.

On Sunday afternoon, October 15, representatives of all the coöperating churches met in the Leader office to discuss plans for the fall and winter work. This was a fine meeting. All were of one heart, soul, and mind. Thus we move on.

It would not be worth while to live if we were to die entirely. That which alleviates labor and sanctifies toil is to have before us the vision of a better world through the darkness of this life. That world is to me more real than the chimera which we devour, and which we call "life." It is forever before my eyes. It is the supreme certainty of my reason, as it is the supreme consolation of my soul.—Victor Hugo.

SORES

BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

TETTERINE

Makes hair beautiful, free from dandruff, and keeps the scalp healthy.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

New York City Church of Christ

239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M., Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6857.

The Plum Street Church of

Christ, Detroit, Mich.,

Now meets in its new building, corner Hamilton Boulevard and Tuxedo Avenue. Visiting brethren welcome.

5,000 CHRISTIAN WORKERS WANTED

To sell Bibles, Testaments, good books, and handsome velvet Scripture mottoes. Good commission. Send for free catalogue and price list.

GEORGE W. NOBLE, Publisher, Dept. 2, Monon Building, Chicago, Ill.

FRED K. JONES

Buying, Selling, and Exchanging

REAL ESTATE

I Make an Effort to Assist All Who Call on Me

43 ARCADE

NASHVILLE, TENN.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

Newer Form of Iron

Gives Strength and Energy to the Weak and Aged

The remarkable discovery of a newer form of iron has proved a blessing to thousands who were feeling the weakening effects of advancing years. To be strong, vigorous, and active, you must have plenty of good, rich, red blood of the kind that this newer form of iron helps make. It is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils, and apples. If you want something to quickly help make rich, red blood, revitalize worn-out, exhausted nerves, and give you new strength and energy, your own druggist will furnish you with a bottle of this newer form of iron, sold under the name of Nuxated Iron, and he will guarantee that if you do not feel stronger and years younger in two weeks' time your money will be promptly refunded. For sale by all druggists.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron has been used for years whenever needed in the family of the advertising representative of this paper with excellent results. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

You Need Strength to overcome the coughs, colds and other catarrhal diseases of winter. Restore healthy circulation, throw out the wastes, tone up the nerves and light the stagnation of catarrh. Then winter will have no terror.

E. F. PEPPERMINT CURE

USED BY THOUSANDS

Aids digestion, regulates the bowels, clears away all catarrhal inflammation. It builds up the strength by enabling the organs concerned to properly do their work. Thousands testify to its value after protracted sickness, an attack of Grip or Spanish Influenza.

The ideal medicine in the house for everyday ills.

SOLD EVERYWHERE

TABLETS OR LIQUID

PIANOS

AND

VICTROLAS

Sold for Cash or on Easy Payments

M. F. SHEA

305 Fifth Avenue, North
NASHVILLE, TENN.

ECZEMA

PSORIASIS—ITCH

RU-BON Will Remove Every Spot.

Ask Your Druggist.

SPURLOCK-NEAL COMPANY,
Wholesale Distributors.

Rely on Cuticura To Clear Away Skin Troubles

Soap to cleanse, Ointment to soothe, Talcum to powder. 2c. Samples of Cuticura, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

The West Palm Beach Work.

BY MOLLIE ROARK BARNES.

Many of our readers have seen previous reports of our work in this place. Husband and I came here on the last day of September to take up our temporary abode while we do our best to get New Testament Christianity well established in this place. We are planning to have a series of meetings in a tent in the month of January. We now have thirteen members. We worship in a dwelling. My husband made some benches and a Bible stand from lumber purchased with money of the first two Lord's-days' contributions. There is no place to be rented for worship at present. We can accommodate fifty or sixty people with seats.

We have been out quite a bit doing house-to-house work, distributing tracts and our old issues of the Gospel Advocate and the Christian Leader. We cannot tell to what extent this will do good. We do not expect perfect results; but, out of all the calls we make and the tracts we hand out, we may well believe that it will bring some good results. Perhaps not much to-day, to-morrow, next week, or next month, but in the coming months and years there may be many souls that will find the veil lifted from their hearts and see at least partially.

We have called at approximately seventy-five homes, and we rejoice to say that we are finding a better atmosphere than we really expected in a town where apostolic teaching is so little known and practiced even less. Our plan is this: Whenever they open the door (they have screen doors on account of mosquitoes) and we give them the reading matter, we then make a brief explanatory talk as to why we are thus calling. We further state that we are located near them in this city and desire to be their friends and neighbors while we try to do them good. At this point of the conversation we usually see a change of countenance, together with a more friendly greeting, and, with only a few exceptions, they open their doors with an expression like this: "Come in. Be seated."

We always tarry from fifteen to twenty minutes when we have an invitation. This takes time, but we believe it will have better results in the end, and they will better understand the nature of our work and our motives and will be more apt to read our reading matter, and read it with a view of understanding. We have learned that one of the direct causes of ignorance of the Bible is due to the fact that only a few people read the Bible, and a smaller per cent read with a view of understanding, and

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with
"California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels, and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

consequently do not rightly divide the word of God, and thus give way to sectarianism and even infidelity. We hope and pray that our efforts may not fall to the earth in this venture—not that we are such important subjects in this great busy world, but that people may learn the truth as it was taught in apostolic times, and that our Lord's will may be done and his name glorified.

It seems that we might get some good results, for we can say of a truth that we have never before undertaken a work in just the way we have this. We have gone into this work without the promise of anything except our room rent. We have wholly severed ourselves from any business or secular work. We have severed ourselves from home and friends, neighbors and brethren. Furthermore, we have gone into it hopefully, prayerfully, and we are trying to be tactful and systematic in our doings for the success of the work. We intend to stay with it while we do stay. I mean by this that we intend to be diligent in some way each day that we stay, trying to get these people aroused to New Testa-

BLACK-DRAUGHT OVER 30 YEARS

"Saved Me Many a Sick Spell,"
Says Texas Farmer, Who Has Long Known Usefulness
of Black-Draught

Naples, Texas.—"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught for years—I can safely say for more than thirty years," declares Mr. H. H. Cromer, a substantial, well-known farmer, residing out on Route 3 from here.

"I am forty-three years old, and when a small boy I had indigestion and was puny and my folks gave me a liver regulator. Then Black-Draught was advertised, and we heard of it.

"I began to take Black-Draught and have used it, when needed, ever since. I use Black-Draught now in my home, and certainly recommend it for any liver trouble.

"I have given it a thorough trial, and after thirty years can say Black-Draught is my stand-by. It has saved me many sick spells."

Mr. Cromer writes that he is "never out of Black-Draught," and says several of his neighbors prefer it to any other liver medicine. "I always recommend Black-Draught to my friends," he adds.

This valuable, old, powdered liver medicine is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and has none of the bad effects so often observed from the use of calomel or other powerful mineral drugs.

Black-Draught helps to keep the liver in trim, helping prevent or relieve such troubles as constipation, biliousness, indigestion, sick headache.

Be sure to get the genuine.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL

Look at the address label that comes with each copy of the Gospel Advocate. If it bears a date that has passed, please send renewal of subscription —$2.00 a year.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE
Nashville, Tenn.

DEEP-SEATED FRECKLES

Need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women for over 14 years, and rid yourself of these homely spots. Ask for

Othine--Double Strength

At all Druggists and Department Stores.

ment teaching; and when our stay is over, I pray that we may have no remorse of conscience for having been remiss in our duties.

This is a city of nearly nineteen thousand population. A large per cent of them do not go to any church at all, but simply lounge around home on Lord's day or go out for some amusement. West Palm Beach has good schools. It also has the finest climate that could be imagined—mild and pleasant all the year; no mud, sleet, snow, ice, or cold; hence, the weather is always favorable for attending worship. Then why should man so pleasantly situated on this beautiful Atlantic Coast waste his years, when his opportunities are so great to serve God according to the Bible and thus make a better citizen of this earth and also make sure of his citizenship in heaven? But salvation is not compulsory. God is not willing that any be lost, yet he does not compel any one to accept his terms of salvation. Neither can we; but we are going to do our part, and then in the judgment condemnation will not be upon us for not having shared with them what we know of the plan of salvation. Just to what extent God will have mercy on false teachers we cannot tell, but we do know that it behooves every one to read what the Bible says.

Will not our Christian friends pray for this work of putting a church of Christ here?

Christianity has cooling power as well as warming qualities. Religion in the heart will cool down hot passions, lower the temperature of hatreds, and freeze ill will into activity. —Exchange.

Historic Christianity is a religion of redemption.—Prof. J. Gresham Machen.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 15C.

Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C.—Special.—People everywhere are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated news and story paper to new readers thirteen weeks for 15 cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, but he says it pays to invest in new friends. You will like this paper; it is chuck-full of just the kind of reading the people want, as its half million subscribers testify; it will keep you posted on activities at the nation's capital and the world over. Splendid stories and rare miscellany; question box is a mine of information. Only 15 cents in stamps or coin mailed at once to Pathfinder, 11 Langdon Station, Washington, D. C., will bring you for 13 weeks the breeziest, cleanest, sanest, most entertaining paper there is. You will be delighted.

Flour

According to a report of the U. S. Bureau of Chemistry, the South is being fed "breadstuffs woefully deficient in protein." The controversy which has arisen and is now filling columns in the daily press, involves millers, flour manufacturers, and the Dear Old Public, and particularly that portion of it residing south of the Mason and Dixon Line. The charge which one group of millers makes, and which is backed up by an abundance of laboratory reports, bureau findings, etc., is that the South is being made the dumping ground for the inferior grades of flour of the country, and that this is made possible by the introduction and rapid demand of the last few years of self-rising flours.

"Self-Rising Flour Digs into Vitality of Nation," reads a two-column headline in the New York Globe and Commercial Advertiser, introducing a signed article by Alfred W. McCann, who appears to have gone to the bottom of the controversy and announced his findings. Mr. McCann reminds that while most people think "wheat is wheat," in reality, wheat, as standardized by the U. S. government, is divided into six classes and approximately sixty grades. Not only is there a difference between hard spring wheat and soft winter wheat, he points out, but the right kind of wheat contains between 12 and 14 per cent protein, while much of the poorer grades contain as low as 4 per cent protein. Continuing, he asserts: "The National Cereal Products Laboratories at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Dr. Benjamin R. Jacobs, for many years connected with the U. S. Bureau of Chemistry, have sounded a warning against the alarming increase in the use of self-rising flour, of which, in the South alone, from 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 BARRELS ARE USED ANNUALLY. Of thirty-seven different brands purchased in the open market for analysis, examination has resulted in the literally appalling discovery that more than three-fourths of the whole lot consists of low grades, even the lowest grade and most inferior subgrades of chemically treated starch. The analysis reveals that into these inferior, demineralized and practically sheer starch compounds calcium acid phosphate and sodium bicarbonate are shoveled out without regard to the relationship between the amount of acid reacting leavening and the amount of alkali neutralizer employed. Field investigation shows that when these self-rising flours remain on the shelves of the grocers until the chemicals in them have deteriorated they are shipped back to their manufacturer SO THAT AN EXTRA DOSE OF PHOSPHATE AND SODA CAN BE ADDED." The remedy, say the controversialists, is for the Southern housewives to insist upon flour of the finest grades and baking powders of approved merits, and apply the two together as intelligently as did their mothers and grandmothers, whose breadstuffs set a standard for health and palatability for all time.

ECZEMA IS CURABLE

Write me to-day, and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. Send no money—just write me—that is all you have to do. Address
DR. CANNADAY, 1225 Park Sq., Sedalia, Mo.

PYORRHEA CURED

Or No Pay—Free Trial Treatment

Write to-day for Sample Bottle, sent free with booklet fully describing this guaranteed wonder cure for Pyorrhea, Loose Teeth, Bleeding and Ulcerated Gums, Abscesses, Gum Boils, etc. Send name and address to-day.
MOORE'S LABORATORIES,
Dept. 1093, 1422 Lydia, Kansas City, Mo.

W. W. PERRY
President

A. D. PERRY
Manager

W. D. PERRY
Treasurer

We Invite Your Patronage

PERRY FURNITURE
COMPANY

GENERAL HOUSE FURNISHERS

Phone, Main 1491

208 THIRD AVENUE, NORTH
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Take a box with you

If you have headache, backache, toothache, neuralgia, rheumatism, sciatica, you'll be surprised at the quick relief

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will give you.

A package of these pills in your pocket or in your shopping bag may save you hours of suffering.

Buy them of your Druggist.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

More About the Church.

BY J. T. J. WATSON.

I have just been looking over some back numbers of the Gospel Advocate, and in the one for August 10, 1922, I see an article from Brother Boles on "Church Discipline," in which he says: "The church in its local application means a group of Christians worshipping at a certain place; it includes all the people of God in that locality." (Italics mine.)

The words I have italicized strike me favorably. If all our writers would accept and teach the idea therein contained, there would be less confusion and contention among us than we now have. But if I understand some of our prominent writers, Brother Boles' statement is diametrically opposed to their teaching. They would have us refrain from speaking of the church in any place as containing all the Christians in that locality, even if there is no other undenominational church in the locality. In some cases it would be difficult to speak of the church in a given locality or town without impinging on the "finer sensibilities" of Christians who think it wrong to speak of the church of Christ in a way not to include the denominations, or, at least, we would have to studiously avoid speaking of the church in a way to imply that any local church contains all the Christians in that locality.

While in apostolic times they did not have "denominational Christianity" as we now have, I think we have some Scriptures which might be studied in this connection to advantage. In Tit. 3: 10 we read: "A man that is a heretic after the first and second admonition reject." A "heretic" is a person who teaches false and divisive doctrine in religion. Division is an evidence of carnality. (1 Cor. 3: 3.) But some may say: "Don't you think there are good and conscientious people—yes, Christians—in the denominations?" "Don't you think some of them will go to heaven?" Maybe they will. I am no judge in such matters; God will decide that. But I do know that we are commanded to reject heretics, and I do not know how to reject them and at the same time fellowship them and speak of them as "Christians."

If a factious man makes converts to his heresy and they form a religious party, all those composing the party are factionists—heretics. If they do not actually teach the heresy themselves, they support, maintain, and encourage those who do the teaching and thereby become heretics or factionists themselves. Our courts of law would call it "particeps criminis," which means "an associate or companion in

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Drug-gists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

DANDRUFF

QUICKLY DISAPPEARS WHEN

Tetterine

Is Applied. Fragrant and Soothing.
50c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Homes Furnished Complete

Terms to Suit Everybody

TELEPHONE, MAIN 1096

HILARY E. HOWSE

FURNITURE, CARPETS
STOVES AND RANGES

We Exchange Furniture as Part
Payment

304-306-308 BROADWAY

105-107-109 THIRD AVE., N.

BE YOUR OWN BOSS
RUN A BUSINESS OF YOUR OWN
BE RICH

Why Not Be Attractive

MAKE YOUR OWN CANDY PERFUMES
TOILET ARTICLES

WHY PAY FANCY PRICES
When the finest Perfumes, Cream
Chocolates, Bon-Bons and Beauty
Creams are easily made at home.
Costs but few pennies to make.
Send 2c for formula and great free Catalog. Address

THE AVION CO.,
6309 Yale Av., Dept. A. Chicago, Ill.

crime." Of course we ought not to go to civil law to learn what God forbids or what he allows, but we might do well to avail ourselves of all the "legal lore" obtainable in order to learn the true relationship between leaders in crime and those who aid or abet in the crime. I admit and believe that if people obey the gospel they become Christians in so doing. But when they identify themselves with a faction or party in religion, they put themselves in a class that Christians must reject and disfellowship; for, if we fellowship them, we do not reject them. So it seems to me a pertinent question is: Shall we do as the word of inspiration tells us to do, or shall we be governed by our sympathies in these things?

If this article is published, I expect it to elicit some criticism; but, if so, I only have to say to the critics: "To the law and to the testimony: if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them." (Isa. 8: 20.)

Can We Stand?

BY J. V. ARMSTRONG TRAYLOR.

In the long ago God prepared a very delightful home for Adam and placed him in the midst of a beautiful garden rich in earth's choicest fruits. There has been much speculation and study as to the site of Eden. The most probable location is in lower Babylonia near the head of the Persian Gulf.

To Adam was given blessed employment, free from anxiety, worry, and toll, in caring for the garden; but he was alone. The fowls of the air, the beasts of the field, and all living creatures could not bring him satisfaction. Hence, Jehovah saw it was not good for man to be alone, noting his incompleteness and knowing his happiness was not perfect apart from woman.

Observe, the woman was not made out of his head, to rule over him, nor out of his feet, to be trampled on by him; but out of his side, to be equal with him; under his arm, to be protected; near his heart, to be loved.

In that beautiful home prepared and provided by the loving God, Adam and Eve were happy and innocent; moreover, they had very useful employment without the weariness and pain that attend upon toil.

The first temptation came from without. The tempter appeared as a serpent, very artful. He approached Eve with the question whether God is not unkind and arbitrary in withholding from his creatures the right to use the good things by which they are surrounded. When he succeeded in getting a hearing, he accused God of falsehood, and intimated that God is jealous of his creatures, afraid they

YOU OWE IT TO YOUR CHILDREN - TO YOUR FAMILY TO SEE THAT THEY GET THE MOST NUTRITIOUS WHOLE-SOME BAKINGS.

Don't take the chance of sacrificing quality, economy and food value by using self-rising flour mixtures. They are only substitutes for good plain flour and good baking powder.

The best baking results are obtained from good baking powder and plain flour. The results are far better than from self-rising flour.

There is no substitute for good baking powder and plain flour.

Economy does not necessarily mean cheapness of price, nor does it mean the easiest way. In these times the greatest care should be used in determining between true economy and the sham of mere cheapness because there are so many preparations and substitutes in the way of leavening agents on the market.

For best results use—
Calumet Baking Powder
and a good plain flour.

will rise to his own plane of knowledge.

The tempter injected a terrible doubt into the mind of Eve. The test came. Did she stand?

"When Eve saw that the tree was good for food." The word "saw" in the original carries with it the idea of meditation and study; therefore, she came to the conclusion that the fruit was good. Hence, Eve deliberately violated the command of God, and induced her husband to partake with her. God visited Adam and Eve in the cool of the day—sought them as he does to-day when one turns from him. Adam tried to transfer the blame, first to Eve and finally to God, who gave her as his companion. Eve lays the blame on the crafty serpent that deceived her. Judgment is first pronounced on the serpent, then on Eve, and ultimately on Adam. The serpent is doomed to a low and groveling life, the woman must suffer and serve, and the man must toil and sweat. Possibly the reason God did not kill them as soon as they sinned was to show his mercy, kindness, long-suffering, and matchless love.

In order that we may be able to stand, we must put first things first. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." (Matt. 6: 33.) In the scripture just used it seems that Christ used the only solution of all vexing problems that have gathered about the relation of form and content. Christ was telling how "all these things" could be secured, and no one can secure them by attending to something else first.

God loves true manhood and true womanhood; a person whose soul is overflowing with love; one who loves his fellow man, no matter what his need; one who follows out the Golden Rule in thought and word and deed. The solution is to seek Christ, believe him, and obey him. In this way one becomes a Christian, and in Christ one will have the ability to stand. Hear Paul: "There hath no temptation taken you but such as man can bear: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation make also the way of escape, that ye may be able to endure it." (1 Cor. 10: 13.)

Let us understand what Christianity is. Christianity, as we understand it from Christ, appeals to the generous side of one's nature, and not to the selfish side. A man's Christianity does not consist in merely saving his own soul, but in sanctifying and purifying the lives of his fellow men. Christianity as we may term it is leaven, and "leaven" comes from the same root word as "lever," meaning that which raises up, which elevates; and a Christian is one who raises up or elevates the lives of those with whom he comes in contact. Can we stand when tried? Jesus is the founder of Christianity, and to be a Christian is to have that character for our ideal in life, to live under its influence, to do what he would wish for us to do; hence, there is nothing one wants for an ideal that is not found in the Lord Jesus. Christ will fit in with all human needs and call out that which is best in man. Moreover, he is the highest and the manliest character that ever lived.

God has done the best he could with the material with which he had to work. God is doing the best he can to-day with congregations throughout the world, considering the material. How is the material in the congregation with which you worship? Can it stand the test?

The aim of Christianity is to make the best people, and Christ wants to make the best world. He tries to make the best world by setting the best people loose upon the world to influence it and reflect him upon it. Brother, how is the material in you?

"Ask the Savior to help you,
Comfort, strengthen, and keep you:
He is willing to aid you,
He will carry you through."

FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER

The Indianapolis Cancer Hospital, Indianapolis, Ind., has published a booklet which gives interesting facts about the cause of cancer, also tells what to do for pain, bleeding, odor, etc. A valuable guide in the management of any case. Write for it to-day, mentioning this paper.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

FOR THE RELIEF OF

Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPIING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

SOLD 50 YEARS
A FINE GENERAL TONIC

$1000 For Your Spare Time!

Many ministers, teachers, farmers and merchants with willingness to work, are making this much and more per year selling our monuments in their spare time.

Responsible Men Only

We have some territory open for men who will interest customers in "Time-Proof" monuments and who can give us good references. We require no advance payment because we are confident the monument will please the customer. No investment. Commissions paid in cash.

Write us today for full particulars.

CONSUMERS' MONUMENT CO.

Box 49

BALL GROUND, GA.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

STATE BANK AND TRUST CO.
NASHVILLE, TENN.

BROADWAY BRANCH
Ninth and Broadway

4 Per Cent Interest Paid on Deposits

EXPERT DYEING AND DRY CLEANING

SEND BY PARCEL POST

"Over Forty Years"

Experience"

McEWEN'S LAUNDRY

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Gospel Advocate

Volume LXIV. No. 45.

NASHVILLE, TENN., NOVEMBER 9, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

Fields White Unto the Harvest.....	1057
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	1060
Will the Committees Meet?—Drawing Out Forces— “As a Thief in the Night”—Free Bible School.
Commending the Quarterlies.....	1064
EVANGELISTIC NOTES.....	1065
EDITORIAL.....	1066
Preach the Gospel to Every Creature—Amusements or Recreation—Prayer—“Our Plea.”
California Activities.....	1069
HOME READING.....	1070
TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT.....	1071
QUERY DEPARTMENT.....	1072
Evangelistic Report—Words of Commendation.....	1073
The Fanning Orphan School.....	1074
Getting the Most Out of Life.....	1075
By Way of Remembrance—From East Tennessee—The Covington-Cincinnati Work.....	1076
The Church Should Do Its Own Work.....	1078

FIELDS WHITE UNTO THE HARVEST.

[The following is an address delivered before the recent Congress of the Disciples of Christ in St. Louis, Mo. We are pleased to give it to our readers, believing that the teaching in general is good and will be read with much interest by all lovers of the truth.—EDITOR.]

Mr. Chairman, brothers and sisters in Christ, I consider it an honor to appear upon this program. Anything that has to do with the construction and reconstruction of New Testament churches is an honor to man and a blessing to God. As a movement, this Congress will be historic. Any event which champions the inspiration of the Holy Scriptures and the Lordship of Jesus Christ makes itself historic and forever blesses the work which it may foster.

A little boy was once asked by his teacher to write a theme of one thousand words. He appeared the next day with a paper entitled, “The World and All It Contains.” Here I stand this evening, having been called upon to discuss a subject which embraces every phase of missionary life. As we look out upon the world to-night, we see ripe fields bowing to us as grain awaiting the harvester—a field twenty-four thousand miles in circumference and stretching from east to west.

I have been puzzled to know just which phase of this subject to discuss, because all phases seem to be equal in importance. I may not say what you think I should, and that which might be the most timely for this occasion. Two Jews were crossing London Bridge, when suddenly Abie said to Isaac: “Isaac, I’ll bet you five dollars I can tell you what you are thinking about.” Isaac replied: “I’ll bet you five dollars you can’t.” “All right,” replied Abie. “It’s a go. You were thinking how you would go over to Liverpool and buy yourself a little store for thirty thousand dollars, and then have it insured for forty thousand dollars, and then collect the insurance and make ten thousand dollars.” “Well,” said Isaac, “here is your five dollars.” “O, I guessed it, didn’t I?” “No, you didn’t guess it, but the idea is worth the money.”

I only pray that something may be said that will help us to realize that our task as a people is not completed, but only begun.

I was born in the good old Badger State of Wisconsin, noted for its cows, logs, babbling brooks, Schlitz beer, and leather. My grandfather, Zachariah Smith, drove two cows from Sunday Creek, Ind., to the hills of Wisconsin. He cut logs six days in the week and became a pioneer preacher on Sunday, riding from schoolhouse to schoolhouse talking to people about God and heaven and Jesus and salvation. Later he was known for his galloping steed, which bore him from point to point over those hills where hungry souls eagerly awaited his coming.

My father grew up in that spirit, and has spent his life’s blood to win people for Christ. I’ll never forget the time, at Viroqua, when father said: “We will break bread here on the Lord’s day if only my family comes.” And then I’ll never forget the day that J. Harry Bullock reported over three hundred in the Viroqua Bible school.

I was born on Sunday while my father was conducting a Sunday school and leading a service in a dance hall. Night after night my parents kneeled beside the bed and prayed that, if it be a girl, she become a missionary of God’s holy word, and, if a boy, a preacher of the gospel, whose life’s ambition would be to plant churches after the New Testament order.

I grew up in the atmosphere of the pioneer. The desire to fight for and preach the gospel marked my life. Can you wonder that we men who are on the frontier become indignant when some of our conservative brethren say that there is no place for the pioneer, that the day of church planting is gone? I say to-night, brethren, that when God’s people cease to plant churches, God will cease to bless the churches that are already planted.

I never worshiped in a strong church. I thought the pipe organs were all owned by the Methodists and Presbyterians. When I reached the age of understanding, I discovered that we had but twenty-five small organizations in our great, progressive State of Wisconsin. As a young man, I was the only one in our mission church. I can remember when we were so low on men that, as a boy of fourteen, I stood at the Lord’s table, and mother passed the emblems. A few months ago the men’s class alone of that church enrolled seventy-five.

I have been called a water dog, fanatic, duck, dipper, and have even been accused of being a Christian Scientist. You men who minister for strong churches, old-established churches, may think that the denominations are real nice and courteous; but you just try to plant a New Testament church sometime, and they’ll ride you until you’ll think you are a second “Man of War.”

You brethren that think the reason you are with the church of Christ is because you were born in it, try to plant a church in a city grounded in sectarianism, and, before the first three months are past, you will know why you are what you are, or you won’t be it.

I can’t remember when I haven’t had to fight to hold my own and to defend the plea for which I have stood. That is why I am a pioneer! And, brethren, when the church of Christ can show its young men that the Christian ministry is a fight, not a profession, a race, not a sentence, they will stand in line awaiting their turn to enter fields of service.

O, beloved, the fight is not ended, the race is not won, the harvest has not been completed, until in every community has been planted a church which claims Christ as its only head and the Bible as its only book.

First. Among our ripe fields we think of unchristianized Africa and Asia, with their teeming millions, whose hungry souls must live and die without the bread of life unless men like Jacob Kenoly and Dr. Shelton try to reach them with the water of life and that message which is the light of the world. Our hearts go out to these brave men who stem the tide of heathenism to carry the light of the world to the black, the red, the yellow. I shall not dwell here, but shall leave the details to our great missionary heroes who come back to tell us of the needs and opportunities of these foreign fields.

Second. We come to our great, unchurched fields into which Christian people are moving, and, upon coming, find no church and no Christian influence. These people come to clear new lands, to drill for oil, or to dig for ore. They want a Bible school, a church, and the Bible; but what is the situation? They are divided religiously; some are Presbyterians, some Congregationalists, some Baptists, etc. If the Baptists try to organize, there are not enough Baptists. If the Presbyterians want to organize, there are not enough Presbyterians. That is what makes the field ripe for us. They all believe in the Bible; they all want to be Christians. None can object to the name "church of Christ." I know personally that in the great North and West churches can be organized as rapidly as the fields can be reached. A sectarian message will not touch these places. We are the only people who can carry a non-sectarian message and still be true to the gospel. Are we going to do it, or are we to be like sleeping giants? Are we going to allow the ripening grain to fall at our side? Please believe me, brethren, I am not building straw men or hay fields. I am talking about things I know, and, if challenged, I can produce a cloud of witnesses to maintain my point.

Third. Now, if I believed in a neutral gospel or was an exponent of general Christianity, my message would be ended; but, as it is, I have only begun. The next field I would mention is the town, the city where spires are lifted high, where crosses sparkle and denominationalism crowns the spiritual life of the community, stunts the growth of souls, hides the Bible from the people, and mocks at the New Testament church. This is a great battle field for our people, and by no means an unimportant one.

I am somewhat like our sainted J. V. Updike, who said: "If I went into a town where there was a church on every corner, and every boy, girl, man, and woman was a member of some church, I should consider it a ripe field for a New Testament church."

Right here, I want to say, brethren, that we have a message as a people. We were not born as illegitimates. We came into this world for a very definite purpose. It is a cowardly people who are afraid to preach the things for which they stand. If what we stand for is true, every one should know it; if not, every one should know it. If we do not have a peculiar and unique message, it is immoral for us to exist.

We come to such gatherings as this, and we listen to masterful addresses, and applaud when they are completed, and then we go home and hesitate to preach the plea for fear we shall offend some denominational brother. I say to you that a kind and earnest effort to present a conviction invariably wins respect. If not in all cases, you have the blessed satisfaction of preaching the truth. (Of course, I must confess, folks, that if a man preaches the gospel, even in a kind way, and puts it good and plain, he is liable to have the painful experience of baptizing a few Methodists, Presbyterians, or Lutherans. Bless their dear hearts, isn't it too bad!)

I remember one time up in Wisconsin one of our preachers held a meeting at Sugar Grove. About three miles away was a Methodist Church, considered one of the strongest rural churches in the vicinity. Many of the members of this congregation attended the meeting at the Christian Church. The last week of the meeting about thirty of the membership went to the minister of the Methodist Church and asked him to baptize them. At first he scoffed at them, then rebuked them, and tried, in the usual way, to explain the idea out of their minds. They replied by saying: "Well, brother, if you do not care to do this, we know the Christian minister will." That brought things to a head, and within twenty-four hours the presiding elder was called, a house tank was filled with warm water, and the Methodist minister was grateful to think that he had held thirty of his members. We can do a whole lot to make the sectarians behave, if we will only preach the truth. I know of one denominational preacher who says that he would not accept a pastorate in a town where there was a Christian Church, because, wherever he had ministered in a community with a Christian Church, he had been troubled in maintaining doctrinal harmony in his congregation.

Whether or not you remember me or my message after to-night makes little difference to me; but I do hope you remember that it was said by some one that the ripest field for the Restoration Movement is in and around sectarian strongholds.

I will state briefly my reasons for this position:

First. The denominations generally are not exalting Christ as the head of the church. They have lifted high the names of men and creeds, disciplines and dogmas. They are enslaving themselves to the machinery of organizations, and have put last things first and first things last. The ambitions of these sectarian people center in conferences, synods, bishops, and moderators. They call themselves after men and put Christ last. This is a sin, brethren, that is eating the very heart of the spiritual life of a nation and a people. Do we dare wink at these things? No! We must remember that Christ spoke the truth when he said: "I am the way, the truth, and the life. If I be lifted up, I will draw all men unto me." The magnitude of his love and the magnetism of his personality will not manifest itself unless we give him the praise and give him the glory. (Here I wish to state that we must remember that Alexander Campbell was not the founder of the Christian Church. Neither did he organize a body known as "Disciples of Christ." He merely glorified the church which was built by Christ.) Until the denominations denounce men as the founders of the church, and pay allegiance only to Christ, they are material for us to work on.

Second. In many, if not most, cases the denominations are not giving their people soul-feeding and soul-satisfying messages. By that, I mean the people are not being fed. They wait for bread, and are given crumbs. They call for something to quench their thirst, and they are given dish-water.

I know a Congregational preacher who read a paper in a ministerial meeting in Janesville, Wis., to prove that Jesus was the illegitimate son of an adulterous Mary. Isn't that awful, brethren? When he had finished, the Christian minister—Brother Marion—said: "Do you preach that to your people?" He replied by saying: "No, not just now; they are not quite able to bear it. But I allow that within another couple of years they will be able to stand it." Before God, brethren, I hope we will never reach the place where we will swallow anything like that! I was glad to hear Mr. Bryan say, a few weeks later, from this man's pulpit: "I want the pastor of this church, before he preaches another sermon, to be honest with these people and tell them that he came from an ape."

Such preaching is plentiful. In many cities it rules the life of the churches. Such conditions merely ripen the field for us. Such preaching reminds me of an old brother who was not just as bright as he should be. He was the subject of fun-making in the community. One day one of the boys told him that if he would work it right, he could teach his horse "Ned" to live as well on sawdust as oats. This interested Tom, and so he tried it by giving "Ned" first a handful of sawdust with a gallon of oats, and then a gallon of sawdust with a handful of oats. A few weeks later one of the boys met Tom on the street and said: "Well, Tom, have you taught 'Ned' to eat sawdust?" "Well," replied Tom, "just as I got him taught, the old nag died."

This Janesville preacher is feeding his people sawdust, and just about as he has them trained to eat it, their souls and spiritual natures will be dead. Is it any wonder that Janesville was ripe for the planting of a church of Christ, which, in a short time, has outgrown a tabernacle and is now in the first unit of a seventy-five-thousand-dollar building? L. L. Marion, the minister, has received over one hundred and seventy-five in the last year into membership who have confessed that Jesus Christ was not the illegitimate son of the adulterous Mary, but the Son of God. That's the only confession that will safeguard our faith, and when we lose that we are out of business.

Our cities and towns are filled with preachers of sectarian churches who are talking about everything else but the Bible, everybody else but Christ, and exalting every institution but the church. Their people come and sit and wait, their souls hungry for the bread of life, and go away unfed. They hear book reviews as preachers try to explain the psychological motives of Harold Bell Wright or the reading value of a novel written by Gene Stratton Porter. Though the spires of their meetinghouses point toward heaven, they fail to light the way and lighten the burden of weary souls.

Hungry souls are not created. They are not the result of habit. Hungry souls are as natural as hungry stomachs, and the only food that will satisfy, the only water that will quench, is the simple gospel of Jesus Christ.

As we survey these fields for service and consider their ripeness, the question is not how many edifices are there in the city, but are the people being taught what Jesus meant that they should know when he said: "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel." If not, that city is a ripe field for a New Testament church.

Third. The third reason why I should name denominational strongholds as ripe fields is because, in many instances, the sectarian churches are making no appeal to the man outside, but depend upon birth rate for the increase in membership. The fallacy of this practice has ever been reflected upon many of our churches of Christ, and, in many instances, I know that the only baptisms are those of children who have grown up in the Sunday school. I will not belittle the value of early training, but I am here to say that Christ is a Savior. His message is for sinful men. He is for women who commit adultery. He is for men who are drunken. He is for boys who steal. He is for the infidel and the skeptic. But the trouble with so many of our churches to-day is that we dodge these people. We want respectable folks. We ask if they are substantial before we send our committee to interview them. Some one says: "O, you are just after numbers." To be sure, I am after numbers. The more people I can get to accept Jesus Christ and take him into their lives, the more souls have been saved. O, our pool rooms, our lodge rooms, our streets, our business places, are filled with good folks who are going toward hell! The average denominational church is not touching them. The field is ripe for us. We have the message. We can save men who need him most.

As Paul converted the legal-minded Jew under the law, and the heathen Greek, with his wisdom, by his fearless preaching and teaching, so we must go into the fields where these religious forces are not calling upon men to accept Christ and lead them to the foot of the cross.

In Beloit, Wis., a progressive city of twenty-two thousand, where I happen to minister, I am the only minister who gives the gospel invitation, and, since that church was organized, only eight Lord's days have passed without some one confessing Jesus Christ. There are ten thousand people that do not belong to any church, and never did. That is not a rare instance. Our country is full of such cities. I could name fifty or so for you if you wanted me to.

The president of the City Federation told us, when he surveyed the field, that the place was "overchurched." We discovered that it was overmeetinghoused and overdenominationalized, but underchurched and undergospelled. Is it any wonder, in such a ripe field, that our church has grown from nothing to over three hundred in eight months, and our Bible school, beginning with twenty-five, enrolls over three hundred and fifty?

Fourth. Now, you may think I am spending a little time on this special field of service, but the thing I am discussing right now is not accepted by many folks. The debated issues are those that require the time. Conceded issues require no time.

My next reason for believing that denominational strongholds are ripe fields for churches of Christ is because contained within their ranks are thousands who believe just as we do, but do not know that we exist as a people.

I have explained our position to scores of men and women as I have met them on the train, on the street, in their homes, and, when I would finish, they would say: "Why, Brother Smith, I have always believed that way, but I never knew there were people who stood for that same thing." "I was raised a Lutheran, a Methodist, a Presbyterian, etc., but I never could understand the reason for a lot of things they do." And there is no one who makes a better, a truer, plain disciple of Christ than the man or woman who voluntarily frees self from the bonds of man-made religion and the nauseating effects of predigested faith.

The hundreds of cities where we have not entered are filled with people who have their names on the books of sectarian churches who are ready to relish and embrace the message of the New Testament church.

Fifth. Again, we have in our cities and towns, where there are only denominational churches, large numbers of people who have been Christians only in some other place and are hungry for a church home, with its communion services, its invitations, and the homelike spirit which is common among our people. We have, in practically every city of any size, enough good people to make a charter membership around which to work. Hardly a week passes that I do not receive appeals saying: "We have a number of people in our community who were plain Christians elsewhere. We are so sick of the shallowness of the preaching we have here. Can't you help us to organize a church and come and preach for us occasionally?" We have at least fifty cities in the North and West with not less than one hundred in each place for some one to rally together and to review to them the faith of their past years and to plant a church.

The pessimist says: "Where are these fields? Show us!"

In Wisconsin alone we have at least twenty cities of over five thousand which we have never entered—Oshkosh, Racine, Superior, Madison, La Crosse, are all over thirty thousand. In these cities are hundreds and thousands who will hear our message gladly, and hundreds who have come from other States, where they have been members of churches of Christ.

Then, we have the great cut-over lands that are just being opened—thousands of acres. Just as quickly as those stumps are pulled—and they are being pulled—it will mean to Wisconsin just what the tilling enterprise has meant to the great garden fields of Illinois, and just what irrigation has meant to the great West. There is plenty of room for seventy-five missions in this cut-over territory alone. Every train that comes is bringing new families, and the beauty of it is that they are coming from the States where we are strong—Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and Missouri.

The condition is the same in Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan.

It rouses me so that it makes my blood run cold and then hot! Are we afraid to try it? Has our faith gone? Could you afford to do without your home church? Just as you cannot afford to lose your home church in your home community, our communities cannot afford to do without churches of Christ.

Then, some one says: "How about preachers? Where are they coming from?" They are coming from your church and mine. They will come from all the churches so fast that we cannot take care of them just as quickly as our brotherhood sees the vision. It is hard to get folks to join a fire department, but you always find a big crowd at a fire. We have to show our youth that something is going on. Too many of our youths grow up to think that the church is just a sort of a habit, rather than the divine institution which represents Christ.

And then you will find that, in terms of preachers, these new churches will more than pay their own way. The last three churches organized in Wisconsin have given eleven boys for Bible college and for the ministry. When you bring a young man out of sectarianism, he not only believes, but he is so on fire with the truth of it all that he wants to preach it.

You say, perhaps: "Brother Smith, are we going to plant new churches while we have pastorless churches?" Yes, because we shall always have pastorless churches. Suppose that our land should decree that we should not have a single wedding until all our old maids were married. It would cut in our marriage record somewhat.

Do not worry, brethren. It may be hard to raise a big standing army; but when war is declared, volunteers stand in line. When the youth of our land realize that we have declared war—when the spirit of fight, win, conquer, permeates the Christian world—we can laugh as we remember the problem we made out of the shortage of preachers.

As the Savior, with bleeding brow, still prays for a united church, the apostle Paul still cries: "Is Christ divided?" The Macedonian call still rings. We cannot dodge the issue.

We who are on the frontier face the same things that Campbell and Stone faced. The issues are identical. If we fail, the spirits of our fathers will haunt us.

I look yonder to Flanders field as fighting Yanks march toward victory. I hear the roar of cannon and the whiz of shot and shell. I see men fall and bleed and die, but as they die they murmur to those who come up: "Carry on! Carry on!" And as I labor in the vineyard of my Lord, as I fight the good fight, I feel the presence of ancient spirits and hear the voice of a Pentecostal Peter, a martyred Paul—yea, even Jesus Christ—saying unto me: "Carry on! Carry on!"—Gerald L. K. Smith, in Christian Standard.

Will the Committees Meet?

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

It will be remembered that I criticized in the Gospel Advocate of October 26 a circular by Brother John B. Cowden, the concluding paragraph of which reads as follows:

In conclusion, we were forced into this discussion of the church-music question against our judgment and attitude in the past; but being forced into it, we will have to be forced out, or at least, like the apostle Paul, whom the authorities sought to release secretly and quietly from prison, be given an honorable discharge. To this end we proceed with our part of the arrangements for this discussion by announcing, as promised, the time and place. Beginning at the Ryman Auditorium, Nashville, sometime in October or November (the exact date to be determined and published through the papers) and continuing at other places in the State where the committee decides it to be wise, we will, the Lord willing, affirm our practice on the church-music question, and all the people interested in this question are cordially invited to attend.

For truth and unity,

JOHN B. COWDEN.

With the approval of the other members of the committee.

It will be noticed that the brother says: "We were forced into this discussion of the church-music question against our judgment and attitude in the past." It is a pity for any one to go into anything against his judgment; but, if my judgment is correct on this matter, these brethren have not yet entered a discussion. All of this has been preliminary to the discussion, and I am sure Brother Cowden so understands it, because he says: "To this end we proceed with our part of the arrangements for this discussion by announcing, as promised, the time and place." This all in the face of the fact that no proposition had been agreed to by the committees. The brother evidently made short work of it, but this may be accounted for by the fact that, as stated by him, they went into it against their judgment. It seems to me that they not only went into it against their judgment, but they are trying to go in without any judgment. Who ever heard of announcing the place, the time (October or November), and inviting the people out to hear a discussion, and no proposition agreed on? He says himself the committees did not agree, but they are going to have a discussion, anyway. He must still be going against his judgment, because there is very little judgment in what he proposes to do. But after my quiet criticism of the dear brother's hasty decision to have a discussion all by himself, he wrote the following note to one of the members of our committee:

West Nashville, Tenn., October 26, 1922.—H. Leo Boles, City.—Dear Brother Boles: I have been out of the city since the church-music discussion, and on my return I found you out. In answer to your inquiry the last night of the discussion as to when we desired a meeting of the committees to perfect the arrangements for other discussions, I write to state again that we are ready any time that suits your convenience. Yours very truly,

JOHN B. COWDEN.

When I read this note to Brother Boles from Brother Cowden, I thought to myself: "Well, the brother has come to himself and is clothed in his right mind, and perhaps something sensible can be done." So Brother Boles, with the knowledge and consent of our committee, wrote the following reply:

Nashville, Tenn., October 27, 1922.—Mr. John B. Cowden, West Nashville, Tenn.—Dear Brother: You will find in the issue of October 26, of the Gospel Advocate, a reply to your circular letter distributed at the close of the Walker-Hall discussion. I refer you to this as an answer to your circular. In that you announced that you were going to have a discussion. I call your attention to the fact that when Brother Srygley closed your and his exchange of statements in the Gospel Advocate about your indorsement of O. E. Payne's book and refusal to defend its conclusions, he stated to you that this was all that he had asked of you, and since you refused your and his discussion must end, but that you could call the committees together and see if they could agree on some other proposition. But you called no committees together and have proceeded to announce a debate when there was no agreement between the committees and when even our committee was not consulted. I suggest, therefore, that you proceed with your one-sided discussion as you have announced it. It is well to state, however, that if you wish to rescind that announcement or retract it, our committee is ready to meet your committee, provided you are willing to affirm that instrumental music in Christian worship is authorized by the New Testament, or "playing an instrument is scriptural in Christian worship."

Our committee stands ready to meet your committee at any convenient time and place, if you mean business and will affirm either of the above propositions. We are patiently waiting for and confidently hoping to hear that you are ready or will be ready at an early date.

Yours fraternally,

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY.

BY H. LEO BOLES.

This put the question on proper and sane grounds, and Brother Cowden had the opportunity of saying that he had acted hastily in the matter and was, therefore, willing to retract his announcement of a one-sided debate and let the committees see if they could not get together and agree on a proposition which set out exactly the issue between them in harmony with the statements of Brethren Cowden, J. B. Briney, and the editor of the Standard in their indorsement of O. E. Payne's book.

Brother Cowden says: "We will have to be given an honorable discharge." I am sorry I am not able to do it unless he will agree to defend what he said about O. E. Payne's book or retract it, one or the other. He said of Payne's book: "Your book on the church-music question is the most exhaustive, thorough, and convincing treatise of the subject, or indeed of any other subject, I ever read." And O. E. Payne in this same book says: "We must unite in agreeing that if we forego musical instruments we cannot conform to the divine injunction to psallein." Then Brother J. B. Briney said of Payne's book: "The author aims to prove that instrumental music in Christian worship is scriptural; and when I say his effort is a complete success, I state the case conservatively." The Christian Standard said of the same book: "The result is an overwhelming conviction that not only was instrumental music allowed in the worship, but it was positively enjoined." After all of this, how could I give him an honorable discharge when he will not agree to affirm that "the Scriptures teach instrumental music in the worship of God?" No, Brother John, if I have to discharge you under these conditions without a discussion, I could not give you an honorable discharge. You owe it to the public to either agree to this proposition or repudiate your own words, what O. E. Payne said about his book, J. B. Briney's statement about it, and the editorial in the Standard indorsing the same book.

In reply to our committee's last letter, Brother Cowden sent the following:

West Nashville, Tenn., October 29, 1922.—H. Leo Boles, City.—Dear Brother Boles: Your letter of recent date received; and if it expresses the reason for your inquiry for another meeting of the committee, I think that it would be useless to have another. However, if your committee think otherwise, we are ready to meet with you as soon as I can get ours together.

The fact to which you call my attention is not a fact at all. Brother Srygley asked me to find a man to affirm the practice of the churches using instruments, and this is all that he asked me to do; and he said nothing whatever about our affirming the conclusions of O. E. Payne's book, and he so stated to the committees at Vine Street Church when I appealed to him on this point; and, besides, his proposition was published in the Advocate and cannot be denied, if he were disposed to do so. You know all this as well as I do; and how you can state that all that was asked of me was to affirm this book is more than I can see, with due credit to yourself for stating things as they are. As long as you are disposed to hedge and dodge thus, it would be useless for us to meet again and thresh over these old matters that have nothing whatever to do with the discussion proposed and accepted.

I have nothing whatever to rescind. I am only proposing to do what I agreed to do—namely, furnish a man to affirm our practice. I could not rescind this and maintain my self-respect. It may be a one-sided discussion, as you suggest. I cannot make you people do what you agreed to do—namely, deny our practice. If your conscience and self-respect do not force you to do this, it is useless to bring any other influence to bear. We have announced the time and place for the discussion. That sounds like we mean business, does it not? And I think that we will live up to the sound. We have no disposition to force you into a discussion—this you can do or not do as you see fit; but there is one thing sure, you people will have to meet us in this discussion or stand for your refusal to do as you agreed.

However, there is a way to save you this embarrassment, which I have not considered until now. I wanted to give you every opportunity to do the fair thing yourself, but I now feel free to turn to others. Several of your brethren opposing the use of the instrument have said to me that if you people did not get a man to debate this question with us, they would. You have convinced me that you do not intend to do so, so I turn to them with hopes of finding some one that will deny our practice.

Yours very truly, with every good wish and will,

JOHN B. COWDEN.

The brother says: "The fact you call my attention to is not a fact at all." I do not see how one could call attention to a fact that is not a fact. The brother must be again going against his judgment. But he says I asked him to find a man that would affirm the practice of churches using instruments. Yes, but I evidently meant using instruments in the worship. I do not know why the brother cannot see that. I am interested in what you practice in worship. Brother Cowden says, speaking of me: "He said nothing about our affirming the conclusions of O. E. Payne's book." That is enough to discourage me, when I have said all the time that they ought to affirm O. E. Payne's conclusion in his book or repudiate the book and their indorsement of it. I have said it so often that I was afraid it would get monotonous, and yet he says I never said anything about it, and actually tries to prove it by me. If you understand the Bible as poorly as you do me, I can begin to see why you do not know whether it teaches instrumental music in the worship of God or not.

He says they are going to have a discussion whether there is any proposition or not. Well, that would be a one-sided discussion without an opponent. All right, if that is the kind of a discussion you want, I will carry on one in another part of the city, and I will be telling my audience that you practice the use of instrumental music in the worship and that there is no scriptural authority for it; and I will tell them, too, that you had the chance to affirm that "instrumental music in Christian worship is scriptural," and that you would not do it. Now, go on with your one-sided debate, and I will continue to try to show that the use of instruments in worship as practiced by your church should be affirmed or abandoned.

The brother says there is a way to save us from embarrassment, and he in kindness offers the suggestion. I do not want to impugn the brother's motive, but I cannot help having the feeling that he would like to see us embarrassed. But do not worry about me, for I am not at all timid; but if I should get embarrassed, I will not blush like a maiden. The brother says that several of my brethren who oppose the use of the instrument have said to him that if we do not get a man to debate this question, they will. I did not know I had a brother who opposed the use of an instrument of music. I am sure I do not, but I do oppose the use of an instrument in the worship. But I know I have some brethren who oppose instruments in worship that are so anxious for a debate on this question that they would almost deny anything you would affirm on the subject, but I do not happen to be of that class. Then, I have some brethren who are in perfect accord with us, and they with us want a debate on the subject of instrumental music in Christian worship; and since you brethren have committed yourselves, in your indorsement of O. E. Payne's book, to the theory that the idea of an instrument is in the meaning of the word which is translated in our Bibles "to sing," we are going to continue to insist that you should affirm it in debate or repudiate it, even if we must be a little embarrassed over the matter.

Charles H. Spurgeon reckoned as the highest compliment ever paid him the words of an open enemy who said: "Here is a man who has not moved an inch forward in all his ministry, and at the close of the nineteenth century is teaching the theology of the first century, and is proclaiming the doctrine of Nazareth and Jerusalem current eighteen hundred years ago."—Exchange.

Drawing Out Forces.

BY JOHN ALLEN HUDSON.

If one is taken from an ordinary world with its associations and opportunities and placed in a new relationship, the adjustment is at first slow and to some extent painful; but as time wears on and the roughest places are smoothed, the adjustment comes easier. After Rip Van Winkle had been either drunk or asleep for twenty years in the Catskill Mountains, as the story is told by Washington Irving, he returned to a community that he had known in the past, where he had lived and had his friends. But it was another place to him. There had to be a readjustment for him. All the forces of his life had to be changed to meet the new conditions. If I were a muleteer of the period of '59, when wagon trains were crossing to the great desert country of the Southwest to get some of the new-found gold in California, and were taken quite suddenly from the treeless and homeless prairies and placed in the Oklahoma City of this period, perhaps I would be a mark for your eyes. All of my life forces would have to be organized to meet the changed conditions.

A wonderful repository of beauties, an Aladdin's palace, with its sweet, inviting aspect, will change the thought and habits of almost any person. The Norseman's Valhalla and the Indian's Nirvana have changed the thoughts and habits of multiplied thousands. The vision of a mansion, one that bespeaks elegance, sweetness, refinement, even luxury, has brought out the latent energy of many. Fame has inspired as many hearts and fanned their energies into flame as the magic wand of wealth has ever touched. It is the vision that the heart gets that leads it on.

The most wonderful world ever opened to the view of man is opened through the word of God. In the far distance, lying out on the evergreen hills of life, there is a wonderful garden. The roses there excel the fragrance and beauty of the century plant, of the rose of Sharon, the narcissus. The shrubbery is more lovely than the California privet or any Japanese hedge plants. The trees outstrip the glory of the trees of Lebanon. And back in the network of beauty is the mansion. It is all a divine dream such as no man ever had. It is the home that God has prepared; and, of course, as Shelley sang, there is a casement open at night to let the warm love in.

God has pilots in this world. These pilots go out into the byways and hedges, take wandering vagabonds by the hand, lead them to the gates of those fair grounds, the gates of that garden, take the great treasure key, God's word, unlock those gates, take the great duo-made key and unlock the mansion doors and let the wandering vagabonds peep in. Divine vision! Enraptured spectators! The vision once caught, those vagabonds seek to wash their robes white in the blood of the Lamb, that they may enter into that mansion and enjoy its elegance, its supreme splendor, its deep and abiding quiet and peace.

I know of the Vale of Podandus through the works of Ramsey; I know of the pictured Utopia through the writing of Sir Thomas Moore; I know of the gallantry and the idiocy of knights-errant through Cervantes; and I know of the paradise of God through his word. I would never have dreamed, in my wildest vagaries, of a place so beautiful had he not told me. God's word is the great key that unlocks the mystic storehouse of the great Beyond. The vision that he has given me will change my thoughts and life.

"According as his divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, through the knowledge of him that hath called us to glory and virtue: whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises; that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust." (2 Pet. 1: 3, 4.)

Ordinarily a beautiful world is not given to us by rubbing a magic lamp, a manor is not erected overnight by some obedient spirit. We are leaving the poetic now for the cold, stubborn fact. One does not embark, as did the Lady of Shalott in her tragic canoe, and sleep peacefully until the port of God is reached. He must be wide-awake, a worker, a doer. But if he has caught the vision and it has inspired him as God meant it should, he will work.

O, that one might drift—sweetly, serenely drift! If with a lassitude of energy that equals death, if with a tranquillity as smooth as the surface of a sea of glass, I could reach heaven, then God would not need to invite me. But he has said otherwise. We must work "while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work." (John 9: 4.)

Not only must a man work, have a work to his credit, but he must have an approved work. God will try it by fire. "Every man's work shall be made manifest: for the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is." (1 Cor. 3: 13.) The work of dross shall be consumed. God reckons as dross, or chaff, frivolity, fickleness.

"He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son. But the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake that burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death." (Rev. 21: 7, 8.)

The whole life force is changed by the vision. Let us hold and keep that vision. The one who holds it will be found faithful when Jesus comes to make up his jewels. God help us to be faithful!

God does more than to give the vision. He organizes the forces of one's life. If the pilgrim is in danger of straying from the path plain and beaten, God's word shines unto him. (2 Cor. 4: 4.) He is called back. If he is liable to dip his hands in filth and lay that filth to his heart, God says to him: "My grace is sufficient; do it not."

Every righteous latent force is quickened. God means by the term "quickened" to convey the idea of calling out the inactive reserved forces of the heart by appealing to that heart with the strong appeal of love and getting it to fortify its borders with its strong fighting forces. Its virtue, its knowledge, its faith, its brotherly love, its temperance, its patience, its godliness—these are its forces. God calls them out by his word. They are in man. God calls them out by touching them with his magic power, his word. "Thy word hath quickened me," said the Psalmist.

"As a Thief in the Night."

BY O. C. LAMBERT.

In rotating, the earth carries us completely around the circle represented by its circumference every twenty-four hours. Thus we are moving at the incredible rate of nearly twenty miles a minute; but this is a snail's pace when compared with the rapidity with which we are being hurled from an eternity past to an eternity future. Our brief stay on earth is variously represented in the Bible: sometimes, as the grass and the flower thereof; sometimes, as a tale that is told; and, again, it is like a shadow. We begin to die on the day of our birth, and scarcely put away our swaddling clothes until our hair begins to gray. Then it is an ache, a pain, a fever, a fall. It is glasses to aid our failing sight and a staff for our palsied knees. Before we have learned how to live, the light of life flickers, the brittle thread is snapped asunder, the golden bowl is broken. The grim reaper is no respecter of persons. The king on his throne and the peasant in his hovel are alike helpless before him. The prepared and the unprepared, the wheat and the tares, fall alike before his flying sickle. This unwelcome visitor calls the farmer in the midst of his daily tasks, at his knock the artisan must lay down his chisel, the great business man must leave despite his half-finished plans. He is the grim and merciless constable who ushers unwilling offenders into the presence of the Judge of all the earth. You cannot make bond for appearance later. You cannot bribe him, and all your tears and your fears and your promises move him not.

Usually we are very prodigal in the way we squander the precious moments in which to prove ourselves, and suddenly it dawns upon us that we are over the hill. We look back with a remorseful feeling at a youth gone by half lived. The unwelcome truth fastens itself upon us that nature is hastening with gigantic strides toward the hour of dissolution, when we must enter an untried, unseen country.

There is no better way to see the ravages of time than to pay a visit to your childhood home. Everything is changed—the houses, the roads, the fields, the people, the graveyard. The strongest man of that day is impotent now. One by one you call the roll at school; and some are in distant lands, but most of them are gone to the country from which no traveler returns. Your old neighbors have vanished like the dew of the morning. You inquire for the man who toiled and schemed to be rich, and he is gone, and everything around is as though he had never lived. The old mill where once you carried your weekly "turn" is tumbled down, the dam is washed away. The familiar wooden haunts which once held you in their witchery by the hour have been rudely stripped for new farms, and the old farms are overgrown with briars. Your heart is made sad to find that you are now a stranger in what was once home. You are forced to steal away to the cliffs and gulfs and untouched hills—away from the habitations of men—to breathe out your sorrow to the only One who changeth not. This is about the only experience that brings the old-time thrill. Truly the inspired poet lamented: "Man, that is born of a woman, is of few days, and full of trouble!" No wonder he exclaimed: "My days are swifter than a weaver's shuttle!"

Yet, with all this, men and women act just as though they would always be well, would always be young, and would never "go the way of all the earth." People build houses to shelter them from the rain and lay up food for winter. They lay hold of the God-given means to provide against the disasters and misfortunes that would affect their bodies, to the total neglect of their souls. We could not find it in our hearts to look on without concern and see men's bodies in peril. Let us remember that "he who converteth a sinner from the error of his way shall save a soul from death, and shall cover a multitude of sins."

Free Bible School.

BY EARNEST C. LOVE.

The church of Christ in Danville, Ill., will hold a free Bible school, the Lord willing, beginning on December 11 and continuing three months. The whole Bible will be read and discussed, chapter by chapter. No tuition will be charged, and board and lodging can be had at actual cost, which will not be over thirty dollars a month.

The basement of the meetinghouse will be at the disposal of out-of-town pupils; and if any care to use it, they might reduce expenses thereby. Regular school hours will be kept—that is, from 9 A.M. till 4 P.M. Monday will be the weekly holiday instead of Saturday.

The writer is to be in charge of the school, assisted by preachers and elders who may be present. Every one will be encouraged to ask and answer questions and make remarks calculated to bring out the full meaning of every passage.

There are many who cannot possibly avail themselves of this opportunity to study the whole Bible under such favorable circumstances. There are also many who could easily do so if they desired. Having taught these schools for eight years, I feel it my duty to urge those who can do so to make arrangements to attend. The testimony of those who have attended in the past indicates that one is justified in making any reasonable sacrifice in order to get the benefit of this school. As special attention will be given to prophecies and Old Testament types and symbols, even preachers may find much to interest them.

For particulars, address Earnest C. Love, Danville, Ill.

Gospel Advocate Company.

BY H. LEO B.

Many splendid books are published and handled at this office. Good, religious books should be kept in each home. They have a refining influence on the young. Their educational value cannot be overestimated. The Gospel Advocate Company would like to help you educate your family by introducing good books to your library. "Evenings with the Bible" is a fine book to develop piety and spirituality, as well as very instructive. "The People's New Testament with Notes" is very helpful to Bible students. Here is a list that should be in every home. How many of them have you?

"Center Shots at Sin. By Arthur Talmage Abernethy. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

An arsenal of religious ammunition, assembled by a strategist experienced in fighting uphill. The author is a strong and virile thinker; his style, clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eye-opener.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume I. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

The gospel is always attractive when presented by W. H. Book. These sermons were not written in a study, but were stenographically reported as the burning words were uttered by the master preacher, under the inspiration of the great audience which flocks to hear him every week.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume II. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

A companion volume to the author's first book of sermons. Reported in the same way and published because of the unusual demand the first volume created.

"Sermons for the People." By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

Few books of sermons combine the qualities of interest, instruction, and inspiration to the degree in which they are united in this volume. The author is a master in the field of popular sermonizing, and some of his best work is to be found in this collection. There is not a dull page in the book. The text fairly sparkles with original and apt narratives.

"Lights on Scripture Truths." (Former title, "Side Windows.") By Mattie M. Boteler. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.

A valuable ready-reference compendium of original, forceful and apt illustrations for the busy preacher, Sunday-school teacher, and religious worker. The striking originality and practical usefulness of each illustration puts this volume in a class all by itself. A carefully prepared topical index and alphabetically arranged table of contents add greatly to its usefulness. Its distinct value is that the author has followed the example of the great Teacher in illustrating profound truths by examples familiar to all. "I found one illustration that was well worth the price of the book." (S. M. Bernard.)

"The Indiana Pulpit." Edited by W. H. Cook. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

This series of twenty-two practical sermons, each discourse being the best one preached by as many leading Indiana preachers, presents vital Christianity in a most attractive way. "'The Indiana Pulpit' will be especially helpful to young preachers. The topics are varied and the discourses are from men of learning and experience. It will make each who reads it better, and it will strengthen the faith of all who carefully peruse its pages." (George A. Miller.)

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Commending the Quarterlies.

We are gratified on account of the enthusiastic reception given our Quarterlies. Words of commendation have come from all parts of the country, and the orders are larger than ever before at this season. Please understand that we give every order prompt attention, mailing the Quarterlies the same day the order is received. Read what the brethren have to say:

I am well pleased with the Intermediate and Primary Quarterlies. They will prove very helpful to Bible students. (James H. Aiken.)

I have received and examined sample copies of your Quarterlies and am well pleased with them. I hardly see how they could be improved. (C. W. Sewell.)

I have received the sample copies of the Bible-school literature. I like it. I like the way the lessons are arranged. The best way to show it is to use it. Our order is on its way. (J. H. Hines.)

The three Quarterlies came duly, and I have looked them through hastily, and my judgment is that the world and the church would be greatly benefited by the reading of them. (A. Ellmore.)

I have just examined the new literature, and think the arrangement is splendid and the comments are excellent. There is no reason why a great deal cannot be learned by the right use of it. (H. M. Phillips.)

I received the Quarterlies and have looked over same. They are true to Brother Smith's characteristic way of presenting a matter, and I feel sure that he who studies the same will appreciate the splendid comments made. (N. B. Hardeman.)

I received the Quarterlies and have given them a brief examination. I can safely say they are good. If they are judiciously used and not abused, they will be of much benefit to those who use them. We have confidence in the ability and integrity of the men who prepare the comments. (D. T. Broadus.)

I am glad to note the many improvements made in the Quarterlies. Fewer words and to the point evidently was the aim of the authors. I consider them by far the best helps I have seen for class use. They are most excellent, and I wish to commend them to the brethren. Both the authors and the publishers are to be congratulated. (Samuel I. Jones.)

I have read with much interest the Quarterlies. Knowing the brethren who wrote them, I expected much. I am not disappointed, but delighted. All the churches should have their supply on hands early, and have enough not only "to go around," but for new members to be enlisted in the classes. The comments upon the lessons are true to the Book. (A. G. Freed.)

I have received copies of the Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary Quarterlies. I have examined these, and pronounce them excellent. Brethren Smith and Srygley, who prepared these Quarterlies, did good work, and it shall praise them. I think that the congregations will continue to use these Bible Lesson Helps, and that they will be pleased with these brethren as editors. (John T. Smithson.)

I received the Quarterlies, and must say the lessons are true to the sacred writings and show that they were prepared by men who have imbibed the inspiration of the prophets and apostles. No truer teaching was ever promulgated than that which the former Quarterlies by Brother Elam bore, and it is clear that the present lessons are up to the high standard of those by him. (Flavil Hall.)

The samples of literature have been received and examined, and the work is found most excellent. You are to be congratulated upon your success in selecting such able men to edit these helps. The improvement in the arrangement and the character of the work in general are sure to meet with the approval of all. It is predicted that the brotherhood generally will receive this action with pleasure. (R. D. Smith.)

I have examined your Quarterly and am well pleased with it. I am pleased that it is a Quarterly rather than an annual, as a Quarterly will be used by so many more children. Then I am pleased with the general form of the comments. I am sure that not only the Gospel Advocate, but the writers of the comments, deserve thanks for their efforts to furnish a faithful Sunday-school Quarterly. God bless every effort to teach the word. (W. P. Skaggs.)

I have received sample copies of literature. I am very much pleased with the arrangement and treatment of the series of lessons in the Old Testament. The comments and explanatory notes are pointed and practical. Such helps, if properly used, will stimulate a greater interest in Bible study wherever they are circulated. To get sound teaching continually before the minds of the rising generation is the greatest work that can engage our attention. (John D. Evans.)

I have examined the three Quarterlies, and am glad to say that I find them to be in that high grade that the literature you have formerly sent out has ever maintained, both in the mechanical work and editorial strength. The very fact that F. W. Smith edits the Advanced Quarterly and F. B. Srygley the Primary and Intermediate should be commendation enough as to the soundness and clearness of the doctrine taught in them. I wish them a large circulation. (S. H. Hall.)

I received the Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary Quarterlies you recently sent me, and I like them fine. I had so much confidence in the ability and loyalty of F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley that I had already advised churches where I had been to buy them and had assured them they would be all right. I am an earnest advocate of "helps" in the study of God's word, and I believe your Quarterlies are among the best we have. I shall continue to commend them wherever I go. (Charles Holder.)

I am glad to express to you my indorsement of the arrangement and presentation of the lessons of the new Quarterlies which you sent me for examination. They are clear, logical, and concise. I feel that the different grades in Sunday-school work who use these Quarterlies will immediately grasp the thought that is meant to be conveyed. I unhesitatingly commend these Bible helps to the brotherhood, and bespeak great progress for those who use them. (E. E. Shoulders.)

I have perused several lessons in the gospel Quarterlies, and while I have never taken a big interest in the International Sunday-school Lessons (it is usually too scattering), I like the short, pointed, direct, and logical way Brethren Smith and Srygley treat the subjects for each Lord's day. Many good and scriptural lessons and warnings are given in a short, pointed way, which cannot but do good to those who take them in the right way. When it comes to human aids on the Sunday-school lessons, I would guess this is about the best we have to-day. (H. W. Jones.)

I have examined the Quarterlies, edited by F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley, and I like them. They seem to be exceptionally well graded for the three classes—primary, intermediate, and advanced; and I am sure they will be acceptable and profitable to a large number of users. The clear classing of the notes on each lesson under from three to seven distinct heads and the black-faced headlines marking and naming each section are specially attractive to me; also, I am much pleased with the comments on the Golden Texts, each a sermonette in itself. (J. W. Grant.)

I have had before me for several days the Quarterlies for Bible study. As to beauty and mechanical skill, nothing along this line that has ever come under my notice in any way equals them. The Bible maps are also of the finest quality. And so far as the comments on the lessons are concerned, I know of nothing better. They are, indeed, all that is claimed for them—helps to a thorough study of the Bible. As to the ability of the editors both as scholars and men thoroughly qualified in the knowledge of God's word to edit such helps, they need no commendation from my feeble pen. Hence, I can heartily recommend their works to all Bible schools in need of such helps. They are issued by the publishers as helps to Bible study, and not as substitutes for the Bible. (A. A. Bunner.)

Many thanks for the three copies of the Quarterlies (Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary). I pronounce them good, safe, and sound. I feel that the authors, Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley, are fully competent to edit them, and we need have no fears of the results of studying their teaching. I see some new features in the new ones that I like very much. More work and closer study is going to be demanded of the teacher as well as the pupil. These lessons are so arranged and commented upon that both teacher and pupil can get all there is in them by a little application. There is danger in destroying the pupil's and teacher's individuality and begetting a spirit of indifference and carelessness when a lesson is discussed too much in detail and too many minute interrogations are made. I feel that the purpose of such lesson should be to serve as a guide and help to the teacher and pupil to learn the lesson, and not the author predigest the whole thing minutely. My ideas are only one man's, and I may be wrong. I am not a perfect teacher. I am glad to serve the cause of Christ in any way that I can. (J. B. Nelson.)

Evangelistic Notes

Dr. J. J. Horton recently closed at New Zion, Tenn., with four additions.

A. F. Thurman, Chillicothe, Texas, reports a fine service on October 29. One was added.

Allen Phy preached on the last Lord's day in October at Bethlehem, in Wilson County, Tenn., to a large crowd.

T. S. Bain preached for the Okmulgee Avenue Church, in Muskogee, Okla., on October 29. E. M. Borden is now in a meeting there.

W. T. Etheridge is in a meeting at Oak Valley, in Benton County, Ky., with twelve baptisms to date. Large crowds attend each service.

J. H. McBroom closed recently at Keltonburg, Tenn. There was one baptism and the church was edified. D. L. Robertson led the singing.

S. W. Baird, Guthrie, Okla., who is eighty-two years of age, writes: "I greatly appreciate the Gospel Advocate, and wish it continued success."

Ira Womack preached on the fifth Lord's day in October and on Saturday night before at Wynnewoodview, near Sulphur, Okla., and baptized one.

J. A. Cullum is in a meeting at Rogers, Ark. He has been with this church since October 1, and prospects are bright. Eleven took membership on October 29.

S. T. Nix has just closed a short meeting at Cedar Grove, near Camden, Tenn., with fine crowds throughout. The meeting resulted in one restoration and the church edified.

W. L. Swinney reports that seventeen confessed their Lord and sixteen were baptized on the fifth Lord's day in October at Canadian, Texas. One to be baptized next Lord's day.

Emmett G. Creacy preached at Ball Hill, near Barterville, Ky., the only church in Nicholas County, on October 29. He is now in a meeting at Pleasant Hill, in Monroe County.

H. L. Olmstead and Tommy Nicks closed a very successful meeting at Monterey, Tenn. Eight were baptized and one was restored. One came from the "Nazarenes" who wanted to be a Christian only.

M. L. Moore recently closed a very fine meeting at Chapel Avenue, this city. Five were baptized and several were restored. We heard many speak of the humility and spirituality of the services.

M. A. Creel, Hanceville, Ala., preached on October 29 at Appleton, Tenn., to good audiences. He will return for a meeting next July. He plans to move to Cullman, Ala., soon, and preach in the surrounding territory.

J. D. Patton, Bessemer, Ala., one of our foremost hymn writers, who enjoys the reputation of having taught a greater number of "normal music schools" than any man living, paid this office a very pleasant visit on his way home from Chicago.

F. O. Howell writes from Corinth, Miss., November 2: "Our meeting continues with the Foot Street church of Christ, this city, with ten confessions to date and with prospects for many more additions. The house is overflowing every night."

Willie Hunter recently closed an eight-days' meeting at Clemensville, in Clay County, Tenn. There were good crowds, with twelve additions and two restorations. John Arms assisted much. Brother Hunter promised to return next year. He is now at Butler Landing.

W. F. Watson, Dresden, Tenn., announces that there will be a discussion at Macedonia, four miles east of Sharon, Tenn., between John C. Taylor (Christian) and W. W. Jones (Missionary Baptist), beginning on November 13. Those who wish to attend from a distance should write Brother Watson.

C. A. Norred, Knoxville, Tenn., reports that the Broadway Church in that city is prospering. They are having fine audiences, with encouraging additions, and they are making extensive improvements on the building. He preaches each Wednesday noon at some of the industrial plants of the city.

The congregation at Grant, Tenn., is ready to begin their church house. The foundation is laid and the framing is on the ground. Bills for materials must now be met. They are ready for the assistance promised, which will be gratefully received and duly acknowledged. Address Joe Pendleton, Brush Creek, Tenn., Route 2.

B. W. Davis, Ashland City, Tenn., reports a sixteen-days' meeting at Sycamore, with seven baptisms and three restorations. He will begin his labors with the church at Tracy City, Tenn., soon. Clarence W. Cook, who has been doing a fine work at Tracy City for two years, will make his home at Covington, Tenn., and labor with the church there.

J. W. Ballard, Helena, Okla., recently returned home from Hinton and Sickles, Okla., where he has been preaching four weeks. He reports that on arriving home he found E. M. Borden in a good meeting there, with two additions. Brother Ballard is now in a meeting at Lacy, near Hennessey, Okla. He would like to arrange for meetings all winter, in Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri, or anywhere he is needed.

J. H. Morris, Tuscumbia, Ala., writes: "I had the pleasure of preaching at Memphis, Tenn., in the Parkway church of Christ, on the fifth Lord's day in October, to an attentive and appreciative audience. This is where Archie Neal labors, and it appears to be a very loyal congregation. Reports indicate that all the members are present every Lord's day, and the interest in the Bible lessons is very keen. Brother Neal is a good worker in the congregation."

J. C. Hutcherson commends the Gospel Advocate and The Young People, as follows: "You sent me several copies of The Young People sometime ago and wanted me to say what I thought of it. I think it is the best paper I ever saw for children to read, and I enjoy reading it myself. The stories are all clean, with a good lesson in them for us all. The Gospel Advocate has always been good, but is better now than ever. I enjoy the long-ago writings on the first page." The Young People is furnished at an exceedingly low price.

From A. A. Bunner, Cleveland, Ohio, October 17: "I spoke for the church of Christ here on Lord's day, both morning and evening. My theme for the morning was, 'Church Federation or the Scriptural Coöperation of Christians—Which?' As the subject was duly announced in the papers, we had a large and attentive crowd of listeners, and we feel that much good was done in the name of the Lord. The evening theme was, 'The Salt of the Earth.' While the crowd was not so large in the evening as in the morning, still the listeners were attentive, and all expressed themselves as well pleased with the work of the day. This is a great mission field, and the harvest is truly ripe. Brethren, will you help us to gather in the sheaves? We need help to buy tracts and circulate good literature, and I will use them to the best advantage."

Will J. Cullum writes: "October 29 was a glorious day at Rockwood, Tenn., with one hundred and seventeen at Bible study and a splendid audience at night. At the mission (sixteen miles from town) we had another good service in the afternoon. At Rockwood three noble souls from the Christian Church took their stand to work and worship 'as it is written,' one of whom had been a Baptist and who will be baptized at the Wednesday-night services. Our work is moving along nicely; and if we can secure a tent, we hope to plant the truth at several towns in the county. Last night being Halloween, Mrs. Cullum and I were visited by several members of our congregation in the form of 'spooks,' who were very generous in leaving behind a nice collection of table delicacies. We invited them to call again."

We have just received the following from Newbern, Tenn.: "To the Brethren in Christ—Greetings: Some years ago the digression spirit crept into our congregation, and by innovations and through the courts we who were satisfied with God's order of worship lost our house. Since then we have been meeting in rented halls and holding our meeting in tents, but we are now making the effort of our lives to build a house in which to meet. We have the lot paid for, and a part of the money to make the first payment on the house, and are now asking you to assist us in this, our happy struggle to build this house to God's glory, and that the primitive worship of the church may be maintained in Newbern. You will please not disappoint us. Send donations to either of the following elders: [Signed] Roy E. Howell, W. D. Porter, J. W. Scott, R. A. Johns, J. A. McClanahan, J. C. Butler."

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS,
Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

Preach the Gospel to Every Creature.

BY J. C. M'Q.

Of the gospel Paul says: "For I am not ashamed of the gospel: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek." (Rom. 1: 16.) Though the gospel is God's power to save, yet it must be carried to the lost in order to save them. The church must preach the gospel to those in ignorance before they can be enlightened and saved by it. Hence, Christ commands: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you: and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matt. 28: 19, 20.) Mark records the commission to the apostles: "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that disbelieveth shall be condemned." (Mark 16: 15, 16.) If we believe truly that the gospel is the power of God unto salvation, we need no argument nor persuasion to convince us that it is necessary to preach the gospel to those in ignorance in order that their belief may come of hearing, and hearing by the word of Christ. (Rom. 10: 17.) The apostles were not slow to believe that the gospel is the power of God unto salvation; for, "Yea, verily, their sound went out into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the world." (Verse 18.) Paul, in an admonition to remain steadfast, tells that the gospel was preached to all creation. He says: "If so be that ye continue in the faith, grounded and steadfast, and not moved away from the hope of the gospel which ye heard, which was preached in all creation under heaven; whereof I Paul was made a minister." (Col. 1: 23.) The faith which the Colossians had received came through hearing the gospel preached. He would not have them moved from the hope of the gospel which they heard. Their faith had not been given to them in some mysterious, incomprehensible fashion. They had heard the gospel preached and believed it.

It is inexcusable in a people to accept the gospel as the power of God unto salvation and to refuse or neglect to preach the gospel to those who know it not. If they believe with all their heart the story of the cross, they should crawl across a continent, if necessary, in order to tell the story to others. As hell is to be shunned and heaven to be gained, no sacrifice is too great to be made in order to save ourselves and those who hear us. Just for a moment consider what Paul suffered in order that he might tell the story of the cross to others: "Are they ministers of Christ? (I speak as one beside himself) I more; in labors more abundantly, in prisons more abundantly, in stripes above measure, in deaths oft. Of the Jews five times received I forty stripes save one. Thrice was I beaten with rods, once was I stoned, thrice I suffered shipwreck, a night and a day have I been in the deep; in journeyings often, in perils of rivers, in perils of robbers, in perils from my countrymen, in perils from the Gentiles, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren; in labor and travail, in watchings often, in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness. Besides those things that are without, there is that which presseth upon me daily, anxiety for all the churches." (2 Cor. 11: 23-28.)

So sublime was the faith of the great apostle and so confident was he that the Lord was with him in doing the greatest and noblest of all work that he was content to abound or to suffer want. He says: "Not that I speak in respect of want: for I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, therein to be content. I know how to be abased, and I know also how to abound: in everything and in all things have I learned the secret both to be filled and to be hungry, both to abound and to be in want. I can do all things in him that strengtheneth me." (Phil. 4: 11-13.) The Christian has no greater lesson than this to learn—to be content in whatever state the Lord calls him to serve. In fidelity we should honor the Lord, in prosperity or in adversity. We can only subdue the baser self and rise to such heights of purity through God who strengtheneth us.

We must first give ourselves to the Lord, then we can lead others to him. We must consecrate our hands, our feet, our talents, and our means wholly and unreservedly to his service. He demands a whole heart or none. He is a jealous God. He will not have a divided service. "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon." (Matt. 6: 24.) "And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength. The second is this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these." (Mark 12: 30, 31.)

The Christian is a missionary. He is filled with a consuming earnestness for the salvation of those who are in superstition and ignorance. He is not content to suffer them to die without the gospel. Every dollar he gives to preach the gospel to the poor and every effort he makes to secure the release of those in bondage to sin quickens his own interest in Christ and his holy religion. In saving others, he saves himself. "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

The churches should make an aggressive warfare on ignorance and sin. It is not enough for Christians to pull the motes out of the eyes of their brethren. Christians must go forward to greater things and victory. Souls are perishing for the bread of life while we are misjudging one another. More faith, more work, and more of the spirit of Christ would be very helpful just now. Christians should do a positive work, and not simply a negative work.

An appeal has already been made by Sister Lipscomb, the widow of David Lipscomb, for Sister Sarah Andrews. For months Sister Andrews lived with Sister Lipscomb. Knowing her and her fitness for the work in Japan, Sister Lipscomb recommends her and cheerfully contributed one hundred dollars to the work. Those who want the Japanese converted to Christ should send a liberal contribution to I. B. Bradley, 513 St. Charles Avenue, West End, Birmingham, Ala., for the support of Sister Sarah Andrews.

Arrangements have about been perfected for starting a mission among the Japanese on the Pacific Coast, either in Los Angeles or San Francisco. This mission is to be under the direction of a Japanese Christian, Ishiguro, who is well fitted and qualified for the work. It is not necessary to go to Japan to preach to the Japanese. Why not convert those here and send them back to their own people as missionaries? If they love the truth, they would be far more efficient than Americans as missionaries among their own people.

Funds for this work should be forwarded to R. S. King, Nashville, Tenn.

Amusements or Recreation.

BY H. LEO B.

Solomon said: "A cheerful heart is a good medicine." It must be conceded by all that recreation is essential to the well-being of all. Perhaps the young require more than the middle-aged or old. However, all must have some recreation. One of the great problems of our day is to determine what amusements may be had and how long one should engage in amusements.

In order to help parents and teachers, as well as the young, to determine in a large measure what amusements to choose, some questions are here submitted. These questions help to determine the standards of amusements and the time that should be given in any recreation.

(1) Is it right? (2) Do good people generally approve of it? (3) Will it interfere with the duties of life? (4) Will it be productive of bad habits? (5) Will its enjoyment lead into doubtful company? (6) Will it lead into questionable propriety? (7) Will my example influence others injuriously? (8) Can I afford the cost in time and money? (9) Will my pleasure affect the right of any one in person or property? (10) Would I be willing for Jesus to come and find me indulging in it?

Each of the above questions should be asked and definitely and conscientiously answered before engaging in any pastime or recreation. It is evident that a fair answer to these questions will exclude much of the worldly amusements. However, Christian people, and especially those who are burdened with the responsibility of training children for the Lord, should not hesitate in applying these rules to all conduct. It is time that the people of God should erect a standard of amusement which will be thoroughly consistent with holy and righteous living, and this standard should be impressed upon all young people. The ideals of recreation and amusement should be lofty, and the young should be encouraged in loyalty to these ideals.

True happiness can come only as the result of righteous living. It is a mistake to think that pleasures and amusements do not occupy a very important place in the lives of all. The recreative forces are many and should be directed in a way that will develop and keep at the highest efficiency the normal person. Our civilization has changed. Our standard of living has changed. The old order has passed. New kinds of work and new methods of doing the old work are used now. Domestic affairs and home life have changed. So many and varied have been these changes that we seem to live in another age. With all of these changes have come also new ways of amusement and methods of recreation. We cannot judge the moral effect of an amusement now by the old standard. I do not mean by this to indorse all of the popular fads which are encouraged in our modern society; neither do I encourage the sinful practices of the lustful flesh. I think that the rules suggested above in this article will exclude all of these. However, simply because an amusement is new or because our grandsires did not engage in it is no proof that it is wrong. Fathers and mothers will find that they are continually denying their children the right to some amusement because, forsooth, they did not engage in it. Such is a mistake.

It seems that the home and the church, the two God-given institutions, should furnish all that the child needs for complete development. The home and the church should give more attention to the recreation and amusement of the young. Little stress in the home is being given to the right kind of amusement, and the church is giving little or no attention to the social development of the young people. If, indeed, we would create a deeper interest in the minds of the young in all church affairs, the church must be more deeply interested in its young people. The interest that the young have in the church will be measured somewhat by the interest that the church has in them. I am not here giving indorsement to the foolish fads of societies found in denominational churches, but I am stressing the fact that the church has its social side and a social work to do. When this work is neglected, the church will suffer. It is a mistake for the church to give a little teaching to the young people on the first day of the week and then turn its young people over to the world for all social training.

It appears to me that the child may be fully developed into a full-orbed man or woman by the two God-ordained institutions; that the education and training for service to man and for the glory of God may be found in the home and the church. When these two institutions function as God has ordained in their relation to the child, all of the child's legitimate needs will have been supplied. This truth seems to be emphasized in the following scriptures: "And, ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but nurture them in the chastening and admonition of the Lord." (Eph. 6: 4.) "Train up a child in the way he should go, and even when he is old he will not depart from it." (Prov. 22: 6.) These scriptures teach that the child is to be trained for future usefulness; trained and disciplined "in the way he should go" when he is old. The child must be trained in youth the way that he should live in middle life and old age. This training may be had in the home and in the church.

The wholesome recreation must not be furnished by the world. The world's standard of living is about as near correct as the world's standard of amusement. We cannot accept the world's standard of living and please God; neither can we accept the world's standard of amusement and recreation and be pleasing to God. We must look to the ideal life and exalted standard as set forth in the New Testament Scriptures for all of the instruction that the young needs. There is a crying need on the part of all of our young people for instruction in amusement. It is not enough to condemn the sinful pleasures of the world and leave the young ignorant of the wholesome recreation which the mind, soul, and body of the young demand. The evils must be condemned and the righteous recreation encouraged. There is a very fertile field, almost virgin soil, of study and work here. Shall we set our hearts and efforts to the task?

Prayer.

BY T. B. LARIMORE.

Prayer is the soul's sincere desire,
Uttered or unexpressed;
The burning of a hidden fire
Within the human breast.

Some saintly soul wrote these lines long ago, and, whether correct or incorrect, their sentiment has been accepted by millions. There is a manifest tendency in our times, however, to disparage prayer. It may not be intentional, but it is a tendency in that direction, nevertheless.

There is a habit—I hope it has not assumed the proportions of a custom—of announcing, just before prayer, the song to be sung immediately after prayer. Why? I see no real, practical reason for it, and it certainly does disparage the prayer. Many a time I have heard “the next song” announced while worshipers were in the very act of kneeling; and, while those self-same worshipers were on their knees, I have heard the rattling, or rustling, of the leaves of song books all over the house. Then I have known “the next song” to be started before some of the worshipers had resumed their seats. Those worshipers who found the song before engaging in the prayer had to keep their song books open or mark the place in some other way, or find it, if they remembered the number, after resuming their seats. Those who engaged in the prayer without finding the song announced had to either keep the number in their minds while engaged in prayer or have trouble in finding the song after resuming their seats. If the former, then their minds were not properly on their prayer.

Recently, in one of my meetings, a song leader announced “the next song” after the brother who had been called upon to lead in prayer was actually on his knees, in which attitude he patiently waited till all had had time to find the song and then offered a fervent, appropriate prayer. It took a pretty level-headed man to do that, but he did it with appropriate dignity and grace. That song leader was an honorable Christian gentleman, too.

Frequently a song leader, having announced “the next song” at the most inopportune time—that is, just before the prayer—evidently having reconsidered the question while he was supposed to be praying, switches to an entirely different song immediately after the prayer. There's always time for that when there's a change to be made; why not, then, to make announcement of the song when no change is contemplated?

I tried to preach through a series of meetings once when and where the brethren had hired an infidel—an avowed infidel—to conduct the song service. I wouldn't do that now, but I did it then. Of course, in that case, I was not surprised to hear the rattle of book leaves while I was trying to pray.

Mentally, at least, I solemnly protest against anything that manifestly tends toward disparagement of prayer. If we were as sincerely and seriously in earnest when we pray—and we should be, always—as Daniel was when he “kneeled upon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God,” we would not perpetrate anything that had even the appearance of disparagement of prayer.

An easy, plain, simple way to avoid all these difficulties is to make no announcement of the song to be sung immediately after prayer till the prayer is concluded. Then, as the worshipers are resuming their seats, or after they have resumed them, announce the number of the song—announce it twice, as should always be done—giving the singers time to find the song before beginning to sing. We have ample time to attend to all the practical details of worship without haste or hurry. “Let all things be done decently and in order.”

“I have been young, and now am old; yet have I never seen” any sense in crowding prayer with announcement and song as to make the impression that we consider prayer a nonessential. Many prayers may be nonessential, but prayer is not nonessential.

In Washington our song leader waits till everybody has had ample time to say “Amen” after the prayer, as all of us should do, before he announces the next song, and our Washington way seems to work very well. It's working well, however, is a decidedly minor matter, of course. Still, it is worth considering. If you prefer not to crowd and cloud the prayer, it may be well for you to try it.

I may not have expressed myself very lucidly or plainly in these lines; but my plea is for prayer—not that I appreciate song less, but prayer more. Let us pray.

“Our Plea.”

BY F. W. SMITH.

The first page of the Christian Standard of October 21, 1922, is filled with an account of a meeting held in Covington, Tenn., by J. S. Raum and his evangelistic aggregation, resulting in the establishing of a “progressive” church according to “our plea.” There was a time when the words at the head of this article had a vital and Biblical meaning, but they now signify nothing more than the shibboleth of a sect among sects. At one time they meant a return to apostolic ground, a complete restoration of New Testament churches in faith, name, and practice, with a “Thus saith the Lord” for everything done in religion. These words, “our plea,” were a synonym for “chapter and verse,” if you please, but they stand to-day for an unknown quantity in religion.

Quoting from the Standard's account, we have these words: “There was a ‘nonprogressive’ church of about sixty members, and not a solitary ‘progressive’ to be found.” There was, to my certain knowledge, in the town of Covington, a church of Christ built upon the New Testament pattern, and for which I have held a number of meetings and baptized a number of people. This congregation has, for many years, maintained the pure and simple worship of the New Testament against the powerful sectarian influences which have been brought to bear upon it, and has upheld the only basis for “Christian unity” that is worth the breath in which such unity can be proclaimed. Had J. S. Raum and his evangelist helpers gone to Covington proclaiming the basis of Christian unity laid down by the pioneers of the Restoration Movement, they would have joined in with the “sixty nonprogressives” instead of establishing another sectarian or denominational church in Covington, with which the town was already too sorely cursed.

The reporter says that Mr. Raum “presented the plea for unity on a New Testament basis, and a large group stepped out from sectarian lines to exemplify this plea by forming a plain church of Christ.” Let us look at the links in the chain that formed this “plain (?) church of Christ.” First, there was the “Tennessee Christian Missionary Society.” Of course we will have no trouble in seeing this link in the New Testament; for, did not the apostles organize this society with its board of control to take charge of the money and business of the churches? Then there is the link composed of fiddles, horns, and other musical instruments to make effective the worship (?) rendered to God. Of course we will have no trouble in finding these things in the New Testament churches; for, did not the apostles introduce them into all the churches they established, and can we not read about such things in the worship of God all through the New Testament?

Now, with all such modifications and additions, the reporter says: “To-day there is a church after the New Testament pattern at Covington.” This reporter most certainly has a strange idea of patterns when he compares what has been done in Covington to the New Testament. It is generally understood that a pattern will bear at least some resemblance to that after which it is patterned; but, if the life of those who did this work in Covington depended upon it, they could not make it fit the New Testament. Knowing there was a weak and struggling church in Covington and that they could go there with a great flourish of modern inventions in religion, ignoring those who had fought for years for the truth, a church could be established after their own pattern, they made the venture. But they have only succeeded in establishing another sectarian church in Covington, so much like those already on the ground that if a stranger seeking a place to worship after the New Testament pattern should chance to drop in at one of their services, he would quickly see he was in the wrong box.

What, let me ask, did J. S. Raum take to Covington and put into what the reporter says is "a plain New Testament church," that was not already existing in what this reporter terms a "nonprogressive" church of sixty members? Did Raum teach immersion only for baptism? So did the church of "sixty members." Did he teach baptism for the remission of sins? So did the church of "sixty members." Did he teach the observance of the Lord's Supper every Lord's day? So did the church of "sixty members." Did he teach that Christ's followers should wear no name except those found in the New Testament? So did the church of "sixty members." Did he teach that Christ left his church with no creed or guide but the New Testament? So did the church of "sixty members." Did he teach that the saints should contribute on the Lord's day as God has prospered them? So did the church of "sixty members." Did he teach that the church should do mission work? So did the church of "sixty members." Now, assuming that Raum actually taught these things, what made the church he established a "plain church of Christ" in contradistinction to the church of "sixty members?" Again, if he taught the things enumerated, what constituted "the plea for unity on a New Testament basis" that did not already exist in the teaching of the church of "sixty members?" Nothing under the heavens, save Raum's fiddles, horns, and human societies to supplant the New Testament order of worship. "A plain church of Christ," indeed!

The enterprise at Covington was but the first step in carrying out the program outlined in their last convention—viz.: To go into every city, town, or village where there are churches of Christ that refuse to affiliate with their society doings and who worship "as it is written" and establish or try to establish organ and society churches. Every church of Christ should be prepared to meet them on the ground with a competent man to contest every inch of the ground. Preparedness should be the watchword of the hour, and not let these perverters of God's word and institutions come upon them unawares. It is not a real love for souls and a true missionary spirit that prompts such moves; for, if it were, they would go where there are destitute fields. Let the churches which desire to maintain the truth be on their guard.

Beware of Doubt.

Beware of doubt! Faith is the subtle chain
Which binds us to the Infinite; the voice
Of a deep well within, that will remain
Unless we crowd it hence.

'Tis better to be glad for what is
Than to sigh for the things which are not;
'Tis better, braver, to reckon the joys
Than the troubles that fall to your lot.

—Selected.

California Activities.

BY E. C. FUQUA.

The "rainy season" has set in, in California, which marks the close of tent-meeting work, as a rule. While I have been confined with regular work with the Sichel Street congregation, Los Angeles, I have nevertheless "stolen" sufficient time "on the side" to hold two tent meetings and one three-weeks' meeting at the church above mentioned. The first tent meeting was in Alhambra and the other in Santa Ana. So far as discernible, the Alhambra meeting was fruitless; but at Santa Ana there were a number of additions, and several at Sichel Street, Los Angeles. I am now considering the feasibility of holding a meeting at Sierra Madre, though it is rather late to risk a tent, and a house seems beyond our reach in that little city. None of this work is allowed to interfere with my work with the Sichel Street Church, and all is made to work harmoniously and profitably to the Master's cause.

In addition to this oral work, I have zealously pushed the free-tract work since coming to California. This latter work was transferred from Colorado to California, and enlarged here, and the California undertaking was inaugurated in May last, since which date I have printed for free distribution nearly one hundred thousand tracts of the larger size. These are at work in almost every State. They are in use in the New York mission work, in the South Carolina mission work, in Florida, and in a large number of other States nearer "headquarters." I am made to feel that, in my humble efforts, I am reaching many who otherwise might never know the truth in its purity and simplicity. From this tract work I derive not one penny of remuneration. It is my contribution to the great cause of mission work everywhere.

The church at Sichel Street is growing most satisfactorily. The large auditorium is quite well filled every Lord's-day morning, and the worship is profoundly inspiring and spiritually edifying, and the evening finds a constantly increasing number of hearers. When I began this work, in March, the evening crowds were very small. They have more than doubled, and I believe the same might be said of the morning crowds. Among other blessings this church has afforded me, I was recently presented with a new hearing device—the "Phonophor"—which is increasing my ability to commingle with the people and carry on the work satisfactorily. Indeed, these brethren have done their uttermost to show their appreciation of my humble efforts. Surely the Lord led us together!

California is a land of pleasure for all the flesh-loving, and the gospel of self-control, righteousness, and judgment ought to be kept constantly before the people. Other churches are carried along with the popular tide, which leaves the church of the Lord to do this work, if it is to be done at all. In our weakness we are doing our best to stem the tide, and we are happy and contented.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are glad to announce that all advertisements published in the Gospel Advocate will be handled henceforth directly by the Gospel Advocate Company. As is known, much of the advertising space in the Gospel Advocate heretofore has been sold to "Jacobs & Company, Special Advertising Agents." Our contract with this advertising agency has expired, and we are not renewing it. We are now in a position to choose only clean, reliable, high-class advertising firms and businesses.

We solicit your cooperation and encouragement. Send all orders to the Gospel Advocate Company.

H. LEO BOLES, Manager.

Home Reading

"Autumn Tints Are on Life's Tree."

BY W. M. WILSON.

The summer time is past for me,
And autumn tints are on life's tree.
Some silver threads adorn my brow,
And I am weak and careworn now.
And your dear cheeks no longer glow
With youth's bright roses, dear, I know;
And there's no gold left in your hair;
But still to me you're young and fair.

It seems to me but yesterday
We took together life's hard way,
A happy groom and blushing bride,
To face life's trials side by side.
But now the rose has bloomed and blown,
The spring and summer time have flown;
For very clearly we can see
The autumn tints upon life's tree.

But peacefully the shadows fall,
And we'll go hand in hand through all;
Your smile my sunshine still shall be,
Your love still cheer and comfort me;
And I will be your lover still
As we descend the twilight hill,
Prepared to face the better life
As lovers still, my own sweet wife.

Yes, autumn tints are on life's tree,
And winter comes for you and me.
For forty years of wedded life
You've been a loyal, loving wife,
Oft bringing rainbows out of tears
And making glad the dreary years.
But, O dear heart, together we Shall be for all eternity!

Doors and Doors.

Uncle Charlie stepped quietly inside the doorway of the room where little Clare with closed eyes lay on the couch. There were surely traces of recent tears on her cheeks. The restless drumming of her fingers on the edge of the couch showed him that she was not asleep, so he called out cheerily: "Ready to take another nature walk with me, Lightfoot?"

The closed eyes popped open, and Clare's face brightened at once. "O, Uncle Charlie, I'm glad it's you!" Then her face fell again as she added: "But I am afraid it will be a long time before you'll think that name 'Lightfoot' fits me again." And she glanced down ruefully at her bandaged ankle.

Uncle Charlie sat down beside the couch. "So you went and stumbled into Mr. Woodchuck's dooryard in spite of my warning the other day," he said, smiling at her.

"O, but I didn't!" Clare exclaimed, quickly. "That's just exactly what I didn't do, Uncle Charlie. It was just a common old everyday hole and not Mr. Woodchuck's dooryard at all."

"How do you know it wasn't?" Uncle Charlie asked.

"Why, I was taking Virginia through that same field where you and I walked last Sunday, and I told her I'd show her where Mr. Woodchuck's front door was, but we mustn't go too near it. So I stood quite a little way off and pointed it out to her. She could see the big pile of sand that you told me was all thrown out by Mr. Woodchuck when he dug out his new home this spring. Then we turned and ran away, and all at once I stepped in that horrid little hole, and down I went."

"And that was Mr. Woodchuck's dooryard," said Uncle Charlie.

"But how could it be?" cried Clare. "It was nowhere near the place."

Uncle Charlie chuckled. "I didn't say his front door. It was Mr. Woodchuck's back door."

Clare's eyes opened wide. "Why, Uncle Charlie, how funny! I didn't know woodchucks had front doors and back doors just like folk."

"They do if they are smart woodchucks," he answered. "And if they are extra smart woodchucks, they usually have two back doors. They are really like fire escapes, to use simply in times of danger when their exit is cut off from in front—one fire escape for Mr. Woodchuck and one for Mrs. Woodchuck."

"O, isn't that too funny!" laughed Clare. "But there was no pile of sand there, Uncle Charlie, as there was at his front door."

"No," he answered, "because this back door is his secret door, and a sand pile would give it away to Mr. Fox, who loves to take a woodchuck home for supper."

Clare looked puzzled. "How does he make a hole without taking something out first?" she asked.

Uncle Charlie chuckled again. "Well, he does have to play the magician a bit to do it. He starts in at the front door, you see, and goes on and on, kicking it all back of him until he finally pokes his head outside at his newly made back door."

"No wonder there was such a big pile of sand at his front door then!" said Clare.

"Yes, Lightfoot, that's what made me suspect there was at least one back door to his house. When your ankle gets well, we'll go out there some day and find out if I've guessed rightly. You'll probably find that doorway you stumbled into hidden in a clump of tall grass or low bushes."

Clare sat up with an excited look in her eyes. "Yes, it was tall grass, Uncle Charlie. I remember I got a big grass stain on my dress, too. O, will you go out there just as soon as we can?"

"Just as soon as your ankle is strong enough for rough walking again, little Lightfoot. I shouldn't want you to walk into Mrs. Woodchuck's back door with the other foot, you know. Your mother would hardly forgive me."

"O, yes, she would have to," laughed Clare, "because you're her brother, you know."

Uncle Charlie took Clare's little hand between his big ones. "I'm not so sure," he said soberly, "that I could forgive myself. But you hustle up and get strong again and we'll see—what we shall see."—Marion Ayres Green.

Caleb's Perseverance.

Caleb had two elements of power to rely upon—most obvious, his own strength; most fundamental and necessary, God's strength. With both he felt equipped for any achievement; and to his direct, unevasive way of thinking, a man so abundantly equipped ought to do something. At eighty-five Caleb would have seemed justified if he had "retired from active life," as we put it. Political circumstances would have justified it, too. Joshua was tired of war and ready to let the conquest of the land rest where it was. Room enough for all these tribes was in his possession; and if a few strongholds like Hebron and Jebus remained to the Canaanites, he thought no harm would come of it. But bold, thoroughgoing Caleb was not looking for ease. The Lord's enemies were still entrenched in the land, and he was still able to fight; therefore, he thought the war ought to go on.

Does not Caleb's stalwart figure looming out of this ancient story challenge us of the twentieth century for our slackness of hands? If Hebron in the possession of the heathen would not let Caleb rest, how shall we rest while a thousand strongholds of modern society are dominated by hosts of evil?—C. Perren.

Texas-Oklahoma Department

By C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

The Preacher.

BY C. R. N.

Ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, who are pastors, do not hold membership in the pastoral charge to which they minister, but their membership is in the "Annual Conference," and to the "Annual Conference" they are amenable. (See "Discipline," Methodist Episcopal Church, South, paragraphs 516, 276, 1910 edition.) It is not my purpose to discuss the polity of the Methodist Church in this. I have done that in "Nichol's Study in the Methodist 'Discipline.'"

Among us are men who are in the evangelistic work. For the sake of pointedness in this article, let me speak of myself.

For more than twenty years I have been in the evangelistic work. With the exception of the time I was confined to the sanitarium, incident to two operations, there has not been a month within that period of time that I have not been in protracted meetings. My work has been from Illinois to the gulf, from North Carolina to California.

In my work, evangelizing, to whom am I answerable should I preach false doctrine or fail to do my duty as an evangelist?

If while in a meeting in Missouri this year I had preached things not accepted by "our" people, what should the congregation which invited me to Missouri do? Attempt to teach me the truth touching the point about which I hold false views, and thereby deliver me from the error. But failing in this, then what? Dismiss me from their service? Yes. But have they discharged their full duty when they have made the effort to teach me the truth, and, failing in this, dismissed me from their service? Do they owe no duty to sister congregations? Am I to be dismissed from one congregation because I teach false doctrine, and allowed to impose on other congregations, or is it the duty of the congregation where I have preached the false doctrine to report that I am teaching false doctrine? But to whom is the report to be made?

If, while I was in a meeting in Kentucky this year, I had been guilty of some premeditated sin by which the cause in that section was injured, and I should immediately leave the community without making any effort to right the wrong, what is the duty of the congregation where I was laboring? Dismiss me from the meeting? Yes. But I left so soon as I knew that my sin was known, and did not wait for the congregation to even speak to me about the matter, and then I refused to return to the place or even write them. What is to be done?

To whom am I amenable, and who is responsible to me in my work? Am I a "free lance" as an evangelist, going when and where I please, reporting my work to no one? And to whom should I appeal if I am not supported? If I go to the bad, morally or spiritually, to whom am I to be reported?

Would it be right for me to be in the evangelistic work without being a member of any local congregation? You see, by not holding membership in a local congregation, I am not amenable to such, and if I "go to the bad," and a congregation intimates that they will discipline me, I can say: "I do not have membership with this congregation, and you do not have jurisdiction over me."

What should be the attitude of congregations toward evangelists who have been withdrawn from by the congregations of which they were members? I am a member of the church of Christ in Clifton, Texas. If, because I depart from the faith, or because of moral degeneracy or financial crookedness, I am withdrawn from by my home congregation, what should be the attitude of the congregation in Cleburne, Texas, which is fifty miles from my home, toward me?

Is an evangelist a man who can treat with contempt the congregation which attempts to discipline him, and flaunt in their face the fact that he is not a member of the local congregation—that he does not hold membership in any congregation? What rights has the evangelist which do not belong to other members of the church?

Commendation.

Brother Tice Elkins is leaving the work with the Southside congregation, Fort Worth, Texas. Though he continues to make his home in that city, he will do evangelistic work, holding meetings or teaching special Bible classes wherever he may be called. Congregations may address him at his home and arrange with him for work. It is his wish to be actively engaged all the winter. Soon, he writes, he will begin a mission meeting in Carlsbad, N. M. Those who would have fellowship in this work may send their offerings to H. E. Wilkerson, Carlsbad, N. M. The elders of the congregation with which Brother Elkins has been laboring send the following commendation:

FORT WORTH, TEXAS, September 30, 1922.

This is to certify that Brother Tice Elkins has served the Southside church of Christ, Fort Worth, Texas, for a period of three years, ending on September 20, 1922. He has preached the gospel fearlessly, labored diligently, and has faithfully performed the duties of a minister for a strong and growing church.

Brother Elkins has never lain down on the work, but by day and by night has pushed the cause along. The church has prospered under his ministry. He has offered his resignation of his own free will, stating that he believes the best interests of the cause require that he leave this work to another man, while he enters another field.

We recommend him to the brotherhood as a good man, one who has done his duty as his ability permitted, and as one able in the fullest sense to upbuild, defend, and promote the cause of Christ anywhere. We wish for him prosperity and the hearty coöperation of the brethren wherever he may labor in the Lord. He leaves a host of friends and brethren who regret to see him go, but all of whom pray for his success and the welfare of both him and his family, whom we love.

J. A. GIBBONS,
E. H. BEESON.

FREEMAN LACY,

Elders.

Hold fast to the Bible as the sheet anchor of our liberties; write its precepts on your hearts, and practice them in your lives. To the influence of this book we are indebted for the progress made in true civilization, and to those we must look as our guide in the future.—U. S. Grant.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC IN THE WORSHIP

By M. C. Kurfees

Cloth. 300 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

This is the most comprehensive book on this important subject now before the public. In it the Greek verb "psallo" is philologically and historically examined, together with a full discussion of kindred matters relating to music in Christian worship. The book is the result of a lifetime of critical study and research, and has become the standard of information on the music question. It has been highly recommended by scholarly brethren in the church of Christ and in the religious world.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY
Nashville, Tenn.

Query Department

BY J. C. McQUIDDY

W. A. M., Mount Pleasant, Tenn., sends in the following: "Some of the members of the Christian Church are serving dinner at the Commercial Club for the benefit of the Christian Church. Is this right? If this is right, are ice-cream suppers right? Please explain, and give scriptures."

Christians should not put the church in the attitude of a pauper, but should support it with freewill offerings. The Lord is not so hard up that it is necessary for his children to resort to dinners and ice-cream festivals to help him out of a tight place. Our gifts should be as we purpose in our hearts. "Let each man do according as he hath purposed in his heart: not grudgingly, or of necessity: for God loveth a cheerful giver." (2 Cor. 9: 7.) Again, the Spirit declares: "For if the readiness is there, it is acceptable according as a man hath, not according as he hath not." (2 Cor. 8: 12.) The church is not an institution to compete with the commercial world, but is the light of the world, "the pillar and ground of the truth." We should never lose sight of the fact that God will take care of his people so long as they are faithful to him.

✱ ✱ ✱

Here is a lengthy query from John H. Arms, of Hermitage Springs, Tenn.: "In Matt. 19: 3-9 we have an account of the Pharisees coming to Jesus, tempting him, and saying: 'Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause? And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female, and said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh? Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder. They say unto him, Why did Moses then command to give a writing of divorcement, and to put her away? He saith unto them, Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so. And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery.' Of course, under the law it was allowed (by Moses) to put away the wife for fornication; but Jesus says in verse 8: 'Moses because of the hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so.' Now, by what process did it ever become so? Of course Jesus advised the keeping of the law—in this as in all other matters—until it was taken out of the way. After the Spirit came and guided into all truth, we find Paul (Rom. 7: 1-3; 1 Cor. 7: 10, 11) speaking very positively on the above point. I find nothing under the Spirit's guidance that justifies either party in marrying one that is put away. To my mind, Matt. 19: 9, the only place where it is mentioned as a cause for putting away and marrying again, is an answer to those Pharisees. They were tempting him to see if he would advise the breaking of the law. By giving God's law from the beginning, and the reason that Moses had suffered them to put away their wives, he silenced them, and thus fulfilled the law. If the foregoing is not sound, give scriptural reasons, please."

If Brother Arms had read the law of Moses on divorce, he would not have fallen into the error he has. Moses permitted divorces for any slight offense, and not for fornication alone as did Christ. "When a man taketh a wife, and marrieth her, then it shall be, if she find no favor in his eyes, because he hath found some unseemly thing in her, that he shall write her a bill of divorcement, and give it in her hand, and send her out of his house." (Deut. 24: 1.) For what cause could a man, under Moses, divorce his wife? "Because he hath found some unseemly thing in her." On account of the low state of morals and the hardness of their hearts, Moses suffered some things that were not right. Christ did not do this, but permitted divorce for only one cause—fornication. Paul is not considering divorce either in Romans or in Corinthians. Rom. 7: 1-3 and 1 Cor. 7: 10-12 have no reference to divorce.

✱ ✱ ✱

Willie Hunter, of Livingston, Tenn., inquires to know about the duty of the church to withdraw fellowship from those who fail to attend the worship on the first day of the week. He asks: "Is it the duty of a local congregation to withdraw from members when they will not or do not attend church services on the first day of the week?"

To this question it is not possible to give a specific answer, not knowing the reasons for a failure to attend the worship. If willful neglect or disobedience be the cause, then the answer is clear. It is the duty of the church to be long-suffering and patient. The ignorant should be taught and the careless should be admonished and warned. Continual and persistent failure to worship as God directs will eventually result in spiritual death. Christians must feed upon the word of God in order to grow strong in the Lord. If members neglect the worship, the church should exhort them daily. Fellowship should not be withdrawn from any offender until everything possible to be done has been done to save him. A lifeless and lukewarm church is not a very attractive place to the young and thoughtless. The church should be sure it has done its duty in the love of the truth toward those who fail to attend the worship before even considering turning them over to Satan. Withdrawal is for the salvation of the wayward and the protection of the church.

✱ ✱ ✱

John J. Shewmaker, Paragould, Ark., is concerned about the indwelling Spirit and asks the following questions: "(1) Does the Holy Spirit personally dwell in the hearts of all Christians? (2) What does the renewing of the Holy Spirit in Tit. 3: 5, 6 mean? (3) What is the difference, if any, in the way in which the Holy Spirit dwells and God and Christ dwell in Christians?"

1. The Holy Spirit certainly dwells in Christians. "And we are witnesses of these things; and so is the Holy Spirit, whom God hath given to them that obey him." (Acts 5: 32.) "And because ye are sons, God sent forth the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, crying, Abba, Father." (Gal. 4: 6.) "In whom ye also, having heard the word of the truth, the gospel of your salvation—in whom, having also believed, ye were sealed with the Holy Spirit of promise." (Eph. 1: 13.) Those who receive and obey the word of God are the recipients of the Spirit.

2. After one is baptized into Christ, if he continues faithful, times of renewal or refreshing from the presence of God will come to him. These renewals strengthen and build him up spiritually. He grows through these renewals of the Spirit from one degree of likeness to the Son of God to another.

3. The Father, the Son, and the Spirit work in unison. The Father and the Son through the Spirit dwell in Christians.

In my investigations of natural science, I have always found that whenever I can meet with anything in the Bible, on any subject, it always affords me a fine platform on which to stand.—Lieutenant Maury.

MOTHER!

Your Child's Bowels Need
"California Fig Syrup"

Hurry, mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will thoroughly clean the little bowels, and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even a cross, feverish, constipated child loves its "fruity" taste, and mothers can rest easy because it never fails to work all the sour bile and poisons right out of the stomach and bowels without griping or upsetting the child.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.

PIANOS

AND

VICTROLAS

Sold for Cash or on Easy Payments

M. F. SHEA

305 Fifth Avenue, North
NASHVILLE, TENN.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

PARKER'S
HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling—
Restores Color and
Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Cal-
louses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

CANCER

HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and
X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box
2127, ATLANTA, GA.

Our Mothers' Book.

We search the world for truth; we cull
The good, the pure, the beautiful
From graven stone and written scroll,
From all old flower fields of the soul;
And, weary seekers of the best,
We come back laden from our quest,
To find that all the sages said
Is in the Book our mothers read.

—John Greenleaf Whittier.

Evangelistic Report.

BY M. KEEBLE.

On the second Lord's day in September I began my second meeting at Murray, Ky., where the white church is doing mission work among my people. The first day of the meeting our tent was badly torn by the wind, but we continued on, and interest grew, and eight precious souls obeyed the gospel. The white brethren gave me every encouragement, for which I am very thankful. This work was begun last year, and they have met every Lord's day since. In all of their services they have been blessed with the presence of some of the white brethren, who have taught them how to worship God in spirit and in truth.
They asked me to return next year.

At Providence, Ky., about ten miles from Murray, I spent a week, preaching every night in a little schoolhouse.
The people were hungry for the bread of life, and the meeting resulted in five confessions. There are some mighty strong white brethren in this section, and they came to every service, and they desire that I hold a meeting there in 1923.

From Providence I went back to Martin, Tenn., where I had conducted a meeting in June, and preached three nights and baptized a woman and her daughter "the same hour of the night." The white brethren had secured permission from the board of education for me to preach at the schoolhouse, but the teacher, being an enemy to the doctrine found in the Bible, refused to give up the keys; so I preached in Brother Olden's yard, and was much encouraged while there.
I am to labor with these good people next year in a tent meeting. The little band is meeting every Lord's day from house to house, and some of the white brethren meet with them.
Brother Eph Smith has preached for them several times, and they have been much encouraged by his sermons. He is a strong man and is doing all he can to establish the work among my race. Brethren Winstead and Argo are very much interested in the colored mission, and this is true of the whole white congregation—all are interested in getting the pure gospel of Jesus Christ to the negro.

On the second Lord's day in October
I began a meeting at Sugar Grove, Ky., which continued one week and resulted in three precious souls obeying the gospel and the church being much edified. Old Brother W. S. Womack established this church several years ago, and they are rooted and grounded in the faith. The white people attended in large numbers, and one old white brother (eighty-two years old) made a strong talk the last night, which encouraged us much. I have consented to labor here in another meeting next year.

Words of Commendation.

Weatherford, Texas, October 30, 1922.

—Elder F. W. Smith, Nashville, Tenn.

—Dear Brother Smith: I note with interest and pleasure the predicament the "digressives" of Tennessee and Kentucky are in. You and Brother
F. B. Srygley are making them "devour themselves." I rejoice to know that they promise to come out into the open and give us an opportunity to show the world that we are not against their instrumental music for a lack of culture, education, refinement, etc., as they have accused us for all these years. The "digressives" here in Texas are very quiet, and we rarely ever have an opportunity to meet them in public debate.

There are loyal preachers here who are rejoicing with you and praying for your success in combating O. E.
Payne's joke on truth and scholarship.
That book of his is the most ungodly representation of the different authors he proposes to present that I have ever seen from any one purporting to be a representative man on any religious question. The "digressives" who indorse that book should be forced to try to defend it, or else denounce it as false in toto. If there is any other alternative for them, I cannot see what it would be.

Some of the brethren here at Weatherford remember your labors with them in combating error and preaching the truth.

I hope you are well and having success in your work in every righteous way.

Fraternally,

T. M. CARNEY.

Try Renwar for Rheumatism.

It is not necessary any longer for you to suffer those intense pains and aches of rheumatism. Renwar is a salts combination scientifically prepared to neutralize the uric acid in the blood and thereby cure rheumatism. Don't wait until those rheumatic pains return. Buy a bottle of Renwar and forget about that rheumatism. Renwar is an old, well-established remedy. It is prescribed by the best of physicians and has thousands of friends. President L. A. Bau-man, of Varley & Bauman Company, Nashville, says: "Renwar entirely relieved me of my rheumatism." For sale by druggists; price, 50 cents. Positively guaranteed by money-back offer. If your druggist doesn't carry Renwar in stock, tell him to order it for you from WARNER DRUG COMPANY,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

WORN OUT AFTER SHE COOKED A MEAL

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—
Read the Result

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I suffered for a year with nervous troubles and irregularities before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back pained all the time and I was unfit for housework. I was worn out if I cooked a meal, and was unable to do my washing. My girl friends and my sister told me if I would take your Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills I would be relieved. After taking the first bottle I felt better, and neglected it awhile, but found I could not do my work until I was stronger. So I took the Vegetable Compound again and now I am the mother of a 19 months old boy. He is fat and healthy and I am sure I could never have carried him if it had not been for your Vegetable Compound. I recommend your medicine to all women although I am young to be advising some one older."—Mrs. CHRIST. PETROFF, 318 W. Liberty St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains no harmful drugs and can be taken in safety by any woman.

McShane Bell Foundry Co.
BALTIMORE, MD.
CHURCH, CHIME and PEAL
BELLS
Memorials a Specialty

JACOBS
&
COMPANY
SPECIAL ADVERTISING
AGENTS
PRINTERS DESIGNERS
PHOTO ENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS
Catalogues
— a Specialty —
HOME OFFICE
CLINTON, S. C.

When Hope Is Gone.

When all my hopes are gone,
'Tis well my hands must still keep toiling on for others' sake;
For strength to bear is found in duty done,
And he is blest who makes the joy of others heal his own heartache.
—Selected.

The Fanning Orphan School.

BY S. F. MORROW.

On October 12, at a regular meeting of the trustees of the Fanning Orphan School to see how the school was progressing and to look after the financial condition, I was requested by the trustees to give a written statement to the readers of the Gospel Advocate, and especially to those who are interested in educating and training orphan girls for a noble purpose in this life as well as the life to come.

I am glad to state that we found the school and home in a most excellent condition, everything neat and in order. Our esteemed superintendent, David Lipscomb, says the student body is very good this year. It is useless to say to those who know this school and the useful and good women who have been trained and educated in it that it is to be classed with the best schools in the country. The graduates who are going out from this school are filling many places of honor to-day. What a blessing it is to have such a school for our orphan girls! At the last meeting prior to October 12 we decided to take fifty girls who are of good parentage and have no means of education, free. We have forty-three on the free list, and others who want to come, but for lack of means we cannot take them. Dear brethren and sisters, can we afford to let the cry of the orphan go unheeded? "Whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him? My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth." (1 John 3: 17, 18.)

In 1921 the trustees found it necessary to install a modern heating plant. We had plumbers to make prices. The best bid was six thousand dollars. On investigation, we found a heating system at the Powder Plant, bought it, and installed it for thirty-five hundred dollars. We owe a balance of fifteen hundred dollars. The trustees gladly gave their time and means to install this heating system. We feel that others will be glad to help pay balance on same and to liberally give to help educate these helpless, orphan children.

We have decided to ask the elders and leaders of all the churches to set apart the first Lord's day in December

MRS. G. W. TIDWELL

Does Your Head Ache? Are You Dizzy? Despondent?

Wonderful Relief is Here Told

Atlanta, Ga.—"About a year ago I was preparing to go to the hospital to die. Had been sick and suffering two years, had dizzy spells, suffered from headache, constipation and a despondent feeling all the time. Had tried many different remedies and got no better. I got to a drug store one day and was talking to the druggist about my condition. He handed me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and said, 'I think that will help you.' Before I had taken all of that one bottle I felt like a new woman. Now I can say, along with thousands or other women, that Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cured me."—Mrs. G. W. Tidwell, 67 Hampton St.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has made many women happy by making them healthy. Get it at once from your nearest druggist, in either liquid or tablet form. Write Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

CANCERS CURED AT THE KELLAM HOSPITAL

The Kellam Hospital cures Cancers, Tumors, Ulcers, X-Ray Burns, and Chronic Sores without the use of the knife, X-Ray, Radium, Acids, or Serum, and we have cured over 90 per cent of the many hundreds of sufferers treated during the past twenty-three years. Ministers treated free.

KELLAM HOSPITAL, Inc.
1617 West Main St. Richmond, Va.

Stop Itching Skins with Tetterine

60c. at your druggist's or from
SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

New York City Church of Christ

239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M., Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6857.

The Plum Street Church of

Christ, Detroit, Mich.,

Now meets in its new building, corner Hamilton Boulevard and Tuxedo Avenue. Visiting brethren welcome.

to make us a liberal contribution to help keep these precious orphan girls in school and finish paying for the heating plant to keep them warm. Please have this announcement made at least two weeks before the first Lord's day in December, that all may be prepared to help in this good work. The Lord loves a cheerful giver.

Send contributions for this purpose to A. N. Trice, treasurer, 1212 Gartland Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

Getting the Most Out of Life.

BY ANNIE C. TUGGLE.

To the seeing eye and understanding heart this is really a beautiful world, but the love of money and the hope of getting great gain have blinded the minds of many of us so that we do not get out of life what it has in store for us.

It was Plato who said: "It was the insatiable craving for wealth and the disregard of everything else for the sake of money-making that destroyed oligarchy." And I should like to say just here that we, too, will be destroyed without even realizing what a wonderful earth this is on which we live, if we allow money to become our being's end and aim.

The purely imaginative and fantastic has its mission in prose and poetry, but blessed be all poems and stories which help us to notice the romance and the beauty of ordinary things and people. It is fine to appreciate the "pleasure of the pathless woods" and the "rapture on the lonely shore," but it is even finer and better to be able to read the message of eternity in the geranium on the kitchen window sill; for, after all, the finest lives are those who rank in the common model and with the human race, but without miracle and without extravagance.

The great things of life are ours, if we only knew it. Sunrise and sunset, moonlight and starlight, are just as marvelous while we live in a cottage as they will be when we live in a mansion. Love of kindred and friends, even forgiveness of sins and life everlasting, are as free to-day to the humble as they are to the mighty.

It is just and right to plan for the future; but live to-day, enjoy to-day, and do not miss the good taste of the plain butter and bread because you have no cake. While you wait to get your fine lace curtains, enjoy the simple beauty of your cheesecloth ones as they flutter in the health-giving air; and as you work and plan for the days of fine linen and silver and cut glass, make the most of the simple things that you have; and though your white cloth is coarse, you can enjoy the beauty of it here and now and thus get the most out of life.

It is, indeed, a poor religion that lends no light and joy to life's common ways, for the Savior says that he came that we might have life, and that we might have it more abundantly. Therefore, let us awaken to the glory and wonder of to-day, its scenes and its people; then shall life grow more interesting as years pass, and though time wrinkle our brows, it cannot touch our hearts.

Free speech is often thought to mean irresponsible speech.—The Continent.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

"Saved my baby"

Zolfo Springs, Fla.
March 5, 1920

Anglo-American Drug Co., 215 Fulton St., New York.
Dear Sirs:
I am using Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. It saved my baby from dying of colic, which she had for three months. Some one advised me to get Mrs. Winslow's Syrup and I did.
Yours truly,
(Name on request)

Colic is quickly overcome by this pleasant, satisfactory remedy, which relieves diarrhoea, flatulency and constipation, keeping baby healthy and happy. Non-narcotic, non-alcoholic.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

The Infants' and Children's Regulator
Formula on every label. Write for free booklet containing letters from mothers.
At All Druggists.

ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO. 215-217 Fulton Street NEW YORK
General Selling Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc., New York, Toronto, London, Sydney

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

SOLD
50
YEARS

If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

When You're Nervous

Whatever the cause—overwork, worry, grief, loss of sleep, excitement, business troubles, stimulants, narcotics—there's one medicine that will help you.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

has relieved thousands of cases of headache, dizziness, irritability, sleeplessness, hysteria, epilepsy. Buy a bottle of your druggist and start on the road to better health today.

You'll Find Dr. Miles' Medicines at your Drug Store.

Dr. Miles' Guaranteed Medicines.

Dr. Miles' Nervine
Dr. Miles' Heart Treatment
Dr. Miles' Tonic
Dr. Miles' Blood Purifier
Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills
Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets
Dr. Miles' Tonic

Dodson's Liver Tone

Instead of Calomel

Calomel is quicksilver. It attacks the bones and paralyzes the liver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it will regulate the liver, stomach, and bowels better than calomel, without sickening or salivating you. Fifteen million bottles sold.

If your blood is thin, pale or watery, you should try this

Newer Form of Iron

like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. This remarkable discovery of science often increases the strength and energy of anaemic, nervous, weak, run-down people 100% in two short weeks.

It is the iron in your blood that takes up oxygen from your lungs. It is this oxygenated iron that enables you to get the good out of your food. Without iron nothing you eat does you any good and you may be literally starving on three big meals a day. This newer form of iron, known as Nuxated Iron, is easily assimilated by your blood, and when your blood is rich in iron it has the power to extract tremendous force and energy from your food. Nuxated Iron is sold by all druggists with a guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

How to Break Up Catarrh and Asthma

A Successful Treatment for What Have Been Considered Almost Incurable Troubles.

First: It is necessary that the inflamed bronchial tubes be soothed and the inflammation reduced. This for personal comfort, to stop the tickling sensation and stop irritation and hacking night coughs, and to stop the secretion of the phlegm.

Second: The phlegm should be broken up and thrown off without any constipating influences from the medicine.

For centuries the Hindus in the East have used the Cannabis Indica Plant for stimulation, and army doctors have found it most successful in treating bronchial troubles.

For over fifty years in the United States an extract of the same plant has been very successfully used to stimulate the nerves, break up the phlegm, and soothe and heal the irritated mucous membrane.

It was prepared after a thorough study of the plant and a scientific application of its medicinal values to bronchial troubles.

It can be secured in the form of Dr. James' Compound, by mail, from Craddock & Co., Philadelphia, Pa. Write for circular.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

By Way of Remembrance.

The following note from my brother and old-time friend is self-explanatory:

Bear Creek, Ala., October 25, 1922.
—Dear Brother Srygley: I am writing you in regard to Brother Charles A. Wheeler, Jasper, Ala., whom I presume you know. Brother Wheeler is an old, pioneer preacher after the order of John Taylor. He has been preaching in North Alabama, Mississippi, and Tennessee for some forty-two years. He is well posted in the Bible and has baptized as many or more persons and organized as many or more congregations than any one man I know of. He is in need of a horse and buggy, which would enable him to visit destitute places and do a lot of good work where there is no preaching. He is not able to get to these places where he is having calls, and is not able to get an outfit through his own means, and would appreciate anything you and Brother McQuiddy will do in getting up the means to equip him. I think he will do an untold amount of good to the cause we all love.

Accept Christian regards,

J. R. PHILLIPS.

The brethren who know Brother Wheeler and for whom he has labored for so many years should see that he has a horse and something to feed him on, if he needs one. Charley Wheeler has made too much sacrifice for the truth to be in want in his old age.

F. B. SRYGLEY.

From East Tennessee.

BY GEORGE W. FARMER.

On Saturday night before the fourth Lord's day in October I began a meeting with the church at Liberty Hill, in McMinn County, and continued it till the fifth Lord's-day night, preaching twice each day. There were four baptized and three restored to the fellowship of the church. The congregation seemed to be revived and built up considerably. This is one of the oldest congregations in the county and is numerically the strongest, but so many have been lying out, doing little or nothing for sometime, it has retarded the progress of the cause in the community very much. It is to be hoped that the congregation will take on new life and be a "city set on a hill, whose light cannot be hid."

Brother Charles Holder closed a good meeting, with three baptisms, with the church at Athens on Sunday night, October 29. He thinks the congregation is in condition to move along better now.

Brother W. C. Phillips is in an inter-

MURINE
FOR YOUR EYES

Night and Morning.
Have Strong, Healthy
Eyes. If they Tire, Itch,
Smart or Burn, if Sore,
Irritated, Inflamed or Grated, use Murine
often. Soothes, Refreshes. Safe for Infant or Adult. At all Druggists. Write for Free Eye Book. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

Renew your health by purifying your system with

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are free from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

esting meeting at Ooltewah at this time.

I shall be with the church at Cleveland next Lord's day (November 5) and at Calhoun in the afternoon.

There is absolutely no end to work up in this country. "The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few." We have made another appeal for help to build the Niota meeting-house. We pray that this appeal may be answered by some liberal contributions. Remember, at this place it is either build a house or quit and give up. If brethren could only know the conditions, they would help us.

The Covington-Cincinnati Work.

BY J. L. HINES.

I am sure that brethren everywhere are interested in the work of the Lord in this part of the vineyard; therefore, I am going to tell you just a little about it. Last spring some of the brethren urged me to come into this field, and after some deliberation and prayer I consented to come, though I realized it would be a big undertaking for one so minute as I to shoulder such a heavy burden, for the field is large, workers are few, and the cause is weak; but I am here right in the midst of it all, with my sleeves rolled up and with some of the best brethren on the earth scotching for me. The cooperating churches are those at Covington, Ky., and Milford, Withamsville, and Branch Hill, Ohio.

The Covington church (about thirty members) meets on the third floor of the Moose Temple, on the corner of Fifth and Madison Streets, and is reached by taking cars Nos. 5, 6, or 7 from the Dixie Terminal, at the corner of Fourth and Walnut Streets, in Cincinnati. These brethren are planning to buy a lot and build a house of their own in the near future. There is a great future ahead of this church, and it deserves the commendation of the whole brotherhood; for they are of the same mind, heart, and soul, and are full of Christian love and zeal.

The Milford church meets on the second floor of the Odd Fellows' Hall at Milford. With a membership of about fifteen, these brethren are undertaking to preach the pure gospel to their neighbors. This church, too, is of the same mind, and there is no faction.

The Withamsville church meets in their own house and has a membership of about thirty, but I am sorry to say that about twenty of this number are inactive. The women have had to carry on the work here for some time. But now this church is taking on new life, and many of those who had left their "first love" have promised to return. Brother Rowe is doing a good work there.

The Branch Hill Church was organized as a Christian Church, with about forty or fifty members, several years ago, but about two years ago they had ceased to even meet on Lord's day and had in some measure turned the house over to the Holy Rollers and other sects. This condition lasted till about a year ago, when, in some way, Brother Rowe was invited to come out and teach them the way of the Lord. Brother Rowe and Brother W. C. Wilson went out and taught them, as they were able to receive it, the Lord's way more perfectly. In the spring of this year I was called to conduct a meeting for them, which I did, with the result that sixteen were baptized into Christ; but they were not yet ready and willing to give up the instrument, though they did give up the society. I was not very well pleased with the progress we were making, but I still believed they were willing to receive the truth when they understood it. They desired to cooperate with us in doing missionary work in this field; so the testing time came about three weeks ago. I preached a sermon on "Faith," and at the conclusion I said: "Now, brethren, if you desire to walk by faith and cooperate with us in the great work we have undertaken to do in this part of the country, we will be compelled to ask you to set the instrument aside." Some discussion followed; a vote was called for by their chief spokesman, and the instrument was set aside. There was not a vote to the contrary.

This is the beginning of the work undertaken in this field, and I might add that we organized a Bible class at 422 Elm Street, Cincinnati, Wednesday night two weeks ago, and it has doubled in attendance already. Three young men are studying with a view to preaching the gospel.

There may be some things about this work that you do not understand; so, if you will write me, I will gladly give you any information you desire, if in my power to do so. My address is 2428 Jefferson Avenue, Norwood, Ohio.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 15C.

Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C.—Special.—People everywhere are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated news and story paper to new readers thirteen weeks for 15 cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, but he says it pays to invest in new friends. You will like this paper; it is chuck-full of just the kind of reading the people want, as its half million subscribers testify; it will keep you posted on activities at the nation's capital and the world over. Splendid stories and rare miscellany; question box is a mine of information. Only 15 cents in stamps or coin mailed at once to Pathfinder, 11 Langdon Station, Washington, D. C., will bring you for 13 weeks the breeziest, cleanest, sanest, most entertaining paper there is. You will be delighted.

Homes Furnished Complete

Terms to Suit Everybody

TELEPHONE, MAIN 1096

HILARY E. HOWSE

FURNITURE, CARPETS STOVES AND RANGES

We Exchange Furniture as Part Payment

304-306-308 BROADWAY

105-107-109 THIRD AVE., N.

PILES CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or call without delay. Private reception rooms for ladies. Established since 1912. Free X-Ray examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

TETTERINE for the COMPLEXION

60c at your druggist's or from
Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

Don't Wear a Truss

BE COMFORTABLE
—wear the Brooks Appliance, the modern scientific invention which gives rupture sufferers immediate relief. It has no obnoxious springs or pads. Automatic Air Cushions bind and draw together the broken parts. No salves or plasters. Durable. Cheap. Sent on trial to prove its worth. Never on sale in stores, as every

MR. C. E. BROOKS appliance is made to order, the proper size and shape of Air Cushion depending on the nature of each case. Beware of imitations. Look for trade-mark bearing portrait and signature of C. E. Brooks, which appears on every appliance. None other genuine. Full information and booklet sent free in plain, sealed envelope.

BROOKS APPLIANCE CO.,
443H, State St., Marshall, Mich.

Agents: 90c an Hour

Introduce "Soderose." A new wonder. A pure solder in paste form. Work like magic. Stops all leaks. For mending water buckets, cooking utensils, milk pails, water tanks, tin roofs—everything including granite ware, agate ware, tin, iron, copper, zinc, etc.

Quick Sales—Nice Profit

Everybody buys. Housewife, mechanics, electricians, jewelers, plumbers, tourists, automobilists, etc. No leak too bad to repair. Just apply a little "Soderose," light a match and with you. Put up in handy metal tubes. Carry quantity right with you. Write for money-making proposition.

AMERICAN PRODUCTS CO., 7204 American Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio

God Give Us Men and Women—

Like Ezekiel, who saw the morning through the night.

Like Daniel, who won his way and God's way into a kingdom.

Like Esther, who faced the king with her life in her hands.

Like Ezra, who knew nothing but the will of God in his life.

Like Nehemiah, who watched while he prayed and trusted while he worked.

"O God, to us may strength be given To follow in their train."

—Selected.

Christianity is the only religion that abounds in song. Atheism is songless; agnosticism has nothing to sing about; the various forms of idolatry are not tuneful; but Judaism said: "O, come, let us sing unto the Lord;" and when Christ came the angels greeted his birth with a song, and since then Christian song has gained in fullness and strength of voice with each century.—Selected.

"Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation." (Mark 16: 15.)

BOILS

Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPIING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
—SOLD EVERYWHERE—

TETTERINE

Makes low necks and short sleeves possible. It clears the skin

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-
TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Skin Eruptions Are Usually Due to Constipation

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

Nujol
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

Get Back to the

OLD FAMILY REMEDIES

Used so effectively and faithfully by our grandmothers. Write for a supply of

DR. DORAN'S

Queen Root Cordial—General Tonic.....$1.50
Worm Remedy for Child or Adult..... 1.00
Kidney Balm 1.50
Pain King, sample bottle..... .50
Wild Flower Bitters, laxative..... 1.00
Analgesia for Headaches, Neuralgia, Colds, .50
All old, well-proven physician's prescriptions, used since 1877. Order any one or all for the family medicine chest. Agents wanted for local, county or general work.

DORAN DRUG CO., Paducah, Ky.

Cuticura Soap —Imparts— The Velvet Touch

Soap, Ointment, Talcum 25c. everywhere. For samples address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

Gossip and Fact.

Gossip.

"The old barn roof has an easy time;
He lies all day in the sun.
The four walls have to hold him up;
They have no time for fun."

FACT.

The old roof lies all day in the rain,
Patient and uncomplaining;
The four walls keep all snug and dry,
And don't even know its raining.
—Ethel Webb.

The Church Should Do Its Own Work.

BY H. M. PHILLIPS.

It is sad for the church to have to call on outsiders to carry on its work, and it is worse for such to be done when it does not have to be. There are many who need to learn this lesson, or some need to learn that it is right to call on others than the church to help in the service. I have never believed the church should call on the denominations to do its work, and I am at a loss to see why any one should so think who has a fair knowledge of the Bible. I will explain what I mean.

When there is no one in a congregation to lead the song service and one is called on who does not believe as the congregation does and has not done what they did to be saved, I believe it an injustice from two views and wrong from a third one. First, the church is not developing itself, nor is it doing its own work, but shifting it on another. We might get a choir to do all the singing and let the church enjoy the music. Second, it is asking one to lead in a service in which he does not believe, and with those whom he will not fellowship if he has firm convictions; and if he does not have such convictions, he is not fit to lead singing for religious services. Third, if the church does not do its own work, it either shows a weakness of its members or the one who founded it. Every institution worthy of mention exists because of the work of its own members. A mixture is bad, and especially is this true with reference to the church. But some one says: "There are good people in Babylon." That is likely true; but let them renounce Babylon, and then they may serve God acceptably. The church should not turn its work over to Babylonians and claim to be true to God.

When three or four good singers of the church are present, to call on one who is not a part of the church to lead the song service is indeed pitiful. A man got sorely offended just because such was not done. So many think singing is just a kind of a starter, but not a part of the worship. The disciples were the ones who

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

Sure Relief • FOR INDIGESTION

BELL'S
FOR INDIGESTION
25 CENTS
6 BELL'S
Hot water
Sure Relief
BELL-ANS
25c AND 75c PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting

OTHINE

For the treatment of

FRECKLES

In Use for Over 14 Years

Your freckles need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use Othine—double strength—the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women, and rid yourself of these homely spots.

At all Druggists and Department Stores.

praised God in the early church, and it ought to be so now. If I can call on an outsider to lead the songs, then I can ask him to pray and preach, wait on the table, or do any other part of the worship. Then, how will he see that he is not all right for service to God?

To call on one who has only been sprinkled is next to the limit, the limit being one who makes no pretension. One who has only been sprinkled for baptism has not become a child of God. If anything is clear, that is. Then, one who has been baptized by immersion, but is found not to be sound, is about third from the limit. If one who has been baptized scripturally, but is holding to a gross error, is acceptable to lead, then one who has been baptized scripturally and is holding to any error would be fit for a leader. Holding to and practicing cheating is no worse than holding to and practicing a religion contrary to the word of God. How can the church be separate and peculiar if no distinction is made?

There are many who have an idea that just so one professes to be a servant of God, regardless of what was done, that he is all right to do any work that is placed on him. If the church is going to chum with all, when will it be necessary to know what the Lord demands? This compromising idea is about to get the church away from God. I should like for some one to try to prove from the Bible that it is scriptural to call on such as I have mentioned to lead in the service. Those who do it should prove their practice.

Inestimable Value of a Smile.

Never yet have we justly appraised the value of smiles among the world's assets. "Only a smile," pleads a hymn of dubious melody. As if smiles were cheap. Sometimes, to smile is sterner test of character than to die. Smiles through tears—was ever rainbow as transfiguring of a cloud? Smiles amid pain, smiles spite of doubts and fears, smiles at the childish vanities and strutting heroics of men; smiles of indulgence, smiles of pity, smiles of welcome for wayward feet—God give us a new rating of smiles! —George Clarke Peck.

Remember, O Lord, thy tender mercies and thy loving kindness; for they have been ever of old.—Ps. 25: 6.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR

To half pint of water add 1 ounce Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of Glycerine. Any druggist can put this up, or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded, or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

This is the time when you must positively use care in selecting foods—when you must use care in selecting articles of food, to be sure that you get the real food values that help build up good health.

You must have the vital elements in foods if you want to keep well. These vital elements cause the food you eat to assimilate—it means health and growth in children—also in grown-ups. It means replacement of worn out tissue, the building of lost bodily vigor. In fact, it is absolutely necessary to life itself.

Many food authorities agree that pure baking powder and good plain flour are much better for food value and health than many self-rising flours.

For the best of health—for the most economical results—use only plain flour and good baking powder.

YOU, AS A GOOD HOUSEWIFE know that the time to add anything to flour is just before you begin your baking, not months before and you also know that no prepared mixtures such as the self-rising flour can be as fresh—can be as certain in results—as the good old fashioned straight flour and pure baking powder.

For best results use—Calumet Baking Powder and a good plain flour.

BIBLE LESSON HELPS

PRICE REDUCTION

Effective January 1, 1923, we are reducing the Advanced Quarterly (64 pages) from 12 cents to 11 cents per quarter; the Intermediate Quarterly, from 6 cents to 5 cents per quarter; the Primary Quarterly, from 6 cents to 5 cents per quarter; little Bible Lesson Picture Cards, from 5 cents to 4 cents per quarter; Lesson Picture Charts, from $1.25 to $1.00 each.

Our subscribers will encourage us in our efforts to give them the lowest possible rates and help us to stand the reduction by increasing their orders for Bible Lesson Helps. We are appreciative of the patronage of all, and take this means of expressing our appreciation to all.

Date....., 192--

Please enter the following order to be sent to the address below:

Name

P. O.

County..... State.....

Remittance inclosed in payment of this order, $.....

-----ADVANCED QUARTERLY, 64 pages, @ 11 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter)

-----INTERMEDIATE QUARTERLY, 32 pages @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----PRIMARY QUARTERLY, 32 pages @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----LITTLE JEWELS (mailed quarterly) @ 12 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter)

-----THE YOUNG PEOPLE (mailed monthly) @ 15 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter, 80c Per Year—Foreign, 30c Per Quarter, $1.00 Per Year)

-----LESSON LEAVES @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----SETS LESSON PICTURE CARDS @ 4 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----LESSON PICTURE CHARTS @ $1.00 per quarter, $-----

-----CLASS BOOKS (7 cents each) @ 75 cents per dozen, $-----

-----SUNDAY-SCHOOL RECORD (for entire year) $2.50 per copy, $-----

-----COLLECTION ENVELOPES @ 75 cents per dozen, $-----

Total $-----

✂ Literature should be ordered to expire with the end of the quarters. Quarters begin January, April, July, and October; and expire March, June, September, and December.
✂ Remit by Post-Office Money Order, Bank Draft, Registered Letter, or Express Money Order, otherwise at the sender's risk.

CAREFULLY EXAMINE YOUR ORDER BEFORE MAILING

Cut Out Order Blank and Mail To-Day

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

COMMENDING THE LITERATURE.

"Samples of Sunday-school literature received, Must say that I am well pleased with the work, and will do all I can to encourage the use of the same. I think I can start one class this quarter." (B. W. Davis.)

"I have examined your new Quarterlies, and like them. I like the arrangement much better than the old, and I also feel certain the average student will take more interest in the book on account of its improved feature." (W. D. Bills.)

"I received copies of the Sunday-school literature. I have shown them to some of our Sunday-school teachers here, and we are all pleased with them. Personally, I am very much impressed with the system of the outlines." (T. M. Carney.)

"I have just received samples of Sunday-school supplies edited by Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley. I have looked over the Advanced Quarterly for the first quarter. I like the arrangement and comments very much. Indeed, I cannot see a single thing that I think could be improved." (J. R. Bradley.)

"I received your literature, compiled by Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley, and will say in regard to it, I think it sound and reliable. We use it in my home congregation (Dunlap), and think it fine. I shall take what you sent me to other congregations where they use none at all, and try to influence them to use this. Thank you." (W. C. Baker.)

"I have received sample copies of the Quarterlies edited by Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley. I am well pleased with the clear and concise manner in which the lessons are arranged and treated. I wish to commend them most heartily, for I feel that they will be of great help to all students of the Bible, and especially to the young." (G. W. Riggs.)

"I received the sample copies of the Sunday-school supplies in due time. I waited to express my opinion of them till I could give them a careful examination. I am pleased to say that I have found them first-class in every respect. They are clear, pointed, and scriptural. I like them very much." (Hall L. Calhoun, Professor of Old Testament Literature in Bethany College, Bethany, W. Va.)

"I have examined the Sunday-school literature, and it is fine. To have such men as Brethren Smith and Srygley edit them assures us sound gospel teaching, as they have given their lives fighting for the truth. We are using it in our Bible school (two hundred and fifty-two present last Lord's day), and all are highly pleased. We hope that the influence of the Gospel Advocate may grow as the years go by." (B. F. Harding.)

"For some time I have fully expected to write a word of indorsement of the Bible lessons. For many years I have been reading, studying, and teaching the Bible lesson as printed by you, and have always enjoyed them very much; but I must say, with justice and brotherly love to all, in my judgment, the Bible lessons prepared by Brethren Smith and Srygley are the very best. I will do what I can to give them prestige in my year's work wherever I go." (Frank Baker.)

"I have examined with some degree of care the Sunday-school literature for the current quarter. I find many commendable features both in arrangement and treatment. I like the topical headings with verse references in parenthesis, comments on the Golden Text placed at end of lesson, and the clear, pointed questions. The table of contents is a convenience. No doubt all Sunday-school literature will be improved in future in respect to arrangement, etc.; but, for my part, I find very little to criticize adversely in the present Quarterlies. I passed my sample copies on to a destitute congregation in my home county with recommendation that they use them in their classes. We use this literature in our Sunday-school classes in Burritt College." (James E. Chessor.)

"I have received sample copies of Bible helps from the Gospel Advocate office. These include Little Jewels, Lesson Leaves, Primary and Advanced Quarterlies. I have examined them very carefully, and I think that they are really the best set of Quarterlies that I have seen. Those using Quarterlies can find no better. But helps should be used properly in preparing lessons. In preparing lessons, I use all kinds of helps, and I think I have a right to do so. I prefer, however, to use the Bible only during recitations. I am sure that the lesson should be well studied by both teacher and pupils before coming together. In such cases the pupil recites what he really knows, and the teacher's knowledge is also tested. I believe in teaching the Bible at every opportunity." (F. P. Fonner.)

Gospel Advocate

Volume LXIV. No. 46.

NASHVILLE, TENN., NOVEMBER 16, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

OUR CONTRIBUTORS	1081
The Power of Falsehood—Brother Kurfees' Teaching on the Meaning of "Church"—Ashland City Debate and Debates in General—"Must an Elder Be Inspired?"—Report of Funds for Sarah Andrews' Work—Ephesus and First Love—Los Angeles (Cal.) Notes—
EVANGELISTIC NOTES	1088
Gospel Advocate Company.
EDITORIAL	1089
Are There No Elders?—Brother Lee Jackson's Misapprehension of the Issue—The Peacemakers—The "Movies" as Recreation.
Catechism on the Division Question	1093
TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT	1094
FIELD NOTES	1096
Who Else Will Help?	1097
Righteousness	1098
The Great Commission	1099
Further Comment on 2 Cor. 6: 14	1100
Colley-Tyndall Debate	1101
Missionary Funds Forwarded—Woman Preacher at Jackson, Miss.	1102
Mission Work Among the Japanese in America	1103
Annual Report	1104

Our Contributors

THE POWER OF FALSEHOOD.

[The following is a reprint from the Millennial Harbinger of 1837, from the pen of "R. R." It contains a fine lesson and is passed on to our readers.—H. Leo B.]

Among the various causes which retard the dissemination of true knowledge, that peculiar state of mind induced by a long continuance in error is not the least.

Such is the organization of man and the impetuous force of the passions and propensities with which he is endowed that it is difficult at any time to turn the current of his thoughts from its deep-worn bed or rectify its devious windings. But the mere influence of habit or the striking unwillingness which prevails in men to abandon cherished views and principles is by no means so great an obstacle to reformation as the peculiar influence of error and delusion itself, by which the love of the marvelous, the animal feelings, or the emotions of pride have been encouraged, while those powers by whose accurate discrimination alone truth is to be discovered have remained inactive or become enfeebled.

He whose mind has long borne the shackles of error has become incapable of enjoying or properly appreciating truth; as the long-incarcerated prisoner has scarce a wish for liberty, and, even if emancipated, moves as though he were still restrained by his fetters. Just sentiments and sober realities but overwhelm and confuse the errorist, as the light of day only serves to blind the eye which has been accustomed to darkness. So perverted, indeed, and besotted, does he often become, under the intoxicating influence of delusion, that he is wholly incapable of even distinguishing truth when it is presented, and is insensible to every stimulus but that of fiction.

Hence it is that to some men the greatest absurdities appear the most logical conclusions, and the veriest fables the most evident truths. And hence it is that persons will come, by frequent repetition, to believe the very lie which they themselves invented. There are, indeed, no extravagancies too great and no wonders too incredible for the mind which has become inebriated by the spirit of delusion or stupefied by the narcotic influences of habitual error. When Caligula made his horse a Roman consul, it may have appeared quite a rational procedure to a people accustomed to the greatest enormities and imbued with the deepest superstition. The wretched idolater burns part of a piece of wood to cook his meal, and of the remainder forms a carved image. "A deceived heart hath turned him aside, that he cannot deliver his soul, nor say, Is there not a lie in my right hand? He falleth down unto it, and worshipeth it, and prayeth unto it, and saith, Deliver me, for thou art my God." While he is engaged in such orisons, we need seek no other illustration of the power of falsehood.

It is by this peculiar perverting influence which falsehood exerts upon the human mind that Satan, who is the father of lies, succeeds in completing his victory over the unwary. His strength is in the power and signs and wonders of falsehoods, and in the deceit of unrighteousness among the destroyed, because they did not embrace the love of the truth, that they might be saved. By this he leads the timid female to burn herself with the body of her deceased husband, and by this persuades the unhappy votary of Shivu to swing himself in the air upon hooks fastened in the living flesh.

To the same influence, doubtless, are to be attributed the innumerable inconsistencies and absurdities in faith and conduct which obtain in Christendom, whether it be the penances and mortifications, the belief in false miracles, purgatory, and transubstantiation of the Catholics, or the strange perversity of the Protestants in supposing that the various discordant systems which they have themselves invented, and which they seek to perpetuate, are identical with primitive Christianity. Upon this principle alone can be explained their singular indifference to the plainest precepts of the Divine Record, and the blindness which hinders them from seeing the tendency of the concessions they are compelled to make with respect to matters which, at the same time, they are as far from believing as from practicing.

There is not perhaps a single cardinal principle or fact in Christianity which is not professedly received by the different religious parties; yet each, admitting the original unity of the church and the binding obligation of the injunctions to brotherly love, remains alienated, disunited, and opposed. And while they grant that the Scriptures are "the only rule of faith and practice," they yield an implicit credence to human opinions and a ready obedience to the traditions of men. A Stuart will decare that "bapto and baptizo mean to dip, plunge, or immerge into anything liquid," and that "all lexicographers and critics of any note are agreed in this," yet continue the Presbyterian practice of sprinkling. A Wall will remain Episcopal while he uses the following language: "The general and ordinary way of baptizing in ancient times was by immersion. This is so plain and clear, from an infinite number of passages, that one cannot but pity the weak endeavors of such pedobaptists as would maintain the negative of it, and wonder that any individuals are to be found who can treat with ridicule or contempt the Baptists, merely for their use of dipping, and more especially as it was in all probability the way in which our blessed Savior, and most certainly the usual and ordinary way by which the ancient Christians, did receive their baptism." And a Gieseler will adhere to his professorship of theology at Gottingen, and, together with the whole religious community, who commend his sentiments, will pertinaciously sustain the honors of the clergy and the unscriptural systems of the day, while in his "Textbook of Ecclesiastical History," lately published, he thus speaks of the internal relations of the Christian church in the apostolic age: "The churches everywhere formed themselves on the model of the mother church at Jerusalem. At the head of each were the elders, all officially of equal rank, though in several instances a peculiar authority seems to have been conceded to some one individual from personal considerations. Under the superintendence of the elders were the deacons and deaconesses. (Rom. 16: 1; 1 Tim. 5: 9, 10.) All these received their support, like the poor, from the free contributions of the church. (1 Tim. 5: 17; 1 Cor. 9: 13.) The apostle wishes that elders may be apt to teach. (1 Tim. 3: 2; 2 Tim. 2: 24.) The power of speaking and exhortation was considered the gift of the Spirit, and was possessed by many of the Christians, though exercised in various ways—prophets, teachers, speaking with tongues. (1 Cor. 12: 28-31; 16.) There was as yet no distinct order of clergy, for the whole society of Christians was "a royal priesthood" (1 Pet. 2: 9)—"the chosen people of God" (1 Pet. 5: 3; compare Deut. 4: 20; 9: 29). They assembled for worship in private houses. In cities the churches were often divided into several societies, each having its particular place of meeting."

To what cause, then, can we attribute these and the thousand other inconsistencies of the religious community, except to the bewildering effect of the speculations and errors in which they have been so long indoctrinated? It is the influence of false teaching which has so confused the religious world, depraved their taste, or fostered selfish principles, that they have little relish for the simplicity of truth, and even when they stumble upon primitive Christianity are unable to perceive it.

Brother Kurfees' Teaching on the Meaning of "Church."

BY LEE JACKSON.

I request the readers of the Gospel Advocate to re-read Brother Kurfees' article in the issue of October 19, especially noting what he says about the provincial application of the term "church."

Brother Kurfees says: "Independent of this passage [Acts 9: 31], the 'provincial sense' of the term 'church' is taught in the New Testament." A suggestion is that Brother Kurfees could have saved a paragraph of inferential reasoning by pointing out the passages where this "provincial" use of the term "church" "distinctly appears in the New Testament." This "provincial" use of "ecclesia" by New Testament writers is denied even by able Episcopal critics. For the sake of saving space, I will only cite one of these. Bishop John Emory, in his "Episcopal Controversy Reviewed," page 34, quotes the philologist, Lord King, as saying that with one exception in the writings of Cyprian, who lived one hundred and fifty years later than the apostles, he did not remember ever to have met with it as thus applied in the early writings, "either of Cyprian or the rest of the fathers"; but, whenever they would speak of the Christians in any kingdom or province, they always said, in the plural, the churches; never in the singular, the church, of such a kingdom or province." If these Episcopalians, who in controversy were especially interested in sustaining their Episcopal claims, failed to find this provincial application of the word "church" in the New Testament, it certainly would be interesting for Brother Kurfees to give chapter and verse for what he says is so clearly taught. I readily admit that these Episcopalians have much to say about the use of the word "church" as applying to the whole aggregation of Christians, but they say that they fail to find it applied in a provincial sense, as Brother Kurfees uses it when he speaks of the "church of Christ" in Kentucky or Tennessee. But, coming a little closer home, if Brother Kurfees will turn to page 69 of his own compiled volume of "Questions Answered by Lipscomb and Sewell," in his answer to a question about dividing a church, he will find that Brother Lipscomb did not recognize any "provincial or state church" as belonging to New Testament teaching. In addition to this, I will quote from an article by David Lipscomb, published in the Gospel Advocate about the first of June, 1897. I have the article, but I failed to preserve the exact date of the Advocate from which I clipped it. In it Brother Lipscomb says: "We say the church is the body of Christ, not meaning that all the churches are consolidated together to make one body, but that each and every church is the body of Christ in its locality, and what is common to all is affirmed of the church as of one body. This style of speech is common. This can be its only meaning. There is no development of the church of Christ in the world, save in the local bodies." Continuing the same line of reasoning, Brother Lipscomb says: "The church at Jerusalem was a complete body of Christ before another church was established. It lost none of its completeness when other churches were planted. And every other church was as complete within itself as was this church at Jerusalem. Each was in itself a complete body of Christ, without any reference to any other church or churches in existence." Thus reasoned Brother Lipscomb when battling against the very universal and provincial and state "church" ideas which Brother Kurfees now appears to favor. And in this same article Brother Lipscomb says: "There is not the shadow of any universal church in the New Testament, nor is there the representation of a tangible church or one that may be reached and associated with, save the local church." And so may it be said in answer to statements made by Brother Kurfees regarding a "provincial church" of Galatia; there is "not a shadow" of it found in Paul's Epistle to the Galatian congregations, nor in any of his other epistles is there any representation of anything as a "church" that men could reach—hold membership in and be associated with—except the local congregation.

In order to justify the modern custom of speaking of the "church of Christ" in Kentucky, Mississippi, or in Tennessee, Brother Kurfees wants to know what the congregations of Galatia as a whole constituted if they did not constitute "the church of Christ" in Galatia. He endeavors to answer his own question by saying: "Of course they did not constitute different churches in the general sense, for God has but one church." All that Brother Kurfees can mean by this is that God had but one "church" in the province of Galatia. I may be a little dull of comprehension, but to me this appears dangerously near trying to speak where the Holy Spirit has not spoken. The Holy Spirit says nothing about God having just one church in Galatia, nor does he say anything about just one church as covering the whole territory of any other province. Using the plural form, the Holy Spirit mentions the fact that there were congregations in Judea (Gal. 1: 22; 1 Thess. 1: 14), congregations in Macedonia (2 Cor. 8: 1), congregations of Galatia (1 Cor. 16: 1), and the "churches" of Asia (1 Cor. 16: 19); but the Holy Spirit says not one word about these congregations constituting just one "church" of God throughout any one of these different provinces. I would suggest that if it was the purpose of the Holy Spirit to authorize us to speak of all Christians in Tennessee as being the one "church of Christ" in Tennessee, it seems strange that he did not do this by example in some one of these instances. As he has not done so, it is our business to keep silent and not try to invent any form of speech which he has not authorized. We know what the Holy Spirit does authorize: he authorizes us to speak of the congregations of God as being all in Christ Jesus (1 Thess. 2: 14); and he tells us that the Christians in Galatia had all been baptized into Christ and that they were all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus (Gal. 3: 26, 27), but he says nothing about all having been baptized into one "church." All Christians are one in Christ, but they are not all in one "church" as a congregation.

"Ecclesia"—"called out." I offer the suggestion that there is too much stress placed upon the etymon of "ecclesia." Romanists, Episcopalians, Baptists, and others interested in upholding their peculiar "church" ideas dwell upon the etymological meaning of "ecclesia;" And yet we learn that while words never drop entirely away from their etymological meaning, yet through usage they become so changed in meaning that we are cautioned never to rely solely upon the etymology of a word in order to determine its meaning in usage at any given period of its history. Yet there are those who tell us that because "ecclesia" in its origin embraced the ideas of "call" and "out," it therefore held this as its dominating meaning when Christ and his apostles spoke and wrote. As, for instance, when Christ said, "Upon this rock I will build my ecclesia," did those who heard him understand him to mean all that men have incorporated within the meaning of the term "church?" If they did not, then the word "church," when used without any sort of explanation, does not properly represent the meaning of the word that our Savior used. The question arises: Did such ideas as "called out," "officially called out," "organization," "official assembly," and other kindred ideas expressed by terms belonging to our "church" vocabulary, enter the minds of those who heard Christ use the word "ecclesia?" The common people of that time understood this word as meaning a congregation, or an assembly of persons, and they no more thought of going back to the etymology of the word for that meaning than people of to-day think of "salt-money" when they use the word "salary;" and neither Christ nor his apostles ever explained that more than this was meant where they used it. And yet Brother Kurfees takes this etymology, "called out," as being of sufficient force to justify the claim that there was a "provincial church" of Galatia, and a general "church of Christ" that may be made as extensive as the whole world. If this contention be correct, it seems strange that the Holy Spirit did not address the "churches" of Asia Minor as one "church," and represent them all by one golden candlestick.

"Ecclesia" and "kingdom." As Brother Kurfees has told us that there is no lexicon defining "ecclesia" and "kingdom" as meaning the same thing, it appears out of place to introduce this here, but a brother who has become interested writes that he wants a little more on that phase of the subject. Question: If the general "church" that we have been talking about is simply the aggregate of all Christians, as God's redeemed people, how do you account for it being thus unlike the kingdom? Our Savior says that, like a dragnet cast into the sea, the kingdom takes both the good and the bad, while that "invisible church" which we say is equal to the kingdom has no bad fish in it. A local congregation is not the kingdom, but may have bad fish in it; but that imaginary institution that we have been taught to call a general church necessarily has no unredeemed people in it. In his mediatorial reign the authority of the Christ is over all, yet all are not saved.

The only crown I ask, dear Lord, to wear
Is this: that I may help a little child.
I do not ask that I should ever stand
Among the wise, the worthy, or the great;
I only ask that softly, hand in hand,
A child and I may enter at thy gate. —Selected.

Ashland City Debate and Debates in General.

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

I had the pleasure of hearing a public discussion at Ashland City, Tenn., between our brother, C. D. Crouch, and a Baptist brother, E. H. Greenwell, both of Ashland City. The discussion began on Tuesday night and ran day and night till Friday night. Brother Crouch affirmed the usual proposition, the design of baptism, and also on the possibility of apostasy; while Brother Greenwell affirmed on restricted communion as taught and practiced by the Missionary Baptists. I was moderator for Brother Crouch; while the editor of the Baptist and Reflector, Brother Moore, was moderator for Brother Greenwell. The best of feelings prevailed throughout the discussion. Not an unkind word was said by either disputant during the entire discussion.

The two men, Crouch and Greenwell, differ some, both in appearance and in mental attainments. Greenwell has a stronger body, but Crouch has the best-trained mind. Brother Greenwell is careful, timid, and frequently shows fear in his own positions; while Crouch is bold and fearless, with full faith and confidence in his positions. Crouch defines his terms well and goes at once to the issue and stands to it to the close. Crouch has a better education and is a much better logician than Greenwell.

Such debates as this one can but do good for the cause of truth, and I was grieved to learn that some of my brethren opposed all religious discussions. I was not surprised to find that the Methodist preacher was opposed to the discussion, but I was surprised to find a few of my own brethren in perfect agreement with him. If it had not been for brave men who had convictions and were willing to maintain them in open, free discussion before the public, it is doubtful whether New Testament teaching on the subject, action, and design of baptism ever could have been upheld in Ashland City. While there I could not fail to remember a few men of sainted memory who in the past had made sacrifices that the whole truth on the subject of Christianity might be taught there, when now some of their descendants are opposing religious discussion, and this in the face of the positive injunction of the word of God to "contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints." I thank the Lord for brave men who can stand up for the teaching of the word of God against all opposition. Much and lasting good is bound to result from the Ashland City debate. But whether we are able to see any good results from debates or not, it is still our duty to engage in them on every proper occasion.

Some oppose debates because they say Christians ought not to dispute, but I wonder if such people ever read the Acts of the Apostles. "And the apostles and the elders were gathered together for to consider of this matter. And when there had been much disputing, Peter rose up, and said unto them, Brethren, ye know that a good while ago God made choice among you, that by my mouth the Gentiles should hear the word of the gospel, and believe." (Acts 15: 6, 7.) If God's people at that time had been like they are now, some of them would have called for Peter's resignation for being in a place where there was much disputing.

But I am told that discussion gets up hard feeling among the people. True, it sometimes does, but so does preaching the truth sometimes get up hard feelings. One of the best sermons recorded in the Acts got up bad feeling among the hearers. I refer to the preaching of Stephen as recorded in the seventh chapter of the Acts. In reporting the result of that preaching on the audience, the sacred writer said: "When they heard these things, they were cut to the heart, and they gnashed on him with their teeth." (Verse 54.) Though that sermon led to the death of Stephen, it was nowhere condemned on that account.

Some people will not read a paper that has any controversy in it. But I do not see how they could afford to read the New Testament if it is wrong to read controversy, for that book has more controversy in it than any book known to me. This sickly sentimentalism that cannot stand for honorable controversy conducted in the spirit of the Master is a delusion of the wicked one. All great questions that have been settled at all have been settled by honorable controversy, and that individual or church who loves the truth for the truth's sake has nothing to lose by such investigations.

My mind has recently been especially directed to the life and teaching of Jesus, and no one did more debating and disputing than he. He disputed with every sect of the Jews that he came in contact with, and he did it every chance he had. From the conversion of Paul till he was beheaded in Rome his life was one of constant and continued debate. Paul disputed against the Grecians, the Jews, and his own brethren. He preached "boldly in the name of the Lord: and he spoke and disputed against the Grecian Jews; but they were seeking to kill him." (Acts 9: 29.) Many people in this day would not want to hear Paul preach after such a discussion as that with any one. He disputed with the Jews, for we read: "So he reasoned in the synagogue with the Jews." (Acts 17: 17.)

But sometimes we are told that we should have no disputes with our own brethren; but I read again: "When Paul and Barnabas had no small dissension and questioning with them, the brethren appointed that Paul and Barnabas, and certain other of them, should go up to Jerusalem unto the apostles and elders about this question." (Acts 15: 2.) One of Paul's discussions lasted three months: "And he entered into the synagogue, and spoke boldly for the space of three months, reasoning and persuading as to the things concerning the kingdom of God." (Acts 19: 8.) Paul disputed daily in the school of one Tyrannus, and this continued by the space of two years. A friend said to me that the hardest lick Brother Walker gave him in the Hall-Walker debate was that we were "always disputing among ourselves;" but I do not feel that way about it. I would not be a member of any church where the right of free speech and honorable controversy were denied me. The best way in the world to foster error and keep people from coming to the light of the truth is to inculcate the idea that it is sinful to dispute or discuss religious questions. We ought to be too far removed from Rome to advocate any such a delusion.

"Must An Elder Be Inspired?"

Dear Brother McQuiddy: In the Gospel Advocate of September 7 you ask: "Must an elder be inspired?" From a careful reading of your article I conclude you do not think they were inspired, but must have certain qualifications. James (5: 14, 15) says: "Is any among you sick? let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord: and the prayer of faith shall save him that is sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, it shall be forgiven him." Do you believe this scripture and that an elder now can do this? Were they not, beyond question, inspired at that time? I admit our man-made elders of this day and time are not inspired and in many instances very poor Christians.

You refer to Acts 14: 23—Paul and Barnabas appointed elders in every church. Did Paul and Barnabas wait until they were developed and capable of teaching, together with other qualifications, or were the elders supernaturally endowed? As far as we know, the church had been established but a very short time.

We find elders in the Jewish body. Paul, or Saul, received letters from the priests and elders to go to Damascus to persecute the Christians. Elders were in the church at Jerusalem when Paul and the brethren went down from Antioch about the subject of circumcision. They acted with the apostles and church in making decrees. How did they get into the church so early? And if not supernaturally endowed, how could they take part in making decrees?

Then, if we will consider the testimony of uninspired man on the subject, probably the following language from Brother A. Campbell might be of interest: "During the apostolic age for the establishment of Christianity, the Savior employed apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors, and teachers, all supernaturally endowed. To these alone was the work of establishing or laying the foundation of his religion in the world committed. After their death the congregation of the saints was intrusted with this work; that is, by the operation of paternal authority; by proclaiming in word and deed the excellency of the Christian religion to all men, in all the several relations; by the simple proclamation of the gospel facts, with their evidences, was the number of the saints to be multiplied; and in the weekly meetings for reading the apostolic writings and for observing the ordinances composing the Christian institution the saints were to be edified. Christ has rested the multiplication of the faithful on the exertions of the Christian congregations, on their holding forth in word and in their behavior the gospel facts and their import, and not upon the exertion of a certain class of individuals called priests, clergy, preachers, teachers, or bishops. The giving up the conversion of the world into the hands of a certain class, however designated, chosen, and appointed, has been the greatest check to the progress of Christianity which it has ever sustained." Now, he concludes that apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors, and teachers were inspired or supernaturally endowed.

It seems to me you use this scripture (Eph. 4: 11-16) to show that Christ put them all in the church, but only the apostles and prophets were inspired (Brother Campbell says they were all supernaturally endowed), and that "the apostles are not now living in the flesh, but they are living in their teaching and with the same authority as when on earth." If this be true, why do not all enumerated by Paul to the Ephesians bear the same relation to us now? In other words, how do you conclude that the apostles are living in their teaching, and it is not so with the prophets, evangelists, pastors, and teachers? Paul says: "And he gave some to be apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, unto the work of ministering, unto the building up of the body of Christ: till we all attain unto the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a full-grown man," etc. Did Christ give some or all supernatural power till we attain to the unity of the faith? Brother Campbell seems to think they were for the establishment of Christianity.

You say: "They are to remain in the church till all Christians attain unto the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, and until the church is full-grown." From this I gather that we have not arrived "unto the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God," and that the church is not full-grown. I may not understand you correctly; but if the church has not arrived unto the unity of the faith and knowledge of the Son of God, will it not require additional revelations to arrive at that stage? Surely the faith is a unit, and that a full revelation of the Son of God has been completed. I cannot but believe that when the Savior came and revealed himself to man, commissioned his apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors, and teachers to go forth and proclaim him as the Son of God, that when they completed that work, having through the Holy Spirit dictated it to the worthies who put it in permanent form so that it could be read of all men, their mission was ended, and we can now be governed by the written word of God and not amenable to any man or set of men on earth, notwithstanding you quote Heb. 13: 17: "Obey them that have the rule over you, and submit to them," etc. Do you mean we are to obey man? True, the Book says so; but what kind of a man, and when? At this time, when you and I and all loyal children of God are laboring with all our might to get away from man and go back to the fountainhead? But I anticipate that you will say no, not to obey the elders, only as they teach the Book. That being the case, pray tell me why I should receive it secondhand and not direct of the Inspired Volume?

You say: "Well did the Spirit know that in the years to come men would arise in the church itself teaching perverse things, even denying that there are any elders in the church." The Savior said also: "But in vain do they worship me, teaching as their doctrines the precepts of men." (Matt. 15: 9.) Paul said to the Colossians: "Why . . . subject yourselves to ordinances, . . . after the precepts and doctrines of men?"

2 Tim. 3: 16, 17: "Every scripture inspired of God is also profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction which is in righteousness: that the man of God may be complete, furnished completely unto every good work." If completely furnished for every good work by the Scriptures, why elders to rule over us?

You quote 1 Tim. 3: 1: "If a man seeketh the office of a bishop, he desireth a good work." Paul says to the Corinthians: "Wherefore, my brethren, desire earnestly to prophesy, and forbid not to speak with tongues." (1 Cor. 14: 39.) Shall we conclude that it is right to desire to be a bishop and not desire to speak with tongues?

I realize that this communication is already too long, but I desire to ask you a few questions which might help us to see the matter more clearly. Does the New Testament give us directions as to how elders are to be appointed? Is there a single instance in the Book where a church set apart, appointed, or designated elders? If we are to appoint them, by what method shall we proceed? Give a scriptural answer. I cannot find where a single church ever set apart elders. You will most likely refer to the case of those designated to look after the Grecian widows. But will this fit elders? I cannot see how this is possible.

This is not intended as a criticism, but I think this subject needs some thought and study, from the angle of getting better united on this subject, and I cannot see how we can become united until we speak where the Book speaks; and most assuredly the Book does not tell us how to make, appoint, or set apart elders. I hope to see more from you on the subject. Yours fraternally, J. H. HARDEN.

A New Song Book.
BY H. LEO B.

Attention is called to a new song book, entitled "Scriptural Songs," by J. Madison Wright. The Gospel Advocate Company purposes handling this new book when it moves into its new home. The book can be had now by sending orders to Mrs. Lavinia Wright, 451½ Victoria Avenue, Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada.

"The Sunday School and Anti-Sunday-School Cult."
BY J. C. M'Q.

This tract, by A. McGary, "responding to H. C. Harper," consists of thirty-two pages, and is a strong, clear, and logical treatment of the subject. Brother McGary shows in a very forceful way the inconsistencies of the anti-Sunday-school cult, and also shows that the Sunday school is only a method of teaching. The tract is worthy of a careful reading and should have a wide circulation. Price, ten cents per copy; twelve for one dollar. Send your orders to the Gospel Advocate Company, Nashville, Tenn.

Report of Funds for Sarah Andrews' Work.
BY I. B. BRADLEY.

I shall make a weekly report from this date of all funds for this work—that is, from November 1—so that all may keep posted as to the receipts and disbursements connected with Sister Andrews' passage money, home building fund, and general fund—that is, money for the support of the native woman now in charge of the work.

HOME BUILDING FUND.

Previously reported by Brother Boles in the Gospel Advocate of November 2.....		$161.30
J. R. Armstrong, Town Creek, Ala.	10.00
Mrs. W. H. Sewell, Nashville, Tenn.	10.00
Mrs. Alfred Cox, Nebo, Ky.	5.00
Total		$186.30

RETURN TRIP FUND.

Don Carlos Janes, Louisville, Ky.	$ 1.00
Miss E. L. Martin, Wilmington, N. C.	7.00
Mrs. J. A. Matthews, Pineapple, Ala.	5.00
H. H. West, Hopkinsville, Ky.	2.00
Miss Jimmie Taylor, Huntsville, Ala.	2.00
J. R. Taylor, Obion, Tenn.	10.00
Mrs. W. H. Sewell, Nashville, Tenn.	5.00
Church of Christ, Huntsville, Ala.	25.00
Mrs. I. B. Bradley, Birmingham, Ala.	3.00
Total	$60.00

GENERAL FUND.

On hand October 1, in bank at Dickson, Tenn., about.....	$25.00
Miss A. Few, Nashville, Tenn.	3.00
A. D. Thompson, Murray, Ky.	5.00
E. M. Hodson, Moulton, Ala.	5.00
Total	$38.00

It will be seen from the above statement that I have a very small amount for the work, thirty-eight dollars, and only about sixty dollars toward the travel fund. So that Sister Andrews be not delayed in starting back to Japan the last of this month, there will have to be haste upon our part to have the funds in hand. I do not know how much has been received by Sister Andrews personally, as she has not reported anything to me.

Again let me urge you to send me a liberal contribution for this matter; and again, please send all funds for whatever purpose, for Sister Andrews, to me at 513 St. Charles Avenue, West End, Birmingham, Ala., that I may be able to report and keep up with the needs of this mission.

SERMON OUTLINES

A Book of One Hundred and Fifty New Sermon Outlines

Just the book for preachers, elders, deacons, Bible-class teachers, and others that take public part in church services.

The book has one hundred and fifty sermon outlines and a helpful supplement containing funeral texts, marriage ceremonies, forms for church letters, and Hedge's "Rules" for debate.

A good book to use in your Lord's-day services, prayer meetings, and young people's meetings. Let the leader announce the subject, hand slips of paper containing different sections of the outline to the members who are to take part in the next meeting, requesting them to make a talk or read the scriptural references on that section of the outline. Or, let the leader put the outline on the blackboard, omitting the scriptural references, then ask the congregation to supply the correct scriptural references at the next meeting, and give reasons why they selected these references.

Price, $1, postpaid. Address the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Ephesus and First Love.

BY JAMES E. CHESOR.

THE LORD'S COMMENDATION.

If you read the Lord's commendation of Ephesus (Rev. 2), stopping short when the last praiseworthy trait is mentioned, you will marvel that a church can be so great and good. I venture to say that you will also be inclined to ask: "Can there be anything wrong with this church?" Here are the items of the sevenfold eulogy: "Works," "toil," "patience," intolerance of evil men, rejection of false teachers, integrity under trial, unweariness. This description is most remarkable. The church at work, toiling at the work, patiently persistent in the labor, refusing to have fellowship with evil men, observing the falsity of certain teachers and rejecting it, and unwearied in it all—surely the Lord's words constitute a high encomium. Ephesus had much to her credit.

Indeed, so high a commendation seems to leave nothing to be desired. Where is the lack? What is the flaw? What church to-day has so much of achievement and good works and doctrinal exactness in her favor? I say again, if we stop short of the Lord's complaint, we shall in all probability be led to think that Ephesus is perfect before the Lord. But the revealing Christ penetrates beyond externalities and his searching eyes of fire immediately detect the absence of an essential quality in the life of the church. As we read his commendation our interest and joy are heightened as praise is added to praise. Hence, his complaint holds an utter surprise for us. "But I have this against thee—" We read the heavy words with bated breath.

THE LORD'S COMPLAINT.

Here is the Lord's complaint: "I have this against thee, that thou didst leave thy first love." This is all. No other word. Only the one sententious declaration. Immediately the Lord passes on to the counsel which he has to give to the church. And yet how much he had said. "Thou didst leave thy first love." The Lord could not have brought a graver charge against Ephesus. Seeing the church now in the light of his declaration, all the radiance of the former things is overshadowed. Ephesus had failed at a vital point of Christianity. For what avail works, and toil, and patience, and perseverance, and doctrine, if love be dead? The mighty and good church, though taught and nourished by Paul and fostered by Timothy, had declined. She had departed from her first love, and her failing had been great. But what is first love, and what is it to lose first love?

THE FERVOR OF FIRST LOVE.

First love is the love of espousal. It is the love of singleness, of purity, of perfect glow. First love defies analysis. Each Christian knows experimentally something of this mystery of first love. When you were a babe in Christ, you knew something of it, but all the same you could not explain it. You know something of its workings, but you have not fathomed its depths. It was love that redeemed you, infinite love, and responsive love that led you to Christ. When you felt your utter need of a Savior, and there dawned upon you a vision of his perfect love, and you found that the perfect salvation he offered was himself for you, your raptured soul was drawn to him, you know not how. And when you were buried with him into death and raised with him into life, you were made to marvel at the power of love. O, the depth of the love, both infinite and responsive, that redeems us in Christ! O, the mystery of the love that transcends blood ties—the love that leads to conversion, the love that bids you walk in newness of life! How like a flame in your heart that first flush of initial love, how pure, how unselfish, how humble, how ardent! How furiously it burns, consuming the dross, purifying all that endures in the glowing fervor of its furnace! And born of it were your first vows: that you would never grow cold—that you would never turn back—that you would never prove faithless—never. This is first love on the part of the creature. It was this that the Master missed in Ephesus.

"ICILY REGULAR, SPLENDIDLY NULL."

Ephesus had experienced first love—and left it. She had cast off the love of espousal for form and ritual. Doubtless she felt in her young life much the same way you felt when you were baptized, and, like you, registered solemn vows of fidelity. It seems that she leaped to a height of excellence and that her first ardor and devotion were unquestioned. Now think of the infinite pathos of that one sentence of complaint: "Thou didst leave thy first love." Love had waxed cold. The altar fire had gone out, leaving only gray ashes. No, Ephesus is not the same. True enough, the stirrings and enthusiasms and activities and well-doing of former days are not lacking. Jesus recognizes this. He knows that Ephesus is still a remarkable church—that the early charities and good works and patient endurance and strictness of doctrine and form are kept unimpaired. But he also knows that she lacks the primal and essential element of life—love. So the revealing Christ stands confronting this great church, and he says, in effect: "There is much of excellency, but I miss the first love. This church has become 'Faultily faultless, icily regular,

Splendidly null.'

THE LORD'S GRACIOUS COUNSEL.

The Lord's counsel for this fallen church consists of an injunction, a warning, and a promise. The injunction may practically be expressed in three words—Remember, Repent, Repeat. First, "Remember therefore whence thou art fallen." Remember. Ephesus must come to herself, must know her fallen state. Only thus may she bestir herself to regain her former eminence. Go back, says Jesus, and think of the freshness of first love. Remind your heart of its primal Christian emotions, of the divinity of its first love, of the sanctity of its initial vows. Go back to the first lap of the new life. "Remember." O, the tenderness of the word of Christ! He pleads with Ephesus. He yearns for her first love for her own sake. Do not be satisfied any longer, the Lord admonishes, with the dead level of your orthodoxy, your mechanical precision in practice, your outward show of works. "Remember therefore whence thou art fallen." Remember your loss. Let first love save you from utter ruin.

And then, "Repent." Turn back with purpose of heart to the old attitude. Be sorry after a godly sort for your decline. Go back and make good. Go back to the love that abandons everything for Christ—that leaves father and mother and house and lands and all else for Jesus. "Repent and do the first works." First works are works of first love. Ephesus, to be restored, must go back to first love, back to baptismal fervor, back to early consecration, back to first works.

THE LORD'S SOLEMN WARNING.

Then mark this solemn warning: "Or else I come to thee, and will move thy candlestick out of its place, except thou repent." What is this he says? Remove thy candlestick. Yes, notwithstanding all the perfection of your work, and your labor, and your patience; notwithstanding your cold and icy purity; notwithstanding your strictness of doctrine, unless you repent, unless you love, your light must go out in darkness. It is not, therefore, bare deeds that the Lord wants, but deeds of love—deeds that attest love. Unless there is repentance from dead works and a renewal of first love and first works, your candlestick will be removed. Without first love we may maintain ceaseless activity, immaculate purity, severest orthodoxy, but there can be no light—no steady, true light shining in dark places. True light issues from true love. Thus it is that the church is heckled by the world because it lacks true love.

"TO HIM THAT OVERCOMETH."

Here is the gracious closing promise: "To him that overcometh, to him will I give to eat of the tree of life, which is in the Paradise of God." How may a man overcome? By remembering, repenting, repeating—by coming back to beginnings. Then he shall have to eat of the tree of life, but not till then. See how the great words gather together—Life, Light, Love. The very words that Jesus came to bring us; and it is only that we have life that we love, and only as we love that we shed forth light. Be it ours to maintain our position as light bearers for the Master in all the abandonment of fervid first love.

Los Angeles (Cal.) Notes.

BY W. EDGAR MILLER.

The Central congregation, 1720 South Flower Street, is rejoicing in fine services with a well-filled house every Lord's day. There were two additions last Lord's day—one by statement and one by confession and baptism. Brethren who are anticipating coming to this place should get in touch, on their arrival, with either Brother Wright or Brother Witty, whose address is 225 North Avenue 25. They can be reached by telephone—Lincoln 4303. If you cannot telephone or call, just drop a card to S. E. Witty at the address given above and you will be hunted up. But whatever you do, don't forget or neglect to hunt up the house of the Lord on the Lord's day and be there to worship.

Brother Wright preached two good sermons last Sunday, and one of the many good points he emphasized was the importance of making the cause of the Lord first in our lives. He showed us that God accepts no other kind of service, and that if we think we can be his disciples and yet put our own selfish interests first, we are badly mistaken. God has a right to demand this of us. We ourselves demand this same thing of our loved ones. What man but will say to his wife, or what woman but will say to her husband: "You shall have no other man, or woman, before me; I must be first with you?" If more professed Christians would put this principle into practice, the church of our Lord would be a more glorious church and shine with a luster rare.

Brother C. R. Nichol is in this part of the State and will preach for us at the Central Church on Wednesday, November 1, the Lord willing. We are anticipating this meeting with pleasure, and expect to greet Brother Nichol with a well-filled house. Very few of us have ever met him. He has been holding a meeting in Bakersfield, to the north of us, and recently Brethren Wright and Witty spent a couple of nights at that place taking in the meeting, and came back very enthusiastic over Brother Nichol. Well, the greatest class of men on earth is that class that preaches the gospel of the Son of God in its purity and simplicity, unmixed with the doctrines and commandments of men. We understand Brother Nichol is in that class.

On Sunday, November 5, there is to be an all-day meeting at Central congregation, in which singing will constitute a large part of the service. The hour from ten to eleven will be given to singing, preaching at eleven, communion at twelve. A basket dinner will be spread immediately after, and as soon as this has been disposed of and circumstances permit an afternoon service will be conducted, in which singing will be the principal exercise. A number from other congregations are expected to be on hand and take part in this service.

There have recently been a number of meetings of the sisters of the congregation, these meetings being held for the purpose of looking after and providing for the needs of orphans and others in need. At the last meeting a box of clothing and other good things was packed and shipped to Brother and Sister Bixler in Japan. Let the good work go on, and let us do more of it.

Gospel Advocate Company.

BY H. LEO B.

This company tries to publish and sell just such books as will be a blessing to any home if read. There are a number of good books and tracts which should be in every home. We take pleasure in calling the reader's attention to some of these good books, and feel that we are helping every one who is induced to read them.

"The New Testament Church." By F. D. Srygley. Cloth. 300 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

Under this head has been collated the best of the writings of the lamented F. D. Srygley, who for eleven years was first-page editor of the Gospel Advocate. The editing of this book was a labor of love performed by F. B. Srygley, brother of the deceased. As a deep and, at the same time, versatile writer, F. D. Srygley had few equals. This book is the essence of his best work.

"The People's New Testament, with Notes." (Two volumes.) By B. W. Johnson. Price, per volume, postpaid, $2.50.

A splendid commentary, comprising the entire New Testament. Volume I., four Gospels and Acts; Volume II., Epistles and Revelation.

"Sunshine; or, Uncle Minor's Stories." By V. M. Metcalfe. 256 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

Pleasant to the children. Handsomely bound.

"Soul-Saving Revival Sermons." By John L. Brandt. Cloth. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

A series of nineteen thought-proving, evangelistic sermons by one of the most eminent preachers of the day. These sermons relate the principles of Christianity to the everyday life with a keen insight and sympathetic understanding. They are educational in plan, evangelistic in tone, virile in thought, and vigorous in expression, just the book for the minister who wishes to foster and develop the revival spirit in himself and his congregation.

"The Gospel Plan of Salvation." By Dr. T. W. Brents. Cloth. Price, postpaid, $2.

Eight editions have been sold. This book is too well known to need commendation from us. It embraces in its compass the following all-important themes: "Predestination, Election, and Reprobation;" "Calvinistic Proofs Examined;" "The Foreknowledge of God;" "Hereditary Depravity;" "Establishment of the Church;" "Identity of the Church;" "The New Birth;" "Faith, Repentance;" "The Confession;" "Baptism—What Is It?" "Who Should Be Baptized?" "The Design of Baptism;" "The Holy Spirit."

"Evenings with the Bible." (Three volumes.) By Isaac Errett. Cloth. Price, per volume, postpaid, $1.75.

This notable work is a consecutive series of historical, devotional, and doctrinal studies of the entire Bible. Beginning with Genesis, the gifted writer gradually unfolds to the reader, in his lucid, graceful, persuasive, and inimitable style, the dealings and purposes of God with man as recorded in the Bible. Under the guidance of this master hand, the Bible becomes a united and carefully planned and executed book, although written in different ages and by different men. For deep spiritual insight, sympathetic understanding, and practical application, this series of Biblical studies has few equals.

Hardeman's "Tabernacle Sermons" Commended.

BY DAVID THOMPSON.

I have carefully looked over "Hardeman's Tabernacle Sermons," and take great pleasure in commending it to all. It teaches the truth in a plain, simple, uncompromising form, and is a splendid book to be placed in the hands of those who are not Christians. To those who have heard Brother Hardeman preach, the written sermons sound just like him, which is a quality seldom found in a work of this kind.

Evangelistic Notes

B. C. Goodpasture was a welcome caller at this office recently.

O. C. Lambert baptized one at the Tennessee State Prison on last Lord's day.

The church at Franklin, Tenn., gave one hundred dollars to Sister Sarah Andrews.

J. C. Mosley is in a meeting at Center, near Hardyville, Ky., with five baptisms to date.

A. J. Bachman is in a good meeting near Barnesville, Ohio, with four baptisms when last heard from.

I. A. Douthitt recently held a meeting at Centerville, Tenn., which resulted in large crowds. He will return.

F. O. Howell is in a meeting with the Foot Street congregation in Corinth, Miss., with fine crowds and great expectations.

J. S. Daugherty is now laboring with the church at Dublin, Texas. They are planning an addition to their house. Prospects are bright.

J. L. Hill preached last Lord's day, morning and evening, at Philippi, in Trousdale County, Tenn., and at Sulphur College in the afternoon.

Frank Baker is in a good meeting at Locust Bayou, Ark. Attendance and attention the very best. He will be busy through November, at least.

Charles Holder closed on October 29 at Athens, Tenn., with three baptisms. He preached at Rossville, Ga., on the first Lord's day, with four baptisms.

B. D. Morehead preached on the first Sunday in this month at Green Street Church, this city. They had a better crowd in the evening than the morning.

B. W. Davis has just closed a three-nights' meeting at Scottsville, Ky., closing his work there. He is moving from Ashland City, Tenn., to Tracy City, Tenn.

Andrew Perry recently conducted a meeting at Fairview, Ohio, with good audiences throughout. He was in an all-day meeting at Moundsville last Lord's day.

J. J. Reynolds, of Winchester, Tenn., will preach for the churches at Alabama City and Gadsden, Ala. The church at the former place is planning to build in the spring.

L. L. McGill during five months conducted three meetings in Canada, speaking and leading singing in eighty-three services. His receipts were $115.50, and his expenses were $132.75.

W. A. Record recently closed a meeting at Liberty, Ill., resulting in fine interest and four baptisms. He also conducted a meeting at Horco, Ill. We have not learned the results.

George W. Farmer, Cleveland, Tenn., speaks very encouragingly of the work in that vicinity. He preached on November 5 at 2:30 P.M., and baptized two. One took membership.

Felix Patterson, Marvel, Ark., writes us that P. D. Lawson, who has endeared himself to those people by his long, faithful service, has changed his address to Fulton, Miss., Route 1.

M. S. Mason, of Springfield, Mo., recently closed at Milan, Kan. Good interest prevailed. Officers were appointed. He is now at Wichita, Kan. He goes next to Oldfield, Mo., on November 23.

W. T. Hines closed a meeting at Pickett, Okla., with four additions. He promised to conduct their meeting next year, also at Supply and Woodward. He is now at Pleasant Hill, near Rosston, Okla.

J. W. Grant has finished up his series of three meetings in Kentucky and is now in the city making his arrangements to return to Florida. He will probably be at Bradenton for several weeks.

J. W. Warren, 104 Sixteenth Street, Ashland, Ky., would like to hear from any one who knows of any church or Christians in that place or vicinity. He finds a large "Christian Church" there.

R. H. Howard reports a recent meeting at Alex, Okla. He promised to return. Before this meeting he was at Stidham, Okla. They are planning a camp meeting at a convenient place for three congregations next year.

H. A. Brown, Paris, Tenn., paid us a pleasant visit. He was born and reared in Henry County, and is now laboring with the churches in that county. He preached at Mount Pleasant, Tenn., on the first Lord's day in November.

The work seems to be thriving in Southern Alabama. Five new houses have been built recently and a number of congregations established. W. T. Grider, of Dozier, Ala., is the evangelist. A number of churches there are supporting the work.

A card announcing the marriage of A. R. Hill, of Charleston, Miss., and Miss Ferrell Kirby, of Bay Minette, Ala., has been received. The Gospel Advocate extends congratulations. They will make their home at Charleston, where Brother Hill is preaching.

J. Leonard Jackson changes his address to 2211 Tenth Avenue, South, Nashville, Tenn. He is entering his fifth year with the church at Lindsley Avenue, this city. They have had four baptisms, one restoration, and two by statement in the last four weeks.

J. D. Harvey has changed his address from Lueders, Texas, to 504 East Davenport, Stamford, Texas. He will labor there full time. He has labored for five years at Lueders. The church has doubled its membership and improved and developed its leadership.

T. S. Bain writes that E. M. Borden is in a fine meeting with the Okmulgee Avenue congregation in Muskogee, Okla. G. W. Cannon is directing the songs. Brother Bain preached at Wainwright, Okla., on November 5, and reports the church there in excellent condition.

H. M. Phillips, Chattanooga, Tenn., writes, under date of November 8: "Just closed a good meeting at East Chattanooga. Three baptized and two restored. Will begin at Chickamauga, Ga., on November 13. I was at Lawrence Avenue, in Nashville, on November 5. Success to the Gospel Advocate."

We sympathize deeply with A. D. Dies and his wife, who recently lost their only son, nineteen years of age. May the Lord comfort their hearts. Brother Dies closed at Moss, Va., after one week, on account of the illness of his son. Eight were added. Brother Dies' wife is in poor health also. He requests your prayers.

From Ollie M. Johnson, Cookeville, Tenn.: "M. Keeble, of Nashville, Tenn., began a meeting here on the third Sunday in October and closed it on Friday night following. Good attendance, and considerable interest was manifested. Two made the noble confession and were baptized on Sunday by G. A. Johnson. One was restored."

E. D. Martin recently closed at Armstrong, in Warren County, Tenn., with eighteen baptisms. There were one hundred and twenty-five added in the series of meetings in the county. He has returned to Chattanooga to resume his work with the Cowart Street Church. His address is 2521 Duncan Avenue, Chattanooga, Tenn.

George W. Graves recently closed at Cold Water, near Woodbury, Tenn., with three baptisms and five reclamations. He next held a meeting at Rush Creek, near by, with five young ladies baptized. Later he held a meeting at Chapel, in Benton County, Tenn., resulting in nine baptisms and three restorations. He writes: "We appreciate the Gospel Advocate."

B. C. Goodpasture, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "There were two good services at West End Avenue yesterday (November 5). Definite arrangements are being made to build some much-needed Sunday-school rooms at West End. Hugh E. Garrett preached to a fine audience at Norcross last Sunday afternoon. E. Gaston Collins, of David Lipscomb College, preached at Lafayette, Ga., yesterday. S. H. Hall is in the midst of an interesting meeting in Savannah, Ga."

From L. D. Perkins, Armona, Cal., November 6: "At this writing C. R. Nichol is here in a meeting under a large tent. So far the tent has been well filled with hearers, and we are looking forward to a fine meeting. Brother Nichol is at his best and at home as a speaker. He has just closed a very successful meeting at Bakersfield. Some fifteen or twenty came in from all sources. From here Brother Nichol goes to Fresno, thence to Madera, and then to Los Angeles. The work all over California is now in a better condition than it has ever been in its history. We are rejoiced at the growth of the work."

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

Are There No Elders?

BY J. C. M'Q.

On page 1084 of this issue is an article, which you will please to read before reading my reply, from my friend, J. H. Harden, in which he makes some suggestions which make the impression that he thinks when spiritual gifts ceased that elders no longer functioned in the churches. He concludes from an article of mine which appeared in the September 7, 1922, issue of this paper, that I do not think elders were inspired. I did not mean to make the impression that no elders were inspired in the days of the apostles, for I said: "It is sometimes contended that, because it is probable that some elders were inspired, there are no elders now. This does not follow. There were some Christians inspired. Does it therefore follow, since none are inspired to-day, that there are no Christians?"

Brother Harden quotes James 5: 14, 15 to prove that all elders were inspired in the beginning of the church; but this passage does not prove the inspiration of elders, neither does it prove that inspiration is a qualification of an elder. Brother Harden takes it for granted that the healing was miraculous, or that all the sick on whom hands were laid recovered. If so, why should any ever have died? They were just as anxious to live in the days of the apostles as we are now. When one fell sick, he would have sent for the elders and would be living now. In those days of miraculous healing the only way for one to have gone to heaven would have been to be translated; yet we read of people sickening and dying, the elders and apostles being with them. (Phil. 2: 26; 2 Tim. 4: 20.) What, then, is the meaning of the passage? Anointing with oil was the common curative means of that day. While using the oil, the command is to connect with it the prayers of the elders, and it is said that "the prayer of faith shall save him that is sick." By combining the prayers of Christians with remedial agencies, all who could be would be cured.

Spiritual gifts were given to the early church to guide it until the completed or perfect will of God was made known to the world. They served a temporary purpose and gave way when their office was fulfilled, when God's complete revelation was given to man. Their purpose was to make known the will of God; when that purpose was completed, there was no further need of them. "Love never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall be done away; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge [miraculous], it shall be done away." I do not desire now to speak with tongues and to prophesy, because these have been done away, since the complete will of God has been revealed, but the Bible nowhere tells us that the office of a bishop has been done away. "And he gave some to be apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, unto the work of ministering, unto the building up of the body of Christ: till we all attain unto the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a full-grown man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ." (Eph. 4: 11-13.) The gifts were to remain and serve until the full knowledge was received to make them one in faith and bring them unto full-grown men, unto the measure of the stature of Christ. This complete knowledge is given in the New Testament. The reason Christians are not full-grown now is because they will not learn the full revelation which God has given and live up to it. The knowledge revealed is sufficient. God has done his part. If we fail to receive the fullness of the blessing, it is because we will not. It is with us as to how long before we will be full-grown. God has given us the knowledge in the New Testament, and intends that we shall grow by the study of it and not by miraculous knowledge. We are to grow so long as we live. "As newborn babes, long for the spiritual milk which is without guile, that ye may grow thereby unto salvation." (1 Pet. 2: 2.)

But Brother Harden and some others teach that elders passed away with miraculous gifts when God gave the world his full will. If this be true, the teaching in the New Testament on the subject of elders all refers to inspired elders. It is not possible to harmonize this view with the qualifications of an elder as recorded in the word of God. To me such a theory falls of itself. It is unscriptural. If all elders were inspired and there are no elders now because none are miraculously endowed, then it is not possible to understand the duties and qualifications of elders as recorded in the New Testament. Inspired and spiritually gifted men were told to take no thought what they should speak. "But when they deliver you up, be not anxious how or what ye shall speak: for it shall be given you in that hour what ye shall speak. For it is not ye that speak, but the Spirit of your Father that speaketh in you." (Matt. 10: 19, 20.) It was given them in the same hour what to speak. They were not required to study. Spirits were subject unto the seventy. But later, after the perfect will of God was revealed, men had to study to know what to teach. "Give diligence to present thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, handling aright the word of truth." (2 Tim. 2: 15.)

If there are no elders only those who were inspired and spiritually gifted, why should Paul and Barnabas appoint elders in every church (Acts 14: 23), and why was Titus left in Crete to appoint elders in every city (Tit. 1: 5)? It was God's work to spiritually endow and inspire men to teach his will until he revealed it fully to man in the Bible. God would not give inspired men anything to teach but his will; so it is wholly unwarranted to say that an inspired elder must be "apt to teach." God would not let him be otherwise. It would be unjust and unreasonable to require an inspired elder to be "holding to the faithful word which is according to the teaching," when God at that time had not revealed completely the faithful word. The qualifications given for elders fit uninspired and not inspired men. We had in the primitive church inspired Christians, inspired evangelists, inspired elders, and inspired teachers. Because this is so, does it follow that we have no Christians, no evangelists, no elders, and no teachers now, since none are spiritually endowed and inspired? Surely not.

When God commands to appoint elders, he gives the authority to do so. If he has revealed no method of appointment, as Brother Harden says, he has left us free to select any method that does not contravene his law. Many say he has revealed a method.

Christ commands us to teach, but reveals no method to the exclusion of other methods. Shall we, therefore, cease to teach altogether? Surely not, but we should teach by the most efficient method which does not override any law of God. Elders or pastors are admonished to be faithful, and to those who are ensamples to the flock it is said: "And when the chief Shepherd shall be manifested, ye shall receive the crown of glory that fadeth not away." (1 Pet. 5: 4.)

Brother Lee Jackson's Misapprehension of the Issue.

BY M. C. K.

On page 1082 in this issue of the Gospel Advocate we publish another communication from Brother Lee Jackson concerning the general and local senses of the term "church" as used in the New Testament. It has rarely been my privilege to read an article whose author more conspicuously and radically missed the point at issue than does our brother in this instance. There is not a sentence in his long dissertation that correctly and logically applies to anything in my article in our issue of October 19, 1922. On the contrary, though it was unintentional, of course, it distinctly and pointedly misrepresents my position in that article. I believe every word that he quotes from Bishop Emory, Lord King, Cyprian, and David Lipscomb against the "provincial or state church" idea, and there is not a thought in my article in conflict with it. What all these men meant by a "provincial or state church," and against which the lamented Lipscomb wrote so vigorously and so correctly, is not even hinted at in the way of being indorsed in the New Testament, and there is nothing in my article or from my pen anywhere else that indorses any such thing. I tried by specific statement to guard against this radical misapprehension which runs through nearly all of our brother's article, but he seems to have overlooked my statement entirely.

It is seldom profitable to conduct arguments with such a confusion of issues. However, in deference to our brother's evident aim to oppose nothing but error and to defend nothing but truth, for which we give him full credit, I gladly try again to present the general and local senses of the term "church" as used in the New Testament; and I shall select those points which I think will make the issue clear and show where the truth is.

1. The "provincial or state church." After quoting Brother Lipscomb's statement, every word of which I believe and heartily indorse, our brother, signally misapprehending the issue and hitting wide of the mark, says: "Thus reasoned Brother Lipscomb when battling against the very universal and provincial and state 'church' ideas which Brother Kurfees now appears to favor." I respectfully reply that "Brother Kurfees" said not one solitary word to that effect in his entire article, and he never, in all his life that he can now recall, either expressed or believed any such "universal and provincial and state 'church' ideas." On the contrary, had our brother been sufficiently alert and thoughtful in reading my article, he would have seen the statement which I made with the distinct purpose to guard against and prevent the very erroneous conclusion which he has drawn. Referring, not to the Episcopal, but to the New Testament general and local senses of the term "church," here are my specific words:

The distinguishing difference between the church in the "general or provincial sense" and the local sense is that in the latter, but not in the former, the church is organized. There is nowhere recognized in the New Testament any general organization of Christians.

Now, this "general organization of Christians" in a province or in a state is the identical thing the lamented Lipscomb was "battling against" in all he so appropriately said and with which our brother attempts to make me appear in conflict. The thing which Lipscomb opposed, and which I oppose, is any sort of "general organization of Christians" or churches—any organic body of Christians in any province, state, or nation, which is the width of the heavens apart from the New Testament general sense of the term "church," and he used specific words which, if properly considered by Brother Jackson, would have shown him this fact. Here are his words: "We say the church is the body of Christ, not meaning that all the churches are consolidated together to make one body." Exactly so. There is not a solitary instance in the New Testament where in any province or state "all the churches are consolidated together to make one body." In this sense there is no "church" and no religious "body" anywhere recognized in the New Testament, and there is not a word in my article that even hints at such a thing.

2. The general and local senses of the term "church" in the New Testament. There is no difference at all between the general and provincial senses except the extent of territory. The term is used specifically only one time in the provincial sense (Acts 9: 31) in the New Testament, and, except a difference in the extent of territory, there is no difference between its meaning here and its meaning as used in the general sense when applied, not to some one local church exclusively, but to the church in the whole world, as in Matt. 16: 18. Any New Testament student, who is properly thoughtful, knows that Matt. 16: 18 does not refer to any particular local church to the exclusion of the others, but that it refers to all of them throughout the whole world and throughout all time, or, as Thayer's great lexicon says of ecclesia, "church," in this passage, it embraces "the whole body of Christians throughout the earth;" but in that sense it is not an organized body or church—is not the different local churches "consolidated together to make one body." There is no consolidation or organization of churches into this kind of a church in the New Testament. The local church is supreme in the supervision and control of all religious affairs—the very acme of all ecclesiastical organization taught in the New Testament.

Now, when David Lipscomb and other defenders of the New Testament senses of the term "church" oppose the "provincial and state church ideas," they invariably mean the church or body as a general organization in a province or state, but they do not mean that the church does not exist in the general sense in such province or state as well as in the local sense. In the general sense in the New Testament, whether a province, state, or nation is contemplated, the church or body of Christ does not function at all except merely to exist, but it does exist. Hence Brother Lipscomb's true statement: "There is no development of the church of Christ in the world, save in the local bodies." That is the exact truth. I thank Brother Jackson for quoting it. In the New Testament general sense, whether we apply it to a province or to the whole world, the church, beyond merely existing, performs no function at all. No divine provision is made for its acting in this capacity at all, but that it exists in this sense is just as certain as it is that God's people constitute the church.

3. Yes, "Brother Kurfees" still "wants to know what the congregations of Galatia as a whole constituted if they did not constitute the church of Christ in Galatia," and he is sorry Brother Jackson did not answer the inquiry. And when I say "they did not constitute different churches in the general sense," he says: "All that Brother Kurfees can mean by this is that God has but one 'church' in the province of Galatia." He is mistaken. "Brother Kurfees" meant what he said, and he did not say, as seems here to be implied, "that God had but one 'church' in the province of Galatia" in the local sense, but he did say that the different local "churches of Galatia," or all the children of God in that province, "constituted the church of Christ in Galatia." If they did not, then what did they constitute in the whole province? I did not say, nor does my language even remotely imply, that the general sense of the term "church" is specifically named in some "chapter and verse," for it is not. Neither are we specifically told in any "chapter and verse" to establish the church in Kentucky or Tennessee. Brother Jackson would no doubt claim—and correctly, too—that the general term "all the world" conveys the idea that we are to preach in Kentucky and Tennessee. Exactly so, and in precisely the same way the general terms which teach that God's people constitute God's church convey the idea that they are God's church in Kentucky and Tennessee or in any other territory even to the extent of the whole world.

4. Again, Brother Jackson says: "The Holy Spirit mentions the fact that there are congregations in Judea (Gal. 1: 22), congregations in Macedonia (2 Cor. 8: 1), congregations of Galatia (1 Cor. 16: 1), and the 'churches' of Asia (1 Cor. 16: 19)." He is mistaken again. It does not read that way. He underscores the word "churches" in the last passage as if the word were different from "congregations," as he puts it, in the other passages, whereas it is one and the same word, ecclesia, in all of them. I do not object to the word "congregations" as a translation of the Greek word in the passages, but I do object to saying "congregations" in three of them and "churches" in the fourth, whereas the Holy Spirit used one and the same word in all of them. If he had examined either the Authorized or the Revised Version, he would have found "churches" in all the passages. But no matter whether we call them "congregations" or "churches" in Judea, Macedonia, Galatia, and Asia, they were all composed of God's people; and if God's people constituted God's "ecclesia" or church in any particular locality of any one of these provinces, then God's people in all the localities of such a province constituted God's "ecclesia" or church throughout the province; but in this latter sense, the general sense in which we see it exists in the New Testament, it was not organized.

5. Speaking of the Holy Spirit, Brother Jackson says: "He says nothing about all having been baptized into one 'church.'" He is mistaken again. Through Paul, the Holy Spirit distinctly says: "In one Spirit were we all baptized into one body." (1 Cor. 12: 13.) He also says this "one body" is "the church." Here are his exact words: "The church, which is his body." (Eph. 1: 22, 23.) "He is the head of the body, the church." (Col. 1: 18.) "For his body's sake, which is the church." (Col. 1: 24.) Now, if we are "all baptized into one body," which Paul distinctly declares, then Brother Jackson must either admit that we are all baptized into one body or church in the general sense, or claim that we are all baptized into one local body or church, one or the other. This latter we know is not true.

6. Of course "the church at Jerusalem was a complete body of Christ before another church was established," and so was the church at Ephesus, Philippi, Thessalonica, and other places. Each one of them was "a complete body of Christ" at a particular place, and each one of them was a complete church of Christ also at a particular place; but all of these local "bodies" or "churches of Christ" in a province were "the church throughout all" that province, and that idea, independent of Acts 9: 31, is thus in the New Testament in those passages which tell us that God's people, anywhere and everywhere throughout the whole world, are Christ's body or church.

7. On the etymology of "ecclesia," I merely stated the fact in my article that the term literally means a called-out assembly, and this fact is substantiated by every Greek lexicon worthy of the name. Hence, in exact harmony with this, the Lord, speaking to his followers, says: "If the world hateth you, ye know that it hath hated me before it hated you. If ye were of the world, the world would love its own; but because ye are not of the world, but I chose you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you." (John 15: 18, 19.) Again: "Ye are an elect race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people for God's own possession, that ye may show forth the excellencies of him who called you out of darkness into his marvelous light." (1 Pet. 2: 9.) I respectfully add at this point that all our brother's talk as to whether "ecclesia" meant "officially called out," "organization," "official assembly," and other things "belonging to our 'church' vocabulary," is so utterly foreign to anything I say or believe about the word that I pass it all by with a statement of the threefold fact that the term "ecclesia" means called out, that God's people are called God's ecclesia, and that they are called out of the world.

Finally, to me also "it appears out of place to introduce" a discussion of the kingdom question here, which confuses another issue with the one now before us, and I respectfully decline to do so. We are now concerned with the fact that even if we did not have the specific reference to "the church throughout all Judea and Galilee and Samaria" (Acts 9: 31), which is a use of the term in the general or provincial sense, nevertheless, the same idea is distinctly conveyed in the New Testament when it says, among other things, that Christians are "all baptized into one body," which must mean the body of Christ in the general sense, since we know all are not baptized into one local body or church.

The Peacemakers.

BY F. W. SMITH.

"Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called sons of God." (Matt. 5: 9.) This will be recognized by students of the Bible as one of the sayings of Christ in that wonderful discourse on the mount, in which he taught "as one having authority, and not as the scribes." This passage promises a blessing upon the peacemaker, and thus by implication we are taught the necessity of such ministrations, growing out of the fact that antagonisms will exist among men. The fact is, so long as even the children of God live in the flesh, there will arise misunderstandings, factions, and even strife among them. It was so among the immediate disciples and companions of Christ, for a contention arose as to who should be the greatest in the kingdom of God (Mark 9: 33, 34), and even Paul and Barnabas had a sharp contention over John Mark (Acts 15: 36-40). It is not a question as to whether or not it would be better for such things not to exist among the children of God, for we all admit, I presume, that we would be infinitely better off without them; but such things do exist, and the one who acts as peacemaker, succeeding in restoring the proper relations between those estranged, is blessed of God. But such an office as that of the peacemaker is not without its dangers in more directions than one, for the following reasons:

1. Such things are never settled in the sight of God until they are settled right; and to be settled right, they must be settled according to the principles of justice and equity. God will recognize no settlement of personal difficulties between his children until every wrong has been righted in so far as it is within the power of the transgressor to do so. He has laid down laws and principles in his word as guides for all such matters, and these cannot be ignored and meet the approval of God. Hence, he who undertakes to bring about a reconciliation between those estranged should guard this point with jealous care, lest the reconciler transgress the law of God. There cannot be peace at the expense of truth and justice, for "the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable." (James 3: 17.) Wherever wrong exists, it must be righted for the sake more of the wrongdoer than the one wronged.

2. In the zeal and eagerness to adjust wrongs between parties, the peacemaker is exposed to the danger of exacting less than God requires, and thus bring the wrongdoer into greater disfavor with God by covering up his sins. No course should be pursued by a peacemaker that will injure either party with God, and to "whitewash" a transgressor will most certainly do that very thing. Many church troubles, as well as individual differences, have been "smoothed over" in a way that nothing was settled in truth, and it only remained for a short time to develop that fact by a fresh outbreak of the same old trouble like an old sore that had never healed. Now, the requirement of justice and mercy may appear hard, but, as in the case of the surgeon's knife in the amputation of a limb to save the life of the individual, this requirement must be met in order to save the soul. Paul warned Timothy against becoming partaker of other men's sins, and one way to do this is to assist one in covering up his sins. Of course, a good man would not knowingly and willingly do a thing of that sort, but overeagerness to bring about reconciliations may lead even a good man to commit such a mistake. First get the law of God on the subject, and insist upon a rigid compliance with that by all parties concerned. The matter of getting men and women to see their wrongs is not a very difficult thing to do, for the fewest number of people are ignorant of what is right. The greatest difficulty lies in getting them to acknowledge and confess their wrongs. Stubbornness is a very common characteristic, and is severely condemned in the Bible. "Because rebellion is as the sin of witchcraft, and stubbornness is as idolatry and teraphim." (1 Sam. 15: 33.) The thing that keeps men and women from acknowledging their wrongs is worldly pride reinforced by a spirit of stubbornness. Now, one would as well try to bring about a reconciliation between an alien sinner and God without insisting upon a full obedience to the law of pardon as to try to bring about a reconciliation between two human beings contrary to God's law on the subject. Nothing should be considered too hard that God requires, and it is a false conception of human mercy to pursue a course that will work still greater injury to those in the wrong by letting them off with less than God requires.

In the settlement of all differences, alienations, and troubles of whatever kind, we should never lose sight of the fact that the settlement must be done in complete harmony with God's will in the matter, or there is no just settlement at all. Whenever churches or individuals become involved in troubles, if they were as anxious each one to do right and please God as they seem to be to keep the other fellow from gaining some advantage in the matter, there would be little difficulty in arriving at a proper adjustment of these things.

There are nettles everywhere,
But smooth green grasses are more common still;
The blue of heaven is larger than the cloud.

—Selected.

The "Movies" as Recreation.

BY H. LEO B.

It is conceded by all that all normal young people, as well as older ones, need wholesome recreation. Without it, neither body nor mind can function to the greatest advantage. The perplexing question to-day is: What kind of recreation shall we take? We have seen that anything that violates a principle of right or will affect for evil either body or mind should be prohibited.

Just at this time the motion picture (or "movies") is a very popular amusement. Possibly more people attend the "movies" daily than any other kind of recreation. It has become so popular that all classes indulge in it, but more young people than any other class. The motion picture is one of the greatest factors for education known to our age or generation. It may be made one of the greatest blessings to humanity in instructing and entertaining. At one time it was thought that the motion-picture method of instruction would revolutionize our whole system of education and would become a cultural agency of entertainment. It is to be regretted that such an agency for good has been corrupted and prostituted until it has become a curse.

One of the chief dangers lies in the fact that it is so alluring to young people. One of the fundamental elements of our civilization is the proper training and education of young people. The children of to-day constitute the civilization of to-morrow. When a low estimate is placed upon the training in body, mind, and soul of young people, then the civilization has a downward trend. Whatever blesses the child makes life valuable; whatever harms the child injures our civilization. I fear that the "movies" to-day are cursing the youth of our land, and we cannot hope for a better civilization until improvements are made and a reformation had in the motion pictures. The young people who ought to be interested in church affairs, who ought to be training their moral and spiritual natures, care more for the moving pictures than for church services.

One of the evils of the "movies" is that children form the habit of seeking their recreations and pleasures away from home. Anything that takes the child from home is deleterious, for it robs the child of home influences. The "movies" have a tendency to break up the home life of the young, and hence is ruinous. One of the greatest needs of our day is the reestablishment of the good old-fashioned home where children are instructed, trained, and entertained by father and mother; the good old-fashioned home where children are delighted with the companionship of brothers and sisters around the fireside. The family altar is a great blessing in the home life, but those who form the habit of looking to the "movies" for entertainment have no desire for the family altar. The habit of seeking recreation in the "movies" trains young people to look for their chief satisfaction in the dance hall, the card table, and such forms of amusement.

It is impossible to grow a sturdy generation that will be a blessing in this world from such pleasure-loving people. We need not hope for our civilization to be any better so long as our standard of amusements is so low. Young people know more about Charlie Chaplin than they do about Moses; they know more about Mary Pickford than they do about Sarah, the wife of Abraham. They are familiar with all the "movie" stars, but they are wholly ignorant of the heroes of God. As long as young people continue to visit moving-picture shows and eat ice-cream cones and smoke cigarettes, we cannot hope to make men and women of them who will be a blessing to the world. The habit is ruinous to the growing mind of young people. There is but little in the present order of the moving pictures to develop the imagination and the other creative faculties of the mind. There is great danger that the "movies" will produce a generation of superficial thinkers and lascivious sentimentalists.

There is nothing in the "movies" to cause the young to form lofty and high ideals, and without such ideals they cannot be trained for the greatest usefulness. Nearly all of the leading stars who are placed upon the screen are grossly immoral and wholly unfit to inspire young people to noble deeds or even good citizenship. How can one expect to develop morally and spiritually with such ideals as are base and grossly wicked? Such will dwarf the development and hinder the better elements in one's nature. Of course, there could be a wholesome use made of the motion-picture art. Instead of its being an agency for corrupting the ideals and stimulating the baser passions of youth, it should set before our young people examples of nobility, inspiring courage in the daily duties of life and impressing higher aspirations for usefulness. But such is not the case.

What should be the attitude toward these things? Not all of them are bad, yet there is but little good in them and much evil. It is time for the Christian father and mother to hold up a higher standard of recreation and a different class of amusements. Church members have been accepting the standards of the world for entertainment instead of accepting those that are in harmony with clean thinking and righteous acting. Let all learn that the very appearance of evil must be shunned; that good works must be maintained; that Christians should keep themselves unspotted from the world; that they are to follow the Lord Jesus Christ and thus bless humanity. God has greater work for the young people in the church than to dissipate their life and energies in chasing the delusive phantoms of pleasure. The life that seeks only for pleasure and amusement is useless, ignoble, and a signal failure.

Catechism on the Division Question.

[Harvey Scott, minister of the church at Itasca, Texas, sends us the following list of questions, and says: "These questions were written by Brother A. Alsop and given to my father some twenty years ago. I give them to you for publication, hoping that it may be of some good to some one."—EDITOR.]

1. Were not the disciples of Christ some fifty years ago united in word and doctrine?
2. Are those who now claim to be Christians and only Christians united as they were then?
3. How long have they been so divided?
4. What first caused dissension and discord?
5. Were they divided and having strife while they were contending for the doctrine of Christ and his apostles?
6. Did it not cause strife and division when such things as missionary societies, missionary boards, the Y. P. S. C. E., Ladies' Aid, and similar inventions were introduced?
7. Are these societies once named in the New Testament?
8. Did the apostles use such aids in spreading the gospel?
9. Was not the church of Christ the only missionary organization known to have been used by the apostles?
10. Are not the Holy Scriptures the only rule of faith and practice that we should have to-day?
11. Why go outside this rule and away from this practice now?
12. Are we sinning against God when we refuse to adopt anything not once mentioned in the Scriptures?
13. If a man is approved of God and justified when he employs unscriptural things, is a man who will not use such things not condemned for not using them?
14. If they are thus condemned, will you tell us what will become of the apostles and first Christians?
15. Is a modern missionary board, Y. P. S. C. E., or Ladies' Aid the church of Christ?
16. If you answer "No," then is it a plant our Heavenly Father planted?
17. If you answer "Yes," where did he plant it, and by whom, and where will we find the history of it?

18. Has a missionary society any history earlier than one hundred years ago among those called "Christians only?"
19. Who started these societies, and when, and where?
20. Who was the first president, and when was he elected?
21. By whom was Alexander Campbell made president of the Christian Missionary Society?
22. Did he ever occupy that position before October 24, 1849?
23. Was it not a new religious position or office unknown to Christ and his apostles?
24. Where in the New Testament do we find the law defining the duties, obligations, and responsibilities of the president of the Christian Missionary Society?
25. What chapter and verse defines "State Evangelist," "State Boards," and "Ladies' Aid Societies?"
26. Are not these societies, with all their duties, laws, and restrictions, of human origin?
27. If we can make such societies and laws to govern them without a word of authority from God to do it, can we not make a new church and new laws to govern it? If not, why not?
28. If we can do all this and be approved of God in doing so, in what are the Mormons sinning, and was Joe Smith an impostor in setting up the Church of Latter-day Saints?
29. Has not Joe Smith as much divine authority to set up his church as you have to set up any one of these human societies?
30. Did not John Wesley have as much divine authority to set up the Methodist Church, or John Calvin the Presbyterian Church, as any one has to set up human societies of modern times?
31. Is it not sinful to divide the people of God by forcing unscriptural things in the work and worship?
32. Who has departed from the Scriptures—those who demand book, chapter, and verse for the work and worship, or those who are willing to adopt and practice unscriptural things in the work and worship?
33. Who causes strife and division—the man who makes the Book his rule of faith and practice, or the man who adopts things because it works well?
34. Does transgression mean to go beyond or across?
35. Will God condemn transgression? (Heb. 2: 1-3.)
36. Were the Galatians wise when they accepted and obeyed the gospel?
37. Did they afterwards become foolish? (Gal. 3: 1.)
38. Did they want to go back under the law? (Gal. 4: 26.)
39. What did they want to adopt that was under the law? (Gal. 4: 9-11.)
40. How extensive is the law, or what does the term "law" include? (John 10: 34; Ps. 82: 6; 1 Cor. 14: 21; Isa. 28: 11, 12.)
41. Do not the Scriptures teach that law includes the Psalms and prophets?
42. If the Galatians were under the law when they observed its ordinances, are we not under it when we use the same without being guided by the Spirit?
43. If a man goes back to the law and worships as did the Galatians, what does Paul say has happened? (Gal. 5: 4.) "Fallen from grace."
44. When Peter adopted Jewish worship, what did Paul say of him? (Gal. 2: 11.)
45. What does Paul call those who go back to the law? (Gal. 2: 1-9.) Did Paul submit to them? (Gal. 2: 5.)
46. When we use the instruments in the worship and quote Psalms and the prophets, do we not follow the same rule the Galatians did?
47. Would that be called perverting the gospel of Christ, were he here?
48. Was Paul a perverter of God's word? (2 Cor. 4: 1, 2.)
49. How did Paul live? (Gal. 2: 20.)
50. Brother, are you trying to live like he did?

Texas-Oklahoma Department

By C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

Should a Christian Engage in War?

BY K. C. MOSER.

Inasmuch as some are giving their views concerning war and the Christian's relation to it, I beg to be heard also.

According to the present order of things, wars are inevitable. Just as long as man attempts to rule man, just that long will wars continue. God has never willingly relinquished his right to rule over man. When Samuel was asked for a king, God said to him: "Hearken unto the voice of the people in all that they say unto thee; for they have not rejected thee, but they have rejected me, that I should not reign over them." Human governments originated in rebellion against God, and wars are but the natural consequence in the form of curses.

Since wars are inevitable, should a Christian fight, either voluntarily or involuntarily? If he should fight, then, to fight is his duty. If it be a duty, is the obligation to fight a political or religious one? If a religious obligation, where, then, is such duty revealed? If a political obligation, and not a religious one, is such a duty apposite to Christianity? But if a Christian fight involuntarily, is he justified? These are serious questions, and I think they should be studied in times of peace. Free discussion of these matters was not permitted during the war, so now is the accepted time.

To begin with, let us attempt to go from the known to the unknown. "If any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his." Now, if the spirit of war is not the Spirit of Christ, then a Christian cannot engage in war. But what is the Spirit of Christ? "But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness," etc. (Gal. 5: 22.) The spirit of war is the spirit of hatred and confusion. Therefore, the Spirit of Christ is not the spirit of war, unless love is hatred. Will some one who stands for Christians' going to war explain how one can have the spirit of war and the Spirit of Christ at the same time?

The spirit of Christianity is the spirit of its founder, Christ. Isaiah said that Christ would be called "The Prince of Peace." Some contend as though Isaiah had said "The Prince of War." At his birth the angels sang: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." "A bruised reed shall he not break, and the dimly burning flax shall he not quench." "For hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered for you, leaving you an example, that ye should follow his steps: who did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth: who, when he was reviled, reviled not again; when he suffered, threatened not; but committed himself to him that judgeth righteously."

Paul gives the relationship of Christians to civil governments in the thirteenth chapter of Romans. He represents it as one of subjection. "Let every soul be subject to the higher powers." Paul here distinguishes between the rulers and the ruled, and represents the Christian as the ruled. In verses 6 and 7 paying taxes is also enjoined. Now, here is one place where Christians are advised as to their duty as subjects to governments. Will some one give the place where they are advised as to their duties as rulers?

But some one may urge that subjects are the very ones who fight, and the Bible enjoins subjection. Yes, if there would be no more wars till the rulers took their stand in the front of the battle, I would be more hopeful of universal peace. Christians are to be subject to the "higher powers;" but what, if any, is the limit of such obedience? Should we be in subjection regardless of the nature of the command? Should the government demand something of us that God forbids, whom must we obey? Peter was forbidden to preach in the name of Christ. What did he answer? "Then Peter and the other apostles answered, and said, We ought to obey God rather than men." The king decreed that Daniel should no more pray to God, threatening him with a den of lions. Did he pray? He did. Did he commit sin for failing to be subject to the "higher powers?" No. "We ought to obey God rather than men." But there are few Daniels to-day. Men used to know how to suffer, and even to die, for the right. But this seems to be a lost art, and I believe religious teachers are partly responsible. During the war I heard a college professor, who was also a preacher, make a war talk at the Lord's table. One would have thought him bloodthirsty. Another preacher said he could shoot the Kaiser "between the eyes" and feel good about it. If all had the spirit of these two men, what an army Christ would have! Do you think that Christ would like to be general over such an army? May the good Lord have mercy upon us.

Suppose two Christians, one living in the United States and the other living in Germany. Let us pause just a minute to see what relation these two Christians sustain to each other. "Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer; and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him." "We ought to lay down our lives for the brethren." "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God." "If ye love one another, God dwelleth in us." "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren." "Now ye are the body of Christ." "And whether one member suffer, all the members suffer with it." "As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith." Such is the relationship of these two Christians. Can they fight?

Now, the United States and Germany declare war, and these two Christians are enlisted on opposite sides and meet face to face on the battle field. I want some preacher who believes in Christians' engaging in war to tell these two men how to proceed; and while he does so, I want him to bear in mind the above scripture. Would you suggest a prayer? James says: "Pray one for another." But do you say that this is not the time for prayer? Christ himself said that "men ought always to pray." But do you further urge that this is not the place for prayer? "I will therefore that men pray everywhere, lifting up holy hands, without wrath and doubting."

The battle is on, and these Christians must act, and that quickly. Let some preacher who believes in Christians engaging in war tell them how to proceed.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC IN THE WORSHIP

By M. C. Kurfees

Cloth. 300 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

This is the most comprehensive book on this important subject now before the public. In it the Greek verb "psallo" is philologically and historically examined, together with a full discussion of kindred matters relating to music in Christian worship. The book is the result of a lifetime of critical study and research, and has become the standard of information on the music question. It has been highly recommended by scholarly brethren in the church of Christ and in the religious world.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY
Nashville, Tenn.

Where Was I to Get the Money?

—And Then Emma Broach Told Me About Her "Magic Purse Filler"—An Ideal Way to Earn Extra Money Each Week without Having to Step Out of the House.

How we were going to manage was worrying me almost sick. I hadn't had anything new for so long that I was getting ashamed to go anywhere. And I wanted things for the house—new curtains and a long list of other items.

Everet's teeth needed attention. So did mine. And there were some bills six months overdue.

But where was the money to come from? We were paying for a home. That and the butcher's and grocer's bills and other necessary expenses took every cent almost as fast as Everet could earn it. No matter how we skimmed and squeezed and went without, there was never anything left over.

I COULDN'T NEGLECT MY HOME

"If I could only earn some extra money!" I kept thinking. But it seemed like wishing for the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

Nearly every day I had my work all done by one or two o'clock or a little after. Often I was all through by ten or eleven in the morning. It seemed a shame to let all that spare time go to waste when I needed money so badly.

But what could I do? I couldn't neglect the housework—so a place in a store or office requiring regular hours was out of the question. Except for plain mending, I couldn't sew. I knew I was not cut out for selling—and I was too sensitive about what the neighbors would say to try anything so public. Rack my brain as I would, there seemed nothing else left.

EMMA HAD A LOT OF NEW THINGS

One afternoon last spring when I was feeling blue and discouraged, Emma Broach came over. We had been friends since our school days. But now we lived so far apart that it was often a long time between visits.

Of course I was glad to see her. But I must confess that in a way she made me feel more blue and discouraged than ever. From head to heels everything she had on was new—she looked as if she had just stepped out of a fashion plate. I couldn't help envying her.

When she mentioned a little trip she had taken the week before, and some new furniture she had just ordered for her living room, my envy doubled. I knew her husband didn't make any more than Everet. I wondered how she did it. Finally I blurted right out and asked her.

I WAS ALL EARS

"Really, Helene," she answered, "I have bought so many things in the last few months that I know people must think some rich relative has left us all his money. But it's even better than that. I call it my 'Magic Purse Filler'."

"Helene," she went on, "I've found the ideal way to earn money at home—in spare time. It's so easy and interesting that it doesn't seem like work at all."

I was all ears—maybe Emma's "Magic Purse Filler" would solve my troubles, too.

"You know how popular wool hose have become," she continued, "even in summer—for golf, tennis, and other sports. And in winter everybody wants them. That's the secret of all my new things—I earn them by knitting hose."

"O, no!" Emma explained, in answer to my question. "Not by hand. I knit them on a wonderful little hand-knitting machine—my 'Magic Purse Filler.' I can knit a pair in so short a time. And I get fine pay for every pair I make."

Mrs. Helene Himberg
261 Wyckoff Street
Brooklyn, N. Y.

EMMA TELLS THE WAY

"But who pays you?" I asked. "And how did you get started?"

"There is a concern in Rochester, N. Y.," Emma answered, "that wants all the home-knit hose it can get—to supply to stores. You know how nearly everybody thinks genuine home-knit goods are so much better than the factory kind. It's the Home Profit Hosiery Company. You get the knitter from them. They show you how to use it—how to knit hose, sweaters, and many other articles. They also furnish free yarn—it doesn't cost you a penny. You do the knitting entirely at your own convenience—sit down at the machine just whenever you feel like it. Then, as fast as you finish a dozen or more pairs, you send them to the Home Profit Hosiery Company and they send you a check. It's the easiest way to earn extra money I ever heard of."

If Emma could do it, why couldn't I? She had a booklet with her that told all about the plan. I eagerly read every word of it, and then immediately sent for a machine.

With the machine came a book of instructions that made everything simple and clear. After a little practice—simply following directions carefully—I quickly got the knack of it, and have been doing fine ever since.

MY FIRST CHECK

The first week—just sitting down at the machine whenever I had nothing else to do—I knit four dozen pairs. A few days later I received my first check—and how happy and proud I was! Since then the postman has brought me dozens of such checks—many of them for much larger amounts—but none of them has ever given me such a thrill as that first one did, for it meant that at last I had found the way to keep my pocketbook filled instead of empty—a way to end all the old skimping and worrying and doing without.

Operating the Home Profit Knitter looked so easy that Everet, who at first sort of pooh-poohed the whole idea, got interested and tried his hand. Now, many an evening he fills his pipe and sits down at the Knitter and knits two or three or a half dozen pairs of hose before going to bed—says he would rather do it than read.

I NO LONGER HAVE TO DO WITHOUT

Before long I had all the back bills paid up and enough money to blossom out in new clothes. Also for the first time in my life I now have a little money in the bank—all my own. And the amount is steadily growing larger each month.

It's really surprising what a difference a little extra money can make. More than once I have earned enough in a single week to pay for a nice new dress. The biggest check I ever received in all my life came one week when Everet helped me every evening. Everet said last night maybe we would be better off if he were to quit his job as a painter and give all his time to knitting hose—and at that perhaps there's more truth in his remark than he realized.

MRS. HELENE HIMBERG,
261 Wyckoff St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

NOTE—The above is an actual experience. It was related by Mrs. Himberg to one of our representatives, and is printed here practically in her own words. Mrs. Himberg's signed statement as to the facts is on file in our office.

IT'S HELPING HUNDREDS OF OTHERS

All over America, the Home Profit Knitter is helping girls and women (and men, too) turn their spare time into money—helping people get out of debt—helping them pay for homes—helping them dress better—helping them buy new furniture and pianos and phonographs—helping them provide for trips and vacations and other pleasures—helping them to lay up money to send their boys and girls to college—helping them build bank accounts—helping them buy cars—helping them get more comfort, more enjoyment, and more self-respect out of life.

Knitting socks on the Home Profit Knitter is easy, rapid, profitable, and pleasant. You can also knit sweaters, golf stockings, ladies' stockings, or children's stockings, and many other articles. All you have to do is to follow the simple instructions. You can send all your work to the Home Profit Hosiery Company and get good pay for it—all on a guaranteed basis—or you can buy your yarn and sell the finished work direct to friends and neighbors and local stores, just as you choose. Either way you can earn extra money every week the year round—the amount depending on how much time you give to the work.

If your regular income is not enough—if there are things you want or need—why not at least write to the Home Profit Hosiery Company and get full information? Through their simple and guaranteed plan you can easily bring an end to your worries about money—and without having to step out of the house. Use the coupon. Do it right away—it may make a difference of hundreds of dollars a year to you.

The Master Knitter

COUPON
HOME PROFIT HOSIERY COMPANY, Inc.
Dept. K-11, 872 Hudson Avenue
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Send me full information about making money at home in my spare time with the HOME PROFIT KNITTER. I am inclosing two cents postage to cover cost of mailing, and I understand that I am not obligated in any way.

NAME STREET
CITY..... STATE.....
(Write name and address plainly.)

HOME PROFIT HOSIERY CO.

DEPT. K-11

872 HUDSON AVENUE

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels with
"California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California," or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Field Reports

Snyder, Texas, November 4.—Since my last report to the Gospel Advocate I have held the following meetings with results stated: McAllen, Texas, two baptized; Tennessee Valley, near Belton, Texas, nine baptized and six restored; Dunn, Texas, twenty-three baptized and three restored; Ira, Texas, forty-five baptized and seven restored; Hart, Texas, one baptized; Tularosa, N. M., no visible results; Webb, Ariz., five baptized and one restored. One confession at El Paso. I shall do evangelistic work in Scurry County, Texas. Please announce that my address is changed from 3929 Hueco Street, El Paso, Texas, to Snyder, Texas, Box 474.—W. A. Schultz.

Fort Worth, Texas, November 1.—Last Sunday was a great and glad day for the Southside church of Christ, but not so glad for me. It was my last day with that splendid body of Christians, who for more than three years have stood by me through prosperity and adversity. I prayed at the beginning of the morning service that my last day with them might be a fruitful day, and at the close there came forward a young lady of one of the best families to take membership and a young man to be baptized. At the night service there were five more to take membership and another man to be baptized. The church has much more than doubled its membership since I came here. There have been more than three hundred added from all sources, though many have moved away, some have died, and some have taken membership in some of the nine other congregations in Fort Worth. This church has done more real Christian service for humanity than any church I know of in the world to-day. After their regular contribution the church gave me a liberal donation to help hold the mission meeting at Carlsbad, N. M., and pledged more. Indeed, they are "the salt of the earth." The man who succeeds me will not find hard sledding, but he will find a band of Christians who will make him hustle, and that is just what he needs. God bless them. My family will live on here in our home.—Tice Elkins.

Sparta, Tenn., November 4.—Brother G. A. Dunn, of Dallas, Texas, held one of the best meetings here that it has ever been the pleasure and profit of this congregation to enjoy. Brother Dunn, though a comparatively young man, is a progressive Bible scholar and impressive teacher. He emphasizes the all-sufficiency of the Scriptures in the most forceful manner, and comes as near reading nothing into or out of the Scriptures as any one I know. He is able to lay down many old theories of past and darker ages which encumber many good brethren and has learned to depend wholly on the word of God for his guidance. This is really one of his great accomplishments, and it makes him bold and fearless and very confident in his positions. For example, his ability to stick to this manner of reading the Scriptures has caused him to lay down such unwritten and unsound positions as that which teaches that there be such a thing as an "ordinary gift of the Holy Spirit" or "the nonmiraculous gift of the Holy Spirit." The meetinghouse was crowded to hear about all his excellent discourses, and while he, from a previous meeting, held a warm place in the hearts of all, yet his sojourn and labor with us greatly strengthened their Christian love and attachment to him. There resulted from his preaching forty-three additions, part of whom were reclaimed. At the last two night sermons there were gathered fifteen to the congregation. Brother Brooks, our regular preacher, whom we all are very fond of, preached the first night after Brother Dunn left to a full house, and one other young man confessed and was baptized.—J. E. Thompson.

North Salem, Mo., November 1.—At this writing I am at North Salem, teaching a singing school for the brethren. Nine weeks ago I left Savoy, Texas, for Browning, Mo. I have taught and sung every day and night since I came to North Missouri. My work here has been with the brethren, and I am sure much and lasting good has been accomplished for the Master. I have been teaching and singing for meetings for about twenty-three years, and most of the time I have been forced to teach for the general public on account of the brethren's not calling me until my time for the following year would all be contracted. About all my time this year has been spent with the church, and I

Renew your health
by purifying your system with

The purified and refined
calomel tablets that are free
from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c
and 35c packages, bearing
above trade-mark.

thank God and take courage. Many gospel singers are forced to spend almost their entire time with the "sects," and much of the time they are so far from any of our brethren they cannot even worship. God wants his children to labor in his vineyard, and experience has taught me that there is nothing that will build up and strengthen the church as much and as fast as good singing; and it should be remembered, too, that the gospel in song will reach some people that cannot be reached otherwise. I hope the time is not far away when the brethren will look after the gospel singer as well as the gospel preacher. The gospel singer is, indeed, a gospel preacher, and it is just as much a command to sing as it is to preach, and God would have all his children sing and preach. After this week I will go home for a few days, and then I will begin a school for the brethren at Valley View, near Hackett, Ark. Brethren, pray for me that I may ever be faithful and carry out the will of my Father. Those desiring my services will please address me at my home—104 Eleventh Street, Mena, Ark.—Frank Grammer.

Englewood, Tenn., Route 1, November 4.—I am preaching once a month for the oldest congregation, perhaps, in Tennessee—Old Spring Creek, about ten miles west of Athens, in McMinn County. The church at this place has been too careless in building; therefore, in selling the farm on which the church house stands, there was no deed found anywhere among the members, nor any found in the register's office, and the man who owns the farm is not a member of the church and forbids the repairing of the old house or building a new one. The old members are all dead; not one living who knows anything about a title to the property. Now, to buy a lot and build is the only way out. They are poor folks, but very zealous, and they are determined to build them a house to worship in. If this comes under the eye of any one who would like to help in this worthy work, please send the amount to T. J. Mathews, Riceville, Tenn., or to W. A. Daugherty, Englewood, Tenn. In McMinn County and the adjoining counties Brethren G. W. Farmer, Charles Holder, and W. C. Phillips are creating quite an interest in calling the attention of the people back to the old paths—to the gospel as preached at Jerusalem on the first Pentecost after the resurrection of Jesus Christ. I have been preaching for forty years in the hill country of East Tennessee and have baptized hundreds of good men and women, and I love them dearly, and I feel that I am loved and respected by them all. I am preaching now every Lord's day. On the first Lord's day in each month I preach at Liberty; on the second, at Liberty Hill; on the third, at Etowah; and on the fourth, at Old Spring Creek. These congregations are all poor, but they are striving hard to let their light shine. If any one wishes to inquire of the church at Old Spring Creek and its needs, write to Brother W. C. Phillips or Brother G. W. Farmer, Cleveland, Tenn.—W. A. Daugherty.

Who Else Will Help?

BY J. D. TANT.

A short time ago I made a statement in the Gospel Advocate of our great need of a tent in Western Florida and of putting Brother Peden or Brother Cannon, who have long labored there and know the people, out in tent work constantly. I sent out fifty personal letters to churches in West Tennessee, begging for one Lord's-day's contribution to help in this work. Some eight or ten answered the call and have sent me ninety dollars. Brother Peden writes me that one church in Florida had planned to put fifty dollars in the tent, but a recent storm blew their house away and they cannot help. We need one hundred dollars more for this tent, and the members desire to commence tent work in January. Brethren, I ask you, in His name, to send me one Lord's-day's contribution to help in this work.

I used to think I knew I knew,
But now I must confess
The more I know I know I know,
I know I know the less.
—Selected.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPIING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
—SOLD EVERYWHERE—

"HERE ARE THOSE ANTI-PAIN PILLS"

"I don't need them very often, but when I do, I need them quick. One or two and the pain is gone."
Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will relieve you quickly and safely—no unpleasant after effects—no danger of forming a drug habit.
Next time you pass a drug store stop in and get a box.
Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills contain no habit forming drugs.
Your Druggist Has Them!

EXPERT DYEING AND DRY CLEANING

SEND BY PARCEL POST

"Over Forty Years"

Experience"

McEWEN'S LAUNDRY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

"THEY SAID I HAD T. B. AND WOULD NOT LIVE THREE MONTHS"

Mr. Harold W. Schmidt, Box 98, Breese, Clinton Co., Ill., believes he has reason to praise Dr. Hartman's Remedy for Catarrhal conditions.

"I used Pe-ru-na eight months for Chronic Bronchial Catarrh. I do not get tired, feel like a giant, am six pounds over normal weight and able to work every day. In March, 1918, I contracted a severe cold with spitting and took to my bed. They said I had T. B. and would not live three months. After taking a couple bottles of Pe-ru-na and a box of Man-a-lin Tablets, could walk around and in seven months went back to work. My trouble was due to Chronic Catarrh of the nose and throat, which I had ten years, extending down into the bronchial tubes, "Pe-ru-na was my life saver."

"FEEL LIKE A GIANT
SINCE USING
PE-RU-NA"

TABLETS OR LIQUID

A HALF CENTURY IN USE

SOLD EVERYWHERE

WINTERSMITH'S
CHILL TONIC

SOLD 50 YEARS — A FINE GENERAL TONIC

If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

COULD NOT TURN IN BED

Operation Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg- etable Compound

Dayton, Ohio.—"I had such pains that I had to be turned in bed every time I wished to move. They said an operation was necessary. My mother would keep saying: 'Why don't you take Pinkham's, Henrietta?' and I'd say, 'Oh, mamma, it won't help me, I've tried too much.' One day she said, 'Let me get you one bottle of each kind. You won't be out very much if it don't help you.' I don't know if you will believe me or not, but I only took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine when I began to get relief and I am regular ever since without a pain or a headache.

When I lie down I can get up without help and without pain. I can't begin to tell you how I feel and look. I have begun to gain in weight and look more like I ought to. I think every day of ways I have been helped. Any one who does not believe me can write to me and I will tell them what shape I was in. I am ready to do anything I can to help your medicine."—Mrs. HENRIETTA MILLER, 137 Sprague St., Dayton, Ohio.

If you have any doubt write to Mrs. Miller and get her story direct.

For the HAIR—

To make it soft, fluffy, and free from dandruff, use

TETTERINE

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Rodeheaver's Gospel Songs

Our New Book ready Oct. 1st.

Also: Victory Songs,
Awakening Songs
Songs for Service

For all religious occasions. Shaped or round notes

Singly	45c Cloth	Quantities	40c
prepaid.	35c Limp	Not	30c
	30c Manila	Prepaid	25c

Catalog of Sheet Music, Song Books, Bibles—
Books and Folding Organs on request.

Rainbow Sacred Records

Favorite Gospel Selections 75c each not postpd.
Ask for Complete List

THE RODEHEAVER COMPANY

Chicago, Ill. Philadelphia, Pa.
681 McClurg Bldg. Dpt. 26—814 Walnut St.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

Righteousness.

BY H. M. PHILLIPS.

Righteousness is something about which the world in general knows but little. So many are ignorant of God's righteousness and go about to set up their own, and do not know the difference. In Rom. 10: 3 we are clearly told of two kinds, and all who believe God know that only one kind is accepted. Since all the commands of God are righteousness (Ps. 119: 172), and the righteousness of God is revealed in the gospel (Rom. 1: 16, 17), it is very plain that all must know and reach it before God's requirements are met. In order to reach such, one must hunger and thirst (Matt. 5: 6) and then work it (Acts 10: 35), for only those who do righteousness are really righteous (1 John 3: 7). We are to live unto righteousness (1 Pet. 2: 24), and the result will be that we will be heard in our prayers (1 Pet. 3: 12) and at last receive a crown of righteousness from the Lord (2 Tim. 4: 8.) Now, since all these statements are true, we should be very careful as to how we treat the subject both in word and act.

The crying need of the world has always been, and will continue to be, God's righteousness. So many theories have been placed before the world that not a few are kept in ignorance by them, and God's commands have been neglected. No one can be saved by his own righteousness, nor can he hope to meet with God's way by establishing his own. The only safe way is to submit to God's righteousness. (Rom. 10: 3.) There are many questions which would be forever settled if people would fully grasp this. Since Jesus was baptized to fulfill all righteousness (Matt. 3: 15), and in doing this he submitted to the righteousness of God (Rom. 10: 3) how can one now honestly think he can please God in rejecting this command to all (Matt. 28: 19, 20) and not work that part of righteousness (Acts 10: 35)? No less will the same apply to the alien than those things that refer to Christians. To stay away from the assembly as some do (Heb. 10: 25) is not working the righteousness of God, nor is it submitting to it. In other words, an alien is no more bound to accept God's way and commands than one who is his child.

Then the real question would be, how much of God's righteousness must one submit to in order to be saved? If there is one command to us that can be left out, which one is it, and by what authority is it done? Since all power belongs to Christ (Matt. 28: 18), where will my or your power come? If you can skip baptism, may I not skip the assembly? If we can do that, will not any one have a right to skip any or all of God's commands? Then what would be the use of a Bible or a God to lead us? Which part of God's righteousness is it that you are failing to be submissive to? If any, may the Lord help you to submit before it be too late. God's way alone is safe.

SORES BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

Homes Furnished Complete

Terms to Suit Everybody

TELEPHONE, MAIN 1096

HILARY E. HOWSE

FURNITURE, CARPETS
STOVES AND RANGES

We Exchange Furniture as Part
Payment

304-306-308 BROADWAY

105-107-109 THIRD AVE., N.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL

Look at the address label that comes with each copy of the Gospel Advocate. If it bears a date that has passed, please send renewal of subscription —$2.00 a year.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE
Nashville, Tenn.

Headaches

Are Usually Due to
Constipation

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

MRS. I. RIERSON

Stomach Trouble?
Are You Nervous?

Why Not Enjoy Perfect Health?

Winston-Salem, N. C.—"I suffered for about eight months with nervous indigestion, and had several doctors to see me but found no relief until a friend suggested Dr. Pierce's Medicines. I was not able to sleep at night and could not eat, just lived on sweet milk and bread. I began to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and took one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, with wonderful relief. I am now past 40, but feel just as I did at 19. I also gave the Discovery to my children, and now I am giving it to my grandchildren.

"You will always find a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in my home, and I will recommend it to anyone suffering from nervousness."

—Mrs. Izie Rierson, 2415 Hege St.

You can quickly put yourself in A-1 condition by going to your druggist and obtaining Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in tablets or liquid, or write Dr. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free advice.

W. W. PERRY
President

A. D. PERRY
Manager

W. D. PERRY
Treasurer

We Invite Your Patronage

PERRY FURNITURE
COMPANY

GENERAL HOUSE FURNISHERS

Phone, Main 1491

208 THIRD AVENUE, NORTH
NASHVILLE, TENN.

PILES
CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or call without delay. Private reception rooms for ladies. Established since 1912. Free X-Ray examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

The Great Commission.

BY TICE ELKINS.

Matt. 28: 19, 20 is in your Bible. Jesus said: "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations." And he said "baptize" the taught. While you are wondering to-day why more of the unsaved do not obey the baptism part of the "great commission," while our best preachers are giving the best that is in them to teach and beg and persuade them to be baptized, did it ever occur to you that the unsaved are wondering why the church does not obey the "go teach" part of the commission?

Do you know that the preachers cannot obey for you—that they cannot go and teach the untaught and unsaved unless you go with them with your means? Shall we stand in the judgment day condemned as preachers for not teaching, when we could not go at our own charges and leave our families to starve or beg?

Is a man doing right who will not provide for his own household? And has the preacher any other way to provide for his own, only to depend upon the churches of God to support him while he goes to teach? Brethren, did you not know that many people who are convinced that we have the truth will not obey and come into the church just because they understand that we do not support our preachers and do mission work? It is a fact.

And did you know that the sects are sending their preachers with money to convert and build churches in virgin territory, while we, with all the means we need, are not sending one to their hundreds? Will you not read this, then pray God for help and light and direction, and then go down into your pocket and send a contribution to the Carlsbad mission meeting? Brother Taylor and I are going there to begin on November 24. Brother Taylor will be taken care of by Dallas churches. I have eighteen dollars on a support, and am going on trusting God. Shall I trust my brethren, too? It will probably require a month to get a church started there, but—shall we fail? We will not fail if you do your duty and hold up our hands. I am not begging for myself, but for those people where the pure gospel has never been preached. Shall they have their opportunity? Shall I say to them after a week or two: "I would have stayed longer and taught you the whole truth, but I must go somewhere else and find provisions for my family?" Brethren, it must not be. Send donations to H. E. Wilkerson, Carlsbad, N. M. Ask your congregation to send a Lord's-day contribution.

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds Headache
Toothache Lumbago
Earache Rheumatism
Neuralgia Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

TETTERINE

Ends Complexion Worries

Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

FRED K. JONES

Buying, Selling, and Exchanging

REAL ESTATE

I Make an Effort to Assist All
Who Call on Me

43 ARCADE

NASHVILLE, TENN.

DEEP-SEATED FRECKLES

Need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women for over 14 years, and rid yourself of these homely spots. Ask for

Othine--Double Strength

At all Druggists and Department Stores.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

FARMERS AND MERCHANTS BANK

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

OFFICERS

A. E. POTTER, President
 JOE S. BOYD, Vice President
 FRANK M. THONI, Assistant Cashier
 EDWARD POTTER, JR., Cashier
 GEORGE W. BATES, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS

O. W. Staley	Harris Solinsky	Leon B. McQuiddy
Jos. C. Scheffer	G. A. Harrington	W. J. Wallace
John P. Stumb	L. Kornman	Justin Potter
A. E. Potter	Chris. J. Power	Louis Huggins
H. Z. Lipscomb	Joe S. Boyd	Edward Potter, Jr.

FOUR PER CENT PAID ON SAVINGS ACCOUNTS
We Invite Your Banking Business

STATE BANK AND TRUST CO.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

BROADWAY BRANCH
 Ninth and Broadway

4 Per Cent Interest Paid on Deposits

A Gateway to Nature's Bounty

From the great Appalachians on the East to the "Father of Waters" on the West and from the mighty Ohio on the North to the powerful Tennessee on the South is a country wonderfully blessed with natural resources—both agricultural and mineral.

Located in the fertile valley of the Cumberland, in the center of this remarkably rich region, lies Nashville—the natural gateway to this great wealth.

For nearly forty years this bank has had an important part in the development of these native resources for the prosperity of our citizenry.

THE AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK

NASHVILLE

"A GREATER BANK

for GREATER NASHVILLE."

Further Comment on 2 Cor. 6: 14.

BY A. A. BUNNER.

Some months ago I wrote an article for the Gospel Advocate, under the caption, "That He Might Seek a Godly Seed." Some brother (I do not now recall his name), in commending said article, offered a criticism on my exposition of 2 Cor. 6: 14. While the brother's criticism manifested wholly the spirit of Christ, still he thought I was wrong in my contention that the verse had no reference to the marriage relation, he thinking, as I understood him, that the verse relates wholly to the marriage relation. After a careful reconsideration of the passage, I am more than ever convinced that my view of the passage is correct and the brother's wrong, and I am strongly led to the conclusion that the reasoning that applies it to the marriage relation is far-fetched. Hence, I ask to be allowed to reason as best I can with the pen on this verse.

If my wife and I were both unbelievers, and I should finally become a believer and obey the gospel of Christ and my wife still remain in unbelief, according to our good brother's exposition of the passage, I would be duty bound to sever my connection with her, so far as the marriage relation is concerned. I could not be united with her in this relationship and please God. While the passage might in a way be applied to the marriage relation, if properly considered in all of its relations and bearings, still it has a direct bearing with our business relation with men of the world. The emphasis should be placed upon the word "unequally." It does not say, "Be ye not yoked together," but, "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers." (See Deut. 7: 2, 3.) I have known in my time many believers that were much harder to get along with in the marriage relation than many so-called "unbelievers." Once upon a time a young man was paying his respects to a young lady with a view to marriage, and John Wesley told the young man that the girl would not suit him for a wife, and the young man said: "Is she not a Methodist and a Christian?" "Yes," said Wesley, "she is a Christian and all right." "Then why not we get married?" Wesley replied: "There are many women in the world with whom Jesus can get along all right, whom you could not get along with." In this Mr. Wesley was right, for he himself had made a sad mistake in selecting a life companion. Hence, it matters not what the relationship is that you are yoked with an unbeliever in life, if you are unequally yoked with one, if you cannot come to an agreement with such a one to make the yoke at least equal, you are then under obligation both to yourself and to God to break the yoke and sever the relationship by which you are bound to that unbeliever. All the Scriptures having any bearing on this subject bear this idea out to the fullest extent.

I will now relate a circumstance which came under my own observation. Many years ago, when I was only a strip of a boy, a cousin of mine who was a disciple of Christ married into a Methodist family; also, a neighbor girl who was a disciple of Christ married into the same family. And this, too, was a fine family. The men whom they married were fine men, model young men, and their father was a fine man, too. These young men loved their wives and were good to them, and the girls, in turn, loved their husbands. But these men were born and reared in the Methodist faith, and they loved their church and would attend it, and they wanted their wives to attend with them—a thing they would not do. On a certain Lord's-day morning I was at their home, and their father came by on his way to his church and stopped to take his boys, and the boys wanted their wives to go along, but they would not. I heard one of the boys say to the old man: "Father, we cannot get our women to go to church with us." The old man only made this reply: "Well, let them have their own way in the matter." So off to church the old man and his boys started, without their wives. After they had gone, I said to them: "Girls, I want to give you both a piece of what I consider good advice: Stick, stick, stick closely to your Lord, and you will finally bring the men to him." They took the advice, and the result was that both of the men came into the church with their wives, and the one who had married my cousin became an elder and a good public teacher in the congregation. And that was not all. Their youngest brother and his wife, who were both born and reared Methodists, finally came into the church, and he is still an efficient elder in the church of Christ at old Mount Nebo, in Marion County, W. Va. Had those girls decided that to marry those men would be unequally yoking themselves with unbelievers, the chances are the whole family would have lived and died in Methodism; but, through the steadfastness of those two Christian girls, the whole family (an older brother and a sister excepted) was brought out of Methodism into the church of the living God. "Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, for as much as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord." (1 Cor. 15: 58.) Hence, labor that is not vain is paying labor. Daniel and his two companions were yoked together (but not unequally, for they were equal to the tasks set before them) with a nation of base idolaters and unbelievers, but through their steadfast devotion to their God were enabled to turn a whole nation from their idolatry and to the acknowledgment of the true and living God.

Colley-Tyndall Debate.

BY A. O. COLLEY.

One amusing thing about this debate was that the great champion (?) of instrumental music, John W. Tyndall, gave up his famous argument on Revelation—viz., heaven being the church and God's throne being in the church here on earth. We could not drive him to consider his old position, which he so boldly took at Clarendon. He knows when he gets his fingers burnt. The tract I brought out on the Clarendon debate was circulated freely around Hunnewell, Kan., where the second debate was held; and, to make his people believe the tract did not fairly represent his argument at Clarendon, he stayed away from his argument on the church and heaven being the same, and his harps being literal harps in Revelation (14: 1, 2). He chose about the same line of argument that the others of his contention have followed, with the exception of their contention on "psallo." He may get to that next time, as he seems to be ever changing his position.

One of the enjoyable features of the Hunnewell debate was the hearty cooperation of the Braman (Okla.) church. Though nine miles away, they were there almost in full every time, and also supported it financially. Brother W. T. Hines, the minister there, was a great help. He loves the truth and does not fail to come to the front with the best there is in him when it is assailed by a compromiser.

Brother Utley, of Blackwell, is the next nearest preacher on the field. He is also able and willing to care for the truth. He has written me an invitation to meet Tyndall in Blackwell.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-

CONSTIPATION BILIOUSNESS Headache INDIGESTION Stomach Trouble

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Needs a Compass.

A ship's compass is so adjusted as to keep its level amidst all the heavings of the sea. Though forming part of a structure that feels every motion of the restless waves, it has an arrangement of its own that keeps it always in place and in working order. Look at it when you will, it is pointing—trembling, perhaps, but truly—to the pole. So each soul in this life needs an adjustment of its own, that amid the fluctuations of the "earthen vessel" it may be kept ever in a position to feel the power of its great attraction in the skies. A nation adjusted right toward God will have peace. A world so adjusted will have peace.—Expositor.

Enrich Your Blood With This Newer Form of Iron

For many years physicians and chemists experimented to produce a newer form of iron, like the iron in your blood, because they realized that the old metallic irons often blackened the teeth and upset the stomach. Their examinations proved that three out of every four people were deficient in iron content in the blood, and that thousands were weak, sick, nervous, ailing and run-down, and suffering from all sorts of alarming symptoms, when as a matter of fact their trouble was all due to iron starvation of the blood. At last they discovered this newer form of iron, like the iron in spinach, lentils, and apples, in highly concentrated form. It quickly helps put strength into your muscles and color into your cheeks. Get your doctor to take your red blood count to-day, then take this newer form of iron, known as Nuxated Iron, for a few weeks, and watch your red blood corpuscles increase; see how much purer and richer your blood becomes; how much stronger and better you feel; what difference it makes in your nerves. Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. Your money will be refunded if you do not obtain satisfactory results. In tablet form only. At all druggists'.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron has been used for years whenever needed in the family of the advertising representative of this paper with excellent results. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

NOTICE!

"Scriptural Songs," a new 1923 book, is ready. The new music is by the best writers for congregational singing of to-day. The words contain Bible doctrine for saint and sinner. Every preacher and song leader should have a copy to examine. Send your name and address, plainly written, on a one-cent post card at once for a sample copy. If satisfied with it, send twenty-five cents; if not, return the book. This offer is fair, isn't it?

Address Mrs. Lavinia Wright, 451½ Victoria Avenue, Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

HALF THE FIGHT AGAINST ILLNESS

Keep the Liver Prepared to Do Its Duty in Cleansing the System.
Black-Draught Will Help.

Kernersville, N. C.—Mrs. Wesley Mabe, who resides near here, says Thedford's Black-Draught is kept in her home all the time, since it has proved very valuable when used to correct derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels, and to help prevent sickness from developing from such conditions.

"For dizziness, headache, colds, and similar troubles, Black-Draught is a wonder," according to Mrs. Mabe.

"It helps carry away bile and cold the easiest of any medicine I ever saw.

"I have used Black-Draught with my whole family, and will continue to do so, as it has proven its worth. We are glad to recommend Black-Draught. My health is just fine."

Black-Draught has been found a useful adjuvant in breaking up colds, when the use of a laxative or cathartic medicine is indicated. It acts upon the liver as a tonic, helping it to drive poisons and unhealthful matters from the system.

Biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, bitter taste in the mouth, often warn you that your liver is out of fix. Don't neglect it. Prevention of illness is better than cure. Take Black-Draught for your liver. Be sure you get Thedford's.

Most druggists sell Black-Draught.
Get a package to-day—Thedford's.

PIANOS AND VICTROLAS

Sold for Cash or on Easy Payments

M. F. SHEA

305 Fifth Avenue, North
NASHVILLE, TENN.

PYORRHEA CURED

Or No Pay—Free Trial Treatment

Write to-day for Sample Bottle, sent free with booklet fully describing this guaranteed wonder cure for Pyorrhea, Loose Teeth, Bleeding and Ulcerated Gums, Abscesses, Gum Boils, etc. Send name and address to-day.

MOORE'S LABORATORIES,

Dept. 1093, 1422 Lydia, Kansas City, Mo.

BUY 25 POUND FEATHER BED 7.95

30 POUND BED $8.95
Pair Pillows, $1.95. New feathers. Beat ticking. $1,000 in Charlotte Bank & Trust Company as guarantee. MAIL ORDER TODAY. Free Catalog.
SANITARY BEDDING CO., Dept. L
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

Missionary Funds Forwarded.

BY NELLIE STRAITON.

During the third quarter, 1922, I forwarded to Sister Lillie Cypert the following amounts: July, $65; August, $50; September, $100.

Sister Cypert has been very busy since she returned home, partly with details of a purely personal nature and partly with many details connected with the missionary work. She has heard from Japan since leaving, and her helpers are getting along very well, although they miss Sister Cypert's presence and encouragement.

The literature is still being translated and printed, and the cost of this, as well as several other expenses, must be met each month; so Sister Cypert has been sending to Japan almost all the funds I have been able to forward to her. We want to keep up this good work while Sister Cypert is at home; so let us send her sufficient funds for her personal needs, as well as for the work in Japan.

Only about fifty dollars per month comes from "regular" contributors. When more than that is received, it is made up of gifts from "occasional" contributors. We ought to have at least one hundred dollars per month—much more, if possible; so, if you are not already coöperating with this or some other mission work, I shall be glad to hear from you whether you are a regular or occasional contributor. If you cannot give regularly, you may be able to give once in a while, and we need both classes of contributors.

Address Miss Nellie Straiton, 1030 South Lake Street, Fort Worth, Texas.

Woman Preaches at Jackson Miss.

"Mrs. E. V. Whipple, recently chosen as assistant to the pastor, preached at the eleven-o'clock service at the First Christian Church here Sunday, probably the first time in history a member of the gentle sex has appeared in a local pulpit and delivered a prepared sermon." (Special dispatch from Jackson, Miss., to the Birmingham News.)

A brother sends in this clipping and asks for comment. "Let your women keep silence in the churches: for it is not permitted unto them to speak; but they are commanded to be under obedience, as also saith the law. And if they will learn anything, let them ask their husbands at home: for it is a shame for women to speak in the church." (Paul.) We do not think it necessary to add anything to the comment of Paul, as he is authority for all who are satisfied with "what is written." If they are unwilling to accept this, nothing that we or any other man might say would benefit them.

A wounded Scotch Highlander lay upon a cot in a hospital in London, striking tenderly with his hand a German spiked helmet. A nurse, in passing his cot, stopped and looked at him and said: "I suppose you killed your man?" "No, indeed," he replied, "it was like this: He lay on the field badly wounded and bleeding, and I was in the same condition. I crawled to him and bound up his wounds; he did the same for me. I knew no German, and he knew no English, so I thanked him by just smiling. He thanked me by smiling back. By way of a token I handed him my cap, while he handed me this helmet. Then, lying side by side, we suffered together in silence till we were picked up by an ambulance squad."—Exchange.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Refreshes Weary Eyes

When Your Eyes feel Dull and Heavy, use Murine. It Instantly Relieves that Tired Feeling—Makes them Clear, Bright and Sparkling. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.

MURINE
FOR YOUR EYES

750 BIBLE & GOSPEL STUDIES
Brief Complete Outlines of Sermons, Talks, Studies; for Christians, Students, Teachers, Preachers, Covering Old and New Testaments. Ready Help for Leading Meetings. Many Important Questions Answered. Apt References and Short Spiritual Explanations. All Subjects Fully Covered. Vest Pocket Size, 128 pages. Cloth, 25c. Morocco 35c. postpaid. Stamps Taken. AGENTS Wanted.
GEO. W. NOBLE, Monon Building, Chicago, Ill.

Dodson's Liver ToneKilling Calomel Sale

Don't sicken or salivate yourself or paralyze your sensitive liver by taking calomel, which is quicksilver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it regulates the liver, stomach, and bowels better than calomel without making you sick. Fifteen million bottles sold.

TETTERINE

Drives Away Pimples

and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 60c at your druggist's or from the SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

A BRAND-NEW BOOK"OLD LIMBER"

OR

THE TALE OF THE TAYLORS

By DeLONG RICE

"ALF and BOB TAYLOR, with their eloquence, their fiddles, and their fox hounds, have wrought for themselves a niche of eternal melody in the hearts of their country."

So states the author of this little book, which we present as the best product of the pen of DeLong Rice.

With a "Cast of Characters extending from a President of the United States to a fox hound," the story touches a wide range of human sentiment; and through it all is the aroma of crackling camp fires and the music of the chase.

THE BOOK is beautifully printed and bound, appropriately illustrated, and packed in a neat gift box, ready for mailing.

PRICE, $1.00 THE COPY,
POSTPAID TO ANY ADDRESS.

Correspondence with Bookstores and News Agencies is invited.

Write to us to-day.

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Plum Street Church ofChrist, Detroit, Mich.,

Now meets in its new building, corner Hamilton Boulevard and Tuxedo Avenue. Visiting brethren welcome.

New York City Church of Christ239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M., Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6857.

CANCER

HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

Missionary Work Among the Japanese in America.

BY ROBERT S. KING.

Brother H. Ishiguro is now ready to begin mission work among his people on the Pacific Coast. There are eighty thousand of them in California, fifty thousand of which live in Los Angeles.

The Japanese are a very religious people, having eight million gods. These people have come to us with their idols and have built for themselves shrines and temples in our midst. What a great opportunity to preach Christ to a people who know not God and are without hope in the world!

Think of it! A people with no Creator, no Redeemer, no resurrection, whose only hope is to be reincarnated into some other being—a dog, cow, demon, or, perhaps, a tree. One of their writers gives these lines:

Through birth and rebirth's endless round

I ran and sought, but never found
Who formed and built this home of clay.

What misery! Birth for aye and aye.

What a dark future! No wonder they sing no songs of joy.

Now, Christian friend, take your Bible and read: "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me."

These are the people for whom Christ died. He endured Calvary that they might be saved, and they don't know it. What are you going to do about it? He said: "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature."

Funds received to date for this work are as follows: From N. N. Davidson, $15; church at Pasquo, $3.50; church at Jones Avenue, $2.50; church at Hebron, $3.50. Total, $24.50.

The church at David Lipscomb College is supporting Mrs. Ishiguro in Tokyo, and we will turn that into this fund as soon as she comes here.

Selections.

"Don't knock the schools too hard unless you are sure that you are doing your part in the home."

Upon these two foundations, the law of nature and the law of revelation, depend all human laws.

Pleasure comes through toil and not by self-indulgence and indolence. When one gets to love work, his life is a happy one.

"How is the gold become dim" in these days when righteousness has been sacrificed to greed and the gold is tarnished with the canker of selfishness until it shines no more!

Fresh Air.

Better to hunt in fields for health unbought,
Than fee the doctor for a nauseous draught.
The wise for cure on exercise depend;
God never made his work for man to mend.
—Dryden.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 15C.Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C.—Special.—People everywhere are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated news and story paper to new readers thirteen weeks for 15 cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, but he says it pays to invest in new friends. You will like this paper; it is chuck-full of just the kind of reading the people want, as its half million subscribers testify; it will keep you posted on activities at the nation's capital and the world over. Splendid stories and rare miscellany; question box is a mine of information. Only 15 cents in stamps or coin mailed at once to Pathfinder, 11 Langdon Station, Washington, D. C., will bring you for 13 weeks the breeziest, cleanest, sanest, most entertaining paper there is. You will be delighted.

Shave With Cuticura Soap
The New Way
Without Mug

E C Z E M A
IS CURABLE

Write me to-day, and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. Send no money—just write me—that is all you have to do.
Address
DR. CANNADAY, 1225 Park Sq., Sedalia, Mo.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

Quick Relief to BRONCHIAL SUFFERERS

Coughs, nasal and bronchial colds are relieved promptly by the vapor of Cresolene—the standard drugless treatment with forty years of successful use its guarantee. The most widely used remedy for whooping cough and spasmodic croup.

Introduced
in 1879

Vapo-Cresolene

"Used While You Sleep"

Send for descriptive booklet 45C. Sold by druggists
Vapo-Cresolene Co., 62 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

Annual Report.

BY H. A. ROGERS.

I herewith submit my report of work done, and receipts and expenses, from September 6, 1921, to October 6, 1922.

During these thirteen months one hundred and eighty-three meetings were conducted, forty-seven persons were baptized, and seven baptized persons took their stand with the church for the truth only; and, in addition, some marriage ceremonies and funeral services were taken care of. The receipts for the thirteen months were $1,206.75. My expenses for the same period were $422.80, leaving $60.30 more than expenses for each month.

I wish to express my very sincere thanks to the brotherhood for the assistance by way of dollars and cents, and for the very encouraging letters which have meant so much in keeping my heart filled with zeal for the salvation of lost souls.

Had the assistance for former years been like the year just past, there would not have been any appeals for help necessary.

We have, with the half received during the past year, been able to float, but the burden that was upon us one year ago is still weighing down. This burden was accrued while I was evangelizing in former years, and I will be obliged to remove it soon one way or another.

Brother L. L. McGill and I will begin a series of meetings at Wood End School (south of Estevan) tonight (October 6), and then we go on to Hart, Harptree, Regina, and other places as soon as we can. We ask for the prayers of all of God's people; and if you deem the work done worthy of support, we will be glad to do all in our power to bless the world.

Much so-called prayer is not to God. There is very little thought of God in it. We think of the audience; we think, it may be, of our need; but there is not a clear, deep sense that we have gained indeed the blessings of the all-helpful, almighty, all-loving One, and are willing to lean upon him for his help. This is one of the most familiar causes of failure in prayer. We do not really pray to God.—R. A. Torrey.

FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER

The Indianapolis Cancer Hospital, Indianapolis, Ind., has published a booklet which gives interesting facts about the cause of cancer, also tells what to do for pain, bleeding, odor, etc. A valuable guide in the management of any case. Write for it today, mentioning this paper.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate, and send us a new subscriber.

IN THIS STORE YOU DO NOT NEED A GUARDIAN

You Have One In Us!

Thousands of people in and around Nashville who patronize this store come to us, not alone for the wonderful values we give, but for the sense of security they feel in buying here. They are conscious of being in safe hands. When we speak of saving money for our patrons, we don't say that just for the sake of a statement, but refer to our foresighted merchandisers, who exercise care and skill in selecting the dependable stocks at this store.

OUR SHOP-BY-MAIL SERVICE

Out-of-town patrons will find this service a great convenience. Expert shopper in charge to select your needs with the same care as if you were here yourself in person. Orders promptly filled. Satisfaction guaranteed.

CAIN-SLOAN CO.

"THE STORE THAT ALWAYS HAS WHAT IT ADVERTISES"

Fifth Ave.,
NASHVILLE, at Church St. TENNESSEE

Passing On.

"In the midst of life we are in death." I wonder if we shall ever get accustomed to the truth of Notker's saying, heard so often, so self-evident, so monitory! Death must be an intruder, since we are always shocked and startled by his approach, no matter how often the experience has come to us. I went into the market this morning and looked about for the cheery, middle-aged man who served me yesterday, as usual. He was not in sight, and one of the others came forward to take my order. That done, he told me how my old friend had died at six that morning, with no warning other than shooting pains at the heart. May he rest in peace! He did his duty gladly and honorably in the station where God's providence had set him.

But, somehow, the whole world has looked different since I heard it. The landscape seems shadowy and unreal; the mansions are unsubstantial; "passing away" sounds from the clock tower. The hill rises to its golden-crowned summit, and stately avenues stretch every way, lined with palaces; but "here we have no continuing city." How strange that mankind should live and struggle as if we had an inalienable possession here! One does not need to see the skeleton at the table, to hear "Memento Mori," when on every side is evidence of transitoriness.—Living Church.

Cheerfulness and content are great beautifiers and are famous preservers of youthful looks.—Charles Dickens.

Gospel Advocate

Volume LXIV. No. 47.

NASHVILLE, TENN., NOVEMBER 23, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	1105
Seeing Things as God Sees Them—Would It Have Been Better?—Faults, Whys and Wherefores—"The Queen of the Home"—Statistics and Comments—When Did the Foot Washing Take Place?—Los Angeles (Cal.) Notes—Mission Work.
HOME READING.....	1111
EVANGELISTIC NOTES.....	1112
Commendations of Bible Helps.....	1113
EDITORIAL.....	1114
Amusements: Dancing—Our Advertising Contract.
The Work at Savannah, Ga.....	1116
TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT.....	1117
Excuses.....	1119
FIELD NOTES.....	1120
The Montana Work—Commendation.....	1121
Which Side Are You On?.....	1122
Growth of the Church of Christ in Middle Tennessee.....	1123
Meeting Upon the First Day of Every Week.....	1124
How the Matter Stands.....	1125
Colorado, a Great Field.....	1126
Forthcoming Meeting in Dallas, Texas—Ku-Klux-Klan Gifts.....	1128

Our Contributors

SEEING THINGS AS GOD SEES THEM.

[This timely article from "D. L." is submitted for the instruction and encouragement of all who love the Lord's way.—H. Leo B.]

We have been writing of the difficulty of doing what God wishes us to do, and stopping with that. We are fleshly, material beings. We see things with our fleshly, material eyes; we think of them with our fleshly thoughts and feelings; and it is exceedingly difficult to regard things that our fleshly senses can see no evil in, wrong or sinful. The mind must be educated and trained to regard and esteem things that are not material and sensual as good or evil. A man unschooled in literature cannot judge of the quality of literature, what is helpful or what is hurtful. This is more so in moral and spiritual truths than in the secular. We need to have our thoughts and minds trained into looking at things from a spiritual standpoint. We need to have them trained to look at them through the eyes of God. We must get God's standpoint, and his moral and spiritual vision, and view things from that standpoint and with the vision of God. Much of our religious training consists in schooling our minds to look at things through this vision of God and with the divine wisdom. Our aptitude to improve in the true life that brings us into union and harmony with God is the ability and readiness to acquire this vision and standard of right with God. It is difficult to adopt God's standard of right or to follow its principles of morality. A man selfish in his life and in all his habits finds it difficult to see it right to divide with the poor and help the needy as God does and requires us to do. We need to be educated and trained up to the point that we can see the justness and fitness of this rule of right. Much of the education of the Christian consists in training his thoughts so as to lift them out of the control and management of the flesh and bring them into harmony with and under the control of the Spirit—the spirit of man trained and led by the Spirit of God. "For they that are after the flesh mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit. For the mind of the flesh is death; but the mind of the Spirit is life and peace; because the mind of the flesh is enmity against God; for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can it be; and they that are in the flesh cannot please God. But ye are not in the flesh but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you. But if any man hath not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his." (Rom. 8: 5-9.) A man with a heart controlled by the flesh, its passions and impulses, will not be a godly or elevated man. The Spirit of God must dwell in and control man's spirit to make him a holy or godly man. It will take time, education, training in Christ, to make him a godly man. The natural tendencies of the flesh will lead him back to sin and rebellion against God. This explains man's constant tendency to stray from God, and the necessity of constant watchfulness and carefulness lest he be led into sin. This explains the necessity of constant watchfulness on the part of man and the props and helps he needs at every step to hold him back from sin and lead him forward in a growth of righteousness and truth. Man continually needs helpfulness and watchfulness at every step to keep him in the path of fidelity to God and of uprightness before men. He needs the help of God and of his fellow men to keep his zeal and life straight. He finds the helpfulness from God coming in the acts of worship God has provided to help him, both in his own approach to God and in his union in prayer and worship with others. In the mutual helpfulness afforded each other in prayer and worship to God, much of good and strength comes to man. Helping another in his hours of weakness and temptation gives help and strength to ourselves when tempted and tried.

God, who knows the weaknesses and failures of man, has made provisions to help him, or for him to help himself by coming to the places and the channels, using the provisions of wisdom and strength God has provided for his use. Peter (2 Pet. 1: 1-16) gives at once a picture of our need and of God's provision of mercy and happiness: "Simon Peter, a servant and apostle of Jesus Christ, to them that have obtained a like precious faith with us in the righteousness of our God and the Savior Jesus Christ: Grace to you and peace be multiplied in the knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord; seeing that his divine power hath granted unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, through the knowledge of him that called us by his own glory and virtue; whereby he hath granted unto us his precious and exceeding great promises; that through these ye may become partakers of the divine nature, having escaped from the corruption that is in the world by lust. Yea, and for this very cause adding on your part all diligence, in your faith supply virtue; and in your virtue knowledge; and in your knowledge self-control; and in your self-control patience; and in your patience godliness; and in your godliness brotherly kindness; and in your brotherly kindness love. For if these things are yours and abound, they make you to be not idle nor unfruitful unto the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. For he that lacketh these things is blind, seeing only what is near, having forgotten the cleansing from his old sins. Wherefore, brethren, give the more diligence to make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, ye shall never stumble: for thus shall be richly supplied unto you the entrance into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Wherefore I shall be ready always to put you in remembrance of these things, though ye know them, and are established in the truth which is with you. And I think it right, as long as I am in this tabernacle, to stir you up by putting you in remembrance; knowing that the putting off of my tabernacle cometh swiftly, even as our Lord Jesus Christ signified unto me. Yea, I will give diligence that at every time ye may be able after my decease to call these things to remembrance. For we did not follow cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but we were eyewitnesses of his majesty." If we will listen to Peter, hear his wisdom, and be guided by it while here, we will be blessed with the peace that comes from God, which is not of this world, and which lifts those who possess it above the influences of the world.

Would It Have Been Better?

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

One of our would-be "progressive" brethren, commending O. E. Payne's book, "Instrumental Music Is Scriptural," said: "The pity is that some one did not make this research and publish the facts while the people were open to conviction." This brother, no doubt, thought at the time he wrote this that O. E. Payne had made some wonderful discovery from the lexicons that had never before been made by the wisest of men who had gone before him. Neither Sophocles, the native Greek, who gave his life almost to the study of his native tongue, nor the great Henry Thayer, the noted New Testament Greek lexicographer, nor the beloved scholarly McGarvey, nor Isaac Errett, nor Hayden, nor Lard, nor any other man, had made such a profound and learned research as the gifted Canadian, O. E. Payne.

But would it have been better for the instrumental-music question if these early ones had tried to put the question of the use of instruments in Christian worship on the ground that Payne did—namely, that it is inherent in the word, and, therefore, commanded by the New Testament? I do not believe it would; for J. W. McGarvey said some forty years ago to an opponent that if he took the position that "psallo" meant to sing with instrumental accompaniment he would be crushed as "between the upper and the nether millstones." He did not take it. If my friend will but refresh his memory a bit, he will be able to see that all such innovations as instrumental music in the worship have been introduced by taking liberties with the word of God, and then afterwards the less wise will try to defend them from what they claim to be the teaching of the Bible. Note, for instance, that sprinkling as a substitute for baptism was made first by the Catholic Church simply by taking liberties with the Bible, and now the small men among affusionists are trying to prove sprinkling by the Bible. The same condition prevails in the use of the instrument in the worship. Such men as I have mentioned, while all of them, except J. W. McGarvey, gave their sanction to the use of the instrument in the worship, made no claim that it was commanded, as O. E. Payne did when he said: "We must unite in agreeing that if we forego musical instruments we cannot conform to the divine injunction to psallein." My dear old brother, S. W. Baird, of Guthrie, Okla., had a very different, and, I believe, a very correct, idea of the subject, when in an open letter to O. E. Payne he wrote the following:

Really, Brother Payne, I am of the opinion your book will be some advantage to the truth. Your brethren have been made bold by it, to affirm that instrumental music in the worship is a command of God. This is the only thing that could ever justify its use. But had the battle been fought on this ground fifty or sixty years ago, its advocates would have been so thoroughly defeated that they would have hid themselves for shame. And it would never have been received into one-tenth of the churches that now practice it. It is so much easier to tempt men to take liberty that does not belong to them than it is to persuade them to obey a command of doubtful authority. Poor human nature has always been prone to take liberty in God's service that God could not allow. Cain took the liberty to offer a sacrifice God had not commanded. Nadab and Abihu took the liberty of sending up the incense to God with fire he had not commanded. Men took the liberty of baptizing infants. After that other men took the liberty of sprinkling or pouring water on people and call it "baptism." They never could have been made to believe that God had commanded that; but very conscious of their own wisdom and prudence, it was easy for them to believe they had liberty to do such things. Having accepted this deception, men can now be made to believe God commanded it, just as you can now believe God commanded instrumental music.

I cannot believe that you were convinced that it is scriptural by the word "psallo." Evidently you thought the instrument a mighty nice thing. You delighted in the sound. Like Nadab and Abihu, you could see no harm in it. You had a craving desire to join in the concert with your son, your brother and nephews. Your burning desire for it to be right was father to your faith that it was right. So you deceived yourself by believing you were free to use it. And thus you deceived others. And the scripture is verified which says seducers wax worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived. Now you believe that all men everywhere are commanded to play upon strings in the church. You can even believe that the whole world can receive your interpretation of the Greek, when you know the Greeks themselves never did receive it. God pity the weakness and blindness of human nature!

I am bound to consider your book a deception. I do not think it likely that any one would be deceived by it who has even a smattering knowledge of Greek, unless he has a very strong desire to believe the false. Such are easily deceived. It is a settled principle of mine never to use my means to spread deception. I paid nothing to bring the book here; I will contribute nothing to send it abroad. The book is yours, and will be forwarded to any one who sends the price of its passage.

This same erring brother referred to at the beginning of this article tries to explain how O. E. Payne proved that instrumental music is scriptural in the church and not scriptural in worship by the following illustration: "To illustrate, the washing of feet is scriptural, but it is not in the worship, as the Primitive Baptists believe and practice. There are many things rightfully in the church that are not in the worship, one of which is instrumental music." The brother says that foot washing is scriptural in the church, but not in the worship, as the Primitive Baptists teach and practice. The brother practices playing on the instrument in the church in the worship exactly like the Primitive Baptists wash feet. If they are wrong in washing feet in the worship, then these brethren are wrong when they play the instrument in the worship, if the instrument is not scriptural like foot washing. It seems from this that the brother fails to prove his use of the instrument even from the practice of the Primitive Baptists.

I am sure the only consistent course for these brethren to pursue is to either affirm in debate that the New Testament authorizes the use of instruments in the worship or repudiate O. E. Payne's conclusion. Some of the more forward ones, like John B. Cowden, J. B. Briney, and the editor of the Christian Standard, should repudiate their indorsement of O. E. Payne's book. Suppose Payne had made his research fifty years ago, and these dear brethren had given their indorsement to it at the time, the only advantage that I see in it would be that they now could say, like Brother Briney says of the truth that he taught against the use of instruments in the worship forty years ago, it was only the error of youth. But now they have committed themselves to Payne's conclusion in the flower and fruitage of old age, and so it appears to me that their only chance is to come clean with a repudiation of their indorsement of Payne's position. If the instrument is commanded, it is not an expedient, or an aid; and if it is only an aid, then it is not commanded. Whenever you place the instrument on the side of an expedient, you take it away from the side of a commandment; and whenever it is placed with the commands, it is then taken away from expediency, or an aid. In order to fight, brethren, you must be on one side of the fence or the other. You cannot sit on the fence and fight.

Faults, Whys and Wherefores.

BY A. M'GARY.

The fault with most of the religion of this day and generation is that it has no solid, sturdy foundation, but is based upon the shifting sands of folklore hallucinations and theological speculations and befuddled human experiences.

Our Methodist friends, through their highest authorities, have been candid enough with the world to publicly admit, through their published creed, that their system of religion is "founded on the experience of a long series of years." And, while none of the other bodies of the big denominational family, or daughters, granddaughters, and great-granddaughters of the "mother of harlots," have been quite as candid with the world concerning what their respective systems of religion are "founded on," the foundation of all of them is not far to seek nor hard to find in reading their creeds or teachings.

Do I mean that these people are, as a rule, dishonest? O, no, not dishonest, but distracted and distrustful—deluded by "blind guides" so effectually that they will not trust God's word for salvation.

Have they no faith? Yes, they have that sort of faith that stands in the wisdom of men," but not that kind that "comes by hearing the word of God." Are they blame-worthy in God's sight for not having that kind of faith that saves souls? They surely must be, since God has told the whole world how that kind of faith comes—by hearing his word (see Rom. 10: 17)—and that there were to be "false teachers . . . who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them." This "denying" is done in teaching "damnable heresies" that effectually deny the words of "the Lord that bought them." For instance, lay their doctrine of "salvation by faith only" down by the side of these words of "the Lord that bought them," "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved," or by the side of, "Ye see then how that by works a man is justified, and not by faith only," and note their "denial of the Lord that bought them."

I might cite hundreds of other instances in which these "false teachers" whom God foretells us would be "among us," and who are "among us" in vast numbers, "deny the Lord that bought them;" but, as I have said that people who suffer themselves to be misguided by such teachers are blameworthy in God's sight, I desire to more fully justify myself in saying it, which I proceed to do in the following way: God tells us all, "Take heed what ye hear," and, "Take heed how ye hear." And upon two occasions, one being when Jesus was baptized and the other when he was transfigured, God spoke in audible voice for all the world, saying in the first instance, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased," and in the second: "This is my beloved Son: hear ye him."

Hence, as God has told us all that there would be "false teachers" among us who would "bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them"—his Son—and told us to hear his Son and to "take heed" what we hear and how we hear, I feel fully justified in saying that people who allow themselves to be misguided by "false teachers," or who fail to hear and learn and obey the doctrine of God's Son, are blameworthy in God's sight. Furthermore, I conceive it to be my bounden duty, and the duty of every disciple of Christ, to speak candidly and plainly upon this matter to such of our fellow creatures, neighbors and friends, as may be in the toils of sectarian entanglements, instead of beating about the bush and side-stepping the eternally important issue, as some of our preachers do, out of their morbid desire for popularity.

Just here I perceive that I have consumed so much space in paving the way to the paramount line of thought that I had in mind when I "took up my pencil" that I have not enough space left within which to paramount it, or even mount it. So I ring off and let the paving go for what it may be worth.

"The Queen of the Home."

BY O. C. LAMBERT.

I have just received the following letter:

Finley, Tenn., November 3, 1922.—My Dear Brother Lambert: Pressure of other things has delayed me in reading the Gospel Advocate of October 26 till to-night after I am in my room since preaching. I must say your article, "Queen of the Home," is grand. It is all good. The last two paragraphs are well put. The last one lifts me to thoughts sublime. God give us more such mothers! May you be spared to do more, much more, such writing.

Let me humbly suggest that our prayers "for a return of the good old days when woman was content with her God-given place as queen of the home" (how I long for it!) will avail more in that direction when we work as we pray. I mean when homes, schools, and all other influences train girls in home-keeping rather than after the modern fashion that makes them public speakers, theater promoters, etc. When homes and schools do as at the present, give practice in such evils as named, how can we expect righteousness to prevail? Please read Brother Kurfees' article along such lines in the Gospel Advocate of March 18, 1915.

May God bless you in your labors. Fraternally,

R. C. WHITE.

In the same mail I also received the following:

Dear Brother Lambert: Just a few words on your article in the last issue of the Gospel Advocate. I agree with you perfectly that woman's place is in the home. There is no other rightful place for her. But what about a woman in my position? For six years I kept house for my husband, and during that time three dear little children came to us to make our home more complete. Four years ago my husband was taken away, leaving me, a young mother, with three small children to support. The church here gave me a scholarship in a commercial college. I completed my course and went to work as a stenographer. I had to give up every fond hope and cherished ambition to get out and make a living. It was the hardest thing I ever had to do. I have come home from work lots of nights and cried myself to sleep just because it was all so contrary to my idea of the rightness of things to be away from my children and no home to keep. I have had to push my children away from me when I wanted them near me, because I worked all day and had to sew at night, and had no time for them. They have said: "Well, mother, why do you just work all the time?" It looks so hard to me that some women who have a home and husband do not want to stay there, while some want to make a home and have no opportunity to stay there. I have worked for two years as stenographer, and, so far as the work is concerned, I like it fine, but still I feel out of place away from home. It would not be so bad if it were not for the children, but they are more precious to me than all other things, and I realize I am needed at home with them all the time; yet there is no other way, and I do not believe God will condemn me for working for them. I do not envy a man his position, because it is a very responsible one of making a living for a family, but it is a still greater one to teach and train little children. No one can do that like a mother, and I do not like to turn that part of my God-given work over to somebody else. I love a home, housework, and children, but it is impossible to make a success of it and have to work away from it. I have had an opportunity of marrying and having another home, but I would never marry a man that was not a Christian.

Please excuse me, Brother Lambert, but you forgot that women are sometimes compelled to do public work. As you say, women and girls who do public work lose that fine, gentle, feminine air because they are thrown in an entirely different atmosphere from that of the home and meet with so many disagreeable circumstances. I agree with you perfectly, but what are we to do about it?

I appreciate this letter. It breathes a righteous, motherly spirit, and no doubt it expresses the sentiment of thousands who unfortunately have been deprived of the enviable position of home-keeper. When I wrote my article I had in mind those who despise this calling as not of sufficient importance to allow their powers due exercise. I had in mind those who of their own choice try to fill the place ordained for the man. I feel sure that the author of this letter is worthy of the home for which she longs and would make some Christian man a good wife.

Statistics, With Comments.

BY CHARLES F. HARDIN.

While in the State Library at Jackson, Miss., not long ago, I found the books giving the condition of all the various religious organizations and their respective standing in each State of the Union; and I hereby give my brethren the benefit of my labors, with the earnest prayer that this information will be the means of greater activity on our part and that we will press the fight harder than ever before.

These statistics are taken every ten years, and these are for the years between 1906 and 1916. I have copied them as correctly as it was possible for me to do, checking and rechecking them to detect any error in my work, and I do not say they are free from all mistakes, but I do say they are as near correct as I can make them; and should any one be disposed to disbelieve them or doubt their authenticity, I respectfully refer him or her to the Federal records in the case, on file in each State Capitol. I have drawn off a table, for the sake of brevity, and I ask that you study it carefully, and compare the tables with each other, thereby learning the exact status between the church of Christ and the "Christian Church" (our society brethren). The first two tables show the conditions of the two peoples in the various States where they are represented.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH ("DIGRESSIVES").

States	Organizations	Members	Buildings	Halls	Valuation
Maine	7	687	6	0	$ 22,800
Vermont	2	551	1	0	3,000
Massachusetts	8	1,264	8	0	133,000
Rhode Island	2	115	1	0	1,500
Connecticut	2	628	2	0	4,500
New York	56	11,139	51	2	842,900
New Jersey	2	534	2	0	50,000
Pennsylvania	168	37,717	130	2	1,654,700
Ohio	525	109,732	517	3	4,110,450
Indiana	766	137,727	575	6	4,472,331
Michigan	121	12,740	87	3	528,550
Illinois	690	116,639	559	2	4,384,203
Wisconsin	28	2,291	22	1	74,500
Minnesota	55	5,042	43	3	270,425
Iowa	384	73,237	350	0	2,689,475
Missouri	1,025	145,403	844	19	4,663,480
North Dakota	9	341	7	2	15,000
South Dakota	26	1,764	17	0	82,500
Nebraska	171	24,140	127	0	867,442
Kansas	411	67,554	334	17	2,010,665
Delaware	2	335	2	0	3,700
Maryland	42	5,719	33	1	278,175
District of Columbia	8	3,038	7	1	187,500
Virginia	324	34,220	321	2	940,690
West Virginia	174	19,227	153	5	671,155
North Carolina	173	20,095	162	4	339,900
South Carolina	54	4,414	39	0	65,230
Georgia	144	16,885	108	1	704,650
Florida	41	3,790	28	3	304,800
Kentucky	952	129,912	554	50	880,541
Tennessee	212	21,672	166	6	834,750
Alabama	73	6,978	55	1	232,734
Mississippi	77	5,364	55	4	130,350
Arkansas	155	13,275	100	10	366,265
Louisiana	31	3,615	21	1	122,300
Oklahoma	339	41,811	306	30	942,390
Texas	544	54,836	460	22	2,386,912
Montana	29	3,719	15	1	105,750
Idaho	45	5,065	36	2	141,700
Wyoming	10	763	3	2	14,200
Colorado	61	12,805	52	1	462,100
New Mexico	33	2,284	12	7	75,600
Arizona	14	1,712	11	1	82,800
Utah	2	318	2	0	25,000
Washington	124	17,521	91	1	667,207
Oregon	122	15,399	89	6	516,050
California	165	32,211	146	2	1,868,831
Totals	8,408	1,226,028	6,719	214	$40,327,201

CHURCH OF CHRIST.

States	Organizations	Members	Buildings	Halls	Valuation
Maine	6	173	3	3	$ 4,750
Pennsylvania	32	1,295	21	12	50,500
Ohio	139	9,004	126	13	202,473
Indiana	210	16,212	202	7	309,400
Illinois	103	6,726	96	5	155,800
Michigan	17	1,398	10	7	72,960
Iowa	30	1,534	26	4	41,000
Missouri	279	15,160	239	39	264,450
North Dakota	2	44	0	2	0
South Dakota	3	39	0	3	0
Nebraska	31	1,252	23	8	31,000
Kansas	110	5,573	93	17	153,050
Virginia	13	841	13	0	10,850
West Virginia	182	10,342	163	18	226,100
North Carolina	21	951	19	2	16,250
Georgia	58	2,671	43	15	46,375
Florida	74	2,865	60	14	63,650
Kentucky	330	24,216	295	30	374,516
Tennessee	995	63,521	872	120	1,162,060
Alabama	361	20,943	307	52	311,780
Mississippi	122	5,994	97	25	74,980
Arkansas	514	26,239	390	123	311,987
Louisiana	38	1,268	22	14	36,425
Oklahoma	481	21,700	234	245	253,635
Texas	1,240	71,542	899	328	1,376,135
Montana	3	41	0	3	0
Idaho	9	364	5	4	3,300
Wyoming	2	19	0	2	0
Colorado	11	588	6	4	9,650
New Mexico	51	1,333	13	38	11,750
Arizona	7	239	1	6	1,500
Washington	34	1,194	20	14	20,880
Oregon	23	1,333	18	5	17,050
California	35	1,149	17	18	29,200
Connecticut	1	23	0	1	0
District of Columbia	1	24	1	0	700
Minnesota	1	24	0	1	0
New York	1	23	0	1	0
Totals	5,570	317,937	4,334	1,199	$5,644,096

These two tables show the conditions of the two churches in a general way, and if we had no more specific figures they would be shown to exceed us in every respect; but the following tables show the gain of both of us, and it worked out to percentages, which is very gratifying indeed. Before I give the concluding figures I shall say a few words regarding our opportunities in mission work. We are shown to have been represented in 1916 in only thirty-eight States, which leaves eleven States where we are shown not represented. This cannot be said to be the actual condition of these eleven States, as not all of our congregations in the various States reported (neither did all of theirs), which would give us the benefit of the doubt. It appears that it is high time for those possessing the truth, and all the truth, to be about a systematic mission effort, and thus improve this terrible condition among us. Some of our congregations are doing splendidly already, but so many of them are not that could be doing mission work.

You will note that the Northwestern group of States is our greatest mission field, also that the digressive brethren are poorly represented there. The States of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, and Wyoming, are very weak, and so also are some of the far Eastern States.

Texas is shown to be our banner State, with 1,240 congregations, owning 899 houses. One significant fact shows in these figures—that is, that we are much more faithful in maintaining regular services than they are, or, in other words, that fewer of our congregations are shown not to be meeting, whether from a failure to report or otherwise.

Tennessee follows hard after Texas, having 995 congregations and 872 houses. The figures show that Tennessee has better houses than Texas.

Now for the concluding figures, showing our activity and its fruits. These tables are for the period of ten years, between 1906 and 1916, and all know, who have studied the situation at all, that we have had our most substantial growth in every respect in that period of time between 1916 and now—six years. It is my honest opinion and judgment that, could we secure the present-day figures on this same subject, we would be ahead in almost every respect, and far ahead in some respects.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH ("DIGRESSIVES").

Items	1906	1916	Gain	Per-centage of Gain
Organizations -----	8,293	8,408	115	1.4
Members -----	982,704	1,226,028	243,327	24.8
Buildings -----	7,766	6,815	—251	—3.6
Value -----	$27,439,944	$40,327,200	$12,887,257	47.
Debt -----	1,792,613	4,160,239	2,367,626	132.1
Sunday schools -----	6,818	7,706	888	13.
Teachers -----	65,364	84,596	19,232	29.4
Students -----	578,418	942,879	364,461	63.

CHURCH OF CHRIST.

Items	1906	1916	Gain	Per-centage of Gain
Organizations -----	2,649	5,570	2,921	110.3
Members -----	159,658	317,937	158,279	99.1
Buildings -----	1,974	4,342	2,368	120.
Value -----	$2,555,372	$5,644,096	$3,088,724	120.9
Debt -----	76,208	136,003	59,795	78.5
Sunday schools -----	1,260	3,441	2,181	173.1
Teachers -----	5,112	15,213	10,101	197.6
Students -----	56,086	167,809	111,723	199.2

These last tables show some very significant facts. With all their organizations and societies (said societies being foreign to the Bible), we are shown to exceed them over 100 per cent in the establishing of new congregations, while in the matter of gaining new members we almost doubled ourselves in this ten years, while they had a gain of only 24 per cent compared to 99.1 per cent for us. This shows conclusively that the missionary societies will do just what we have been trying to tell them they would do—that is, hold them down, because not of God. These good brethren think that said societies facilitate the establishing of the cause in new places, but these statistics show that the very opposite is true.

Our building program increased 120 per cent, showing that we are provident in the matter of housing ourselves. This also is a good indication of how much better God's plan will succeed—that is, "laying by in store" on the first day of the week as we have been prospered, while these good brethren persist in having shows and all kinds of worldly things to raise money for this work. I would ask those erring brethren: Do you not think it is about time that you were repenting of your sins and coming back to the Bible way of finance?

The valuation of our property increased 120 per cent, while theirs increased only 47 per cent. This lack of increase in valuation of their property is easily understood and accounted for when you note that their building program did the alarming thing of decreasing 3.6 per cent. After all the illegal and unlawful seizures of our property, yet they are falling behind. Thank God, the true way will win out.

Our debt increased 78.5 per cent, while theirs increased 132 per cent. This is the only large increase they had, but, unfortunately for them, it was in the wrong direction. Our valuation increased 120.9 per cent, while our debt increased 78.5 per cent. The difference between these figures is the rate of our liquidation.

Our Sunday schools increased 173.1 per cent, compared with 13 per cent for them. This increase is so great, and the difference between us in in this respect is so great, that it is useless to comment on it.

Our teachers increased 197.6 per cent, while theirs increased only 29.4 per cent. But the reason for this vast difference is to be found in the fact that they have substituted God's way for man's, and they are top-heavy with the unscriptural missionary societies.

The last and greatest increase in our work is the number of students in our Bible classes—an increase of 199.2 per cent. If this does not show which of the two peoples are carrying out the commission, I fail to see that it could show anything. We are carrying the gospel to at least three or four foreign lands, and our home missions are far greater than theirs, and we are doing all this good work without a missionary society. The writer of these statistics has this to say of us in his short history of the church: "They have experienced a very marked gain in every particular, and their opposition to the missionary society does not imply any lack of interest in mission work. They are rapidly establishing churches in all parts of the United States of America and in many foreign countries."

I do not send these facts abroad in the spirit of boastfulness, but in a kind and loving spirit, accompanied with the fervent prayer that they will encourage us to press the fight till the whole world is won for Christ and our erring brethren come back to the truth.

When Did the Foot Washing Take Place?

BY W. N. ABERNATHY.

Recently I heard a good brother and a preacher of much experience take the position in his sermon that the foot washing took place at Bethany at the house of Mary and Martha, and he read a part of the twelfth chapter of John in connection with the thirteenth to prove his position. Now, had he read the twelfth verse of the twelfth chapter, it would have saved him from his mistake. Some seem to fear that if we admit that the foot washing took place on the night that the Lord's Supper was instituted we will have to surrender our position with the Baptists and admit that it is a church ordinance. Well, what if we do? If the Baptists are right and we are wrong, we should be glad to accept the truth. Otherwise we would be guilty of partyism and of rejecting the truth against ourselves. But such is not the case. It was not given as a church ordinance, and was never practiced as such, so far as the inspired record shows. In 1 Tim. 9: 10 it is classed with the rearing of children and other good works. In the days of Christ it was considered as a menial service to be performed by slaves, and this fact will help us to understand the specific purpose for which our Savior gave his disciples this great object lesson at the time he did.

Much of the confusion concerning the time of this incident arises from the King James translation in John 13: 2 which says "supper being ended," whereas the Revised Version says "during Supper." The Emphatic Diaglott says, "and as supper was preparing."

Now let us remember that John's narrative of the gospel is largely supplemental to the records given by Matthew, Mark, and Luke. The latter three do not mention the foot washing at all. John touches very lightly on the events mentioned by the other three, but dwells at length on the discourse concerning the Holy Spirit and on the Savior's prayer as recorded in the seventeenth chapter, all of which took place before the party left the room in which these events occurred.

If the reader will now bear in mind that, in the gospel narratives, the order of mention is not always the same as the order of occurrence, he will be prepared to account for these closing events in the life of Christ as given by the four writers and compare the statements therein found with the following order, which I believe to be the correct one:

1. Christ sent two of his disciples into the city, where they found and prepared a large upper room in which he and his disciples were to eat the passover.
2. They met in this room and began the preparation of the paschal meal.
3. During this preparation the disciples fell to disputing about which should be the greatest in the kingdom of heaven.
4. When the preparation was completed, Christ laid aside the garments which he had worn during the preparation, girded himself with a towel, and began to wash the disciples' feet. In connection with this act he taught them that he who would be greatest in the kingdom must be greatest in service.
5. After this lesson they ate the passover.

6. Judas left the room.
7. The Lord's Supper was instituted.
8. Christ preached the farewell discourse as recorded in John 13, 14, 15, and 16.
9. He prayed the prayer as recorded in John 17.
10. They sang a hymn.
11. They left the room.

The above comports with all the facts and statements given, so far as I can see; but if some brother can give us something better, we will appreciate it, as we want to be right, if possible.

Los Angeles (Cal.) Notes.

BY W. EDGAR MILLER.

Wednesday evening, November 1, saw a packed house at the Central congregation, 1720 South Flower Street. Brother C. R. Nichol was due to preach for us, and his coming had been announced in advance, giving all who wished a chance to hear him. The congregations at Sichel Street and at Pasadena dispensed with their regular prayer-meeting service and came to hear Brother Nichol. Besides these two congregations, there were representatives from Downey, Huntington Beach (over forty miles away), Alhambra, and possibly other places. This gave us an attendance of about two hundred and forty, which is all the hall will hold seated comfortably. We appreciate the interest manifested by the visiting congregations, and we feel sure they felt well repaid by the excellent sermon Brother Nichol gave us.

Next Lord's day there is to be an all-day meeting at Central Church, in which, aside from the regular preaching service and communion, singing will be the principal theme. There will be singing from ten to eleven, preaching at eleven, communion at twelve, and, after a basket dinner has been served, there will be a song service in the afternoon. We are anticipating an enjoyable day. Brother Witty's morning subject will be "The Gospel in Song."

The new church building that is under construction at Ontario is progressing nicely, and the brethren at Ontario say they are going to have the biggest all-day meeting ever held in this part of the country when it is completed. The building, when completed, will be the best our brethren have in this end of the State, or perhaps in the State, and the Ontario brethren are to be congratulated for the zeal and energy they have manifested in the construction of this building. They have shouldered a big load and are handling it successfully.

Mission Work.

BY C. D. CROUCH.

Much has been said of late under the above heading; and all lovers of the ancient gospel are glad to hear and read what is being said on the subject. Those who know the Scripture teaching are glad that others are being taught, and others who love the gospel and the souls of men are glad to be taught. That the Bible makes no such distinctions as "home missions" and "foreign missions" is so evident to all who are familiar with the New Testament that it needs not to be stated. The commission is, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature;" and while no one individual can preach to "every creature" in "all the world," we can all preach to some of them, and the command is to each of us. The "preachers"—those who are usually considered as preachers—are under no more obligation to carry the gospel to the lost than any other Christian. The obligation is upon us all alike.

I am glad to note that some churches (congregations) are becoming active in the work of carrying the gospel to the lost in the communities near by. I appreciate, too, suggestions that have been made that churches send their "ministers" to some destitute places during the fall and winter to preach the gospel there and establish congregations. But when the work is once started with the proper conception of the matter, it will not be confined to "fall and winter." It is my earnest wish that the churches be aroused to action along this line.

I have made the proposition to churches, that if they would engage me for a mission meeting and support me for it like any preacher should be supported for a meeting, they might select two places for mission meetings, and I would hold the other one at "my own charges." Thus I would do as much mission work as the whole congregation. I have never yet had a church to take me up on the proposition. Why? Is it because they do not want me to do more than my part of the work? Surely not. I have held four meetings this year which can be called "mission" meetings. I did not receive more than incidental expenses for them. No, I did not baptize very many people, but I did what the Lord commanded—I preached the word. I love to do such work, and shall do some of that kind next year, the Lord willing, support or no support. I have gone "beyond my power" in that respect this year. My proposition to the churches—any of them—not now doing mission work still holds good. Who will be the first to engage me for a mission meeting next year, and support me for it, and selecting another place where I shall hold another "mission" meeting at my own charges? If I am flooded with calls for meetings on this proposition, I feel sure I can find enough preachers to take care of all of them on this plan. Possibly this is not the best plan, but it is better than for the preachers to have to do all that is being done. I shall be glad to hear from preachers who will help me take care of the work that is offered me. Address me at Ashland City, Tenn.

Gospel Advocate Company.

BY H. LEO B.

This company tries to publish and sell just such books as will be a blessing to any home if read. There are a number of good books and tracts which should be in every home. We take pleasure in calling the reader's attention to some of these good books, and feel that we are helping every one who is induced to read them.

"Sunshine; or, Uncle Minor's Stories." By V. M. Metcalfe. 256 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

Pleasing to the children. Handsomely bound.

"Soul-Saving Revival Sermons." By John L. Brandt. Cloth. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

A series of nineteen thought-proving, evangelistic sermons by one of the most eminent preachers of the day. These sermons relate the principles of Christianity to the everyday life with a keen insight and sympathetic understanding. They are educational in plan, evangelistic in tone, virile in thought, and vigorous in expression, just the book for the minister who wishes to foster and develop the revival spirit in himself and his congregation.

"The People's New Testament, with Notes." (Two volumes.) By B. W. Johnson. Price, per volume, postpaid, $2.50.

A splendid commentary, comprising the entire New Testament. Volume I., four Gospels and Acts; Volume II., Epistles and Revelation.

"Evenings with the Bible." (Three volumes.) By Isaac Errett. Cloth. Price, per volume, postpaid, $1.75.

This notable work is a consecutive series of historical, devotional, and doctrinal studies of the entire Bible. Beginning with Genesis, the gifted writer gradually unfolds to the reader, in his lucid, graceful, persuasive, and inimitable style, the dealings and purposes of God with man as recorded in the Bible. Under the guidance of this master hand, the Bible becomes a united and carefully planned and executed book, although written in different ages and by different men. For deep spiritual insight, sympathetic understanding, and practical application, this series of Biblical studies has few equals.

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Home Reading

Keeping Guard.

Harold had never lived on a ranch before and was not used to walking a mile and a half to school.

But when his father and mother left their home in the East and came to Hill Top ranch to live, Harold was very happy. He found so many interesting things about the country that he said that he did not mind his long walk in the least. Although no other children lived near, Harold never went to school alone.

Mischief, who had been Harold's pet ever since he was a mischievous puppy, always went with him. Sometimes Mischief would carry Harold's book, fastened with a strap around his neck. Sometimes he would carry the bright new lunch pail in his mouth. When Harold went into the schoolhouse, Mischief would trot off to the woods or fields, coming back at noon to play with the children and to get what was left from their lunches.

One morning Harold was going to school, reading from his book as he walked. Mischief was carrying the lunch pail. As he neared the schoolhouse, Harold heard the bell sounding. Closing his book quickly, he ran as fast as he could, and slipped into his seat just in time for Miss White to say: "Good! Our record isn't broken yet."

When noon came and the boys and girls took their lunch pails from the shelf, Harold's was not with the others. He wondered where it could be. He felt sure he had set it on the shelf in the entry. He looked again, but it was not there.

"Maybe you didn't bring any," said Charles Moore.

"Yes, I did," replied Harold. "I remember mother's saying, when she gave it to me, that I'd find something in it I liked."

"Well, it's not in here," declared Charles.

"Let's look out on the steps," suggested one of the girls.

They went outside to see, but it was not on the steps. The children were all puzzled.

"Where is Mischief?" asked some one.

"Why, where is Mischief?" exclaimed Harold. "He carried the lunch pail, this morning, and I was hurrying on so fast to be on time that I must have forgotten to take it from him."

What an exciting time they had looking all about the yard and calling for Mischief!

"Here he is!" shouted one of the boys.

There under a tree lay Mischief, one paw on top of the lunch pail, wagging his tail, and looking up at Harold as though he would say: "Come, get your lunch; I've taken care of it long enough."

Then, of course, every one had to pet Mischief, laughing and calling him "good Mischief." If he had not been a dog, I'm sure he would have been spoiled.

"Mischief can teach a lesson, even though he can't read or solve problems," said Miss White; "and I think he deserves another name, don't you?"

"Yes, and a big share of this lunch, too," laughed Harold. Bertha C. Williams, in Christian Leader.

✧ ✧ ✧

Baby Bear's Party.

Baby Bear loved the birds, and so Mother Bear was not much surprised when Baby Bear dropped his wee porridge spoon at the breakfast table and said in a shrill voice: "Let's invite all the birds to a party."

"We will give the party to-morrow," said Mother Bear. "But what shall we offer the birds to eat?"

"Blackberries and honey," replied Father Bear.

"Once I saw a robin eat a wiggly worm," said Baby Bear.

"I'll tell you what we'd better do, Father Bear," said Mother Bear. "You take a walk around the edge of the woods and find out what the birds like best to eat."

Father Bear set out gayly enough, but he came back looking sad and discouraged.

"We can't have the party," he said. "I have been asking questions, and what do you suppose I have learned? The robins eat worms, and they eat so many that we couldn't dig enough to satisfy one robin."

"Then suppose we give a little party and invite only catbirds," said Mother Bear.

"Catbirds!" exclaimed Father Bear, in a big, gruff voice. "Catbirds eat grasshoppers—thirty grasshoppers at a time! You can't buy jumping grasshoppers by the quart."

"How about the handsome kingbirds?" asked Mother Bear.

"Kingbirds must have gadflies," grumbled Father Bear—"gadflies by the peck."

"How about the swallows?" questioned Mother Bear. She had noticed that Baby Bear was winking hard to keep back the tears.

"Swallows must have flies," roared Father Bear, for he was all out of patience—"and spotted squash beetles. I'd look well stooping over in our garden five or six hours trying to catch squash beetles for company!"

"We might ask chickadees," ventured Mother Bear. She saw two big tears rolling down Baby Bear's cheeks, and that is why she mentioned chickadees. "They like crumbs."

"One chickadee," said Father Bear, in gentle tones, "would much prefer five thousand five hundred and fifty cankerworm eggs in a day. I think we'll not invite chickadees."

"Cedar birds?" murmured Mother Bear.

"Cedar birds dine on caterpillars. We could fill the washtubs, I suppose, and pass them around!"

"Blackbirds spend half their lives chasing insects and eating weed seeds. Our old friend phoebe bird works for the farmers. She eats weevils that spoil wheat and peas and beans. The wood pewees eat house flies. Woodpeckers and meadow larks, hawks, and all owls have strange appetites."

Baby Bear covered his face and wailed.

This would be a sad story if it ended here, but it does not.

The birds loved Baby Bear, and when they found out why he cried so loud they came in flocks to comfort him.

After that, when Baby Bear awoke, he always saw hundreds of birds in the garden searching for bugs, worms, and grasshoppers.

And that is the reason why the Three Bears have such a wonderful garden.—Frances Margaret Fox.

✧ ✧ ✧

The people have run wild religiously. They are trying to establish their own theories rather than to follow the gospel proclamation authorized by God, through Christ, and the apostolic ministry. The New Testament presents facts to be believed, commands to be obeyed, and promises to be enjoyed. The facts to be believed are the death, the burial, and the resurrection of Christ; the commands to be obeyed are, to believe, repent, and be baptized; the promises to be enjoyed are the remission of sins, the gift of the Holy Spirit, and eternal life. The primitive gospel was preached to the poor. The common people received it in the apostolic age. Where there is a lack of water, dig a well. When there is no convenient church of Christ, establish one in your own house. Read the Scriptures, attend to the Lord's Supper, and God will bless you. Household churches were common in the early history of the churches of Christ.—Alanson Wilcox.

Evangelistic Notes

R. V. Cawthon began last Lord's day at Detroit, Mich.

W. T. Hines closed in Doby Springs, Okla., with two baptisms.

C. D. Moore is changing his address to Summerfield, Fla., Route 39.

A. B. Lipscomb reports a new congregation established at Lancaster, Tenn.

T. B. Clark reports that the work moves along harmoniously at Gallatin, Tenn.

C. W. Holley, Greenville, Texas, may be had for half time through the winter months.

W. J. Johnson has changed his address from Box 87, Amite, La., to Box 567, Palatka, Fla.

C. H. Black is located at Lockhart, Texas, and will do evangelistic work anywhere at any time.

G. W. Farmer recently closed at Liberty Hill, near Englewood, Tenn., with one baptism and three restorations.

S. P. Pittman preached on the second Lord's day in this month at Joseph Avenue, this city, to good audiences.

W. Curtis Porter was recently in a meeting at Stella, Mo. The cause is established there in a new house just built.

C. M. Pullias and Thomas Nicks closed a meeting at Decherd, Tenn., on November 11. Results, eleven baptisms.

Jesse P. Sewell has just closed a fine meeting at Abilene, Texas, which resulted in thirty baptisms and fifteen or twenty restorations.

Ozoro Boles and D. L. Robinson were at Leoma, Tenn., on November 12. Two good services were held, and the church was found in good order.

Harvey W. Riggs recently conducted a meeting at Cyclone, in Monroe County, Ky., resulting in two baptisms. Since that time he was at Ebenezer, near Calhoun, his home.

E. M. White, Englewood, Tenn., writes that there is a fine band of Christians who meet at that place regularly. Charles Holder held a meeting there in July, with thirty additions.

The Christians of Sevier County, Ark., are trying to arrange for C. H. Smithson to evangelize the county. They are few. If you should desire to assist, communicate with L. Poindexter, De Queen, Ark.

Robert E. Wright reports the Central Church, in Los Angeles, Cal., as growing each week. Three were added on November 12. If you have friends there, write Brother Wright, and address P. O. Box 1773.

J. J. Reynolds recently closed a meeting at Owl Hollow, Tenn., with six baptisms. This is the second meeting these brethren have had this year. Brother Reynolds is now located at Alabama City, Ala., Box 124.

Foy E. Wallace, Jr., has just closed an interesting meeting at Wichita Falls, Texas. Nineteen were baptized, seven were restored, and six united with the congregation. R. D. Smith preaches for this congregation.

Orlando Taylor, General Delivery, Munday, Texas, would like very much to get in communication with Curtis Taylor at once. Any one knowing his whereabouts will confer a great favor on him by calling his attention to this.

F. O. Howell has just closed at Corinth, Miss., with fifty additions. Good crowds attended and many were turned away. They finally moved to the courthouse to accommodate the crowds, which were estimated at one thousand.

R. R. Brooks, Sparta, Tenn., who has labored with the church there this year, will continue with them next year. He speaks very highly of G. A. Dunn's meeting there recently, in which forty-four were added. They expect Brother Dunn to return next year.

The church at St. Louis, Mo., have just completed their new church building at the corner of Spring and Blaine Avenues. They are very thankful for the assistance received from others. (The Gospel Advocate is unable, on account of a lack of space, to publish long lists of acknowledgments.)

T. S. Bain reports that E. M. Borden is in a splendid meeting with the church at Muskogee, Okla. Interest and attendance are fine. Two had been restored to fellowship and two had been baptized at the time of writing (November 13). They have had visitors from the churches at Braggs, Council Hill, Wainwright, and Haskell.

W. L. Oliphant, Drumright, Okla., reports that the work at that place is growing rapidly. Young people attend well, and there is great interest in the midweek prayer meeting. They are planning a larger house. Brother Oliphant recently held a short meeting at Shamrock, near by, with sixteen additions. Large crowds attended all the services.

Fred M. Little recently held a short meeting at Samson, Ala. The little band there are endeavoring to build. They have met for two years in a temporary structure. Theron Cottle, who preaches for a number of churches in this section, makes Samson his home. Since this meeting Brother Little and W. T. Grider have conducted a meeting at Andalusia, Ala.

Charles F. Hardin writes from Waterford, Miss., November 13: "The meeting at Oak Ridge, Miss., resulted in much good, we hope, to the cold, indifferent members; and the visible results were one reclaimed and five baptized. I am now in a promising meeting at Waterford. It is real mission work, but the people of other convictions hear me gladly. This is my last meeting for this season."

A. B. Lipscomb writes from Lancaster, Tenn.: "We have less than ten members at this place, but the people of the town are coming out in appreciable numbers to hear the gospel. I have baptized one fine young lady, and there are other prospects. We shall do our best to strengthen the cause of Christ in this section. Prof. A. L. Dixon is with me. He helps by leading the song service, by prayer and exhortation."

It is not the custom of this journal to publish the names of contributors to missionary work and charitable institutions. Through an oversight this was done in Brother I. B. Bradley's report last week. Among the list of donors appeared the name of Don Carlos Janes. We are having no fellowship with him and giving him no recognition because he took an active part in creating one of the most vicious divisions in the church at Louisville, Ky., of which we have ever had any knowledge, and we shall be careful to "mark" him and "turn away from" him as God distinctly commands us to do until he repents.

W. S. Long, 1219 Kenyon Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes: "Our Thursday-evening prayer meeting was well attended this week, and there was one confession and baptism 'the same hour of the night.' May the present series of sermons by Brother Larimore result in much good and souls saved. We believe there are members in Washington whom we have not found or who are not attending the Lord's-day services. Any brother or sister who may know of members here will please write me, giving their names and addresses. Brethren passing this way can find my telephone number in the directory. I shall be glad to render them any assistance possible. Our church house is at the corner of Fourteenth and Meridian Place."

C. M. Cockrell, treasurer of the Garrett Avenue Church, Dallas, Texas, writes: "We are pleased to report splendid progress in the work being done among the Hebrew population of Dallas at the present time by Stephen D. Eckstein (himself a Hebrew) through the fellowship of the Dallas congregations and some support from the outside. At the Thursday-evening Bible study at the Garrett Avenue congregation on October 19 another convert (a Hebrew past the prime of life) made the confession and was baptized 'the same hour of the night.' Brethren, we have before us one of the greatest opportunities in this work that has ever presented itself to the church in Texas. Let us make it State-wide for his glory and the salvation of more souls."

On the first Lord's day in December the new brick church house at Hopkinsville, Ky., will be opened and used for the first service. This is a nice, comfortable, well-located new home for the Cleveland Avenue church of Christ, being on Seventh Street in the western part of the city. The house cost about ten thousand dollars, and was built by the congregation at an extreme sacrifice, for which they are to be commended. Charles L. Talley has been with this congregation the past year, and his efforts have been well rewarded. Prof. N. B. Hardeman, of Henderson, Tenn., will preach at 11 A.M. and 7 P.M. on the opening day. Near-by congregations are cordially invited to worship with them and hear Hardeman. This will also be the beginning of a series of meetings to continue indefinitely, with preaching twice daily by Brother Talley.

J. B. Nelson closed in Belle Plaine, Kan., with six baptisms.

F. W. Smith is in a meeting at St. Marys, W. Va., the home of T. Q. Martin.

S. P. Pittman baptized one at Lawrence Avenue, this city, at the Wednesday-night prayer meeting.

Two fine audiences at Russell and Ninth Streets, this city, Sunday, with one added by statement.

A. A. Bunner preached on Sunday, November 12, to a very large congregation at Akron, Ohio. He reports the church doing well there.

Tice Elkins, Sabinal, Texas, writes, November 17: "We are in the second week of our meeting here, with four baptized and one restored. I will close Sunday night and go to Carlsbad, N. M."

Hugh Letcher Grigg and Miss Dimples Goble Carr were married at the Russell Street Church, this city, last Thursday at 8 P.M., S. H. Hall officiating. The groom is the son of Hugh Grigg, an elder of the Lawrence Avenue Church.

From A. T. Hamiter, Coleman, Fla., November 17: "Our tent meeting continues with interest. Brother Martin held services from Friday till Lord's day, but went home sick and has not yet returned. Services will continue over Lord's day."

C. H. Smithson recently closed at Smyrna, Ark. Fifteen were baptized and four were reclaimed. The singing and interest were fine. Since that time he has preached twice at Wilton, Ark. This congregation was established last September, and the prospects are bright.

Vernon Rozar closed recently at Saulsbury, Tenn., a mission point. There was good interest and one baptism. Eleven promised to keep house for the Lord. Prospects are bright for a discussion with the Methodists. For meetings next year, address him at Watertown, Tenn.

R. A. Craig writes from Winchester, Ky., November 16: "I am at present conducting a short meeting at the Main Street Church, Winchester. Interest is good, and we feel that good will result from our labors. Last Sunday I was at the Forks of Elkhorn. I go next to Van Buren."

H. A. Rogers and L. L. McGill have been in a meeting at Case's School, in North Dakota, near the Canadian line, across from Wood End, Canada. They received a request by telegram from Harptree to come back there. So Brother McGill went and will continue with them for a while.

L. S. White expects to close his labors with the church at Sherman, Texas, about April 1. He will enter the evangelistic field. His first work east of the Mississippi will be with the Harbert Avenue Church at Memphis, Tenn., which will be followed by a meeting at Corinth, Miss.

Leland H. Knight spent the summer in Arkansas, mainly at Greenwood, where the gospel was preached for the first time in many years. He and his brother will return for a meeting next summer. He is now in Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tenn., and has one Sunday not yet filled. He recently held a meeting at Hearn's Chapel, near Henderson. One was added.

J. C. Hollis writes from San Angelo, Texas: "I left Lawrenceburg, Tenn., on November 8, and reached San Angelo on Saturday, November 11. I went to church on Sunday morning and heard Gary O. Wood, of Shawnee, Okla. He is thinking of locating at this place. I also met A. Y. Howell, of Water Valley, Miss. Brother Wood insisted on my preaching in his stead Sunday night, and I did so. I have changed my address from Lawrenceburg, Tenn., to San Angelo, Texas, Box 379."

J. L. Hines writes: "I know of three preachers, two married and one single, who desire to locate with some church and do evangelistic work. They are willing to go anywhere, but want to be kept busy in the vineyard of the Lord. I can recommend these men, and will be glad to furnish any information you desire concerning them. Address me at 2428 Jefferson Avenue, Norwood, Ohio." He also says: "Yesterday (November 5) was a fine day for the Covington congregation. The attendance showed an increase. Some new members and some from the outside."

J. O. Barnes, 2111 Broward Avenue, West Palm Beach, Fla., writes: "The interest in the mission work at West Palm Beach continues to grow. Two more new members are here to work with us. On yesterday (November 5) we were gladly surprised to have Sister Hansell, who was a faithful member at Mims (now at Stuart), to worship with us, together with our old friend, Mr. Hansell, who is a friend to the cause, and five others who are their neighbors. We were encouraged by their presence and will be glad for any members or friends to call on us and worship with us."

Commendations of Bible Helps.

The following commendations have been received recently at the Gospel Advocate office. We appreciate them very much and ask our readers to give attention to what is said in them. The Bible Lesson Helps were never better than they are now. Send your order now, so that you will have them ready to begin with the new year.

"Our congregation believes your literature is excellent." (G. W. Savage.)

"Personally, I think your Lesson Helps are fine, even good enough." (Albert J. Grewer.)

"I could suggest no improvement. I always like to see a church use them, and insist on it." (C. H. Black.)

"I have looked over your Lesson Helps, and must say that they are just fine, and I bid you Godspeed." (F. D. Greer.)

"Received the Bible Lesson Helps and distributed them last Lord's day at our Bible study. They are fine." (Mrs. G. W. Gann.)

"I received samples of your Sunday-school literature. I find it far in advance of some Sunday-school literature in its teachings." (A. Harless.)

"It is my desire to help spread the glorious gospel of Christ, and I will encourage the brethren to use your Bible Lesson Helps." (Samuel T. Reaves.)

"Permit me to suggest that your literature is as perfect as man could well make it on the outline given [the International outline]." (E. A. Bedichek.)

"I will say they are just fine, if not the best I have ever read. I expect to send in an order for several copies before the first of the year." (M. O. Williams.)

"I think the samples of Lesson Helps sent me are splendid; in fact, I have enjoyed them while at school and in the South for several years." (Russell H. Martin.)

"I received samples of Sunday-school literature just before leaving home and have distributed them, and will do all I can to place them wherever I can." (J. F. Davis.)

"I appreciate very much the Gospel Quarterlies, and I am in sympathy with the good work they are doing. All I have to say is, just keep them going in the same old way." (William V. Barker.)

I received the Quarterlies and have looked over same. They are true to Brother Smith's characteristic way of presenting a matter, and I feel sure that he who studies the same will appreciate the splendid comments made. (N. B. Hardeman.)

"I beg to gladly acknowledge the recent receipt of your sample copies of Bible Helps, and wish to thank you for the same. I am only of the conviction that your Quarterlies will meet with the hearty approval of the general brotherhood. I shall readily encourage the congregations with which I come in touch to order your Bible-school literature." (G. W. Nicholas.)

I am glad to express to you my indorsement of the arrangement and presentation of the lessons of the new Quarterlies which you sent me for examination. They are clear, logical, and concise. I feel that the different grades in Sunday-school work who use these Quarterlies will immediately grasp the thought that is meant to be conveyed. I unhesitatingly commend these Bible helps to the brotherhood, and bespeak great progress for those who use them. (E. E. Shoulders.)

I have examined the three Quarterlies, and am glad to say that I find them to be in that high grade that the literature you have formerly sent out has ever maintained, both in the mechanical work and editorial strength. The very fact that F. W. Smith edits the Advanced Quarterly and F. B. Srygley the Primary and Intermediate should be commendation enough as to the soundness and clearness of the doctrine taught in them. I wish them a large circulation. (S. H. Hall.)

I received the Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary Quarterlies you recently sent me, and I like them fine. I had so much confidence in the ability and loyalty of F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley that I had already advised churches where I had been to buy them and had assured them they would be all right. I am an earnest advocate of "helps" in the study of God's word, and I believe your Quarterlies are among the best we have. I shall continue to commend them wherever I go. (Charles Holder.)

Orders should be sent to the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

Amusements—Dancing.

BY H. LEO B.

One of the evil effects of the World War was a revival of the "dance craze." It received great encouragement from all classes of society, both religious and irreligious. The dance is a form of amusement that would be excluded by the rules which have already been laid down. It cannot belong to wholesome recreation. The modern dance belongs to "the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye, and the vainglory of life." All this is condemned by the Scriptures. We are told not to love the world, neither the things that are in the world, and surely the modern dance belongs exclusively to the world. Christian parents and young Christians cannot indulge in it or give any encouragement to it. It is a recreation, if it be a recreation, which should be severely condemned by all Christians.

We are told that in Germany and France the dance has become almost a mania. Even there has been organized a religious sect in the Eastern country which includes the dance in its form of worship. Accompanying "jazz music" is the jazz dance. The "waltz," the "two-step," the "fox trot," and the "shimmy" are all done in such disgraceful and lascivious style that society is beginning to abhor this form of amusement. It is astonishing that church people should indulge in that which has become disgusting to decent society. An ex-dancing master describes the dance as the "vile embrace." Surely there is nothing in the modern dance that should receive encouragement from right-thinking people. There is nothing cultural and refined in the dance, neither is there wholesome recreation in it. There is a gratification of the flesh in it, and an encouragement of unholy desire. No wonder that pious fathers and godly mothers obstinately refuse to let their children indulge in the dance. Gospel preachers should denounce with strongest words this lascivious practice.

One very thoughtful writer has said that "the dance is in its very nature unclean." The modern dance is an association and relation of the sexes in such a way that it has a harmful influence on both, and should not be indulged in by pure, clean-minded people who desire to take wholesome recreation. The dance of to-day is very far different from the dance of our grandsires; and if anything commendable could be said of the old-time "square dance," it is evident that the modern dance has nothing in it to commend it to right-thinking people. Many social workers, truant officers, and civil officers see the evil effects of it and are taking steps toward reforming or abolishing the modern dance. Surely any worldly amusement that is condemned by the laws of state and frowned upon by self-respecting society should not be encouraged by Christian fathers and mothers. The modern dance is conceded to be a social ulcer on society which threatens the morality of our young people; it is a large factor in producing crime against purity of character; it is a broad road to the divorce court for many wives and the deceptive path to the downfall of many girls. A very thoughtful writer says: "It is a war on physical health; it is a war on man's moral nature. The dancing hall is the nursery of the divorce courts, the training school of prostitution, the graduating school of infamy."

I would not be understood as saying that all who seek for amusement in the dance have gone to such low depths, but certainly they are headed in that direction. There is a glaring inconsistency between the modern dance and the assumed modesty and chastity of Christians. How would the Christian mother who permits or encourages her daughter to attend the modern dance, as she puts the finishing touches to the attire of her daughter, like to tack this placard on her: "Ye are the light of the world?" How would the father like to bedeck his son with this adornment: "Be ye imitators of me, even as I also am of Christ?" How would mothers and daughters who claim to be Christians like to wear as they are tripping and whirling on the dance floor, enveloped in the lustful embrace of a worldly man, this inscription: "We are the salt of the earth?" One cannot be true to God and the Christian name without striving to live true to the scriptures quoted above. Everything that may be said about the dance that is derogatory to a Christian character is an argument against it as an amusement for Christians. Dancing should not be classed as an amusement; it should be classed as a positive sin. No Christian is made better by indulging in it; it does not lead one nearer to God, nor give one better self-control. It is a positive injury to every one who indulges in it.

The general excuse offered for dancing is that there is no harm in it. Of course, the one who offers the excuse has not analyzed it, searching for the evil that is in it. It is an exceedingly feeble argument or poor excuse for anything to say that there is no harm in it; it would be better to ask what good there is in it. No one becomes more spiritual-minded by engaging in the dance. It does not help any one to add any of the Christian graces. No church is commended to the world by its dancing members. There is no permanent good that grows out of it to any church member, but there are many evils. Dangers are lurking on every side. The lusts and passions of the flesh are stimulated and so often are let run riot and bring one into shame and disgrace. It causes one to form habits of life which destroy modesty and insult purity of life. Surely such a practice should not be put in the class of amusements or recreations for Christians.

Mothers sometimes give the excuse for sending their daughters to the dance pavilion that learning to dance will make them graceful. They say that the dancing master can train their girls in grace-giving qualities of carriage and posture. What an expensive training! Even should the daughter gain what is claimed—and I seriously doubt it—it must be done at the expense of self-reserve, modesty, and refined feelings. No mother has a right to place her daughter where she will be subjected to such evil influences; no mother has a right to give her girls the training that, if followed, will lead them to the lustful and passion-feeding dance hall. The mother who does teach or encourage her daughters to dance blasphemes her own religion, sins against true motherhood, and commits a crime against her daughters. There are other ways and other places free from the soul-destroying temptations and the modern dance that mothers have access to for the training of their daughters without resorting to the dance pavilion. There are useful and helpful household duties in which they should be trained that will be wholesome exercise and add grace and symmetry to form and posture. There are schools of physical culture which are much better adapted to the development of the body that give grace of symmetry, beauty of form, and harmony of carriage. These schools are free from the temptations and encouragement of the lust-exciting dance.

Our Advertising Contract.

BY J. C. M'Q.

For satisfactory reasons we have canceled our advertising contract, which amounted to several thousand dollars annually. The contract provided for the completion of all advertising that had been inserted on the order of the advertising agent. Such advertisements will appear in the paper until the date of expiration of the order, except in cases of advertisements being ordered for more than one year after the expiration of the contract.

I am confident that the cancellation of the contract will entail a considerable loss on the owners of the Gospel Advocate; notwithstanding, I thought it best to suffer the loss in order to raise the standard of our advertising. It is our desire to make the Gospel Advocate all it should be as a religious journal, and to this end I have decided it is wise to be perfectly free to pass on the desirability or undesirability, the reliability or unreliability, of any and all advertisements which are offered us for insertion in the Gospel Advocate. I am sure that clean, honest, and reliable advertising is a benefit to a religious paper and its readers, while unclean, dishonest, and unreliable advertising destroys the efficiency of a paper and is damaging to its readers.

A dishonest merchant is a detriment to the honest one. It is not helpful to the honest dealer to be located by the side of the unreliable merchant. It is an injustice to the truthful advertiser to place his advertisement by the side of an advertisement of an untruthful merchant. The misleading advertisement depreciates the value of the fair advertisement. It is our purpose to reject any and all advertisements that we have a good reason to believe do not correctly represent the facts in the case. We are confident that by advertising only reliable manufacturers and merchants we will render a great service to our readers. We mean to advertise only the dependable, and thus be helpful to our readers and also increase the value of an advertisement in the Gospel Advocate.

It is also our further purpose to discontinue to advertise "cure-all" patent medicines. This does not mean, however, the discontinuation of the advertisement of all proprietary medicines. All advertisements submitted to us will be very strictly censored in the hope of weeding out that which is objectionable. I believe it is just as fair to cut out all advertising as it is to cut out the advertisements of all proprietary medicines. The doctors, instead of opposing the medicine manufacturers, should help to control and improve them. The American Medical Association is making a mistake in discouraging and opposing the proprietary-medicine manufacturers. I have experienced relief from the use of proprietary medicines when physicians had failed to relieve. Some, if not all, of the best physicians now prescribe proprietary medicines. I have a high regard for the medical profession, have a regular family physician, yet I am convinced that even the doctor can become a habit.

I quote from a pamphlet by Judge Irwin G. Jennings on "Proprietary Medicines and the Doctor." He is the son of a doctor, has been a practicing pharmacist, is now a lawyer and judge, and has been offered the presidency of a college. He says:

Let us see just what are these proprietary medicines that are being so inveighed against, and as they are now prepared and sold by reputable manufacturers. Thus we will be able to intelligently judge whether it is either good policy or just for the doctors or others to oppose them so universally.

As the case stands to-day, proprietary medicine must be of such a character as may reasonably be expected to bring about the results for which it is recommended. It must not contain cocaine or opium in such proportions as would be at all likely to create or satisfy the drug habit, and, for the babies and children, none at all. These medicines can no longer be used as the ally of the criminal operator or the bootlegger, and the great drug associations will not permit their goods to be advertised or recommended as a cure for diseases which are generally recognized to be incurable by the simple administration of drugs. The labeling of these remedies must conform to the Federal Food and Drugs Act, and they cannot be of such nature as to endanger life or health.

The above principles have been voluntarily laid down by their own associations as the rules which must guide the manufacturer of proprietary medicines. To disobey them is to put the manufacturer out of touch with all that is good in his industry. No sane man will place himself in this position.

But these rules are negative. Let us see the positive side of proprietary medicines.

Proprietary medicine, under the above conditions, is the greatest enemy of quackery; it safeguards the poor and the weak from the nostrums of the ignorant and irresponsible, and, so far as the reputable doctor is concerned, it is the primary agent for retarding the rapid but positive depopularization of his medicine as a curative agent. And medicine is the physician's most dependable remedy.

The reputable manufacturer and distributor of proprietary medicines, working in harmony, as he is, with his Proprietary Association and other great associations in the drug trade, is performing a real service to the American people and even to the medical profession itself.

In the first place, the very best prescriptions of a general nature, of the best physicians, have been adopted as the formulæ of proprietary-medicine manufacturers. Inasmuch as the great majority of human ills are of a general nature, such remedies are appropriate and valuable for the purpose. The best medicine is thus made available to the poorest families at a minimum cost.

In the next place, the ingredients used by proprietary-medicine manufacturers are fresh and efficient; they are compounded with the greatest care and are absolutely uniform. In this latter respect the proprietary or manufacturing druggist is performing a most valuable service. Whether his preparation is liquid, tabular, or pilular in form, it is reliable; whereas, it is a well-known fact that the old-fashioned capsule in such common use a few years ago for physicians' prescriptions might be made to contain more or less of the drug with which it was filled. In fact, many proprietary remedies are so satisfactory that physicians themselves do not hesitate to prescribe them. It can thus be seen that proprietary medicines, vouched for by the reputable drug trade, are most valuable and should not be indiscriminately condemned either by the medical profession, health officers, or any one else.

But now, let us consider, for a minute, the functions that proprietary medicine really serves. It is the poor man's medicine. Without proprietary medicines, he would be the dupe of quacks, fakers, and of the irresponsible ignorant.

The Judge continues by analyzing the cost of living for an unskilled laborer's family, consisting of wife and three children of school age, in New York City. He also shows the income annually of the unskilled laborer and compares the expense of living with the income. The comparison shows that such people are not able to have a family physician. Those who have the money spend thousands of dollars on physicians while they spend dollars on proprietary medicines. Many people spend much or all of their living on physicians. In the gospel we read: "And a woman having an issue of blood twelve years, who had spent all her living upon physicians, and could not be healed of any, came behind him, and touched the border of his garment: and immediately the issue of her blood stanchied." (Luke 8: 43, 44.) To deprive the poor of all proprietary medicine would be a misfortune.

Those desiring to advertise in this paper should address the Gospel Advocate Company, Nashville, Tenn. We will appreciate the fullest coöperation of our readers in helping us to keep out of the paper all vicious advertising.

The Work at Savannah, Ga.

BY S. H. HALL.

I have just returned from a twelve-days' meeting in Savannah, and am glad to report that I found the work doing well. The brethren have a lovely little house of worship in one of the best sections, 414 West Forty-first Street. The meeting resulted in five more souls being added to their number and the financial condition of the church put on a firm basis. The regular offerings were increased threefold by earnestly teaching the members to take this duty to heart and prayerfully study it. I hope to say more about this at another time.

Brother O. W. Rawlings takes the lead in seeing after the business affairs of the church, and he does it well. Eternity alone can tell just what he has been to the cause of Christ in that city. In his fine wife he has a most consecrated helper.

J. H. Copeland secured a job in Savannah for the sole purpose of enabling himself to help with that work. He is a fine song leader and a good teacher of the word of God. I can say for him that he gets more out of the little congregation in Savannah in the way of song than I have ever heard. He is pure and godly in his life and has made a lasting impression on the people.

Brother E. H. Ijams and wife have also taken work in the city schools for the purpose of "making tents" and helping with that work. Brother Ijams is above the average when it comes to teaching and preaching. The congregation has gradually grown in numbers and in consecration under his splendid work. During my short stay there his father, Brother J. H. Ijams, who had been gradually losing strength for six months, died. He was a most devoted follower of our Lord. His excellent wife is left with her only son, E. H., and will make his home hers. Brother Ijams was sixty years old, a native of Alabama, and his body, accompanied by his son, was sent to Florence, Ala., for interment.

I ask the readers to consider the appeal (see below) I recently sent out in behalf of the Savannah work. The appeal has to-day (November 16) brought in two hundred and twenty dollars. The note is now due. Let each one that reads this send a check at once, let it be ever so small, and let us eliminate this debt and be done with it. I will have more to say about Brother Beck's work so soon as his report comes in, which I am expecting every day.

Those who have donated toward eliminating this note are as follows: Sister T. G. Ryman, of Atlanta, $75; Brother T. M. Smith, Valdosta, $50; Union Church, Georgia, $5; Dr. E. B. Finney, Winchester, Tenn., $5; New Hope Church, Georgia, $5; Brother McQuiddy, Bellbuckle, Tenn., $20; Norman Davidson, Nashville, Tenn., $35; Twelfth Avenue Church, Nashville, Tenn., $25.

Now read the following and let us add you to this list of helpers:

A FERVENT APPEAL FOR SAVANNAH, GA.

This letter is being sent to a few individuals and congregations whom I know love the Lord and stand ever willing to lend a helping hand.

When I left the State of Georgia in August, 1920, I did so because I knew I needed rest from the continual strain that work placed upon me, and not because of a waning of interest in its welfare. I saw a change had to be made, else my days on earth shortened. But since leaving that State my heart has lived in Georgia and I have been trying to help with the work as far as strength would allow.

I am coming to you now in behalf of the work in Savannah, Ga. Those brethren stood sorely in need of a house of their own. So in June I went to the bank and borrowed $1,155 for them and made it a donation to them, some friends here in Nashville securing the note for me. The following are the words of acknowledgment of this gift:

"Savannah, Ga., June 13, 1922.—Dear Brother Hall: Yours of the 7th at hand with check for $1,119.56 [the $1,155 less interest]. It is needless to say how much rejoicing you caused in Savannah. We have let the contract and expect to begin work on the place next Monday morning. . . . We each and every one appreciate this gift to Savannah and expect to make a glorious success, with the help of the Lord. . . . I think we will have a very pretty church when it is completed. . . . Will keep you posted as to how things progress here.

Your brother in Christ,
O. W. RAWLINGS."

The Russell Street congregation, of this city, has donated one hundred dollars on the original purchase of the house and lot that the borrowed money enabled them to finish. They are to send me there for a revival at their expense. We are doing what we can.

Now, will you please hurry a donation to me to help me meet the note that falls due next month? Help me clean this up, then we can say another congregation in the State of Georgia has been placed on a self-supporting basis by our sacrifices. Please do this for my sake as well as the sake of the cause, as the New York work is demanding some of my time, also the work Brother Beck is doing at Summit, Ga. There must be felt by me the strain of responsibility till this note is paid. Send check to me at 920 Russell Street, Nashville, Tenn., and mark on the same, "For the Savannah work." I will make a statement in the Gospel Advocate so soon as the note is eliminated. If more than a sufficiency is received, the balance will be sent to Brother Beck's work at Summit, Ga. Please do not turn this appeal down, as I am sending it to only those who I think will help, to save postage in mailing it to places and individuals who will give it no attention.

Praying the Lord to bless you, and hoping to hear from you soon, I beg to be remembered,

Your brother in Christ,
S. H. HALL.

Publishers' Items.

Sunday School Record. This record is neatly and substantially bound, and has space for fifty-two Sundays. Price, postpaid, $2.50.

"Questions Answered," by David Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell, should have a place in every library. Those who have seen and examined it closely are highly pleased with it. Cloth bound; 700 pages. Price, $3, postpaid.

"Civil Government"—Its Origin, Mission, and Destiny, and the Christian's Relations to It. By David Lipscomb. This book is the outgrowth of the author's most matured thoughts on this subject. Attractively bound. Pages, 158. Price, $1.

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC IN THE WORSHIP

By M. C. Kurfrees

Cloth. 300 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

This is the most comprehensive book on this important subject now before the public. In it the Greek verb "psallo" is philologically and historically examined, together with a full discussion of kindred matters relating to music in Christian worship. The book is the result of a lifetime of critical study and research, and has become the standard of information on the music question. It has been highly recommended by scholarly brethren in the church of Christ and in the religious world.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY
Nashville, Tenn.

Texas-Oklahoma Department

By C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

Wise Children of the World.

BY C. R. N.

"The sons of this world are for their own generation wiser than the sons of the light." This was one of the declarations of the Master while he was on earth. Many of the statements of the Bible, to be understood, must be considered in the connection and from the angle of the speaker. Jesus does not teach that "the sons of this world are for their own generation wiser than the sons of the light" in all that they do—in their sins and purposes of life. One may show much wisdom in some things and act very foolishly in others. "The sons of the light" have acted wisely in becoming children of God, but they may act foolishly in failing to consistently make good their profession of being followers of Christ. "The sons of this world" act foolishly in refusing to become Christians, but, though foolish in this, they may be very wise in some other matters.

"Which of you, desiring to build a tower, doth not first sit down and count the cost, whether he have wherewith to complete it? Lest haply, when he hath laid a foundation, and is not able to finish, all that behold begin to mock him, saying, This man began to build, and was not able to finish." (Luke 14: 28-30.) Do you not recall having seen buildings which have stood for years unfinished, and were badly damaged because of their incomplete condition? Were they not an advertisement of the lack of wisdom on the part of the one who began to build? When it comes to personal work, erecting a residence, purchasing a farm, or other undertakings in which you are personally responsible, do you not take stock of your financial ability to successfully carry to completion the undertaking? Is not such the course of wise men?

"What king, as he goeth to encounter another king in war, will not sit down first and take counsel whether he is able with ten thousand to meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand?" (Luke 14: 31.) A wise general will not heedlessly rush his men into battle. He attempts to learn the strength of the enemy and vantage ground of the battle front. If he finds that his enemy possesses the greater strength, better equipment, and is well fortified, he will not rush his men into the battle to meet slaughter and defeat.

The successfully conducted business institution has a program—it attempts to reach certain ends; but invariably the head of the institution takes stock and determines its available resources and financial ability to carry out successfully its program.

Is it not true that many congregations of Christians do not have in view a definite work to accomplish within a year, nor a program for the work they may have in view? Is it not true that in many instances the work of the church is not looked after with the same care, nor business methods followed as in our own personal interests? If certain work is planned for the year for the church, is the availability of the funds necessary for such work determined? Is it not often true that congregations often undertake work not knowing from whence the necessary money will come to meet the financial demands?

It should be remembered that the church is an aggregation of men and women who are partners in the work of the Lord, and, as partners in the work, each should do his part, not only in work, but in furnishing the necessary money for the work, which requires financial outlay.

A congregation outlines the work it wishes to accomplish within the coming year, which will require the heartiest coöperation of the entire congregation. The budget is read to the congregation, as follows: "Local preaching, $3,600; mission work, $1,000; charity, $1,000; incidental, $400. Total, $6,000.

It will not be the part of wisdom to attempt to put over such a program without taking into account the ability of the congregation, as well as the availability of the funds necessary to successfully execute such plans. Do you insist that the congregation is able to do the work, and that the leaders of the congregation should not hesitate to lead the congregation into aggressive, constructive work? So. But would you, brother, if you were one of the leaders of the congregation, be willing to undertake the execution of such a program, making promise and pledging the congregation, without the assurance that the money will be available? Take the question home to yourself. Have the leaders any assurance from you that a definite part of the necessary funds will be furnished? Do you think they should launch the work, use the funds that may be contributed, and then supply from their private funds what may be lacking, even though it burdens them? Would you be willing to assume such obligations? I know a brother who mortgaged his private residence to meet a church debt. Would you?

Ponder the following: The budget for the work of your congregation for the incoming year is read. To successfully carry the work forward, it will require six thousand dollars.

Following the reading of the budget to the congregation, the treasurer of the congregation, who is one of the deacons, interviews you, saying that, in the effort to have assurance of the necessary funds and be advised of the ability of the congregation to do the work, as well as the several members, they have set opposite your name the sum of one hundred dollars, which they thought you would be able and willing to contribute to the work, and now seek to have assurance from you that this amount you will furnish. If you can and will give more, tell the treasurer. If the amount suggested is more than you can give, out of consideration of other obligations which are resting on you, so state, that they may know on what to depend. Why hesitate to give assurance of a definite amount? Do you say that you do not have the money in hand and wish to be excused from making a definite pledge, fearing you will not be able to fulfill your promise? Is this your course when you buy something for your personal pleasure and have it charged, for the reason that you do not have the money in hand? Do you make the Lord's work secondary? Is it your custom to give only the loose change you have in your pocket to the work of the Lord?

Have you persuaded yourself that "it is no one's business how much you give to the Lord's work?" Really, is it not how little, rather than how much, you think they should not be interested in? Seriously, do you think it no one's business whether you give or do not give in the work of the Lord?

Do you not know that it is the Lord's will that there be an equality in the matter of giving; that it is not right for one man to be eased and another burdened? (See 2 Cor. 8, 9.) But if no one knows how much you give, how is it known that you are not failing in your duty? If there is a member of the congregation who is able to give to the work and refuses to do so, is it any one's business? What kind of a partner is he in the work? If in the congregation there is an idolater, is that any one's business? He who can give and will not be covetous; and "covetousness is idolatry." (Col. 3: 5.)

Have you heard about the rich brother who said: "I never contribute more than twenty-five cents on Sunday, for fear I will make some of the other members who cannot give more than that amount feel badly?" Is he not considerate of his poor brother? True, he is not exercised because his poor brother is unable to live in as good a house as he, or drive as fine a car, or wear as fine clothes, but he is all consideration when it comes to giving of his money into the church treasury.

Do you wish to comment on this article or adversely criticize it? Send me what you want to say; it may do the cause good to publish it. There is much more that may be said, and I am willing that you say it.

✱ ✱ ✱

W. A. Schultz in Evangelistic Work.

BY C. R. N.

W. A. Schultz, who has been for several years in El Paso, Texas, is now located in Snyder, Texas. The churches in Snyder, Hermleigh, Dunn, and Ira, Texas, will support him in doing evangelistic work in destitute places in that section of Texas. Bill Schultz is one of our strongest preachers, true to the Book, and has done great work for the cause of New Testament Christianity. In a personal letter he says: "In my meeting in Dunn there were twenty-three baptisms and three restorations. In Ira there were forty-five baptized and seven restored. Of the sixty-eight baptized in the two meetings, twenty were Methodists and nine were Baptists. The Methodist Church in Dunn and Ira received a mortal wound in the Nichol-Ballard debate, from which it has been dying daily. I do not know the exact number of Methodists who have obeyed the gospel since that debate, but a brother informs me there have been more than sixty. In every meeting we hold in this section there are some who obey the gospel who learned the truth in that debate. Yet some brethren think debates do not do good."

Let me call your attention to the appeal in this issue of the Gospel Advocate from Brother Schultz for aid to buy literature to use in his work. I thank Brother Schultz for the complimentary reference he makes to Nichol's booklet. Some churches order this work by the hundred copies for mission work, and report satisfactory results. Let us keep him supplied with such literature as he wishes, as well as all other brethren who are willing to distribute literature.

✱ ✱ ✱

The Bogard-Whiteside Debate.

BY R. L. WHITESIDE.

Beginning on October 24, I met Ben M. Bogard, Baptist, in a four-days' debate at Hutson, Ark. The general church propositions had been signed by the local people, but Mr. Bogard and I realized that it would be impossible to discuss fully such broad propositions in such limited time; hence, we agreed to put in most of our time on four leading points—namely, the operation of the Holy Spirit in conversion, the security of the believer, the establishment of the kingdom, and baptism as a condition of salvation.

Mr. Bogard is recognized by the Landmark Baptists as their strongest representative. His ability lies in his skill at evasion and darkening of counsel rather than in the strength of his arguments. The debate passed off pleasantly, and I think some good was accomplished. I heard of two, one a Baptist and the other a Baptist sympathizer, who expressed a revulsion at Baptist doctrine as presented and exposed in that debate.

If I can find time, I will present in short articles some of the most striking arguments and developments of the discussion.

An Appeal for Help.

BY W. A. SCHULTZ.

Many hundreds of the readers of the Gospel Advocate know me and have known me for years. I have been for nearly forty years on the firing line. My work has been much in new fields. I have planned to spend the next twelve months wholly in destitute places. I am not asking you for support for myself personally. Brethren who know me and love me and who love the Lord and his cause have pledged me support. That will be taken care of. But I am sorely in need of books and tracts to aid me in my work. There is no more effective method of getting the truth before the people than to put into their hands well-written books and tracts. When I look over the most excellent list of books and tracts published by the Gospel Advocate Company, I see many that I greatly need in my work to spread the kingdom of God by bringing people to the knowledge of the truth. I am not able to buy them to circulate, and the Advocate brethren are not able to give them to me. Brethren, you have the money to relieve my necessity. Please help me. I suggest that you send a donation for this book and tract fund to the Gospel Advocate Company, Nashville, Tenn., and I shall inform them from time to time as to my particular needs; or send a donation to Mrs. C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas, and let her supply me with "Nichol's Bible Encyclopedia," one of the most useful books ever written. I need hundreds of them. Brethren, pray for me.

✱ ✱ ✱

Personal Notes.

W. D. Black, who labors with the church in Ozona, Texas, reports one baptism at the regular midweek service.

C. W. Ing reports a very interesting meeting. He assisted the brethren in a meeting near Kaufman, Texas.

Oscar Smith reports the church in Houston Heights, Texas, doing good work, with additions nearly every Sunday.

The work in Burkburnett, Texas, where D. S. Ligon labors, progresses nicely. Two additions by membership reported recently.

C. R. Nichol closed in Bakersfield, Cal., with five baptisms and several restorations. The outlook for the congregation in Bakersfield is promising.

J. E. Wainwright, Texarkana, Texas, writes: "The Macabee Hall was taxed to its full seating capacity on November 5. Members attend regularly from quite a distance. We had a great number of visitors from neighboring cities also. The new brick building is under construction, and the congregation will be known as the 'Pine Street church of Christ,' as the building is located on Pine Street, near the Texas High School. The location is fine and easily found. Use State Street car to end of line, then walk one block north. The Dudley Avenue congregation is overhauling their building—painting, papering, and seating—and making it very attractive. The work in Bowie County, Texas, and Miller County, Ark., is enjoying unprecedented prosperity. New congregations have been established and sleepy ones awakened. Mission points are being invaded and the good seed sown. I have more work than I can possibly get to, but am doing my best."

J. A. Gibbons, E. H. Beeson, and Freeman Lacy, elders of the Southside congregation, Fort Worth, Texas, send the following note: "Brother Tice Elkins, minister for the last three years of the Southside church of Christ at the corner of Leuda and College Avenue, Fort Worth, Texas, preached his farewell sermon last Lord's day (October 29), which marked the close of three years of success at this place. The congregation has grown almost twice what it was when he began his labor with us three years ago. The last Lord's day was the most successful of any day during the three years, there being eight additions to the congregation on this day. Two confessed their faith and were baptized and six took membership. The congregation regrets very much to see him go, but we hope he will do more good to advance the cause as an evangelist than being confined to one place. He is one of the best gospel preachers we have, a devoted husband and a good father. We bid him Godspeed wherever he goes."

Excuses.

A minister tabulated the excuses assigned by persons for not attending church, some of which are as follows:

1. Too deaf to hear the sermon. (He goes to the political speakings.)
2. Too lame to walk up the steps. (She climbs two flights of stairs to her lodge.)
3. Cannot get the family up to breakfast; too late to dress.
4. Clothing too shabby. (She goes to the theater.)
5. Cannot get in the way of going; have stayed away so long.
6. Always have company on Sunday.
7. Windows are open; cannot stand the draft.
8. Air too close; cannot breathe; windows closed.
9. Children too young to leave; no servant.
10. Has to see the doctor every Sunday.
11. Don't like the singing.
12. The minister does not call.
13. The minister's family is stuck up.
14. Can't get home in time to get a warm dinner.
15. No one in the congregation notices her.
16. Always sees a man there who cheated him.
17. Minister corrected son; can't forgive it.
18. Minister did not come when sick.
19. Don't like the preacher's delivery.
20. Lost husband; does not think it just.
21. Church all time begging; wants all a person's gōt.
22. Minister preached right at me.
23. Sees so many hypocrites.
24. The church is only for the rich; poor folks have no show.
25. Can live just as good at home.
26. Too tired; work late Saturday night.
27. Always have headache on Sunday.
28. Have to go to the office and open mail.
29. The weather has been so rainy. (Weather never finer.)
30. Couldn't go until she got a new hat.
31. Can read better sermons at home.
32. Minister passed me on the street and never spoke.—Selected.

There is no such thing in Scripture as a beautiful cross, a cross of gold or flowers. It is always a cruel cross, which suggests a lingering death; and if we are true followers of Jesus, there must be a constant dying to self that the life of Jesus may be made manifest in us.—D. M. Stearns.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

Now is the time to pay close attention and see that your bakings are pure, wholesome and nutritious.

Good flour is all flour with the nutritive value of wheat. Mix it with good baking powder and you have a nutritious, wholesome, palatable baking. No ready mixed substitute will take its place.

For wholesome, nourishing food you should use straight flour and a pure baking powder—

There never was, is not, and never will be anything that will take the place of good straight baking powder and plain flour.

If you are using self-rising flour or any other kind of a substitute for good baking powder or plain flour you had better stop, and consider whether you are practicing real economy, or saving money. You are taking a chance of losing the full nutritious health-building value of a good, plain flour.

For best results use—
Calumet Baking Powder and a good plain flour.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

The Plum Street Church of Christ, Detroit, Mich.,

Now meets in its new building, corner
Hamilton Boulevard and Tuxedo Avenue.
Visiting brethren welcome.

New York City Church of Christ

239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M., Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush
Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6857.

PILES CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or
call without delay.
Private reception
rooms for ladies.
Established since
1912. Free X-Ray
examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

CANCERS CURED AT THE KELLAM HOSPITAL

The Kellam Hospital cures Cancers,
Tumors, Ulcers, X-Ray Burns, and Chronic
Sores without the use of the knife, X-Ray, Radium, Acids, or Serum, and we have cured over 90 per cent of the many hundreds of sufferers treated during the past twenty-three years. Ministers treated free.

KELLAM HOSPITAL, Inc.
1617 West Main St. Richmond, Va.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

SOLD 50 YEARS
A FINE GENERAL TONIC

Field Reports

Homestead, Fla., November 6.—I have located for the winter here in Homestead. For years I have lived at Tupelo, Miss., and preached in the surrounding territory. Early in October I came here, and have been kept pretty busy. The brethren here have just moved into their new house. Until recently Brother Joe L. Netherland was located at Miami, and came down here and preached occasionally. Also,
Brother Alonzo McEwen, a jeweler, of Miami, came and helped to establish the work here. Brother McEwen moved here several months ago. He is one of the elders of the congregation, and has been preaching and otherwise instructing the congregation. I expect to remain here till late spring, and then go back to Mississippi, where I have promised work enough to keep me busy all summer.—H. C. Harris.

Rockwood, Tenn., November 15.—
We are enjoying a feast of good things this week. Our meeting began last Lord's day, the writer doing the preaching until last night, when Brother Charles Holder arrived, and he will do the preaching for the next two weeks. He is an excellent preacher and teacher, and we are expecting good results. Thus far the crowds have been large and attentive. At the Sunday school last Lord's day we had one hundred and thirty-three. At Laurel Bluff mission we had a good hearing in the afternoon. We were pleasantly surprised on Sunday morning when Dr.
Breeding and Dr. Richards, with their wives, from Sparta, Tenn., came to worship with us, arriving after the benediction. We called the audience back, and they were privileged to partake of the emblems of the body and blood of our Savior. A welcome awaits all who are passing this way.—Will J.
Cullum.

Lakeland, Fla., November 16.—The church of Christ in Lakeland, Fla., wishes all brethren who contemplate a trip South for the winter to consider this beautiful city of twelve thousand population, located in one of the very best sections of Southern Florida.
These good people are interested in building up a strong church after the New Testament pattern and are glad to welcome any brethren who wish to locate with them. I have been invited to begin a meeting with them on the first Lord's day in the coming year, and they extend an invitation to all to make Lakeland their headquarters during this meeting. Especially do they insist that all those brethren who expect to tour Southern Florida this winter arrange to visit Lakeland at this time. Brethren who are interested should write O. M. Whitland, Route B, Box 56a, Lakeland, Fla., or if interested in knowing about that section quite fully, get in touch with the Chamber of Commerce.—T. B. Thompson.

Brooklyn, N. Y., November 13.—We had another fine crowd and good service yesterday afternoon. Considering the adverse circumstances under which we are laboring, we think the work is moving along nicely. The Lord willing, we shall begin a song drill on Wednesday night; also, we hope to be able to begin a winter Bible-study course by next week. We have had a few responses to the appeals recently made through the papers, but the support for this mission work is still inadequate to carry on the work successfully. If there are any other churches or individuals who are planning to contribute to this great work in the near future, we shall deeply appreciate your advising us as to your intent. At our business meetings the point has been emphasized repeatedly that we must not betray the confidence of those who are already contributing to this work, but that we must press on with all our might and strength.

So we urge that you begin this noble work just as early as you possibly can, and help us to keep this confidence. Send all contributions to George
M. McKee, P. O. Box 15, Station N,
New York, N. Y.—E. E. Shoulders.

Oilton, Okla., November 10.—About three weeks ago Brother Lloyd Wills, Sister Wilkinson, and I left Oilton in a car, and reached Seminole the first day. Here we remained over Sunday, and I preached from Thursday night until Sunday night, with good interest. On Monday we went on to Comanche, my home, reaching there on Wednesday, after a pleasant trip. I remained at home for a few days, and on Saturday night heard Brother Womack preach at Prairie Hill, near by. On Sunday we attended church at home and heard Brother D. S.
Williams preach, and on Sunday night we attended church at Prairie Hill, where I tried to preach again. On Friday Brother Wills and I left home on the return trip to Oilton, reaching Shawnee on Sunday, where I had an appointment to spend Sunday. I preached on Sunday and Sunday night, and then we came on to Oilton, where I expect to remain for a while, working in and around here. We had our drive of four or five hundred miles without trouble, and enjoyed the trip very much. I am still improving in health and hope yet to recover my normal strength, though it will take time. I have suffered and been sorely tried; but noble brethren and sisters have stood by me, and, by the grace of God, I am still in the work. May the Lord bless all his faithful children.—U. G. Wilkinson.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR

To half pint of water add 1 ounce Bay
Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of Glycerine. Any druggist can put this up, or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained.
It will gradually darken streaked, faded, or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

BELL'S
FOR INDIGESTION
25 CENTS
6 BELL'S
Hot water
Sure Relief
BELL-ANS
25¢ AND 75¢ PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

The Montana Work.

BY W. F. LEMMONS.

Through the press we have been able to keep Brother J. O. Golphenee, formerly of Elmdale, but now of Lambert, Mont., in the field practically all the time, and much good has resulted from the coöperation of the few who have contributed to this work. New congregations have sprung up. We had only one church in the State in 1919. These contributions should be continued. Great possibilities are in our reach in that field.

Sometime ago we started an effort to raise money to build the first and only church house owned by loyal brethren in that State. Some progress has been made. Brother Elza Woods, of Mona, Mont., one of the building committee, wrote me a few days ago that they have two acres secured and paid for, protected by the restrictive clause, and that they have it fenced; that three brethren had sacrificed fifty dollars each, and that he had sold the last cow he had to raise his fifty dollars. They have this one hundred and fifty dollars on hand, besides the amount that has been contributed, which will total some five or six hundred dollars. It will take two or three times that much to finish the house in that country where material is so high. All donations for this building fund should be sent to Elza Woods or Asa Hall, Mona, Mont. This field is in the extreme eastern end of the State, near the North Dakota line.

On Monday, November 20, I am to start to Buffalo, Mont. This is in the western-central part of the State, not far from Great Falls. We have some loyal members scattered in that section. There is a church house at Moore, which was built several years ago, but which has been dominated by "digressives." It is believed we can take the congregation over into the loyal column. Some are loyal. For some months they have been writing me from different parts of the State to come and open up this field. I have consented to go. My intention is to establish a mission in that part of the State, and we will need another man to take care of it. If we can support Brother Golphenee in the eastern end of the State and some one else in the western end, we can carry the truth into every section of Montana, and, within a few years, into North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, etc. What shall we do, brethren? Shall we make the work a success?

It will cost me no less than one hundred dollars. I have the voluntary promise of the few there of forty dollars. You can figure the difference. I am a poor man. If I must bear this burden alone, I will do it with all good grace. If any one should help me, God will bless him and the work. This is not to be interpreted as asking for help. It is to get the conditions of the field and the work before you. I have made three annual trips to that State—this will be the fourth—and only once have I received expenses. I wonder where I can find a strong young preacher who will volunteer his service in that field, with the assurance that I will muster as much influence for his support, with Brother Golphenee in the eastern end of the State, as I can, and solicit the press to help us to raise the necessary support for the two missions. It can be done. Are you willing to sacrifice, if need be, for this work? If not, do not bother me. It is a hard field. It takes men of faith and courage.

Commendation.

Jesse Beall and Charles W. Gibbs, elders of the Ridgedale church of Christ, Chattanooga, Tenn., under date of November 13, send the following for publication:

We rejoice to announce that Brother C. A. Lambert, who has so earnestly, faithfully, and zealously worked with the Ridgedale church of Christ during the past few years in our efforts to teach the gospel and enlarge the borders of the kingdom of Christ in this vicinity, has determined to devote full time to preaching and will enter the field immediately.

Brother Lambert leaves us with the love, respect, and full fellowship of the entire church, and we unanimously indorse and commend his valued service to all the disciples wherever there is need of a capable and qualified leader of his ability and loyalty. He is of most pleasing personality and splendid attainment; has unusual command of words, a remarkable memory, and a most excellent delivery.

We accord him unqualified approval and commend him to the entire brotherhood as a worthy, able, and loyal preacher of the gospel, and hope that he may be received in all good faith, graciously and courteously.

Until further notice all communications should be addressed to C. A. Lambert, McMinnville, Tenn.

Don't Wear a Truss

MR. C. E. BROOKS

BE COMFORTABLE—wear the Brooks Appliance, the modern scientific invention which gives rupture sufferers immediate relief. It has no obnoxious springs or pads. Automatic Air Cushions bind and draw together the broken parts. No salves or plasters. Durable. Cheap. Sent on trial to prove its worth. Never on sale in stores, as every order, the proper size and shape of Air Cushion depending on the nature of each case. Beware of imitations. Look for trade-mark bearing portrait and signature of C. E. Brooks, which appears on every appliance. None other genuine. Full information and booklet sent free in plain, sealed envelope.

BROOKS APPLIANCE CO.,
443H, State St., Marshall, Mich.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL

Look at the address label that comes with each copy of the Gospel Advocate. If it bears a date that has passed, please send renewal of subscription—$2.00 a year.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE
Nashville, Tenn.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

FREE All Charges Prepaid Subject to Examination

The BEST of ALL GIFTS

Easiest Reading Bible

The Bible has never been published in any form in which the reading of it has been made so attractive to both old and young as in the "INTERNATIONAL"

CHRISTIAN WORKERS' BIBLE

By an entirely new plan, a thread of red ink, running from Genesis to Revelation, binds in one harmonious whole each leading topic. All the precious truths which lie hidden under the mass of unconnected matter and escape the mere reader are brought to light and tied together.

The Rev. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut, D.D., the popular authority in Bible themes, has arranged on this plan Three Thousand Selected Texts.

PROMINENT PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

John Wanamaker: International Christian Workers' Bible is an advance on anything hitherto attempted in making the Bible usable.

Lyman Abbott: Valuable to Christian workers in their endeavor to get at the teaching of the Bible directly and immediately, and not through the medium of commentaries.

BOUND IN GENUINE LEATHER, divinity circuit, with overlapping covers (like illustration), round corners, gold edges, red underneath. Size of page 5 1/2 x 8 1/2 inches, beautifully printed in extra large clear type on extra fine paper; also contains Latest Teachers' Helps to Bible Study.

SPECIAL OFFER The Christian Workers' Bible will be SENT FREE for examination, ALL CHARGES PREPAID. If it does not please you, return it at our expense. If it does please you, remit special price. Published at $7.50, but for a limited time we offer this handsome, most usable Bible at the SPECIAL PRICE OF ONLY $4.90. Send no money but fill in and mail coupon.

THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO.,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Largest American Bible Publishers

SEND NO MONEY—Cut out Coupon and mail today
THE JOHN C. WINSTON CO., 879 Winton Bldg., Philadelphia
Please send without charge. The Christian Workers' Bible. I will remit $4.90 or return same in 5 days at your expense.
Name _____
Address _____
This Bible with Patent Thumb Index 45c. extra. Name in gold on cover 45c. extra. Bibles with names on not returnable.

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Drug-gists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

TETTERINE

Clears Baby's Skin

and drives off the rash and pimples. Harmless, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

PIANOS

AND

VICTROLAS

Sold for Cash or on Easy Payments

M. F. SHEA

305 Fifth Avenue, North
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Big Profits for Agents---

Selling house to house old family remedies, known and used since 1877, and so effectively and faithfully prescribed by our grandmothers.

DR. DORAN'S

Queen Root Cordial—General Tonic.....	$1.50
Worm Remedy for Child or Adult.....	1.00
Kidney Balm	1.50
Pain King, sample bottle.....	.50
Wild Flower Bitters, laxative.....	1.00
Analgesia for Headaches, Neuralgia, Colds.....	.50

The well-known prescriptions of popular physicians. Agents for local, county or general work wanted. Write for particulars or better still order each of the above for your medicine shelf.

DORAN DRUG CO., Paducah, Ky.

CANCER

HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Which Side Are You On?

BY S. WHITFIELD.

The Lord's side is always the right side, and it is the only side we ought to stand on. Any other side is the side of the evil one. The Lord's side is always the best side for time and for eternity. Therefore, all who are on God's side ought to rejoice in the Lord's work and in his way.

Moses was up in the mount receiving the law of God; and Aaron and the children of Israel had made a calf for their god. It was after Moses came down from the mount and found them serving the golden calf that he asked: "Who is on the Lord's side?" It was right for him to ask this question at this time, for in selecting the calf as their god they had rejected the Lord.

This same question could be asked in any age of the world, for people are rejecting God all the time by turning from God's way to ways of their own. This has been the great besetting sin of all ages of the world. People are showing by their actions whose side they are on and whom they wish to serve.

We are either on the Lord's side or against him. If we are not for him, we are against him. There is no neutral ground for us to stand on. "He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad." (Matt. 12: 30.)

We cannot serve the Lord and the devil at the same time. If we wish to serve the devil and pretend to serve the Lord, God will not have anything to do with our service. "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon." (Matt. 6: 24.)

It is very important in this period of the world that we show where we stand. The influence of every one who is on the Lord's side is needed. God needs people of courage and strong conviction, who are not afraid to stand up for the truth as it is in Jesus—men who will contend earnestly for the plan of salvation as it is revealed in the new covenant.

I am afraid that we are not waging the war strong enough against the enemy. This is an age of great indifference. Many people do not care, for they are not interested. Anything will do, and so they go with the popular current. We need to teach the plain truth in its simplicity and purity, and expose all error and all false ways; and if we do this, it will stir up opposition and bring persecution. If we would press the claims of Jesus harder, we would be persecuted more.

Persecution is a good thing for the Lord's people. It helps to keep us

Renew your health
by purifying your system with

The purified and refined
calomel tablets that are free
from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel
and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c
and 35c packages, bearing
above trade-mark.

humble. It makes us love one another and stand by one another as we should. Working in God's service to spread the truth leads to persecution, and persecution leads to more work. They work together, and both of them are good to keep up a healthy condition among the Lord's people. When disciples of Christ are not persecuted, it is a bad thing for us. I would rather face persecution than indifference. Let us remember that Jesus said: "Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake. Rejoice, and be exceedingly glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you." (Matt. 5: 10-12.)

When Christians seek for popularity, they are pretty sure to get away from the truth. People who desire to be popular are anxious to please men. No person can please God and people in general, too. Let us remember that Paul said that if he sought to please men he would not be a servant of Christ. Jesus always sought to tell man the truth and expose all the error that was found in him; and this is the reason that he had so much opposition and enemies. He always did the will of his Father whether it pleased people or not. We need courage to tell people that which is for their good.

"And if it seem evil unto you to serve the Lord, choose you this day whom ye will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the flood, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: but as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." (Josh. 24: 15.)

With these statements before us, there is no trouble in telling where Joshua stood. It is nice to be always able to tell where people stand. It makes us afraid of people when we cannot tell where they stand. People who are on the fence are to be feared, for they are liable to do much harm.

The Bible abounds in warnings against false teaching, wrong ways, and error of all kinds. There is a great deal more teaching in the word of God warning us against false teachers and false ways than there is in telling us what to do. God knew what we would need.

"From that time many of his disciples went back, and walked no more with him. Then said Jesus unto the twelve, Will ye also go away? Then Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternal life. And we believe and are sure that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God." (John 6: 66-69.)

If we are not going to stand on the Lord's side, where will we stand? If we are not on God's side here, where will we be in eternity?

Growth of the Church of Christ in Middle Tennessee.

BY JAMES H. MORTON.

I am sending to-day my fifty-sixth subscription to the Gospel Advocate. I am now old and afflicted, not able to preach. If I live until March 10, 1923, I will be eighty-one years old. I have lived to see a wonderful growth of the church of Christ, especially in Middle Tennessee. In the year 1865, at the close of the Civil War, there were but few congregations of the church of Christ in any of the counties in Middle Tennessee. We have now from fifteen to thirty congregations in every county. The church of Christ numbers more than fifty thousand in Middle Tennessee. There are more members of the church of Christ in this territory opposed to all innovations than can be found in the same size territory anywhere else in the world. The Gospel Advocate has had a wonderful influence over the churches, not only in Middle Tennessee, but wherever circulated in every Southern State.

In the year 1868 I plowed six days in the week and rode horseback on Sunday to preach the old Jerusalem gospel to the people. The people were hungry for the bread of life. There were nearly two hundred additions in Maury County. This was the result of my first year's preaching. In 1866 David Lipscomb came to old Cedar Creek (now Antioch), in Maury County, riding a mule, to assist in a protracted meeting.

At the close of the Civil War there were but few preachers of the church of Christ in Middle Tennessee, but they went from schoolhouse to schoolhouse preaching the gospel to the people. They never refused a Macedonian call. We preached in schoolhouses, under brush arbors, in groves, and in private dwellings, and thousands enlisted every year under the banner of the Prince of Peace. Brethren, we need more preaching now in destitute places. May the Lord help us to hasten the day when the praises of our King shall have become verbal everywhere, when many people shall have gone up to the mountain of the Lord's house to learn of his ways and to walk in his paths, is my prayer.

Try Renwar for Rheumatism.

It is not necessary any longer for you to suffer those intense pains and aches of rheumatism. Renwar is a salts combination scientifically prepared to neutralize the uric acid in the blood and thereby cure rheumatism. Don't wait until those rheumatic pains return. Buy a bottle of Renwar and forget about that rheumatism. Renwar is an old, well-established remedy. It is prescribed by the best of physicians and has thousands of friends. President L. A. Bauman, of Varley & Bauman Company, Nashville, says: "Renwar entirely relieved me of my rheumatism." For sale by druggists; price, 50 cents. Positively guaranteed by money-back offer. If your druggist doesn't carry Renwar in stock, tell him to order it for you from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

"Cutting teeth is made easy" MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

The Infants' and Children's Regulator
At all druggists
Non-Narcotic, Non-Alcoholic

Oakland, Nebr., Feb. 28, 1920
Anglo-American Drug Co.,
Gentlemen:

I am more than glad to tell you of the experience and result obtained from your wonderful Baby Medicine. Our second baby is now seven months old and has never given us a moment's trouble. The first and only thing she has ever taken was Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. She has four teeth and is a ways smiling and playing. Cutting teeth is made easy by the use of Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. Most sincerely,

(Name on request)

ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO.
215-217 Fulton Street, New York
Gen. Selling Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc.
New York, Toronto, London, Sydney

McShane Bell Foundry Co.
BALTIMORE, MD.
CHURCH, CHIME and PEAL
BELLS
Memorials & Specialty

Dodson's Liver Tone Instead of Calomel

Calomel is quicksilver. It attacks the bones and paralyzes the liver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it will regulate the liver, stomach, and bowels better than calomel, without sickening or salivating you. Fifteen million bottles sold.

Bilious Attacks

Are Usually Due to Constipation

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

TETTERINE

Makes hair beautiful, free from dandruff, and keeps the scalp healthy.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

OTHINE

For the treatment of

FRECKLES

In Use for Over 14 Years

Your freckles need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use Othine—double strength—the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women, and rid yourself of these homely spots.

At all Druggists and Department Stores.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling—Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

MOTHER!

Open Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry, mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup," and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful to-day may prevent a sick child to-morrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful; has cold, colic; or if the stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother! You must say "California," or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Meeting Upon the First Day of Every Week.

BY J. L. HINES.

I have chosen the heading of this article, "Meeting Upon the First Day of Every Week," because I believe the Bible teaches that such meeting is obligatory upon every member of the church of God. If it is not binding upon every one to meet, it is not binding upon any one. So we would have a law without a penalty; and such laws, as every one knows, cannot be enforced, and would, therefore, be useless.

As on any Biblical question, so on this one, many questions have been, are being, and will be asked. But "to the law and to the testimony." What does the New Testament teach? "How readest thou?"

The night our Lord was betrayed, and just before he went to the garden of Gethsemane, he ate the passover supper with his apostles, as was the custom of the Jews. "And as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessed, and brake it; and he gave to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body. And he took a cup, and gave thanks, and gave to them, saying, Drink ye all of it." (Matt. 26: 26, 27; see, also, Mark 14: 22, 25; Luke 22: 14-23.)

The New Testament was not yet in force (Heb. 9: 16, 17), for Jesus had not yet been crucified. Jesus came, "born of a woman, born under the law, that he might redeem them that were under the law" (Gal. 4: 4, 5), to fulfill the law (Matt. 5: 17), take it out of the way, and make one new man (church), with a new Head, Priest, King, and law (covenant). The apostles were told, after Christ's resurrection, by Christ: "Tarry ye in the city [Jerusalem], until ye be clothed with power from on high." (Luke 24: 49.) "But ye shall receive power, when the Holy Spirit is come upon you." (Acts 1: 8.) But the Holy Spirit came upon them on Pentecost. (Acts 2: 1-6.) Therefore, they (the apostles) received the power, authority ("keys"—Matt. 16: 19), to sit on thrones (Matt. 19: 28) from that time. But Jesus had told them: "Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he shall guide you into all the truth: for he shall not speak from himself; but what things soever he shall hear, these shall he speak: and he shall declare unto you the things that are to come. He shall glorify me: for he shall take of mine, and shall declare it unto you." (John 16: 13, 14.)

So Christ's testament was given to the Holy Spirit, who declared it to the apostles, "ambassadors" (2 Cor. 5: 20), who unfolded it to the people; it being confirmed "by signs and wonders, and by manifold powers, and by gifts of the Holy Spirit, according to his own will" (Heb. 2: 4). Hence, we have Christ's testament, will, or covenant, complete, and confirmed by the Holy Spirit.

What can we find in this will about disciples meeting upon the first day of every week? "And they continued steadfastly in the apostles' teaching and fellowship, in the breaking of bread and the prayers." (Acts 2: 42.) "When ye come together, each one hath a psalm, hath a teaching, hath a revelation." (1 Cor. 14: 26.) "When therefore ye assemble yourselves together," etc. (1 Cor. 11: 20.) "Wherefore, my brethren, when ye come together to eat, wait one for another." (1 Cor. 11: 33.) Read the whole eleventh chapter for the connection. "Not forsaking our assembling together, as the custom of some is." (Heb. 10: 25.) "And upon the first day of the week, when we were gathered together to break bread." (Acts 20: 7.) "Upon the first day of every week let each one of you lay by him in store." (1 Cor. 16: 2.)

Some would reprove me for saying, "the first day of every week;" but it is that way in the original. Here it is: "kata mian sabbatoon," the first day of every week. (1 Cor. 16: 2.) We have "kata ekklesian," every church, in Acts 14: 23, and "kata polin," every city, in Tit. 1: 5; then why not "kata mian sabbatoon," the first day of every week, in 1 Cor. 16: 2? It is that way

A Successful Man

Among the notable professional men of this country who achieved great success along strictly legitimate lines was Dr. R. V. Pierce. Devoting his attention to the specialty of women's diseases, he became a recognized authority in that line.

Over fifty years ago this noted physician gave to the world a Prescription which has never been equaled for the weaknesses of women. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all thru treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, weakening pains, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic so good that druggists everywhere sell it in both tablet and fluid form.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. Write for free medical advice.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

A BRAND-NEW BOOK "OLD LIMBER"

OR

THE TALE OF THE TAYLORS

By DeLONG RICE

"ALF and BOB TAYLOR, with their eloquence, their fiddles, and their fox hounds, have wrought for themselves a niche of eternal melody in the hearts of their country."

So states the author of this little book, which we present as the best product of the pen of DeLong Rice.

With a "Cast of Characters" extending from a President of the United States to a fox hound, the story touches a wide range of human sentiment; and through it all is the aroma of crackling camp fires and the music of the chase.

THE BOOK is beautifully printed and bound, appropriately illustrated, and packed in a neat gift box, ready for mailing.

PRICE, $1.00 THE COPY.
POSTPAID TO ANY ADDRESS.

Correspondence with Bookstores and News Agencies is invited.

Write to us to-day.

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

and can be no other way, for the Holy Spirit said so.

Now, bringing all of the above scriptures together, it is clear that the early church was enjoined and commanded by Christ, through the apostles, who spoke as they were moved by the Holy Spirit, to assemble (Heb. 10: 25) to break bread and drink the cup (1 Cor. 11), and lay by in store when so assembled (1 Cor. 16: 2). But, according to the latter passage, they were commanded to lay by in store upon the first day of every week. Therefore, the conclusion must follow that the early church was commanded to meet upon the first day of every week, the purpose of which was to break bread; and, being thus assembled, the Corinthian church was commanded to lay by in store upon that day on which they had been commanded to meet.

To me, the member who does not assemble with the church for the purpose set forth in the New Testament is unfaithful, untrue, and is, therefore, walking disorderly. Some one will say: "I cannot meet with the church; I am sick," etc. I would advise such to study the Scriptures and find out the meaning of the word "church," and walk by faith and not by human reason.

How the Matter Stands.

BY A. A. RUNNER.

"For I have no man like-minded, who will naturally care for your state. For all seek their own, not the things which are Jesus Christ's." (Phil. 2: 20, 21.) Human nature has been the same in all ages past and will be the same in all the ages to come; and the professed followers of Christ who are not governed by the divine nature will be governed by their human nature. Hence, Paul's description of the majority of professed Christians in his day as set forth in the above passage describes pretty generally the condition of the professed Christian world of to-day. How different the Spirit of Christ as set forth in 2 Cor. 5: 15, "And that he died for all, that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto him which died for them;" also that Spirit possessed by Paul and the Philippian brethren as described in Phil. 2: 17, 18: "Yea, and if I be offered upon the sacrifice and service of your faith, I joy, and rejoice with you all. For the same cause also do ye joy, and rejoice with me." And this brings to mind another important scripture quotation: "But ye are not in the flesh [human nature], but in the Spirit [the divine nature], if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you. Now if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his." (Rom. 8: 9.) If a preacher, while laboring to save souls, should find a community where the people are in need of the bread of life (and all are), and if these people are not able to support the preacher, and others who are able will not do so, then the preacher, to the fullest extent of his ability, should break the bread of life to that people; and if he will not do this, he is not in possession of the Spirit of Christ. But if such people are making only half living wages, then the preacher should have half living wages—that is, equally share with that people; and if such people are receiving full living wages, then the preacher should share equally with them; and if he does not get this, then the people for whom he labors are robbing him of what justly belongs to him, and will be lost in eternity's night if they do not repent and make amends. (See James 5: 1-9; 2: 8.) And such are not only robbing the preacher, but are also "robbing God." (See Mal. 3: 8-10.) While Paul could say, "I robbed other churches, taking wages of them, to do you service" (2 Cor. 11: 8), many churches in modern times could truthfully say: "We robbed the preachers, withholding from them their just dues, that we might buy fine things for ourselves and our children." All such should carefully read and study Deut. 25: 4; 1 Cor. 9: 9; and 1 Tim. 5: 18.

BOILS Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

PRICES OF OUR HYMN BOOKS.

PRaise HIM.

Music Edition—Boards.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Single copy.....	$ 50	Single copy.....	$ 60
Per dozen.....	4 80	Per dozen.....	6 00
Per fifty.....	17 00	Per fifty.....	22 50
Per hundred.....	32 50	Per hundred.....	43 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

CHRISTIAN HYMNS.

Music Edition—Boards.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Single copy.....	$ 55	Single copy.....	$ 65
Per dozen.....	6 00	Per dozen.....	7 20
Per fifty.....	23 00	Per fifty.....	28 00
Per hundred.....	45 00	Per hundred.....	55 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

WORDS OF TRUTH.

Music Edition—Boards.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Single copy.....	$ 45	Single copy.....	$ 50
Per dozen.....	4 80	Per dozen.....	6 00
Per fifty.....	18 00	Per fifty.....	23 00
Per hundred.....	35 00	Per hundred.....	45 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

VOICE OF PRAISE.

Music Edition—Boards.
Single copy.....	$ 35	Per fifty.....	$16 00
Per dozen.....	4 00	Per hundred.....	30 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

CHRISTIAN HYMNS AND WORDS OF TRUTH, COMBINED— CHRISTIAN HYMNS AND VOICE OF PRAISE, COMBINED.

Music Edition—Boards.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Single copy.....	$ 70	Single copy.....	$ 75
Per dozen.....	7 20	Per dozen.....	8 75
Per fifty.....	28 00	Per fifty.....	36 00
Per hundred.....	55 00	Per hundred.....	70 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

GOSPEL PRAISE.

Music Edition—Boards.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Single copy.....	$ 50	Single copy.....	$ 60
Per dozen.....	6 00	Per dozen.....	7 20
Per fifty.....	23 00	Per fifty.....	28 00
Per hundred.....	45 00	Per hundred.....	55 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

SEVENTY-SEVEN SWEET SONGS. Flexible Cloth.

Single copy.....	$ 25	Per fifty.....	$ 7 50
Per dozen.....	2 50	Per hundred.....	14 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

NEW CHRISTIAN HYMN BOOK.

Music Edition—Boards.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Single copy.....	$ 40	Single copy.....	$ 50
Per dozen.....	4 80	Per dozen.....	5 60
Per fifty.....	16 50	Per fifty.....	22 00
Per hundred.....	32 00	Per hundred.....	42 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

MRS. LULA VANN FULTON, ARK.

Suggests to Suffering Women the Road to Health

Fulton, Arkansas.—“I used Lydia E. Pinkham’s Vegetable Compound for a soreness in my side. I would suffer so badly every month from my waist down that I could not be on my feet half the time. I was not able to do my work without help. I saw your Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and gave it a fair trial. Now I am able to do my work and don’t even have a backache every month. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound enough and highly recommend it to those who have troubles like mine. I am willing for these facts to be used as a testimonial to lead all who suffer with female troubles, as I did, to the right road to health.”—Mrs. LULA VANN, Box 43, Fulton, Arkansas.

It is this sort of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham’s Vegetable Compound, given by word of mouth and by letter, one woman to another, that should cause you to consider taking this well-known medicine, if you are troubled with such symptoms as painful periods, weak, nervous feelings, miserable pains in your back, and cannot work at certain times.

Here is a woman who is so grateful and glad to be relieved from a painful and nerve racking physical condition that she wishes to tell all sick women.

DANDRUFF

QUICKLY DISAPPEARS WHEN

Tetterine

Is Applied. Fragrant and Soothing.
60c at your druggist’s or from the SHUP-
TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Homes Furnished Complete
Terms to Suit Everybody

TELEPHONE, MAIN 1096

HILARY E. HOWSE

FURNITURE, CARPETS
STOVES AND RANGES

We Exchange Furniture as Part
Payment

304-306-308 BROADWAY

105-107-109 THIRD AVE., N.

Keep Your Skin-Pores Active and Healthy With Cuticura Soap

Soap, Ointment, Talcum, 25c. everywhere. For samples
address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Colorado, a Great Field.

BY S. P. PITTMAN.

The time was when the “Great West” of the United States was regarded as a field for the adventurer, the pleasure seeker, and the speculator. The population has so rapidly shifted westward that even the “Far West” is no longer regarded as a far-away land; but those seeking homes and fields for ordinary activities have long been seeing the hand beckoning them “out West.” Many business firms and organizations of various kinds were not slow to grasp the opportunity of “growing up with the country,” manifestly destined to be an important part of our extended republic.

The brotherhood, which ought to have been alert and eager to seize every opportunity of becoming an opening wedge, has been slow to see the urgency and splendor of the call. Now and then some individual has responded to the urgent cry, but as yet no concerted or general response has been made. In speaking of the Western field, it is natural that Colorado, the Centennial State, should come in for a share of consideration. Doubtless some work has been done in most if not all the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Slope States; but being more familiar with the progress made in Colorado, I shall confine my remarks in this article to the consideration of this State.

As a result of the labors of Brethren John D. Evans, E. C. Fuqua, Bruce McCollum, and others, congregations have been established in Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo, Boulder, Fort Collins, Bellvue, and Greeley. (Unfortunately, the congregation in the last-named place has been broken up through strife). These places are all on the eastern side of the mountain chain. There is still some work being done in the eastern section of the State with which I am not familiar, and there is some also in the mountainous region. There ought to be a closer bond connecting all these efforts. The healing atmosphere of these cities and towns, all of which are in sight of the lofty range of mountains, has brought together a few brethren from the East, South, North, and Middle West, who, in their respective stopping places, formed nuclei for the existing congregations. Bellvue, a picturesque little village, almost enfolded by the arms of the mountains, is an example of what can be done by earnest mission work. There were men and women hungering and thirsting for something that they did not possess, religiously, and when the gospel came to them they tasted and were “filled.” Doubtless many a place like Bellvue could be found; and many a place has a nucleus, though inactive, that could develop into a wonderful work.

As a result of an article in the Gospel Advocate from Brother Evans’ pen, in which he set forth the needs of the Colorado field, I decided to go and see for myself. Last summer I did go, and during the time spent in the State meetings were held at five of the above-mentioned points. Only eight were baptized during the five meetings, but there were a few other accessions to the cause, and it is to be hoped that good, otherwise, was accomplished. If in this article I should help to arouse the interest of other readers, the trip has not been in vain. They need your prayers, your sympathy, your coöperation. If you, reader, have some Christian friend in those parts, you will confer a favor upon that individual and the cause by putting him in touch with one of the workers there. Besides Brother Evans, of Denver; Brother Bailey, of Boulder; Brother Rizer, of Pueblo; and Brethren Thomas and Parmiter, of Fort Collins, in whose hands the work seems to be upon a solid basis, there are other good, promising young men who have done some public preaching. If they would only venture out, they could, in my opinion, do a great mission work. Another suggestion is that a wide-awake, consecrated man, who will devote his entire time to that field, is one of their greatest needs.

Unfortunate divisions over plans and methods of work, and even over personal matters, have hindered the work greatly in the past; but let us hope that it is entirely in the past, and that peace and harmony in the Lord’s work will henceforth prevail in the State of Colorado.

For any further information or co-operation, write Brother John D. Evans, 6 Broadway, Denver, Col., and he can cite you to the leaders in any of these places.

A little contact with Scripture at the beginning of the day is like the touch of fresh water upon the face. It clears our mental vision; it freshens our better instincts; it steadies our spiritual pulse. Not seldom some verse will come home to our spirits with a new meaning and a new power and will thus sing all day in the background of our thoughts like some strain from some lovely and remembered music.—St. Louis Advocate.

Use MURINE FOR EYES

Irritated by
Sun Wind Dust and Cinders

RECOMMENDED AND SOLD BY DRUGGISTS AND OPTICIANS
WRITE FOR FREE EYE BOOK. MURINE CO. CHICAGO

BIBLE LESSON HELPS

PRICE REDUCTION

Effective January 1, 1923, we are reducing the Advanced Quarterly (64 pages) from 12 cents to 11 cents per quarter; the Intermediate Quarterly, from 6 cents to 5 cents per quarter; the Primary Quarterly, from 6 cents to 5 cents per quarter; little Bible Lesson Picture Cards, from 5 cents to 4 cents per quarter; Lesson Picture Charts, from $1.25 to $1.00 each.

Our subscribers will encourage us in our efforts to give them the lowest possible rates and help us to stand the reduction by increasing their orders for Bible Lesson Helps. We are appreciative of the patronage of all, and take this means of expressing our appreciation to all.

Date _____, 192__

Please enter the following order to be sent to the address below:

Name _____

P. O. _____

County _____ State _____

Remittance inclosed in payment of this order, $_____

-----ADVANCED QUARTERLY, 64 pages, @ 11 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter)

-----INTERMEDIATE QUARTERLY, 32 pages @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----PRIMARY QUARTERLY, 32 pages @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----LITTLE JEWELS (mailed quarterly) @ 12 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter)

-----THE YOUNG PEOPLE (mailed monthly) @ 15 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter, 80c Per Year—Foreign, 30c Per Quarter, $1.00 Per Year)

-----LESSON LEAVES @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----SETS LESSON PICTURE CARDS @ 4 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----LESSON PICTURE CHARTS @ $1.00 per quarter, $-----

-----CLASS BOOKS (7 cents each) @ 75 cents per dozen, $-----

-----SUNDAY-SCHOOL RECORD (for entire year) $2.50 per copy, $-----

-----COLLECTION ENVELOPES @ 75 cents per dozen, $-----

Total $-----

☛ Literature should be ordered to expire with the end of the quarters. Quarters begin January, April, July, and October; and expire March, June, September, and December.

☛ Remit by Post-Office Money Order, Bank Draft, Registered Letter, or Express Money Order, otherwise at the sender's risk.

CAREFULLY EXAMINE YOUR ORDER BEFORE MAILING

Cut Out Order Blank and Mail To-Day

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

COMMENDING THE LITERATURE.

"Samples of Sunday-school literature received. Must say that I am well pleased with the work, and will do all I can to encourage the use of the same. I think I can start one class this quarter." (B. W. Davis.)

"I have examined your new Quarterlies, and like them. I like the arrangement much better than the old, and I also feel certain the average student will take more interest in the book on account of its improved feature." (W. D. Bills.)

"I received copies of the Sunday-school literature. I have shown them to some of our Sunday-school teachers here, and we are all pleased with them. Personally, I am very much impressed with the system of the outlines." (T. M. Carney.)

"I have just received samples of Sunday-school supplies edited by Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley. I have looked over the Advanced Quarterly for the first quarter. I like the arrangement and comments very much. Indeed, I cannot see a single thing that I think could be improved." (J. R. Bradley.)

"I received your literature, compiled by Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley, and will say in regard to it, I think it sound and reliable. We use it in my home congregation (Dunlap), and think it fine. I shall take what you sent me to other congregations where they use none at all, and try to influence them to use this. Thank you." (W. C. Baker.)

"I have received sample copies of the Quarterlies edited by Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley. I am well pleased with the clear and concise manner in which the lessons are arranged and treated. I wish to commend them most heartily, for I feel that they will be of great help to all students of the Bible, and especially to the young." (G. W. Riggs.)

"I received the sample copies of the Sunday-school supplies in due time. I waited to express my opinion of them till I could give them a careful examination. I am pleased to say that I have found them first-class in every respect. They are clear, pointed, and scriptural. I like them very much." (Hall L. Calhoun, Professor of Old Testament Literature in Bethany College, Bethany, W. Va.)

"I have examined the Sunday-school literature, and it is fine. To have such men as Brethren Smith and Srygley edit them assures us sound gospel teaching, as they have given their lives fighting for the truth. We are using it in our Bible school (two hundred and fifty-two present last Lord's day), and all are highly pleased. We hope that the influence of the Gospel Advocate may grow as the years go by." (B. F. Harding.)

"For some time I have fully expected to write a word of indorsement of the Bible lessons. For many years I have been reading, studying, and teaching the Bible lesson as printed by you, and have always enjoyed them very much; but I must say, with justice and brotherly love to all, in my judgment, the Bible lessons prepared by Brethren Smith and Srygley are the very best. I will do what I can to give them prestige in my year's work wherever I go." (Frank Baker.)

"I have examined with some degree of care the Sunday-school literature for the current quarter. I find many commendable features both in arrangement and treatment. I like the topical headings with verse references in parenthesis, comments on the Golden Text placed at end of lesson, and the clear, pointed questions. The table of contents is a convenience. No doubt all Sunday-school literature will be improved in future in respect to arrangement, etc.; but, for my part, I find very little to criticize adversely in the present Quarterlies. I passed my sample copies on to a destitute congregation in my home county with recommendation that they use them in their classes. We use this literature in our Sunday-school classes in Burritt College." (James E. Chessor.)

"I have received sample copies of Bible helps from the Gospel Advocate office. These include Little Jewels, Lesson Leaves, Primary and Advanced Quarterlies. I have examined them very carefully, and I think that they are really the best set of Quarterlies that I have seen. Those using Quarterlies can find no better. But helps should be used properly in preparing lessons. In preparing lessons, I use all kinds of helps, and I think I have a right to do so. I prefer, however, to use the Bible only during recitations. I am sure that the lesson should be well studied by both teacher and pupils before coming together. In such cases the pupil recites what he really knows, and the teacher's knowledge is also tested. I believe in teaching the Bible at every opportunity." (F. P. Fonner.)

Forthcoming Meeting in Dallas, Texas.

The following was clipped from the bulletin published by the Oak Cliff church of Christ, Dallas, Texas, the church for which G. M. Pullias preaches:

The time is rapidly approaching for our fall meeting, beginning Wednesday evening, November 29, when Brother E. A. Elam, of Nashville, Tenn., will be with us.

Some members of our congregation have known Brother Elam for a long while; others will recall his delivering the Thanksgiving address two years ago; but to those who are not acquainted with him the following will give an insight into his noble character.

Early in life he gave himself to the Lord's service, and as teacher, writer, and preacher his influence for good has covered a wide scope.

For a number of years he taught in the Nashville Bible School and now occupies the Bible Chair in David Lipscomb College, this chair being endowed by a Texan, Nat Chenault, of Wichita Falls. Brother Elam also served as one of the editors of the Gospel Advocate for a long period. Our Sunday-school literature has been written by him for nearly a quarter of a century, and through this medium numbers have been instructed in the most holy faith.

Brother Elam's teachings on Christian living cannot be surpassed, and by many he is known as the "Beloved Teacher." Union, a small church near Gallatin, Tenn., has claimed one Sunday a month from him since his early preaching began.

A hearty welcome awaits Brother Elam and his good wife, who has been a devoted and inspiring companion, and who will accompany him here. Let every member consider himself a "committee of one" to assist in making the meeting a glorious success.

Ku-Klux-Klan Gifts.

BY R. O. KENLEY.

My attention was recently called to an article in an Abilene newspaper, in which it was stated that a committee of the Ku-Klux Klan marched into the auditorium during the closing services of a meeting held by Jesse P. Sewell and gave him a donation of twenty-five dollars, together with a letter of commendation of the good work he had done in said meeting. The newspaper left the impression that Brother Sewell accepted and retained the donation. I have heretofore noticed reports of a few other preachers and congregations of the church of Christ accepting such donations from this organization, but never one time thought that any of our good and able preachers would be guilty of so compromising the gospel of our Savior. The gospel teaches that one of the prime purposes of the coming of Christ was to tear down the wall separating the Jew and Gentile and making of them one nation in Christ Jesus. One of the prime purposes of the Ku-Klux Klan is to rebuild this wall and make of the Jew and Gentile two separate and distinct nations, contrary to the purpose and teachings of Jesus Christ. I do not believe that a Christian can any more be a member of this organization than a Christian could have engaged in the saloon business when saloons were licensed; nor do I believe that a minister of the church of Christ, or a Christian congregation, can rightly accept a gift from this order any more than they could have from a saloon keeper. Were I a minister of the gospel, and after preaching a series of sermons the same should meet with the commendation of such an anti-Christian order, I would certainly carefully scrutinize what I had preached and make sure that I had preached the gospel. "Beware of the Greeks bearing gifts."

Selections.

We witness a sad sight when we see men mutilating the Bible and mocking it without any sensitiveness and shock of conscience. Even a decent infidel will at least respect the Bible, and open irreverence toward it is a symptom of deep depravity.

Christianity does not consist in a proud priesthood, a costly church, an imposing ritual, a fashionable throng, a pealing organ, loud responses, to the creed and reiterated expressions of reverence for the name of Christ, the spirit of filial trust in God, and ardent, impartial, overflowing love to man:

CHAMBERLAIN'S

COUGH

REMEDY

FOR THE RELIEF OF

Coughs, Colds, Croup

WHOOPIING COUGH, HOARSENESS

BRONCHITIS

-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

NOTICE!

"Scriptural Songs," a new 1923 book, is ready. The new music is by the best writers for congregational singing of to-day. The words contain Bible doctrine for saint and sinner. Every preacher and song leader should have a copy to examine. Send your name and address, plainly written, on a one-cent post card at once for a sample copy. If satisfied with it, send twenty-five cents; if not, return the book. This offer is fair, isn't it?

Address Mrs. Lavinia Wright, 451½ Victoria Avenue, Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada.

Reader Takes Newer Form of Iron—Feels Years Younger

"Six weeks ago I saw a special offer in the paper telling how thousands of people grow old in looks and energy long before they are really old in years, because, as examinations by physicians have shown, an enormous number of people do not have enough iron in their blood. I have been taking Nuxated Iron for two weeks: the results are simply astounding. The roses have come back in my lips and cheeks, and I can conscientiously say that I feel ten years younger."

The above is a typical hypothetical case showing the results that have been achieved by a great many people since we started this "satisfaction or money back" offer on Nuxated Iron. We will make you the same guarantee. If, after taking the two weeks' treatment of Nuxated Iron, you do not feel and look years younger, we will promptly refund your money. At all druggists.

NOTE: Nuxated Iron has been used for years whenever needed in the family of the Advertising Representative of this paper with excellent results. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

How to Break Up Catarrh and Asthma

A Successful Treatment for What Have Been Considered Almost Incurable Troubles.

First: It is necessary that the inflamed bronchial tubes be soothed and the inflammation reduced. This for personal comfort, to stop the tickling sensation and stop irritation and hacking night coughs, and to stop the secretion of the phlegm.

Second: The phlegm should be broken up and thrown off without any constipating influences from the medicine.

For centuries the Hindus in the East have used the Cannabis Indica Plant for stimulation, and army doctors have found it most successful in treating bronchial troubles.

For over fifty years in the United States an extract of the same plant has been very successfully used to stimulate the nerves, break up the phlegm, and soothe and heal the irritated mucous membrane.

It was prepared after a thorough study of the plant and a scientific application of its medicinal values to bronchial troubles.

It can be secured in the form of Dr. James' Compound, by mail, from Craddock & Co., Philadelphia, Pa. Write for circular.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Gospel Advocate

Volume LXIV. No. 48.

NASHVILLE, TENN., NOVEMBER 30, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE

CONTENTS.

OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	1129
A Humiliating Confession—Jonah—"Higher Education"—The Eyes of the World—Report of Funds for the Japan Work—The Report of the Ashland City Debate—Read This and Think.
EVANGELISTIC NOTES.....	1136
Commendations of Lesson Helps.....	1137
Bible Helps.....	1137
EDITORIAL.....	1138
A Great Woman—Questions Concerning the New Testament—Use of the Word "Church"—Recreation: The Bathing Beach.
TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT.....	1141
QUERY DEPARTMENT.....	1142
HOME READING.....	1143
OBITUARIES.....	1144
Shaw—Burtis—Jones—Dies—Harris—Bailey.
The "New Church" of Covington, Tenn.....	1146
Contrary Winds.....	1147
FIELD NOTES.....	1149, 1152
Ezekiel Speaking To-Day.....	1151

Our Contributors

A HUMILIATING CONFESSION.

[This is a timely article from "D. L." It was written in 1866, but it is well to view the society and its divisive work in the light of its history since this was written.—H. Leo B.]

Brother Robert Milligan, after years of labor in the missionary societies, State and general, in the Review of October 16, asks the question: "Cannot our missionary societies be placed on a true and scriptural basis and the work of redeeming the enslaved millions of our race be carried on more efficiently and harmoniously?" This is an acknowledgment that the societies which he has been laboring to sustain and fasten upon the brotherhood are unscriptural, inefficient, and cannot produce harmony in the work of redeeming mankind. Brother Milligan proposes something else, we confess we are not able to understand exactly what. But as he acknowledges himself to have, for quite a number of years, been advocating such unscriptural, inefficient, and unharmonious associations as he refers to above, we shall naturally distrust his judgment, and ask for some authority for a new one, lest it prove to be of the same character as the old one. We apprehend Brother Milligan will find it difficult to place unscriptural organizations upon a scriptural basis. Brother Franklin, of the Review, responds quite lengthily, from which we extract the following: "But after writing more to reconcile the brethren to them, and give them efficiency, than any other man among us, we were forced to the conclusion that there was no possibility of confining them exclusively to missionary work; that they opened the way for dangerous and mischievous elements to be thrown in, spreading contention in every direction; that such confederations were wrong in themselves; that their constitutions were nothing but annoyances, opening the way for amendments, modifications, or changes of some sort, distracting our meetings, and were not only useless, but injurious." Yes, Brother Franklin has done more to reconcile the brethren to these things and fasten them upon the churches of Christ than any man among us. Brother Franklin has, for years, urged the adoption of societies, that open "the way for dangerous and mischievous elements to be thrown in, and that were wrong in themselves," and, in advocating them, denounced, in the earlier years of his advocacy, those who were opposed to adding human inventions and devices to God's complete and perfect appointments in no gentle style, inflicting wounds that will scarcely be healed in time, and causing alienation and strife among the people of God. We admire the spirit that prompts him to acknowledge the great wrong into which he has misled the brethren. But we suggest that his previous mistake in leading confiding brethren into such mischievous and dangerous courses, "into confederations wrong in themselves," ought to make him a little modest in proposing other unauthorized and unscriptural organizations. Yet, instead of admonishing them of the danger of human organizations miscarrying and resulting in evil confusion and strife, Brother Franklin proposes an organization, so far as we can discern, as unscriptural, unauthorized, entirely human, and embodying all the objectionable and unscriptural features of the "confederation wrong in itself," that opens "the way for dangerous and mischievous elements, spreading contention in every direction." Brother Franklin, what guarantee can you give us that in ten or fifteen years from now you will not tell us that your centralized "evangelistic committees," national, State, and district, will not be as evil as your present missionary societies? We see scarcely a change, save in the name—and that as unscriptural as the other. But we give the plan of Brother Franklin in his own words, and let our readers judge for themselves:

"1. We need an Evangelistic Committee and a Financial Agent, who shall do the work now done by the Board and Corresponding Secretary of the General Missionary Society, located in a central place in the nation.

"2. We need an Evangelistic Committee and Financial Agent who shall do the same work now done by the Board and Corresponding Secretary of each State Missionary Society.

"3. We need a similar Evangelistic Committee in all the districts where we have district societies.

"4. Churches and individuals could make their contributions to the District Committee, designate what portion of their funds shall go to the district, what portion to the State, and what to the National Committees.

"5. We might, instead of our present business meetings, have one rousing national, one State, and one district annual meeting at some suitable place in the nation, in each State and each district, for speeches, exhortations, and forming organizations. These meetings might be changed from place to place for the good of different sections."

Now, brethren, wherein is the superiority of this over the old societies, except that it concentrates the power in fewer hands. If that is desirable, why mince at matters? Let us have a pope at once in whom we will concentrate all power. Brethren, our faith is fixed. Christ's law is perfect; his institutions are complete. If they are not, we must have human ones to aid and perfect them. Let us go to Rome at once and acknowledge that all of our protests against her assumptions were wrong; that man has the right to change and amend the institutions of his Maker. When we have done this, it would be the part of wisdom to seek shelter within her fold and adopt her expedients and devices; for we never expect to see any human devices in religion surpass hers in simplicity, efficiency, and in maintaining the unity of a human religious organization. We do not wish to use odious comparisons or appear querulous, but it seems to us the brethren, after making such admissions, and then proposing to adopt the same mischievous and hurtful principles under another name, are trifling with great and sacred principles and jeopardizing the highest interest of the church of Christ. God's law and God's appointments, just as he gave them, are sufficient for the ends for which he gave them, or there is no limits to the right of man to change, alter, or abolish them as his wisdom and preference may dictate. We see, too, Brother Benton, of the Herald of Truth, pronounces the plan "eminently scriptural." Brethren, please show us one precept or example of scripture authorizing such an organization, and we will most heartily approve it, otherwise we must await at least as long as the missionary societies have been on trial to see them prove themselves. Brother Franklin, apply your excellent article, "Thus saith the Lord," in the same page, with this plan of yours, and see what will become of it. Speaking of the true men, Brother Franklin says "they intend as much as ever to call for scripture," "Thus saith the Lord," for everything, and to reject everything for which there is not a "Thus saith the Lord." Again: "Nor will they regard any man as true who does not wink at or sympathize with any name, constitution, law, or organization not authorized by the Majesty of heaven and earth." Brethren, the "Thus saith the Lord," the authority of "the Majesty of heaven and earth," for your evangelistic committees, national, State, and district, with their financial agents, usurping the work of the churches and controlling the servants of the churches of the Lord, is what we want.

Jonah.

BY DAVID THOMPSON.

The book of Jonah is one of the most interesting books of the Old Testament, thrilling as the best work of fiction, teaching splendid practical lessons, and as true as gospel. This last statement, however, it may be in order to prove, since the truthfulness of the facts recorded in this book are questioned on every hand. From the "higher critic," who sometimes poses as a preacher of the gospel, to the avowed infidel comes a constant stream of criticism against belief in the truthfulness of this record.

Some few years ago I heard a high-school principal say that this book was written to impress some very important lessons, but was never meant to be taken as fact. Others tell us that the incident of Jonah and the whale could not have occurred; therefore, that part of the book, at least, cannot be an actual record of facts.

Now, let us inquire as to the possibility of a man's spending three days and nights in the belly of a whale and coming forth alive. I suggest that we take a man who has never seen a whale, who also has never seen a seed and knows nothing whatever of how seeds sprout and grow; that we present to his consideration at the same time a grain of seed wheat, a mature stalk of wheat, and a whale, and let him decide which looks the more impossible—for the dry, hard seed to produce the stalk of wheat, or for a man to spend three days in the belly of the whale and come forth alive. Next, let us present to his consideration a newborn babe with its parents, assuming that he knows nothing whatever of God's laws of reproduction, and let him decide which looks the more impossible—that the child, resembling the father as much as the mother, should have been developed and brought forth to a separate existence, or that a man should have spent three days in the belly of a whale and come forth alive. Now, let us show him the solar system, with the sun as its center and the various other planets, including the earth, revolving in their orbits around it. Let him consider that there is nothing under this solar system to hold it up, no visible force between these planets to hold them at their respective distances from each other, and no visible force to keep them going; yet for thousands of years they have performed with marvelous speed, clocklike regularity, and mathematical precision. Let him now decide which looks the more impossible—these wondrous things, or for a man to spend three days in the belly of a whale and come forth alive.

Talk of the impossibility of this happening! There are thousands of things transpiring around us every day that these same wise thinkers would pronounce just as impossible did they not see them actually taking place before their very eyes. Why, then, doubt so simple a thing as a man's spending three days and nights in the belly of a whale? God made the man, the whale, and the laws that govern them. Is he not able to control them as he sees fit? Nothing is impossible with God.

There is another class, however, more dangerous than the first, who tell us that God could have caused this to happen, but he never interferes with his natural laws; so we must not make the mistake of taking this for an actual happening, but must accept it merely as a story given to impress some good lesson. To this I have but one reply. I presume that Jesus, being God's Son and having been present in the Godhead from all eternity, was in position to know about the matter when he was on earth. He said: "For as Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale's belly; so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth." (Matt. 12: 40.) Christ said he was there, so it merely becomes a question as to whose teaching we shall believe. Man says he was not there; Christ says he was. If we stand with Christ, we are on solid ground. If we stand with man, we are not in good company; for those who assail the integrity of this book are pure infidels whether they realize it or not.

When God told Jonah to go and preach death and destruction to the proud, wicked city of Nineveh, he placed before him a very unpleasant duty. It is never pleasant to preach a message of destruction to any people, and this is especially true when those to whom you are sent are powerful and wicked enough to kill you for preaching this message to them. To this unpleasant duty Jonah could have assumed an attitude of bravery or of moral cowardice. A coward is one who turns his back on that which he ought to face. This is just what Jonah did; hence, he acted a coward. You and I have many duties that are unpleasant. Do we assume toward them the "Jonah" attitude? Do we turn from them when we ought to face them? Are we moral cowards? This is not the way for God's children to act. We are soldiers, and soldiers must never turn their backs to the foe. No matter how unpleasant a duty may be, let us march right up to it like brave men and perform it. When Jonah really did go to Nineveh, the consequences were not so terrible as we suppose him to have imagined that they would be; and when we courageously face an unpleasant duty, we find it not so disagreeable as we supposed.

I recall but two instances in the Bible where men have tried to run away from the presence of God in a physical sense. Adam and Eve attempted it, as also did Jonah, and all made absolute failures. God is everywhere, and from his presence there is no escape. If you descend into the depths, God is there; if you ascend the heights, God is there. In the depths of the forest, on the burning desert, or in the heart of the mountain wilds, God is there. Men do not now attempt to physically run away from God; but I fear we often feel that we can do many things God has forbidden and fail to do many things he has commanded and yet escape the consequences of our sins, but in this we are badly mistaken. A man may strike down his fellow man in cold blood and man never suspect him of the deed; but God knows, and in the day of final accounts he will have the deed to face. Christians, sometimes preachers of the gospel, do wrong, and, being able to hide it from the church and keep their reputation among men untarnished, feel fine over the matter, forgetting that God knows it all and that sometime he will have to account to him. A man will reap what he sows; his sins will find him out at the judgment of God, if not before. We will make just as great a failure of running away from God as did Jonah.

When Jonah felt the bitter fruits of his sins and thought that certain death in the whale's belly was his, he became very penitent. Like the prodigal son, he "came to his senses" and went to the Father in humility and penitence, praying for forgiveness and help. When God forgave him and caused the whale to vomit him out on dry land, he was willing to go just where God said and do just what God said. True repentance always brings the fruit of a reformed life. If you or I think that we can genuinely repent and not restore the money that we have gained by fraud, not retract the lie that we have told, not apologize for the wrong that we have done another, not forgive those toward whom we feel hatred, we are very much mistaken. The kind of repentance that does not do these things is not the Bible kind. When we repent, are we always sure to do our part? We preach loud and long to the sinner about doing his part of the plan of salvation, but we often forget that repentance has a place after baptism as well as before, and that God has not promised to forgive the sins of his children until they have done the correcting and reforming.

The eternal goodness, abounding mercy, and everlasting love of God have been made known in many ways, but never, in the Old Testament, more forcibly than when he freely forgave the people of Nineveh. Grievously as they had sinned against him, vile as had their lives become, God freely forgave them when they repented and turned to him. In this we can read a great hope for the lost and dying of earth. The religion of Christ reaches down into the depths as well as up into the heights. Men and women may become too vile for their fellow man to notice them, may sink too low for preachers of the gospel to try to help them, and, like lepers and outcasts, may be shunned by all, yet the loving hand of God will reach down to them, his enduring grace will encompass them about, and his everlasting forgiveness will lift them up and purify them. The worthy and virtuous family of God may draw their skirts of righteousness about them and pass them by; like Jonah under the gourd vine or the brother of the prodigal, they may be pained and humiliated by the extent to which God's goodness runs; yet, when we get to the city of God, we will find that through God's great goodness some of the last of earth will be first in heaven and some of the first of earth will not be there at all.

"Higher Education."

BY U. G. WILKINSON.

I have been much interested in the controversy that has so recently raged between Brother W. W. Freeman and his critics over his advanced views on higher education, which seem to have caused him to almost lose his bearings and drift without chart or compass in dangerous waters. And without meaning to enter the controversy myself, as both sides are sufficiently represented, and avoiding all direct personal references in the matter, may I not be permitted to say on this "higher education."

True, I have not had the distinguished privilege in life of these self-anointed high priests who enter the sanctum sanctorum, behind whose mysterious veil no novitiate may enter, such as Yale, Harvard, and other mighty temples of knowledge where Wisdom is supposed to sit in inaccessible mystery, unapproachable by the humble worshipers of the outer court. I have no college or university degrees and make no pretensions to knowledge of things ancient or modern beyond apostles and prophets of God from whom I have learned my lessons, except as I may advance onward in "that which is perfect," "leaving the beginning of the word of Christ," which is "that which is in part," to "go on to perfection." (1 Cor. 13: 9-12; Heb. 6: 1, 2.) But, as a humble believer with all my heart in the divine oracles, I have heretofore presumed to accept their statements as the ultimate truth on all matters where they utter their voice; and having in my day also rummaged through systems of philosophy and history, ancient and modern, that "begin with a 'perhaps,' proceed with a 'maybe,' and end with a 'perchance,'" I have found nothing in them all to cause my faith to waver or weaken. And when I read in those same oracles, "Wisdom crieth without; she uttereth her voice in the streets: she crieth in the chief places of concourse, in the openings of the gates: in the city she uttereth her words" (Prov. 1: 20, 21), I at once fell for the statement and found that Wisdom spoke to me in countless voices everywhere. I began to seek her and to heed her millions of voices arising in praise from the creature to the Creator in earth and sea and sky, as well as upon the blessed pages of the inspired volume, and I at once decided that he who passed these many voices all unheeded by denying their united testimonies to the divinity of the Hand that made them would scarcely profit by her lessons when uttered by the feeble voice of man, though canonized by having been uttered even in the sacred precincts prescribed by narrow college and university walls erected by the puny hands of man, though branded with high-sounding words, as "advanced thought," "higher education," etc., and forbidden to be touched by polluted hands of the uninitiated. And strange to say that even some of this mighty wisdom supposed to be incubated only within those inaccessible walls of forbidden mystery and in the mighty brains of self-styled scientists percolated out. Even their magical books floated out into the ordinary channels where common mortals navigate the seas of learning, where all things must finally undergo the trial of fire, and I, a humble outer-court worshiper, was able to absorb some of it which leaked into my dull cranium.

Being as I was not unwilling to compare notes with these mighty men of science and learning, we tried it out in the crucible of controversy, and I found them wanting, just very common mortals. I had the privilege of meeting in public discussion the best they had to offer on the subject. Perhaps more than most men of my generation have I stood in deadly conflict against these Goliaths of modern science upon the fair fields of honorable controversy, and instead of ever having been driven ingloriously from the field, they were left headless as food for the fowls of heaven. Maybe I was not so much clothed with the sword and spear and shield of modern schooling, but I went forth unarmored and "in the name of the Lord God of the armies of Israel," whom they had defied, and it was he who gave the victory.

Though years have flown, decades have passed, and it has been long since a champion among them has been found to meet the issue again, I have been accorded a clear field where honorable controversy might decide the fate of theories ever changing, old ones dying, new ones "born," with the changing seasons and rolling spheres; and while their deadly work still goes on in school and college, none seem to be found to meet us again in the field and try their strength where truth might conquer and error perish. They seem to have surrendered and changed their "tack."

Then, what is to be gained by spending precious years in these schools where this atheistic, puerile, godless, senseless speculation is waging futile war against God and his

Christ? Unproved and unprovable theories about the origin of life, the probable age of the world, the genesis of things, the prehistoric, etc. There is no prehistoric with the true believer. It is all bunk. "In the beginning God . . . said, Let there be light: and there was light." He spoke, and it was so; and there's the sum of it with him who lives by faith. If the faith of Abel, Enoch, Noah, Abraham, and Moses is what it is commended to be in the word of God (Heb. 11), then let it go at that, and by it "understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear."

No, I have not overlooked the investigations of modern scientists, so called. On the contrary, during a most active and studious life, whose activities cover at least three decades, allowing for three more (as I am now approaching my sixtieth milestone) for good count spent during the immaturities of youth—and this in harmony with the Bible age for beginning the great work of life (at thirty John the Baptist and Jesus began, and the same age was the legal age of majority under the law of God, as it appears)—I have given them the most patient hearing and the most fearless and searching investigation. And instead of arriving at the conclusion that they are demigods from whom to absorb unquestioned wisdom, I find them demagogues who promise everything in their omnipotent pretensions and accomplish nothing; rich in promises, bankrupt in accomplishments; sophists even inferior in grade to the ancients; smatterers in fields where they know nothing; a minnow in midocean. "Higher critics," indeed! Like good old Thomas Carlyle's critic fly sitting on a little corner of some noble edifice with circumscribed vision seeing a foot or so of the surrounding environments and criticizing the great architect who built it for here and there an unobservable and imaginary inaccuracy, a splinter that should have been removed, a daub of mortar too much or too little, and having no conceptions of the infinite beauty and utility of the wonderful whole.

Who cares whether the New Testament canon was finally settled in the first or fourth century. The vital question is: Is it the living oracles? If so, then it is "the gospel of Christ," which "is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth. . . . For therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith: as it is written, the just shall live by faith." (Rom. 1: 16, 17.) This being true, then, "if any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God." (1 Pet. 4: 11.)

If I should classify these modern critics or speculators with their prototypes of the Bible with whom God's ancient servants had to deal, I could find no parallel so apt as the magicians of Pharaoh who withstood Moses and Aaron, though perhaps inferior to them. And what did Moses to oppose them? Did he invoke the mighty learning which we are told he possessed to a degree even surpassing them and obtained in their schools? (Acts 7.) Not he. Only the simple shepherd rod, "the rod of God," which "by faith" he lifted each time to their utter confusion. And when he waved it in their presence for the last time over the tossing waves of the Red Sea, they sank, encumbered with their armor, with all their learning, with all their magic arts, with king and army, master and slaves invoking their monster gods in vain, to rise no more; while Moses, "the servant of God," led by the angel of God in a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night, led his people on to the goodly mountains of their everlasting inheritance in fulfillment of the oath-bound promise of the God of their fathers and gave the world a law and a system of righteousness that has been the basis of model government in all ages, is still developing into the perfect state, contains the seeds of Christianity itself, the basic principles of the royal reign of Messiah; leading his people from abject slavery to be the greatest of the nations, that nation which gave us the Christ, the apostles and prophets and the Bible, and, through these, world salvation, and then returning to the bosom of the Eternal One whom he had served so faithfully.

Had our modern critics been present when the Sermon on the Mount was preached, it would, no doubt, have been matter for wonder with them that in preparing that masterpiece of righteous principles no use whatever was made of the learning and wisdom of the schools. No single philosopher is quoted or considered in any manner. Homer, Plato, Aristotle, Demosthenes, Virgil, and Cicero are all passed by and altogether ignored. Confucius, Gautama, and Zoroaster furnish nothing whatever to be considered, with all their wisdom. With a "silence that speaks louder than words" they are wholly disapproved. They find no more place in his system of righteousness than the ancient schools and ancient magicians did with Moses. Sophists all. Truly "the wisdom of the world is foolishness with God." (1 Cor. 1: 18-25.) The waves of oblivion roll over them all in the economy of heaven, leaving them as effectually and eternally buried as did the Red Sea waves the ancient hosts of Egypt. But, on the other hand, what abundant material is found in Moses and the prophets to weave into the superdocument, the fundamental and supreme constitution and law upon which He begins his royal reign! He has not come to destroy them, but to fulfill. And their just and righteous words and deeds of faith, as they were guided by the unseen hand, the eternal Spirit of the everlasting God, furnished the very warp and woof of his teaching. And "he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes," the great educators of the time.

What a rebuke to their mighty pretensions would our modern critics have found had they been present when he looked over the little assembly of Galileans that day on the mountain—Peter, James, and John, Mary Magdalene, etc.—and said: "Blessed are the poor in spirit. . . . Blessed are they that mourn. . . . Blessed are the meek. . . . Blessed are the merciful. . . . Blessed are the pure in heart. . . . Blessed are the peacemakers. . . . Ye are the salt of the earth. . . . Ye are the light of the world!" Surely our critics would have exclaimed: "Ach, Lord! You have overlooked the schools; you have ignored higher learning and criticism, science, poetry, literature; you have completely snubbed the philosophers. Surely these poor unlearned men and women to whom you are speaking are not the light of the world. If so, where are our great schools, or philosophers, poets, and statesmen? Where do they come in for their share in the glory of your reign?" And, indeed, where do they come in? They certainly have no place as world teachers with Matthew, Peter, James, and John. The Lord has made his word stand sure. And the angel who foretold to Daniel that "they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever" (Dan. 12: 3), has proven to be the true prophet.

But surely the critic would have suggested that we must indeed have an educated ministry to save the young from these miseducated follies. How can we save with that which has no savor? If the gospel cannot reach them, they will have to go on in their folly.

Then, let us cling to the eternal word of God, which is able to save the soul. It is the anchor of the soul, to which the bleeding soul may be bound by the threefold cable of faith, hope, and love. The twenty-third Psalm is a richer cordial for the dying soul than all the volumes that ever have been or ever will be produced by science. If the Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want. "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever." Beyond this there is nothing to be desired.

The Eyes of the World.

BY HARVEY W. RIGGS.

In the Literary Digest for November 11, 1922, page 36, is a short, significant article under the heading, "Less Tom-toms for the Church." The Digest quotes and comments upon an article in the Baltimore Sun, "which believes that less beating of the drum and more unadulterated religion is really what the church needs." Thus the comment of these two publications goes to show that people at large are getting tired of side-show entertainments for church services and are wanting to see more religion "unadulterated" with the traditions and inventions of men and to hear more of that gospel which "is the power of God unto salvation."

I quote further: "It is significant that before the advent of trombones and sensational antics in the pulpit men were more conspicuous in the congregations than they are today. Perhaps those who asked for bread have been given a stone. The simplicities of religion have been beclouded by eccentricities which attract the curious for a time, but have no sustained influence. . . . There are those who believe that unadulterated religion will accomplish more than louder beating of tom-toms."

Yes, there are people who believe just that way; but we can hardly give the Digest credit for discovering the fact, though I know from having been there that such people are very few in the eastern part of these United States. Through our loyal papers many writers have been expressing the sentiment of many more people on this very subject. These people are following a movement begun a century ago to restore things religious to "the simplicity that is in Christ" (2 Cor. 11: 3); so the idea is as old as the Christian system, of which it is a vital principle. We are glad to have such men with us in our stand for "pure religion and undefiled."

Now, when clear-seeing men of the world frankly face and state such facts, how can our "progressive" brethren defend unscriptural innovations which attract and entertain, but cannot teach and admonish? The eye of faith has long beheld such things as stumblingblocks; and now that the eyes of the world are seeing them as such, what excuse, even of expediency, is left for their use? And yet there is a movement being pushed to supplant loyal churches with those beating the tom-toms "after the New Testament pattern!"

Report of Funds for the Japan Work.

BY I. B. BRADLEY.

These reports are made weekly, that those who are interested may be able to keep up with the progress of this work and the funds contributed toward its support. As has been stated previously several times in the Gospel Advocate, I have been selected by Sister Andrews to handle all the funds for her work, and the contributors are earnestly requested to note this and send money to me direct, so as to save trouble and expense to others. This will facilitate the handling of these funds a great deal and will be much more satisfactory. I want to urge every one who intends to make a contribution to this work to do so right at this time, so that our sister may not be delayed in starting at the time she desires. It is urgent that you do so right away that this may be done, as she must make reservations with the steamer in a few days or have to wait until after the holidays.

I have been informed by Brother Boles that the congregation at Franklin, Tenn., will give one hundred dollars toward her passage, and that there are two other contributions of one hundred dollars each ready for the building fund. It will be a matter of encouragement to other contributors, and will, I believe, provoke others to an earlier action, if these will send their contributions in.

The money is being deposited in the Birmingham Trust and Savings Bank, and is perfectly safe. I think I shall place the money for the building fund in the savings department so that it will be drawing some interest while the fund is growing.

I want to give the readers the benefit of an indorsement of Sister Andrews written by Brother Elam. I here give it in full:

Nashville, Tenn., November 3, 1922.—Dear Brother Bradley: For sometime I have wanted to write you, expressing my high appreciation of Miss Sarah Andrews as a thoughtful, earnest, and devout Christian woman; very studious of the Bible, and with a clear conception of the gospel of Christ. She was in my Bible classes our last school year, and fully demonstrated her kind, gentle spirit, noble womanhood, clear understanding of the truth, and zealous determination to serve as a missionary to her fellow men—all in the name of Christ.

I shall do all in my power to assist her in returning to Japan, and to support her while there, and to induce congregations to do the same.

It affords me no little pleasure to voluntarily write this commendation of one so worthy. May the Lord bless her in all her undertakings, is my prayer, and I confidently believe he will.

In Christian love, I am,

Yours fraternally,

E. A. ELAM.

Through the instructions and encouragement of Brother Boles, I have written Sister Andrews that she may order her reservations on the boat sailing from Seattle on December 24. So we must hurry up this matter and have the money ready by the 1st to the 10th of December, so that she may arrange to start to the coast not later than December 15. Let every one who reads this and who has not sent a contribution for the passage fund send something right away. "The king's business requireth haste." Let us not disappoint our dear, good sister by a lack of funds.

I mailed last week all the funds to Sister Andrews that were in hand for the regular support of the work and balanced that account.

Passage Fund: Previously reported (November 4), $60; contributions from churches and individuals to November 14, $47.44. Total, $107.44 less amount expended for record book, stationery, and postage, $5.94. Amount on hand (in bank), $101.50.

Home Building Fund: Previously reported (November 4), $186.30; additional receipts to November 4, $147.50. Total amount on hand (in bank), $333.80.

Gospel Advocate Company.

BY H. LEO B.

This company tries to publish and sell just such books as will be a blessing to any home if read. There are a number of good books and tracts which should be in every home. We take pleasure in calling the reader's attention to some of these good books, and feel that we are helping every one who is induced to read them.

"The Gospel Plan of Salvation." By Dr. T. W. Brents. Cloth. Price, postpaid, $2.

Eight editions have been sold. This book is too well known to need commendation from us. It embraces in its compass the following all-important themes: "Predestination, Election, and Reprobation;" "Calvinistic Proofs Examined;" "The Foreknowledge of God;" "Hereditary Depravity;" "Establishment of the Church;" "Identity of the Church;" "The New Birth;" "Faith, Repentance;" "The Confession;" "Baptism—What Is It?" "Who Should Be Baptized?" "The Design of Baptism;" "The Holy Spirit."

"The People's New Testament, with Notes." (Two volumes.) By B. W. Johnson. Price, per volume, postpaid, $2.50.

A splendid commentary, comprising the entire New Testament. Volume I., four Gospels and Acts; Volume II., Epistles and Revelation.

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

The Report of the Ashland City Debate.

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

The Baptist and Reflector of November 9 contained a report of the Ashland City debate, with some conclusions by J. D. Moore, editor, who was moderator for our Baptist brother, E. H. Greenwell. Brother Moore begins his report of the debate with this statement: "On October 25 to 27 the editor had the privilege of attending the first doctrinal discussion, otherwise known as a 'debate,' which he ever witnessed. The speakers were Rev. C. D. Crouch, Campbellite, of Ashland City, and Brother E. H. Greenwell, pastor of our church at that place."

I want to say to Brother Moore that I am sure that Brother Crouch does not demand or expect that "Rev." be placed before his name. I do not remember that the word is used but one time in the Bible, and then it is applied to Jehovah. "He hath sent redemption unto his people: he hath commanded his covenant forever: holy and reverend is his name." (Ps. 111: 9.) A humble, faithful Christian needs no such attachment to his name, and certainly no other kind ought to have it.

Another thing in this quotation from Brother Moore's report is very objectionable. Brother Crouch does not wear the name "Campbellite," and it is not kind or courteous to nickname any one. Brother Crouch, I am sure, believes with Peter that a child of God should glorify Christ by wearing the name "Christian." "If ye are reproached for the name of Christ, blessed are ye; because the Spirit of glory and the Spirit of God resteth upon you. For let none of you suffer as a murderer, or a thief, or an evildoer, or as a meddler in other men's matters: but if a man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God in this name." (1 Pet. 4: 14-16.) Neither Brother Greenwell nor Brother Moore called Brother Crouch a "Campbellite" during that debate, and I as moderator would not have permitted either of them to do it if I could have prevented it. Brother Moore seems to think that ordinarily it is better for people to preach their doctrine instead of debating, but here is an instance in which the public discussion is better, because men who are disposed to be ugly can be made to act like real nice folks. Who authorized Brother Moore to call Brother Crouch a "Campbellite," and why would he do it in his paper and not do it in a debate? The name "Campbellite" was not used in that discussion, so far as I know.

In his conclusions on debates Brother Moore says: "There may be times and places, occasions and conditions, on which a public and pitched debate on disputed points in the teaching of the Bible may be profitable, but we think they are rare and remote." I do not know exactly what the brother means by a "pitched" debate; and unless there is something bad in that adjective "pitched," I am unable to see why all public discussion conducted in the proper spirit might not be best for truth. Truth should be able to stand all the light; so why should it ever be bad to let the light in on any important subject?

The brother says: "There should be doctrinal elements in regular preaching. Let the word of God be proclaimed in its full doctrinal character on all occasions." Very well, Brother Moore, if it is right to discuss these doctrinal points in preaching, what could make it wrong to discuss them openly with an opponent? Is it not true, when Baptist preachers are discussing these questions in their regular meetings, that they are carrying on a one-sided debate? And if the debate with an opponent does no good "because it is divisive and causes people to form separate camps," does not the one-sided debating from different pulpits cause the same thing? What keeps people in a Baptist camp but preaching Baptist doctrine, or what keeps them in any other camp but preaching the doctrine peculiar to the camp?

Notwithstanding Brother Moore says that the good in debates is rare and remote, yet he admits that our Lord did a lot of debating in the latter part of his life. On this point the brother says: "The controversial angle is not the one from which the word of God should be proclaimed. Our Lord faced his enemies, the religious leaders of his day, in a sharp, quick, swift, sweeping controversy in the closing hours of his life, but the meetings were not premeditated or prearranged." How does the brother know they were not "premeditated?" But if these meetings were not "premeditated or prearranged," why does that make it wrong to premeditate or prearrange them? I know it is bad to premeditate and prearrange anything that is wrong, but the fact that our Lord did it is proof that it is not wrong to discuss religious questions; and if it is right to do it at all, it is right to premeditate and prearrange it.

It seems to me the brother almost offers a criticism on the Savior's conduct when he says that the controversial angle is not the one from which the word of God should be proclaimed, and in the next sentence admits that the Lord did engage "in a sharp, swift, sweeping controversy in the closing hours of his life." Jesus was in controversy not only during the closing hours of his life, but all through his public ministry, and his apostles were engaged in controversy throughout all their ministry.

But the brother says: "A religious faith which is in need of a public debate for its popularity and progress must be feeble indeed, and unquestionably does not have enough foundation in the work of God to entitle it to even that much of a support." Was the faith which our Lord preached feeble? You say "he faced his enemies, the religious leaders of his day, in a sharp, swift, sweeping controversy." Did not that system which Jesus preached when he was engaging in a "sharp, swift, sweeping controversy" have its foundation in the work of God, and was it not entitled to even that much of a support? I am unable to see how the brother could make disparaging allusions to controversy when he admits our Lord engaged in it.

In our brother's conclusions on the debate he further says: "There was not a thing said in the magnificent arguments of Brother Greenwell at Ashland City, the effect of which was practically nil, which should not be uttered in sermons in the regular worship services, where there would be promise of tremendous telling effect." I ask, then, what was it that rendered the effect of these magnificent arguments "nil" in the debate which might have had such telling effect in a sermon? Was it not the fact that in the debate Brother Greenwell had an opponent who was able to show that these "magnificent arguments" were unsupported by logic and the word of God? Why should Brother Moore want these "arguments" palmed off on his unsuspecting audiences without any one present to show wherein they are unsupported by the word of God? If these big, fine-looking arguments can be rendered "nil" so easily by an opponent, may it not be true that they are nil, and that they ought to be so understood? I myself have heard some of the "magnificent arguments" Baptist preachers and other preachers would put up in their regular sermons torn all to pieces in a debate and rendered "nil" or something else that means nothing. I can see very well how a church that lives and grows by keeping its members in ignorance can consistently oppose open, fair discussion, but how any church that wants nothing but the truth can oppose it is more than I am able to see. If I had reached the place where I was afraid for my positions to be thoroughly tested in open discussion, I would be ashamed to admit it.

Brother Moore, in this same report, in order, it seems to me, to cast a reflection on honorable controversy, says: "The day of the battle-ax and the bludgeon has passed." Why should an honorable discussion between two Christian gentlemen be called a "battle-ax" and a "bludgeon," when the brother says the same arguments should be made in the regular sermon? Why, is it not as much a battle-ax and a bludgeon without an opponent as with one? No, beloved, it is popular to say something ugly about the discussion of religious subjects. It is best for Satan's cause that people be kept in their respective "camps," and he profits by everything that will keep them there. A free, open discussion of all the differences in the religious world will do much to enlighten the people and bring us all nearer to God's word and, therefore, nearer to each other. Why should truth have anything to hide, or why should it fear an open investigation?

Read This and Think.

BY S. H. HALL.

The religion that our Lord lived is the most beautiful life that has ever been placed before man. Of course, his doctrine was ever sound and pure. But the beauty with him is seen in the fact that the order of life with him was do and teach. The doing came first with him. Just so it must be if we are ever to be like him. To teach all he taught with a tenacity that reaches the absolute degree and fail to live it simply means that we have made ourselves absolute hypocrites.

Brother O. C. Lambert preaches regularly at the State Prison. I have my serious doubts about his getting the support he should have in such work. Just why he goes there, I do not know—that is, whether he goes on his own initiative or some congregation has asked him to go and contributes regularly to his work. I know he delights in going, and feel sure that the going is not so pleasant as preaching in a good church house to a congregation of people who have not on the "stripes" that say "we are all violators of the laws of the land." The Lord bless him in this good work. I hope to be more helpful to him in this work.

Just recently I read the following words from a member of the church of Christ who is serving a sentence: "I have some Salvation Army papers I intended giving you, but forgot it; will send them to you the first passing. I tell you they have the right ideas about some things. I sure stand pat with them when it comes to going out after lost men and women. I truly believe they come more nearly possessing the Spirit of the Master than any with whom I have ever come in contact. They are always meek, kind, abundant in sympathy, and ever ready to lend a helping hand—a sunny smile, a glad handshake, a word of encouragement, and always pointing us to the Lamb of God as the only one who can really save. O, they are a great band of people! I mean to learn more of them some day."

Now, I am almost sure that this brother sees more religion in the Salvation Army than he does in that body that claims to be the church of Christ. Please to understand me. Not that I have one thing to say by way of calling in question a single tenet known to me that those who claim to be "the church of Christ" teach. Understand, too, that I believe the church of our Lord exists in faith and practice. By this I mean there are thousands on earth who not only claim to teach the pure word of our Lord, but they try just as hard to live it. But the point I am making is this: there is such a great number in the church who do not live it that it almost overshadows the efforts of those who do live it. There is not enough of this going to those behind the prison walls of the land. There is not enough of going to the men and women who are down and out and lifting them up. Where is the soul our Lord ever "blacklisted" and consigned to perdition without hope? Is it not possible that some of us have gotten into the condition of the Pharisees and scribes as mentioned in Luke 15: 2? They had marked quite a number off of the list of those who were subjects of salvation. The publicans and sinners they believed should not be saved. They had no desire that they be saved. Is it not possible for us to hold the same attitude toward souls for whom Christ died? And if we do get into such a condition, are we not condemned ourselves?

But, perhaps, I would not feel so bad over the thought that here some have "digressed" from the teaching of our Lord—and certainly this is bad enough—were it not for the fact that it seems that some who are out of the prisons of their respective States, and known to be good, moral men, men who are certainly helpful to society, members of the church of our Lord, our brethren, and yet they are "black-listed," it seems, and marked as souls not subject to the pardoning grace of our Lord. O, certainly it may said that no one has ever done a thing of this kind. Well, we certainly have when some brother says or does something that does not look just right to us and we push him off as unworthy of fellowship and make not one effort to save him. In other words, we "cease to communicate." And if the brother undertakes to try to adjust whatever trouble that has arisen, he is met with, "I have no confidence in your confession;" hence, the trouble cannot be settled.

A good brother wrote me about "A Dark Picture" of which I recently wrote in the Gospel Advocate, and he tried to make it look brighter. But there is no need of our trying to make white something Jehovah declares is black. The picture I wrote about is found in 2 Tim. 3: 1-5. And rest assured of the fact that I know man made it black, not God. Our God simply, in painting the picture, was true to facts, as he always is, and gave it its true coloring. Let us read it again: "But know this, that in the last days grievous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of self, lovers of money, boastful, haughty, railers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, implacable, slanderers, without self-control, fierce, no lovers of good; traitors, headstrong, puffed up, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God; holding a form of godliness, but having denied the power thereof."

Now, this is what God says about it. Just whether it describes the time in which we are living is not for me to say; but that it describes some things I have seen, I must admit. For instance, take the word "implacable." It says that men who claim to be religious will become so. What does "implacable" mean? Here is the definition: "That which cannot be placated; incapable of being reconciled; stubborn or constant in enmity; not to be appeased; unforgiving." Here are some of the synonyms: "Cruel, inexorable, irreconcilable, merciless, pitiless, relentless, severe, unappeasable, unforgiving, unrelenting, unyielding." The antonyms are as follows: "Complacent, forgiving, gentle, mild, placable, tender, yielding."

But in the picture we find it says they will be "no lovers of good." Next week I hope to say something about what it is to be "lovers of good." Just be as good as you say you want others to be, and this will help to change the picture.

Publishers' Items.

Sunday School Record. This record is neatly and substantially bound, and has space for fifty-two Sundays. Price, postpaid, $2.50.

"Civil Government"—Its Origin, Mission, and Destiny, and the Christian's Relations to It. By David Lipscomb. This book is the outgrowth of the author's most matured thoughts on this subject. Attractively bound. Pages, 158. Price, $1.

"The People's New Testament, with Notes." (Two volumes.) By B. W. Johnson. A splendid commentary, comprising the entire New Testament. Volume I., four Gospels and Acts; Volume II., Epistles and Revelation. Price, per volume, postpaid, $2.50.

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Evangelistic Notes

Joe L. Netherland has changed his address to Dyersburg, Tenn., Box 462.

B. D. Morehead preached at Twenty-second Avenue, this city, on November 19.

O. C. Lambert preached last Lord's day at Rothschild Avenue Church, this city.

G. W. Jarrett is located at present at Candler, Fla., and would like to be busy. Write him.

Tice Elkins has changed his address from Box 284 to 3244 South Adams Street, Fort Worth, Texas.

C. H. Woodroof, of Albany, Ala., paid us a pleasant call on his way to Palmyra, Ind., for a meeting.

J. A. Cullum, Rogers, Ark., reports two fine services at that place on November 19. Two were added.

Jarratt L. Smith preached on November 19 at Old Jefferson, near Smyrna, in Rutherford County, Tenn.

Ira Womack reports two fine services at Ardmore, Okla., on November 19. He preached at Berwyn in the afternoon.

John M. Rice reports the church at Chickasha, Okla., for which he preaches, as steadily growing in interest and numbers.

Tice Elkins has just closed a meeting at Sabinal, Texas, with four baptisms and one restoration. The church was well pleased with him.

H. Leo Boles preached at Foster Street, this city, on last Lord's day, to two fine audiences. There were three confessions and one reclaimed.

James E. Black has just closed a short meeting at Carlsbad, Texas. Two were restored and the congregation started to meeting regularly.

A recent communication from W. M. Wilson, Old Fork, Tenn., states that they meet every Lord's day at that place to worship as "it is written."

In a recent issue R. A. Craig was reported as conducting a meeting for the Main Street Church at Winchester, Ky. It should have read "Fairfax Church."

A. A. Bunner preached on November 12 at Akron, Ohio, to a large audience. He speaks very highly of the unity and consecration of the congregation there.

G. B. Lambright, 1030 Waco Avenue, Port Arthur, Texas, preached to two good crowds there on November 19. He would be glad to hold meetings while in Texas.

W. M. Oakley preached at Greenbrier, Tenn., to a fine audience, on November 26, and conducted a funeral service for Louis Franklin Denning in the afternoon.

Mrs. T. J. McRae, San Francisco, Cal., reports a good service there, with several visitors present. They meet at Richmond Hall, corner Fourth Avenue and Clement Street.

B. W. Davis reports two fine services at Tracy City, Tenn., on November 12. He is now laboring with this congregation. Soon after he arrived the church gave him a "shower."

B. F. Stivers writes: "I recently closed a meeting at Hottle Springs, near Seneca, Mo. Four were baptized and two were received by letter. I have time for more meetings now. Write me at Odessa, Mo."

J. T. Harris recently closed a meeting at Paris, Tenn. Two were baptized, one restored, and one united with the congregation. The congregation now meets in the courthouse, but they are planning to build in the spring.

Mrs. Joe Ratcliffe, Bardwell, Ky., writes that her husband, who has been ill for some time with bronchial pneumonia, is still very sick. He has been in charge of a special nurse for some time. She asks to be remembered in your prayers.

W. M. Behel recently closed a short meeting at Brace, Tenn., and since that time at Shady Grove, near Leoma, Tenn. Two were added. Since that time he was at Shady Bluff, Tenn. He was at Spring Valley on November 19, and will begin a meeting at Nelson Schoolhouse on November 29.

J. C. Mosley recently held a meeting at Hardyville, Ky., which resulted in eleven baptisms. After that he baptized five in the Potter Orphan Home, Bowling Green, Ky. He will debate with Thomas Joyner, at Hardyville, Route 1, beginning on Tuesday after the third Lord's day in May. Brother Mosley will now be at home for a while, at Whitwell, Tenn.

G. N. Allen, who recently moved from Nashville, Tenn., to Fort Smith, Ark., found a little, struggling band of four or five. They have a little, unceiled house. They need assistance to ceil their house and to have some preaching. If you can assist in any way, do so without delay. Write him, in care of Smith Printing Company, or C. A. Holt, in care of O.K. Barber Shop.

F. O. Howell writes from Jackson, Miss.: "The meeting at Corinth, Miss., was a profound success in every way. We moved into the courthouse the last week, where a thousand people can be seated, and some were turned away for lack of room. The singing was led by home talent, and the work was well done. There were fifty additions. Of these, two were by restoration and two by membership. There were seven from the Baptists and five from the Methodists."

H. D. Jeffcoat writes: "Our meeting closed last night at Dancy, Miss., and I hope some good was done. They have an organ in the house of worship; but I led the singing, and they went right on without it. I found that some of the very best people are members of the church there; and if the right man would go there and lead them, I believe they would go to work 'as it is written.' They seemed to hear the word gladly. I hope to go back and help them some more this winter."

From Will J. Cullum, Rockwood, Tenn., November 23: "The meeting here is now in the second week. The crowds are large and the interest good. The preaching is as good as it has ever been my pleasure to hear. Brother Holder is a 'workman that needeth not to be ashamed;' and in knowledge of the word of God, he is above the average preacher. Four have been baptized and one received from the Christian Church. The Lord willing, we shall continue the meeting another week."

R. A. Craig writes from Shelbyville, Ky.: "I have just closed a meeting at the Fairfax Church, at Winchester, Ky. It was a real pleasure to be with this church and to meet the many faithful in the Lord. M. D. Baumer is doing a good work there, and the brethren love him for his work's sake. While in Winchester I visited the prison and addressed the many unfortunate souls there. They seemed to appreciate having one to tell them the story of the cross. Brother Rose was at Shelbyville Sunday and spoke to an attentive audience. I go next to Van Buren."

J. W. Dunn, Tyler, Texas, writes: "On Sunday, November 12, I baptized a young man who has a two-year sentence in the State penitentiary hanging over him, whom I have been talking to while he has been in jail. The sheriff kindly consented for him to come to our meetinghouse, and, in the presence of a large body of people, he confessed his faith in Christ and was baptized. It was an impressive service. He appeared very penitent and promises to make a model prisoner, read his Bible and pray daily. Such work I have done before, and it has always been a source of joy to me."

From J. H. Morris, Tuscumbia, Ala., November 25: "I began a mission meeting at Weeden Place, between Florence and Wilson Dam, on the first Lord's day in November, and continued it until last night, making twenty nights and three Lord's days—twenty-three sermons, all told. J. H. Horton preached four times; L. T. Farrar, twice; and I preached seventeen times. There were two confessions and baptisms, one man coming from the Baptists and one lady coming from the Methodists. The people were very much interested in the old Jerusalem gospel, but the teaching was so different to what they had been hearing they were hard to move. I believe that good will result from this teaching in this community. This is a village of about twenty-five families of a general mixture in religion, with no church of any kind there, and one of the best opportunities I have ever seen. We have the truth and should be the first on the ground in every new town that is built, but it very often happens that we are the last to get there, and then all desirable property is taken. Brethren, let us wake up and face the situation as it is, and do more for the cause in the future than we have done in the past. There are now several members at Weeden Place, and they are intending to hold services in their homes until they can arrange to buy a lot and build a house. I understand that communion services will be held regularly."

Commendations of Lesson Helps.

"I regard them all right and good. You will have my full coöperation for them." (Elder H. Wright.)

"Our congregation believes your literature is excellent." (G. W. Savage.)

"Personally, I think your Lesson Helps are fine, even good enough." (Albert J. Grewer.)

"I think they are the greatest that can be had for Sunday-school work." (Rusal A. Hartsell.)

"I could suggest no improvement. I always like to see a church use them, and insist on it." (C. H. Black.)

"They show that much time and care have been exercised in their preparation. They are clear, scriptural, and to the point." (E. L. Whitaker.)

"I have looked over your Lesson Helps, and must say that they are just fine, and I bid you Godspeed." (F. D. Greer.)

"Received the Bible Lesson Helps and distributed them last Lord's day at our Bible study. They are fine." (Mrs. G. W. Gann.)

"I received samples of your Sunday-school literature. I find it far in advance of some Sunday-school literature in its teachings." (A. Harless.)

"It is my desire to help spread the glorious gospel of Christ, and I will encourage the brethren to use your Bible Lesson Helps." (Samuel T. Reaves.)

"Permit me to suggest that your literature is as perfect as man could well make it on the outline given [the International outline]." (E. A. Bedichek.)

"I will say they are just fine, if not the best I have ever read. I expect to send in an order for several copies before the first of the year." (M. O. Williams.)

"We are using your Sunday-school Lesson Helps at Fairfax church of Christ, this city, and think they are good. We have no criticisms to offer." (M. P. Lowry.)

"I think the samples of Lesson Helps sent me are splendid; in fact, I have enjoyed them while at school and in the South for several years." (Russell H. Martin.)

"I received samples of Sunday-school literature just before leaving home and have distributed them, and will do all I can to place them wherever I can." (J. F. Davis.)

"I appreciate very much the Gospel Quarterlies, and I am in sympathy with the good work they are doing. All I have to say is, just keep them going in the same old way." (William V. Barker.)

"I do not know how I could improve upon the Quarterlies. The lessons are plain and clear in every way. The churches where I go use them and seem pleased. I appreciate what the Gospel Advocate is doing." (N. B. Hardeman.)

"I have been using the Gospel Advocate literature in connection with our Bible study in the church here for years, and the only objection I have at present is the Revised Version used in printing the lessons." (E. P. Mawrer.)

I received the Quarterlies and have looked over same. They are true to Brother Smith's characteristic way of presenting a matter, and I feel sure that he who studies the same will appreciate the splendid comments made. (N. B. Hardeman.)

"I have received copies of Sunday-school literature edited by Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley. To know these brethren is to know the character of the literature—true, loyal, and faithful to God's word. I shall recommend it where I go." (John R. Williams.)

"Our congregation here has been using Bible helps in our classes for a number of years. We now think that the Quarterlies published by the Gospel Advocate Company are well arranged and will be a much-needed help to many congregations that will use them." (P. G. Potter.)

"I regard your Bible Lesson Helps as being as good as the best. I simply see no room for improvement. I have been using my influence for this literature ever since I first saw them, and shall continue to do so. I will try to introduce it in as many places where they do not use 'literature' as I possibly can." (Gus Nichols.)

"I beg to gladly acknowledge the recent receipt of your sample copies of Bible Helps, and wish to thank you for the same. I am only of the conviction that your Quarterlies will meet with the hearty approval of the general brotherhood. I shall readily encourage the congregations with which I come in touch to order your Bible-school literature." (G. W. Nicholas.)

"I congratulate you upon your effort to improve the Bible Lesson Helps. The present edition is simply excellent, and, I think, will meet the popular demand for the Sunday-school and also for the home. There seems to be a growing demand for literature that will aid in the systematic study of the Bible, and a glance at these lessons shows that you have fully met the demand." (J. S. Peacock.)

I am glad to express to you my indorsement of the arrangement and presentation of the lessons of the new Quarterlies which you sent me for examination. They are clear, logical, and concise. I feel that the different grades in Sunday-school work who use these Quarterlies will immediately grasp the thought that is meant to be conveyed. I unhesitatingly commend these Bible helps to the brotherhood, and bespeak great progress for those who use them. (E. E. Shoulders.)

I have examined the three Quarterlies, and am glad to say that I find them to be in that high grade that the literature you have formerly sent out has ever maintained, both in the mechanical work and editorial strength. The very fact that F. W. Smith edits the Advanced Quarterly and F. B. Srygley the Primary and Intermediate should be commendation enough as to the soundness and clearness of the doctrine taught in them. I wish them a large circulation. (S. H. Hall.)

"It is a pleasure to me to commend the Bible Lesson Helps that you publish. I have had occasion to examine them pretty thoroughly during the current year, as well as in former years, and I hesitate not to say the 'helps' this year appear to be more simplified than those of former years. A simple analysis of the subject with pointed suggestion that is thought-provoking is the best 'help' to direct the mind of the student of the Bible to learn the word of God. It has seemed to me that the 'helps' this year have aimed to be of this kind, and they have been satisfactory to me." (C. D. Crouch.)

Orders should be sent to the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Commendations of the Gospel Advocate.

J. V. Armstrong Traylor, Louisville, Ky., writes: "I am glad to see the Gospel Advocate fulfilling its mission 'in defense of the gospel' as it did in the days of D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell. I shall do my best in placing it in homes during my evangelistic work."

James H. Morton sends in his fifty-sixth subscription. He is now in his eighty-first year, and has been preaching the gospel since 1868. While we appreciate sincerely every commendation, I am sure it is pardonable in us to appreciate such as his most.

"I have been without the Gospel Advocate for some time, and, on seeing a copy this morning which was left in my mail box, I was so proud to see it again that I am sending you a check for a year's subscription." (J. D. Whitfield, Waverly, Tenn.)

H. C. Harris, Homestead, Fla., writes: "I enjoy reading the Gospel Advocate. I think it was never better than it is now. I have been reading it for thirty years."

Charles F. Hardin says: "The Gospel Advocate is getting better all the time, and is just different, somehow. I do like it."

"Let me say that the editors of the Gospel Advocate are putting out a one-hundred-per-cent good paper. It is what I call a real journal." (Foy E. Wallace, Jr., Oklahoma City, Okla.)

Bible Helps.

BY C. E. HOLT.

All students of the word of God need helps in the way of correct translations and proper and legitimate applications. The Bible was written, originally, in Hebrew and Greek. The Old Testament books were written in Hebrew with a little Chaldean—just a few passages in the latter tongue. There are many valuable works extant, such as commentaries on the text and illuminating expositions on the different books which make up the Bible. But I know of nothing in the field of Bible helps superior to the Advanced Quarterlies prepared by Brother F. W. Smith and published and sold by the Gospel Advocate Publishing Company, of Nashville, Tenn. The Primary and Intermediate Helps are fine. No congregation should be without these helps. The price is reasonable and the teaching is sound.

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrearages, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

A Great Woman.

BY J. C. M'Q.

Wilson Vantrease says: "We have some good women in our congregation who are so good to keep the preacher and his wife that I would be glad for you to write an article for their encouragement on a great woman."

There are many great women mentioned in the Bible, but I am sure Brother Vantrease refers to the one mentioned in 2 Kings 4: 8, which reads: "And it fell on a day, that Elisha passed to Shunem, where was a great woman; and she constrained him to eat bread." It is difficult to say just how much was intended to be expressed by the phrase, "a great woman." It is often used to signify the possession of large wealth and no more, but from the connection it evidently means more here. Nabal was called "great" because he possessed three thousand sheep and a thousand goats. (1 Sam. 25: 2.) The man was churlish and evil in his doings. Sheep and goats were more than a righteous life, and wealth covers more sins than charity ever did! The worship of mammon is the most universal and intense of any worship even in this so-called Christian country!

But this Shunammite woman had other claims to greatness. Her home was in the little village of Shunem, on the southern slope of Little Hermon, commanding a splendid view of Mount Carmel and the plain of Esdraelon. It is indebted for the immortality of its name to this noble though nameless woman, whose many virtues stand out so preëminently in the sacred narrative.

1. She lived to do good to others. The instance which is recorded is typical. It was the natural outflow of a generous and benevolent heart. Elisha in his journeys frequently passed through Shunem. This woman, who was rich according to the standard of that humble village, constrained him to eat bread. He was dependent on the people for food and shelter, and in that time, when the nation was fearfully corrupted by Baalism, there were none too many who cared to show kindness to a public enemy of Baal. Especially was this true of the rich, who were all too ready to yield to the sensuous charms and the sensual rites of the false religion. The woman evidently knew the character of Elisha from the life he lived. We are known more by our deeds than by our words. He was slow even in this case to accept her thoughtful hospitality. Mark, she constrained him. It was after earnest and persistent entreaty that the prophet accepted her hospitality. She was sensible and practical in the furnishings of his room. In it she set for him a bed, a table, a seat, and a candlestick. This was the prophet's chamber on the wall, to which he had free and easy access. He was welcome, for her benevolence was hearty and unsolicited. It was urged upon him. Much depends on the spirit in which our benefactions are bestowed. She respected goodness. She tendered her hospitality to Elisha because she knew him to be "a holy man of God." She had neither love nor sympathy for the vain, the idle, and the wicked, but paid her homage to truth and goodness and piety in the persons of the prophet, their needy representative and champion. She was fearless and prompt in giving her influence to the side of truth and right. She did not seek the popular pulse and then drift with it. She had the moral courage to do right, regardless of the consequences. She was too brave and conscientious to accept the idolatrous worship, supported, as it was, by the throne and the court. All of this goes far to establish her claim to the distinction of "a great woman."

2. She was contented with her lot. When Elisha, with a desire to bless her, asked, "Wouldest thou be spoken for to the king, or to the captain of the host?" She answered: "I dwell among mine own people." There are few things more essential to holiness than contentment. We live in a feverish, thankless age! How prone are we to covet what belongs to others! Look at this great woman! She had no selfish ambitions and eager desires for place and power. She was not like the feminists seeking office, neither did she worship at the shrine of Fashion. Her cup was full. My husband, my house, and my people are all I desire. Thrones, courts, camps, and the glitter of official honors have no charms for me. I would do good where I am, and live and die and be buried among mine own people. Great and wise woman! How few possess thy genuine nobility! Contentment is one of the great lessons of the New Testament which all should learn. It is the spirit within us, rather than the outward condition, which causes discontent. In the humblest condition contentment will extract honey from the rock and make the wilderness blossom like the rose. A discontented, sour, restless spirit will lend its curse to wealth and fame and transform an earthly paradise into a hell. God has given us enough to do in whatever sphere he has called us. By a cheerful acceptance of our lot we show ourselves truly pious and faithful to God. Paul is an example: "Not that I speak in respect of want: for I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, therein to be content. I know how to be abased, and I know also how to abound: in everything and in all things have I learned the secret both to be filled and to be hungry, both to abound and to be in want." (Phil. 4: 11, 12.)

3. She was not thoroughly satisfied. The answer of the Shunammite does not show perfect satisfaction, but the sequel shows to the contrary. Her answer does evince that she was content to walk in the way God chose for her and that she was unwilling to seek another, lest it be for the worse. She had no child; but if God willed it so, her heart would be gladdened by such a gift. Doubtless, as every pure, godly woman who is childless, she had often experienced trouble to suppress her maternal instincts. Elisha rightly divined as much; so, through the goodness of God, he gave her a child to cheer and brighten her life. It is difficult to conceive of the joy and sunshine which must have come into her life with the advent of that son. But life is not all sunshine. Soon the clouds arise to drive away the sunshine of that home. The son is taken sick and dies. Is she now rebellious and does her faith desert her?

4. She had great self-control and faith in God. She did all she could to nurse her son back to health while living; but now that he is dead, does she nurse her selfish grief and murmur against God? Most emphatically no. She takes the body of her son to the prophet's room, which is sacred and where no one will intrude, and prepares to go to Mount Carmel to seek aid of the prophet. The prophet had given her the child; could he not, if it be God's will, restore the life of the child? She locked her grief in her heart, put a seal on her lips, and practiced such wonderful control that her husband did not understand why she was going to Mount Carmel. It was neither new moon nor the Sabbath. Thus it develops that she was in the habit of making weekly and monthly visits to Mount Carmel in order to worship God. Her fidelity puts to shame the faithfulness of many Christians. Think how she traveled twelve miles every Sabbath and every new moon. She did not have an automobile or lightning express, but a slow conveyance. Her husband could well trust her, for she would do him good and not evil. When the servant of the prophet asked to know if it was well with the child, she answered: "It is well." The infidel has said that "she lied." No, no, but her faith was so strong in God that she realized that whatever God does is well. If God willed that the child should not be restored to life, "it is well." She realized that God always does right. Would that we had more people like her! The world is sadly in need of such faith. God is good to those who put their trust in him. The prophet restored the life of the child. May we learn never to be faithless, and may we realize that the mercy of the Lord endureth forever.

Questions Concerning the New Testament Use of the Term "Church."

BY M. C. K.

From Brother Lucas North, of Ethridge, Tenn., I have received the following questions called out by Brother Lee Jackson's article in the Gospel Advocate of September 28, 1922, and my comments on it in our issue of October 19, 1922:

1. If I use the term "church of Christ," does my so using it evidence that I do so "to the exclusion of other names by which God's church is divinely called?"
2. Are there Christians outside of the "church of Christ" ("my church"—Matt. 16: 18)?
3. Where can be found "churches of Christ in Tennessee" which are not included in the expression, "the churches of Christ in Tennessee?"

Answering them in the order in which they are propounded, I ask our readers to note carefully the wording of the questions and with equal care to note the comments on them.

1. "If I use the term 'church of Christ,' does my so using it evidence that I do so 'to the exclusion of other names by which God's church is divinely called?'" It depends altogether on how you use it. If in referring to the church you use the term "church of Christ" alone and never use any other, then I answer yes; if you use other terms in referring to it, I answer no. My criticism was aimed at those who use the term "church of Christ," but never use any other New Testament designations of the church. This class of persons speak glibly and constantly of "the church of Christ," but they never use the term "church of God" nor any other New Testament term. With them, it is "the church of Christ" all the time, but never "the church of God;" and yet, as a matter of fact, the latter term occurs frequently in the New Testament, but "the church of Christ" never occurs. I am not here objecting to the designation "the church of Christ," for the idea which it conveys is clearly presented in other words in the New Testament, and therefore it is all right to use it, since it conveys a New Testament idea; but why should it be used to the exclusion of other designations which are plainly given in so many words in the New Testament? Clearly it should not be so, and the only reason why it is thus exclusively used is simply because those thus using it are influenced by a denominational or sectarian idea; that is, they have the idea that only a part of God's church—namely, those who oppose organs and societies—constitutes "the church of Christ," and hence they speak of "the church of Christ" and "the Christian Church" in such and such a town, which is purely sectarian, because "the Christian Church" here designated has some of the members of "the church of Christ" in the said town. Hence, to speak thus of "the church of Christ" and "the Christian Church" in a given place is not to speak according to the New Testament, for the simple reason that whenever and wherever it uses the term "church" as applied to a given place or territory, it includes all the members of the church at the said place or in the said territory. There is no exception to this rule. It is a universal fact in the New Testament, and the principle involved is violated whether we simply use the two terms, "the church of Christ" and "the Christian Church," or use them with any other number of names of denominational bodies, as, "the Baptist Church," "the Methodist Church," "the Presbyterian Church," etc. All of these terms, as thus used, including the term "church of Christ," are clearly sectarian, because no one of them, as thus used, includes all the children of God.

Now, as is often the case, suppose all these denominations just named exist in one town; then, where is "the church of Christ," in the New Testament sense, in that town? Without hesitation, I answer, it is divided and scattered among all those denominations wherever a Christian is found among them. There are many persons among them, as they usually exist, who are not in "the church of Christ" at all, for the simple reason that they have not complied with the law of induction into that church.

2. "Are there Christians outside of the 'church of Christ' ('my church'—Matt. 16: 18)?" No, not when that term is used in the New Testament sense.

3. "Where can be found 'churches of Christ in Tennessee' which are not included in the expression 'the church of Christ in Tennessee?'" Nowhere at all, when that term is used in the New Testament sense. Speaking in this sense, "the church of Christ in Tennessee" includes all the children of God in Tennessee, and, hence, all the local "churches of Christ" in Tennessee. In short and in fine, all Christians in Tennessee—all the children of God in the State—constitute "the church of Christ in Tennessee," otherwise designated in the New Testament as "the church of God," just as all Christians in "Judea and Galilee and Samaria"—all the children of God in that province—constituted "the church throughout all Judea and Galilee and Samaria." (Acts 9: 31.)

The one idea on this subject to keep constantly in mind and to be never overlooked is the New Testament fact that Christians or God's children, no matter where they are nor how badly they may be divided, constitute God's church or Christ's church. Let the reader carefully ponder this thought. To illustrate this New Testament idea, let us suppose there is a strictly sound and loyal church in some town where, in addition to it, there are, say, a hundred other Christians who happen to be in the different denominations of the town—fifty among the Baptists, twenty-five among the Methodists, and twenty-five among the Presbyterians; but we know they are Christians because they have believed in the Lord, repented of their sins, and been buried with the Lord in baptism as the New Testament requires, and are otherwise following the Lord, although in some things they are entangled in error. Now, while it is correct to speak of that sound and loyal church in the town as "the church of Christ" or "the church of God" at a particular place in the town, nevertheless it is not correct to speak of it as "the church of Christ in the town," for the simple reason that there are one hundred persons who are a part of the church in that town, but they are not a part of that local congregation. Hence, if we would avoid denominational or sectarian parlance, when we speak of "the church of Christ of that town," we must use the term to include those other one hundred Christians. Let it be distinctly understood and never forgotten that wherever a Christian is, there is a part of the church of Christ or the church of God.

Finally, if any querist still fails to see these truths and is not yet satisfied that a part of the church of Christ is frequently entangled in error among the different denominations, then, when such persons come forward in our protracted meetings or at other times to unite with us on the one divine foundation and we receive them without baptizing them again, will such querists please tell us how and where such persons got into the church? Furthermore, since, according to the known facts of history, there was not a solitary Christian on earth when Alexander Campbell and his collaborators began their reformatory and restorative work who was not in some denomination, where was the church of Christ when they began the said work? I should be glad for any one who does not believe that some of the church of Christ is sometimes divided and existing among different denominations to answer these questions.

Recreation—The Bathing Beach.

BY H. LEO B.

I am fully aware of the fact that if one speak against an idol, one brings condemnation of its worshipers upon his head; if one cry out against a popular evil, one does so at the risk of becoming unpopular; if one denounce the fashionable sins, one incurs the displeasure of all who worship at the shrine of the goddess of pleasure. Yet he who sees these sins and their soul-destroying tendencies, but will not warn the people against them, is unworthy the confidence of man and the blessings of God. One who fails to condemn sin in high places, sins which are popular, is cowardly and belies his own conviction. One must have courage to speak the truth, to condemn sin, and warn people against it. If one fears that he will become ostracized by society and crucified by the clamoring pleasure-loving mob, one is unfit to be a teacher of man and a preacher of the Lord Jesus Christ. The one who sees these evils and through cowardice will not denounce them is a poltroon and an arrant coward. It appears to me that the preacher who has a few set sermons on a few abstract principles and preaches these in a canting way fails to fill the mission of a preacher of the gospel. The truth of the gospel of Jesus Christ is applicable to all modern evils, and specific application should be made in a tangible way.

One of the principles or rules for recreation is that whatever is indulged in must be right. No sin or evil can come in the class of recreation. The amazingly popular custom of the modern "bathing beach" and "swimming pool" comes in the class of evils. This habit of boys and girls, men and women, going in bathing together has increased enormously within the last few years. It is looked upon by those who participate in it as a recreation. Swimming is a wholesome exercise and may be a recreation. No one would raise any objection to any one's learning to swim. Neither does any one think that bathing is a sin. The sin is not in the swimming nor the bathing, but lies in the indecent and immodest association of boys and girls, men and women. The modern practice brings the sexes together in a way which destroys, in a measure, at least, proper respect the one for the other. Of course, some one is ready to say: "What is the harm in it?" Others are ready to say: "Nearly everybody is doing it." But, of course, this does not make it right.

I think that I can point out clearly and definitely the wrong that is practiced. In order to enjoy the bathing privilege to the full, one must have on or be dressed only in a bathing suit. This bathing suit is an immodest and indecent dress for ladies or gentlemen in the presence of either ladies or gentlemen. The bathing suits for boys and men are immodest in the presence of men, to say nothing of their indecency in the presence of ladies. The bathing suits for girls and women are improper and indelicate in the presence of women, to say nothing of their lewdness in the presence of men. Any habit which destroys modesty and refined feelings is sinful and should not be practiced as a recreation. It must stand to reason that when boys and girls, men and women, who are three-fourths nude, play on the beach together and wrestle together in the water, they must break down that modest reserve for each other and destroy that purity of thought which are needful for nobility of character. Modesty is one of the chief charms of womanhood; destroy this, and you have impaired seriously the character. Cicero said that "modesty is that feeling by which honorable shame requires a valuable and lasting authority." Indeed, a girl or woman without modesty is weak and shameless. No one can afford "to step over the bounds of modesty." Every one is on dangerous ground when that line has been crossed. One becomes a prey to all the lustful passions, lewd thoughts, and degraded conduct when modesty has been driven away. One has truly said:

"Immodest words admit of no defense;
For want of decency is want of sense."

Christian people are less excusable than any other class. They claim to be imitating Christ; to be guided by his truth and inspired by his life. Yet many of them have been lured into the sinful practice of the "bathing beach." Church members have been known to go on the first day of the week in large numbers and in small groups to the bathing pool or river and revel in the sensual gratification of the flesh for a few hours, and then come out of the water and spread the Lord's Supper and go through the form of remembering his death and suffering, and then go back into the water to revel a few more hours. It is difficult to think that any of them have worshiped God. They have deceived themselves, but not God or the world. It seems to me that Christian fathers and mothers should teach and restrain their children from such practices. In many places the citizens who live near the bathing places have been so outraged by the indecent conduct, even of church members, that they have threatened to appeal to State authorities to stop the conduct.

God has given instruction to his people as to how they should dress. He requires "that women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with shamefastness and sobriety; not with braided hair, and gold or pearls or costly raiment; but (which becometh women professing godliness) through good works." (1 Tim. 2: 9, 10.) God's people must always combine in dress, simplicity, decency, and modesty. When they fail to do this, they fail to obey God. When one is wearing only the modern fashionable bathing suit, one is not adorning himself or herself "in modest apparel, with shamefastness and sobriety." Further instruction is given in these words: "Whose adorning let it not be the outward adorning of braiding the hair, and of wearing jewels of gold, or of putting on apparel: but let it be the hidden man of the heart, in the incorruptible apparel of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price." (1 Pet. 3: 3, 4.) One cannot revel in the lustful practice of the "bathing beach" without sinning against this instruction. May the servants of God warn the people against this modern evil, and may the people be wise enough to see the danger and be good enough to turn with courageous hearts from it and seek a recreation that will not destroy the soul culture of modesty and flagrantly insult common decency.

Texas-Oklahoma Department

By C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

Some Things About the Church.

BY C. R. N.

"Upon this rock I will build my church." (Matt. 16: 18.) Such was the promise of the Master. That the church was built and existed in the days of the apostles is not a question of controversy among those who believe the New Testament.

There are a great number of churches in the world to-day, differing in doctrine and polity, and in many instances diametrically opposed the one to the other, and each making claim to being the church the Lord built. That this cannot be true must be evident to those who seriously consider the teachings of the Lord. After his prayer for unity (John 17), the Lord would not establish churches which war among themselves, and necessarily must continue this war so long as they subscribe to doctrines which are irreconcilable and practices which do not remotely resemble.

It is not my purpose in this to attempt to identify the church the Lord built. At some other time we shall have a study in this effort.

How many churches did the Lord build? "There is one body." (Eph. 4: 4.) Not only is it declared that there is "one body," but it is affirmed that there is "but one body" (1 Cor. 12: 20), and that Christ is the head of the body. "And he is the head of the body." (Col. 1: 18.)

What is the "one body?" "And he is the head of the body, the church." (Col. 1: 18.) A clearer, more emphatic statement cannot be made than that there is "but one body," and that "the body" is the church. It must follow, then, that there is one church, but one church built, by the Lord.

"One church is as good as another" is often declared by members of the man-made churches and some who are not members of any church. If by such statement one contemplates only the human organizations which are known as churches, such may be true, and I would feel little interest in controverting the statement; but surely no one who recognizes the Lord as more than a man, and reverences him, intends to include the church he built in the statement that "one church is as good as another." In fact, I have yet to meet a man who really means what the statement sets forth; for, when asked about the Roman Catholic Church or the Mormon Church, he will very promptly tell you that he does not intend to include them in the affirmation "that one church is as good as another." Quite all they mean by such a statement is that the churches they think are as good as the other churches are as good as the other churches. In each instance they must be allowed to exclude from the group of churches such as they wish.

There are men to-day who are fully persuaded that they can write a better book for the guide of men than the Bible, and they are forward in pointing what, in their self-styled wisdom, they declare to be mistaken and inaccurate statements in God's revelation. So men are also found who are quite certain that the church the Lord built is no better, if, indeed, it reaches the high standard of efficiency they insist the churches built by men have reached. Such views led men to formulate their own rules for church discipline and to formulate into human creeds the doctrines to which the respective churches subscribe. They entertain the view that the statement of their respective doctrines as found in the creeds they have made is a superior statement to that which may be found in the Bible, or that the doctrine they wish to express and record in the creed is not found in the Bible. He who thinks "one church is as good as another" must also think that one creed is as good as another, and any one of the creeds as good as the Bible, or better, else the Bible would be sufficient.

"Saved and then join the church." Many who are uninformed in the teaching of the Bible and others who are blinded by false teaching are often heard to say that they think "one should be saved and then join the church of his choice." If "one church is as good as another," it must be that a choice cannot be made because the intrinsic value of one church is greater than that of any of the other churches, nor that the doctrine reflected through the members of one church is any better than that which is reflected through the members of another church. The choice, then, is not made because of the righteousness of the doctrine and practice of one church being better than that of another church, but because of your personal preference, in which you become the arbiter of what is right; or is it that your choice of the church is that your personal friends are in that particular church or you like the minister of that particular church?

But is it true that one is saved and then joins the church? If one man can be saved without being a member of the church, could not ten men be saved without being members of the church? And if one man or ten men can be saved and not be members of the church, could not all men be saved without being in the church? If yes, and all men should decide to be contented to enjoy salvation without becoming members of the church, what would be the result? Would there be, could there be, a church? Is it one's duty to become a member of the church? If yes, can one reach heaven who persistently refuses to do his duty? If it is meant that one can be saved without being a member of the man-made churches in the world, I readily agree, indeed. I so contend. The Baptist Church teaches that one can be saved without being a member of the Baptist Church; the Methodists insist that membership in the Methodist Church is not necessary to salvation. That they are correct in such teaching must be evident, for there were thousands saved before the Baptist, Methodist, or any of the man-made churches existed. The apostles and the other saints of New Testament times knew nothing of the Baptist, Methodist, and other human institutions now known as "churches."

But can one be saved without being in the church the Lord built? The church the Lord built is his body. "He is the head of the body, the church." (Col. 1: 18.) "For his body's sake, which is the church." (Col. 1: 24.) The body being the church, if one is saved without being in the church, he is saved without being in the body of Christ—he is saved without being in Christ; for to be in Christ is to be in his body, and his body is the church. Can one be saved without being a "new creature?" If not, then one cannot be saved without being in Christ, for one must be in Christ to be a "new creature." If any man is in Christ, he is a new creature." (2 Cor. 5: 17.) But to be in Christ is to be in his body, which is the church. (Col. 1: 24.) Again, can one be "saved" and not be saved? If not, then one cannot be saved without being in Christ, for salvation is "in Christ." (2 Cor. 2: 10.) To be in Christ is to be in his body, which is the church. It must follow, then, if one can be saved without being in the church, he can be saved without the "salvation which is in Christ."

If the God of love is most appropriately worshiped in the Christian temple, the God of nature may be equally honored in the temple of science. Even from its lofty minarets, the philosopher may summon the faithful to prayer, and the priest and the sage exchange altars without the compromise of faith or knowledge.—Sir David Brewster.

Query Department

BY J. C. McQUIDDY

A "Truth Seeker" from Parsons, N. M., desires an answer to the following questions: "(1) What is the difference (if any) in our soul and our spirit? Also, what difference is there in an angel and a departed spirit? Have the angels all lived in the flesh? (2) Should a Christian woman (whose husband is not a Christian) offer thanks at the table? (3) Would it be right for a Christian woman to take the Lord's Supper alone in her home?"

1. "Truth Seeker" is trying to digest a very tough and gristly piece of meat for a babe in Christ. "Soul" is defined "the internal spirit, but occasionally the animal life." That is its use in the Bible. "Soul" and "spirit" are sometimes used interchangeably in the Bible, sometimes they are used as distinct; which means that the soul and spirit in part are identical, in some parts they differ. The Bible does not set forth the difference, so I conclude it is not essential for us to know. It is generally thought that the soul is the animal life possessed in common by all animals and that the spirit is the immortal part of man which does not die when the body dies. This may be right, it may be wrong; I do not know. An angel is a messenger, a celestial being superior to man in power and intelligence. In the Scriptures the angels appear as God's messengers. A departed spirit is one which has left the body.

2. Yes. "And whatsoever ye do, in word or in deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him." (Col. 3: 17.)

3. We have no example in the Bible of a woman alone partaking of the Lord's Supper. This scripture has some bearing on the subject: "For where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I in the midst of them." (Matt. 18: 20.) Christ and the Christian woman are two. I can see nothing wrong in such action, provided there is no body of Christians within reach.

✱ ✱ ✱

A subscriber asks an explanation (1) of the expression, "earnest of the Spirit," as found in 2 Cor. 1: 22; 5: 5; and (2) 1 Cor. 13: 9-12. He says: "We have a difference of opinion as to when that 'perfect' time is when we shall see face to face."

1. The first passage referred to (2 Cor. 1: 22) reads: "Who also sealed us, and gave us the earnest of the Spirit in our hearts." The next passage (2 Cor. 5: 5) reads: "Now he that wrought us for this very thing is God, who gave unto us the earnest of the Spirit." "Earnest" means a pledge. "The earnest of the Spirit" is a sure proof of a fulfillment of all that the Holy Spirit has promised. His promises are sure and will never fail.

2. The other passage inquired about (1 Cor. 13: 9-12) says: "For we know in part, and we prophesy in part; but when that which is perfect is come, that which is in part shall be done away. When I was a child, I spoke as a child, I felt as a child, I thought as a child: now that I am become a man, I have put away childish things. For now we see in a mirror, darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know fully even as also I was fully known." Attention to the connection of 1 Cor. 13 shows that Paul is speaking of spiritual gifts, the gift of prophecy, the understanding of all knowledge and mysteries, which were miraculous gifts of the Holy Spirit. When the perfect will of God is come, the gifts of prophecy, healing, understanding mysteries, and miraculously acquired knowledge shall be done away. Knowledge is not then to be sought through miracles, but by learning the perfect will of God. Eph. 4: 1-13 means the same thing: "And he gave some to be apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, unto the work of ministering, unto the building up of the body of Christ: till we all attain unto the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a full-grown man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ." The gifts were to serve until the full knowledge was received to make them one in faith and to bring them to the fullness of the stature of men and women in Christ. The New Testament contains the knowledge necessary to make full-grown men and women in Christ. While this was true when a full revelation came from God, it will also be doubly so in the glorified church.

✱ ✱ ✱

C. H. Humphreys, of Nesbitt, Miss., inquires to know the meaning of 1 Pet. 3: 19, which reads: "In which also he went and preached unto the spirits in prison."

I can do no better than reproduce the answer of David Lipscomb to this question which appears in "Queries Answered by Lipscomb and Sewell," compiled by M. C. Kurfees, pages 512, 513:

This is a question that we answer on an average four or five times in a year, and yet the answer makes no impression. We answered it on pages 41, 136, 185, and 809 of last year, two of these rather lengthy discussions; in 1905, five times. It discourages us that the answers are so little read or so soon forgotten. But we have never seen how a person can misunderstand it that would look at all the facts. As introduction we quote: "Concerning which salvation the prophets sought and searched diligently, who prophesied of the grace that should come unto you: searching what time or what manner of time the Spirit of Christ which was in them did point unto, when it testified beforehand the sufferings of Christ, and the glories that should follow them." (1 Pet. 1: 10, 11.) We quote this to show that Christ's Spirit in the ancient prophets did testify and teach his will to the people. Now consider this passage: "Because Christ also suffered for sins once, the righteous for the unrighteous, that he might bring us to God; [he] being put to death in the flesh, but quickened in the spirit; in which [spirit] also he went and preached unto the spirits [now] in prison, which aforetime [when he preached to them] were disobedient, when the long-suffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing, wherein few, that is, eight souls, were saved through water." (1 Pet. 3: 18-20.) The preaching was done to the spirits now in prison, by the Spirit, through Noah, when they were disobedient while the ark was preparing, and the result of that preaching was eight souls were saved by water in the ark. The result of the preaching was, eight souls—Noah and his family—were saved by water. This fixes beyond all doubt when and how the preaching was done.

✱ ✱ ✱

H. R. Daniel, Elkton, Ky., requests an answer to the following question: "If a woman leaves her husband for any cause except fornication and marries another man, and presents herself for baptism while living with her second husband, would it be right to baptize her?"

It is not possible to scripturally baptize an impenitent person. Penitent believers are scripturally baptized. No one would baptize a person who persists in stealing or who is drunk. No person who is living in open rebellion to God, who is living in adultery, is penitent. When the woman gives up her second husband and ceases to live in adultery, then she may be scripturally baptized. So long as she persists in her disobedience and rebellion to God, it is folly to baptize her, for she does not loathe and hate all sin. "I tell you, Nay: but, except ye repent, ye shall all in like manner perish." (Luke 13: 3.)

Let not the blessing we receive daily from God make us not to value or praise him because they be common.—Isaak Walton.

Home Reading

What You May Do.

Just a smile when the road seems hard,
Just a laugh in the gloom;
Just a hope when the soul seems scarred,
Like a light in a darkened room.
Just a touch of a tender hand,
And a song, and a bit of prayer;
Just the courage to understand—
And the heart to truly care!

Just these things—and your life may be
A perfect poem to the world;
Just these things, and the earth can see
Your mind like a flag unfurled.
Just the touch of a tender hand,
And a message from God above;
Just the courage to understand,
And the heart to truly love!

Never a man will pass you by
That does not take of your cheer;
Never a woman will meet your eye,
That does not hold you dear.
Poets and artists, they do their best.
But yours is the better part,
For you give of a friendship Christ has blessed,
And the love of a helping heart! —Selected.

What Was It?

Bushy Tail stopped short beside the gardener's cottage. He looked all around with his bright, beady eyes. "No one is looking; in I go," he said, and disappeared from sight. He crept quietly under the house and crawled over to a dark corner. "I'm so glad I found this nice, warm place first," he said. "I can have such nice, quiet naps here. No noisy squirrels to bother." So he curled up on a soft bunch of dry grass and went sound asleep.

Just as the sun was peeping over the hills, Bushy Tail bobbed up. "My, what a fine nap! Now I must go out for breakfast," he said. Out he scampered away over to the big tree, where he had buried some nice nuts. Scratch, scratch—the little paws went so fast you could hardly see them; and, then, in just a minute, he was sitting up very straight eating his breakfast. Then he started out to find his friends.

"Tag, you're it!" shouted Bunny Boy, as he gave Bushy Tail a hard slap on the back. Bushy Tail liked to play "tag," but he liked to be the one that did the tagging first. Are boys and girls ever like that? But his nap was so restful and his breakfast so good that he felt pretty good-natured. Around the trees they flew, having the jolliest time ever.

"Where did you sleep last night?" asked one of the squirrels. "We hunted everywhere for you."

Well, he just wasn't going to tell. He found the place all by himself, and he didn't want them there at all.

"O, up in that hollow tree 'way over there," he said, pointing over the little lake. If they were going to follow him, he would send them away off. I don't think any boy or girl would have done a thing like that. Well, they had a long, merry day and lots of nuts and popcorn that the children brought. Bushy Tail crept under a bush for a nap. He had to figure some way to get to his bed without the other squirrels seeing him. So maybe he slept with one eye open. Anyway, after a while he saw the whole bunch scamper off to the other side of the lake. He had to laugh a little over the joke. "O, they think they are going to watch me. O dear! O dear!" and Bushy Tail laughed so he couldn't sleep. "O, I know," he said; "I must take some of my nuts over to my new house. I might get hungry in the night or it might be raining some morning. I guess I'll do it. So when he saw there wasn't a squirrel in sight, he began to dig again. Pretty soon he had quite a number, and then he began to carry them over. It was slow work, and he got so tired that before it was really dark he crawled into the warm nest and went to sleep.

He didn't know how long he had slept; but pretty soon he awakened with a start. He really didn't hear a noise, but something was wrong. He lay very still and just listened. What was it, anyway? He would rather hear a noise than have that awful, scary stillness. His sharp little eyes looked everywhere, but he couldn't see anything. Just dark, dark, dark. But—O—O, what were those green flashy lights over there?

His tail bristled up so it nearly cracked off. But he couldn't move. O dear! Why didn't the green flashy things make a noise or do something? He was shaking all over. And—yes, the awful lights were coming closer. He must get away. He raised up very slowly, and without looking again at the awful thing he made one bound and was outside. He ran as fast as he ever could; but it was so dark everywhere that he couldn't see very well.

"Me-ow, me-o-ow," came from somewhere in the most terrible voice Bushy Tail had ever heard. O that was it—a cat! But what were the green flashy lights? He never saw anything like that before. But—this was no place for him.

So up the tree he went like a flash. None too soon, either. The cat almost reached him. When he got his breath, he sat very still and looked down.

He felt pretty safe now. Why-ee, there were those green flashy things again! If only he knew what they were! But he never could go to that new place again. He knew that very well; and he supposed the squirrels would find him if he went somewhere else, too. But he guessed he would be safer with his friends, after all. He was sorry he told them a lie. But—but what in the world were those green flashy things? Sometime you look at your cat right straight in the face in the dark and see if you can guess. —Mrs. Alla M. Forster, in Western Christian Advocate.

Christians might avoid much trouble and inconvenience if they would only believe what they profess—that God is able to make them happy without anything else. They imagine that if such and such a dear friend were to die or blessing be removed, they would be miserable, whereas God could make them a thousand times happier without them. In my own case, God has been removing one blessing after another; but he has come in and filled their places, and now that I am crippled and not able to move, I am happier than ever before in my life.—Payson.

Why Things Are So.

We bow to our friends as a matter of courtesy, because that has been the sign of submission ever since man has known anything about himself, as a man.

Men and boys remove their hats as a sign of respect to girls and women, but the origin of the act lies in the fact that in the days when warriors wore helmets they doffed them before women to show their confidence in the gentleness of those who never fought.

Shaking hands is simply an elaboration of the open, gently proffered hand, which has always expressed friendliness. It shows the hand guiltless of a weapon.

The clenched fist of hate shaken in the air is the gesture with which our savage ancestors brandished a spear, a hatchet, or a lance.

Flinging the hands upward, with the palms out, which most of us do when horror struck, is part of the instinctive invocation to God for help and protection which primitive people always make when frightened or in danger.—Christian Leader.

YOUNG GIRLS NEED CARE

Mothers, watch your Daughters' Health

Health Is Happiness

From the time a girl reaches the age of twelve until womanhood is established, she needs all the care a thoughtful mother can give.

The condition that the girl is then passing through is so critical, and may have such far-reaching effects upon her future happiness and health, that it is almost criminal for a mother or guardian to withhold counsel or advice.

Many a woman has suffered years of prolonged pain and misery through having been the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance on the part of those who should have guided her through the dangers and difficulties that beset this period.

Mothers should teach their girls what danger comes from standing around with cold or wet feet, from lifting heavy articles, and from overworking. Do not let them over-study. If they complain of headache, pains in the back and lower limbs, they need a mother's thoughtful care and sympathy.

A Household Word in Mother's House writes Mrs. Lynd, about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"My mother gave me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was 14 years old for troubles girls often have and for loss of weight. Then after I married I took the Vegetable Compound before each child was born and always when I felt the least run-down. Both my sister and sister-in-law take it and have only the highest praise for it. It has been a household word in my mother's house for years." — Mrs. KATHERYN LYND, 2431 Gladys Ave., Chicago, Ill.

A Little Book Helped Her to Decide

Milwaukee, Wis. — "My daughter took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she was so weak and did not feel like going to school. She was like that for a whole year before taking your Vegetable Compound. I found a little book of yours in our mail-box and decided to give her your medicine. She is now strong and well and attends school every day. We recommend your Vegetable Compound to all mothers with weak daughters. You may use this letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. E. KLUCZNY, 917 20th Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

"I was always feeling tired and sleepy, was losing in weight and would faint at times. I had other troubles too, that made me feel badly. I read your little books and heard friends talk about the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done them, so I have taken it too. The results are most satisfactory, for I have gained in weight and my bad symptoms are gone. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to all my friends and you may make whatever use you like of this letter." — GLORIA RAMIREZ, 1116 9th Ave., Tampa, Florida.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Obituaries

Shaw.

Jeremiah Flowers Shaw, son of Solomon Meacham and Elizabeth Kearley Shaw, was born on October 12, 1844. He entered into rest on October 23, 1922, at his home near Dixon Springs, Tenn. On the paternal side, of Irish descent, his ancestor, Lord Thomas Shaw, was given a grant of land in Kentucky for gallantry during the American Revolution. On the maternal side, he was a descendant of a Huguenot family, "Frere," of Northern France. The name was finally Anglicized to "Brothers." When only sixteen and a half, he became a member of Forrest's Cavalry, Stearns' Command, Company G., Captain McGregor, C. S. A. In the year 1864, while carrying a dispatch from Forrest to Dibrell, he was wounded in the left shoulder and arm. On December 15, 1867, at Hiwassee, Tenn., he was married to Mary McAlister Burfred, daughter of Benjamin W. and Joyce Hardwick Burfred. Of this union were five children. Three—James Hardwick, Jere, and Bernard—are deceased. The two surviving are Phil D. Shaw and Mrs. Kate Lee Keyes. The wife preceded him on November 7, 1907. In September, 1894, he obeyed the gospel under Brother T. B. Larimore. For twenty-eight years that little congregation has felt his influence, for his life has been a benediction to those who knew him. May God help us to hold our faithful until we are called hence.

HIS LONELY DAUGHTER.

Burtis.

On November 20, 1922, the messenger of death visited the home of Brother and Sister S. S. Burtis and took from their embrace their precious little boy, Sterling Sanders Burtis, who was born to them on March 11, 1917. Diphtheria was the cause of little Sterling's death. He died at home at Rockwall, Texas, and was buried in the Dulaney cemetery, near Celeste, where his godly grandfather, Brother J. E. Chiles, was buried. I have often thought Brother Sterling Burtis and his wife had one of the sweetest and happiest families I ever met. They are sad now over their loss. Very few children were admired as this little fellow. He was so bright and promising. The beautiful floral offering proved that he was a lovable child. I made a talk at the grave to the living on the uncertainty of life and for all to be ready when called by death. May Brother and Sister Burtis remember the words of David found in 2 Sam. 12: 23: "I shall go to him, but he will not return to me." Heaven is sweeter and brighter to them now, as they have a greater interest there in the person of little Sterling.

J. B. NELSON.

Jones.

On September 12, 1872, Miss Ida Beasley was born. In 1886 she was baptized, and she remained a faithful, devoted member until she heard her summons, "Well done," on November 14, 1922. She was married to Mr. W. H.

STATE BANK AND TRUST CO.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

BROADWAY BRANCH

Ninth and Broadway

4 Per Cent Interest Paid on Deposits

EXPERT DYEING AND DRY CLEANING

SEND BY PARCEL POST

"Over Forty Years'

Experience"

McEWEN'S LAUNDRY

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Jones on September 6, 1891. To this union were born five children. Several years ago she took into her heart and home an orphan boy, Clyde Jones, who will, no doubt, feel as keenly the loss occasioned by her death as her own children. Mrs. Jones was a woman of much grace and charms, together with a beautiful character, which made her a favorite among her many friends. She went about doing good. Strangers were welcomed to her festal board, and the poor were never turned away. She left us an example of a pure, clean, upright life, the influence of which can only be measured in eternity. Funeral services were conducted by Elder F. O. Howell, of Jackson, Tenn., at Friendship Church. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. She was carried to Antioch Church for burial.

KATHRYN THOMPSON,

Dies.

Bluford Dies, of Oakman, Ala., was born on December 16, 1903, and departed this life on November 8, 1922. He was a good boy, but never knew what it was to enjoy good health. He confessed his faith in Christ on September 27, 1919, and was buried with his Lord in baptism by Brother G. A. Dunn. Beautiful and impressive services were held at the home by Brother John T. Lewis, of Birmingham. Bluford's few days on earth were sweet, but full of suffering. His father and mother may not be able to understand why God took him from them, but we know that all things work together for good to them that love the Lord. The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away. He is only removed to that land above, where all is joy and peace and love, waiting to welcome his anxious parents and all those who loved him to the home where sad good-byes shall never be spoken and where God has promised to wipe all tears away from our eyes.

JEROME MYERS.

Harris.

On October 17, 1922, Mrs. Elizabeth Harris, of McKenzie, Tenn., Route 2, passed from a life of pain and sorrow to one of peace and rest, where sickness and sorrow are unknown. She was born on December 10, 1843, in Carroll County, Tenn. She was married to George Brvson Harris, of Sumner County, in 1868, to which union were born five children. She obeyed the gospel in 1881, under the preaching of Brother Joe Roulhac. She lived a Christian life until death. I am thankful to say that through her influence she caused me to see the true gospel as "it is written," and I am sure that there are many others who feel as I do. In some fairer day, if faithful to God, there will be a glorious meeting where parting is no more.

T. E. ROWLAND.

Bailey.

Sadness came to many hearts near Morrison, Tenn., by the death of Mrs. J. A. Bailey, which came after about three months of suffering. In the death of this good woman a loss is sustained by more than her immediate family. She will be missed in the community in which she lived, and also the church in which she worshiped and which she loved so much. She was an active member of the church of Christ. She obeyed the gospel at a very early age and remained faithful till the last. Mrs. Bailey came from one of the prominent old pioneer families of Cannon County, Tenn., living near Woodbury most of her life. She is survived by an aged brother (John F. St. John), two daughters, one son, and eight grandchildren. Elder J. R. Stubblefield conducted the funeral services.

FRED J. WARREN.

Turns Night Into Day

New Lamp Has No Wick, No Chimney, No Odor, Most Brilliant Light Known

A new lamp which experts agree gives the most powerful home light in the world is the latest achievement of W. H. Hoffstot, 456 Factory Building, Kansas City, Mo. This remarkable new lamp beats gas or electricity—gives more light than three hundred candles, eighteen ordinary lamps, or ten brilliant electric lights, and costs only one cent a night. A blessing to every home, especially on farm or in small town. It is absolutely safe, and gives universal satisfaction. No dirt, no smoke, no odor. A child can carry it. It is the ambition of Mr. Hoffstot to have every home, store, hall, or church enjoy the increased comfort of this powerful, pleasing, brilliant white light, and he will send one of his new lamps on free trial to any reader of the Gospel Advocate who writes him. He wants one person in each locality to whom he can refer new customers. Take advantage of his free offer. Agents wanted. Write him to-day.

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative it cannot gripe. It is in no sense a medicine. And like pure water it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

ECZEMA IS CURABLE

Write me to-day, and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. Send no money—just write me—that is all you have to do. Address

DR. CANNADAY, 1225 Park Sq., Sedalia, Mo.

Buy It Either Way

Tablets or Liquid

PE-RU-NA

For Coughs, Colds and Catarrh

Mr. E. W. Marshall, Brampton, Michigan, suffering from Systemic Catarrh involving Head, Nose, Throat and Stomach, claims a complete cure. His letter is convincing:

"For the past two years I have been troubled with systemic catarrh. I used several boxes of Pe-ru-na tablets and they have effected a complete cure. I do not hesitate to recommend Pe-ru-na for all catarrhal conditions."

Mr. Marshall is just one of many thousands who have been benefited by Dr. Hartman's famous medicine in the past fifty years.

It is by stimulating the digestion, enriching the blood and toning up the nerves that Pe-ru-na is able to exert such a soothing, healing influence upon the mucous membranes which line the body. It is a wonderfully effective remedy to restore strength after a protracted sickness, the grip or Spanish Influenza.

Keep in the House

Sold Everywhere

Stop that Pain!

It's spoiling your enjoyment and ruining your health.

When you're suffering from headache, neuralgia, sciatica, rheumatism, earache, toothache or any other pain.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will bring relief without unpleasant after effects.

Buy them of your Druggist.

Corns

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

TETTERINE

Makes low necks and short sleeves possible. It clears the skin

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

FRED K. JONES

Buying, Selling, and Exchanging
REAL ESTATE

I Make an Effort to Assist All
Who Call on Me

43 ARCADE
NASHVILLE, TENN.

BUY 25 POUND FEATHER BED $7.95

30 POUND BED $8.95

Pair Pillows, $1.95. New feathers. Best ticking. $1,000 in Charlotte Bank & Trust Company as guarantee. MAIL ORDER TODAY. Free Catalog. SANITARY BEDDING CO., Dept. L. CHARLOTTE, N. C.

That "New Church" at Covington, Tenn.

BY J. L. HINES.

In the Christian Standard of October 21, on page 10, the editor is very much elated over the fact that the "Western Tennessee brethren have awakened to their personal responsibility to seize upon the opportunities at their doors and to be faithful stewards of the gospel," and says: "Instead of writing letters lamenting that Covington, Tenn., has not been entered, they arranged to enter that community. They secured Clarke Estate Evangelist Raum, backed him in a gospel campaign, and received the inspiration and joy of participating directly in the presentation of the plea in a county-seat town and in the organization of a plain church of Christ of eighty-five members."

From the above one would be led to think Covington a destitute field until Raum entered and presented "the plea." Does the Standard think "non-progressives" do not present "the plea?" Did the Standard editor know that there was a church of Christ in Covington before Raum went there? If he did not, he knew it was there before he wrote the above, for listen to him: "May the story of planting the cause at Covington, Tenn., briefly sketched on our cover page, help carry broadcast the contagion of group evangelism." And the sketch says: "There was a 'nonprogressive' church of about sixty members and not a solitary 'progressive' there." Now, according to the editor's own words, "the cause" was not planted there until Raum and his coworkers planted it.

I will now ask the Standard editor: Was this "nonprogressive" church of sixty members the church or any part of the church of Christ in Covington, Tenn., before Raum and his coworkers entered that town? If it was, what "cause" did Raum plant there? What "plea" did he preach that had not already been preached there? What "new church" (notice sketch on cover page of the Standard) did he establish there? If the church of Christ was already there and Raum planted a "new church" there, would the "new church" be the church of Christ, too? Ah, the Standard editor has gone to record as teaching that "non-progressives" do not even constitute a part of the "plain church of Christ!" He probably did not intend to do so; but if language means anything, he clearly teaches this very thing.

Brethren, the fight is on. The "dissidents" are our worst enemies, because they will not come out in the open and meet us like men who have nothing to fear. If there is one who will come out and affirm his faith and

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using the well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

How's Your Stomach? and Your Liver?

Health is Most Vital to You

Durham, N. C.—"As for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I use constantly, I don't believe there is a better liver medicine made. I use it for headache, stomach disorders, and torpid liver. It is not unpleasant to take and does not leave a constipated condition, as so many of the liver pills and medicines do. It does its work and leaves one feeling like a new person."—Howard Holden, 1306 Glenn Street.

You can quickly put yourself in A-1 condition by going to your druggist and obtaining this Discovery of Dr. Pierce's in tablets or liquid; or write Dr. Pierce, president Invalids' Hotel, in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

DEEP-SEATED FRECKLES

Need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women for over 14 years, and rid yourself of these homely spots. Ask for

Othine--Double Strength

At all Druggists and Department Stores.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

Renew your health
by purifying your system with

The purified and refined
calomel tablets that are free
from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel
and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c
and 35c packages, bearing
above trade-mark.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

TETTERINE for the COMPLEXION

60c at your druggist's or from
Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPU-DINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting practice, let him step out. We shall see.

CAPUDINE

But, lest the Standard editor forget, I want to ask him again: Do the "non-progressives" constitute any part of the "plain church of Christ?"

Contrary Winds.

BY J. V. ARMSTRONG TRAYLOR.

In this world we shall have difficulties, trials, and tribulations. Contrary winds and adverse circumstances confront us in our struggles for both physical and spiritual life.
These winds very frequently blow upon all countries and communities.
We are sent into adverse winds, but it may be difficult to understand why.
The great trial met Jesus at the threshold of his ministry as it often comes to the newborn babes in Christ.
The devil has had six thousand years' experience, and he knows when and where to approach the children of men.

Mark tells us that Jesus was led of the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil, but that was not the only time contrary winds blew upon the Lord Jesus. During the time of Jesus' incarnation the devil fought him very severely with the Roman Empire. After all of the offers with which the devil approached Jesus, he chose the high and stony path that led to Calvary, a very lonely and dreary way. When Jesus made that decision, it meant eternal conflict with Satan. So it is with those who believe and obey the Lord Jesus in this age.

We find in the fourteenth chapter of Matthew an account of the apostles' crossing the sea in a boat. The wind began to blow. They were toiling and very much distressed in rowing, because the wind was contrary; and Jesus saw them harassed, but for a while did not go to them.

We may have fair weather at the beginning of our voyage, and yet meet storms before we reach the port for which we are bound. It is no new thing for Christians to meet with adverse circumstances in the way of their duty, especially while working in God's vineyard; but this is a splendid way for Christians to feel:

"I feel like singing all the time,
My tears are wiped away;
For Jesus is a friend of mine,
I'll praise him all the day."

When the wind was blowing contrary and the disciples were tossed with powerful waves, they did not turn backward, but pressed forward.
Troubles, difficulties, and persecutions may disturb us in our duty to God;
but these must not drive us back, but through the midst of them we must press forward.

Dodson's Liver Tone

Killing Calomel Sale

Don't sicken or salivate yourself or paralyze your sensitive liver by taking calomel, which is quicksilver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it regulates the liver, stomach, and bowels better than calomel without making you sick. Fifteen million bottles sold

Homes Furnished Complete

Terms to Suit Everybody

TELEPHONE, MAIN 1096

HILARY E. HOWSE

FURNITURE, CARPETS
STOVES AND RANGES

We Exchange Furniture as Part
Payment

304-306-308 BROADWAY

105-107-109 THIRD AVE., N.

W. W. PERRY
President

A. D. PERRY
Manager

W. D. PERRY
Treasurer

We Invite Your Patronage

PERRY FURNITURE
COMPANY

GENERAL HOUSE FURNISHERS
Do Your Christmas Shopping with Us

Phone, Main 1491

208 THIRD AVENUE, NORTH
NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Plum Street Church of

Christ, Detroit, Mich.,

Now meets in its new building, corner
Hamilton Boulevard and Tuxedo Avenue.
Visiting brethren welcome.

New York City Church of Christ

239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M., Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush
Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6857.

WINTERSMITH'S
CHILL TONIC
SOLD 50 YEARS
A FINE GENERAL TONIC

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPIING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

Get Rid of That FAT
Free Trial Treatment
Sent on request. Ask for my "pay-when-reduced" offer. My treatment has reduced at the rate of a pound a day. No dieting, no exercise, absolutely safe and sure method. Let me send you proof at my expense.
DR. R. NEWMAN, Licensed Physician,
State New York, 286 Fifth Ave., New York, Desk, H-987

King's Early Improved Cotton Seed—
90-day cotton; boll weevil smasher; cotton the wise farmer plants. Makes cotton before the boll weevil makes appearance. Wake up. Plant King's Early Improved. Seed grown in famous seed districts of North Carolina. Season ideal for saving planting seed. Earliest, quickest maturing, most productive variety known. Write to-day for facts and special prices on early orders.
King Cotton Seed Co., Lavenia, Ga.

Stop Itching
Skins with Tetterine
60c. at your druggist's or from
SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

NOTICE!

"Scriptural Songs," a new 1923 book, is ready. The new music is by the best writers for congregational singing of to-day. The words contain Bible doctrine for saint and sinner. Every preacher and song leader should have a copy to examine. Send your name and address, plainly written, on a one-cent post card at once for a sample copy. If satisfied with it, send twenty-five cents; if not, return the book. This offer is fair, isn't it?

Address Mrs. Lavinia Wright, 451½ Victoria Avenue, Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada.

Whooping Cough
Asthma, Spasmodic Croup, Bronchitis Coughs and Influenza.
The most widely used remedy for whooping cough and spasmodic croup. The little lamp vaporizes the remedy while the patient sleeps.
Introduced in 1879
Vapo-Cresolene
"Used While You Sleep"
Send for descriptive booklet 43A. Sold by druggists
Vapo-Cresolene Co., 62 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

When John Mark started out with Paul on one of his missionary tours, he could not stand the rugged path in which he had to travel, and he turned back. "No man, having put his hand to the plow, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God." (Luke 9: 62.)

The church developed strength through persecutions from almost every angle. The churches at Colosse, Laodicea, and Ephesus were invaded with Gnostic teachers, and they had much difficulty with the person of Christ; hence, Paul, in reply, says that Christ is "the head of the body, the church." (Col. 1: 18.)

It was Lucian, the skeptic, who very severely censured the Christians as silly and deceiving. The Neplatonist, Porphyry, wrote fifteen books against Christians, and Hierocles wrote two against them.

When the burdens are heavy and the persecutions are strongest, we can see Jesus. It was when Stephen was being stoned that he could see Jesus, and it was in the fourth watch of the night (about three o'clock in the morning) that Jesus came to the disciples.

What shall we do in the storm? In answer, we must look for Jesus. The disciples saw Jesus when the boat was almost being torn to pieces by the boisterous waves, and they possibly thought the shore could never be reached by them. We can readily see what must be done in the adverse circumstances by knowing what the apostles did in the midst of that mighty storm. They rowed through all four watches of the night, and it was in the fourth watch that Jesus came to them. Let us never forget that our Heavenly Father knows the storms that would our way oppose. The apostles were at duty when that great storm compassed them round about, and they noticed how strong and boisterous it was, but they kept rowing until they reached the shore. May we bring this lesson home. "Man's extremity is God's opportunity." Just before departing this life it would be excellent and sweet for every individual to have the ability to speak these words in truth: "Left all for God, self and the world and and wealth, without question, without reserve, without delay."

The Christian must remember that the soul, above all else, is to be kept clean. Sin stains the soul before it touches the mind or the body.—Floyd W. Thomkins.

SORES BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with
Gray's Ointment
Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

Don't.

Don't get out of the habit of walking with the spine erect.

Don't forget to inflate the lungs often with fresh, pure air.

Don't forget that no one can rob you of your true womanliness.

Don't take on a whole lot of outside work when your hands are full.—Selected.

FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER

The Indianapolis Cancer Hospital, Indianapolis, Ind., has published a booklet which gives interesting facts about the cause of cancer, also tells what to do for pain, bleeding, odor, etc. A valuable guide in the management of any case. Write for it to-day, mentioning this paper.

UNCOMFORTABLE AFTER MEALS?

Then Try a Pinch of Black-Draught. This White-Haired Alabama Lady Says It Helped Her.

Dutton, Ala.—In recommending Thedford's Black-Draught to her friends and neighbors here, Mrs. T. F. Parks, a well-known Jackson County lady, said:

"I am getting up in years; my head is pretty white. I have seen medicines and remedies come and go, but the old reliable came and stayed. I am talking of Black-Draught, a liver medicine we have used for years—one that can be depended upon and one that will do the work.

"Black-Draught will relieve indigestion and constipation if taken right; and I know, for I tried it. It is the best thing I have ever found for the full, uncomfortable feeling after meals.

"Sour stomach and sick headache can be relieved by taking Black-Draught. It aids digestion; also assists the liver in throwing off impurities. I am glad to recommend Black-Draught, and do, to my friends and neighbors."

For simple, common ailments, due to disordered stomach, liver, and bowels, you will find Thedford's Black-Draught a useful and valuable remedy. The purely vegetable ingredients of which Black-Draught is composed gently stimulate the liver, increasing the flow of digestive juices, thereby helping to prevent or relieve constipation in an easy, natural way.

Insist upon Thedford's, the original and only genuine Black-Draught powdered herb and root liver medicine.

Church Furniture
WORK OF THE HIGHEST QUALITY
AT REASONABLE PRICES
Write for Catalogue
BUDDE & WEIS MFG. CO.
JACKSON, TENNESSEE

Easy Now to Double Winter Egg Yield

Proven Remedy Gives Remarkable Results—Turns "Boarder" Hens Into Profitable Layers—

Winter egg yields, double and treble those of former years, are now being made by many poultrymen through the use of a compound that science has finally perfected.

This wonderful medicine, which is called "Hick's Egg-Lay," contains rare and expensive ingredients mixed so as to quickly increase the egg yield. The medicine acts on the reproductive organs and causes double and treble the usual number of ova (the germ cell of the egg) to be produced. Thus you get many more eggs and get them during the time they bring the highest prices.

Hick's Egg-Lay is prepared for convenience in tablet form. Simply dissolve one tablet in a quart of water. This is the surest, easiest and quickest way ever discovered to get more eggs.

A Trial Costs You Nothing

Mr. Hick is so confident that Hick's Egg-Lay Tablets will double and treble your egg yield that he is making a special guaranteed offer of one regular double strength $1.00 package of Egg-Lay Tablets and a full size $1.00 package of Hick's famous Lice-Go Tablets all for $1.00.

Lice-Go is added to the drinking water. The medicine taken into the system of the bird comes out through the oil glands of the skin and every louse or mite quickly leaves the body. Keeps the birds always free without the poultry raiser doing any work. If you would rather have two $1.00 packages of Egg-Lay Tablets or two $1.00 packages of Lice-Go instead of one of each, say so on your order. Send $1.00 today (currency, money order, check, etc.) to Chas. M. Hick & Company, Dept. 916, 1018 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois. If you prefer, send no money. Just your name and address and pay postman $1.00 and postage on delivery. If after thirty days trial, you are not absolutely satisfied, write Mr. Hick and your money will be refunded. This offer is absolutely guaranteed, so don't hesitate to make the test.

PILES CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or call without delay. Private reception rooms for ladies. Established since 1912. Free X-Ray examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Wanted—Salesmen

to sell our "Good-For-All-Time Monuments," made from GRANITE or the famous GEORGIA MARBLE, at reasonable prices. Must be competent and responsible. No experience required. Monuments guaranteed; no risk, no investment. Liberal commission.

One representative recently sent us 31 orders for one month, and we executed 31 orders for him that month—one order per day.

Farmers, merchants, bankers, ministers, and others have been successfully selling our monuments for more than 20 years—spare or full time.

Write Us To-day for Our Proposition.

Roberts Marble Co., Ball Ground, Ga.

PIANOS AND VICTROLAS

Sold for Cash or on Easy Payments

M. F. SHEA

305 Fifth Avenue, North
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Field Reports

Fulton, Miss., November 13.—I arrived at my new location on November 4. I am now located at Tilden, Miss. My post-address is Fulton, Route 1. I will devote my entire time to preaching the gospel. Those needing my assistance should address me as above. I am located in a field ripe unto harvest, but must have some way of reaching my appointments, and I am looking to those who know me to assist me in getting some kind of conveyance, that I may be kept busy. Any assistance will be appreciated and used to the advancement of the cause of Christ and the glory of God.—P. D. Lawson.

Adams, Tenn., November 20.—Brother J. G. Malphurs and I are in the second week of what bids to be a most successful mission meeting at this place. There have been two baptisms, one restoration, and one from the Baptists who desired to unite with those who are just Christians. About twelve good people in and near here have made themselves known as "Christians only," admitting their sin of carelessness, but who now resolve to continue steadfastly. God was worshiped "as it is written" here last Lord's day for the first time in several years. A house of worship is already being planned. Brethren, pray for us.—Tommie Nicks.

Imboden, Ark., November 16.—Since my last report I have assisted in meetings at the following places, with the following results: Pleasant Valley, near Swifton, seven baptized; Morriston, three baptized; Wiseman, no visible results; Oxford, no visible results, but an invitation to come back next year for another meeting; Lake City, four additions; Gurdon, no visible results; Swifton, five baptized, and three reclaimed. To-morrow night I shall start a meeting at Melbourne. I will be there over two Lord's days. Then to Guion for another short meeting. This has been the best year's work of my life so far.—A. H. Porterfield.

Rector, Ark., November 21.—The work at Rector and at all other places I have labored seems to be doing well. We have completed our new brick meetinghouse here, and I was permitted to do the first preaching there the first Lord's day in October. We continued until the following Thursday evening, with very good interest and four added. The work is equally prosperous at other places where I preach. The brethren at each of these places have, without my asking, decided unanimously that I should continue during next year, which, if the dear Lord spares me, I will gladly do. Brethren seem to have a mind to work and are living more and more in harmony as the months go by.—J. W. Dollison.

Back to Normalcy in Nutrition

By MARIAN COLE FISHER

In the issue of the Grower of December 10th under the above title, the writer related as briefly as possible some sources of food essentials, citing the importance of meats as an example of protein or muscle building food. Cereals and their products follow as easily available in preparation and assimilation. The eggs, milk and fats that go into the preparation of breads increases their importance in the dietary.

When I see the new slogan, "A quart of milk a day," I always want to add, "with a loaf of bread."

By bread I mean good breads made with good, strong, wholesome flour, made in any form desired, yeast breads, baking powder breads, hot biscuits, muffins, pancakes, etc.

I have never tasted better light bread than that put out by bakers in several Florida cities, but for all of that we will have to yield the palm to Florida as the home of the Quick breads and baking powder biscuit.

This being the case, especial care must be taken in the selection of cereals for that purpose. I would like to see more of the whole wheats and oatmeal used. Too many housewives think that their biscuits, etc., must be as white as the driven snow. This is a mistake. The spring wheat flour, rich in gluten, the meat of the wheat, is a creamy flour, not bleached.

Public Health reports, Medical Journals, and State Legislatures, through State Food Commissions are making educational campaigns against the bleached and self-rising flours.

Since the action taken in July by President Harding to stamp out Pellagra, public attention has been focused on its causes. Medical Science has quite definitely and positively determined that Pellagra is a nutritional disorder, and have singled out as one of its direct causes the constant use of self-rising flours. Many families confine themselves to an almost exclusive use of these preparations. The Journal of the Florida Medical Association reporting the investigations by the New York Standard Commission states: "It came out that — a great deal of sulphate of lime is really used in self-rising flours, sometimes running as high as 25 per cent."

The claim is made and seems well substantiated, that the continued diet of these devitalized flours among the poorer and perhaps indolent is the main source of many diseases. Among the poor not enough fruits and other foods are taken to offset the loss of nutrition.

The writer happened in a grocery in Kentucky, some seven years ago, when the agent for a self-rising flour was obliged to take back a lot of sacks that had become infested with weevils and on account of damp and temperature had lost its leavening strength. I remarked about the loss, and the agent blithely assured me that there would be no loss, as it would be ground over, more leavening put with it and resacked for the market. Up to that time, I confess I had been indifferent, but such methods were a revelation.

Look to Your Eyes
Beautiful Eyes, like fine
Teeth, are the result of Constant
Care. The daily use of Murine
makes Eyes Clear and Radiant.
Enjoyable. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.

MURINE
for your EYES

BIBLE LESSON HELPS

PRICE REDUCTION

Effective January 1, 1923, we are reducing the Advanced Quarterly (64 pages) from 12 cents to 11 cents per quarter; the Intermediate Quarterly, from 6 cents to 5 cents per quarter; the Primary Quarterly, from 6 cents to 5 cents per quarter; little Bible Lesson Picture Cards, from 5 cents to 4 cents per quarter; Lesson Picture Charts, from $1.25 to $1.00 each.

Our subscribers will encourage us in our efforts to give them the lowest possible rates and help us to stand the reduction by increasing their orders for Bible Lesson Helps. We are appreciative of the patronage of all, and take this means of expressing our appreciation to all.

Date....., 192--

Please enter the following order to be sent to the address below:

Name

P. O.

County..... State.....

Remittance inclosed in payment of this order, $.....

-----ADVANCED QUARTERLY, 64 pages, @ 11 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter)

-----INTERMEDIATE QUARTERLY, 32 pages @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----PRIMARY QUARTERLY, 32 pages @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----LITTLE JEWELS (mailed quarterly) @ 12 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter)

-----THE YOUNG PEOPLE (mailed monthly) @ 15 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter, 80c Per Year—Foreign, 30c Per Quarter, $1.00 Per Year)

-----LESSON LEAVES @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----SETS LESSON PICTURE CARDS @ 4 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----LESSON PICTURE CHARTS @ $1.00 per quarter, $-----

-----CLASS BOOKS (7 cents each) @ 75 cents per dozen, $-----

-----SUNDAY-SCHOOL RECORD (for entire year) $2.50 per copy, $-----

-----COLLECTION ENVELOPES @ 75 cents per dozen, $-----

Total $-----

☛ Literature should be ordered to expire with the end of the quarters. Quarters begin January, April, July, and October; and expire March, June, September, and December.

☛ Remit by Post-Office Money Order, Bank Draft, Registered Letter, or Express Money Order, otherwise at the sender's risk.

CAREFULLY EXAMINE YOUR ORDER BEFORE MAILING

Cut Out Order Blank and Mail To-Day

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY

NASHVILLE, TENN.

COMMENDING THE LITERATURE.

"Samples of Sunday-school literature received. Must say that I am well pleased with the work, and will do all I can to encourage the use of the same. I think I can start one class this quarter." (B. W. Davis.)

"I have examined your new Quarterlies, and like them. I like the arrangement much better than the old, and I also feel certain the average student will take more interest in the book on account of its improved feature." (W. D. Bills.)

"I received copies of the Sunday-school literature. I have shown them to some of our Sunday-school teachers here, and we are all pleased with them. Personally, I am very much impressed with the system of the outlines." (T. M. Carney.)

"I have just received samples of Sunday-school supplies edited by Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley. I have looked over the Advanced Quarterly for the first quarter. I like the arrangement and comments very much. Indeed, I cannot see a single thing that I think could be improved." (J. R. Bradley.)

"I received your literature, compiled by Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley, and will say in regard to it, I think it sound and reliable. We use it in my home congregation (Dunlap), and think it fine. I shall take what you sent me to other congregations where they use none at all, and try to influence them to use this. Thank you." (W. C. Baker.)

"I have received sample copies of the Quarterlies edited by Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley. I am well pleased with the clear and concise manner in which the lessons are arranged and treated. I wish to commend them most heartily, for I feel that they will be of great help to all students of the Bible, and especially to the young." (G. W. Riggs.)

"I received the sample copies of the Sunday-school supplies in due time. I waited to express my opinion of them till I could give them a careful examination. I am pleased to say that I have found them first-class in every respect. They are clear, pointed, and scriptural. I like them very much." (Hall L. Calhoun, Professor of Old Testament Literature in Bethany College, Bethany, W. Va.)

"I have examined the Sunday-school literature, and it is fine. To have such men as Brethren Smith and Srygley edit them assures us sound gospel teaching, as they have given their lives fighting for the truth. We are using it in our Bible school (two hundred and fifty-two present last Lord's day), and all are highly pleased. We hope that the influence of the Gospel Advocate may grow as the years go by." (B. F. Harding.)

"For some time I have fully expected to write a word of indorsement of the Bible lessons. For many years I have been reading, studying, and teaching the Bible lesson as printed by you, and have always enjoyed them very much; but I must say, with justice and brotherly love to all, in my judgment, the Bible lessons prepared by Brethren Smith and Srygley are the very best. I will do what I can to give them prestige in my year's work wherever I go." (Frank Baker.)

"I have examined with some degree of care the Sunday-school literature for the current quarter. I find many commendable features both in arrangement and treatment. I like the topical headings with verse references in parenthesis, comments on the Golden Text placed at end of lesson, and the clear, pointed questions. The table of contents is a convenience. No doubt all Sunday-school literature will be improved in future in respect to arrangement, etc.; but, for my part, I find very little to criticize adversely in the present Quarterlies. I passed my sample copies on to a destitute congregation in my home county with recommendation that they use them in their classes. We use this literature in our Sunday-school classes in Burritt College." (James E. Chessor.)

"I have received sample copies of Bible helps from the Gospel Advocate office. These include Little Jewels, Lesson Leaves, Primary and Advanced Quarterlies. I have examined them very carefully, and I think that they are really the best set of Quarterlies that I have seen. Those using Quarterlies can find no better. But helps should be used properly in preparing lessons. In preparing lessons, I use all kinds of helps, and I think I have a right to do so. I prefer, however, to use the Bible only during recitations. I am sure that the lesson should be well studied by both teacher and pupils before coming together. In such cases the pupil recites what he really knows, and the teacher's knowledge is also tested. I believe in teaching the Bible at every opportunity." (F. P. Fonner.)

Ezekiel Speaking To-Day.

BY JULIA GRAYDON.

"Where there is no vision, the people perish." (Prov. 29: 18.)

While sitting by the river Chebar, in the land of the Chaldeans, the prophet Ezekiel had his first message from God in a vision, and after that he had many more visions extending over a period of fourteen or more years. He says in the first verse of this wonderful book: "I saw visions of God." God gave him courage to do his commands, and then told him he would be lifted up by the Spirit.

Now let us look for a moment at the meaning of the word "vision," and see whether it has any significance in our lives or in the world to-day. It is interpreted as "a supernatural appearance by dream or in reality, by which God made known his will and pleasure to those to whom it was vouchsafed." God making known his will and pleasure! Surely there is a lesson for us to-day if we listen to those to whom the vision comes or search the Scriptures themselves.

Ezekiel looked far ahead into the future with God and saw what was to come to pass even in our day. The prophecy of eating bread by weight and drinking water by measure has certainly come true, brought about by war and famine. Also, the seeking of peace—"And they shall seek peace, and there shall be none." (Ezek. 7: 25.) So it was in the days of the French Revolution, when they cried out, "Peace! Peace!" and there was no peace.

Then comes a comforting prophecy to those who will listen. "Yet will I be to them as a little sanctuary in the countries where they shall come." (Ezek. 11: 16.) Notice, he says "a little sanctuary," a place where even two or three are gathered together.

In chapter 18, verses 7, 8, we have words to live by. He that "hath not oppressed any, but hath restored to the debtor his pledge, hath spoiled none by violence, hath given his bread to the hungry, and hath covered the naked with a garment," and "that hath withdrawn his hand from iniquity," and "hath executed true judgment between man and man."

We find also a likeness to Revelation in the mention of "creatures" and "wheels" which Ezekiel saw.

God spoke to him by a riddle, and by a parable; so to-day he has many ways of speaking to us.

In chapter 20 we have a vision of the Sabbath question, made perfectly clear: "And hallow my sabbaths; and they shall be a sign between me and you, that ye may know that I am the Lord your God." And in chapter 21, verse 20, the time is spoken of when the crown shall be taken off and the diadem removed. And in the next verse he says: "I will overturn, overturn, overturn it." Here again an author has borrowed from holy writ; for Carlyle, in his history of the French Revolution, calls one of his chapters "The General Overturn."

We have also his judgment against bad women who "painted their eyes." (Chapter 23: 40.) So, you see, Ezekiel certainly saw far into the future.

The fall of the nations who forgot God is prophesied in chapter 30, and in verse 2 we find the words which were used by Scott many years afterwards—"Woe worth the day." Had we not proof that Scott read his Bible, this alone would prove it.

The vision of the valley of dry bones in chapter 37 is familiar to us all, and it made quite an impression on me as a child, for it seemed like such a wonderful miracle. Then follows the vision of the temple and of the ordinances for public worship. And finally, "the glory of God returning is 'like a noise of many waters.'"

Will it be so when He comes to his own and they catch the vision? "And the name of the city . . . shall be, The Lord is there." Will it be so in our city?

Listen to the words of the poet, Whittier, in his poem, "Ezekiel:"

And thus, O prophet bard of old,
Hast thou thy tale of sorrow told!
The same which earth's unwelcome seers
Have felt in all succeeding years.

Their song has seemed a trick of art,
Their warnings but the actor's part;
With bonds and scorn and evil will
The world requites its prophets still.

Beyond a narrow bounded age,
Stretches thy prophet heritage,
Through Heaven's dim spaces angel-trod,
Through arches round the throne of God,
Thy audience worlds! All Time to be
The witness of the Truth in thee."

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

Cuticura Soap Clears the Skin and Keeps it Clear

Soap, Ointment, Talcum, Etc. everywhere. Samples free of Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds Headache
Toothache Lumbago
Earache Rheumatism
Neuralgia Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Drug-gists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

PELOUBET'S

Select Notes

The World's Greatest Commentary on the International Sunday-School Lessons

By AMOS R. WELLS, Litt.D., LL.D.

It combines everything essential and has become a necessity to teachers who wish to obtain the most for themselves and in turn pass it along. Great pains and study are put in the mechanical appearance of the volume, for it is illustrated by over 150 pictures, comprehensive maps and charts and colored full-page illustrations.

Let us send you a pamphlet containing the first Lesson taken from the volume of 1923

Price $1.90 Net; $2.00 Delivered

W. A. WILDE COMPANY

70 ROYLSTON STREET, BOSTON, MASS.
Madison Terminal Building, Chicago

FOR SALE AT ALL BOOKSTORES

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

Field Reports

Lambert, Mont., November 18.—As I write these lines a Montana blizzard is in full blast. I was to drive twenty miles and preach in a sod dwelling house to-night; but it is not safe to be out now, as one cannot see fifty yards ahead at times. Next week I will be in a digressive camp, of which I cannot now speak particularly. Last Saturday the brethren at Mona put a good fence around the two-acre lot which was bought for the location of the first church of Christ in this State. The lot is now fixed for a cemetery, and the faithful have one little spot to bury their dead in this State. I am praying that enough means can be obtained before spring to build one small house in this big State. The brethren at Mona are now worshipping in their own homes because they have no other place to go. Now, dear brethren, after I have labored here for seven years, do you not believe that I deserve one pulpit to preach in? If the house above mentioned is never built, I will go on preaching in sod houses and dance halls. I have moved my family to the town of Lambert, in order that my children may go to school. There is not a Christian in this town outside of my own family, but we hope that a door will be open for us soon.—J. O. Golphenee.

Ackerman, Miss., Route 4, November 20.—At the time of my last report I was at Duffee sick. When I recovered, I closed there under promise to return in the spring as early as we could have a tent meeting. I went by way of Jackson to Pearl, where I found the church in a new house and doing fine. They love their preacher, Brother Ray Vaughan, and he is a great young man. I preached at Jackson on the fifth Lord's day in October, morning and night. I found the church there doing very well. I went next to Lake Coma and preached three nights; then home, where I preached on Saturday night and on Sunday and Sunday night. The church there is doing well. I went next to Maiben and preached in the Methodist meetinghouse several times, and trust that some good was done there. Brother Claud Williams, of Houston, led the singing for us, and did it well. I then went to Hamilton, where the church is doing well under the leadership of Brother Oscar Arms. I am now at Dancy, preaching in the "Christian Church." We are having good crowds and hope to do some good here. I am in the home of our beloved brother and my father in the gospel, A. H. Smith. Pray for the work and workers in Mississippi.—H. D. Jeffcoat.

Patently, nobly, magnanimously God waits—waits for the man who is a fool to find out his own folly; waits for the heart which has tried to find pleasure in everything else to find out that everything else disappoints, and to come back to him, the fountain of all wholesome pleasure, the wellspring of all life fit for a man to live.—Charles Kingsley.

Child's tongue shows
if bilious, constipated

MOTHER, CLEAN CHILD'S BOWELS WITH "CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP"

Even Cross, Feverish, Sick Children Love its Taste
and it Never Fails to Empty Little Bowels

Hurry mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If your child is constipated, bilious, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good liver and bowel action is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup." It never cramps or overacts. Full directions for babies and children of all ages are printed on each bottle. Say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

COURTEOUS
EMPLOYEES

EFFICIENT ORGANIZATION

4

%

ON

S

A

V

I

N

G

S

THE CENTRAL NATIONAL BANK

NASHVILLE TENN.

4

%

ON

S

A

V

I

N

G

S

CONVENIENT LOCATION

SATISFACTORY SERVICE

Gospel Advocate

CHURCHES OF THE
LIFE AND CHERISH
SINCE 1848

Volume LXIV, No. 49

NASHVILLE, TENN., DECEMBER 7, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS

OUR CONTRIBUTORS	1153
The High Requirements of Grace—Sins—Grieving by Mistake—Jehovah's Conception of What Is Good —Commendations of Bible Helps—That One-Sided Debate—Meetings of Elders and Preachers.
QUERY DEPARTMENT	1150
EDITORIAL	1152
The Pillar and Ground of the Truth—Division: Its Curses.
EVANGELISTIC NOTES	1154
HOME READING	1156
TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT	1157
Consistency	1175
Work in Chilton County, Alabama—Commendation of R. A. McCurry	1178
Doctrinal Preaching	1179
Stand Fast	1180
FIELD NOTES	1153, 1174, 1181

Our Contributors

THE HIGH REQUIREMENTS OF GRACE.

BY JAMES E. CHESSOR.

GRACE AFFORDS NO ENCOURAGEMENT TO SIN.

That the reign of grace lends no encouragement to sin is emphatically taught in the sixth of Romans. Indeed, that chapter stresses as few other passages the high requirements of grace which are against sin. Once and again is stated the fundamental fact that the life of the Christian is incompatible with the life of habitual sin. God's grace surely does not give license to sin; the freedom in Christ is not a freedom to live in the abandon of lawlessness. With solemn finality Paul answered the objection that grace emboldens Christians to sin. That objection is stated in this question: "Shall we continue in sin that grace may abound?" Now, we lose the force of the question unless we revert to the preceding extolment of grace which is the basis of the objection.

"MY GRACE IS SUFFICIENT FOR THEE."

This sublime grace passage (Rom. 5: 12-21) sets forth a vivid contrast between Adam and Christ, with emphasis resting upon the basic fact that in Christ the provisions of salvation are coextensive in application with the ruin wrought through Adam. Adam, in whom all die, is set over against Christ, in whom all shall be made alive. The one contrast separates into a series, with emphasis in each instance falling upon the superabounding grace of God. If the apostle speaks of the trespass, he also sets over against it the free gift which is more than adequate for the correction of the offense. "For if by the trespass of the one the many died, much more did the grace of God, and the gift by the grace of the one man, Jesus Christ, abound unto the many." If he speaks of "condemnation," he also makes mention of "justification." If he designates the "reign of death," he also names in contrast the "reign of grace." "Where sin abounded, grace did abound more exceedingly; that, as sin reigned in death, even so might grace reign through righteousness unto eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." So through grace overwhelming provision is made for victory over sin and for recovery of every lost privilege and honor. Withal, what a sublime encomium upon the grace of God! Sin abounding; grace more abundant!

THE BURDEN OF THE SIXTH OF ROMANS.

The burden of the sixth of Romans is deliverance from sin and resulting obligations of righteousness. It opens with the aforesaid objection: "Shall we continue in sin, that grace may abound?" The preceding argument closed with these words: "As sin reigned in death, even so might grace reign through righteousness unto eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." The existence of sin had called out the grace of God in forgiveness. Now the objection is raised: If that be so—if "where sin abounded, grace did abound more exceedingly"—why not continue in sin that God's grace may more abound? First, note that here are opposing principles of action—abiding in Christ, and continuing in sin. Can these coexist in the Christian? Can both govern his life? Shall we who have accepted the provision of God's grace in Christ continue in sin? Emphatically the apostle answers: "God forbid." The negation means, "It cannot be." The thought is abhorrent and the thing inconceivable from the nature of the case. "We who died to sin," answers the apostle, "how shall we live any longer therein?" How can we live in that to which we have died? Shall our free spirits reinhabit and reanimate the putrid body of sin? The initial step in the Christian life, the genesis of the free state, is a death to sin, and conversion as a completed process sets us free from the primal relationship to sin. It is unimaginable, therefore, that we should live in a thing from which we have been severed and which we loathe. With Paul we may say, it cannot be.

BAPTISM AND THE OBLIGATIONS OF GRACE.

Necessarily Paul makes careful note of baptism burial. Baptism implies death. After death, burial. "We were buried therefore with him into death: that like as Christ was raised from the dead through the glory of the Father, so we also might walk in newness of life." After death, burial (immersion); after burial, resurrection (emergence); issue, a new creature in Christ. Thus was effected and mirrored forth our regeneration, issuing in the obligation to walk in newness of life. And thus it is that we enter into vital union with Christ. This new relationship Paul emphasizes, first, by the simple yet inclusive statement, "If we have become united with him in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection," and then by the elaboration of that statement, both on the side of crucifixion and of resurrection. Finally, declaring that in Christ's death he ended the dominion of sin over him and entered into the life unto God fully and eternally, Paul charged upon Christians the grave responsibility of reckoning themselves as sharing with Christ both the death unto sin and the life unto God. The apostle next turns to the requirement of grace as to the practice of the Christian. Briefly, because he is identified with Christ both in death and in life, a double responsibility is incumbent upon him. On the one hand, he is n to permit sin to reign in his mortal body by obeying the lusts thereof, nor to yield his members unto sin as instruments of unrighteousness. On the other hand, he is to present himself unto God as alive from the dead, and his members as instruments of righteousness. Grace, then, instead of giving countenance to sin, requires of us a life of self-denial, on the one hand, and of aggressive righteousness, on the other.

"HIS SERVANTS YE ARE WHOM YE OBEY."

Once again in Paul's argument he is called upon to answer a captious objection to grace. "Shall we sin because we are not under law, but under grace?" Paul answers by enunciating a principle known to them by bitter experience: "His servants ye are whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness." If you obey sin, says Paul, you are sin's servants, under his reign, and will receive, not grace, but sin's wages, which is death. But if you obey Christ, you are his servants and receive the blessings of grace. He then reminds them of their past experience, how that, yielding themselves to sin, they had been mastered thereby; but, when grace came, they had been made free by obedience to Christ and had become servants of righteousness. The issue now is whether you will stand in the grace of God or become again enslaved to sin. Whose servants will you be? What is your choice? At no other point is Paul more telling in emphasizing the obligations of grace. He drives home this point by probing into their past lives when they were held in the bond of iniquity. "What fruit then," asks the apostle, "had you at that time in the things whereof ye are now ashamed?" Ah, but what fruit? Was it not shame and dishonor and death? Why, the very remembrance brings the guilty blush. The argument is concluded by the declaration so often quoted: "The wages of sin is death; but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord." Do not read a narrow meaning into the apostle's declaration. Sin as master pays the wages of death in every department of life. God as Master bestows the gift of eternal life in every department of life. The contrast is not merely that of ultimate issues. He has reference to the whole process. Death now and forever is the issue of sin. Eternal life now and forever is the issue of obedience.

THE HIGH INCENTIVES OF GRACE.

"Shall we continue in sin, that grace may abound?" "Shall we sin because we are not under the law, but under grace?" These are the questions discussed in the sixth of Romans. Paul says, Nay, verily, in both instances. In the first argument he urged, as we have seen, that inasmuch as the Christian is dead to sin and delivered therefrom, he is under obligation to walk in newness of life; in the second, that grace and prudence in view of consequence demand that he choose to serve God rather than sin. The Christian, the object of God's favor, should hold aloof from so vile and sinful a thing as sin. He is God's freed man in Christ; he has been set in the sweet light of hope. "But now being made free from sin and become servants of God, ye have your fruit unto sanctification, and the end eternal life." This is the distinctive excellence of the Christian position. Grace reigns triumphantly. The Christian is not a sinner under the curse of the law, proving his weakness by perpetual failure; he is rather a saint under grace, proving Christ's power in constant victory.

No, the grace of God, while sufficient for trespass, is no encouragement to sin. We need not, therefore, fear to magnify God's grace. There are those who tell us that exalting the grace of God in superabundant language and unmeasured thanksgiving tends to incite lawlessness in Christians. Far from it. The Christian is in no wise an outlaw. Since he is in Christ, he is rather inlawed to Christ by the governing principles and noble incentives of grace. These principles provide a complete rule of conduct and conflict eternally with sin. Believe it, then, that God confidently expects Christians, whom the Son has made free, to live up to the lofty standards of grace. Believe it, too, that of all sinners the Christian is less excusable. And know, once and for all, that unless you triumph over sin through the mercies of God, you must fall victim ultimately to all the unmitigated evils of Adam's transgression.

Study.

BY LEE JACKSON.

The use of the word "study" as the caption for this short article is suggested by the admonition of Paul to Timothy, in 2 Tim. 2: 15, as found in the Authorized Version. While this use may be questioned upon the ground that other versions use such forms as "give diligence" and "strive" in lieu of the word "study," yet the careful student can easily observe that any form used as properly expressing the meaning of the apostle necessarily involves the idea of studiousness on the part of one who presents himself "approved unto God." He who performs any service in the cause of Christ must endeavor to learn what God requires him to do, and also the manner in which the service is to be rendered in order to gain the desired results. James (5: 19, 20) says: "If any among you err from the truth, and one convert him; let him know, that he who converteth a sinner from the error of his way shall save a soul from death, and shall cover a multitude of sins." In this case the results to be attained is the saving of a soul from death and the hiding, or covering, of a multitude of sins. To accomplish this, it is necessary to know the means to be used and how to approach the sinner in the use of the means in order to avoid making a failure in bringing about his conversion.

If the teaching of the Scriptures or the preaching of the gospel is to be done so as to please God, it is, first of all, necessary to learn the meaning of words, so as to be able to accurately express the ideas intended to be conveyed by the inspired writers. We are warned against adding to the Scriptures and against taking from them; and yet this is frequently done by those who use qualifying terms that make the words of the Bible either mean more or less than they were intended to mean when used by those who were under the guidance of the Holy Spirit. "The words of Jehovah are pure words; as silver tried in a furnace on the earth, purified seven times." (Ps. 12: 6.) And Solomon says: "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver." (Prov. 25: 11.) The first rule governing the proper use of language is accuracy in the expression of ideas, using words that properly convey only the meaning which we intend to convey; and while there are words in our English versions of the Bible which do not accurately convey the exact meaning of the original words—such words as bishop, church, ordain, minister, and others—yet these defects of translation can be remedied by a diligent and careful study of the passages in which these words occur in the light of Bible usage. This, of course, means a study of the Bible by comparing scripture with scripture. Every student of the Bible should endeavor to expand his knowledge of the range of words and phrases that are peculiar in general usage by the inspired writers, at the same time studying such words in the light of the various connections in which they are used; and this applies with especial force to the many figures of speech that are peculiar to Bible writers. In this method of study a large store of Bible information can be gained that cannot be acquired by simply memorizing selected passages. Ability to readily quote passages from the Scriptures is not an evidence that a person is possessed of any great amount of Bible knowledge. A man might memorize dozens of pages from an ordinary dictionary, being able to cite in regular order all the words on each and every page, and yet understand the meaning of but few of these words. We would think very strange of the man who would quote a page from the dictionary and then proceed to invent for himself a meaning for the words thus quoted; and yet such a procedure would do no greater violence to the dictionary than that which is done to the Bible by the man who quotes from it and then attaches to its words a meaning to suit his own preconceived ideas. Knowledge is what a man acquires or discovers and not something which he invents for himself, and the knowledge of Bible teaching is gained by learning the meaning of Bible words. If we take such words as "redemption," "holiness," "sanctification," "propitiation," "church," "ordain," "election," and numerous other words of frequent occurrence in the Bible and attach to them a meaning different from that intended to be conveyed by the words as used by the inspired writers, we thereby miss the knowledge which God's revelation is intended to convey to our minds; and our ability to simply quote scripture will not remedy the evil thus done to the cause of truth. "Be not many of you teachers, my brethren, knowing that we shall receive heavier judgment." (James 3: 1.) When a man is not fairly certain of his ground as to the meaning of a Bible word or as to a passage of scripture, he is safer when he attempts no explanation; yet our congregations are afflicted with men who presume to teach on Bible subjects where they are not qualified.

In preaching the gospel it is necessary to study men, and also necessary to study the circumstances and conditions amidst which men are environed. A failure to make such a study often results in driving sinners away from the truth of the gospel, when the purpose is to win them to it, that thereby they may be converted to Christ. "The Lord's servant must not strive, but be gentle toward all, apt to teach, forbearing, in meekness correcting them that oppose themselves; if peradventure God may give them repentance unto the knowledge of the truth, and they may recover themselves out of the snare of the devil, having been taken captive by him unto his will." (2 Tim. 2: 24-26.) In the face of this admonition there are men among us who go out as preachers of the gospel who apparently feel that their first duty is to make some of their hearers mad, so as to stir up contentions and bring on debates; and, as unscriptural as this is, there are brethren in our congregations who encourage the preachers who cultivate this manner of preaching. Not long since a brother in a little town said to me that the effect of one man's preaching had been such that the longer he preached, the smaller his audiences grew, and that the next man who attempted to preach there would find it difficult to get any audience to begin with. This is in a town where there is a congregation of only five or six persons, and where the right sort of preaching done in the right spirit is sorely needed. This is one of the points to be guarded by congregations which support young men as preachers in mission fields, for there are some men who will drive more people away from the gospel than they will win to Christ by their preaching.

Grieving by Mistake.

BY R. P. CUFF.

In the last chapter of the Gospel according to Mark we read that early on the first day of the week Mary Magdalene (that Mary from whom Jesus had during his personal ministry cast out seven demons); Mary, the mother of James; and Salome came to the tomb of Jesus to anoint him with spices. They found an angel sitting at the tomb; but Jesus was not there, for he was risen from the dead. Angel hands had rolled away the stone that had blocked the entrance to the sepulcher. Jesus was alive again, and Hades could no longer hold him. He had come forth in majestic triumph and lordly glory. The first to whom he appeared after his resurrection was Mary Magdalene; and she, for whom he had done such a valuable service, became an evangel of good news. To a choice gathering she bore the message of her Lord's resurrection. "She went and told them that had been with him, as they mourned and wept. And they, when they heard that he was alive, and had been seen of her, disbelieved." (Mark 16: 10, 11.) I speak of "them that had been with him" as a choice gathering because of their opportunities of knowing him through association with him and through life in his personal presence, though it must be confessed that there is not so much in their weeping, nor in their disbelief, that is choice.

I. WHY DID THEY WEEP?

Association with Jesus had brought them to believe in him and to love him. That association was now broken and their faith and love felt the blow. His recent suffering and death still rankled with vivid power in their memories. The blessings he had given them they thought they could expect no more. Hence, their personal loss was great. Then, too, they had thought that he would re-establish the kingdom of Israel and give it a full blast of power. But now it looked as though their hopes for a great national power to return were blighted. Surely now Jesus could never be the mighty potentate over a restored kingdom that they had hoped he would be. These factors doubtless entered into their grief. I wonder if it could also be that each recalled this little misbehavior and that, this little mistreatment and that, given to Jesus while he lived. Could it be that words shortly, harshly, unkindly spoken were recalled? Could it be that pranks wickedly played were brought to mind? How many persons there are who remember in deep sorrow an unkindness to a friend or a loved one when that friend or loved one has ceased to breathe and talk and lies interred within the tomb! Perhaps these who had been with Jesus were sorrowing partly because of unthought and unkind treatment of him.

II. WAS THEIR GRIEF BASED UPON GOOD GROUNDS?

In part it was, and in part it was not. Jesus had foretold his resurrection. That being true, their faith in him and their love for him should have remained constant. They should have known that his suffering and death would turn out for the best. They should not have mourned because of a loss of blessings, for he was soon to be alive again with an increase of authority and power. Had they understood the nature and the purpose of the kingdom Christ came to establish, there would have been no need for them to grieve because of a lost kingdom, for the kingdom was not lost. Jesus was destined soon to come forth from the grave and to set in operation a kingdom greater than any Israel had ever known. The hopes of this weeping company—all their well-founded hopes—should not have been blighted. This man Jesus, who had power to lay down his life, also had power to take it up again. By the resurrection he would be declared the Son of God with power. Thereafter he would establish a heavenly kingdom among men for the ingathering of those who would belong to God after they were gathered in. I do not say that under the same circumstances in which these men were situated your faith and mine would not have flickered. Nor do I say that we would not have felt personal loss and that we would not have longed for a king to come and bring back national glory. What I do say is that grieving from these causes was grieving by misconception and mistake.

Thus far we have noticed that part of their grief that was not based upon good grounds. Let us now notice a good reason for their bereavement. They could grieve over the death of Jesus intelligently, if they had it in mind that all his anxieties and cares, worries and trials, temptations and persecutions, agonies and woes, and even death itself, were brought upon him by the sins of the world. The great cause and source of grief in the world to-day is sin. We of to-day have just reason for mourning intelligently the death of Jesus when we contemplate the sins of men. But for the most part the resurrection of Jesus has changed all cause of weeping over his death into cause of rejoicing over his life.

III. CONSIDER THE SHARP SORROW OF JACOB.

Bible students are familiar with the story of Joseph. When that favorite son of Jacob, whose brothers through jealousy called him "dreamer," had been sold into Egypt, and when his blood-bespattered coat had been brought back to Jacob, great was the grief of Joseph's father. He thought some beast of the field had eaten Joseph and that his favorite son now dwelt in the land of the dead. Just as the men who had been with Jesus were mourning largely by mistake when Mary Magdalene came to them with the news of the Master's resurrection; and just as they through disbelief continued to grieve altogether by mistake—for their sorrow should now have turned to joy—Jacob was grieving by mistake. Joseph was not food for beasts, but was destined to be governor of Egypt. But even though a mistake was at the bottom of it, Jacob's sorrow was no less severe than if it had been well-founded.

IV. THE WORLD IS CURSED BY MUCH UNNECESSARY SORROW.

How sad that any one should suffer a single needless pang! The Christian is not a child of grief, but a child of joy. Sorrow has its lesson. Let that be learned. But, O Master's resurrection, and just as they through disbelief woe. Free us from those griefs that arise from unbelief and the dim shining of hope. Help us to put our trust in thee, and to "rejoice evermore, and be glad."

Alexander Maclaren said: "The old Greeks thought that memory must be a source of torture in the next world, so they interposed between the two worlds the waters of Lethe, the river of forgetfulness; but believers in Christ want no river of oblivion on the borders of Elysium. Calvary is on this side, and that is enough."

That means that penitence must take place this side of death; and that if, being truly penitent, we bring forth fruits worthy of repentance, the blood of Christ will wash us clean from sin—the real source of sorrow. It further means that if we do not serve Jesus while we live, no blood will wash our sins away and we will have to pay the penalty in the eternal world. There will be no river of forgetfulness for the unfaithful. The faithful will need none, for they will have come to the eternal world by way of the cross. Calvary will have removed all their sin stains and dried every penitent eye. Thanks to the great Redeemer, giver of light and joy. Let the thousands who sorrow find comfort in Him and rejoice evermore.

Jehovah's Conception of What Is Good.

BY S. H. HALL.

Let us take another look at "the dark picture" discussed a few weeks ago. And let it be remembered that the words used to describe it are not mine, but the words of One who can speak only the truth. Read it again. (2 Tim. 3: 1-5.)

Note that the Holy Spirit says these characteristics in man shall bring on grievous times and that this dark picture will exist in reality in "the last days." Now, it is exceedingly doubtful with me whether any man can tell just when this picture exists to that degree it will have reached in "the last days." So I want it distinctly understood that I do not know, and no other man knows, whether to-day these characteristics abound to the degree that justifies our saying we are living in "the last days." There never has been a time since man's fall in which the very characteristics named above could not have been found, but hardly, I think, to the degree that shall characterize the "last days" mentioned. These sins, iniquities, and evils shall abound in the closing days of this dispensation. They will so predominate over the good that Christ himself raised the question: "Nevertheless, when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?" (Luke 18: 8.) Now, it certainly has appeared time and again to faithful souls that the very time described by Paul existed. But each soul was judging from his immediate surroundings. And while his surroundings might be about as bad as those described by Paul, it certainly would be the little section in which he was operating; while other souls in other sections of the earth might feel that the world was growing rapidly better because in that immediate section peace reigned, the truth was loved, and the gospel was spreading in leaps and bounds. So it is not in man to judge correctly universal conditions. God can and does judge such things.

But I must hasten to what was on my mind when I began this—viz., God's conception of what is good. You will note in the above description our Father has said that one of the characteristics of men will be, "no lovers of good." It will be well for each of us to take each descriptive word in this scripture and apply it to ourselves and ask: "Does it describe me?" It is of no importance just now to settle the question: "Are we now living in the very days described?" For certain it is you are living in the spirit of these days if your character is described by these words. So let us see if we are lovers of good or haters of good. So we hasten to what Jehovah says about good. Let us read it: "He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth Jehovah require of thee, but to do justly, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with thy God?" (Mic. 6: 8.) Is it not easy to see that there are at least three things that I must love if I am to be a lover of that which is good?

1. I must love to do justly. To treat every man and woman just must be the burning desire of my soul, if God sees me a lover of good. And to contend that you are a lover of good when you are unjust to others is simply to be mistaken about it. Christ cares but little about our prayers, our meeting others at the Lord's table, our contributions, etc., if we are practicing injustice in our dealings with others; and there is no hope for us in the judgment to come. "For judgment is without mercy to him that hath showed no mercy; mercy glorieth against judgment." (James 2: 13.) We had better think now as to whether we are just and merciful in our dealings with others; it will be too late to think when we appear before Christ to be judged by what we have been and are. If you will read Isa. 1: 11-17, you will find that Israel's engaging in the very feasts God had commanded, he hated, and was troubled by them because of the unmercifulness of their own hearts and ungodliness in their own lives. Hence, they were commanded to "seek justice, relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, plead for the widow," that their acts of worship might be acceptable to God.

2. "Love kindness" is another statement in Jehovah's description of what is good. And here I shall not tarry further than to say that loving kindness has sole reference to our love and delight in being kind to others. Deceived, indeed, is the man who thinks he loves kindness just because he loves for others to be kind to him. We love kindness and justice because they are of God, they are a part of God's nature; we love them because we have let the scales of selfishness fall from our eyes and we see the real worth and beauty of such things. May God have mercy upon those souls who endeavor to represent him to the people in whose hearts a love for kindness and justice is not found, and spare them to see their condition before it is too late.

3. "Walking humbly with our God" is another descriptive statement of what God knows to be good for man. And walking humbly with him is described in the following words: "But to this man will I look," saith Jehovah, "even to him that is poor and of a contrite spirit, and that trembleth at my word." (Isa. 66: 2.) We are not trembling much at his word if we are not scrupulously careful to be just and kind to others. To be careless and indifferent here is to try to mock God. We would treat his statements as though there were nothing in them. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth; that shall he also reap." (Gal. 6: 7.) And he has said: "Judgment is without mercy to him that hath showed no mercy." He has also plainly commanded: "Follow after things which make for peace, and things whereby we may edify one another." (See Rom. 14: 19.) There are two things we should each ask ourselves before following any movement, or taking a position on any question that may arise, or writing or saying one thing on any question—viz.: (1) Will what I say make for peace? (2) Will it edify or help any soul? If these two questions we will let burn into our hearts, some things will be left unsaid, some acts will be left undone. Much that is said and done these days has everything else in view but the things that make for peace. We are commanded to "seek peace, and pursue it." It is the only road to real blessedness. "Finally, be ye all like-minded, compassionate, loving as brethren, tender-hearted, humble-minded: not rendering evil for evil, or reviling for reviling; but contrariwise blessing; for hereunto were ye called, that ye should inherit a blessing. For, he that would love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile: and let him turn away from evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and pursue it." (1 Pet. 3: 8-11.) Well did James give us the following: "Who is wise and understanding among you? let him show by his good life his works in meekness and wisdom. But if ye have bitter jealousy and faction in your heart, glory not and lie not against the truth. This wisdom is not a wisdom that cometh down from above, but is earthly, sensual, devilish. For where jealousy and faction are, there is confusion and every vile deed. But the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without variance, without hypocrisy. And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace for them that make peace." (James 3: 13-18.)

Commendations for Bible Lesson Helps.

"We are using the Lesson Helps, and think they are fine." (Will P. Hester.)

"Your Bible Lesson Helps are giving perfect satisfaction." (M. B. Newsom.)

"Your literature has been a great help in our work. It is pointed, instructive, and edifying." (George W. Graves.)

"Your Lesson Helps are fine and should be used. I hope that many will take advantage of the Helps." (W. C. Ramsey.)

"I will say that the church at Meridian, Okla., where I hold membership, has been using your Quarterlies for about fifteen years." (S. W. Baird.)

"I have examined the Quarterlies edited by F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley, and I think them as good as the best, if not the best." (M. C. McDonald.)

"Received sample Lesson Helps, which, from my viewpoint, are a great help in the study of God's blessed word. They do not need to be 'bettered.'" (J. Y. McQuigg.)

"I am glad to recommend it to the brotherhood in general as a safe, clear, and interesting help in Bible study. Any congregation will be greatly benefited by using it." (H. M. Phillips.)

"The Gospel Advocate Company's literature for Bible study is, in my opinion, a necessity where any church wants the best results from the time spent in this kind of work." (J. C. Dawson.)

"Replying to yours regarding the Bible Lesson Helps, I wish to say that I regard Brethren Smith and Srygley among our best Bible teachers, and, therefore, highly commend the Lesson Helps edited by them." (B. W. Davis.)

"I have received the three Quarterlies—Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary; and, after having examined the same, I find the lessons plain, clear, and forceful. I will do much to encourage congregations to use them. Moreover, I hope to see them circulate rapidly." (J. V. Armstrong Traylor.)

"I received sample copies of your Bible Lesson Helps. I think they are just fine. My judgment is that the churches that are using them and the many others that will adopt their help in the method of teaching will be the congregations most wide awake to their duty in soul culture." (Willie Hunter.)

"I received the sample Quarterlies and have looked them over. They are good—very good. Each congregation should use something of the kind in connection with the regular Bible study. The teaching and comments are safe and sound. They will do good wherever they are used." (W. H. Owen, David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn.)

"So far as I can see, your Lesson Helps are as good as they can be—safe, sound, conservative, neat, and scriptural. I enjoy reading them, and derive help from them in the matter of thoughts for sermons. The Gospel Advocate is superb, and is a strong factor in my life for good. I shall consider it an honor to be commanded in your behalf." (Charles F. Hardin.)

"Your favor just received, and will say that we have been using the Gospel Advocate literature all this year, and I think they are just as good as it is possible for them to be made; for they are arranged in their divisions so that children can gather their meaning, and they are helpful in the study of our Father's great Book. We ought to rejoice for the help they bring to us." (C. Petty.)

"The sample copies of the 'Gospel Quarterlies,' or 'Bible Helps,' came duly to me. We are using them regularly in Pearl and Bryan Streets Church, this city, and think they are very valuable in aiding the students of the Bible to correctly understand the many lessons that young people should know. I shall be very glad to help, in any possible way, to get many others to use them." (A. O. Colley.)

"The sample Lesson Helps received and examined. Will say I have given them a pretty thorough examination, and think they are fine indeed. I do not see how they could be improved. Any person who wishes to study the 'International Bible Lessons' will do well to use them. I do not think any Sunday school should be without them." (J. T. J. Watson.)

"Received the sample copies of the Bible Lesson Helps sent. As to suggested improvements in the Helps, will say that I would be rather slow to suggest improvements in the work of such mature Bible scholars as Smith and Srygley. Have heard many commendations of the Helps. If you can stimulate the churches and the world to more Bible study, you will be doing a great and good work. May the Lord prosper you in that undertaking. I am glad to do all I can to assist." (John C. Graham.)

"It is a pleasure to me to commend the Bible Lesson Helps that you publish. I have had occasion to examine them pretty thoroughly during the current year, as well as in former years, and I hesitate not to say the 'helps' this year appear to be more simplified than those of former years. A simple analysis of the subject with pointed suggestion that is thought-provoking is the best 'help' to direct the mind of the student of the Bible to learn the word of God. It has seemed to me that the 'helps' this year have aimed to be of this kind, and they have been satisfactory to me." (C. D. Crouch.)

"I have received, read, and studied the samples of your Bible Lesson Helps, and I pronounce them not only excellent, but of inestimable value in teaching the word in such a manner that the student will find it quite fascinating—a most necessary adjunct in the practical teaching of the Christian religion. With me it was hard to lay the Quarterlies down until I had read it through like a book. I judge all others will find it thus interesting. I know they will find it profitable. As helps in the understanding of the truth, they are strictly true to name. I also like the arrangement of the lessons. The clear, bold-faced type in which the subheadings are printed invites the eye to the comments following. The Helps are worthy of universal study." (E. C. Fuqua.)

Orders should be sent to the Gospel Advocate Company, 217-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

That One-Sided Debate.

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

It will be remembered that at the close of the Hall-Walker discussion in the Ryman Auditorium, this city, Brother John B. Cowden had circulated a poster in which it was stated that at an early date (October or November) there would be a discussion in the Ryman Auditorium on the church-music question whether they had any opponent or not. There had been no proposition agreed on, no man selected by us, and, as far as we knew, no arrangement made to secure the building or any other of the preliminaries arranged. This was a new way to me to begin a debate. It looked to me more like an arrangement to begin a wrangle. But as the poster said the brother proposed to show us some things we had not seen, I decided to watch the fireworks from a safe distance, and I went into a state of "watchful waiting." I waited and watched through October and part of November and saw nothing; but, behold, about November 8, while I was in Albany, Ala., without my knowledge or consent, the following announcement appeared in the Nashville Banner:

TO OPEN STATE-WIDE DISCUSSION ON MUSIC.

The church-music discussion, which was recently announced at the close of the Hall-Walker discussion, to begin some time this month in Nashville at the Ryman Auditorium, will begin by request of the church in Columbia and will be held later in Nashville. Beginning next Sunday night at the church of Christ, in Columbia, John B. Cowden, of Nashville, will affirm the faith and practice of the churches in Tennessee using musical instruments in the church, and F. B. Srygley will take the opposition side. It is hoped that this will be the beginning of a series of discussions of the question over the State wherever it is an issue in the churches. All people interested in this question are invited to attend this discussion.

There had, no doubt, been something said about a discussion in Columbia, and my name had been mentioned in connection with it, but no positive agreement reached, no proposition agreed to, and no time set. Neither had I been invited by the church to hold such a discussion at that time or at any other time, nor did Brother Cowden or any one else communicate with me about it, and I did not see the announcement even in the Banner, and was, therefore, entirely innocent. The next day there appeared in the Banner the following:

WILL NOT DISCUSS INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

The statement published in the Banner that there would be a discussion on the use of instrumental music in the worship of the church of Christ beginning Sunday night is not correct. The church at Columbia, Tenn., has not invited such a discussion to be conducted by John B. Cowden and F. B. Srygley or any other preachers, but, on the contrary, the church has unanimously decided not to have such a discussion.

I still knew nothing about the matter until my return to the city on Saturday, November 11. I have had several debates in my life, but I never had one before "that made as little impression on me as that one." On its face it might appear that I was a party to such an unheard-of arrangement, but I plead not guilty. This whole matter puts me before the readers of the Banner in a bad light as trying to force myself on the church in Columbia; but there is no one to blame for it but Brother John B. Cowden, and I suppose that those who know him and his strange activities on the instrumental-music question will not blame me much for this matter. All the readers of the Gospel Advocate know that I never have agreed to discuss any question with him, nor have I agreed to insist upon any one else discussing with any of them the instrumental-music question unless they would affirm that "instrumental music is scriptural in the worship of God." What interest have I in the question of instrumental music out of the worship? Why should I care anything about it on the outside of the worship? I am no music teacher and have no interest in the subject only as it is used in the worship at the present time. It appears that Brother Cowden wanted to cover up his failure in not holding his too previously announced, one-sided debate in Nashville by holding something in Columbia, where they had no church, and, therefore, nothing to lose. There are, however, a few dissatisfied ones in Columbia, and they may feel that with a united and powerful effort there they can arouse an interest and cause a permanent division.

Quite a little breeze was stirred up by the announcement in that city, both in the secular paper and by handbills, that "three divines of the Christian Church, Dr. John B. Cowden, Rev. Carey E. Morgan, and Rev. J. J. Walker," would begin a discussion on Sunday, November 19, to last through the week. In the proposition proposed for this one-sided discussion I note the following: "(2) Book, chapter, and verse for instrumental music. (3) Prophetic, apostolic, historic, angelic precedent for instrumental music." It will be noticed that neither of these propositions contains the clause, "in the New Testament worship." I could give book, chapter, and verse for instrumental music in the Jewish worship, and so could any one else with a concordance; but what would it have to do with Christian worship? The third proposition quoted herein would be all right if these dear brethren would add "in Christian worship." If these brethren will state a proposition taken from this third one and sign it, I will undertake to get a man to deny it. Let the proposition read, "Instrumental music in the worship is apostolic," and we will not burden him to prove it is prophetic or historic, and, as for the angelic, we will not bother about that till we get among the angels, and then we will do whatever is right to be done in that blissful state. We are concerned now about Christian worship here on the earth.

Interest seems to be rising in other parts of the country on the subject of debates on the instrumental-music question, as the following letter will show:

Crockett Mills, Tenn., November 11, 1922.—Gospel Advocate, Nashville, Tenn.—Dear Brethren: Will you please give me the name of the book you consider the very highest authority, the most trustworthy, accurate, and reliable in all of the historical accounts and statements against the use of instrumental music in the worship? Can the book you suggest be relied upon and used as authority in a public study or debate on the subject? Where and at what price may the book be secured?

Sincerely,

J. E. GORSUCH.

It will be noticed that this brother inquires about the best book against the use of instrumental music in the worship. This shows that one of them, at least, is beginning to see that the interest is about the use of instrumental music in and not out of the worship. This is a perfectly frank inquiry, and it likewise demanded a frank and true answer; so the following reply was made to the brother's inquiry:

Nashville, Tenn., November 15, 1922.—Mr. J. E. Gorsuch, Crockett Mills, Tenn.—Dear Brother: In reply to your request for the name of the book which "you consider the very highest authority, the most trustworthy, accurate, and reliable in all the historical accounts and statements against the use of instrumental music in the worship," I take pleasure in naming the New Testament. Your second question, "Can the book you suggest be relied upon and used as authority in a public study or debate on the subject?" Yes, I can recommend the New Testament to you as such a book. The third question, "Where and at what price may the book be secured?" I will say that it may be had from the Gospel Advocate Company or any other house that sells Bibles. The price will depend upon the kind of copy that you desire.

If we can be of any further service to you, we shall be glad to do so.

Yours fraternally,

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY.

By H. Leo Boles.

I very heartily indorse Brother Boles' reply. And now, Brother Gorsuch, since you know what book we will rely on in our answer to your arguments, will you be kind enough to tell us by what book you expect to prove that it is right to use instrumental music in the worship? You must know the New Testament says "sing." Now, what book do you propose to use to prove that Christians ought to play an instrument in the worship? As a matter of fact, all know that the history furnished in the New Testament gives no account of the use of the instrument in the worship. When Jesus instituted the Lord's Supper, the history says: "And when they had sung a hymn, they went out." This must have been worship, as we know the Lord's Supper has always been considered worship. Now, what reliable history can be found that could add to this divine record? Now, brother, tell us what book you rely on to prove that it is the will of God that instrumental music should be used in his worship. Will you affirm that the New Testament authorizes the use of a musical instrument in the worship of God? No, brethren, instrumental music was introduced into the worship by taking liberties with the New Testament, and you are but trying to console yourselves in a practice that is unauthorized by that book.

Meetings of Elders and Preachers.

Martin, Tenn., November 23, 1922.—To Whom It May Concern: The church of Christ at Martin, Tenn., invites preachers, elders, and all other leading brethren interested in every possible scriptural advancement of the gospel of Christ to attend and take part in a meeting to be held in Martin on Thursday and Friday, December 21, 22. This meeting especially concerns the cause of Christ in West Tennessee and West Kentucky, and Christians in this section have a special invitation. The following program is arranged:

Thursday, December 21—10 A.M., "New Testament Evangelism," A. L. Wilson; 1 P.M., "Business and Christianity," I. A. Douthitt; 7 P.M., "The Reformation," C. M. Stubblefield.

Friday, December 22—10 A.M., "The Restoration," N. B. Hardeman; 1 P.M., "Corporation vs. Coöperation," A. G. Freed; 7 P.M., "Needs of the Present Hour," L. L. Brigance. Immediately following each number time is reserved for a good "round-table discussion" of that subject.

F. L. PAISLEY.

Brother David Lipscomb wrote the following when a similar meeting was announced in 1910 to be held at Henderson, Tenn. It is reprinted here as a caution to all who are disposed to have "preachers' meetings," "elders' meetings," "meetings of the leading brethren," and "meetings of representatives from all the churches in Nashville."

A MEETING OF ELDERS AND PREACHERS CALLED.

(From Gospel Advocate of January 20, 1910.)

Some of the brethren last week called for a meeting of the preachers and elders in West Tennessee. We do not doubt that these brethren intend only the best for the churches, for themselves and others. But I have been through and under these meetings so much that it surprises me to hear of such meetings. I have been in and through many of them in Middle and West Tennessee, others in Kentucky and Texas. I have seen much evil come out of them to the preachers and the people. I never saw any good come out of them to any one. The brethren in Obion County have what seems to me an excellent order of evangelizing the county. It would be good to get Brother Williams or some brother to introduce it as far as may be in other counties. It is scriptural to call one man in, to teach the members aright. But I never found an inspired man called in at a council of elders and preachers. Let us all individually and solidly try to stand on solid ground. D. L.

WARNING APPROVED.

(From Gospel Advocate of March 3, 1910.)

"Brother Lipscomb: I want to thank you for your words of warning, in the Gospel Advocate of January 20. I have attended a few of these 'preacher consultation meetings' where the intention of the majority was to do no harm, but good. They may do no harm the first time, but a self-perpetuating meeting is soon captured by designing men. I may never meet you again in the flesh, so I want to thank you, my brother, for the many good lessons you have taught me from your pen through the Advocate. I shall endeavor to profit by them and then pass them on to another generation. May your last days be as peaceful and radiant as the sun sinking beneath a clear horizon. F. L. YOUNG."

I have received quite a number of words of approval of my suggestions about unscriptural meetings. I only desired in their incipency to call attention to the danger. I had no idea that a brother who joined in the call intended any evil or wrong. But when men get away from the scripture order to engage in unscriptural meetings, they have no rule to guide them, save their own wisdom. "It is not in man that walketh to direct his steps." (Jer. 10: 23.) We are no wiser than others if we cut loose from God's order. I find no meeting of elders and preachers in the Bible, and I do not see what scriptural work an unscriptural meeting can do. Let us study the questions and follow the divine order. D. L.

THE NASHVILLE AND HENDERSON MEETING.

(From Gospel Advocate of March 24, 1910.)

"Brother Lipscomb: Will you kindly explain, very clearly, the difference between the regular monthly meetings being conducted by the preachers, elders, and teachers in Nashville and the meeting recently held in Henderson? Some of us are unable to see any difference, except that in Nashville the meetings have become regular and recurring, while in West Tennessee we have had only one meeting, with no arrangements for a second. Why is it right in Nashville, but wrong in West Tennessee?"

"In the Gospel Advocate of March 3 you say: 'I find no meetings of elders and preachers in the Bible, and I do not see what scriptural work an unscriptural meeting can do.' Are the meetings being held in Nashville scriptural? If so, then please apply the same scriptures to the Henderson meeting, and the objections will disappear. If these Nashville meetings are unscriptural, then what scriptural work can they do? Please tell us just how the preachers, elders, and teachers in Nashville meet scripturally, so we can meet scripturally in West Tennessee, if we ever want to meet again.

"[Signed] J. W. Dunn, W. S. Long, Jr., A. O. Colley, G. Dallas Smith, L. L. Brigance, A. G. Freed, G. C. Wharton, N. B. Hardeman, W. H. Owen."

I have never attended the meetings of the churches in Nashville spoken of. I was unable to do anything when these meetings began, and see the brethren seldom now. I go to the office only a time or two during a month, and never stay over thirty minutes. Of course I have no time to converse with them over these matters. I have sat and talked two or three times to the church at the Bible School, once at College Street. They call it preaching. I asked about the working of these meetings, and found they were doing nothing wrong, save by a failure to express themselves well. I feared their example would lead others to engage in illegitimate work. In their work each congregation invites other persons interested to come and with them study the word of God and to encourage them to the more faithful discharge of the duties all Christians must perform in the worship of the church. This is not wrong.

When I referred to the meeting at Henderson, I modified their statement as far as possible to remove its bad indications, yet to get them to study the question. Here is their original call:

"LET PREACHERS AND ELDERS TAKE NOTICE.

"Fully appreciating the condition of the cause of Christ in West Tennessee and adjacent territory, and knowing, too, what great good can be accomplished by concerted action on the part of both preachers and churches, we desire to call a meeting of all loyal preachers and teachers of the gospel of Christ and all elders, with all who are interested in strengthening the walls of Zion and carrying the gospel to the lost, to meet at Henderson, Tenn., on January 25-28, 1910.

"Let every preacher, with the elders of the various congregations in West Tennessee, Southwest Kentucky, East Arkansas, and North Mississippi, be sure to be present on the above-named dates.

"Let no one think for one moment that one move will be mentioned not in harmony with the Book. We only wish to better acquaint ourselves with each other and our duty to this great field of labor."

That sounds much bigger and more like making a society than the other. That certainly indicates that a purpose was before them to provide for and take charge of the whole field of labor embraced in the territory described. I could put no other construction upon the language. Notwithstanding their disavowal, did their actions not corre-suond to this end? A report of the meeting was sent the Gospel Advocate by Brother G. Dallas Smith. He recalled it before publication. He writes to the Gospel Guide an account of the meeting, in which he says:

"After this we again took up the 'West Tennessee evangelist.' This was discussed by Brother A. G. Freed and others. It was finally agreed that the Henderson church should select and put in the field an evangelist to work in the destitute places in West Tennessee. This work is to begin June 1. We practically agreed to do what we can to interest the churches in West Tennessee to cooperate with the Henderson church in supporting the evangelist."

Now, what was that but the organization of a society in the elders of this church? The church elders at Henderson constitute a board to collect and pay out the money and control the evangelist for the brethren of West Tennessee, and all the preachers are solicitors for this work. This very same course was pursued in Texas a number of years ago. The elders of the church at Dallas were made the supervisors of the work, received the money, employed the preacher, directed and counseled him. For a number of years they employed C. M. Wilmeth. He then dropped out of the work and the Texas Missionary Society took the place. Other experiments along the same course have been made. All of them went into the society work.

All meetings of churches or officers of churches to combine more power than a single church possesses is wrong. God's power is in God's churches. He is with them to bless and strengthen their work when they are faithful to him. A Christian, one or more, may visit a church with or without an invitation and seek to stir them up to a faithful discharge of their duties. But for one or more to direct what and how all the churches shall work, or to take charge of their men and money and use it, is to assume the authority God has given to each church. Each one needs the work of distributing and using its funds as well as in giving them.

This employing evangelists to serve a section of country by organizations not churches has been tried in Middle and West Tennessee. None have done so well as while leaving those who do the teaching as God left them to work with the churches. This is true for Nashville or West Tennessee.

The oldest church history (Mosheim, McLaine's Translation, page 41) gives an account of the introduction of societies. Speaking of the second century, he says this:

"During a great part of this century the Christian churches were independent with respect to each other; nor were they joined by association, confederacy, or any other bonds than those of charity. Each Christian assembly was a little State, governed by its own laws, which were either enacted or at least approved by the society. But in process of time all the churches of a province were formed into one large ecclesiastical body, which, like confederate States, assembled at certain times in order to deliberate about the common interests of the whole. . . . These councils, of which we find not the smallest trace before the middle of this century, changed the whole face of the church and gave it a new form; for by them the ancient privileges of the people were considerably diminished and the power and authority of the bishops greatly augmented."

Pages of similar matter leading up in a few centuries to the institution of the papacy could be introduced. Looking over the history of the world and the growth of this ecclesiasticism into the papacy in a few years, it is forced on me that these meetings to consider the good of the whole was the "mystery of iniquity," the "man of sin," already at work in Paul's day. (2 Thess. 2: 1-12.) This I have often quoted and applied thus through forty-five years. I have frequently quoted with approval this from A. Campbell (Christian Baptist, page 531):

"I have no objections to congregations meeting in hundreds, at stated periods, to sing God's praise, to unite their prayers and exhortations for the social good; but when they form a quorum, and call for the business of the churches, they become a popish calf, or muley, or a hornless stag, or something akin to the great beast with seven heads and ten horns."

I have quoted and approved many other such claims from A. Campbell in the early days of his work.

I write and publish these things for the good of all who will read and consider them. The great question between God and man is: Which shall rule? Every introduction of human power and arrangements into the churches or their work pulls down God's work and overthrows his authority. So, if we err, let us do it by clinging closely to God's work. We make a start to-day; to-morrow we go further, until we separate from God. Let us be faithful to God. D. L.

The minister who is disturbed by the cry of a little child should daily find his way to the nursery.—Selected.

Query Department

BY J. C. McQUIDDY

D. R. Baker, Ethridge, Tenn., asks (1) who was caught up into the third heaven, and (2) what is meant by the "thorn in the flesh." (2 Cor. 12: 2, 7.)

1. Paul was speaking of himself, as is evident from verse 7. This letter was written A.D. 57. As he was caught up above "fourteen years ago," it must have been about A.D. 43 when he was caught up.

2. The thorn in the flesh is generally thought to be some painful physical infirmity, but no one knows what. (1) It was in the flesh. (2) It buffeted him. (3) It was a messenger of Satan, and was permitted to prevent undue exaltation, hence must have been humiliating.

J. D. Stone, Haleyville, Ala., is responsible for, and interested in an answer to, the following: "Please to define the elements of the new birth recorded in John 3: 5; also, state in what way one is born of the Spirit like the wind (verse 8). Some of my brethren teach that a man is not born of God here in this life, but in the resurrection."

I cannot make the elements of the new birth, water and Spirit, any plainer than the New Testament makes them. Water is water and Spirit is Spirit. A law of interpretation is that words must be used in their ordinary sense unless something in the context forbids and demands a figurative sense. Nothing here requires a figurative and not a literal meaning. The child in the natural birth is not born of water, but flesh. It is not a child, but "one"—a man—that is born of water and of the Spirit.

It is the thing born that is invisible like the wind. In the natural birth, "that which is born of the flesh is flesh;" and in the spiritual birth, "that which is born of the Spirit is spirit." The thing born is invisible. "Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born anew. The wind bloweth where it will, and thou hearest the voice thereof, but knowest not whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit." (John 3: 7, 8.) The one born is invisible like the wind. It does not say as the wind blows, so is every one born that is born of the Spirit, but so is every one that is born of the Spirit." The likeness is between the one born and the wind.

To show that we are born of God in this life, I quote from David Lipscomb in "Queries and Answers," compiled by J. W. Shepherd, pages 64-67:

The essential elements of a birth are a begetting and deliverance. These necessitate a father and a mother. The father begets, imparts to the mother the seed, the life germs, that under favorable conditions are quickened and grow into a new being. The mother's womb furnishes these conditions that nurse the seed into life. The life comes from the father through the seed. The birth of the Spirit involves similar agents and conditions.

There must be a begetting and a bringing forth, or a deliverance, to constitute a birth. God himself, through the Holy Spirit, begets or imparts the spiritual seed. A new life through this seed must be imparted to the heart or soul of the person to be born into the kingdom of God. The word of God is the seed of the kingdom. (Luke 8: 11.) It is the seed in which the germinal principle of spiritual life dwells. It must enter into proper conditions to cause it to be quickened into life. A good and honest heart furnishes these conditions. So when the word of God is received into a good and honest heart, it is quickened into life and produces fruit. The word of God is given by the Spirit of God, and in it the Spirit dwells to impart life to the heart into which it is received. "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life. But there are some of you that believe not." (John 6: 63, 64.) The father imparts the seed to the womb of the mother. The seed is impregnated with the life of the father. This life is dormant until it comes into favorable conditions in the mother's womb, when it is quickened and begins to grow, into a new being. Now, the word of God is the seed, given by the Holy Spirit and impregnated by the Spirit, that is dormant in the word until it comes into favorable conditions in the heart, when it germinates and produces a new life. The life is in the seed. "The spirit giveth life." (2 Cor. 3: 6.) Paul says: "For in Christ Jesus I have begotten you through the gospel." (1 Cor. 4: 15.) The Holy Spirit in Paul preached the word to the Corinthians; they received it into the heart as the incorruptible seed, and by it they were begotten or made alive. James says: "Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of first fruits of his creatures." (James 1: 18.) Peter says: "Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth forever." (1 Pet. 1: 23.) Connect this with what Jesus said to Nicodemus, and it is clear that the Holy Spirit begets by imparting the word of God, the incorruptible seed, to the heart of man, and it germinates and becomes a new spiritual being.

Sometimes it is asked: "What represents the mother in the new birth?" The seed is imparted by the father to the mother. The seed is implanted in the heart of man by the Spirit of God. Then the heart of man that receives the word of God fills the place of the mother in receiving and nourishing the seed into favorable conditions for its germination and growth into a new being. Then, in order that this new spiritual life may be manifested to the world in its character as a new spiritual being, God commanded that it should be brought forth of the water in baptism. So the birth is completed, or the deliverance made, in baptism.

Life is not imparted to the child by the deliverance. The life is imparted by the father, quickened by the favorable conditions of the mother. The birth, or deliverance, only passes the preëxistent life into a new and favorable state for its growth and development. So baptism imparts no life; it only delivers the life that has already been developed into a new state and relations suited for its growth.

This representation of the new birth is figurative, but the explanations correspond to the literal facts in conversion as taught elsewhere in the Scriptures.

To receive the word of God into the good and understanding heart is to believe with the heart. The influence of that word in the heart leads to repentance, and then the requirement is: "Be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins." (Acts 2: 38.)

The man who complies with these conditions is born of God, is born of water and of the Spirit. He is a child of God, and he is to grow to be a man in Christ Jesus—that is, the principle of life imparted to him through the reception of the word of God into his heart is really a part of the life of God, imparted to him, and it is his duty to cherish that principle of the divine life, to feed it on the sincere milk of the word, that it may grow thereby and transform the whole character of the man into the likeness of God. The child thus grows into the likeness of his Father; and when he attains to the growth that he is able to attain in the flesh, he is transferred to a higher state of being in which the transformation begun on earth will be completed and perfected in the perfect likeness of Jesus Christ, our elder brother and the first begotten of our Father, "who is the image of the invisible God." "We shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is," and God will share his blessings and glories with us forever, because we are the sons and daughters of the living God.

"Hardeman's Tabernacle Sermons."

Brother Hardeman has received the following commendations of "Hardeman's Tabernacle Sermons:"

"The book of sermons is certainly grand. If one ever heard you preach and then read the book, he certainly would know that the sermons were all your own. Every young preacher that wants first help can find it in your book of sermons. The book should have a wide circulation from the fact that the proceeds of sale will go to assist young men in obtaining an education. I shall do what I can to push its sale." (John R. Williams.)

"With no more pleasure and profit have I ever read a book of sermons than that of your book of 'Tabernacle Sermons.' There has ever been, now is, and will always be the great need of God's children being indoctrinated, and to this end I believe this great book of sermons to be especially adapted. I gladly commend these sermons to all desiring to see the kingdom of our Lord extended in the world. I have placed, and shall continue to place, this Book where it will, if read, do much good." (T. C. Fox.)

Gospel Advocate Company.

Many splendid books are published and handled at this office. Good, religious books should be kept in each home. They have a refining influence on the young. Their educational value cannot be overestimated. The Gospel Advocate Company would like to help you educate your family by introducing good books to your library. "Evenings with the Bible" is a fine book to develop piety and spirituality, as well as very instructive. "The People's New Testament with Notes" is very helpful to Bible students. Here is a list that should be in every home. How many of them have you?

"Center Shots at Sin." By Arthur Talmage Abernethy. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

An arsenal of religious ammunition, assembled by a strategist experienced in fighting uphill. The author is a strong and virile thinker; his style, clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eye-opener.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume I. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

The gospel is always attractive when presented by W. H. Book. These sermons were not written in a study, but were stenographically reported as the burning words were uttered by the master preacher, under the inspiration of the great audience which flocks to hear him every week.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume II. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

A companion volume to the author's first book of sermons. Reported in the same way and published because of the unusual demand the first volume created.

"Sermons for the People." By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

Few books of sermons combine the qualities of interest, instruction, and inspiration to the degree in which they are united in this volume. The author is a master in the field of popular sermonizing, and some of his best work is to be found in this collection. There is not a dull page in the book. The text fairly sparkles with original and apt narratives.

"Lights on Scripture Truths." (Former title, "Side Winnows.") By Mattie M. Boteler. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.

A valuable ready-reference compendium of original, forceful and apt illustrations for the busy preacher, Sunday-school teacher, and religious worker. The striking originality and practical usefulness of each illustration puts this volume in a class all by itself. A carefully prepared topical index and alphabetically arranged table of contents add greatly to its usefulness. Its distinct value is that the author has followed the example of the great Teacher in illustrating profound truths by examples familiar to all. "I found one illustration that was well worth the price of the book." (S. M. Bernard.)

"The Indiana Pulpit." Edited by W. H. Cook. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

This series of twenty-two practical sermons, each discourse being the best one preached by as many leading Indiana preachers, presents vital Christianity in a most attractive way. "'The Indiana Pulpit' will be especially helpful to young preachers. The topics are varied and the discourses are from men of learning and experience. It will make each who reads it better, and it will strengthen the faith of all who carefully peruse its pages." (George A. Miller.)

"The Glorious Gospel." By Adam K. Adcock. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

"No one except a thorough and devout student of the Scriptures could have written 'The Glorious Gospel.' The author shows excellent analytic and synthetic power and knowledge in the selection and organization of the biblical teaching on the various subjects treated." (Christian Journal.)

"The New Testament Church." By F. D. Srygley. Cloth. 300 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

Under this head has been collated the best of the writings of the lamented F. D. Srygley, who for eleven years was first-page editor of the Gospel Advocate. The editing of this book was a labor of love performed by F. B. Srygley, brother of the deceased. As a deep and, at the same time, versatile writer, F. D. Srygley had few equals. This book is the essence of his best work.

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

The Pillar and Ground of the Faith.

BY J. C. M'Q.

The church has a great and important work to do. Most of the habitable globe is yet to be Christianized. The apostles in their day preached the gospel to every creature under heaven, but to-day there are thousands who have never heard the truth. The truth which Paul preached to Timothy he commanded him to commit to faithful men who should be able to teach others also.

The church is the salt of the earth, the light of the world, and the pillar and ground of the truth. Through evangelists and teachers it is to sow the seed of the kingdom broadcast. The brighter the light, the further away from home it shines. The church is not to be a light for only a select few, but it is to light the whole world. "Neither do men light a lamp, and put it under the bushel, but on the stand; and it shineth unto all that are in the house. Even so let your light shine before men; that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven." (Matt. 5: 15, 16.) The lights of Christians are so dim that people cannot see to walk by them. So many lamps are under bushels that much of the world is groping its way in darkness. "If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is the darkness!" (Matt. 6: 23.) What a fearful thing it is for millions to die without the bread of life because the church is asleep on the post of duty!

There is something radically wrong. Too many preachers who should be preaching the gospel are engaged in farming or some secular business in order to make a living. Too few are the young men who are willing to devote their talents and lives to the greatest of all work, the work of preaching the gospel. Even more, the ministry is not regarded by many as a noble calling. The wrong may be with the church, it may be with the preacher, or, more probable, it may be with both. The preacher who is not willing to make sacrifices to preach the gospel does not know the power of the gospel or does not appreciate how fearful it is to be lost! To love the truth and to cheerfully endure hardness as a good soldier are worth more to a preacher in preaching the gospel than is a university education. To be able to live on poorly prepared food and to sleep on hard beds is more necessary to an evangelist than is a knowledge of Hebrew and Greek. A consuming earnestness on the part of both preacher and church is necessary to a successful proclamation of the gospel. When one is possessed of a pure heart, knows how to preach the gospel effectively, and feels that "woe is unto me if I preach not the gospel," the church that will not hold up the hands of such a man while he tells the story of the cross to the lost is spiritually dead.

Preachers should be ready to go into the byways and hedges in order to preach the gospel to the poor. No preacher should be content to preach only to wealthy churches where a good salary is assured, neither should any church take all the time of an able preacher and thus deprive him of the privilege of preaching the gospel to the poor. It quickens the spiritual pulse of a church to realize that souls are being led to Christ through the labors of a preacher who is being supported in the work by it.

Souls are so precious, time is so fleeting, hell is so awful and heaven is so sweet, that both churches and preachers should inaugurate aggressive campaigns for the conversion of sinners. Almost six thousand dollars was contributed by churches of Christ in Nashville last year for the support of the Tabernacle meeting. The congregations entered heartily into the work, so that the amount was raised with very little effort. It should be easy to raise the same amount for the support of faithful and untiring evangelists while they preach the gospel to those who have it not in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, and Florida. Such a sum, with the amount that would be contributed in the field of labor, should support four evangelists for twelve months. God is looking to us to proclaim the truth to these near-by States. In doing this work we will be telling the old story to some who have not heard a sermon for years, and thereby we will extend the borders of the kingdom. I have just received a letter which I give our readers, which brings some very startling information:

Bakerville, Tenn., November 23, 1922.—Dear Brother McQuiddy: I left home Friday and came via a place where I held a meeting last summer, preached Friday night and Saturday night, and baptized one. I came on out to Holly's Chapel, some ten or twelve miles from Waverly, near Duck River, and began the mission meeting on Sunday at 11 A.M. I am preaching in a country schoolhouse, small, but filled every night with attentive listeners. The school furnishes the main part of my audience at the day services. There have been two additions and one restoration. I hope I'm planting seed to be garnered later. They are already promising me a big brush arbor and big crowds if I will come back next summer. They say there has been no preaching of any kind in this immediate neighborhood for eighteen years. They seem hungry to hear some preaching. Of course, some kind other than gospel preaching might suit them just as well; but where we can get the gospel before people who are not prejudiced, it is much easier to persuade them to accept it. The meeting will go on over next Lord's day or possibly longer, if all conditions continue favorable.

I wish I could continue this nature of work all the time, but it seems that brethren are very slow to back it up, and I have obligations to meet, and some of them pressing. I must look for other work. Pray for us and the work.

ANDY T. RITCHIE.

Think of it! Here is a neighborhood not over seventy-five miles from Nashville where there has been no preaching of any kind for eighteen years! Will God hold us guiltless if we fail to sow the seed of the kingdom in that neighborhood? Shame, that the laborers are so few! As it was in Christ's day, so is it now. "The harvest indeed is plenteous, but the laborers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he send forth laborers into his harvest." (Matt. 9: 37, 38.) While you pray, don't forget to work as you pray, and thus help to answer your prayers.

I am satisfied that the Russell Street and Chapel Avenue churches of Christ will support Brother Ritchie while he devotes his time and talents to preaching the gospel in destitute fields. I wish to urge upon each church to enter heartily into this work. As it was said of the Roman church, "That your faith is proclaimed throughout the whole world," and as was said of the Thessalonian church, "For from you hath sounded forth the word of the Lord, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but in every place your faith to Godward is gone forth," so may it be said of the churches in Nashville. The elders in each church should direct the funds to the glory of God. The churches should easily raise six thousand dollars. Let each church go to work and see just what it will do. Are we really in earnest, or are we playing at Christianity?

There is work for all. Funds are needed for Sarah Andrews to return to Japan and carry on the work there. The mission among the Japanese in Los Angeles, Cal., is about ready to begin. Brother Ishiguro is capable and well equipped for this work. May God open and expand our hearts so that we will do great and glorious work for the salvation of souls. Jehovah forbid that we shall treat with silence and indifference the needs of a lost people!

Division—Its Curses.

BY H. LEO B.

There are many scriptures teaching and emphasizing unity. The blessings which follow union are numerous. "Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!" (Ps. 133: 1.) It is good and pleasant to have unity in the family; the peaceful fruits of righteousness may be enjoyed in such unity. It is good and pleasant to have unity in the nation; peace and prosperity abound where all national affairs are harmonious. It is good and pleasant to have unity in the church; the welfare and happiness depend upon brethren dwelling together in unity. God, Christ, and the Holy Spirit have all emphasized the blessings of unity.

The opposite of unity is division. As sure as blessings follow unity, curses follow division and strife. The need of union implies that division exists. Every scripture and exhortation for unity condemns division. When Christ commands unity, he at the same time condemns division. Every command for unity is a condemnation upon division. The great multitude of blessings that attend unity are blighted by division. Division destroys the fruits of unity and breaks asunder the bonds of peace. We are taught to give diligence "to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace." This scripture rebukes every one who would give encouragement to division contrary to the will of God.

To emphasize the fearfulness and awfulness of division, Paul says: "Now I beseech you, brethren, mark them that are causing the divisions and occasions of stumbling, contrary to the doctrine which ye learned: and turn away from them. For they that are such serve not our Lord Christ, but their own belly; and by their smooth and fair speech they beguile the hearts of the innocent." (Rom. 16: 17, 18.) Again, Paul warned the church at Corinth against divisions: "Now I beseech you, brethren, through the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfected together in the same mind and in the same judgment." (1 Cor. 1: 10.) Again, Paul, in enumerating the works of the flesh, mentions divisions with about fourteen other sins: "Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these: fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, sorcery, enmities, strife, jealousies, wraths, factions, divisions, parties, envyings, drunkenness, revellings, and such like; of which I forewarn you, even as I did forewarn you, that they who practice such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God." (Gal. 5: 19-21.) The above scriptures give us God's condemnation and warning against division. He who is wise and faithful will heed them.

The curses of division are numerous. The adage that says, "In union there is strength," implies that in division there is weakness. Truly, a divided family is at the mercy of the enemy; a divided nation is in the perils of destruction; a divided church or brotherhood is at the mercy of its enemies. There is another motto adopted by one of our States which says: "United, we stand; divided, we fall." This shows the well-recognized weakness and danger that lurks in division. A united church can accomplish the Lord's will, but a divided one brings reproach upon his cause and defeats the plan and purpose of Jehovah. Division destroys the peace of the church and fosters strife and jealousy in the brotherhood. It sets at variance brethren and nullifies the forces of righteousness. Division genders hatred and countermands the law of love. It encourages envy and despises sympathy. It is contrary to the spirit of God and is a great ally with Satan.

It is strange that we who have the truth, we who boast of our following the Bible, have more strife and division than any other people. There is scarcely a church in the brotherhood that has not been marred and scarred by the curses of division. We, who ought to be a united people with the might of the union, are divided and weakened by petty strifes. Our educational institutions have been crippled by the curse of division. The boards of directors and trustees have quarreled and wrangled with each other until they have hindered the progress of our institutions. Brethren have schemed and played politics on the board and faculty until they have brought the institutions into disrepute and defeated the laudable aims of the founders of the institutions. No educational institution in the brotherhood is what it could have been had it not been for the curse of division. The spirit of division is the spirit of the devil; and wherever it goes, blighting curses follow in its wake.

The papers published by the brethren and edited by preachers should be mighty agencies for teaching the truth and building up the churches. There should be sympathetic coöperation with all editors and contributors of all the papers. But, instead of unity and encouragement existing, strife and division curse the efforts. One paper is pitted against another; sometimes a group of papers are against another group; and instead of constructive teaching being presented through the columns, the papers descend to the low level of petty nagging, spiteful thrusting, and ungodly rebuking each other. Sometimes personal feelings or imagined injuries guide the writers and thus mar the message sent through the columns of the press. Again, the curse of division has blighted the hope of the great good that could be done through the press. Why should not every paper published by brethren give a word of encouragement to every brother that sends a message of truth to any paper? Why should not the energies of all our papers be united in the promulgation of the truth?

Why should not all the preachers of the gospel be united in a humble effort to save souls? The curse of division has defeated, to a large measure, the great good that should be accomplished by the many gospel preachers. The preachers, like the papers and school boards, have wrangled and "fussed" with each other until they have destroyed their own influence for good and defeated their mission as gospel preachers. The curse of division has brought them into a state of confusion. "Where jealousy and faction are, there is confusion and every vile deed." (James 3: 16.) This curse of division has affected brethren and sisters until the peace and prosperity of the churches have been destroyed.

Let us return to the old paths. Let us "seek peace, and pursue it." "So then let us follow after things which make for peace, and things whereby we may edify one another." (Rom. 14: 19.) Let us all "follow after peace with all men, and the sanctification without which no man shall see the Lord." (Heb. 12: 14.)

Evangelistic Notes

F. B. Srygley preached on Sunday at Berry's Chapel.

Robert E. Wright reports a fine day at Ontario, Cal., on November 19.

W. F. Lemmons recently closed at Heber Springs, Ark., and is now in Montana.

Two fine services at Russell and Ninth Streets, this city, last Sunday, with two added by statement.

E. O. Coffman, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., preached last Sunday to a good audience at Nolensville, Tenn.

J. W. Dunn writes from Tyler, Texas, November 30: "At our midweek service last night I baptized five—two Methodists, one Catholic, and two young men. One of the number is eighty years of age."

Thomas H. Burton, of Union, S. C., preached at Waverly-Belmont Church, this city, last Sunday morning, and at Lipscomb College at night. He reports that the work in South Carolina is doing well.

Leslie G. Thomas, of Flint, Mich., sends this item of news, which is of interest to the "Sunny South": "We had two good meetings at Speaker yesterday. The evening crowd was cut short by a snowstorm."

W. A. Cameron, Largo, Fla., recently closed a meeting at New Albany, Ind. He also preached a week at Sellersburg, Ind. They have a splendid church at Sellersburg, and they hold Brother Cameron in high esteem.

As Christmas draws near, contributors to the Tennessee Orphans' Home are urged to remember the orphan children. The directors have many applications to receive motherless children into the Home, but are compelled to decline to receive them on account of a lack of funds.

From H. M. Phillips, Chattanooga, Tenn., November 27: "There were two baptisms at the St. Elmo Church yesterday. The interest is growing. I have just closed a meeting at Chickamauga, Ga. Good crowds; one restored. The church there intends to build soon. They need help. Money sent them will be well spent for the cause."

Will J. Cullum, of Rockwood, Tenn., writes: "Our meeting here is doing splendidly. There have been twelve baptisms and one from the Christian Church. Of those baptized, several were from the denominations. We hope for others. I was with the church in East Chattanooga last Lord's day, and will be at Dayton next Lord's day, the Lord willing."

We are now editing and compiling a new song book, entitled "Choice Gospel Hymns." The book is edited by T. B. Mosley, S. P. Pittman, and C. M. Pullias. O. C. Lambert is giving valuable assistance. It is now apparent that this book will be one of the very best books published. We are expecting to have it ready for distribution about the first of March, 1923.

Tice Elkins says: "The meeting at Sabinal, Texas, closed Sunday, with four baptized and some restorations. Those are the best of people; they love God and the preacher who preaches the gospel. They supported me well, and they are supporting this work at Carlsbad all they feel able to do. The church at Sabinal is doing good work, and has a happy future before it if zeal and good judgment are allowed to rule."

The Gospel Advocate appreciates very much the following bouquet, tossed us by Emmett G. Creacy, of Horse Cave, Ky., which is fragrant with Christian love and fellowship: "Permit me to say that I value the Gospel Advocate above every paper I get—and I get nearly all our papers, too. May God bless the work. Hew to the dear old apostolic line of survey, and long live the Advocate! It has been coming to the Creacy home since its very beginning."

Lee Sanders, of Wellington, Texas, writes: "Our work here continues to show signs of improvement. Splendid crowds at both services yesterday, also a good crowd at Wilnuler Schoolhouse in the afternoon. I think we are all learning to love the Lord better and to appreciate each other more. A good spirit prevails among the members, and most of them are willing to do what they can to assist in the work. A goodly number of young folks attend our services and seem to be interested. Our prospects were never better."

From J. G. Malphurs, Clarksville, Tenn., December 1: "The work in these parts is very encouraging. A two-weeks' tent meeting at Adams, with Brother Nicks to lead the songs, resulted in a congregation of twenty-one members being established. Bible-drill work and cottage prayer meetings will be carried on during the winter. Members of the churches at Oakwood, New Providence, and Clarksville surprised us with a Thanksgiving shower of good things to eat and dry goods. Our hearts are thankful and we are encouraged to do greater things."

Since I have been president of the board of directors of the Tennessee Orphans' Home, the largest amount contributed in any one year for the support of the Home was fifteen thousand one hundred and forty-one dollars, which was contributed in 1920. The smallest amount donated in one year was eight thousand nine hundred and fifty-one dollars, which was given in 1922. The management of the institution is anxious to make up the deficit. How many will mail one hundred dollars each as a Christmas gift to the orphans? Make all checks payable to Tennessee Orphans' Home, Columbia, Tenn.

R. D. Smith, of Wichita Falls, Texas, writes, November 27: "John W. Straiton, of Fort Worth, spent the day with us yesterday. He has been on business in these parts for several days, and as he was held over Sunday in these parts, we made the best of the opportunity. Brother Straiton spent the day in our home and preached at both hours, to the delight of all who heard him. His sermons were full of the most splendid instruction and at the same time highly inspirational. We are always pleased to have Brother Straiton visit with us, both in the home and in the church. The meetings were all well attended. The Bible classes were large and interesting, and the attendance at both preaching hours was some better than usual, and this means large audiences."

J. C. Hollis, of San Angelo, Texas, gives us this report: "In the summer of 1921 I conducted a meeting at Union, Ala., three miles from Anderson, which resulted in three baptisms (two from the Methodist Church). This past summer I was there in another meeting, and had eleven confessions. Before this the gospel had never been preached in its fullness at that place. They only have three male members, and they are struggling trying to erect a church home. Thus far they have the framework up, and have the other material ordered. The surrounding congregations are helping in this work, yet they are in need of funds to meet the bills that are now due. Any one who would like to have a part in this good work may send his donation to Robert Townsend, Anderson, Ala."

With the help of E. L. Cambron and J. J. Reynolds, a congregation of about fifty members has been organized in what is known as Hosiery Mill Addition, a mission point near Winchester, Tenn. The Methodists granted them use of their house, which they are not using, until their number began to grow. Since they locked them out one month ago they have had their Lord's-day services in a residence with very crude seating arrangements. They have secured a lot with the restrictive clause, and have three hundred dollars subscribed for a building to cost about eight hundred and fifty dollars. Although their number is increasing, they are all poor and compelled to ask other congregations for help. If you can make a donation, it will be appreciated and do untold good. Send to J. O. Ledbetter, Winchester, Tenn.

J. O. Barnes, 2111 Broward Avenue, West Palm Beach, Fla., writes: "I am sad to say that the meeting which we had planned to hold in West Palm Beach, with Willis H. Allen to do the preaching and J. E. Derryberry as song leader, and for which I had been asking funds with which to support the meeting, is called off indefinitely because of the strange fact that the city would not allow a tent of any kind erected in her limits, except those in the camping grounds for use of the tourists. This I did not know until recently, when I began to investigate for a lot on which to place our tent. Then I resolved to get a hall in the city for that purpose; but after a week's effort to do so, sifting every prospect until the end had been reached, and finding none that could be obtained, every hope of holding the meeting was blotted out, and nothing was left for us to do but to call it off. All funds collected for that purpose will be refunded to the donors unless we are instructed to use them in other channels of mission work. We sincerely thank all those who so readily answered our call for fellowship in the work."

J. Porter Sanders preached at Rural Hill on Sunday to a large audience.

C. D. Crouch had good crowds at both services at Ashland City, Tenn., last Sunday.

B. D. Morehead preached at New Shops, this city, last Sunday, to two good audiences.

J. A. Hudson gives us this news from Memphis, Tenn.: "Our audiences are increasing steadily and surely at Herbert Avenue. We had two wonderful services yesterday. You may look for great things in the life of this church. Additions all along, and a high interest in all meetings."

Emmett G. Creacy, of Horse Cave, Ky., says: "The meeting at Union No. 5, in Barren County, closed on Sunday night. The brethren were persuaded to meet regularly to keep house for the Master. Prospects are favorable now that good will be accomplished for the cause in the community."

From H. C. Denson, Fairmont, W. Va.: "H. T. Dotson has just closed a good meeting here. Only one person was baptized, but the meeting was well attended and the interest far surpassed that of all other meetings recently held in this section of the country. Brother Dotson preaches the truth in love and with power. He truly ranks among our strongest preachers in his ability to handle his themes. He deserves the help and coöperation of brethren wherever he labors."

J. O. Barnes, of West Palm Beach, Fla., sends the following: "I have just returned from Cane Slough, a small 'pioneer' tent village, ten miles from the railroad and forty-seven miles from West Palm Beach, where I held a short meeting and set to work a small congregation of New Testament Christians to worship on the first day of the week. There was only one member there when I went. We had a fine interest during the meeting. The mission here is doing well. We have a fine little band of worshipers who will continue the work, though it becomes necessary for me to leave for my home in Lake City on December 1; but I will continue my mission work in destitute places as much as conditions will permit. Pray for me and the work of the Lord."

Our good friend and fellow worker, Ira L. Winterrowd, sends this report from Cordell, Okla.: "The work in Western Oklahoma Christian College moves along smoothly. This is the second year of our efforts to maintain the Christian education work in this State under the new arrangement. We have enrolled over two hundred and thirty students this semester. Our high school and two years (sixty hours) of college work has been approved by the State Board of Education. All our students, therefore, get credits in other colleges and universities of the first rank. All our students study the Bible, for which they receive full credits. We are glad to note that the Bible work done in the schools is beginning to come to the forefront as acceptable academic work. All the Christian people everywhere should rejoice and assist in the greater spread of the gospel."

William W. Still writes from Cordell, Okla., November 28: "The fourth Lord's day in October was a great day for the church of Christ in Cordell. There were three hundred in the Lord's-day Bible study when the record was made. Twenty-five or more were late to their classes and were not present when the counting was done. We had many friendly visitors at the eleven-o'clock services. A total of more than five hundred and forty persons attended church that day. Some suggested that the number is about one-third of the people of Cordell according to the United States numbering. J. F. Smith, of the Orphans' Home in Texas, preached here in Cordell last Monday night. On the first Lord's day in December I will preach at the Read Bluff School. Brethren, if you need my services in a meeting in 1923, in Alabama or Tennessee, in July, write me at Cordell, Okla., Route 2."

The following is from Frank Grammer, of Hackett, Ark.: "At this writing (November 23) I am at Valley View church of Christ, near Hackett, teaching a normal singing school for the brethren here. Much interest is being manifested by the church here, and we are having a great school. If J. B. Nelson fails to reach the people here next summer with his preaching, this class will sing the gospel into them. My school at North Salem, Mo., closed on November 4. It was a good school, considering the rainy weather, and I left a contract with them for another school for next summer. I arrived at Mena, Ark., on November 8, and found H. G. Barnett there holding a protracted meeting. The meeting closed on November 19, with seven baptisms and two restored to fellowship. The church at Mena has had a hard struggle, and we thank God for this good meeting and take courage. We ask the brethren to remember us in their prayers, that we may soon be able to build us a good house in a desirable place in town."

John T. Underwood, of Spruce Pine, Ala., writes as follows: "I am sixty-seven years old. Have been reading the Gospel Advocate fifty years. It is a gem in our family. I examined the Quarterlies. They are the best. With such men as F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley as editors, we could not expect anything but the best. Our congregation uses them to great profit. Some have written me personal letters wanting to know why I do not report to the Advocate. I had a stroke of paralysis after preaching two sermons the first Lord's day in July of this year, in my left side, and have been confined to my room ever since. I am glad to say I am improving some. I can walk about in the house, with the help of a stick. I have been preaching about forty years, and have endeavored all these long years to find the old paths and walk therein, in which alone the Lord promises to bless his people. It is a comfort and consolation to me in my old age to know I have been loyal. May the Lord bless all the loyal and faithful in Christ."

W. F. Lemmons, writing from Buffalo, Mont., November 24, says: "The meeting closed at Heber Springs last Lord's-day night, with no visible results, but good interest. The weather conditions were bad, and part of the time we were rained out. I was asked to return. My home was with Brother and Sister Miller. Brother Miller seems to be the 'pillar in the church.' This is a health resort, and the springs are another of the many demonstrations of the wisdom of God in creation. Three springs in a ten-foot-square basement of concrete—one sulphur, one iron, and one arsenic. About fifty yards distant there are three more, and about the same distance two others, all different minerals. They come up out of the ground in the level park, some fifty to one hundred yards from the quick rise of the mountain. I left Heber Springs on Monday morning for this place (Buffalo), and will preach here until over Lord's day, and then go to Moore, Mont., twenty-five miles north of here, to begin on Monday night. Here I hope to establish a loyal congregation and a mission and place a man here for the work in this part of the State. This is all to try for. Brethren, pray for our success in this effort. I am faced with cold and snow. A recent snow, much of which is still on the ground, was said to have been eighteen inches. This is hard on a man's wearing apparel. I expect to return to the South within ten days or two weeks. We have a small congregation nine miles out from Buffalo."

A LIST OF NASHVILLE ADVERTISERS.

Attention is called to our Nashville advertisers. The Gospel Advocate takes pleasure in commending them as being perfectly reliable and strictly honorable. They will appreciate your business. When you call on them, tell them you saw their ad. in the Gospel Advocate. In order that our readers may have them in mind, a catalogue of the firms and individuals is here submitted:

American National Bank.
Broadway National Bank.
State Bank and Trust Company.
Farmers and Merchants' Bank.
The Central National Bank.
Timothy Dry Goods Company.
Caster-Knott Dry Goods Company.
Cain-Sloan Company.
L. A. Bauman Company.
Freed and Hardeman College.
Geny Brothers (Flowers).
Hilary E. House (Furniture).
Hirshberg Brothers.
N. B. Hardeman ("Tabernacle Sermons").
Frank R. Jones (Barber).
Fred K. Jones (Real Estate).
Life and Casualty Insurance Company.
McEwen's Laundry.
Perry Furniture Company.
Stief Jewelry Company.
M. F. Shea (Pianos).
White Trunk and Bag Company.
Washington Manufacturing Company.
Chris Contos (Restaurant and Barber Shop).

Home Reading

The Torch Bearers.

An old man, going a lone highway,
Came at the evening, cold and gray,
To a chasm vast and deep and wide.
The old man crossed in the twilight dim,
The sullen stream had no fear for him;
But he turned when safe on the other side
And built a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man," said a fellow pilgrim near,
"You are wasting your strength with building here;
You never again will pass this way;
You've crossed the chasm deep and wide—
Why build you this bridge at evening tide?"

The builder lifted his old, gray head.
"Good friend, in the path I have come," he said,
"There followeth after me to-day
A youth whose feet must pass this way.
This chasm has been as naught to me,
To that fair youth may a pitfall be;
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim.
Good friend, I am building this bridge for him."
—Selected.

* * *

Jek's Boot Linings.

It was the time of gathering in the harvest of boot linings. Boot linings? Yes, warm, soft linings that let in neither wet nor cold.

In a weather-stained hut hidden up behind Uyak, which is in that part of Alaska that looks across to the great volcanoes, lives Jek, a small member of a big Eskimo family. Gathering boot linings is this family's principal occupation, the boots being of sealskin and the linings of elder.

As it is along the cliffs below Jek's father's hut where the king eiders nest, it is, of course, out in those dangerous places that the harvest is reaped. Out beyond the flats where the beach rye grows thick and softly luxuriant the rocks sheer away into the sea, and there grow mussels by the millions and millions; and if you know that mussels form the elder's chief article of diet, when he can get them, then you also know that these birds would rather risk being caught by Jek's father than move farther inland away from the mussel beds.

Jek is still a boy. He always knew that as soon as he grew big enough he must learn to go over the cliffs in the knotted ropes and help his father bring in the boot linings.

One day unexpectedly his father said to him: "Jek, my little son, I don't feel just well enough to go down for the birds, and yet the baskets must be filled. So what do you say about making a start at the business?"

"Of course, father. Just try me!" exclaimed Jek, eager to have his skill and bravery tested.

"Good! But first, you know, to do this work, you must have strong hands, steady hands. That is for clinging to the roots of the bushes and the very faces of the cliffs sometimes. Then you must have good sense in your feet, for they must find a place to stand on, even when it is not more than an inch."

"Yes, father," laughed Jek. "I have the right hands and feet. See! I climb up and down the little hills every day."

"But one thing still more important, Jek. You must have a cool head and know what to do when you can neither get up nor down nor stay in one spot. You must know how to make a way to save yourself. Otherwise it is good-by, Jek, for us all."

"I know that, father. Still, I can only wait and see what will happen. Maybe I can think of the right thing to do."

"Maybe you can. Well, come along. I shall be at the top ledge all the time, and you can call out to me if there is danger."

Jek went over the first great projection and into the first hollow. He slipped along so quietly that birds were being caught by the dozens before the others began to fly about in fighting array. He was dropping them down to a lower ledge of rock; and when he thought there were enough to take up to his father, he began to slide after them. It was a thrilling descent, for the side of the cliff bulged out, and once he got started he went swiftly. It was like sliding from the ridgepole of a slanting roof and expecting to stop where the shingles ended. That is what Jek did. There were roots of bushes to cling to and the steady ropes. Still, it was a ride that made Jek's heart stand still while it lasted. He got back his breath, picked up the birds and placed them in the baskets, and then gave the signal to his father that he was coming up.

The root of an old bush reached out and entangled him. That was the way he thought it happened. Anyway, he was jerked free from the ropes and held in air for a moment. The rope was far above his head, but he began a frantic scramble to reach it. His foot slipped. The whole face of the cliff came away with him, and he found himself again at the ledge.

"Father will have to come down and get me," said the boy ruefully, ashamed to have his first day's work spoiled. He began to shout. He shouted louder and louder, the very loudest he could. Silence, except for the angry birds above him and the angry waters beneath him, answered his call.

"I must have a cool head and know what to do when I can neither get up nor down nor stay in one spot," he repeated.

Looking below, he shuddered. The leap was too far. Up, then, he must get, somehow. He found footholds, grasped at bits of rocks, small roots, and ascended slowly, wearily, to the first bulge. There he was stopped. He realized that no one could go up or down that shining rock without ropes, and there still dangled out beyond his reach the means of saving himself. A foot beyond, and yet that foot seemed a mile.

"I must know how to make a way to save myself," he was saying over and over again.

He was holding with stiff fingers to a small crack. Birds were coming in to their nests again, seeing him so powerless to do them harm. He reached out suddenly, grasped a mother bird, and held her at arm's length out to the rope. Her beak closed upon it. He swung her deftly back, grasped the rope, and came presently up over the cliff side to where his father lay waiting.

"How long you were, Jek! It should not take you half the time to gather these," the man said, looking into the basket. "What were you doing?"

Jek laughed before he answered: "I was doing the best I knew how with my hands, feet, and head, father."

"And why have you brought the mother bird up here alive like that?"

"I wish to make a pet of her," said Jek. "You see, she pulled the rope in for me when I couldn't reach it, and there was no way to get up to you nor down to the beach."

"Well, that's all right, my brave Jek. You were brave, I know, when you faced danger, else you could not be laughing now."

"I was laughing at the name I will call my pet bird, father," said Jek. "My 'Boot Linings!' Isn't that a good name?"

"A fine one," agreed Jek's father; and he laughed, too.—The Congregationalist.

* * *

A pearl is the garment of patience wrapped around an annoyance.—B. C. Clausen.

* * *

Never suffer an exception to occur till the new habit is rooted in your life.—William James.

Texas-Oklahoma Department

By C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

The Church Does Not Save.

BY C. R. N.

The popular evangelist, advertised as a great Bible scholar, in a large measure molds the minds of the people along religious lines, and many of his statements are accepted as Bible truths, when, in fact, they may be no more than mere figments of his own mind. In his bid for the heartiest coöperation from all who are religiously inclined, he insists that membership in the church is not necessary to the salvation of any one—that "the church does not save."

If the preacher meant to teach that the church does not pardon sins, the church does not wash away sins committed against Jehovah, the church does not make one an heir of God, such statement would be correct; but this is not what is meant by his statement.

There is a sense in which the church does save people. It should ever be remembered that God saves, God pardons, God remits sins; yet man is said to save himself. Paul saved people. Hear his affirmation: "I am become all things to all men, that I may by all means save some." (1 Cor. 9: 22.) How or in what sense did Paul save people? He taught them the truth. In the hands of God, he was an instrument in leading people to God, who pardoned; and to do this work God, called and sent him, as is clearly set forth in the call of Paul. To him the Lord said: "Delivering thee from the people, and from the Gentiles, unto whom I send thee, to open their eyes, that they may turn [or, turn them] from darkness to light and from the power of Satan unto God." (Acts 26: 17, 18.) In writing of his work, Paul declares that he would not make mention of any work, save only that which God wrought through him. Hear him: "For I will not dare to speak of any things save those which Christ wrought through me." (Rom. 15: 18.) Every faithful child of God is a worker with God. (2 Cor. 6: 1.) As instruments in God's hands, we may teach people the truth, lead them to Christ, and of us it may be said that we saved them. The same thought is expressed in the exhortation to Timothy that he be faithful: "Take heed to thyself, and to thy teaching. Continue in these things; for in doing this thou shalt save both thyself and them that hear thee." (1 Tim. 4: 16.) So men to-day can and do save in the same sense.

The church in the discharge of her duty has the gospel preached. She sends men forth and supports them in the work of teaching people what to do to be saved, and in this sense may be said to save people.

This is not what is meant when people declare that "the church does not save;" rather, they mean that there is no need that one be a member of the church, so far as his salvation is concerned.

The Holy Spirit calls the church "the house of God." "But if I tarry long, that thou mayest know how men ought to behave themselves in the house of God, which is the church of the living God." (1 Tim. 3: 15.) What is meant by the word "house" as used in this passage? In the history of the conversion of the jailer it is said that after his baptism he "rejoiced greatly, with all his house." (Acts 16: 34.) Surely it is understood that by his house is meant his household—those composing his family. "The house of Onesiphorus" (2 Tim. 4: 19) was, of course, his household. So the "house of God" as used by Timothy must have reference to the children of God, the household of God. It must follow, then, that if one is saved without being in the church, he is saved without being in the house of God—the household of God.

In writing to those who were saved "by grace" (Eph. 2: 5), Paul says: "Ye are no more strangers and sojourners, but ye are fellow citizens with the saints, and of the household of God" (Verse 19). In this it is clearly stated that those saved "by grace" are of the "household of God." The household of God is the church of God. To contend that one is saved without being in the church is to teach that one can be saved without being in the household of God; but if one can be saved without being in the household of God, he can be saved without being a child of God, unless God has children who are not in his household. The church does not pardon sins, but the church is the saved; it is that number saved by grace.

The church is the body of Christ. "He is the head of the body, the church." (Col. 1: 18.) Christ is the Savior of the body. "For the husband is the head of the wife, as Christ also is the head of the church, being himself the Savior of the body." (Eph. 5: 23.) If one is saved without being one of the church, he is saved without being one of the body of which Christ is the Savior. In the eighteenth chapter of Acts is found a short history of Paul's visit to Corinth. Later in his life he addressed a letter to "the church of God in Corinth." (1 Cor. 1: 2.) In this letter is the following, which I ask that you read carefully: "Now I make known unto you, brethren, the gospel which I preached unto you, which also ye received, wherein also ye stand, by which also ye are saved." (1 Cor. 15: 1, 2.) Paul declares the ones addressed as "the church" in Corinth "received" the gospel. What did they do in receiving the gospel? Touching this matter, there is no need that we speculate, for by reference to the history of Paul's preaching as given by Luke we may find just what they did. "And many of the Corinthians hearing believed, and were baptized." (Acts 18: 8.) Inasmuch as Luke says they heard, believed, and were baptized, and Paul says they "received" the gospel and were saved by it, it must follow that all who receive the gospel hear, believe, and are baptized. But Paul says of those in Corinth who "received" the gospel, that they were "the church of God" in Corinth. It must follow, then, that whoever receives the gospel will be one of the church of God; and if one is saved without being in the church of God, he is saved without the gospel; but if one is saved without receiving the gospel, he is saved without the power of God unto salvation, for the gospel is the power of God unto salvation. "For I am not ashamed of the gospel: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." (Rom. 1: 16.)

Publishers' Items.

"Civil Government"—Its Origin, Mission, and Destiny, and the Christian's Relations to It. By David Lipscomb. This book is the outgrowth of the author's most matured thoughts on this subject. Attractively bound. Pages, 158. Price, $1.

"The People's New Testament, with Notes." (Two volumes.) By B. W. Johnson. A splendid commentary, comprising the entire New Testament. Volume I., four Gospels and Acts; Volume II., Epistles and Revelation. Price, per volume, postpaid, $2.50.

"Salvation from Sin." By David Lipscomb. This book is composed of the editorials of David Lipscomb, collated by J. W. Shepherd, and contains many of the best and most profound thoughts of its author. It contains an index to subjects and an index to scriptures. Cloth; 440 large pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

Order from the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

THE HOME OF NASHVILLE'S BIG GIFT STORE

With the Busy Christmas Shopping Season at Hand

NASHVILLE'S BIG GIFT STORE

Is Prepared to Serve You for Your Every Need

Christmas, the glad time of the year, is now near at hand—when every heart is stirred, when the spirit of good feeling becomes boundless, when those united by bonds of affection sound the depths of devotion through tokens of esteem.

To make the selection an act of pleasure, as well as the giving, is one of the ideals this big store has striven to attain. The bounteous stocks of every department are chosen with great care.

The assortments are so diversified and complete that the smallest toy for the curly-headed baby or the massive gift for the home can be selected with entire satisfaction.

OUR SHOP-BY-MAIL SERVICE

Out-of-town patrons will find this service a great convenience. Expert shopper in charge to select your needs with the same care as if you were here yourself in person. Orders promptly filled. Satisfaction guaranteed.

CAIN-SLOAN CO.

"THE STORE THAT ALWAYS HAS WHAT IT ADVERTISES"

NASHVILLE Fifth Avenue at Church Street TENNESSEE

STAMMERING CURED

YOUR MONEY BACK IF NOT SATISFIED. Here are the names and addresses of prominent people to whom you may write and learn if we really do cure stammering: Rev. Quincy Ewing, Napoleonville, La.; J. Q. Mahaffey, attorney, Texarkana, Texas; W. W. Callahan, attorney, Decatur, Ala.; any bank or pastor of any church in Tyler. Many other names furnished on request.

SCHOOL FOR STAMMERERS, TYLER, TEXAS

Because our Savior is invisible is no sign he cannot speak to us or hear what we say to him. Long years ago did we not all hear our mother's voice coming up the stairway where we were afraid of the dark in our little bed? Did not our father speak and quiet our fears? So our Father in heaven speaks; we hear him and are content.—Exchange.

Any system of school training which sharpens and strengthens the intellectual powers without at the same time affording a source of restraint and countercheck to their tendency to evil is a curse rather than a blessing.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Field Reports

Prescott, Ark., December 1.—I am back at this place trying to encourage the brethren to do greater things for the Lord. More than fifty worshiped with us at the courthouse last Sunday. We are planning to build soon. The "digressives" are strong here and against us, but the Lord is for us; and if he be for us, who can be against us? I will be here another week helping in this work.—J. Clifford Murphy.

Buffalo, W. Va., Route 1, November 27.—I am still keeping up the Lord's-day meetings at a sacrifice of health and comfort. I can never get well, if my brethren do not furnish the means of cure. If they do not do so, there is no hope for me. I think I deserve this help after forty years' apostolic mission work among the poor people of the South. Please send me an offering without delay. I can use checks or money orders.—F. P. Fonner.

Stephenville, Texas, November 13.—Brother Foy E. Wallace, Jr., closed a meeting here on October 30. The gospel was preached. Large audiences attended, except in bad weather, and then more people came than could ordinarily be expected. One from Dublin and eleven here were baptized, two were restored, one came from the Christian Church, and about fifteen took membership. We were glad to have Brother Wallace with us.—T. H. Etheridge.

Springfield, Mo., December 1.—I closed at Wichita, Kan., on November 19, with seven additions and large and inspiring audiences—on two occasions the largest that had ever assembled at the meeting place. After a pleasant visit home, I began at Oldfield, Mo., on November 24, to continue till December 5. Good is being accomplished, but growth is slow. I specialized last year on the "digressive" movement; this year I am giving a course on "Holiness." I go from here to Hutton Valley, Mo., to begin on December 9.—M. S. Mason.

Maysville, Okla., November 26.—Since my last report I have held meetings at Yeager, Roda, and Brady. I started a nice little band to work at Yeager, where the brethren said none of our preachers had preached for years. The Holiness people had had that place for a long time. The interest is increasing very much at Maysville. We had a fine crowd at our Bible study and communion services on Sunday morning, and I preached to a large and attentive crowd at night, and one brother who had been out of duty came back. Brother Hickerson, from Maud, Okla., has also located with us, which, I think, will be a great help.—J. D. Matthews.

BOILS Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

SERMONS, SERMON MATERIAL, AND COMMENTARIES

CENTER SHOTS AT SIN.

Abernethy, Arthur Talmage.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.75

An arsenal of religious ammunition, assembled by a strategist experienced in fighting uphill. A book penned with a plume of experience, dipped in the heart's blood of a preacher who has met sin, who has accepted its challenge to combat on the field of action. The author is a strong and virile thinker; his style, clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eye opener.

THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL.

Adcock, Adam K.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

"No one except a thorough and devout student of the Scriptures could have written 'The Glorious Gospel.' The author shows excellent analytic and synthetic power and knowledge in the selection and organization of the biblical teaching on the various subjects treated."—Christian Journal.

SERMONS FOR THE PEOPLE.

Book, W. H.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.40

Few books of sermons combine the qualities of interest, instruction, and inspiration to the degree in which they are united in this volume. The author is a master in the field of popular sermonizing, and some of his best work is to be found in this collection. There is not a dull page in the book. The text fairly sparkles with original and apt narratives.

COLUMBUS TABERNACLE SERMONS, VOLUME I.

Book, W. H.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.40

The gospel is always attractive when presented by W. H. Book. It is a message that never fails to quicken into action the reader's mind and heart. This author's well-known powers of oratory, his profound grasp of the teachings of Jesus and his apostles, his fearlessness in condemning wrong and error, his virile, forceful style, and his unique personality, are well preserved in every line. These sermons were not written in a study, but were stenographically reported as the burning words were uttered by this master preacher, under the inspiration of the great audience which flocks to hear him every week.

COLUMBUS TABERNACLE SERMONS, VOLUME II.

Book, W. H.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.40

A companion volume to the author's first book of sermons. Reported in the same way and published because of the unusual demand the first volume created.

THE INDIANA PULPIT.

Edited by W. H. Book.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.40

This series of twenty-two practical sermons, each discourse being the best one preached by as many leading Indiana preachers, presents vital Christianity in a most attractive way. The author has condensed, with unusual discrimination and taste, the message of such widely-known preachers as Z. T. Sweeney, James Small, T. J. Legg, etc. A photograph and brief biography of each contributor precede every chapter.

"The Indiana Pulpit" will be especially helpful to young preachers. The topics are varied and the discourses are from men of learning and experience. It will make each who reads it better, and it will strengthen the faith of all who carefully peruse its pages."—George A. Miller.

LIGHTS ON SCRIPTURE TRUTHS.

(Former title, "Side Windows.")

Boteler, Mattie M.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.00

A valuable ready-reference compendium of original, forceful, and apt illustrations for the busy preacher, Sunday-school teacher, and religious worker. The striking originality and practical usefulness of each illustration puts this volume in a class all by itself. A carefully prepared topical index and alphabetically arranged table of contents add greatly to its usefulness. Its distinct value is that the author has followed the example of the great Teacher in illustrating profound truths by examples familiar to all. "I found one illustration that was well worth the price of the book."—S. M. Bernard.

SERMON NOTES FROM THE MINISTRY OF JESUS.

Boteler, Mattie M.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.65

In this new collection of decidedly fresh and suggestive material on the life of Christ we have a forceful and significant book, which will prove invaluable to young ministers, teachers and church workers in general. Miss Boteler, a graceful and original writer, has presented a study of the life of Christ from an entirely new point of view, so arranged as to make it a complete worker's companion and encyclopedia on the teachings of the Master. Her work is always eagerly awaited by ministers and Christian workers.

SOUL-SAVING REVIVAL SERMONS.

Brandt, John L.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.35

A series of nineteen thought-provoking, evangelistic sermons by one of the most eminent preachers of the day. These sermons relate the principles of Christianity to the everyday life with a keen insight and sympathetic understanding. They are educational in plan, evangelistic in tone, virile in thought, and vigorous in expression. Just the book for the minister who wishes to foster and develop the revival spirit in himself and his congregation.

THE GOSPEL PLAN OF SALVATION.

Brents, Dr. T. W.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid.....$2.00

Eight editions have been sold. This book is too well known to need commendation from us. It embraces in its compass the following all-important themes: Predestination, Election, and Reprobation; Calvinistic Proofs Examined; The Foreknowledge of God; Hereditary Depravity; Establishment of the Church; Identity of the Church; The New Birth; Faith; Repentance; The Confession; Baptism—What Is It? Who Should Be Baptized? The Design of Baptism; The Holy Spirit.

GOSPEL SERMONS.

Brents, Dr. T. W.

Cloth, 440 large pages. Price, postpaid, $2.00

These sermons are written in the author's well-known strong, clear, and convincing style. The subjects discussed are: The Mission of John the Baptist; The Sonship of Christ; The Commission; The Conversion of the Jailer; Types and Antitypes; Shadows and Substances; Salvation of the Hebrews from Bondage; The Tabernacle; Freedom from Sin; Justification; Regeneration; The Transfiguration; Paul's Charge to Timothy; A Reason for the Christian's Hope; Zeal Without Knowledge; Paul's Natural Man; The Divine Nature in the Christian; Excuses; The Origin, Mission, and Destiny of Angels; The Millennium; Church Organization; Conditional Salvation.

ILLUSTRATIVE INCIDENTS FOR PUBLIC SPEAKERS.

Brown, Will H.

Cloth, 12mo. Illust'd. Price, postpaid, $1.75

This voluminous collection of entirely new illustrations will be an invaluable aid to all public speakers, and especially to those who are contemplating entering upon the public forum. It is a guide to public oratory, as well as a collection of apt and original illustrations. The author's marked success as a speaker, as well as a writer, is quite sufficient guarantee of the superior value of this book.

One authority says: "The book is very rich in classified illustrations of the sort that can really be used."

WIT AND HUMOR FOR PUBLIC SPEAKERS.

Brown, Will H.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.75

A collection of bright, breezy, brief, humorous anecdotes and stories alphabetically classified under subjects, with a careful index. As original, fresh, and usable as its companion volume, "Illustrative Incidents for Public Speakers."

"The finest collection of pointed stories and witticisms I have ever seen."—H. H. Peters.

POEMS OF PEP AND POINT FOR PUBLIC SPEAKERS.

Brown, Will H.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.75

The great demand to-day is for the practical, pointed, peppy presentation of whatever idea the speaker may wish to emphasize. This book has been prepared with the up-to-date public speaker in mind, although any one who likes poetry will enjoy it as well. It contains about six hundred carefully selected poems, including many by Edgar A. Guest, Amos R. Wells, Edmund Vance Cook, Wilbur D. Nesbit, etc. Arranged in alphabetical order, ninety-six subjects are treated—from Achievement and Activity to Worry and Zeal. Most of the selections are from the pens of poets who have caught the spirit of present world conditions, making the book one of the most timely and usable of the day.

PATRIOTIC ILLUSTRATIONS FOR PUBLIC SPEAKERS.

Brown, Will H.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.75

In harmony with the new spirit in the world, this volume has been prepared, covering every possible phase of the new patriotism. In addition to the index, with a classification of about eighty subjects, will be found cross-references giving a still wider use of the many illustrations here assembled.

POPULAR LECTURES AND ADDRESSES.

Campbell, Alexander.

Cloth. Price, postpaid.....$3.00

A series of twenty-seven notable lectures on patriotic, religious, social, and educational themes. Here one finds, as perhaps nowhere else, an exhibition of the wonderful range of Mr. Campbell's knowledge.

THE CHRISTIAN SYSTEM.

Campbell, Alexander.

Cloth, 12mo. 383 page. Price, postpaid, $1.25

A work in reference to the union of Christians and a restoration of primitive Christianity as pleaded in the current reformation. This is the work so often cited by the denominational friends as the "creed" of the disciples of Christ. It is in no true sense of the word a creed, but it is a treatise on the Christian system by one of the ablest scholars and boldest and most original thinkers which the eighteenth century produced. One should thoroughly master the contents of this volume before claiming to understand the position and teaching of Mr. Campbell as a religious reformer. Its right to a place, therefore, in the library of our ministers and Bible students is apparent. The more Mr. Campbell's writings have been studied in the light of God's word, the more they will be appreciated. While the very suggestion that he is in any sense the head of the church with which Christians stand identified is repugnant to all right-thinking people, it is quite true that his character as a great reformer in religious history is indisputable. Certainly the writings of no uninspired man are more worthy of careful study.

CHRISTIAN BAPTISM.

Campbell, Alexander.

Half leather, 12mo. 444 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

I. B. Bradley, the well-known debater, says of this volume: "'Christian Baptism,' by Alexander Campbell, is a very valuable work, in my estimation. I have used it to a very great advantage in my discussions with various sectarian debaters. Like all of the author's works, it goes to the bottom of the matter. Since he had so many controversies on the question of baptism, he left no stone unturned to get at the truth. It should have a wide circulation among the brethren, and especially should be in the study of every preacher of the church of Christ."

IMMERSION.

The Act of Christian Baptism.

Christian, John T.

Price, postpaid.....$1.00

This book was written by a Baptist preacher and scholar. It contains twenty-nine chapters, and covers the history of sprinkling.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

SERMONS, SERMON MATERIAL, AND COMMENTARIES

THE RELATIONS OF GOD TO THE WORLD.

Christopher, Hiram, A.M., M.D.

Cloth, 192 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.00

There are too few people, comparatively, who appreciate the beauty and strength of those evidences found in what men are pleased to term "natural theology." Strike out the Bible, destroy every line that has been written about God from time immemorial, and still he walks unchallenged upon the face of the earth and forces his way into the hearts of men. God's witness is everywhere. Christopher's book on the "Relations of God to the World" helps us wonderfully to appreciate this sublime fact.

THE CHRIST OF THE CHURCH.

Coombs, J. V.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.00

"The sermons all have a 'good gospel ring,' and the lectures deal with practical life problems in a very helpful sort of way. There is much of philosophy and sound doctrine and common sense and striking illustrations in the book. It is good."—The Lookout.

POLYMATHIST.

Cory, E. C.

Price, postpaid.....$2.00

This book contains work on Pastoral Work, Scriptural Exegesis, and Homiletics, with more than one hundred and fifty briefs and skeletons of sermons by ministers of the church of Christ and of other religious bodies.

TOPICAL ILLUSTRATIONS.

Denton, J. E.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

The busy worker will find in this thesaurus of religious object lessons a wealth of material to enliven and adorn his sermon or speech, and press home upon his audience the truths of his discourse. The careful alphabetical arrangement makes this a model collection of illustrations for quick and easy reference. Each illustration has been carefully tested out in the author's own public experience. There is no waste material to be found. It is the seasoned product of a master platform orator tested in the fire of actual experience.

ON THE ROCK.

Dungan, D. R.

Price, postpaid.....$1.50

The one story that more clearly than any other pictures the Restoration movement. In realistic phrase the author tells the tale of a young couple whose domestic happiness is threatened with disaster because of serious differences over religious views. In developing the plot, Mr. Dungan answers the various objections commonly put forth against the Restoration movement, with apt and telling biblical quotations. The recital moves along in a convincing way, and the book is altogether a most appealing and assuring presentation of simple New Testament truths. The story ends in the renewal of domestic peace by a mutual agreement to decide all differences with a "Thus saith the Lord." Thirty-fifth edition now selling.

JESUS CHRIST IN HUMAN EXPERIENCE.

Dutt, Meade E.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

A volume of rare spiritual insight and literary charm. In an introductory Note, admirable for its brevity and clearness, the author says: "I have taken a few New Testament characters and striven to point out where Jesus Christ touched their experiences, believing that human nature remains constant throughout the centuries, and that what was helpful to mankind two thousand years ago should be helpful to-day."

"A book of doctrines and devotions, of ethics and ideals, which will at once satisfy the weaver of dreams and the doer of deeds."—B. A. Abbott.

BIBLE READINGS.

(In two volumes.)

Errett, Isaac.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, each, postpaid....$1.50

Scriptural selections grouped about questions that present themselves to every thinking person. There is no comment whatever. This great writer had a firm conviction that the Bible, when properly studied, was its own best interpreter. This work proves the wisdom and correctness of that conviction. In grouping the Scriptures in this way, Mr.

Errett has rendered a most valuable service to all who wish to study the teachings of the Scriptures on topics of vital interest to Christian growth and world conquest.

THE QUERISTS' DRAWER.

Errett, Isaac.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

A compilation of over three hundred questions and answers on Christian beliefs, doctrines, polity, life, and conduct, with an alphabetically arranged list of subjects and a chronologically arranged list of texts.

EVENINGS WITH THE BIBLE.

Errett, Isaac.

(In three volumes.)

Cloth, 8vo. Price, per volume, postpaid $1.75

This notable work is a consecutive series of historical, devotional, and doctrinal studies of the entire Bible. Beginning with Genesis, the gifted writer gradually unfolds to the reader, in his lucid, graceful, persuasive, and inimitable style, the dealings and purposes of God with man as recorded in the Bible. Under the guidance of this master hand, the Bible becomes a united and carefully planned and executed book, although written in different ages and by different men. For deep spiritual insight, sympathetic understanding, and practical application, this series of biblical studies has few equals.

ORGANIC EVOLUTION CONSIDERED.

Fairhurst, Alfred.

Price, postpaid.....$1.50

Professor Fairhurst has given us the advantage of his great learning in this volume. He deals with these subjects: Matter, Force, Method of Creation, Spontaneous Generation, Natural Selection, Paleontology, Embryology, Special Objections to the Theory of Evolution, Rudimentary Organs, Instinct, Origin of Man, Future Life, Design in Nature, Agnosticism, Genesis and Geology, and Evolution and Miracles.

THEISTIC EVOLUTION.

Fairhurst, Alfred.

Price, postpaid.....$1.25

The contents of this book show its merits. Here they are: God's Method of Working, Evolution, Theistic Evolution, Evolution and the Public School, Natural Selection, Paleontology, Law, God in the World, Miracles, and The Method of Evolution.

THE WORD OF RECONCILIATION.

Floyd, J. D.

Cloth, 231 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.00

This book is well adapted to the masses. It presents the story of salvation in a simple yet attractive manner. The way of salvation is presented to sinner and saint alike, in a way that is neither too profound nor too voluminous for the masses. Its simplicity, clearness, and thoroughness charm the scholarly.

THE GOSPEL PREACHER.

Franklin, Benjamin.

(Thirty-Fourth Edition.)

Two volumes. Price, per volume.....$1.25

These books have had and are still having a wonderful sale. There are twenty sermons in Volume I. and twenty-one sermons in Volume II.

MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY.

Cloth; six volumes. Price, postpaid...$17.50

The greatest preachers of the past two centuries attribute much of their inspiration and usefulness to Matthew Henry's Commentary on the whole Bible. Born in the seventeenth century, his name and his work still live and are household words. Thousands of homes treasure this commentary second only to the Bible, and many a man traces his right start to the loving advice of Matthew Henry.

Charles H. Spurgeon said: "Every minister ought to read Matthew Henry entirely and carefully through at least once. He will acquire a vast store of sermons; and as for thoughts, they will swarm around him like twittering sparrows around an old gable toward the close of autumn." Dr. Philip Schaff, compiler of Schaff's Bible Dictionary, pronounces it "the best practical and devotional commentary for English readers."

EVIDENCES OF PARDON.

Holt, C. E.

Paper cover. 105 pages.

Price.....25 cts.—Per Dozen $2.50

An interesting dialogue. The author has done most splendid work in this little book. It rivets the attention from beginning to end. It has been read with great interest by many.

WHEN JESUS WROTE ON THE GROUND.

Jones, Edgar DeWitt.

Price, postpaid.....$1.50

Studies, Expositions, and Meditations in the Life of the Spirit.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC IN THE WORSHIP.

Kurpees, M. C.

Cloth. 300 pages. Price, postpaid....$1.50

This is the most comprehensive book on this important subject now before the public. In it the Greek verb "psallo" is philologically and historically examined, together with a full discussion of kindred matters relating to music in Christian worship. The book is the result of a lifetime of critical study and research, and has become the standard of information on the music question. It has been highly recommended by scholarly brethren in the church of Christ and in the religious world.

CIVIL GOVERNMENT.

Lipscomb, David.

Cloth. 158 pages. Price, postpaid....$1.00

This book gives the origin, mission, destiny, and the Christian's relation to civil government. It will be better appreciated by future generations as the light of Bible knowledge becomes more general.

COMMENTARY ON ACTS.

Lipscomb, David.

Cloth. 250 pages. Price, postpaid....$1.50

A commentary on the Acts of the Apostles, with questions suited for the use of families and schools. This commentary is especially adapted to the comprehension of the masses of the people. It also contains a chronology of the Acts, map showing Paul's missionary journeys, brief biographies of the apostles, and an introductory chapter on the Holy Spirit.

SALVATION FROM SIN.

Lipscomb, David.

Cloth. 440 large pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50

This book is composed of the editorials of David Lipscomb, collated by J. W. Shepherd, and contains many of the best and most profound thoughts of the author. It contains an index to subjects and index to scriptures. Contains 440 large pages, which are well printed in large, clear type.

ON THE LORD'S DAY.

Lord, J. A.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

A manual for the regular observance of the New Testament ordinances. A series of fifty-two eloquent sermons, twenty-six masterly outlines, fifty-two studies on "Thoughts for the Lord's Supper," baptismal formula, social hints, orders of exercises, forms of benediction, etc., which, altogether, make this work an indispensable handbook for elders, deacons, and active Christian workers. One of the great problems of rural Christianity is the question of keeping the interest in the work alive among members who are isolated. This manual solves that problem.

EUNICE LOYD.

Moody, R. N.

Cloth. 300 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

This book is written in fiction style, and presents the plan of salvation and worship in a most entertaining way. Many who could not be induced to read other books relating to this subject have been easily captivated by the simple, pleasing style of Eunice Loyd. It has deservedly received a wide circulation.

THE MASTERY OF LOVE.

McCulloch, James E.

Price, postpaid.....$1.50

The purpose of this book is to make a study of some conditions through types of society. It is a narrative of settlement life.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

SERMONS, SERMON MATERIAL, AND COMMENTARIES

A NEW COMMENTARY ON ACTS OF APOSTLES.

McGarvey, J. W.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid.....$2.00

A commentary on this great book of the Bible that is original in form, broad in scholarship, and truly conservative. The author's versatility, profound knowledge of the Bible, his skill in arraying evidence, and his sympathy with the divine record combine to make a work of surpassing value and originality.

THE FOURFOLD GOSPEL.

McGarvey, J. W., and Pendleton, P. Y.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$2.25

A harmony of the four Gospels, so arranged as to form a complete chronological life of Christ, divided into titled sections and subdivisions, with comments interjected in the text. The American Standard Version has been used.

STANDARD BIBLE COMMENTARY ON THESSALONIANS, CORINTHIANS, GALATIANS, AND ROMANS.

(A companion volume to "The Fourfold Gospel.")

McGarvey, J. W., and Pendleton, P. Y.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid.....$2.25

The original method of treatment in that standard harmony has been employed in preparing this volume. The commentators have produced in this work a most practical and helpful exposition for the use of all readers of God's word.

BIBLICAL CRITICISM.

McGarvey, J. W.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

In this series of short essays on modern criticism this eminent biblical scholar has prepared a remarkable defense of the Bible. The clear thinking and keen analysis that are so characteristic of all President McGarvey's writings are here found in their highest form. His inexorable logic tears off the mask of learning from the utterances of the enemies of the Bible, reveals their sophistries, and upholds the integrity of the Scriptures in a most able way. Nowhere has this noted author employed his wit, sarcasm, and biblical knowledge so effectively as in this book. It should be in the household of every believer for constant reference.

LANDS OF THE BIBLE.

McGarvey, J. W.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid.....$2.50

An exhaustive guidebook to the geography, topography, and social customs of Palestine. President McGarvey went to Palestine as on a holy pilgrimage. To him every rock and tree, every running brook and sloping hillside was fraught with sacred memories and traditions. He has classified and arranged and presented all this in that graphic, clear-cut, and forceful style for which he was famous. This great work can be used in preparation of every Sunday-school lesson.

SERMONS.

McGarvey, J. W.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

The great sermons of a great preacher. They are models of homiletic effort, strong, able, and instructive. They deal with practical, vital themes which cannot fail to interest every Bible reader. President McGarvey's profound sympathy with their messages, his childlike faith, and his keenly analytic mind made him one of the foremost preachers of his day. This volume happily preserves all these qualities for the use of future generations. Every preacher will gain invaluable inspiration from this master of pulpit oratory.

TRAINING TO TEACH.

Meacham, E. J.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

A topical handbook for Christian workers, made up of forceful, practical, and stimulating thoughts on the vital things of the Christian life and service.

SEEKING THE OLD PATHS.

Moffett, Robert.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

These sermons embody the crystallized thought and reflection of a lifetime. They possess a clearness, a breadth, and an accuracy of scriptural knowledge seldom found in the discourses of the day. They were preached at a time that demanded the most careful reasoning, profound biblical knowledge, and accurate information. Each sermon is a model of concise statement, logical arrangement, and accurate presentation of the gospel requirements of salvation.

SOUND DOCTRINE.

(In two volumes.)

Nichol, C. R., and Whiteside, R. L.

Cloth bound. Price, per vol., postpaid, $1.00

These books are designed for class work, prayer meetings, and home study. Highly commended by all who have used them. A special price of $9.60 is made when ordered in dozen lots.

NICHOL'S BOOKLET, IMPROVED.

Nichol, C. R.

Price, postpaid.....$0.50

A handy compendium on all Bible subjects. Thomas B. Milholland says: "It is the greatest little book to be found, except the Bible." Just fits the vest pocket.

BIBLE TRUTHS ILLUSTRATED.

Pittman, J. C. Ferdinand.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.75

This voluminous collection of illustrated material represents an entirely new idea in works of this kind. The author has gathered his great array of anecdotes with the constant purpose in mind of definitely enforcing Scripture truths. The material has been arranged by numbers under subject headings placed in the book in alphabetical order. This simple plan enables the reader to get at just the illustration he needs in the easiest and quickest way. A cross-reference index completes a very usable and original illustrated aid.

ADDRESSES.

Pritchard, H. E.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

A book of strong sermons by a clear, fresh, and original thinker, including the famous "Pritchard-Terrell Debate." Proposition 1: "Immersion is Essential to Christian Baptism." Mr. Pritchard affirms. Proposition 2: "Infant Children Are Proper Subjects of Baptism." Mr. Terrell affirms. Proposition 3: "Wherever the Gospel is Preached, Water Baptism is Essential to the Pardon of Past Sins." Mr. Pritchard affirms.

TRAVELS IN BIBLE LANDS.

Ritchie, Andy T.

Price, postpaid.....$1.50

A book giving a brief account of a four-months' trip through the countries of the East, dwelling especially on the interests of Egypt and Palestine. It is an unconditional treatise by one who has made the Bible his chief study for several years, and who made a trip for the purpose of obtaining information along the line of biblical and historical studies, and demonstrating to our boys that it does not require a million dollars to see the "Holy Land."

"It was my pleasure and profit to read 'Travels in Bible Lands' when it was first offered to the public, and I thought then, and think now, that it is one of the most interesting and profitable books that has ever been written on travels in the Holy Land."—F. W. Smith.

PUSHING THE WORLD ALONG.

Rutledge, George P.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

Few men are better fitted to preach the gospel to this indifferent age than the accomplished and successful author of this stirring volume. Every sermon is a shaft of truth winged with apt illustrations which go deep into the heart of the hearer. The preacher who wishes a fresh stimulus to more forceful and original sermonizing should read Mr. Rutledge's discourses.

THE SPIRIT AND THE WORD.

Sweeney, Z. T.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

A treatise on the Holy Spirit in the light of a rational interpretation of the word of truth.

PULPIT DIAGRAMS.

(New edition.)

Sweeney, Z. T.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

A unique and indispensable work for ministers and Bible students. Containing a collection of forty-eight of the graphic and original pulpit diagrams. They will prove an invaluable aid in impressing Bible truths.

HANDBOOK ON BAPTISM.

Shepherd, J. W.

(Revised edition.)

Cloth. 486 pages. Price, postpaid.....$2.00

"I thank the publishers for sending me a copy of this very valuable book. As a collection of 'authorities' on the subject, it stands without a rival. The author enjoyed very exceptional facilities for making his collection of authorities. With painstaking care and perseverance he has done his work, and the result is a book which leaves nothing to be desired in its chosen field." (J. W. McGarvey.)

THE NEW TESTAMENT CHURCH.

Srygley, F. D.

Cloth. 300 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

Under this head have been collated the best of the writings of the lamented F. D. Srygley, who for eleven years was first-page editor of the Gospel Advocate. The editing of this book was a labor of love performed by F. B. Srygley, brother of the deceased. As a deep and, at the same time, versatile writer, F. D. Srygley had few equals. This book is the essence of his best work.

THE JERUSALEM TRAGEDY.

Stout, A. P.

Illustrated. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

This book treats of all the points in the trial and crucifixion of our Savior; the minute details of the times, persons, and places most interestingly brought out; the awful scenes and sufferings of the "man of sorrows" almost as pathetic, graphic, and impressive as if you were an eyewitness; free from sectarian bias or denominational interests; a heart-touching, life-molding messenger in every home. Forty-five illustrations from the masterpieces.

SWEENEY'S SERMONS.

Sweeney, John S.

Cloth, 12mo. 304 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50

"In this book of sermons the reader will find a clear statement of what the author understands the Scriptures to teach on several vital points of the Christian religion. Mr. Sweeney has made the Scriptures a special study for many years, and his recognized ability and reputation as a preacher entitle him to a patient hearing. We bespeak for him the attention which his talent and experience and the importance of his themes should command." (Extract from Preface.)

SERMONS.

Udike, J. V.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

A series of plain, pointed, practical sermons, convincing and uplifting. They should have a place in the study of every preacher who is concerned about winning souls to Christ. The younger preachers should place themselves under the influence of this great gospel pleader. His discourses are sermons of the heart as well as the head. Numerous portraits and a biographical sketch of the author included in the volume.

TWENTIETH-CENTURY SERMONS AND ADDRESSES.

Wilson, L. C.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

A series of forty-three practical and doctrinal discourses by some of our representative men and women, with Introduction by J. A. Lord. Such names as F. D. Power, A. M. Haggard, C. C. Smith, J. B. Briney, L. C. Wilson, Helen B. Moses, Anna Robinson Atwater, Lura V. Thompson, and others equally as well known, bespeak the excellence and worth of these addresses.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

SERMONS, SERMON MATERIAL, AND COMMENTARIES

LIFE OF ELDER JOHN SMITH.

Williams, John Augustus.

Cloth. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

A biography that is a romance of religious experience. "Raccoon" John Smith was the Peter Cartwright of the Restoration, and a humble, powerful, fearless man of God, with strong convictions and gigantic faith. It presents a graphic account of a period in the history of the early days of the Reformation in Kentucky. This narrative of great self-sacrifice and devotion has seldom been equaled. His wonderful personality, his utter fearlessness, and his wide knowledge of the Scriptures and of the great issues of life are among the great heritages of the Restoration movement.

BACCALAUREATE AND CONVOCATION SERMONS.

Zollars, E. V.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.75

The notable career of President Zollars in the educational world won for him an enviable reputation as a commencement orator. His thorough scholarship and his boundless enthusiasm for his work fully equipped him for the task of indicating to youth the principles upon which it is possible to build a permanent success. The author gathered in this volume the cream of over thirty years of commencement addresses. It is an indispensable aid to speakers at annual exercises of schools, academies, colleges, seminaries, and universities.

THE COMMISSION EXECUTED.

Zollars, E. V.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

A study of New Testament conversions and other evangelistic topics.

"It is one of the best volumes of evangelistic sermons that it has been the writer's privilege to examine. The press has put forth no better volume on first principles than this. I wish it might be in the library of every preacher in America."—E. E. Snoddy.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

LETTERS AND SERMONS OF T. B. LARIMORE.

(In three volumes. We have only Volumes II. and III.)

Larimore, Mrs. Emma Page.

Price, per volume.....$1.50

The first volume was edited by the lamented F. D. Srygley, one of Larimore's "boys." The second and third volumes were edited by Mrs. Emma P. Larimore. Concerning these volumes, D. Lipscomb said: "His private letters and intercourse always inculcate purity and fidelity to truth and right and a constant desire to benefit others. The reading of these sermons and letters will do all good. We especially commend them to the young."

LIFE WORK OF MRS. CHARLOTTE FANNING.

Larimore, Mrs. Emma Page.

Cloth, 12mo. 201 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.00

Mrs. Fanning's life was an ideal one. No one can read this book without an uplift. Makes a fine gift for girls.

LIFE AND SERMONS OF JESSE L. SEWELL.

Lipscomb, David.

Cloth bound. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

This is an interesting book. One hundred and twenty-one pages are devoted to a memorial of his life, work, and character, by David Lipscomb; one hundred and ninety-seven pages, to sermons by Jesse Sewell. Sixteen of his best sermons are here given, covering all the phases of conversion, and especially on some points upon which disciples and denominations differ. It contains sermons on such themes as: The Conversion of Cornelius, Atonement and Reconciliation, Witness of the Spirit, Form of Doctrine, The Grace of God, The Name of Christ, In Christ, The Son of God, The One Foundation.

GOSPEL LESSONS AND LIFE HISTORY.

Sewell, E. G.

Cloth. 338 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

This very interesting book contains twenty-four chapters. Of these, nineteen are plain presentations of Bible themes—the Bible, two chapters; the gospel, and its obedience in becoming Christians, and connecting themes, twelve chapters, including the proper division of the word, sufficiency and power of the word, what baptism is and why administered, how the Spirit enlightens and converts people, with examples of conversion; and five chapters on the Christian life. There are three chapters on the Woodland Street Church and its divisions, and two chapters on the early life, education, and religious influences of the author, including a wide field of practical Bible study.

LARIMORE AND HIS BOYS.

Srygley, F. D.

Cloth. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

This book gives a biographical sketch of T. B. Larimore and short sketches of more than fifty "boys" who attended school at Mars' Hill, Ala., under Professor Larimore. It describes the rough, mountain country of North Alabama, and gives many funny incidents of country life in the "backwoods;" it tells the story of "hard times in Dixie during the war;" and gives interesting descriptions of college life at Mars' Hill; it tells the story of John Taylor's life as a country preacher in the "mountains," and describes revival scenes in the "backwoods" in olden times, when folks called "mourners," "got religion," "had the jerks," "holy dance," and "holy laugh." It is interesting, amusing, and full of good lessons.

SEVENTY YEARS IN DIXIE.

Srygley, F. D.

Cloth. 400 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

An intensely interesting book, consisting mainly of the recollections, sayings, and doings of the inimitable T. W. Caskey. Compiled, arranged, and written by F. D. Srygley. It gives interesting descriptions of the manners and customs of the country when Indians were here; when people lived in log huts and hunted deer, bear, and other wild animals for a living. It tells how the country was cleared and how houses were furnished. It describes marriages, funerals, revival meetings, political gatherings, logrollings, corn shuckings, singing schools, dances, frolics, quiltings, making soap, carding, spinning, weaving cloth, etc., in the olden times. It tells about slavery, secession, and the war. It is humorous, pathetic, religious, biographical, and full of deeply interesting information. It is a general favorite with the people of all religious denominations.

RELIGIOUS DISCUSSIONS.

BRENTS-HEROD DEBATE.

Paper bound. Price, postpaid.....$0.50

A theological debate between T. W. Brents, of the church of Christ, and Elder E. D. Herod, of the Primitive Baptist Church, held at Franklin, Ky., beginning on March 29, 1887, and continuing four days. Propositions debated: (1) "The Scriptures teach that salvation from sin is conditional, the condition or conditions to be performed by the sinner in order to salvation or freedom from sin." T. W. Brents affirmed; E. D. Herod denied. (2) "The Scriptures teach the unconditional election and salvation from sin by Jesus Christ of all his seed, or generation." E. D. Herod affirmed; T. W. Brents denied.

DEBATE ON THE ROMAN CATHOLIC RELIGION.

Cloth. New edition. 360 pages.

Price, postpaid.....$1.50

This is a discussion between Alexander Campbell and John B. Purcell, Bishop of Cincinnati, O.

THE EVIDENCES OF CHRISTIANITY.

Cloth. New edition. Price, postpaid....$1.50

A debate between Robert Owen, of New Lanark, Scotland, and Alexander Campbell, president of Bethany College, held in Cincinnati, O., in April, 1829. A peculiar interest always attaches to this volume, because it contains the report of a debate of the two most distinguished representatives of the systems they advocated then living. Mr. Owen, a man of acknowledged ability and of high education, was the ablest representative of the "social system" he advocated in the discussion.

CAYCE-SRYGLEY DISCUSSION.

Cloth. 352 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

Is Salvation Conditional or Unconditional? A discussion between C. H. Cayce, Primitive

Baptist, and F. B. Srygley, Christian. C. H. Cayce affirmed: "God gives eternal life to an alien sinner without a condition upon his (the sinner's) part, and the Scriptures so teach." F. B. Srygley affirmed: "Faith, repentance, and water baptism are the conditions of pardon to an alien sinner." The book contains 352 pages, with an index to the speeches and scriptures introduced in the discussion.

FOLK-MCQUIDDY DISCUSSION ON THE PLAN OF SALVATION.

Cloth. 350 pages. Price, postpaid....$1.50

This discussion between E. E. Folk and J. C. McQuiddy was first published in the Gospel Advocate and the Baptist and Reflector. The demand for the discussion to be printed in book form was so great that it was finally decided to yield to the demand.

WHY THE BAPTIST NAME.

Cloth. 320 pages. Price.....$1.50

A written discussion between F. W. Smith, the well-known evangelist and writer, and the late Dr. George A. Lofton, who was a distinguished Missionary Baptist leader. In this book Dr. Lofton presents the strongest arguments that can be made in defense of the Baptist position. Brother Smith's arguments are clear, strong, and to the point. The discussion is not marred by a single unpleasant line. Each disputant treats his opponent with marked courtesy, and yet there is no lack of vigor and aggressiveness of style anywhere. As a written discussion, this book is a model of a clean, clear-cut, religious discussion.

STARK-WARLICK DEBATE.

Paper. 186 pages. Price.....$0.50

A discussion held at Henderson, Tenn., between J. Carroll Stark and Joe S. Warlick. Brother Stark affirms: "The word of God authorizes the use of instruments of music for praise in the church of Jesus Christ." Those who oppose the use of instruments of music in the church of Christ should be able to give an intelligent reason for their position. This discussion will enable such to give a good reason for their faith. Brother Stark is strongly indorsed by those who favor instrumental music in the worship. This is a live subject discussed by experienced debaters.

SPECIAL GIFT BOOKS.

CHARACTER; OR, THE MAKING OF THE MAN.

Carmaek, Edward W.

Leather ooze. In box. Price, postpaid, $1.50

The lamented Senator's most notable lecture.

OLD LIMBER; OR, THE TALE OF THE TAYLORS.

Rice, DeLong.

Price, postpaid.....$1.00

Reminiscent of "The War of the Roses." Sent in box.

CHRISTMAS STORIES AND LEGENDS.

Price, postpaid.....$1.50

This is the title of a new book for children, which was compiled by Phebe A. Chittiss, author of "White Gifts for the King." No greater teaching force has ever been discovered than the story, and no one has ever lived who used that force so skillfully as did our Great Teacher. It is not strange, then, that among all the stories that have ever been written or told, none are so dear to us as those which center around his birth. Young and old alike delight in them, and never tire of hearing them. Each story in the new book has its own sweet lesson. It makes an exceptionally pleasing gift for the children.

SUNSHINE; OR, UNCLE MINOR'S STORIES.

Metcalfe, V. M.

256 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

Pleasing to the children. Handsomely bound.

ALLENROC'S BOOK.

(Poems and stories.)

Alexander, Mrs. Sarah Cornelia.

205 pages. Bound in cloth. Postpaid....$1.25

This book is very attractive for young and old. The matter is choice, elevating, and helpful.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

SERMONS, SERMON MATERIAL, AND COMMENTARIES

FOR ELDERS AND DEACONS.

THE MODEL CHURCH.

Brewer, G. C.

Price, postpaid.....$1.00

Presents the scriptural teaching bearing upon the organization of the local congregation. Shows how a more systematic and effective work can be accomplished.

AROUND THE LORD'S TABLE.

Lipscomb, A. B.

Price.....$0.25

Answers the needs of those who preside at the Lord's Table.

FOR TEACHERS AND SCHOLARS.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Lipscomb, D., and Sewell, E. G.

(Edited by M. C. Kurfees.)

Cloth. 700 pages. Price, postpaid.....$3.00

Questions bearing on the Bible, the church, the Christian life, and kindred subjects, are constantly coming up. You need some good book to help you along this line. The new book, "Questions Answered," by David Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell, will be of great assistance to you. Those who have seen and examined it closely are highly pleased. W. A. Schultz, a very useful evangelist residing at El Paso, Texas, writes: "I have 'Questions Answered,' by Lipscomb and Sewell, compiled by Kurfees, and it contains more Bible information than any book I ever saw. I have all the works of Campbell, Milligan, Franklin, Errett, McGarvey, Rotherham, B. W. Johnson, and others of our noted preachers and educators, but none was the peer of David Lipscomb."

PELOUBET'S NOTES FOR 1923.

Price, postpaid.....$2.00

Rich in material, comprehensive in scope, and practical in treatment. The standard for forty-eight years.

FIRST LESSONS IN CHILD TRAINING.

Walters, Zelia M.

Price, postpaid.....$0.85

A handbook for mothers.

OUTLINES OF BIBLE STUDY.

Smith, G. Dallas.

Price, single copy, postpaid.....$0.75

Price, one dozen, postpaid.....$8.25

For use in Bible drills, prayer meetings, and home study.

SERMON OUTLINES.

A Book of One Hundred and Fifty New Sermon Outlines.

Price, postpaid.....$1.00

Just the book for preachers, elders, deacons, Bible-class teachers, and others that take public part in church services.

The book has one hundred and fifty sermon outlines and a helpful supplement containing funeral texts, marriage ceremonies, forms for church letters, and Hedge's "Rules" for debate.

A good book to use in your Lord's-day services, prayer meetings, and young people's meetings. Let the leader announce the subject, hand slips of paper containing different sections of the outlines to the members who are to take part in the next meeting, requesting them to make a talk or read the scriptural references on that section of the outline. Or, let the leader put the outline on the blackboard, omitting the scriptural references, then ask the congregation to supply the correct scriptural references at the next meeting, and to give reasons why they selected these references.

SMITH-PELOUBET DICTIONARY OF THE BIBLE.

Price, postpaid.....$2.00

The old, reliable Bible Dictionary, comprising 818 pages, with maps and illustrations.

TEACHERS' TESTAMENT.

(With Notes and Helps.)

Price, postpaid.....$1.10

The notes are edited by the New Testament members of the American Revision Committee, Standard Edition.

THE PEOPLE'S NEW TESTAMENT, WITH NOTES.

(Two volumes.)

Johnson, B. W.

Price, per volume, postpaid.....$2.50

A splendid commentary, comprising the entire New Testament. Volume I, four Gospels and Acts; Volume II, Epistles and Revelation.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL RECORD.

Price, postpaid.....$2.50

This record is neatly and substantially bound, and has space for fifty-two Sundays.

CHURCH RECORD.

Price, postpaid.....$2.50

Every church should know its membership. Our Church Record is the very thing you need. Neatly and substantially bound.

CRUDEN'S COMPLETE CONCORDANCE.

Price, postpaid, only.....$2.25

A complete Concordance to the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments. The new edition contains a list of the proper names in the entire Bible.

TEACHERS' TESTAMENT.

Price, postpaid.....$1.10

This Testament has notes and helps. It is newly edited by the New Testament members of the American Revision Committee.

CRAYON AND CHARACTER.

Griswold, B. J.

208 pages. Bound in cloth.

Price, postpaid.....$1.75

There has been a long-felt need of a book which would enable any person who can speak to a class or an audience to give a helpful, inspiring, illustrated talk. With this book in their hands, parents can teach the children a simple, fascinating method of drawing, and at the same time make the great truths of life a part of their everyday learning. It is especially adapted to speakers who earnestly want to give illustrated talks, but who feel that they "can't draw a straight line." Practically all subjects are covered, and full instructions are given as to how to make the talks effective.

NELSON LARGE TYPE HOME READING BIBLE

181 Genuine Leather. Morocco grain; flexible covers; round corners; red under gold edges; title stamped on side and back in pure gold. Price.....$5.00

Printed on fine white Bible paper from large bold pica type. Easy to read and convenient in size. An ideal Bible for all whose eyesight is defective. Also a fine Bible for the pulpit, prayer meeting, or Sunday-school desk. Containing presentation page, frontispiece by Dore, family record, and twelve colored maps. Size, 5 3/4 by 3 1/2 inches, and 1 1/4 inches thick.

NELSON TEACHERS' BIBLE

Contains Concise Bible Dictionary and a new Combined Concordance to the American Standard, making it easy to find any word in the Bible. Twelve maps, with an index to each place on the maps, and twenty-five outline maps throughout the text. Minion black-faced, self-pronouncing type. Size, 4 3/4 by 7 inches and 1 1/4 inches thick.

2152 Genuine Leather. Morocco grain; divinity circuit; round corners; red under gold edges; title stamped on back in pure gold. Price.....$3.75

NELSON'S INDIA PAPER EDITION

Only 7/8 of an Inch Thick

2153X Genuine Leather. Morocco grain; divinity circuit; leather lined to edge; silk sewed; round corners; red under gold edges; title stamped on back in pure gold.

Price.....$7.00

BOURGEOIS TYPE

Size, 5 1/4 by 8 inches, and 1 3/4 inches thick.

2172 Genuine Leather. Levant grain; divinity circuit; round corners; red under gold edges; title stamped on back in pure gold. Price.....$4.50 and all who would study the Word of God intelligently this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear Bourgeois, Self-Pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read.

LARGE PRINT TEACHERS' EDITION FOR ADULTS, TEACHERS AND PREACHERS

Size, 8 x 5 1/4 inches.

Specimen of Type.
"From that time Jē to preach, and to say, 'I the kingdom of heaven'"

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by most reliable Authorities. A Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 4712. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible, French Seal Leather, red under gold edges, Silk Head bands and Silk Marker.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 5.00

No. 812RL. Red Letter Teachers' Bible. The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 5.60

FOR INTERMEDIATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL SCHOLARS

Large Clear Black Type; Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift Bible.

Specimen of Type.
"22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of a"

Size, 7 x 5 inches.

No. 215. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 3.25

No. 3215RL. Red Letter Scholars' Bible, same Bible as No. 215, with all the Sayings of Christ printed in Red, and with Red and gold INLaid PANEL SIDE TITLES, also Beautifully Colored Pictures.

Our Price—Post Paid..... 3.50

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Corns

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes. and the calluses without soreness or irritation.

For the HAIR—

To make it soft, fluffy, and free from dandruff, use

TETTERINE

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

OTHINE

For the treatment of

FRECKLES

In Use for Over 14 Years

Your freckles need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use Othine—double strength—the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women, and rid yourself of these homely spots.

At all Druggists and Department Stores.

Rodeheaver's Gospel Songs

Our New Book ready Oct. 1st.

Also: Victory Songs,
Awakening Songs

Songs for Service

For all religious occasions. Shaped or round notes

Singly	45c Cloth	(Quantities)	40c
prepaid.	35c Limp	Not	30c
	30c Manila	Prepaid	25c

Catalog of Sheet Music, Song Books, Bibles—Books and Folding Organs on request.

Rainbow Sacred Records

Favorite Gospel Selections 75c each not postpd.
Ask for Complete List

THE RODEHEAVER COMPANY

Chicago, Ill. Philadelphia, Pa.
881 McClary Bldg. Dpt. 28—814 Walnut St.

Field Reports

Mentone, Ind., November 21.—I returned home last Saturday evening, after preaching in West Virginia and Eastern Ohio for about seven weeks. The meeting at Hundred, W. Va., closed October 22, after continuing twenty-two days. During this meeting fifteen were baptized and three were restored. I preached at Neffs, Ohio, for sixteen days, and baptized seven and reclaimed one. The next meeting was with the brethren at Fairview, Ohio, and continued nine days. Eight were baptized and two placed their membership with them. I began a meeting at Mentone last Sunday.—A. J. Bachman.

Muskogee, Okla., November 20.—Brother E. M. Borden has just closed a two-weeks' meeting with the Okmulgee Avenue Church here. This was the greatest meeting in the history of this congregation. Five were baptized and four publicly confessed their faults and were restored to fellowship. But this is not all. The church has received a great spiritual awakening. Brother Borden preaches the word fearlessly and eloquently and makes friends for the church. The attendance was the best we have ever had, and at times we had difficulty in seating all the people. Even on Saturday nights the house was full. The meeting was closed on Sunday night by Brother Borden with a remarkable sermon on "Why I Am Not a Campbellite." The interest was great at all times and a spirit of brotherly love prevailed. Our song service was fine.—T. S. Bain.

McMinnville, Tenn., November 20.—On September 8 I was with the little band in Tullahoma, Tenn., and one precious soul made the good confession. On September 10 I began a meeting with the congregation at Viola, Tenn., and continued it eight days, with good attendance, but no additions. These brethren made it pleasant for me in every respect. I am to be with them again on the fourth Sunday in May, 1923. On September 24 I began a tent meeting near Hampshire, Tenn. The tent was packed each night with both white and colored, and all seemed to enjoy the meeting. Sixteen persons made the good confession. Hampshire is a destitute place. I am to hold another tent meeting there in 1923. On October 1 I began a meeting in Bellwood, Tenn. The meeting was well attended by both white and colored, and five made the good confession and were baptized. On October 10 I began a meeting in Manchester, Tenn., which, in spite of opposition, was well attended by both white and colored. There were three confessions and baptisms, one being an old man that had been a Methodist about forty-five years. The white brethren helped to support this meeting. I was asked to labor with them another year.—Alonzo Jones.

Florence, Ala., November 15.—On the third Lord's day in October I began my fourth meeting at Cookeville, Tenn. I was glad to meet these people once more and labor with them. The attendance was good throughout the meeting. This is the home of Brother

Gilbert Johnson, who is doing much good in preaching the gospel in this section. He was present during the meeting; also, old Brother Clay, who preached in this section over thirty years ago, was present two or three nights. There were three additions and the church was greatly edified. On the fourth Lord's day I began my third meeting at Tusculumbia, Ala. Brother J. Hannon preached the opening sermon in their new house, and one was restored in the first service. I am always glad to meet Brother Hannon. He is doing a great work. I continued this meeting nearly three weeks, and interest grew from start to finish, and seven precious souls were baptized the last Lord's-day night. The white brethren and sisters attended this meeting in large numbers and assisted much. My first two meetings here were under a tent, but this one was in a nice brick building. The colored brethren could not have built this house; but the white churches at Tusculumbia, Sheffield, and Florence are furnishing almost all of the money, while the colored people are furnishing a little money and all the labor. These white brethren are determined to see the cause permanently established among my people in this section. On November 9 I began a meeting in Florence, and I am here yet, preaching to interested crowds each night. The white church here invited me to come here, and I gladly consented; and I am not sorry that I came, because they are so anxious to see my people accept the pure gospel of Christ. Brother B. F. Harding is the preacher here, and, in my judgment, he would be hard to beat telling the old story of the cross. There is not a colored member here. The white church is paying my board with a nice Methodist family.—M. Keeble.

Neutralizes Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. In order to be cured of rheumatism, it is necessary to neutralize this acid. RENWAR is a scientific combination of salts prepared to neutralize the uric acid in the blood. There is nothing in Renwar to injure the stomach or affect the heart. It acts solely upon uric acid, completely eliminating it from the blood and thereby relieving your rheumatism. It is harmless, but effective. Positively guaranteed by money-back offer. It is a Godsend to sufferers from rheumatism. Renwar also corrects constipation. Mr. J. M. Willis, of the Nashville Railway and Light Company, says: "I must say that Renwar far surpassed my expectations, for it gave me almost immediate relief. Too much cannot be spoken in behalf of Renwar for rheumatism." Sold by druggists (price, 50 cents) or by mail from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

PARKER'S HAIR BALM

Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling—Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists. Hiseox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDER CORNS

Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiseox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

Consistency.

BY A. C. BROWN.

The religious teachers in the time of Jesus addressed him as "rabbi." He, in turn, addressed them as "hypocrites," and said: "Why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?" (Luke 6: 46.) That rebuke is as pertinent to-day. It is true that the Jewish rabbis were very religious and regular attendants upon the temple services every Sabbath day, but rejected their Messiah, who was so plainly pointed out by prophecy for a period stretching over four thousand years. It seems that they could not get away from the thought of a temporal, political reign of one whose mission in the world was to redeem his people from Roman bondage and reinstate them in their former inheritance as in the days of Saul and David. To the Jew, whose mind was absorbed upon temporal things rather than upon a spiritual reign, this thought would not be without a semblance of reason; for was not their history from the very beginning related to temporal affairs, although significant of a spiritual coloring which they overlooked? Thus were their minds blinded as to the mission of Jesus, which was to redeem his people from their sins and to give them an inheritance into an everlasting kingdom which could never be assailed by any cotemporary kingdom of this world. For a period of fifteen hundred years their religion consisted of typical representations under the law, called "the law of sin and death," from which the mission of their Messiah was to redeem them from under the curse of a broken law, that they might stand henceforth as freemen under the law of "the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus."

Aside from their allegiance to the Roman power, they were freemen and claimed to be children of God through Abraham. To this thought Jesus tried to disabuse their minds, admitting that by genealogical lines they were children of Abraham, yet not children of God, because his children are free, and they were the servants of the devil and doing his works. Jesus here lays down a truism that was applicable to his Jewish brethren, and not only applicable to them, but is just as true and unassailable to all who claim to be the children of God. "If God were your Father, ye would love me." (John 8: 42.) This thought is further developed in 1 John 5: 2, 3: "By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God, and keep his commandments. For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments." The disciples of Jesus were first learners; whom he instructed in things pertaining to his kingdom, which was just at hand, and afterwards made or constituted apos-

To help promote good health see that the articles you use in your bakings give you—

Food containing gluten which is vital to your vitality.

Gluten is the soul of flour
—the real nutritive element.
It is gluten that builds health, strength, and makes robust children and healthy men and women.

Why take a chance on losing the full value of this gluten? Good, wholesome bakings can be made only from good materials—no other way—so use only good baking powder and plain flour for best results.

Don't use substitutes such as self-rising flour, Cake Mixes, and Egg Savers (so-called).

The safe course which is pointed out to the family physician is to recommend pure plain flour and a baking powder of standard quality, and to be especially watchful in all cases of malnutrition to be sure the diet carries strength giving properties.

For best results use—
Calumet Baking Powder and a good plain flour.

GIRL HAD PAINFUL TIMES

Mothers—Read This Letter and Statement Which Follows

Portland, Indiana.—“I was troubled with irregularity and constipation and would often have to lie down because of pains. One Sunday my aunt was visiting us and she said her girls took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got well, so mother said she guessed she would let me try it. It is doing me good and I praise it highly. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial.” —
STELLA NEWTON, R. R. 8, Portland, Indiana.

Mothers—You should carefully guard your daughter's health. Advise her of the danger which comes from standing around with cold or wet feet, from lifting heavy articles, or overworking. Do not let her overstudy.

If she complains of headache, pains in back or lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter, give her careful attention.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for your daughter to take, as it is especially adopted to relieve just such symptoms. Remember it contains nothing that can injure and can be taken in safety.

ECZEMA

PSORIASIS—ITCH

RU-BON Will Remove Every Spot.

Ask Your Druggist.

SPURLOCK-NEAL COMPANY,
Wholesale Distributors.

TETTERINE

Drives Away Pimples

and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 60c at your druggist's or from the SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

The Plum Street Church of

Christ, Detroit, Mich.,

Now meets in its new building, corner Hamilton Boulevard and Tuxedo Avenue. Visiting brethren welcome.

New York City Church of Christ

239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M., Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6857.

tles, whom he commissioned to proclaim the gospel of salvation to the whole world, adding: “He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved.” (Mark 16: 16.) This gospel was good news, inasmuch as it proclaimed liberty to those in captivity to Satan, composing all of accountable age, who were represented as sitting in darkness and in the prison house of death.

The apostles of our Lord were limited to the simple story of Jesus Christ, and him crucified, his resurrection from the dead and ascension into heaven, and all supported by living witnesses, who saw him after he was raised from the grave. The apostles, thus panoplied with this simple story, went everywhere preaching the word. They all preached the same story; there was no dissimilarity in their teaching, for they all preached the same things. It was only when men began to speculate about unrevealed things that divisions took the place of unity.

The first sermon preached by the apostle Peter after our Lord's resurrection and ascension was typical of the preaching by all who went everywhere preaching the word. After copious quotations from the prophet Joel and David concerning the Messiah whom the scribes and Pharisees were expecting, Peter boldly affirmed that that Jesus whom they had crucified was, according to their own prophets, risen from the grave and ascended into the heavens, the proof of which were the one hundred and twenty witnesses ready to lend their testimony to the truth. In like manner did the martyr Stephen after rehearsing the historic records of his people from the days of Abraham to the then present and showing by their own records the perverse natures of the Jewish race in rebellion against their prophets whom the Lord raised up to enlighten them. He said they had always been rebellious, even persecuting them, and reached the climax with: “Ye stiff-necked and uncircumcised in heart and ears, ye do always resist the Holy Ghost: as your fathers did, so do ye. Which of the prophets have not your fathers persecuted? and they have slain them which showed before of the coming of the Just One; of whom ye have been now the betrayers and murderers: who have received the law by the disposition of angels, and have not kept it.” (Acts 7: 51-53.) Doubtless these two sermons were practically the same as was preached to the Jews during the lifetime of the apostles by those commissioned to preach, and are applicable to all Gentiles who already believe in the God of the prophets of olden time. The full gospel that one preached was identically the same all others preached that proclaimed it in its fullness. Hence, all believers were of one

Dodson's Liver Tone

Instead of Calomel

Calomel is quicksilver. It attacks the bones and paralyzes the liver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless “Dodson's Liver Tone” under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it will regulate the liver, stomach, and bowels better than calomel, without sickening or salivating you. Fifteen million bottles sold.

Homes Furnished Complete

Terms to Suit Everybody

TELEPHONE, MAIN 1096

HILARY E. HOWSE

FURNITURE, CARPETS
STOVES AND RANGES

We Exchange Furniture as Part
Payment

304-306-308 BROADWAY

105-107-109 THIRD AVE., N.

mind and all of one spirit—the spirit of Christ.

Now, it is plain that had all teachers coming after the apostles been satisfied with the apostles' teaching in the simple story of the cross, and, like Paul, “determined not to know anything . . . save Jesus Christ, and him crucified” (1 Cor. 2: 2), there would never have been a sectarian church as a divisive factor in the world, deny this who will. Christ was the beginning and the end of their teaching; and where Christ was thus brought to the front and pressed upon the people, it made simply Christians—nothing added, nothing taken from; just Christians, and nothing more nor less. What was it that caused divisions in the church at Corinth? Was it not something else than Christ, and him crucified? What was it that lay so hard upon the mind of the great apostle Paul that compelled him in sorrow and in tears to warn the church that would come after his departure? Was it not the “perverse” things instead of Christ, and him crucified? What is it that separates believers in Christ to-day but the things outside of the plain gospel of Christ? What is it, I again ask, that stands as barriers to a united church and wedges of division between what is known as the “Christian Church” and the church of Christ? Is it not something else than the simple story of Christ, and him crucified? As long as what is known as the “Restoration movement” practiced what it preached, so long was there exhibited to the world that unity for which Jesus prayed, that the world might

Don't Wear a Truss

MR. C. E. BROOKS

BE COMFORTABLE
—wear the Brooks Appliance, the modern scientific invention which gives rupture sufferers immediate relief. It has no obnoxious springs or pads. Automatic Air Cushions bind and draw together the broken parts. No salves or plasters. Durable. Cheap. Sent on trial to prove its worth. Never on sale in stores, as every appliance is made to order, the proper size and shape of Air Cushion depending on the nature of each case. Beware of imitations. Look for trade-mark bearing portrait and signature of C. E. Brooks, which appears on every appliance. None other genuine. Full information and booklet sent free in plain, sealed envelope.

BROOKS APPLIANCE CO.,
443H, State St., Marshall, Mich.

PYORRHEA CURED

Or No Pay—Free Trial Treatment

Write to-day for Sample Bottle, sent free with booklet fully describing this guaranteed wonder cure for Pyorrhea, Loose Teeth, Bleeding and Ulcerated Gums, Abscesses, Gum Boils, etc. Send name and address to-day.

MOORE'S LABORATORIES,
Dept. 1093, 1422 Lydia, Kansas City, Mo.

McShane Bell Foundry Co.
BALTIMORE, MD.
CHURCH, CHIME and PEAL
BELLS Memorials a Specialty

5,000 CHRISTIAN WORKERS WANTED

To sell Bibles, Testaments, good books, and handsome velvet Scripture mottoes. Good commission. Send for free catalogue and price list.

GEORGE W. NOBLE, Publisher,
Dept. 2, Monon Building, Chicago, Ill.

CANCERS CURED AT THE KELLAM HOSPITAL

The Kellam Hospital cures Cancers Tumors, Ulcers, X-Ray Burns, and Chronic Sores without the use of the knife, X-Ray Radium, Acids, or Serum, and we have cured over 90 per cent of the many hundreds of sufferers treated during the past twenty-three years. Ministers treated free.

KELLAM HOSPITAL, Inc.
1617 West Main St. Richmond Va

AGENTS $6 A DAY

taking orders for Non-Alcoholic Food Flavors. Every variety. Put up in collapsible tubes. Always fresh. Three times the strength of bottled flavors. Not sold in stores. Fast repeaters. Big income every day.

Men and Women
devoting full time can make $6 to $9 a day. Big money for spare time. Largest concern of its kind in the world. Over two million dollars worth of orders taken last year by our Representatives for Zanol Pure Food Products, Toilet Preparations, Soap, Laundry and Cleaning Specialties and Household Supplies. Every article guaranteed. Write for Sample Quilt and Money Making Proposition.

American Products Co.
7205 American Building, Cincinnati, Ohio

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting believe. It was only when the opinions of men brought into active realities the divisive things outside the prescribed order and presumptively intrenched these upon the order of heaven that division made its appearance.

CAPUDINE

So long as Israel followed the explicit commandments of God through their leader, all was well; but when something else was conceived, thought out, and brought forward which supplanted and set at naught the order, the arrangement, and the wisdom of God, then was there trouble in the camp, and they were made to realize the truth that "the way of transgressors is hard." (Prov. 13: 15.) It is natural for men to lean toward their own understanding, but God tries the heart and the reins. Perfection alone is with the Almighty. Then, can fallible man improve upon God's order and arrangement? When God purposed to make a picture gallery containing typical arrangements of things yet to be developed, he intrusted all to Moses, instructed him in the exact measure of every part, and warned him to follow explicitly every and all specifications outlined in the pattern shown him in the mount. It is said by an apostle of Jesus Christ that "Moses verily was faithful in all his house, as a servant, for a testimony of those things which were to be spoken after." (Heb. 3: 5.) Again: "It is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful." (1 Cor. 4: 2.) Now, in the light of the history of God's dealing with his chosen people, let me ask my candid readers: What do you think would have been the fate of Moses had he deliberately made any change whatsoever in the erection of the tabernacle and its furnishings and service? I anticipate already your answer that his fate would have been the fate of the priests who fell dead for their presumption, their digression and disobedience.

Now, kind reader, permit me to say that this all was but an outline of the church of God—a picture that would afterwards down the centuries be developed by the Son of God and his chosen apostles. As it came from the fountainhead, having all authority and power, it was perfect in its every arrangement, just like its picture which was set up in the wilderness. God admonished Moses, and these things were written for our admonition upon whom the ends of the ages have come.

We judge that the reality of a thing is vastly of more importance than the picture. The church of God is, therefore, of more importance than the tabernacle. Its service, its doctrine, and its ministry are complete just as it stands inaugurated and completed by the Spirit-inspired apostles of our Lord. The tabernacle and its services have long since passed away, but the church of God has stood against the gates of the unseen world and is a monument of the mercy, wisdom, and grace of the Almighty as an ark of safety that will bear all the faithful over the flood waters of opposition and into the haven of everlasting habitations. The foundation of this structure is Christ. Besides this there is none else. The church is God's ark of safety, built by the master Architect, and, like the old tabernacle, is prescribed in every detail. No one, howsoever skillful, shall add to or take from this perfect arrangement. Cast your eyes around you and behold the diversified order, arrangement, and worship; then compare these with the original as found in the inspired arrangement of the Holy Spirit, and stand amazed. God does not strike people dead on account of unholy hands that would alter, change, or amend the things he has perfected, but he has appointed a day when he will bring to judgment those who would dare, through the plea of expediency, add to or take from what he has perfected.

Kind reader, are you standing with those who are pleading for unity of the people of God and satisfied with the divine arrangement just as it came forth from the Holy Spirit?

Buy

PRACTICAL GIFTS

From

WHITE'S

Nashville's Trunk and Leather Shop

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds Headache
Toothache Lumbago
Earache Rheumatism
Neuralgia Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

TETTERINE

Ends Complexion Worries

Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant

50c at your druggist's or from the SHUPFRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

$1000 For Your Spare Time!

Many ministers, teachers, farmers and merchants with willingness to work, are making this much and more per year selling our monuments in their spare time.

Responsible Men Only

We have some territory open for men who will interest customers in "Time-Proof" monuments and who can give us good references. We require no advance payment because we are confident the monument will please the customer. No investment. Commissions paid in cash.

Write us today for full particulars.

CONSUMERS' MONUMENT CO.

Box 49

BALL GROUND, GA.

Ladies Keep Your Skin Clear, Sweet, Healthy With Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Talcum

Work in Chilton County, Ala.

BY A. B. BAXLEY.

For a number of years the church work that has been done in this county has been scattered too much to make very much progress; however, it was not without effect or results. Meetings have been held at different places by different men, among whom Brother J. T. Daniel and I have done, perhaps, as much as any two men to establish the work in this county. Finally a move was started to centralize our efforts in Clanton, the county seat. On November 12 we succeeded in holding the first service in Clanton that was ever held by our brethren here. We had more than thirty members of the church present. Brother O. C. Dobbs, of Fayette, Ala., preached for us. His teaching will long be remembered. Last Lord's day Brother J. S. Moores, of Wetumpka, Ala., preached for us. Brother Moores gave us some splendid facts. The outlook here is flattering. We have much good material to begin a congregation. Brother Dobbs' only criticism was that "it looked too good for a beginning." For the present we are meeting in a nice little hall, but in the near future we expect to build a house of our own. Clanton is located right in the center of the State, on the main line of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad between Birmingham and Montgomery. We shall be happy to have preachers, tourists, or any members of the church who may come this way to stop and worship with us.

Commendation of R. A. McCurry.

BY R. D. SMITH.

I desire to say a good word on behalf of Brother R. A. McCurry. This good man and preacher has not been much known by the brotherhood, because, on the one hand, he has never given his whole time to preaching; and, on the other hand, he, out of simple modesty, has refrained from putting himself before the brotherhood in that he has said little or nothing through the papers about his work.

Brother McCurry is well informed in the Scriptures, for he has been a student of the Book for a number of years and is now in middle life. He is also well able to teach the word, and does teach it well, and is ever true to the old paths. He is pleasant and agreeable anywhere and everywhere, and, in the judgment of the writer, is clean both inside and out. You will never be ashamed of him whether in the pulpit or elsewhere. His language is good and will not subject you to embarrassment in the presence of visiting friends. He is a plain, unassuming man, as humble as a child, and yet with a fine personal appearance and a bearing that commands respect and attention. To know the man is to love him.

Brother McCurry is preaching at points out from Denton this winter and is doing some splendid work. I do not know whether he has all of his time taken or not. If you need a man, write him. Also, he is open for some meetings for next year. Congregations will be perfectly safe in calling him, for he will do acceptable work.

New Discoveries.

From the Lowell and Harvard observatories come marvelous stories of recent stellar discoveries; of a star cluster more distant than any hitherto known; of the extension of the known confines of the galactic system to the inconceivable figure of three hundred and fifty thousand parsecs, or light years (a light year is the distance light can travel in a year, and light travels one hundred and eighty-six thousand miles per second).

If there was ever an astronomer who was not a reverent and wholly believing worshiper of God, he has concealed the fact successfully. Those who gaze through telescopes at the infinites of distance, the marvels of mechanism, and the miracles of balanced force which are everywhere in the sky, have first-hand evidence of the mightiness of Him who made and rules the universe.

Every discovery of nature we make, every pushing back of the known boundaries, every new marvel we see, but make the wisdom and the glory of the Almighty more manifest.—Selected.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS
—SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR—CONSTIPATION BILIOUSNESS
Headache INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION 25 CENTS
6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief
BELL-ANS
25c AND 75c PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

Doctrinal Preaching.

(1 Tim. 4: 16.)

BY S. R. DRAKE.

The word "doctrine" is mentioned three times in this chapter. Paul declares that the Holy Spirit had very distinctly told them that in later times some would depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and the doctrines of devils. In Paul's second letter to Timothy he warned him that in the last days perilous times should come, and he minutely described the character of a certain class of people who would depart from the faith, or the doctrine of the gospel, or teaching of the Holy Scriptures. He called Timothy's attention to the fact that he knew of the doctrine, or teaching, of Paul and his manner of life. He told him that evil men and seducers should wax worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived; but, as a safeguard against all these things, he reminded him of his early training in the Holy Scriptures in childhood, which furnished him wisdom unto salvation through faith in Christ. Our boys and girls would all be safeguarded against the temptations in the world with a thorough training in the Holy Scriptures early in life. The Holy Scriptures were given by inspiration of God for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, "that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." (2 Tim. 3: 1-17.) There is nothing that will so qualify a man for the duties of life as a thorough, practical knowledge of the Bible, and especially the teaching of Christ and the apostles, other things being equal.

The doctrine of the gospel are the principles or truths taught by Christ and the apostles. Any doctrine not taught by them is regarded as unsound and should be avoided and discarded. Jesus charged the scribes and Pharisees with teaching for doctrines the commandments of men, and declared their worship was in vain. (Matt. 15: 9.)

Sound doctrine is absolutely necessary to the salvation of the preacher and those who hear him. (1 Tim. 1: 3; 4: 13-16; 2 John 10; Rev. 2: 24.)

Jesus was a great doctrinal preacher and teacher. Let us note some of his great doctrinal utterances in his Sermon on the Mount:

The doctrine concerning those who belong to his kingdom. (Matt. 5: 1-12.)

The doctrine of the saving and purifying influence of the church and the individual Christian. (Verses 13-16.)

The doctrine of the stability and influence of the word of God. (Verses 17-20; Luke 16: 17.)

Don't let child stay bilious, constipated

MOTHER, MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS WITH "CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP"

Even Cross, Feverish, Sick Children Love its Taste
and it Never Fails to Empty Little Bowels

When constipated, bilious, irritable, listless, or full of cold, your little one needs a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" to quickly start liver and bowel action. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works the sour bile and undigested food right out and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. It never cramps or overacts. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

The law of murder defined. (Verses 21-26.)

The law of marriage and divorce. (Verses 27-32; Matt. 19: 8-10; Luke 16: 18-20; Rom. 7: 3-10; 1 Cor. 7: 8-12.)

Man's duty toward his fellow man. (Verses 43-47.)

The law of perfection—God the pattern. (Verse 48.)

The doctrine of prayer—its conditions. (Matt. 6: 1-15.)

The doctrine of laying up treasures in heaven. (Verses 19-21.)

The doctrine of good and evil. (Verses 22, 23.)

The two masters. (Verse 24.)

The Father's love and care for his children. (Verses 25-31.)

Man's first duty to God. (Verse 33.)

The doctrine of unjust and harsh judgment. (Matt. 7: 1-5.)

The law of giving and receiving. (Verses 6-11.)

The Golden Rule. (Verse 12.)

The strait gate and the narrow way. (Verses 13, 14.)

Warning against false prophets. They shall be known by their fruits. (Verses 15-20.)

The two builders—the one on the rock and the other on the sand. (Verses 24-27.)

It is stated that when Jesus had ended his Sermon on the Mount the people were astonished at his doctrine. (Verses 28, 29.) The manner of his teaching, as well as the matter, is what struck the people with astonishment. It was unique in that his doctrine was revolutionary and uplifting and unlike anything they had ever heard from the lips of man.

Jesus warned his disciples to beware of the doctrine of the Pharisees and the Sadducees. The apostle John, in his second letter addressed to the church, or a lady and her children, gives a warning against false teachers—those who deny the divinity of Christ. He brands them as deceivers and antichrist, and warns Christians against receiving such characters into their houses. (2 John 9, 10.)

"The law [doctrine] of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul." (Ps. 19: 7.) Paul declared the gospel of Christ "is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." (Rom. 1: 16; see also 1 Cor. 1: 18; 15: 1, 2.) Other scriptures could be cited bearing on the same thought, but these are sufficient.

Let us note some of Jesus' prominent discourses on other occasions:

First, his discourse to Nicodemus on the atonement and regeneration (John 3: 1-21)—the doctrine of the new

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPIING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

PILES CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or call without delay. Private reception rooms for ladies. Established since 1912. Free X-Ray examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Wanted—Salesmen

to sell our "Good-For-All-Time Monuments," made from GRANITE or the famous GEORGIA MARBLE, at reasonable prices. Must be competent and responsible. No experience required. Monuments guaranteed; no risk, no investment. Liberal commission.

One representative recently sent us 31 orders for one month, and we executed 31 orders for him that month—one order per day.

Farmers, merchants, bankers, ministers, and others have been successfully selling our monuments for more than 20 years—spare or full time.

Write Us To-day for Our Proposition.

Roberts Marble Co., Ball Ground, Ga.

PIANOS AND VICTROLAS

Sold for Cash or on Easy Payments

M. F. SHEA

305 Fifth Avenue, North
NASHVILLE, TENN.

NOTICE!

"Scriptural Songs," a new 1923 book, is ready. The new music is by the best writers for congregational singing of to-day. The words contain Bible doctrine for saint and sinner. Every preacher and song leader should have a copy to examine. Send your name and address, plainly written, on a one-cent post card at once for a sample copy. If satisfied with it, send twenty-five cents; if not, return the book. This offer is fair, isn't it?

Address Mrs. Lavinia Wright, 45½ Victoria Avenue, Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada.

CANCER

HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

birth. (a) A man must be born anew, or from above, before he can see the kingdom of God. (b) The new birth is effected by the Holy Spirit—begotten by the Holy Spirit, born of God (John 1: 13) and born of water. Begetting and birth must precede entrance into the kingdom of heaven (verses 3, 5); a new creature (Gal. 6: 15); effected by the truth (James 1: 18); baptism (Tit. 3: 5; 1 Pet. 1: 22; 3: 21). All who come into the kingdom of nature are begotten and born into this kingdom; there is no exception to this rule.

Next, his discourse to the woman of Samaria at Jacob's well. (John 4: 1-26.) (a) Jesus taught the doctrine of his own deity and Sonship. (Verse 10.) (b) He is the source of life and the fountain of living water. (Verses 13, 14.) (c) The doctrine of his omnipotence and omniscience is clearly taught in this discourse.

"Stand Fast."

BY H. A. ROGERS.

Since I am being supported by the brotherhood and as there are so many speculative theories extant, I feel that I should make some statement. There is a great tendency, especially among the young preachers and young Christians, to drift with the tide, and a yearning to be "like the nations around."

First, there has been much said about the support for the preacher. Some give the lack of support as the reason why there are so few workers. This may be true in a measure, but I fear that many young preachers are looking around for an easy job with good support. Instead of looking for a place, while the world is so full of infidelity and sin and so devoid of the gospel, we should go, trusting in the Lord.

I take the word of God as the all-sufficient rule of faith and practice; the church of the First-born, without clubs, organizations, or "isms." I do not advocate determining our practice by majority rule; I do not advocate Christmas festivities, socials or suppers for the purpose of raising money; I refuse to perform a marriage when one of the contracting parties is a Christian and the other is not; I protest against the dance, card playing, immodest dress, etc. In other words, I stand for the unadulterated, old-fashioned gospel.

MURINE Night and Morning.
FOR YOUR EYES Have Strong, Healthy Eyes. If they Tired, Itch, Smart or Burn, if Sore, Irritated, Inflamed or Granulated, use Murine often. Soothes, Refreshes. Safe for Infant or Adult. At all Druggists. Write for Free Eye Book. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

TOBACCO HABIT BANISHED QUICK, SURE, Lasting Results

Tobacco Redeemer is pleasant to take. Absolutely scientific; thoroughly reliable. We positively guarantee you will have no craving for tobacco after using Tobacco Redeemer. Money back if not satisfied. Write for free booklet and proof. Newell Pharmacal Co. Dept. 963 St. Louis, Mo.

Dizzy Spells Are Usually Due to Constipation

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

Deafness

Perfect hearing is now being restored in every condition of deafness or defective hearing from causes such as Catarrhal Deafness, Racked or Stopped Ears, Thickened Drums, Roaring and Hissing Sounds, Perforated, Wholly or Partially Destroyed Drums, Discharge from Ear, etc.

Wilson Common-Sense Ear Drums

"Little Wireless Phones for the Ears" require no medicine but effectively replace what is lacking or defective in the natural ear drums. They are simple devices, which the wearer easily fits into the ears where they are invisible. Soft, safe and comfortable. Write today for our 168 page FREE book on DEAFNESS, giving you full particulars and testimonials. WILSON EAR DRUM CO., Incorporated 567 Inter-Southern Bldg. LOUISVILLE, KY.

Are You a Weak and Ailing Woman?

Beauty and Health Go Hand in Hand

Fort Thomas, Ky.—Several years ago I had become so poor and weak from trouble of a feminine character that I could not walk around in my room without holding to the furniture or having some one to assist me. I was so nervous at times I could hardly endure any one walking across the floor. Finally I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and in three-months' time I gained twenty pounds. I continued taking the medicine until I was entirely well. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription certainly saved my life.—Mrs. Laura Klepfer, 15 Oak Street.

Health is most important to you. Do not neglect it. Obtain this prescription of Dr. Pierce's now, in liquid N. Y., or write for free medical advice, or tablets, from your druggist; or send ten cent for trial package of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo,

URNS NIGHT INTO DAY

New Lamp Has No Wick, No Chimney, No Odor, Most Brilliant Light Known

A new lamp which experts agree gives the most powerful home light in the world is the latest achievement of W. H. Hoffstot, 456 Factory Building, Kansas City, Mo. This remarkable new lamp beats gas or electricity—gives more light than three hundred candles, eighteen ordinary lamps, or ten brilliant electric lights, and costs only one cent a night. A blessing to every home, especially on farm or in small town. It is absolutely safe, and gives universal satisfaction. No dirt, no smoke, no odor. A child can carry it. It is the ambition of Mr. Hoffstot to have every home, store, hall, or church enjoy the increased comfort of this powerful, pleasing, brilliant white light, and he will send one of his new lamps on free trial to any reader of the Gospel Advocate who writes him. He wants one person in each locality to whom he can refer new customers. Take advantage of his free offer. Agents wanted. Write him to-day.

Field Reports

Cleveland, Tenn., November 27.—The services here have been fine for the last month, notwithstanding there has been much sickness. The attendance for the Lord's-day morning Bible school has run from one hundred and forty to one hundred and sixty and more. We are doing our best to stimulate more interest in Bible study. The brethren and sisters seem to be ready and willing to undertake anything they are called upon to do. Several of the sisters met a few days ago and spent the day sewing, making up some clothing for an orphan girl. Quite a number of the male members will lead in prayer, read, and attend the Lord's table when called upon to do so. I wish to speak particularly of our young people. I believe no nobler band of young people can be found in any congregation, considering their opportunities and the length of time they have been in the church, than there is in the Cleveland congregation. At least nine of our boys under twenty years of age will read and lead in prayer. Last Lord's day one sister from Copper Hill, Tenn., put in her membership with the congregation. In the afternoon some of us went to old Mount Bethel, thirteen miles southeast of Cleveland, the oldest congregation in the county, but now gone down. There are about twenty-one members scattered through the community, but most of them are dead. We are trying to resurrect the church at this place. When I arrived, about thirty people had gathered. The old stove having gone to the bad, they had made up a fire on the outside; so we carried some of the seats out of the house and held services around the fire in the open air. I baptized two at Calhoun recently and one took membership. In the Liberty Hill meeting there were four baptized and three restored. Both Brother W. C. Phillips and I are having severe throat trouble. These bad throat troubles are due, in most instances, to the way we and some other preachers have to impose upon ourselves in holding meetings. Oftentimes preachers have to lead the singing and do all the praying in addition to their preaching, and then go from two to five miles over rough roads, in a buggy, on horseback, in a farm wagon, or walk, perhaps, in the night air, after coming out of the house, warm from exertion and a poorly ventilated house. Somebody says: "Why does he do this? I just would not do that." Such a one would not! Why does the preacher do it, anyway? It is done to preach the gospel to lost men and women. Owing to the disjointed conditions to-day in the churches, some preachers have it to do if the gospel is preached to every creature. If we all practiced selecting the best places, easy places, strongest congregations in which to preach, the world would never be saved. Some poor fellows must tackle the hard places, though they have to suffer because of it. "I am debtor;" "I suffer the loss of all things." These are the statements from the matchless apostle Paul.—George W. Farmer.

Great $2.00 Mystery Novel for 15c.

You Must Not Miss Reading "Suspense"—The Most Exciting and Absorbing Story Published in Years.

Washington, D. C.—(Special).—You can see right through the plot of most stories, but "Suspense" will baffle you; it will hold you spellbound from start to finish and keep you guessing. This unusual story is by one of the most popular authors—Isabel Ostrander. It is original, thrilling, satisfying. The Pathfinder, in accord with its policy of giving the best in everything, will publish this great story as a serial complete in fifteen issues, starting December 16. This paper is chuck-full of just the kind of reading you want—unequaled digest of the world's news, including affairs at Washington; best stories you can find anywhere; stunts, tricks, and amusements for the children. You can get this splendid illustrated national home weekly on trial thirteen weeks for only fifteen cents, coin or stamps, including "Suspense." You can also order for your friends at 15 cents each; but send at once, so as not to miss start of new story. This offer costs the editor a lot of money, but he says it pays to invest in new friends. Address Pathfinder, 276 Langdon Station, Washington, D. C.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR

To half pint of water add 1 ounce Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of Glycerine. Any druggist can put this up, or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded, or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

Easy Now to Double Winter Egg Yield

Proven Remedy Gives Remarkable Results—Turns "Boarder" Hens Into Profitable Layers—

Winter egg yields, double and treble those of former years, are now being made by many poultrymen through the use of a compound that science has finally perfected.

This wonderful medicine, which is called "Hick's Egg-Lay," contains rare and expensive ingredients mixed so as to quickly increase the egg yield. The medicine acts on the reproductive organs and causes double and treble the usual number of ova (the germ cell of the egg) to be produced. Thus you get many more eggs and get them during the time they bring the highest prices.

Hick's Egg-Lay is prepared for convenience in tablet form. Simply dissolve one tablet in a quart of water. This is the surest, easiest and quickest way ever discovered to get more eggs.

A Trial Costs You Nothing

Mr. Hick is so confident that Hick's Egg-Lay Tablets will double and treble your egg yield that he is making a special guaranteed offer of one regular double strength $1.00 package of Egg-Lay Tablets and a full size $1.00 package of Hick's famous Lice-Go Tablets all for $1.00.

Lice-Go is added to the drinking water. The medicine taken into the system of the bird comes out through the oil glands of the skin and every louse or mite quickly leaves the body. Keeps the birds always free without the poultry raiser doing any work. If you would rather have two $1.00 packages of Egg-Lay Tablets or two $1.00 packages of Lice-Go instead of one of each, say so on your order. Send $1.00 today (currency, money order, check, etc.) to Chas. M. Hick & Company, Dept. 918, 1018 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois. If you prefer, send no money. Just your name and address and pay postman $1.00 and postage on delivery. If after thirty days trial, you are not absolutely satisfied, write Mr. Hick and your money will be refunded. This offer is absolutely guaranteed, so don't hesitate to make the test.

Get Rid of That FAT
Free Trial Treatment

Sent on request. Ask for my "pay-when-reduced" offer. My treatment has reduced at the rate of a pound a day. No dieting, no exercise, absolutely safe and sure method. Let me send you proof at my expense. DR. R. NEWMAN, Licensed Physician, State New York, 286 Fifth Ave., New York, Desk. 4-957

Say it with FLOWERS
From GENY BROS.
212 Fifth Avenue, N
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

SOLD 50 YEARS — A FINE GENERAL TONIC

If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

SUITABLE HOLIDAY GIFTS

Below we have grouped a number of the most popular and best values of Bibles and Testaments. If our readers will order at once, it will be helpful to us and keep out mistakes which are so likely to occur in the holiday rush. All orders should be mailed to GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY, and not to any individual. Order by number.

HOLMAN'S SELF-PRONOUNCING BIBLE.

For Adults, Teachers, Preachers, and all who would study the word of God intelligently, this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear Bourgeois, self-pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read. Size, 8x5 1/4 inches.

Specimen of Type.

"From that time Jē to preach, and to say, "E
the kingdom of heaven

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by F. N. PELOUBET, D.D.; a treasury of biblical information; practical comparative concordance; Oriental light on the Bible; four thousand questions and answers; new colored maps.

No. 47. Divinity Circuit Teachers' Bible; French seal leather; red under gold edges; silk head bands and silk marker. Publisher's Price, $6.15. Our Price, postpaid.....$5.25

OXFORD SELF-PRONOUNCING BIBLE.

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Size, 8x5 1/4 inches.

(Specimen of Type.)

abomination; how much more, when he bringeth it ¹with a wicked mind?
28 ²A false witness shall perish: but the man that heareth speaketh constantly.

B.C. 1000.
¹ Heb. in wickedness!
² Heb. A

No. 04421. Keratol; divinity circuit; round corners; red under gold edges. Our Price, delivered.....$3.75

No. 81. RL Red-Letter Teachers' Bible. The words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament passages alluded to by Christ, various prophecies relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc.—all printed in red. Binding same as described above, and same large self-pronouncing type. Publisher's Price, $6.95; Our Price, postpaid.....$5.80

No. 215. Scholars' Bible. Illustrations, helps, and maps, with four thousand questions and answers. Price.....$3.25

OXFORD SELF-PRONOUNCING PICTORIAL BIBLE.

With thirty-two photo views of scenes in Bible lands; carefully selected helps; four thousand questions and answers; six colored maps and presentation page. Nonparell, 12mo. Size, 7 1/4 x 5 inches.

(Specimen of Type.)

16 But if the sacrifice of his offering be a vow, or a voluntary offering, it shall be eaten the same day that he offereth his sacrifice: and on the morrow also the remainder of it shall be eaten:

No. 4181. French Morocco; divinity circuit; round corners; red under gold edges. Publisher's Price, $3.65; Our Price, delivered.....$3.25

NELSON AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE.

Large-type, home-reading Bible; authorized and edited by the American Revision Committee, with topical headings prepared by them. Printed on fine white Bible paper from large, bold Pica type. Easy to read and convenient in size. An ideal Bible for all whose eyesight is defective because of old age or weakness of the eyes; also a fine Bible for the pulpit, prayer-meeting, or Sunday-school desk. Contains presentation page, frontispiece by Dore, family record, and twelve colored maps. Size, 5 1/2 x 8 3/4 inches and 1 1/4 inches thick.

(Specimen of Type.)

The making of woman. GENE man, and put him into the garden
of Eden to dress it and to keep it.
16 And the LORD God com-

The names of the books of the Bible are printed in large type in upper outside corner of each page, enabling the reader to locate place wanted instantly.

No. 181. Genuine Leather; morocco grain; flexible covers; round corners; red under gold edges; title stamped on side and back in pure gold. Price, postpaid.....$5.25

TEACHERS' EDITION AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE.

This Bourgeois type Bible, with references, contains the Concise Bible Dictionary and a New Combined Concordance to the American Standard Version, making it easy to find any word in the Bible; twelve maps, with an index to each place on the maps. Size, 5 1/2 x 8 inches and 1 1/4 inches thick.

(Specimen of Type.)

21 13

II. SAMU

The Bones of Saul and Jonathan brought to Zela. Wars w

Jabesh-gilead, who had stolen them from the ¹street of ²Beth-shan, ³where the Philistines had hanged them, in the day that ⁴the Philistines slew Saul in Gilboa; 13 and

^a Josh. 17. 11
^b 1 S. 31. 10
^c 1 S. 31. 4
^d Josh. 18. 28
^e ch. 24. 25;
^f Josh. 7. 26

No. 2172. Persian Morocco; divinity circuit; linen lined to edge; round corners; red under gold edges; title stamped on back in pure gold. Our Price, postpaid.....$4.75

KING JAMES (1611) VERSION.

Self-Pronouncing Edition.

Containing the Bible, with full references, the Concise Bible Dictionary, Combined Concordance, and twelve indexed maps.

(Specimen of Type.)

Discipleship exacting. The Tempest still

18 Now when Jesus saw great multitudes about him, he gave commandment to depart unto the other side. 19 And there came ¹a scribe,

No. 7752. Genuine Leather; Levant grain; divinity circuit; round corners; red under gold edges; title stamped on back in pure gold. Price, postpaid.....$5.00

NEW TESTAMENT WITH PSALMS

Especially suitable for a present. A very handsome Testament. Pica type.

(Specimen of Type.)

The making of woman. GENE man, and put him into the garden
of Eden to dress it and to keep it.
16 And the LORD God commanded the man, saying, Of every

No. 0502. American Revised Version; Persian Morocco; divinity circuit; leather lined to edge; silk sewed; Pica type. Price, postpaid.....$3.00

No. 0508. Same size type as No. 054P; French Morocco; limp leather lined; gilt roll. Price, postpaid.....$3.85

TESTAMENT WITH PSALMS.

No. 0510. Fine Persian; silk sewed; kid lined; divinity circuit; red under gold; pica type. Price, postpaid.....$4.00

TESTAMENT AND PSALMS

No. 650P. Cloth; silk pattern; red edges. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

POCKET TESTAMENTS.

Emphasized American Standard Edition—Self-Pronouncing

No. 334X. Genuine Leather; morocco grain; divinity circuit; silk sewed; round corners; red under gold edges; title stamped on side in pure gold. Price, postpaid.....$2.00

No. 336X. Genuine Leather; morocco grain; limp; leather-lined to edge; silk sewed; round corners; red under gold edges; title stamped on side in pure gold. Price, postpaid.....$2.10

RED-LETTER HOLMAN POCKET TESTAMENT.

With all the words of our Lord printed in red. For ready reference there is no other edition so serviceable as the Red-Letter Testament, owing to the emphasis it gives to Christ's own words and the facility with which favorite passages may be found. Self-pronouncing.

No. 13. RL French Morocco; limp; gold side title; round corners; red under gold edges. Price, postpaid.....85¢

ADDRESS ALL ORDERS TO

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

MONEY SAVED IS MONEY MADE

Renew and Send New Subscribers to Gospel Advocate

NELSON'S TEACHERS' BIBLES

KING JAMES VERSION (Edited and Revised in 1611).

THE TEACHERS' BIBLE is the complete Bible, containing the Old and New Testaments, with full references, and the latest and best helps for Sunday-school Teachers, as described below.

THE CONCISE BIBLE DICTIONARY

Is a marked advance in Teachers' Helps. It is arranged in alphabetical order, being based on the Illustrated Bible Treasury, written by leading scholars in America and Great Britain, each one a recognized authority on the subject on which he writes. The Concise Bible Dictionary supplies in the most condensed and convenient form all the latest information about the Bible—its writers, its language, the various Versions, complete Chronology, Life of Christ with Harmony of the Gospel, Life and Travels of St. Paul, etc.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS

Were specially made for this work, being reproduced from recent photographs truly illustrating the articles where they appear.

THE COMBINED CONCORDANCE OR WORD FINDER

Combines Complete Concordance, Subject Index, Scripture Proper Names, Obsolete and Ambiguous Words in one A-B-C list.

THE TWELVE MAPS

Have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored, notably the reproduction of the Relief Map of Palestine, lately published by the Palestine Exploration Society. There is also a complete index to every place noted on the maps.

No. 7752.

MINION TYPE. SELF-PRONOUNCING EDITION.

Size 16mo, 5½ x 8½ inches and 1½ inches thick.

Specimen of Type.

dwelt in, whether it be good or bad; and what cities they be that they dwell in, whether in tents, or in strong holds;

20 And what the land is, whether it be 'fat or lean, whether there be wood therein, or not. And "be ye of good courage, and bring of the fruit of the land. Now the time was the time of the firstripe grapes.

* Amos 2. 9.
* Neh. 9. 25, 35.
Ezek. 34. 14.
* Heb. men of stature.
" Deut. 31. 6, 7.
23.
* Deut. 9. 2.
* Is. 40. 22.

searched unto the children of isra-él, saying, The land, through which we have gone to search it, is a land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof; and 'all the people that we saw in it are 'men of a great stature.

33 And there we saw the giants,
'the sons of A-nák, which come of the giants: and we were in our own

152. Nelson American Standard Bible. Reference edition; minion, 16mo; black faced; India paper.

With Gospel Advocate for one year..... $4.50

2152. Nelson American Standard Bible. Teachers' edition; minion, 16mo; black faced; self-pronouncing.

With Gospel Advocate for one year..... $5.00

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Castner-Knott

DRY GOODS CO.
"The Best Place to Shop, After All"

"THE STORE OF THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT"

Six Floors Full to Overflowing with Christmas-Gift Merchandise

GIFTS FOR MEN

GIFTS FOR WOMEN

GIFTS FOR BOYS

GIFTS FOR GIRLS

GIFTS FOR LITTLE TOTS AND INFANTS

And the Greatest and Most Select Display of Splendid

GIFT SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOME

When in Nashville, make "Castner's" your shopping headquarters. Read Castner's advertisements on Page 3 of Nashville Dailies, and send us Mail Orders. Our Personal Shopping Service guarantees satisfaction on every purchase.

Plan to Come to Nashville Week of December 11-16—Reduced Railroad Fares on Account of Fat Cattle Show, December 12, 13, 14—An Ideal Time to Do Your Christmas Shopping at Castner's.

Visit Toyland, or Write for Price List of the Greatest Collection of TOYS Ever Gathered Together in the South.

On Church Street and Capitol Boulevard

NASHVILLE, TENN.

COURTEOUS
EMPLOYEES

EFFICIENT ORGANIZATION

4
%
ON S A V
I N
G
S

4
%
ON S A V
I N
G
S

CONVENIENT LOCATION

SATISFACTORY SERVICE

A BRAND-NEW BOOK

"OLD LIMBER"

OR

THE TALE OF THE TAYLORS

By DeLONG RICE

"ALF and BOB TAYLOR, with their eloquence, their fiddles, and their fox hounds, have wrought for themselves a niche of eternal melody in the hearts of their country." So states the author of this little book, which we present as the best product of the pen of DeLong Rice.

With a "Cast of Characters extending from a President of the United States to a fox hound," the story touches a wide range of human sentiment; and through it all is the aroma of crackling camp fires and the music of the chase.

THE BOOK is beautifully printed and bound, appropriately illustrated, and packed in a neat gift box, ready for mailing.

PRICE, $1.00 THE COPY,
POSTPAID TO ANY ADDRESS.

Correspondence with Bookstores and News Agencies is invited.
Write to us to-day.

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

We still believe that the strength of this great nation really lies, not in her armaments and not in her standing armies, but in her godliness, in her national piety, in her righteousness, and in that godliness which fetches its inspiration from all that we learn and hear and receive in earthly temple.—Exchange.

Gospel Advocate

Volume LXIV. No. 50.

NASHVILLE, TENN., DECEMBER 14, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	1185
Our Duties—Rightly Dividing the Word of Truth—Was Job a Person or a Myth?—Disarmament of the Nations—More About Savannah, Ga.—Conduct Unbecoming a Preacher of the Gospel—More Baptist Bunk—Notes from West Tennessee—Commendations of Bible Lesson Helps.
EVANGELISTIC NOTES.....	1192
QUERY DEPARTMENT.....	1193
EDITORIAL.....	1194
Things Revealed and Practical in Religion—The Past and the Future—A Visit to St. Marys, West Virginia—Division: Its Causes.
HOME READING.....	1198
Selecting a Preacher.....	1199
OBITUARIES.....	1200
Teddle—Manner—Poe—Edgman—Parks.
Letter from a Young Christian.....	1202
An Appeal for Natchez, Miss.—Another Debate.....	1204
Word from Brother Yohannan.....	1205
FIELD REPORTS.....	1207
A Special Meeting for Preachers—Religious Papers.....	1208

Our Contributors

OUR DUTIES.

[Christians should never tire of hearing emphasis placed on duty. We need to be stirred and encouraged to do our duty. The following is from the pen of "D. L."—EDITOR.]

No truth has been more universally taught than that the first and greatest of all sins is to depart from the examples and precepts of the living God. This will be accepted as truth in theory by all who believe in the God of the Bible. Who doubts that this is and has been true of the human family? The most fatal step man could take after his creation was to depart from the laws and rules God laid down to guide man. He did this. The law was given to guide and keep him in the way of truth and righteousness and to preserve him pure and good in the sight of God. His first step was to violate the duties God laid upon him and to place him in new and sinful relations to God and the world. Instead of life and joy, peace and happiness, to the man and to the home in which he was to dwell, death and disaster, ruin and despair, settled upon the world, and man became the recipient and the heir of the inheritance of sorrow that afflicted the world.

In this sin of man and this ruin of the world, what should man do to regain the lost heritage of peace, life, and virtue? Sound reason would say: Return to God, the Maker and Creator, and learn from him the conditions that will please God, the Ruler and Savior, and learn of him what would please him for man to do. The Bible contains a history of the efforts of God to bring man back into union and harmony with God. The account of God's dealings with the generation that sinned and the succeeding ones down to the present time is given in the Bible. The strange thing is, God is willing to make the conditions of obedience easy to man, and he persists in traveling the path of disobedience.

Why is it men refuse to obey God? God makes his commands simple, easy of performance, without cost of money or labor, but men refuse to obey him that they may be blessed. Men do not object to doing great things. They do object to submitting humbly and faithfully to the law of God. Men do great things not commanded of God. They refuse to do simple and easy things which God commands them to do. They love disobedience. They rejoice in burdens they select and put upon each other. Take the professed followers of Jesus in the city of Nashville. A great work is proposed to save people. How shall it be done? By undoing the things that condemned them? By substituting obedience to God for disobedience to him? Take the professed servants of God in Tennessee, how many will prescribe the divine rule of obeying God? The steps God requires are simple and personal in each saving himself, and then each leading a life of conformity and simplicity to the will of God in saving others. How many will hearken to God and do his will and be saved? The religious world proposes to do great things that possess no moral qualities and guarantee no salvation to a soul. God alone can offer salvation to the world. His order alone can bring men to be saved. God's conditions and provisions for salvation are simple, without cost, and easily observed. But man takes to this service slowly and indifferently. Man loves to do something great. When God's order for the healing of Naaman, the leper, was made known to him, and he hesitated and rejected the terms in wrath, his servants told him: "If the prophet had told thee to do some great thing, wouldest thou not have done it? how much rather then, when he saith to thee, Wash, and be clean?" In our age God requires us to believe in and trust him. "Wash, and be clean." Do the people obey? They are interested in the subject of religion and salvation. They are ready to do great things in the name of their own churches and for their own glory and honor. But what are they ready to do for Christ or God, to honor and serve him? The world stands under condemnation and wrath, doomed to eternal ruin for rebellion against God. God tells them to love him, to obey his commandments and walk in his ways. Do they do it? Prompted by their own resolution to be religious in their own way, they call on the people, religious and irreligious, to contribute two hundred thousand dollars to build a hall for the Young Men's Christian Association. The world accounts that as doing something great in religion. What does God think of it? Did he ever order such an association? Does he promise to bless and save through such associations? Does it honor him to build up such associations? Does it save men? Will the building of a two-hundred-thousand-dollar building in Nashville or other city save a soul? Where is the Father's promise? Christ and his apostles never taught that type of Christianity. They went to the lowly in the garb and manner of the humble and lowly, and they stooped to lift them up and make them children of God. Our first plea for man was that God's provisions are the best and only means of saving men. Our last and homely plea is, man must trust God and be led by him into the ways of salvation. God alone can save; he will save only by his own appointments and through submission to God's requirements. Can man humble himself before God and accept salvation on God's conditions?

I have always said, and always will say, that the studious perusal of the Sacred Volume will make better citizens, better fathers, and better husbands.—Thomas Jefferson.

Rightly Dividing the Word of Truth.

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

Many years ago you rarely ever attended a meeting held by a brother who was laboring to restore the New Testament conditions of salvation to the world that you did not hear at least one discourse on the subject, "Rightly Dividing the Word of Truth." But many of us take it for granted that the world is sufficiently enlightened on that subject, and we are about to pass it by without a thought or an effort. But many are held in bondage to false teaching because they do not understand this subject. As evidence of the great need of faithful teaching on this subject, I here quote from the Baptist Record of November 2:

There has been more foolishness written and spoken about this passage of scripture (2 Tim. 2: 15) than almost any other in the Bible; and that is putting it strong. Almost as much energy has been misspent in misinterpreting the Word as there has been misspent in denying its divine origin. There is a group of people who want to divide up the Bible into various ages or dispensations, showing that one part of it is intended for one age and another for another. That is just one way of getting rid of what they don't like in the Bible. Jesus said one jot or one tittle of it shall never pass away. It is brazen mockery to split it up into periods. It is one and indivisible, true, and unchangeable.

There are others who use this scripture to justify the application of some scriptures to one class of people and other scriptures exclusively to another class of people. This, too, is a species of folly, for the whole Bible was intended for every one of us. Some people are entirely too fond of splitting the truth. Paul had nothing of this in mind when he wrote to Timothy: "Give diligence to present thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, holding a straight course in the world of truth."

I grant the correctness of the brother's first sentence, and in further proof of his statement I submit the item above quoted from him as Exhibit A, and I want it made a part of the proof of the indictment. The brother says there is a group of people who want to divide up the Bible into various ages and dispensations, showing that one part of it is intended for one age and another for another. Whether it is right to say that one part is intended for one age and another for another, or not, it is right to know that God commanded people in one age to do things which he has not commanded other people in other ages to do.

"By faith Noah, being warned of God concerning things not seen as yet, moved with godly fear, prepared an ark to the saving of his house; through which he condemned the world, and became heir of the righteousness which is according to faith." (Heb. 11: 7.) While I would not say that this language is not intended for us in the present day, in any sense, I do say that God never gave the commandment to build an ark to any man in any age, except Noah in that age. If this puts me in the "group," then I am willing to be in that group, notwithstanding the fearful indictment the gentleman brings against the group.

"If any one shall sin unwittingly, in any of the things which Jehovah hath commanded not to be done, and shall do any one of them: if the anointed priest shall sin so as to bring guilt on the people, then let him offer for his sin, which he hath sinned, a young bullock without blemish unto Jehovah for a sin offering." (Lev. 4: 2, 3.) How any one could believe that this commandment should be obeyed now is unreasonable. Does this put me in the group? If so, then I want to be in it.

"God, having of old time spoken unto the fathers in the prophets by divers portions and in divers manners, hath at the end of these days spoken unto us in his Son." (Heb. 1: 1, 2.) The writer evidently makes a distinction between the "old time" and "these days," as well as a distinction between "our fathers" and "us." He even makes a distinction in the manner through which God has spoken to our fathers and to us. To them he spoke in the prophets;

to us, in his Son. Still the brother thinks there is no different ages or dispensations, but that the commands of the Bible are all applicable alike to all people. "Having blotted out the bond written in ordinances that was against us, which was contrary to us: and he hath taken it out of the way, nailing it to the cross." (Col. 2: 14.) "He taketh away the first, that he may establish the second." (Heb. 10: 9.) Still that first covenant, which has been taken away, is just as applicable to us as the second, which was established upon better promises! "To them that are without law, as without law, not being without law to God, but under law to Christ, that I might gain them that are without law." (1 Cor. 9: 21.)

But the brother makes a fearful indictment against us when he says: "That is just one way of getting rid of what they don't like in the Bible." I am not conscious of disliking anything that is in the Bible, but I do want to understand it; and in order to do so, it appears to me, we should recognize its divisions.

The brother says: "Jesus said one jot or one tittle of it shall never pass away." I respectfully deny that statement. It contains only a part of what Jesus said; and to make Jesus say that, he had to cut a sentence into two pieces and leave out one of the pieces. What Jesus really said was: "Till heaven and earth pass away, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass away from the law, till all things be accomplished." I quote from the Common Version: "Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill. For verily I say unto you, Till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled." (Matt. 5: 17, 18.) Does not this imply that when it was fulfilled it would pass from the law? And Jesus fulfilled every jot and tittle of the law. Hence, Jesus said exactly the reverse of what the gentleman said he did. This is the worst kind of a misrepresentation. Talk about "getting rid of what they don't like!" This is one way of doing it in which I do not envy my brother in the least.

The gentleman says: "There are others who use this scripture to justify the application of some scriptures to one class of people and other scriptures exclusively to another class of people." Well, I have tried to justify the application of some scriptures to one class and other scriptures to another class of people, and I have not used this text yet to do it. For instance, I justify that fact by the passage already used—God hath spoken to our fathers and he hath spoken to us. Are not here two classes of people mentioned, and two distinct classes of scriptures—one in the prophets and the other in or through his Son?

But the brother says: "This, too, is a species of folly, for the whole Bible was intended for every one of us." Yes, the Bible was intended for every one of us and everybody else, too; but every command of the Bible was not given to us, for some of it was spoken to our fathers and some was spoken to us.

But the gentleman says that "some people are entirely too fond of splitting the truth." I wonder what he was doing when he cut one of the Savior's sentences into two parts and left out one of the parts? This was very close to splitting the truth. I do not believe in splitting it, but I do believe in giving to each his portion, all of his portion, in due season. This is not splitting it.

But the gentleman has the passage to read, "holding a straight course in the world of truth." The American Standard Edition of the New Testament reads, "handling aright the word of truth," but in the margin two other renderings are given. One is, "holding a straight course in the word of truth," and the other, "rightly dividing the word of truth." But does a preacher handle aright the word of truth, or hold a straight course in the word of truth, or rightly divide the word of truth, who goes to the Old Testament to learn what to do to be saved, instead of the Acts of Apostles, or who goes back to the Jewish worship to learn how to worship God to-day, instead of to the New Testament? This would, indeed, be a very crooked course in the word of truth. Let us continue to preach on the proper division of the word of God, for this benighted editor of the Baptist persuasion herein shows the need of just such preaching.

Was Job a Person or a Myth?

BY JAMES E. CHESSOR.

Was there in reality such a person as Job? Or is Job merely a fiction, a creation like Milton's Il Penseroso? As the genius of Milton created an ideal meditative man, did some unknown genius also create an ideal sorrowful man—Job, sorrowful—the personification of distress, affliction, and persecution? Was Job a person or a myth? My conviction leads me to make emphatic answer. I believe that Job was a man of flesh and blood, a man of like passions with us, and that the book which bears his name is a true history of his trial and perseverance. I believe also that the book of Job is scripture inspired of God. The ground for this faith will appear in the following paragraphs.

It is argued that the book of Job has every mark of an allegory. Allegories and parables are not uncommon in the Scriptures. A case is supposed, set in motion, and then the narrative proceeds as if it were real. Such is the case, it is urged, in Job. The author of the poem, designing to illustrate important truths, chose the allegorical method as better suited for the graphic presentation of the case. Sympathy for the sufferer is the more readily enlisted and the arguments are enforced with more speedy and pronounced effect. In support of this view of the poem, it is alleged that the interview of Satan, with Jehovah, the so-called "council in heaven," is in the highest degree improbable and does not comport with reality. Since it is the purpose of this article as a single effect to convince the reader that the narrative has all the aspects of reality, attention will be directed to specific objections to this assumption. First, what is the bearing of the aforesaid interview upon the reality of the case? The interview is so improbable, it is argued, that it throws an air of fiction over the book. So, if the interview be no more than a poetic supposition, why not conclude the entire book to be fictitious? This argument is without force. For even if this interview were not to be regarded as real, it does not prove that such a man as Job did not live or that the events with which he had to do were not real. He might have had an existence, and been stripped of his possessions, and subjected to long and painful trial, even though the interview were mere poetic ornament and figure. Whether real or fancied, it does not affect Job's reality on earth nor the part he played in the trial and controversy. The issue is whether Job lived and suffered and triumphed, or whether he is the mere figment of a poet's brain.

It is urged also that the artificiality of statements concerning Job's possessions disprove the reality of the book. Take the round numbers, for instance—seven thousand sheep, three thousand camels, five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred she-asses. Then there are the sacred numbers—seven and three. Job had seven thousand sheep, seven sons both before and after the trial; his three friends came and sat down with him seven days and seven nights before attempting to console him; and both before and after his trial he had three daughters. After his recovery and in his old age Job is given the same number of children—seven sons and three daughters—that he had before the calamity, and his property is exactly doubled. This singular recurrence of round, doubled, and sacred numbers is so unusual and improbable, so they argue, that the story of necessity is a supposed one. In answer, it may be observed, first, that as to the use of round numbers, this is no more than what constantly occurs in historical statements. Nothing is more common in the enumeration of armies, of the people of a country, or of herds and flocks, than approximate statements. The same holds true with reference to the statement that Job's possessions were exactly doubled after his trial. Nor does this doubling of his possessions and the giving of the same number of children in his old age affect the reality of the account. This was Jehovah's blessing—"the end of the Lord," as James puts it; and it was, indeed, very real. "Jehovah gave Job twice as much as he had before." "So Jehovah blessed the latter end of Job more than his beginning." This is mere history.

Again, we have an objection to the reality of the poem based upon the superior quality of the speeches, critics averring that such lofty speeches could not have been spoken extempore. It must be admitted that the speeches are elaborate and profound; that the statements are sententious, and the diction sublime; and that the arguments have every aspect of studied effort. It seems to me that such admirable speeches could not have been spoken extempore by uninspired men in the stress of debate. But I do not think that this is a valid argument against the reality of the poem. Granted that these arguments were of too high an order to be uttered impromptu in the form in which we have them. What then? It might be true that substantially the arguments were advanced, but not in the fine form in which we have them, and that they were afterwards wrought by Job himself or by some other hand into their present excellent poetic shape. Doubtless the speeches were written and adorned later. Inspiration would take care of the final form of the poem.

These are substantially all the arguments that have been urged against the historical character of the book of Job. It remains to be observed that Job's existence is expressly declared, not only in the book of Job, but also in other books of the Bible. The book of Job begins with this statement: "There was a man in the land of Uz, whose name was Job." The book thus opens with the appearance of reality, with the express declaration that there was such a man. His name and place of residence are mentioned, his character is described, and mention is made of his family and wealth. Indeed, the first two chapters of the book and a part of the last chapter are simple historical records in prose.

There are two inspired allusions that specially attest the historical reality of Job. In Ezek. 14: 14, God says: "Though these three men, Noah, Daniel, and Job, were in it [the land], they should deliver but their own souls by their righteousness." Here Job is referred to as a real character as distinctly as Noah and Daniel; the three are spoken of alike as men, and as having souls. The apostle James (5: 11) makes mention of Job: "Ye have heard of the patience of Job, and have seen the end of the Lord, how that the Lord is full of pity, and merciful." There can be no doubt that reference is here made to a real person, not a fictitious character; for the Lord's compassion is surely for those who have suffered actually and in the flesh. It is therefore incredible that James should appeal in this instance to the case of "the sorrowful man" that existed only in fiction. Ezekiel mentions Job just as he does Noah and Daniel, and James mentions him just as he does Elijah. Job was no less a man than Noah and Daniel and Elijah, and his existence was no less real than the existence of those men.

Lastly, the mentioning of names and places is not such as would occur in an allegory. Names and places are unnecessary and of rare occurrence in figurative narratives. Take, for example, the parable of the prodigal son; neither the name of the father, nor of the sons, nor of the places where the scenes occurred, is mentioned. But in Job we have the name of the sufferer and the place of his residence, as if he were well known; the names likewise of his three friends, together with their respective countries; and the express mention of the Sabeans and the Chaldeans—specifications wholly superfluous and improbable if the poem is an allegory. The single word "robbers" would have sufficed for these marauding bands, just as it answered in the parable of the good Samaritan, if the story had not been real. But the story is real. Job actually lived. Of this I have not the slightest doubt.

Yes, we have heard of the patience of Job, and to us who believe the Bible it is very real. His trial is real, his integrity is real, his blessing is real. And we have seen the end of the Lord, how full of pity he is, and how merciful. This is not myth with us. It is faith. Hence, we go to Job in full assurance for consolation and counsel, accepting the story as inspired in every part and as holding a unique and indispensable value for us. We are not doubtful, but believing.

Disarmament of the Nations.

BY K. C. MOSER.

I am certain that Christians are too slow to take advantage of the opportunity now afforded them to speak out on the subject of disarmament. Shall we permit the children of this world to be wiser in their generation than the children of light? I am persuaded that Christians should manifest a greater interest in the disarmament of the nations than others. The very spirit of Christianity is the spirit of "peace on earth and good will toward men." The world seems to have forgot, in a measure, the horrors of the late war. Scarcely before the smoke of battle has cleared away, the wounds of soldiers have been healed, and the moans of the dying have been hushed, many, including Christians, are "eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage," just as though a terrible war had not disgraced a civilized world and all danger of future wars was averted! Cannot the world watch for one hour?

But what has disarmament to do with preserving peace? Much in every way. Even a dog whose teeth have been extracted knows better than to risk a battle with his fellows. If man cannot be as "wise as serpents," certainly he should possess the sagacity of the dog. The teeth of the war dogs should be extracted rather than sharpened for another and more terrible conflict. Disarmament would have the same effect on nations that it does on individuals. Many times trivial misunderstandings have resulted in serious troubles because men were armed. Germany was armed and well trained, so she needed little or no provocation to plunge into war. It takes no logician to see the connection between preparedness and war. Had Germany not had a great army in readiness, she would not have risked a war. When a boy learns a speech, he wants to recite it. The world is sick of the program Germany learned so well and "rendered" so effectively. If we want the boy to refrain from saying speeches, we must take the "speech book" away from him. Even if disarmament of the nations would not prevent wars, it would at least postpone them, and thereby give time for serious thought which might lead to arbitration.

But disarmament is desirable even if it were known that war would not thereby be averted. Billions of dollars are spent yearly for the construction of battleships that become obsolete within ten years or less time. Taxes are high and going higher because of the mad rivalry between the nations to excel each other in the building of navies. Past war debts and expenditures for future wars are sapping the very life of the nations. No prosperity can finally endure it. But even to this dark picture there is a ray of hope. The new German envoy to the United States says that it would be impossible for Germany to fight now because she is bankrupt. If it takes universal bankruptcy to bring permanent peace, then let it come; or, would some who object to "peace at any price" find fault with this suggestion? It looks as if man is doomed to see the folly of his ways. Will man's wisdom finally prove his Waterloo?

But even to concede that disarmament will bring about peace, what can poor, weak Christians do? I would suggest that you consider that "the prayer of a righteous man availeth much;" and, furthermore, that the most high God still rules in the kingdoms of men. His ear is not heavy that it cannot hear, nor his hand shortened that it cannot save. "Take it to the Lord in prayer." "I exhort therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; for kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty. For this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Savior." (1 Tim. 2. 1-3.)

But aside from our prayers there is something we can do. We can help to create a public sentiment against war and for disarmament. Popular sentiment is the greatest force on earth. It cannot be resisted by man. The throne of popular sentiment stands intact, while others about it crumble into dust. Its rule is all but absolute. Popular sentiment has presided at the birth or hastened the progress of every far-reaching reform inaugurated by man. Why, then, should we keep silence? How can we keep silence when so much depends on our being heard? The blood of millions now dead and of millions yet to die, unless war is averted, will be on our heads unless we do our part. Their blood is even now crying to us from the ground. Shall we shamefully close our ears and hearts and make no response?

Let disarmament be talked in the home, taught in the schools, proclaimed from the pulpit, and championed by the press, "till nations shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks," and learn war no more.

More About Savannah, Ga.

BY S. H. HALL.

Some weeks ago I gave a brief report of my meeting in Savannah, Ga., and asked all who would to assist me in eliminating a note for eleven hundred and fifty-five dollars which a few friends in Nashville enabled me to borrow and give to the Savannah brethren's efforts to get into a house of their own. It would be well just here to say a word about helping to build church houses at different places. I remember that Brother David Lipscomb once said that if there were not brethren enough in a town or community to build a house, there would not be enough to take care of it after it was built; and if we have enough brethren to build a house and they will not, they have not interest enough to take care of the house after it is built. There is much truth in this statement. But there are times and places when outside help must be rendered. When we strike our larger towns and cities, it is well to select a good location and put up a better building than we usually do in the country. To go to a back alley and put up a small building in an inconvenient place and expect to grow to the heart of the city is a mistake, while this sometimes has to be done. And a few brethren cannot handle the situation when it comes to securing the location that should be had in such places as Savannah. Then, to open a mission in a hall on the second or third floor and let the work drag along for three or four years is not the way to establish a good, strong church in a town like Savannah. Knowing this to be true, I wanted the Savannah brethren to get into a permanent home in a good location, and that at once. I learned that with about fifteen hundred dollars outside help they could do this. So I got busy and borrowed the money and sent it to them, with the exception of about four hundred dollars that I had already secured and sent to them. So, in about sixty days' time after receiving my check, they were in their house, happy and growing weekly. Remember, they have their monthly notes to meet for a while, and two years from the date of purchase a fifteen-hundred-dollar note to meet, and this clears the building. All of this they are doing and will do. In fact, we are hoping for them to meet all notes ahead of time, and this they are now doing for the monthly notes.

Brother Rawlings reports the work doing well since the close of my meeting there, which was supported by the Russell Street brethren, in Nashville, Tenn., except the incidental expense of going and returning, which was taken care of by the Savannah brethren. I give the following statements from his letter:

Brother Hail: Things are moving nicely here. We all certainly miss you, and feel that you have accomplished splendid results. We hated to see you leave, especially when interest was so good, and we hope you can come back for a much longer stay. Mr. — (whom you will remember attended so well) has begun to ask questions, and we are expecting him to come in before long. Also the — family have asked a number of Bible questions, and we hope that they, too, will soon be numbered with us.

There was but one thing wrong with the meeting—viz., It was too short! If I could have remained two more weeks, I believe we could have had forty or fifty additions. It seems to me that it is almost a sin to go to such places on limited time. I hope to see a four-weeks' revival in Savannah sometime next year, conducted under a tent in the Central Park. I shall see if a few strong congregations will not take it in hand to let Savannah have such a meeting. I firmly believe that one such meeting would put the work there fifteen years ahead of time. By this I mean that one such meeting would in four weeks put the work where it, perhaps, would be in fifteen years from now without such an effort. Towns should be stirred from center to circumference, and that at once. This is the way the apostles did.

Since last report I have received $97.49 toward eliminating the note for borrowed money we donated to Savannah. This has enabled us to reduce the note from $1,155 to $837.51, not counting the interest for the additional time the note must run, which makes us owe this much more. Will not each friend who reads this hurry a check on to me, at 920 Russell Street, Nashville, Tenn., and enable me to get this out of the way of other work that I must get to soon?

Conduct Unbecoming a Preacher of the Gospel.

BY R. O. KENLEY.

During the early part of this year a Presbyterian minister at Lawton, Okla., was charged, tried, and convicted of being guilty of conduct unbecoming a Presbyterian minister, and his conviction was subsequently upheld by the appellate body of the Presbyterian Church. The facts proved against him were that he had performed a marriage ceremony for a couple while both he and they were in a swimming pool and attired in bathing suits. To this conviction all righteous people gave approval.

In the Fort Worth Star-Telegram of Sunday, November 5, 1922, I read a report of the meeting at Quanah, Texas, of the Northwest Texas Annual Methodist Conference. Among the things considered by said conference was the plea for reinstatement of Rev. O. P. Kiker, formerly presiding elder in said conference, and whose authority to preach had been revoked some six or seven years previous. His plea was denied by an overwhelming vote. Mr. Kiker, in his behalf, claimed that he had received forgiveness from God, had fully repented, and proved that for six long years he had lived an exemplary life, testified to by the Dallas Pastors' Association and the Quarterly Conference of the Oak Cliff Methodist Church, where he has since been an active church member.

Rev. J. W. Story, presiding elder of the Amarillo District, said that, however much he personally would like it, he could not vote to reinstate Mr. Kiker, as his restoration would be an embarrassment to every preacher. This statement (as shown by said report) was greeted with applause and amens.

I give you a synopsis of above matters so that ministers and members of the church of Christ may see how our religious neighbors regard the enormity of sins committed by their ministers. How do we treat our ministers when they have been guilty of conduct unbecoming a minister, or even a Christian? As a rule, we leave the matter entirely to the minister. If he wishes to do so, he makes a little "if-I-have-done-anything-wrong confession," and continues to pretend to preach and teach the word of God, with the world and all outsiders knowing his public sins. Then we wonder why the world will not accept our teachings.

I have heard of some of our preachers being guilty of adultery and drunken debauchery and coming in and making a pretended confession and never missing a sermon. My idea is that the minister of the church of Christ who is guilty of adultery or some other serious public crime should be retired as a public minister for the balance of his life. If he swindles or robs or cheats his fellow man, he should be retired until such time as he fully repents, which in every instance must be evidenced by full restitution. I fully understand that God will forgive men of their sins and wickedness and relieve them from the guilt thereof, but in no age of the world do we have any record of men being relieved from the consequences of sin. One of the consequences of grievous sins committed by ministers of the gospel should be a relegation to a humble and quiet place in the church of Christ and a prohibition against them ever again attempting to teach publicly. There are a great many of our preachers who cannot declare the teaching of the Bible on adultery, lying, cheating, debt making, and "dead beating," nor can they rebuke members for so doing, because it is publicly known that they, while ministers of the gospel, have been guilty of like sins. Again, we are not taught to respect the law of Christ in that when a preacher has been disciplined or withdrawn from by one congregation and is in bad repute and standing with said congregation, another congregation will receive such preacher, engage him to hold a protracted meeting, and many times to locate and do regular work. The action of one congregation of the church of Christ with regard to a member thereof should be, and in the sight of Jehovah is, just as binding upon every other congregation as judgments and decrees of one court of a State are binding upon every other court of the same State. Brethren, we should recognize this rule, and our preachers should declare it from the pulpit. When we do, we will cease recognizing and supporting religious criminals.

Every evangelist or minister offering to preach in a community where he is not intimately known should carry with him and present, and the congregation with whom he is offering to labor should demand, a certificate of not too remote a date, from the elders of his home congregation as to his church standing.

When the above suggestions are rigidly enforced, the church of Christ will have a clean ministry and we will command the respect of all men everywhere.

I am not a preacher, but have been and am giving some thought to the obstacles to the growth and spread of New Testament religion, and believe that I am striking at some of the greatest.

More Baptist Bunk.

BY W. H. CARTER.

The three witnesses presented by C. B. Massey are all dead men. The tale told on them was never heard of till they were dead and, therefore, unable to affirm or deny. But it is not singular that these tales were all started by Baptists. In the case of Meador, on the Lord's day before his death, several brethren and sisters assembled in his room, in the evening, and he took the bread and wine with them, and expressed himself as being satisfied, contented, and happy. On up to his death he expressed himself as being at peace. Nothing else was heard or known until at his grave, when his son, the "good man and a Baptist," sprang the surprise, made the great revelation, which Massey, in the absence of scripture proofs, publishes to the world to prove to Baptists that they are right.

But let us suppose that the tale told on the three dead men, and reported by C. B. Massey, is actually true. Then what? Would it follow as a logical conclusion that the Son of God told a falsehood when he said: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved?" That the Holy Spirit, through Peter, preached "Campbellism" when he said: "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins?" That Ananias, who told Saul to "arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord," was a "Campbellite?" Well, he calls me a "Campbellite" because I preach just what these men did.

The whole truth is, Massey depends more on human testimony than he does on the testimony of God. These three men were human, and Massey arrays them against the record God has given of his Son. He believes men and makes God a liar. "He that believeth not God hath made him a liar; because he believeth not the record God gave of his Son." (1 John 5: 10.) "If we receive the witness of men, the witness of God is greater." (Verse 9.) Should it be that the statement of these men, as related by Massey, is true, does it prove that God's record is not true? God tells us that Jesus said, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." Massey admits these men did this, calls it "Campbellism," says these men renounced it and were told by a Baptist preacher what to do to be saved. Paul says: "Let God be true, but every man a liar." As to which is true, God or Massey, we leave the reader to decide.

But, in the face of his own teaching, he says the Baptist preacher told these men what to do. And yet you quote "not of works," and apply it to the unsaved. Jesus told Saul he should be told what to do. And Ananias, the man sent to him, told him to "arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord." Did this Baptist preacher tell these men to do that? No, he calls that "Campbellism," does not believe it, and uses these men, who cannot speak for themselves, to disprove God's word. Shame on such a man! With him, to believe and do what God says in his word is "Campbellite heresy;" but to go to a mourners' bench and pray for pardon, a thing God has never told an alien sinner to do, a substitute of heathenism for the will of the Lord, is what C. B. Massey does. P. S. Dyer, the one he has in the fabrication to tell Uncle George White "what to do to be saved," has recently so manipulated a grove meeting that a man sprinkled sawdust on a boy's head, saying he was giving him salvation. This was here in Macon County, and of the gang that puts out these slanderous reports about the dead.

But he says of those whom he calls "Campbellites:" "They take the belief for the truth, for faith." What is the truth? Jesus says: "Thy word is truth." (John 17: 17.) To believe the truth, the word of God, with Massey, is Campbellism; but to disbelieve the truth, and substitute straw and sawdust for baptism, is his kind of Baptistism. No wonder they are grave robbers and slanderers of the dead.

Again, he says, after quoting Isa. 55: 7: "So when one quits his sins he is only getting ready to repent and come to God." Now, is it not a pity that some of the Massey gang had not been there to teach Isaiah? But as he is dealing with the dead, why not correct Isaiah? Massey says repentance is before faith, and one who "quits his sins is only getting ready to repent." Now, "Cap.," what has caused him to "quit his sins?"

Speaking of "Campbellites," he says: "They claim the mere change of mind and being baptized for salvation, and know nothing of any other change." "Cap.," has got to be quite a knowing chap. He not only misrepresents the dead on the fabrications of others, but assumes to know the extent of the knowledge of others. Surely he is great in his own estimation; but in this he displays either his ignorance or the wickedness of his own heart. I am sure he has had opportunity to learn better from Knight, Beasley, and Clark; and to say he does know better might be a misrepresentation of his mental condition. I have said (and repeat here), he has not the moral courage nor the Christian bravery to state truths and facts and meet them as they are. He calls Mark 16: 16; Acts 2: 38; 22: 16; and 1 Pet. 3: 21 "Campbellism," and then opposes them under his misrepresentation, and thus shows his infidelity. He may hide his unbelief from many in this way, but truth will assert itself. "Be sure your sin will find you out."

He says belief of the truth is not faith. Paul says: "But we are bound to give thanks always to God for you, brethren beloved of the Lord, because God hath from the beginning chosen you to salvation through sanctification of the Spirit and belief of the truth: whereunto he called you by our gospel, to the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ." (2 Thess. 2: 13, 14.) To believe the truth was faith enough to save the Thessalonians. But Massey calls this "Campbellism." Now, "Cap.," if one must believe more than the truth or something not contained in the truth, will you tell us what that something is? Is not that what one must believe in order to "get religion," as you say Meador, White, and Parkhurst did?

Notes from West Tennessee.

BY JOHN R. WILLIAMS.

Since my last "Notes from West Tennessee"—"Something Wrong"—I have received many letters, some from preachers, some from male elders, and some from good, faithful wives, commending the article and calling for more on the subject of the "she elder." Some have said to me: "You had our congregation in mind when you wrote that article." Some things are said about the article that are not very flattering—to my wife, at least. If I can only put a check to the bossy rule of the "she elders" for a while, I am willing to bear with all they say of me.

There are but few congregations in West Tennessee that are not afflicted with the bossy-woman rule, and, sorry to say, fewer homes. No home is after God's order where the wife rules, and sooner or later that home becomes a place of strife, hatred, and evil contention. "I am so sorry that Brother Williams has been called to hold our meeting. He is so hard on the sects they won't hear him; so we won't have any meeting this time." But I remember that Christ said: "Every plant which my heavenly Father planted not, shall be rooted up." (Matt. 15: 13.) If sectarianism is right, the Bible is wrong. But the Bible is right; therefore, sectarianism is wrong.

But what cares a bossy "she elder" for what the Bible says? In the first place, they are as ignorant as bats of its teaching; in the second place, they have no desire to know what it teaches. The preacher does not have to remain long in a home until he learns whether the home is ruled and governed by what God says or by what the devil says. God or the devil rules in every home, and God or the devil rules in every congregation.

In homes ruled by the bossy "she elder," even their children, not out of the sixth grade in school, will object to and criticize the efforts of godly men to teach and develop the congregations. As a rule, children give the first evidence of the bossy wife. An elder after God's pattern would not criticize a preacher in the hearing of his children. Neither would he criticize his brethren and sisters in the hearing of his children. So when you hear the young members criticizing the older ones and finding fault with the preachers, you have positive evidence that the wife rules in that home, and sooner or later you will feel her influence in the congregation, and that influence will not be of the kind and nature that Christ created and put to work while here upon earth.

Few congregations have the stamina to withstand the "she-elder" rule. When once the ipse dixit of the "she elder" has been expressed by the henpecked husband, the whole congregation will fall in line rather than ruffle the feathers of the "she boss."

Once a wife said to me in the presence of her husband: "I do not like Brother Haskins." (Brother Haskins is now dead.) I asked her why. She said: "I never heard him preach a discourse that he did not quote Mark 16: 15, 16 two or three times." I asked her what was wrong with Mark 16: 15, 16. "O, if you quote that, you make the sects mad, and make the people think they will be lost if they are not baptized." I asked: "Sister, do you really and truly believe that Christ told the truth when he uttered that language?" "O, certainly, but we all don't see alike." So there you are! Another woman said to me: "When Jim and I were married, he belonged to the Campbellite church, but I made him join my church." I requested her to tell me if Jim had any better chance for heaven in "her church" than he did in the "Campbellite church." "Well, I don't know about that, but I made him join mine." Poor Jim! He had no chance for heaven in a "Campbellite church," and a less chance while living with that kind of a wife.

During the meeting at Obion a few months ago an educated young lady heard Brother Taylor preach. She said: "I don't like that kind of preaching. He doesn't preach anything but what the Bible says." Without a "change of heart," that young lady will make a first-class "she elder."

Next, "Something More."

Commendations of Bible Lesson Helps.

"I think every Sunday school should have them. I like them very much. They are scriptural and plain." (H. R. Daniel.)

"I very gladly commend your Lesson Helps. They are among the very best. I shall hope to urge their use wherever I may go." (T. E. Tatum.)

"I have in the past recommended, and continue to recommend, the Gospel Advocate literature as being the best that I know of." (H. B. Young.)

"I have been acquainted with your literature for a number of years. Have received some of it recently. I think it is good." (D. T. Broadus.)

"Your Lesson Helps are splendid, and I heartily recommend their use in studying and teaching the Bible to our children and neighbors." (S. W. Colson.)

"I have received samples of Bible Lesson Helps, and must say that I am sure there are no better, and no congregation will make a mistake in using them." (Vernon Rozar.)

"I received samples of Bible-school literature, and I am glad to give you my indorsement of the same. They are great helps to Bible study, and I shall recommend them." (J. M. Rice.)

"I wish to especially commend your effort to publish a periodical for the boys and girls that is 'worth while,' and wish you every success in your work of producing 'worth-while' literature." (C. Netterville.)

"I am glad to say that I have used your literature and Bible Lesson Helps a long time in my work, and find them fine and well adapted to teaching the Bible in all grades, and will gladly recommend them to all who need and use such helps." (J. O. Barnes.)

"I surely think them excellent; just such as would be expected coming from such brethren as Smith and Srygley. We are highly pleased with them. We have been using them since I came to this field, and expect to order them for the next quarter." (T. C. Fox.)

"I received the samples of Bible-class literature. They are fine—just about perfect. In fact, anything that has the Gospel Advocate behind it does not need any other indorsement. We have been using it for years. Success to you in your worthy work." (F. L. Young.)

"The Plainview church has for several years used to good advantage your Bible-school Helps, and is highly pleased with the present Quarterlies, so plainly and concisely written by the efficient brethren, Smith and Srygley. We shall continue to use the Helps." (O. M. Reynolds.)

"The Quarterlies and other Helps to Bible study which you send out to-day are meeting our every wish and hope. The ease with which they present the greatest lessons this world has ever known or may ever know makes them incentives to the accomplishment of that great end." (Warren E. Starnes.)

"The mechanical work and editorial simplicity of the Quarterlies mark a high tide in the splendid work that is always done by the Gospel Advocate Company. Brethren Smith and Srygley are the 'right men in the right place,' for they ever and always write with a vigor that is both interesting and instructive." (R. L. Hart.)

"With pleasure I commend to the brotherhood the series of Bible studies offered by the Gospel Advocate Company. I have had occasion to examine this literature, and pronounce it very good. If each teacher in our Bible classes would use it and encourage each pupil to make frequent reference to the Bible as suggested by the Quarterlies, it would greatly stimulate Bible study." (J. D. Harvey.)

I am glad to express to you my indorsement of the arrangement and presentation of the lessons of the new Quarterlies which you sent me for examination. They are clear, logical, and concise. I feel that the different grades in Sunday-school work who use these Quarterlies will immediately grasp the thought that is meant to be conveyed. I unhesitatingly commend these Bible helps to the brotherhood, and bespeak great progress for those who use them. (E. E. Shoulders.)

I have examined the three Quarterlies, and am glad to say that I find them to be in that high grade that the literature you have formerly sent out has ever maintained, both in the mechanical work and editorial strength. The very fact that F. W. Smith edits the Advanced Quarterly and F. B. Srygley the Primary and Intermediate should be commendation enough as to the soundness and clearness of the doctrine taught in them. I wish them a large circulation. (S. H. Hall.)

"Sample Bible Lessons to hand, and I have examined them, and pronounce them fine for Sunday-school and private studies. I do not see how these lessons, could be improved. We are using these lessons in Algerita Sunday school. I shall recommend your literature to the brethren where I preach. I find that where these lesson helps are used we have better church workers and the preacher's work is not so hard. Converts from Bible schools using Bible helps are the best workers. On with the good work!" (G. R. Lane.)

"All this year I have been very closely following the lessons of International Bible Study as presented by Brother Smith in the Advanced Quarterly. To say that I like the splendid, uncompromising way he presents the truth on all points states the fact mildly. The logical arrangement and division of subjects, with the pointed comments on the Golden Text, make the lessons a pleasure to study outside of the fact that they are the word of the Lord. I have not so closely examined the less advanced lessons by Brother Srygley, but see that they, too, are first-class." (F. L. Paisley.)

"In regard to literature sent me recently, will say that I have been using your Lesson Helps for some time, and like them fine. I want to encourage all people everywhere to use all the real, genuine, scriptural helps toward a fuller and richer knowledge of God's word that they can get. This, after all, pays better than any investment in hogs or farms and is the duty of every child of God. We use helps in the study of anything else, and profit by their knowledge and help on those subjects. Why not use helps by godly men in the study of the greatest Book in the world?" (L. E. Carpenter.)

Evangelistic Notes

S. V. McCasland changes his address from Winters, Texas, to Teacherage, Texas.

Leslie G. Thomas reports that J. W. Shepherd lectured recently at Flint, Mich., on "Palestine." The work there is growing.

J. W. Grant has changed his address from Lakeland, Fla., to Bradentown, Fla. All correspondents will please take notice.

The church at Foster Street, this city, is doing splendid work. It has recently bought a lot and will build a new house soon.

B. L. Douthitt is this week engaging James Hooker, a Missionary Baptist, in debate at Folsomdale, Ky. They are discussing baptism and apostasy.

W. R. Wilcutt reports that he and C. F. Parker, a Primitive Baptist preacher, will begin a four-days' debate in Hackleburg, Ala., on December 26.

M. C. Kurfees made the Gospel Advocate office a pleasant call last week. He reports the work at Campbell Street Church, Louisville, Ky., doing well.

I. B. Bradley writes about Sister Andrews: "Glad to tell you there is enough on hand to send our dear sister on her way as she desires. Praise the Lord!"

J. M. Gainer, who for three years has been preaching at Fayetteville, Tenn., has begun work with the church at Winchester, Tenn. The congregation there is expecting great things.

Will J. Cullum reports a recent meeting at his home, Rockwood, Tenn., held by Charles Holder. Thirty were baptized, three were restored, and seven came from the "Christian Church." They hope to have him again.

G. B. Lambricht preached at Port Arthur, Texas, recently. He is now at Lemonville in a meeting, and will go next to Rosenberg. W. D. Black and Will Slater paid them a pleasant visit recently.

J. G. Malphurs and Tommie Nicks closed a two-weeks' meeting at Adams, Tenn., November 26, which resulted in six additions and a congregation of twenty-two that promise to continue steadfastly.

Sister Joe Ratcliffe writes from Bardwell, Ky.: "I am glad to report that Brother Ratcliffe's condition is somewhat improved and that he hopes to be back in the work in a few weeks or months."

F. L. Paisley is this week engaged in a debate at Ludowici, Ga., with J. A. Scarboro, a Missionary Baptist. They are discussing the apostasy question and baptism. The debate is to continue four days. J. B. Beck, of Summitt, Ga., is moderating for Brother Paisley.

Gus Nichols writes from Berry, Ala.: "Our meeting here closed yesterday, with an excellent interest manifested. I believe that this was the best meeting which we have had in some time, notwithstanding we had no additions. I think that we were strengthened and edified to the extent that we now have 'a mind to work.'"

J. A. Hudson writes: "Last Sunday was a great day with us at Harbert Avenue, in Memphis, Tenn. There were four additions to the membership there. The audiences are generally great. At the present I am in a meeting at the Highland Avenue Church, in Jackson. F. O. Howell, minister, is leading the song service. We are anticipating results worthy and everlasting."

E. D. Martin writes from Chattanooga, Tenn., December 6: "There were three excellent services observed by the Cowart Street congregation last Lord's day. Three were added to the church at the morning service. A. B. Lipscomb preached to an attentive audience at three o'clock in the afternoon. We had a get-together meeting on the evening of Thanksgiving Day, which was mutually enjoyed by the respective congregations of the city."

F. L. Paisley says: "The meeting reported for Martin, Tenn., for December 21, 22, will be changed to December 27, 28. Some changes will be made as to the speakers, but the same subjects announced will remain. We assure all that nothing will be organized and that no one will be elected to any office or power. We just want the churches of Christ to do more toward preaching the gospel in the New Testament way."

From E. E. Shoulders, 699 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.: "The New York work still goes along very nicely. Good crowds each Sunday. Song drill Wednesday evening; Bible study Friday evening. Both are in progress. Christmas holidays are fast approaching. How about that Christmas donation for the New York work? We must raise more support if we make this work a success. How many of you are ready to begin this right now? Write me, or send your contribution to George M. McKee, treasurer, Box 15, Station N, New York, N. Y."

W. S. Long writes from Washington, D. C.: "Brother Larimore is in a good meeting here. The attendance last Lord's day was the best we have ever had. He is preaching some of the best sermons of his life. The seed of the kingdom is being sown, and God will bless us with a great harvest. I have just returned from a meeting at Commodore, Pa., where there are but thirteen members. I shall go to Newville, Pa., on December 9. If the Washington church can get out of debt by spring, it can then become a radiating center. We shall do some real mission work. We ask the prayers of all Christians that this church may be a true missionary church."

C. A. Buffington, Fort Deposit, Ala., writes: "The church in Selma desires to locate an unmarried minister full of the Christian spirit and of unbounded energy. A man who can make himself welcome among all classes of people, yet preach the gospel lovingly and faithfully without compromising any truth, is needed. Selma is a city of twenty thousand inhabitants. Much house-to-house work is to be done. The church has a good house of worship and a membership of twenty. The minister will be expected to hold meetings in the country contiguous to Selma during the summer season. This is a great field for the right man. Ample support is assured. Let any one interested write me."

We publish the following appeal in behalf of the disciples at Columbus, Ga.: "The little band of Christians in this city of forty thousand people is endeavoring to establish the cause of Christ in this part of the State. To accomplish this, we must have a preacher to labor among the working class every day. J. C. Mosley, of Whitwell, Tenn., has consented to come to us the first of January, 1923, to stay a few months. Brother Mosley is only assured a home while in our midst. As we have to pay rent for a little storeroom in which to worship and other expenses, we must depend upon help from other churches to properly support him. Brother Mosley is well known to the brotherhood for his humble, faithful work. We are hoping and praying that enough congregations and individuals will respond to this to support him. Send contributions to R. W. Staggers, Box 933, Columbus, Ga."

From E. C. Fuqua, Pasadena, Cal., November 28: "The church at Sichel and Altura Streets, Los Angeles, where I am laboring, is in a most healthy state and is constantly increasing in numbers and in zeal. The largest night audience that ever greeted me at this church was present last Sunday night. There is a steady increase in attendance at all services and in membership. I have many friends in the South and in the Middle West who may be contemplating a visit to Los Angeles. To all such and to all others, both the church and I extend a cordial welcome to meet and worship with us. Write me at 611 Howard Place, Pasadena, Cal., or, if in the city, telephone me—Colorado 9342. During the week nights I am now preaching in Sierra Madre, a mission point. I go from here to Huntington Beach. But friends will find me at the church at Sichel and Altura, Los Angeles, every Sunday and Sunday night."

T. Q. Martin, St. Marys, W. Va., writing in the Christian Leader, says: "F. W. Smith left for his home, Nashville, Tenn., this morning (November 30), after having preached eighteen days. The meeting has been a real success. The interest and audiences were encouraging from the beginning to the end of the meeting. Four obeyed the gospel, four came for membership in the local congregation, and four wanderers were restored. Brother Smith poured forth his very heart in as earnest and helpful series of sermons as I have ever heard. The hearts of the brethren were greatly stirred, and many 'outsiders' were deeply impressed with his burning message. All in all, we have had a great meeting, and Brother Smith has promised, God willing, to return at some future date for a meeting at St. Marys. The interest being good, the brethren thought it wise to continue over next Lord's day, and asked me to continue the meeting, which, by God's help, I shall do."

Query Department

BY J. C. McQUIDDY

John A. Finch sends this: "Please to explain what the 'spiritual wickedness' spoken of in the New Testament is, as it is a common belief that all wickedness is of the devil. And who is meant when it is said that 'we wrestle not against flesh and blood,' etc.?"

Satan is said to be "the prince of this world." (John 12: 31; 14: 30; 16: 11.) He uses wicked men as well as evil spirits, and his sway is darkness and not light. The Revision reads: "Against the spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places." The heavenly places, the air, is a dwelling place and medium of these evil spirits. It is probable that the meaning is the same as Eph. 2: 2: "Wherein ye once walked according to the prince of the powers of the air, of the spirit that now worketh in the sons of disobedience." Why the devil is called "the prince of the powers of the air" is not certain. The Jews held that the atmosphere was the abode of evil angels.

✱ ✱ ✱

A sister who requests that her name be withheld asks for an explanation of the following scriptures: (1) "And these signs shall accompany them that believe: in my name shall they cast out demons; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents, and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall in no wise hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover." (Mark 16: 17, 18.) (2) "Is any among you sick? let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord." (James 5: 14.) (3) "And it shall be in the last days, saith God, I will pour forth of my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams: yea and on my servants and on my handmaidens in those days will I pour forth of my Spirit; and they shall prophesy." (Acts 2: 17, 18.) (4) "While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Spirit fell on all them that heard the word." (Acts 10: 44.)

1. This does not say that these signs shall accompany all that believe, but they should follow those that believe. A good or bad deed of a father follows his family and children by being told and repeated concerning him either to the credit or discredit of his wife and children. Some of the apostles and prophets of the church performed miracles. A deadly viper fastened itself on Paul's hand, but was shaken off into the fire, and without harm. The wonders and miracles of those miraculously endowed follow as the heritage of the church of God through all ages to strengthen it, indicate its divine origin, and to prove that the truths thus approved are sure and certain. These miracles accompany the church as the good life of a father accompanies his children to give them honor. "They shall cast out demons" refers to the apostles and prophets and inspired persons of early times. These do follow the church and give it character to-day, but the power to work miracles ceased when miraculous gifts ceased and with the coming of a complete revelation of the will of God.

2. In those days the anointing with oil was the curative means, which was to be connected with the prayers of the elders, who represented the church, and through them the church prayed for the sick. By this means all would be healed who could be cured. If it meant miraculous healing, then none would have died in the days of the apostles and of miraculous endowments.

3. This is a quotation from Joel, showing the different manifestations of the Spirit that would come in the last days, in the beginning of the Christian dispensation. These gifts are not the same. "Now there are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit. And there are diversities of ministrations, and the same Lord." (1 Cor. 12: 4.) These different spiritual endowments were given for the guidance and establishment of the early church.

4. This means the baptism of the Holy Spirit, which was poured out upon the kinsmen and intimate friends of Cornelius, as well as Cornelius himself. (Verse 24.) We learn the reason for this: "And God, who knoweth the heart, bare them witness, giving them the Holy Spirit, even as he did unto us." (Acts 15: 8.) This and the baptism of the Holy Spirit on the day of Pentecost are the only two instances of the baptism of the Spirit on record.

✱ ✱ ✱

J. J. Taylor, Chickamauga, Ga., inquires to know if it is scriptural to appoint "a finance committee" of sisters to build a house in which to worship. He says: "The body here have secured a lot and are planning to erect a house of worship, and in one of our recent business meetings the discussion came up as to the church appointing sisters on the finance committee, and some of the brethren objected, saying that it was not scriptural."

There is no scripture for building a meetinghouse. It is simply a matter of expediency for the convenience and comfort of the congregation. I know of no scripture that forbids a sister to act on a finance committee, only she is instructed to love her husband, her children, and to be a worker at home. I am sure the disposition to take woman out of the home and turn the direction of outside affairs over to her does not bode good for the human family. It is a reflection on the men of a congregation that the sisters must be called upon to finance the church. Woman's work is to bear and train children. No better or holier work has ever been committed to human beings. This is her chief work in life, and in it she does more to influence and uplift the world than in any other work. She should do nothing that lessens or destroys her efficiency and usefulness in the home. She should not be encouraged to undertake any work that unfits her for her peculiar duties. Unmarried women ought not to follow a course that unfits them for marriage and maternity. Women should be protected and encouraged to abide in their God-ordained sphere instead of being driven out into the outside world to battle for their daily bread.

SERMON OUTLINES

A Book of One Hundred and Fifty New Sermon Outlines

Just the book for preachers, elders, deacons, Bible-class teachers, and others that take public part in church services.

The book has one hundred and fifty sermon outlines and a helpful supplement containing funeral texts, marriage ceremonies, forms for church letters, and Hedge's "Rules" for debate.

A good book to use in your Lord's-day services, prayer meetings, and young people's meetings. Let the leader announce the subject, hand slips of paper containing different sections of the outline to the members who are to take part in the next meeting, requesting them to make a talk or read the scriptural references on that section of the outline. Or, let the leader put the outline on the blackboard, omitting the scriptural references, then ask the congregation to supply the correct scriptural references at the next meeting, and give reasons why they selected these references.

Price, $1, postpaid. Address the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

Things Revealed and Practical in Religion.

BY M. C. K.

Not until now have I had the time to consider some queries received sometime ago from Brother Everett G. Wing, of Albion, Maine. The points on which he seeks information are expressed in the following extract from his letter:

Much is now being said about unfulfilled prophecy in relation to the Jews, the kingdom of Christ and his reign. Some preaching seems to set aside things we considered well founded. . . . I am fearing this sort of teaching is going to make another division in the church and calls for wisdom in dealing with the matter.

In connection with this statement of the case, our brother asks for "help along these unlearned paths." By the word "unlearned" in such a connection, I take him to mean "not known."

Now, instead of entering into a discussion of the questions here introduced—questions about "unfulfilled prophecy in relation to the Jews," about "the kingdom of Christ" and about "his reign" among men—I prefer, in this instance, to indicate an infallibly safe and greatly needed course for all Christians; and in so doing I feel sure that I will render our brother and all other readers much more practical and valuable "help along these unlearned paths" than I could possibly render them even were I to answer, with infallible correctness, every question thus involved. Hence, let the reader give attention to the following serious facts:

1. Whatever may be said of the propriety and value of studying questions which are partially but not fully treated and revealed in the Bible—and I do not call in question the propriety and value of studying everything to the full extent that it is thus revealed—it is, nevertheless, a fact that some things are of such a nature as not to involve our duty to either God or man. To use a very simple illustration, if men properly heed the Bible warning, which is clearly and explicitly revealed, that men should be "ready," and "ready" at all times and under all circumstances, for the coming of Christ, what practical value can there be, or what duty to either God or man can be discovered, by spending time in discussing and debating about when he will come and what he will do when he arrives? I respectfully submit to all candid and reflecting readers, that by keeping strictly and conscientiously in the line of duty every day and every hour, we will, in that way, be obeying that one great admonition of the Master about his coming when he said: "Be ye also ready; for in an hour that ye think not the Son of man cometh." (Matt. 24: 44.)

2. The Bible distinctly divides the things of God into two classes—"the secret things" and "the things that are revealed." Hear the declaration of this fact in the words of the great lawgiver: "The secret things belong unto Jehovah our God; but the things that are revealed belong unto us and to our children forever." (Deut. 29: 29.) According to this plain declaration, we are entitled to all "the things that are revealed," but all other things "belong unto Jehovah our God," and we should reverently confine ourselves to the former, and not waste precious time in speculations over the latter, with strife and division among the people of God as the sad result.

3. We may rest assured that no duty of ours to either God or man is left unrevealed or even only partially revealed. Jehovah would not thus mock his children. Turn, for example, to the books of the new covenant. Take the Gospels, the Acts, the Epistles, and even the book of Revelation, and behold the numerous plainly revealed and practical things—yea, things which are our duty to both God and man and which involve our present and eternal welfare. Here are study and work for every preacher and for every member of every church. Here is food for the hungry and rest for them "that labor and are heavy laden." See how churches could build themselves up in their meetings for devotion and worship by study and teaching and exhortation based on these practical things. See how preachers could lead the churches into multiplied fields of missionary endeavor by holding up the inspired models in the book of Acts and the Epistles. Where churches are interested and in earnest, what great enthusiasm can thus be aroused! If this divine program were properly studied and heeded by all the preachers and all the churches, it would not be long till the light of the gospel would break on every heathen shore, and hosannas to Jehovah from every nation and from every clime would fill the earth.

4. Moreover, the average church of our time could be edified and greatly benefited with lessons on the simplest Biblical topics. The subjects of faith, repentance, confession, baptism, prayer, the Lord's Supper, and the Lord's day, could be constantly made most instructive and helpful to the churches; and where such teaching and exhortation are given in due measure, the churches, like Paul and his companions, are constantly showing to the young who are growing up and all others who may be reached "the way of salvation." (Acts 16: 17.) The fact is, the divine program for preachers and churches that is clearly revealed in the New Testament is sufficient to occupy all their time. It provides for never-ceasing instruction and, hence, for never-ceasing growth in grace and knowledge. (2 Pet. 3: 18.) It distinctly provides for the "things which make for peace, and things whereby we may edify one another." (Rom. 14: 19.) Hence that other divine and much-needed admonition: "Let all things be done unto edifying." (1 Cor. 14: 26.)

5. Finally, if this infallibly safe course were universally pursued, our querist would never have occasion to say: "I am fearing this sort of teaching is going to make another division in the church." The "sort of teaching," however, to which he refers is that which is made up of the opinions and vain speculations of men on "unfulfilled prophecy in relation to the Jews" and other untaught questions or things not clearly revealed. Not only is there division now over these and kindred speculations, but there always will be division over them whenever and wherever and as long as they are indulged. Why not let such things alone? Or, to say the least of it, why not study them and keep our opinions about them to ourselves as private property? Yea, so far as our teaching is concerned, why not studiously avoid them? And in this way and in all other proper ways we could constantly exert an influence that would "keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace." (Eph. 4: 3.) Will not all my readers ponder this matter seriously? Think of creating and perpetuating division among the people of God over the mere opinions of men, which, whether true or not true, are utterly valueless, so far as anything practical for either the good of man or the glory of God is concerned! Such a course is not only always and everywhere inexcusable, but it is wicked in a high degree in the sight of God. Hence, if we would exemplify the true "wisdom in dealing with the matter," we should stick closely and conscientiously to the chapter of "revealed things;" and thus we will not only "keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace," but give to both the church and the world what they need. Beyond all reasonable doubt, this course will be well pleasing to the Lord.

The Past and the Future.

BY J. C. M'Q.

Great changes have been wrought in the past, and no doubt the future has in store still greater changes. Whether premillennialist or postmillennialist, we must all freely concede that we are far from the millennium, for no age has been more marked for unrest and dissatisfaction than is the present. If Christ were to come to-day to make up his jewels, he would not find faith covering the earth as the waters cover the sea. Wickedness and selfishness so abound that many have concluded that the church is a failure and that the gospel was never intended for the conversion of the world. Some are inquiring: "When the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?" Judging the world by the immorality and wickedness that prevail to-day, we readily appreciate the force of the Savior's words in the Sermon on the Mount when he said: "Enter ye in by the narrow gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many are they that enter in thereby. For narrow is the gate, and straitened the way, that leadeth unto life, and few are they that find it." (Matt. 7: 13, 14.)

What I have said of the present is also true of the past, so far as it is known to us. The man who is reaching forward to a nobler and purer life would not repeat the mistakes and sins of the years that are gone. Taken all in all, he would not live over the past. He would cheerfully accept again the happy days in which the mellow rays of sunshine streamed into his soul, but in horror he draws back from the sins of his youth and the horrible days of sorrow and grief brought on by his own wickedness. Each one has known days of sunshine and days of sorrow. At times the sunlight throws around the world a mantle of sunlight and splendor. At other times clouds throw a pall of darkness over our lives. In childhood we long to be men. The dreams of youth are contradicted by the realities of age. In manhood and old age we long to be as free from care and worry as a child.

"O, when I was a tiny boy.
My days and hours were full of joy,
My mates were blithe and kind.
No wonder that I sometimes sigh,
And dash a teardrop from my eye,
And cast a look behind."

Like children, we sigh for earthly treasures, and when possessed we tire of them and long for something owned by another. We want an automobile like our neighbor has; we will not rest until our living room is furnished in the finest tapestries and most expensive upholstering. But—lo!—when it is done, our cup of joy is not full.

"Man never is, but always to be, blest."

When we review our past and see the mistakes we have made, we should do better now so as to be more useful in the present and happier in the future. We know there is "no peace to the wicked," and that ambition, greed, covetousness, envy, and malice are responsible for our wretched condition. Selfishness is the damning sin of the age. It was responsible for the sin in the garden of Eden. One's imagined superiority over a brother often leads one to do him an injustice. On account of the sins of others the righteous suffer. Christ said to his disciples: "In the world ye shall have tribulation." (John 16: 33.) "They that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution." (2 Tim. 3: 12.) Joseph was innocent and virtuous, yet he suffered at the hands of a wicked and designing woman as though he had been an evil doer. Our own experience teaches us that in this world we cannot expect to be free from temptation, persecution, and misrepresentation. But none of these things should move us from a life of fidelity and devotion to God; yea, the rather, they should make us stand the more firmly for truth and righteousness.

Here we must fight if we would reign. This world is a state in which to prepare for rest in the future. Here we should profit by the mistakes we have made. This world is a nursery in which the heirs of glory are trained. It is a great gymnasium for moral and spiritual development. In it we must run, seek, and fight, as it is the battle field where victory is to be won. It is the scene of our pilgrimage to the skies. In the journey there is no place to quit, and in the battle we must never lay our armor by. In the voyage to the celestial port we must never set our sails to catch the popular breezes, but in our pilgrimage must rise higher and higher until we stand on the mountain top of a consecrated and perfected life. We must continue to rise to where the snows of purity forever gleam in the glow of heaven.

As to what the future will bring forth depends on the sowing we do to-day. "As we sow, so shall we reap." In all our sowing let us be true to God. If we make enemies by doing what we think is right and because we assume our own responsibilities, let us not be an enemy to any man. No one can afford to destroy his own usefulness and happiness on account of the sins of others. It is folly to sacrifice fidelity to God and to cease to do our duty in order to please any man.

"This above all: to thine own self be true,
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man."

A Visit to St. Marys, West Virginia.

BY F. W. SMITH.

Leaving Nashville on November 9, I arrived in Louisville, Ky., that evening at five o'clock, and was met at the station by Brother M. C. Kurfees, with whom I spent the night at the Watterson Hotel. The next morning he and I boarded a street car and went out to see the new meeting-house the Campbell Street congregation has in course of construction. It is splendidly located, and when finished will be both substantial and commodious, as well as convenient in all of its compartments. This, in my judgment, is a very wise move upon the part of the Campbell Street Church, for the surroundings of the old place of worship are not conducive to the growth and development of the church, as the new place will evidently be. I am truly glad to see this change in location and better equipped facilities for carrying on the work of the church.

Leaving Louisville at 1 P.M., I arrived at Parkersburg, W. Va., at 2:40 A.M. the next day, where I changed cars, and arrived at St. Marys at 7:30 A.M. and enjoyed a splendid breakfast in the home of our own T. Q. Martin. He did not expect me to arrive before evening, and when I called him over the telephone, changing my voice, with the query, "Can you perform a ceremony this morning?" I received the response: "F. W., where are you?" In a few minutes he was at the depot, and, to punish him for not letting me deceive him, I let him wag my heavy baggage up to the house.

On Sunday morning we had a full house, quite a number coming from Woodsfield, Ohio, some thirty miles distant, where I have held two meetings. I was truly glad to see the dear friends whom I learned to love very much while with them in those meetings. There were also brethren and sisters from Marietta (Ohio), Sistersville (W. Va.), Wheeling, and other points, who attended the meeting from time to time, all of whom I was glad to meet and know.

My home was with Brother and Sister Martin, and a better one no preacher ever had. Besides his wife, Brother Martin's sister ("Aunt Margaret," we call her) lives with him, and to know Aunt Margaret is to love her. Brother Martin lives hard by the synagogue. Let not the reader conclude from this that Brother Martin lives hard, for better food or better prepared food does not find its way to any preacher's table. Martin likes good things to eat, and his wife and sister know exactly how to prepare them for the table. He seems specially fond of olives, sardines, and fresh oysters, all of which were on the table many times. His residence is near the meetinghouse.

The church in St. Marys for which Brother Martin labors is a splendid one, and they certainly appreciate him, his wife and sister. He has done a splendid work in that little city, and the work, with his earnest coöperation, will continue to grow. No church could fail to prosper with such an able, earnest, and godly man as T. Q. Martin to labor with it.

St. Marys is a splendid town of about twenty-five hundred inhabitants nestling at the foothills overlooking the beautiful Ohio River. It is in one of the oil fields of that region, and is abundantly supplied with natural gas for all purposes. It has several manufacturing plants, and a large oil refinery which employs many hands.

This church has accomplished a great deal during its short existence. Starting some fourteen years ago with a handful, so to speak, they have built a nice meetinghouse, and also an eight-thousand-dollar home for their preacher to live in, besides starting two missions, both of which now have meetinghouses. There are not more than one hundred and twenty members, none of whom are rich, but they have the giving spirit. I know of no church with such little of this world's goods that has accomplished as much in so short a time. They have set an example that every church would do well to emulate.

Both Brother Martin and the elders told me that they did not expect any additions during the meeting, but there were from different sources several additions, and good interest and attendance from beginning to end. Brother Martin was to continue the meeting over Lord's day, as I had to leave on Thursday for home, after being with them nearly three weeks. I have never enjoyed a meeting more, nor felt that I had done more good in a meeting.

My visit to those good people will always be a pleasant memory to me, and my earnest prayer is that they may continue to grow in numbers and zeal for the Master's cause. T. Q. Martin and I have been bosom friends for thirty or more years, and it was a feast of soul to be with him. His wife was one of our members at Franklin, Tenn., and it was my pleasure to unite them in marriage. They are happily united, and seem perfectly adapted one to the other. May they live long to love and labor for the Master. I was invited to return for another meeting, which I hope to do when it is convenient for me to do so.

Division—Its Causes.

BY H. LEO B.

Last week some observations and comments were made on the curses of division. It may be well to present a few more thoughts on division in the church. Nothing in all the realm of human experience, it seems to me, is more grievous, sorrowful, and unnecessary in religious affairs than division. So much bitterness, strife, and division in the church is little short of tragedy. In the light of all scriptural warnings against division and in view of the fearful curses that follow division, it seems that all would strive against it with united forces. Nothing seems to spread abroad faster than a division in the church. Nothing requires so much excuse, defense, and explanation as strife between brethren. Division spreads abroad like a forest fire and is more destructive. There is always a cause for division, but never a just cause for animosity and strife. "For there must be also factions among you, that they that are approved may be made manifest among you." (1 Cor. 11: 19.) Surely no one desires to be the cause of division; neither would any one enjoy the distinction of being the author of confusion. That we may the better avoid division, a few of the elements of its causes are pointed out here.

Idleness may be one cause of division. A Christian or a church that is busy has no time to stir up strife and promote division. Paul said, in writing to Timothy concerning some women: "And withal they learn also to be idle, going about from house to house; and not only idle, but tattlers also and busybodies, speaking things which they ought not." (1 Tim. 5: 13.) It is not only true concerning widows who are idle, but it is also true of any one. There is an adage that says: "An idle brain is the devil's workshop." The best way to keep peace and harmony in the church is to keep every member of it at work. When a church does nothing but merely listen to sermons, it is very likely to grow idle. Much of the preaching of to-day encourages idleness in the church. When a church has no higher conception of its mission than to hire its preacher to preach twice on Sunday and hold prayer meeting on Wednesday evening, it is likely to have division.

Selfishness is another cause of division. A desire to rule or ruin is a species of selfishness. A determination to have one's own way even if it demoralizes the whole church has brought confusion in many churches. Selfishness has cursed the church and made it subservient to the whims and wishes of the few. It exalts itself above Christ and his will. Selfishness is cold, cruel, and destructive. No church can succeed when dominated by the selfish spirit.

Another cause of division is Misunderstanding. This is a very common and frequent cause of division; so often it is a prime factor in division. Oftentimes the misunderstandings are due to perverseness of heart. There are no misunderstandings so mean, unholy, and wicked as willful, malicious misunderstandings. Those who are cursed with such a spirit do not forgive, and neither is forgiveness sought or desired. A large number of divisions between brethren and in churches will have been adjusted when all come to a clear understanding. There ought to be an early, prayerful effort made by brethren who are at variance to understand each other. All must learn to be toward each other as the Holy Spirit directs. "In love of the brethren be tenderly affectioned one toward another; in honor preferring one another." (Rom. 12: 10.) When brethren fully understand each other, troubles usually are easily adjusted.

Another one of the elements in division is Jealousy. This is a disquieting factor; it causes trouble wherever it exists. "For where jealousy and faction are, there is confusion and every vile deed." (James 3: 16.) Jealousy is ready to "throw a wrench into the machinery" of the church at any moment and thus cause trouble. Jealousy is peace-destroying; it is greedy; it is devilish. Sometimes it is found with the preacher and leaders of the church. Oftentimes it is found among the sisters. Wherever it may be, it causes trouble.

Very close akin to jealousy is the sin of Suspicion. Suspicion grows out of a lack of confidence in each other. Sometimes it is aroused by secret meetings; again, by political tactics and shrewd movements on the part of a few members of the church. Suspicion may often be well founded; hence, every one should avoid an occasion for it. All of the work of the church, with its plans and purposes, should be open and above board. Honesty and frankness should characterize all of the work of the church. When a few attempt to "put over" a proposition or a movement, that is occasion for the sin of jealousy, which becomes a factor in division.

Another large factor in the causes of division is Ambition. Not the kind of ambition that "provokes one another to love and good works" or that stimulates the church to its noblest actions and fullest efficiency, but a mean, covetous, personal ambition. This is manifested frequently in self-appointed leaders of the church, who "boss the whole affair." This kind of ambition strives for mastery of the church, and, like Diotrephes, "who loveth to have the preëminence among them," causes trouble if the ambitious leader does not have his way. Such an ambition will destroy the peace of the church. There must be either a submission to such a spirit or else trouble at once arises.

Another cause of division is Intolerance. This is a large cause of trouble between many brethren. No one who is guilty of intolerance will admit it, but such a one will quickly condemn it in others. Intolerance is narrow and binding in its requirements of others. Intolerance passes on the very thought, motive, expression, and act of the brother who has offended the one who is afflicted with intolerance. An intolerant brother analyzes the intention and purposes of the other and requires that he make due apology for thoughts and intentions which the other brother never had. There can be no adjustment with an intolerant brother unless one submits to all the requirements and exactness of this unlovely spirit. One must not vary "the thousandth part of an inch" from the intolerant brother's demand if an adjustment is made. Nothing is ever settled with the intolerant brother until his stern requisitions are honored. He must word the apology, point out the impure motives and the logical inferences and the impropriety of the other brother, and then tell just how it must be settled, or else there is nothing done. To cultivate forbearance will help to cure the intolerant evil. "Let your forbearance be known unto all men." (Phil. 4: 5.) Let us learn to forbear one another in love. There should be no artful juggling with words and phrases on the part of the one who has done wrong. No cunning evasion or deft side-stepping should be indulged in. There should be no hunting in the dictionary for the meaning of a word to justify a sinful motive or to hide the sin of cruelty or injustice that has been done. Such a course leads to confusion and division.

And, lastly, there is the factor of Ignorance in the causes of division. There are other causes, possibly, but this one is the last mentioned in this article. This may be the greatest of all the causes. Ignorance of God's word and his way leads to confusion. Ignorance of the mind of Christ and the spirit of our Father enters largely into the sin of division. Ignorance of the fact that Christ is the head of the church and the will of God is its law produces division. Let us seek to know his will and walk in it. "Wherefore be ye not foolish, but understand what the will of the Lord is." (Eph. 5: 17.) The will of God can harmonize all discordant elements and heal all breaches and cement or unite all divisions. What a curse to the brotherhood is division! How many churches have been rent asunder by this sin! How many brethren are now alienated and disfellowshipping each other because of the sin of division! How many churches are prostrate and bleeding in the shame of division when they ought to be marching on in unison to victory!

Bickerings and wranglings with brethren have set them at variance for life. Fussies in the church or "church scraps" hinder the progress of the church. Divisions in the church have been known to turn back the progress of the whole church for more than a generation, and sometimes the divisions of the church have destroyed each other. Let us beware. "If ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another." (Gal. 5: 15.)

"Thank-You Day."

"Tis 'thank-you' day," said little May

To the brindle cow one morn.

"I've come to thank you for your gifts—

And here's a sheaf of corn.

I like the milk, so rich and sweet,

Which you give every day;

The cheese and butter are so nice—

Cease not to give them, pray!"

"Tis 'thank-you' day," said little May

To the sheep within the fold.

"You give me that which keeps me warm

When winter days are cold.

I have a hood made from your wool,

And some warm stockings, too.

A bit of clover from the field

I freely give to you."

"Tis 'thank-you' day," said little May

To the pretty, speckled hen;

"When I was weak and sick, your eggs

Helped me get strong again;

And every day for breakfast I

Eat one that you have laid;

So now I thank you, speckled hen,

With words and crumbs of bread."

"Tis 'thank-you' day," said little May

To birdie in the tree;

"And oft you sing the sweetest songs

To mamma and to me.

I'll scatter now some little seed

That birdies like, I'm sure;

And when you've eaten every one,

I hope you'll sing some more."

"Tis 'thank-you' day," said little May;

"We all should thankful be

For the good gifts that through the year

God brought to you and me;

And, since they're brought the whole year 'round,

I don't see why," said May,

"Each day may not in truth be called

A happy 'thank-you' day!"

—Margaret A. Richards.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC IN THE WORSHIP

By M. C. Kurfess

Cloth. 300 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

This is the most comprehensive book on this important subject now before the public. In it the Greek verb "psallo" is philologically and historically examined, together with a full discussion of kindred matters relating to music in Christian worship. The book is the result of a lifetime of critical study and research, and has become the standard of information on the music question. It has been highly recommended by scholarly brethren in the church of Christ and in the religious world.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY

Nashville, Tenn.

Home Reading

When Mother Plays with Me.

Sometimes when it is raining hard,
My mother plays with me;
She makes believe she's keeping house,
And I'm her company.

And when I knock upon the door,
She says: "Come in; sit down.
I'm very glad that you have come.
When did you get to town?"

And then we talk about our 'fairs;
How fast the children grow.
"What! had the measles, did you say?
You did not let me know."

Then when we've had a cup of tea,
It's time for me to go.
I say: "Good-by, dear Mrs. Brown;
I have enjoyed it so."

And so I like a rainy day,
When mother plays with me,
And makes believe she's keeping house,
And I'm her company.

—Isabel McKenzie, in Normal Instructor.

✻ ✻ ✻

Lost in the Dakota Wheat Fields.

As far as the eye could see for miles and miles stretched the Dakota wheat fields. The ripe, yellow grain, as high as a man's shoulders, was ready for the sickles. Indeed, many harvesters were at work already counting their wealth, the wealth of hard, yellow grains turned into hard, yellow gold, which in turn brought comfort to homes and rosy cheeks to children.

Mrs. Brown, sitting in her little home on the prairie, was industriously sewing some small blue-checked rompers for her little three-year-old son Ned. "How long the child is sleeping this afternoon!" she said to herself. After a few more finishing touches she slipped to the bedroom to see if the little fellow was still on his pallet on the floor. She was somewhat surprised, though not alarmed, to find the tumbled bed empty, and all was quiet.

Remembering his love of a hide-and-seek game, she looked under her bed and behind some clothing hanging on the wall, but found no bright, shining eyes and dimpled cheeks to greet her. She heard no baby voice saying: "Mamma can't find Neddle." "Of course he is in the woodshed with his toys," she thought. But a search of the woodshed, the barn, and every place revealed no small boy contentedly playing with his toys.

In her frantic haste as she looked she became convinced that her baby had wandered away—away out into the open wheat fields, lost to sight by the thick, towering grain—out where the year before one child had been killed and another fearfully cut, crippled for life by the keen, oncoming, cruel sickles of the reapers.

Then she was alarmed indeed. All kinds of evil befalling her child passed before her eyes. It took her but a moment to snatch a white towel, hurriedly climb to the platform of the windmill, and fasten the white banner there. Her husband, running his harvester two miles away, knew it carried a message of distress. Hastily fastening his team to the wire fence, he ran for home. Mrs. Brown met him, white-faced and trembling, and told him of little Ned's disappearance. Together again they searched the outbuildings, only to be disappointed. Going to the telephone, Mr. Brown called his neighbors. Only a sentence was necessary, for they knew its meaning and dangers. "Come! Our Ned is lost in the wheat fields!" It took but a short time for every man for miles around to respond to the call. Every reaper was stopped, every sickle stilled. All hands gathered at Mr. Brown's home. Each one started in different directions and were soon lost to view.

An hour passed by, then another, but no signal that was agreed upon when the child should be found was heard. Several times a neighbor came to the porch where the waiting, tearful mother, walking the floor, was waiting for news; but they brought only a sympathetic message, no small boy. The afternoon wore on until it was only an hour or so till sundown. Already the chilly air was felt, and they remembered that the baby had on only a little thin gingham garment to protect him from the cold. They remembered, too, that the night before ice as thick as a windowpane had frozen on the watering troughs.

Realizing the desperate need of more help and the dangers of the darkness coming on, Mr. Brown again called on the telephone—not for more neighbors, for they were all there. It was an S. O. S. call to Fairfax, fifteen miles away: "Come! A child is lost in the wheat fields!" In a short time two hundred and fifty men were assembled at the ranch house to search for the lost child.

Then an old man, mounting the well platform, addressed the crowd: "Men," he said, "we are going about this wrong. Our work must be planned, and every one must obey orders. Let us make a human comb. Each man grasp your neighbor's hand, stretch out in a long line, and let our search be thorough and in a wide, circular swath."

It took but a few minutes to form in line, each man grasping the hand of another on each side and reaching out as far as the arms would extend. Then the line moved, the outer end in a wide circle, coming back to the starting point, but no baby was found. Again the line moved, this time the inner man keeping on the outer line of the first circle. This time over an hour was consumed in encompassing the distance. Again with white faces the word was passed along: "Not found yet!" "Yes, but we shall find him!" came back the answer.

The third time the human comb moved, now on the outer line of the second circle, slowly and cautiously, for it was dark, and the small form of a baby might easily be overlooked in the darkness amid the high grain. They traveled about halfway around the circle the third time, when there arose a shout: "Found! The child is found!" Taken up, the glad cry was passed from man to man down the line; and the mother, waiting, heard the joyful news. Ned, a little human bundle, cold from exposure, exhausted from fright, and crying himself to sleep, was passed from one loving, tender arm to another, held for a moment against the strong, thankful heart of his father, till he finally reached his mother's arms in safety.

Friends, change in your mind the Dakota home to the church and the mother to the Sunday school, the lost child to the lost pupil, the wheat fields to the great world and its dangers, the neighbors and friends to the parents, ministers, and faithful teachers making a human comb to bring back the wandering, and read my parable.

Realize that it may—that it is—your child that is lost. Hold the hands of all that are trying to find him. Make a human comb. Plan together. Do the work thoroughly, lovingly, and the lost pupil shall be found.—Mrs. R. U. Waldraven, in Exchange.

✻ ✻ ✻

There is a story of an old man who carried a little can of oil with him everywhere he went; and if he passed through a door that squeaked, he poured a little oil on the hinges; if he came to a gate and it opened hard, he oiled it. And thus he passed through life, lubricating all the rusty, squeaking, and hard places, and making it easier for those who came after him. He filled his can daily and carried it with him to lubricate when and wherever needed. Blessed is the girl or boy who carries an oil can to lubricate life and make things go smoothly.—C. A. Terhune.

CRAMPS, PAINS AND BACKACHE

St. Louis Woman Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg- etable Compound

St. Louis, Mo. — "I was bothered with cramps and pains every month and had backache and had to go to bed as I could not work. My mother and my whole family always took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for such troubles and they induced me to try it and it has helped me very much. I don't have cramps any more, and I can do my housework all through the month. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends for female troubles." —

Mrs. DELLA SCHOLZ, 1412 Salisbury Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Just think for a moment. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been in use for nearly fifty years. It is prepared from medicinal plants, by the utmost pharmaceutical skill, and superior methods. The ingredients thus combined in the Compound correct the conditions which cause such annoying symptoms as had been troubling Mrs. Scholz. The Vegetable Compound exercises a restorative influence of the most desirable character, correcting the trouble in a gentle but efficient manner. This is noted, by the disappearance, one after another, of the disagreeable symptoms.

PIANOS AND VICTROLAS

Sold for Cash or on Easy Payments

M. F. SHEA

305 Fifth Avenue, North
NASHVILLE, TENN.

DANDRUFF

QUICKLY DISAPPEARS WHEN

Tetterine

Is Applied. Fragrant and Soothing.

50c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-
TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

CANCER

HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and
X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box
2127, ATLANTA, GA.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Selecting a Preacher.

BY H. M. PHILLIPS.

There is very little, if anything, said in the New Testament directly on this subject, yet there are a few clear principles which would apply that are well to consider. The early church seems to have been under the leadership of the apostles as for the instruction from God. Few, if any, of the congregations selected their preacher. The preacher came and taught, and later elders were ordained in every church; and they were either inspired in what they taught or received it from the apostles, as no New Testament was written at that time. So principles in general will have to be our guide in the matter of selecting a preacher.

The church, or, at least, the officers or leaders, and not one man, should do the selecting. This would often keep down strife and a more successful meeting would be held, for all would feel more like working for it. One person or just a few should not arrange the time or the amount to be paid, and expect the church to accept it all in the best of spirits. While it is true that some will never say anything till after it is done, yet, if they are given a chance, their "say" can be more easily met. When one man runs a congregation, it is in a pitiful condition. Surely more than one person has some sense or judgment worth considering. Too often a few are tied to one preacher and determine to have him in spite of all the rest. When a case of this kind comes, I fear that the few may be tied to the preacher more than to the Lord. Some are of Apollos, and some of Paul, but so few are of Christ.

Most congregations seem to think that if they call a preacher, he is to come just because he is called, and has no right to reject. Possibly preachers have the same right to reject a place as a place has to reject a preacher. If not, why not? Some Bible preachers turned from the Jews to the Gentiles because they thrust the word from them. And the Lord said: "Cast not your pearls before swine."

Some congregations select a certain preacher because he mixes so freely with the denominations; others, because he preaches in such a way that no one could be offended at what he preaches, for he never discusses points of difference. Not a few get a preacher because he has a degree to his name and preaches so much worldly wisdom and so little of the word. Many call for the popular preacher and ask that he be very easy on saint and sinner. Often one is selected because of his peculiar views on some subject, such as literature, the coming of Christ,

Bible schools, or the eldership. Then, there are some places that select a preacher because he preaches the word "as it is written," in love of the truth, and faithfully lives it out in his life; one who does not compromise for the sake of the crowd or popularity, nor does he fail to declare the whole counsel of God. While he may not be honored to lead in the lodges nor speak at every worldly gathering, and the crowds may not demand a new house of larger dimensions, and his name and picture may not be in the daily papers very often, yet they are assured that their selection is God's selection, and eternity alone will reveal the good done.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

FOR THE RELIEF OF

Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPIING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS

-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

Keep Stomach and Bowels Right

By giving baby the harmless, purely vegetable, infants' and children's regulator.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

brings astonishing, gratifying results in making baby's stomach digest food and bowels move as they should at teething time. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Safe and satisfactory.

At All Druggists

No Soap Better — For Your Skin — Than Cuticura

Sample each (Soap, Ointment, Talcum) free of Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

ASTHMA

The attack is relieved at once and comfortable rest assured simply by vaporizing Creso-lene near the bed at night.

Introduced in 1879

Vapo-Cresolene

"Used While You Sleep"

It is the drugless treatment for bronchial ailments—coughs, colds, spasmodic croup, whooping cough and bronchitis.
Send for descriptive booklet 43B. Sold by druggists
Vapo-Cresolene Co., 62 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

MRS. LAURA KIMBROUGH

Stomach Trouble?

Health is Most Important to You.

Columbus, Ga. — "Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is certainly a grand medicine for stomach trouble. I have suffered greatly all my life from a disordered stomach. My food seemed to set so heavy, no matter what I ate. I have taken many of the medicines advertised for this trouble, but none of them has ever come up to Golden Medical Discovery for giving prompt and lasting relief. Whenever I have a sluggish liver, with sick-headaches and constipation, I have found Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets a very efficient remedy. They do not gripe or cause any other distressing condition such as a great many pills do." — Mrs. Laura Kimbrough, 3503 Erlene Avenue.

Obtain this Medical Discovery of Doctor Pierce's at your nearest drug store, in tablets or liquid, or send 10c. to Doctor Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package, and write for free medical advice.

TETTERINE

Makes hair beautiful, free from dandruff, and keeps the scalp healthy.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Say it with

FLOWERS

From

GENY BROS.

212 Fifth Avenue, N.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, back-aches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

Obituaries

Teddle.

As the news reached every one here in Farmersville, Texas, of the death of Lowell Teddle, I feel it my duty to write of him. Two years ago he came to Farmersville to lead the singing during Brother S. H. Hall's meeting. He was always kind and ready to do anything in his power to help out in the meeting. He won many dear friends here by his charming ways. We can hardly realize that he is gone, for he was to preach here in a month. It makes us feel better to look back and think about the way he lived. He will be missed here at home, but not as much as by his dear father and mother. We can meet him if we live such a life as he did. May the Lord's blessings be upon his dear mother and father and his two brothers.

A FRIEND.

Manner.

Albert Ralph Manner, of Milan, Tenn., was born on December 9, 1912, and died on November 15, 1922. He is survived by his father, mother, one sister, and one brother. Very few little children were admired as little Ralph. He was so bright and promising and was altogether a lovable child. He always had a smile for every one. He was never well, but never complained, and bore his suffering well until the end. How they will miss him! There is a vacancy in the home that will never be filled, but they must remember the words found in 2 Sam. 12: 23. He is only removed to that land above, where all is joy and peace and love, waiting to welcome his anxious parents and all those who loved him to the home where sad good-byes shall never be spoken and where God has promised to wipe all tears away. Beautiful and impressive services were conducted at the home by Brother J. L. Holland, of Greenfield, Tenn., and the body was laid to rest in the family lot at Oakwood Cemetery.

ONE WHO LOVED HIM.

Poe.

Mrs. Carrie Harrison Poe, wife of the lamented John T. Poe, was born in New York City. At the age of twelve years she came to Texas with her parents. She was married to Brother Poe when she was twenty years old. To their union six children were born, four of whom are living. I have been in the home many times before and since the death of Brother Poe. Sister Poe was a wonderful character. I knew her to be a tender, loving, unselfish, Christian wife and mother. I learned to love her almost as a mother because of her fine spirit and because of her devotion to Brother Poe and to her family. I visited her many times in her last years of loneliness, and derived much pleasure from these visits. After we left Longview, she went to Groveton to her daughter, and we never saw her again; but as long as she was able to write we were allowed to enjoy her sweet, motherly

Coated Tongue

Nature's Warning of
Constipation

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

W. W. PERRY
President

A. D. PERRY
Manager

W. D. PERRY
Treasurer

We Invite Your Patronage

PERRY FURNITURE
COMPANY
GENERAL HOUSE FURNISHERS
Do Your Christmas Shopping with Us

Phone, Main 1491
208 THIRD AVENUE, NORTH
NASHVILLE, TENN.

FRED K. JONES

Buying, Selling, and Exchanging
REAL ESTATE

I Make an Effort to Assist All
Who Call on Me

43 ARCADE
NASHVILLE, TENN.

DEEP-SEATED FRECKLES

Need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women for over 14 years, and rid yourself of these homely spots. Ask for

Othine--Double Strength
At all Druggists and Department Stores.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate, and send us a new subscriber.

letters. Mrs. Wallace and I loved her devotedly, as she did us. A good woman has gone to her sweet reward.
FOY E. WALLACE, JR.

Edgman.

Brother George Edgman fell asleep in Jesus on October 6, 1922, aged seventy-one years, eleven months, and eight days. He obeyed the gospel some thirty years ago, and lived faithful until death. It was my privilege to know him as a husband and a Christian. In both relations he was a model for others. He was married to Miss Leota L. Brents on August 9, 1882. No children were born to them. He and his wife came West a short while after their marriage. They lived faithful to each other for more than forty years. He leaves to mourn his death a wife, an adopted daughter (Mrs. Paul Lenhart), and a host of friends. The writer made a short talk at the home to a large crowd of relatives and friends. After which the body was tenderly laid to rest in Livingston Cemetery. We mourn not as those who have no hope, for the Spirit saith: "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them." (Rev. 14: 13.)

THOMAS T. PACK.

Parks.

Mrs. Emily Taylor Parks was born at the old Jack Taylor home, near Lynchburg, Tenn., on October 10, 1846. She died at her own home in Lynchburg on August 30, 1922. She was a daughter of the late J. H. Taylor, and the last of a splendid family of seven brothers and three sisters. She was baptized by Brother Thomas Shaw in 1866, and her future husband was baptized at the same time. She was married to the late Brother "Tip" Parks in 1869. He died in 1891, having made for himself a name, and achieved a reputation in the home and church and community, that any one might covet. Sister Parks survived her husband thirty-one years, having lived long enough to see all of her children grown, married, and settled in life and business. She is survived by three sons, two daughters, eleven grandchildren, and one great-grandchild. The above is the barest outline of a peculiarly noble and beautiful life, lived out entirely in one community; but nearly all of those beautiful seventy-six years have their own story of love, obedience, and consecration to high and heavenly service. Only God can know and eternity unfold the full fruition of such a life. Many a preacher who has labored for the Lynchburg church during the last fifty years will doubtless recall the beautiful and open-handed hospitality of Brother and Sister Parks. In a very high degree she carried forward the devotion of her lamented husband to the cause of Christ in her community, and that to the very end of her days. Such daughters, such sisters, such wives, such mothers, and such "ministering women" are needed now, and may God send us more of the cultured, constant, consecrated sort like the subject of this sketch.

X.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

BIBLE LESSON HELPS
PRICE REDUCTION

Effective January 1, 1923, we are reducing the Advanced Quarterly (64 pages) from 12 cents to 11 cents per quarter; the Intermediate Quarterly, from 6 cents to 5 cents per quarter; the Primary Quarterly, from 6 cents to 5 cents per quarter; little Bible Lesson Picture Cards, from 5 cents to 4 cents per quarter; Lesson Picture Charts, from $1.25 to $1.00 each.

Our subscribers will encourage us in our efforts to give them the lowest possible rates and help us to stand the reduction by increasing their orders for Bible Lesson Helps. We are appreciative of the patronage of all, and take this means of expressing our appreciation to all.

Date....., 192.....

Please enter the following order to be sent to the address below:

Name

P. O.

County..... State.....

Remittance inclosed in payment of this order, $.....

-----ADVANCED QUARTERLY, 64 pages, @ 11 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter)

-----INTERMEDIATE QUARTERLY, 32 pages @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----PRIMARY QUARTERLY, 32 pages @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----LITTLE JEWELS (mailed quarterly) @ 12 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter)

-----THE YOUNG PEOPLE (mailed monthly) @ 15 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter, 80c Per Year—Foreign, 30c Per Quarter, $1.00 Per Year)

-----LESSON LEAVES @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----SETS LESSON PICTURE CARDS @ 4 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----LESSON PICTURE CHARTS @ $1.00 per quarter, $-----

-----CLASS BOOKS (7 cents each) @ 75 cents per dozen, $-----

-----SUNDAY-SCHOOL RECORD (for entire year) $2.50 per copy, $-----

-----COLLECTION ENVELOPES @ 75 cents per dozen, $-----

Total $-----

☛ Literature should be ordered to expire with the end of the quarters. Quarters begin January, April, July, and October; and expire March, June, September, and December.

☛ Remit by Post-Office Money Order, Bank Draft, Registered Letter, or Express Money Order, otherwise at the sender's risk.

CAREFULLY EXAMINE YOUR ORDER BEFORE MAILING
Cut Out Order Blank and Mail To-Day
GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

TETTERINE

Clears Baby's Skin

and drives off the rash and pimples. Harmless, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHIP-
TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

PILES CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or
call without delay.
Private reception
rooms for ladies.
Established since 1912. Free X-Ray
examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

Homes Furnished Complete
Terms to Suit Everybody

TELEPHONE, MAIN 1096

HILARY E. HOWSE

FURNITURE, CARPETS
STOVES AND RANGES

We Exchange Furniture as Part
Payment

304-306-308 BROADWAY

105-107-109 THIRD AVE., N.

Get Back to the

OLD FAMILY REMEDIES

Used so effectively and faithfully by our grandmothers. Write for a supply of

DR. DORAN'S

Queen Root Cordial—General Tonic.....$1.50
Worm Remedy for Child or Adult..... 1.00
Kidney Balm 1.50
Pain King, sample bottle..... .50
Wild Flower Bitters, laxative..... 1.00
Analgesia for Headaches, Neuralgia, Colds, .50
All old, well-proven physician's prescriptions, used since 1877. Order any one or all for the family medicine chest. Agents wanted for local, county or general work.

DORAN DRUG CO., Paducah, Ky.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Letter from a Young Christian.

The following is a good letter from a young Christian—Pearl Tucker, 816
Reynolds Street, Shreveport, La.:

I have never written anything for publication before, but I wish to say that I enjoy reading the Gospel Advocate. My grandfather has been a reader for years, and I am sorry to say I have just begun to take any interest in reading and studying it. I am boarding in a hotel, and it is hard to keep from falling into their ways;
but my grandfather sends me the Advocate, and it is such a delight, and I feel like life is a new one. Although I have been a church member for nine years, I did not see where it was my duty to try to live a real Christian until I came here.

We cannot think what a blessing we have until we get out and see how people are begging, crying, and suffering for just enough to live on. We should thank the Lord our God for our blessings and pray him to help the poor more than we do.

There is no church of Christ here, except the digressive church, and I cannot believe in many things they teach. If only a preacher or some one that is a strong Christian could come here, I believe there is a chance to accomplish something.

I wish to give these little rules of life for the consideration of young and old:

1. Consider yourself before speaking of any one else.
2. Talk less and think more, and you will not have so many troubles, but more happiness.
3. Always be sure you are on the right side.
4. Always be truthful and stand up for what is right in the sight of God.
5. Be kind and patient.
6. "Blessed are the peacemakers:
for they shall be called the sons of God."
7. Kind words will soften a hard heart.
8. God is love, God is bliss; then why do we turn away?
9. There is no place like our own dear home. In our heart we may think it is bad, yet "there's no place like home—sweet home."
10. Put more confidence in yourself.
11. Keep your temper, for nobody else wants it.
12. If you cannot help anything, don't worry; but if you can help it,
do so.
13. "They that sow in tears shall reap in joy."
14. "Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him."

Gems of Thought.

Prayer is the link which joins man to God.—Mortimer.

Thou, God, art love. I build my faith on that.—Browning.

There is nothing which makes us love a man so much as praying for him.—William Law.

When any person injures me I endeavor to raise my soul so high that his offence cannot reach me.—Descartes.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal.
Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy.
Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare, and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex
Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Buy

PRACTICAL GIFTS

From

WHITE'S

Nashville's Trunk and Leather Shop

Renew your subscription to the
Gospel Advocate.

NELSON COMPLETE CONCORDANCE

TO THE

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE

By M. C. HAZARD, Ph.D.

Editor Emeritus, Department of Educational Publications, Congregational Publishing Society

A concordance is an index to the words in the Bible designed to increase your knowledge of what the Bible contains by enabling you to find easily any word, verse, or subject in the Bible.

Price, - $5.00

the other. Take, for example, Abijah; there are ten of this name in the Bible. In your study it is necessary that you should find readily all the references to the particular person you are studying.

This new Concordance is also

A DICTIONARY OF PLACES

giving the meaning of the name of the place as well as a description, so that where there are two or more places of the same name you can easily distinguish one from the other.

The First Complete Concordance to the

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE

Contains about 300,000 references, arranged under 16,000 headings and subheadings; includes the Alternative Marginal Readings; gives the pronunciation and meaning of all proper names and places, with biographical and geographical information which make it serve as a Bible Dictionary as well as a Concordance.

While the American Standard Version of the Bible has been in use for many years and brief concordances for this version have been prepared from time to time, this new Concordance by Dr. M. C. Hazard is the first COMPLETE CONCORDANCE ever issued to this, the most accurate version of the Holy Scriptures in the English language.

Five years have been occupied in its completion, during which time the editor and publishers have had constantly in mind the problems of the Bible Student. Comparisons have been made with other concordances and numerous improvements have been introduced to make a work so accurate, so full, and so convenient that it will be an indispensable working tool in handling aright the word of truth.

Complete Concordance to the American Standard Bible

A GUIDEBOOK TO BIBLE STUDY

A very special and useful feature is the use of subdivisions. Where a word appears a number of times in different connections, subheadings are introduced under the main heading or key word. For example, the word Aaron occurs many times: with Moses, Children of Aaron, Aaron with sons; so that if the reader knows the connection he can find his subject without wading through columns of references.

This use of subdivisions, aside from its general convenience, furnishes a complete series of "Bible Readings" on the various subtopics. How valuable this may be is suggested by some of the subcaptions under God, as Almighty God, Angel of God, Ark of God, Children of God, Church of God, Servant of God, etc.

Another feature of this Concordance, which will commend itself to every Bible student, is the incorporation of the alternative Marginal Readings, which are frequently of great value in interpreting the text. These readings, as in the margin, are given in italics, and are designated by (m) placed immediately after the chapter and verse.

A BIBLE DICTIONARY

This new Concordance is not only a word-finder and index to the words in the Bible, but it is also

A DICTIONARY OF SCRIPTURE PROPER NAMES

giving the meaning of each name as well as a description of each person, so that where there are a number of the same name the reader can distinguish one from

ORDER BLANK

Date.....

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Please send me NELSON CONCORDANCE TO THE AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE, for which I inclose ($5) five dollars.

NAME.....

ADDRESS.....

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY

317-319 FIFTH AVENUE, NORTH, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

ECZEMA

IS CURABLE

Write me to-day, and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. Send no money—just write me—that is all you have to do. Address
DR. CANNADAY, 1225 Park Sq., Sedalia, Mo.

WATCH YOUR ADDRESS LABEL

Look at the address label that comes with each copy of the Gospel Advocate. If it bears a date that has passed, please send renewal of subscription—$2.00 a year.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE
Nashville, Tenn.

New York City Church of Christ

239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M., Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6357.

Cleveland, Ohio, Church of Christ

Temporary Meeting Place

VIRGINIA HALL

10601 Superior Avenue, N. E.

Bible Study, 9:30 A.M. Worship, 10:30 A.M.
Visiting Brethren Welcome.

A. L. HENDERSHOT Phone Broadway 2024-J
C. H. RANDOLPH Phone Eddy 6758-W

Buy Your
Bibles, Testaments, Song Books, Bible Lesson Helps, and Other Books

From
Gospel Advocate Company

Let's make it mutual; we will help you, you help us

Address all orders to
GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tennessee

An Appeal for Natchez, Miss.

BY T. C. FOX.

Natchez is a city of twelve thousand five hundred people, and there has never been a congregation of Christians here. I have been here since the first of March, laboring with the few members here. We have worshiped at different places since I have been here, and at present we are worshiping in our home; and as our house is only rented, we cannot tell just how long we will be able to furnish a place for worship. Brethren Pittman, Long, Lowrey, Tidwell, and Cayce have preached or held meetings here, after which a few members would worship for a while; but for the need of a permanent place of worship, discouragement has followed each effort. I am here with my family, making this our home. We would like exceedingly to see a church house in Natchez; and if we can, by the help of the brethren, soon have one, I am sure we could soon have a loyal congregation of Christians well established here. I am sure the cause has grown since we have been here. I baptized five during our meeting in June and one came from the Baptists. I have baptized four (all grown people) within the last month. Three were baptized yesterday.

As is true in all destitute fields, the few members here are limited as to the goods of this world. We have among ourselves gathered together about six hundred dollars to apply on lot and house. If we can secure help from the brethren to the amount of fifteen hundred dollars, we will be able to secure a well-located lot and build a house on such terms as that we will be able to pay the remainder ourselves in monthly installments.

All donations should be sent to T. C. Fox at The Towers, Natchez, Miss., or C. M. Godard, 713 North Pearl Street, Natchez, Miss. Every donation will be duly acknowledged by letter.

[The above appeal is worthy. Brother Fox is an earnest, faithful, gospel preacher. His judgment is good. He is in the field and on the ground at Natchez, and knows what the needs are, and makes this urgent appeal. The churches should assist the work there. —H. Leo B.]

If a man will not do good without money, he is not likely to do good with money.—Exchange.

Refreshes Weary Eyes

When Your Eyes feel Dull and Heavy, use Murine. It Instantly Relieves that Tired Feeling—Makes them Clear, Bright and Sparkling. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.

MURINE
FOR YOUR EYES

Another Debate.

BY JESSE F. LOVE.

There will be a debate at Yon Schoolhouse, six miles south of Cypress, Fla., on the Cypress and Blountstown Road. Cypress is on the River Junction division of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. The debate is to begin on December 18, at 10 A.M. There will be two sessions of two hours each, each day.

The following propositions will be discussed: (1) "Man is wholly mortal in this life, and unconscious between death and the resurrection." (2) "The kingdom of Christ, or kingdom of heaven, is the church of Christ, and as such it was set up, or established, in the lifetime of the apostles." (3) "The punishment of the wicked will be eternal destruction, and in such state they will be eternally unconscious and cease to exist." J. T. Butler will affirm the first and third propositions; Jesse F. Love, the second.

Mr. Butler is what is known as a Second Adventist, and is said to be a strong man among them. I hope he is, for I want to test fully the strength of their doctrine in this discussion.

All brethren and friends who wish to hear the debate are invited to come. Write to Mrs. G. M. Mears if you come by train to Cypress, and some arrangements will be made to meet you if you get her word in time.

Great $2.00 Mystery Novel for 15c.

You Must Not Miss Reading "Suspense"—The Most Exciting and Absorbing Story Published in Years.

Washington, D. C.—(Special.)—You can see right through the plot of most stories, but "Suspense" will baffle you; it will hold you spellbound from start to finish and keep you guessing. This unusual story is by one of the most popular authors—Isabel Ostrander. It is original, thrilling, satisfying. The Pathfinder, in accord with its policy of giving the best in everything, will publish this great story as a serial complete in fifteen issues, starting December 16. This paper is chuck-full of just the kind of reading you want—unequaled digest of the world's news, including affairs at Washington; best stories you can find anywhere; stunts, tricks, and amusements for the children. You can get this splendid illustrated national home weekly on trial thirteen weeks for only fifteen cents, coin or stamps, including "Suspense." You can also order for your friends at 15 cents each; but send at once, so as not to miss start of new story. This offer costs the editor a lot of money, but he says it pays to invest in new friends. Address Pathfinder, 276 Langdon Station, Washington, D. C.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Word from Brother Yohannan.

BY J. W. GRANT.

I have at last received a definite message from Brother Yohannan that he has received a letter from me containing one hundred dollars. This letter was mailed to him on the tenth of last June, and his letter in reply is dated September 16. This is the first that he got of the fund sent to me for him in response to the appeal published in the Gospel Advocate of April 27. I sent a letter to him on May 2 containing forty dollars; but he had left home when it got there, and had gone to Bagdad to do some preaching, and the bank to whose care it was sent would not give it to his wife (having no orders to that effect), and it was returned to me. Another brother sent him ten dollars about the same time, and that, too, was returned to him. Both came back with the money safe in them. I also mailed him a letter on July 15 containing fifty dollars. I am quite hopeful that he got it also, though I have heard nothing from it. There has hardly been time enough to hear from it yet. I also sent him a letter on December 1 (the day I received his last letter) containing one hundred dollars. This included the forty dollars that had been returned to me and the balance that I had on hand for him, which I thought best not to send to him, after I received the returned letter, until I should hear further from him. I now hope that he has received, or will receive, all the money that has been sent to him, except the ten dollars returned to the brother. That can be sent again when we hear further from him.

In his letter he speaks of their great destitution, and intimates that the hundred dollars "preserved the lives" of his family. He does not mention having received any parcel-post bundles, although I am sure that as many as three were sent to him. We may hear from them yet.

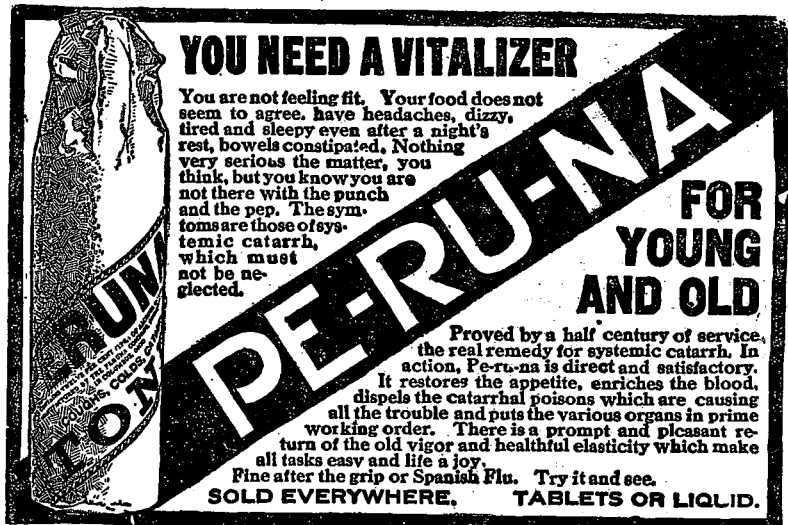

I judge from his letters, of which I have received three since publishing any, that he is near Bagdad, in a refugee camp, preaching. He mentions "brethren" as having "sent for" him "to preach in a large tent" in "a camp near Bagdad." His letters are also postmarked "Bagdad," though he still gives his return address as "care of Imperial Bank of Persia, Hamadan, Persia." He also requests that mail registered be addressed to "Mrs. Anna Alexander Kh.B. Yohannan," above return address, "that she may be able to get it when I am away." He says: "I am still doing my Christian duty, preaching the gospel to poor sinners."

Let thy discontents be thy secrets.—
Benjamin Franklin.

If thou turnest in toward thyself to live to thyself, to be happy in the workings of thine own will, to be rich in the sharpness and acuteness of thine own reason, thou chooseth to be a weed, and canst only have such a life, spirit, and blessing from God as a thistle has from the sun.—William Law.

BOOK OF COMFORT

Specially designed gift for the bereaved. Contains choicest gems of comfort from greatest writers. Each selection a masterpiece. Memorial record page for the deceased. Beautifully decorated. Flowers fade, but "consolation" may be cherished for years. Price $2.00, postpaid. Send to McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

YOU NEED A VITALIZER

You are not feeling fit. Your food does not seem to agree. Have headaches, dizzy, tired and sleepy even after a night's rest, bowels constipated. Nothing very serious the matter, you think, but you know you are not there with the punch and the pep. The symptoms are those of systemic catarrh, which must not be neglected.

PE-RU-NA

FOR YOUNG AND OLD

Proved by a half century of service, the real remedy for systemic catarrh. In action, Pe-ru-na is direct and satisfactory. It restores the appetite, enriches the blood, dispels the catarrhal poisons which are causing all the trouble and puts the various organs in prime working order. There is a prompt and pleasant return of the old vigor and healthful elasticity which make all tasks easy and life a joy.

Fine after the grip or Spanish Flu. Try it and see.

SOLD EVERYWHERE. TABLETS OR LIQUID.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE AS A CHRISTMAS GIFT

Many good, liberal-hearted people, both men and women, give the Gospel Advocate to friends and relatives every year.

Why not give a year's subscription to the Gospel Advocate as a Christmas Gift? Your friends will appreciate it, and you will be doing them and their families a real favor. The Gospel Advocate will go into their homes with a message of God's truth fifty-two times during the year. No other gift may prove such a blessing to them in time or in eternity. Send their names and addresses with your check, and the Gospel Advocate will be mailed to them. The subscription price is $2.00 per year. Send to

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY

317-319 Fifth Avenue, North

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Reminder—Only a few more days till Christmas. Mail your subscription NOW.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE,

Nashville, Tenn.

Inclosed find $2.00, for which please send the Gospel Advocate for one year to

Name.....

Street or Rural Route.....

Post Office..... State.....

ASK FOR POTASH

The present conditions in the business of the farmer and in the fertilizer industry call for serious thought. Both are going through a readjustment period, with its hardships and doubts.

The farmer may well ask whether he is using the most profitable fertilizer. The fertilizer salesman may well inquire whether he is selling the kind that will do the farmer the most good, and lead to larger sales in the future.

During the war America could not get Potash, and the use of acid phosphate increased. Central Europe could not get phosphates, and the use of Potash Salts increased. Today plenty of Potash can be had at less than pre-war prices. Now is the right time to restore the balance by using more Potash in the fertilizer formulas than the average amount used before, 5 to 10 per cent.

Crops take from the soil very much more Potash than phosphoric acid. On any soil where Potash has been profitable it is not unreasonable now to use at least as much Potash as phosphoric acid. Ask the fertilizer agent for prices on this kind of goods, and rebuild your soil while Potash is cheap.

Recently it has been shown that a lack of available magnesia causes serious injury to important crops on some soils. German Kainit and Manure Salts furnish this soluble magnesia without extra cost.

SOIL & CROP SERVICE, POTASH SYNDICATE

H. A. HUSTON, Manager

42 Broadway

New York City

Ask for POTASH-Buy POTASH-Use POTASH

POTASH PAYS

Field Reports

Hatfield, Ark., November 27.—Yesterday was pleasantly spent at home, with two fine services. I also want to speak of the work that has been mentioned in the past of evangelizing Sevier County, Ark. I have put in the most of this year in this territory and know the need of the work, and also see much good to be accomplished. They are asking for only fifty dollars a month to keep it up. Some has been promised, but not enough. There are only four small congregations, and they are not able to do all that must be done. Who or what church will help, and help now? This summer's work has resulted in seventy-five additions, the most of them young men and women. They are apt students, and, with some help and the leaders we have, we can do a great work. Send all donations to L. Poindexter, De Queen, Ark. I am offered work that would pay more and be more pleasant in many ways, but I am willing to help do this, as I have been asked to, and I have my home here, and want to see the work put on a good basis; but if we do not get some outside help, I will have to take other work to make a support.—C. H. Smithson.

Nashville, Tenn., December 1.—On September 8 I was with the little band in Tullahoma, Tenn. One precious soul made the good confession. On September 10 I began a meeting at Viola, Tenn., which continued eight days, with good interest, but no additions. I am to be with them again on the fourth Sunday in May, 1923. On September 24 I began a tent meeting near Hampshire, Tenn. This is a destitute place. The tent was crowded each night with both white and colored. Sixteen made the good confession. I am to labor with them another year. On October 1 I began a meeting at Bellwood, Tenn. The meeting was well attended by both white and colored, and five persons were baptized. On October 17 I began a meeting at Manchester, Tenn. Interest grew throughout the meeting. Three were baptized. One of these had been a Methodist about forty-five years. On October 24 I began a meeting at McMinnville, Tenn. I found this congregation in bad condition. The most of my preaching was to the church. Two from the Methodists were baptized. I am to labor with them another year. On November 5 I was with the Scott's Chapel congregation, near Columbia, Tenn. Two young ladies made the good confession. On November 15 I began a meeting in Aldrich, Ala. I preached my first sermon in a union church. After the first sermon they found use for their house. The next day I stretched my tent and began to tell the old story of the cross, which seemed to be new to these people. Aldrich is a destitute place. In spite of bad weather, we had good crowds each night. The white people came out in large numbers. Dr. Jones (white) encouraged me much in this meeting. One was baptized—a woman from the Methodists. I am to be in Aldrich for two weeks another year. I took down my tent on Sunday afternoon and preached at night at Parrish, Ala. As a result of the Aldrich meeting, another woman from the Methodists made the confession. I am to hold a two-weeks' tent meeting in Parrish another year. The white congregation at America, Ala., gave me a liberal contribution, and the Parrish congregation, through Brother T. Dunn (white), gave an offering to the support of the Aldrich meeting. Both congregations have my hearty thanks. In some respects this has been a hard year with me, yet I am willing to suffer hardships for the Master's cause. I have held sixteen meetings this year and have traveled seven thousand eight hundred and ninety-six miles. Jefferson Street, South Hill, and Kane Avenue congregations, of Nashville, have ministered to my necessity this year. All who have fellowshipped me in the work of our Master have my hearty thanks. I hope to continue my work in destitute places and with broken-down congregations. Brethren, pray for me, that the Lord may use me to his glory and honor.—Alonzo Jones.

Farwell, Texas, November 10.—I am now located with the church at Farwell, Texas, for full time, and we are moving along very nicely. We have no house of our own, but we meet in the county court room, which is very nice and convenient. Our digressive brethren have a house of worship here, which they are not using, having been put out of business last summer during our protracted meeting, when a number of them abandoned the doctrines of men and are now worshipping with the loyal brethren without addition or subtraction. We number about ninety, and have four meetings per week—two on Lord's day, one on Wednesday evening, and the ladies' Bible study on Thursday afternoon. We like our new location fine, and every one seems to be well pleased with the work being done.—T. P. Burt.

SORES

BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

WINTERSMITH'S
CHILL TONIC
SOLD 50 YEARS
A FINE GENERAL TONIC

STAMMERING CURED

YOUR MONEY BACK IF NOT SATISFIED. Here are the names and addresses of prominent people to whom you may write and learn if we really do cure stammering: Rev. Quincy Ewing, Napoleonville, La.; J. Q. Mahaffey, attorney, Texarkana, Texas; W. W. Callahan, attorney, Decatur, Ala.; any bank or pastor of any church in Tyler. Many other names furnished on request.

SCHOOL FOR STAMMERERS, TYLER, TEXAS

STATE BANK AND TRUST CO.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

BROADWAY BRANCH

Ninth and Broadway

4 Per Cent Interest Paid on Deposits

EXPERT DYEING AND DRY CLEANING

SEND BY PARCEL POST

"Over Forty Years"

Experience"

McEWEN'S LAUNDRY

NASHVILLE, TENN.

A Special Meeting for Preachers.

Through the efforts of Brother J. A. Hudson and the officers of the Harbert Avenue church of Christ, a special meeting for preachers will be held at this church, beginning Sunday, December 31, and ending Sunday, January 7. Preachers from all over the country have been invited to attend this meeting, and we are confident that it will be a great success.

THE BOARD OF ELDERS.

By W. C. Wilborn.

Church Meeting.

The church at Skaggs, near Pocomantas, in Randolph County, Ark., will conduct a get-together meeting of all the elders and preachers in and near Randolph County for the purpose of teaching and studying the Bible on the subject of mission work. Said meeting to begin on December 23, 1922, to run over the holidays. Everybody invited. They will try to have a number of preachers and elders present, able to teach and study the Bible in an interesting way.

E. V. COWAN.

[The above notices are published at the request of Brother Cowan and Brother Hudson, but attention is called to Brother D. Lipscomb's caution and warning as reprinted in the Gospel Advocate, December 7, 1922.—EDITOR.]

Religious Papers.

BY T. F. DUNN.

Newspapers are becoming more abundant each day, and we need more as the people increase in number and business increases. So in the religious world.

A few days ago it was announced that one of our papers would have to cease publication if it did not get more support. This brings to our mind some important questions: What shall we do with the papers? Are we to allow them to die for want of support? Do we need them? Are they of intrinsic value? Seeing so many published is sufficient evidence that there is a place for the papers; and while these papers are doing good, yet it is a fact that they are barely able to meet finances. Now, why should this be? Is there not a remedy?

The sectarians have a whip, and use it to advantage when necessary to carry on their publications. They are organized under their various heads, and each head brings its particular part to the support of the paper.

We have our organization in heaven; our citizenship is from above, and thereby we are walking by faith. That ought not to necessarily hinder us lending our support in a systematic manner and keeping at least two of the papers going on a substantial basis. The ones who publish these papers have to support themselves and families just as others do. There is no reason that these papers should not be made self-sustaining. Why is it that they are not?

The answer is simple: there are too many papers. I feel sure that all will agree that the answer is eminently correct. Now the remedy. If we were at church services and we had too many preachers, we would know what to do. Why not use the same judgment about publications?

When too many, lay some aside or stop them. Now, we do not intend to be unkind to any one who wants to publish a paper, but use plain common judgment as in any other business. Thus far we all can agree, I feel sure. The difficult question is: What papers shall cease? We are willing to confess that it is exceedingly difficult to suggest a plan that can be agreed upon.

If you will excuse the seeming ego, I will suggest this plan: Let us take the two papers that had the largest paid-up subscription on November 1, 1922, and let us all support them and make them what they ought to be.

This may call on some to sacrifice some special desire, but without sacrifice there can be but little reward; the greater the sacrifice, the greater the reward. It is self-evident that something must be done; and the sooner, the better.

FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER

The Indianapolis Cancer Hospital, Indianapolis, Ind., has published a booklet which gives interesting facts about the cause of cancer, also tells what to do for pain, bleeding, odor, etc. A valuable guide in the management of any case. Write for it today, mentioning this paper.

THE HOME OF NASHVILLE'S BIG GIFT STORE

With the Busy Christmas Shopping Season at Hand

NASHVILLE'S BIG GIFT STORE

Is Prepared to Serve You for Your Every Need

Christmas, the glad time of the year, is now near at hand—when every heart is stirred, when the spirit of good feeling becomes boundless, when those united by bonds of affection sound the depths of devotion through tokens of esteem.

To make the selection an act of pleasure, as well as the giving, is one of the ideals this big store has striven to attain. The bounteous stocks of every department are chosen with great care.

The assortments are so diversified and complete that the smallest toy for the curly-headed baby or the massive gift for the home can be selected with entire satisfaction.

OUR SHOP-BY-MAIL SERVICE

Out-of-town patrons will find this service a great convenience. Expert shopper in charge to select your needs with the same care as if you were here yourself in person. Orders promptly filled. Satisfaction guaranteed.

CAIN-SLOAN CO.

"THE STORE THAT ALWAYS HAS WHAT IT ADVERTISES"

NASHVILLE Fifth Avenue TENNESSEE
at Church Street

Gospel Advocate

Volume LXIV. No. 51.

NASHVILLE, TENN., DECEMBER 21, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	1209
Apostasy of Churches—Jesus Our Example—Notes from West Tennessee—Bright Prospects for Burritt College—Los Angeles (Cal.) Notes—Christmas Giving—This Should Interest You—More About a Debate—The Hutson (Ark.) Debate.....
EVANGELISTIC NOTES.....	1216
EDITORIAL.....	1218
Christmas—The Spirit of Christ—Division: How Healed.....
HOME READING.....	1222
QUERY DEPARTMENT.....	1223
Reply to an Inquiry.....	1224
The Pacific Christian Academy.....	1225
Call of the Church at Hustburg, Tenn.....	1227
Appeal from Alabama—A Christmas Gift.....	1229
"As the Manner of Some Is".....	1230
The Covington Work Growing—Commendation.....	1231
The Vanity of Youth.....	1232

Our Contributors

APOSTASY OF CHURCHES.

[The apostasy of churches has been so prevalent that it is instructive to make a thorough study of this subject. This article is from the pen of "D. L."—EDITOR.]

The apostasy of the churches has been more significantly set forth in the Scriptures than we give credit for. The devil is to be the leader in this work, transforming himself into an angel of light, and his ministers as ministers of righteousness. "For such men are false apostles, deceitful workers, fashioning themselves into apostles of Christ. And no marvel; for even Satan fashioneth himself into an angel of light. It is no great thing therefore if his ministers also fashion themselves as ministers of righteousness; whose end shall be according to their works." (2 Cor. 11: 13-15.) The devil claims to be an angel sent from God to teach the way of life; and his ministers, ministers of righteousness to lead the servants of God. They succeed well. Paul tells us: "I know that after my departing grievous wolves shall enter in among you, not sparing the flock; and from among your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things, to draw away the disciples after them." (Acts 20: 29, 30.) So he says to the elders at Ephesus. These deceivers changed the churches of Asia into synagogues of Satan (Rev. 2: 9; 3: 9) and led all the churches into the apostasy. These leaders deceive themselves and imagine they serve God. They yet ply their work of devastation and ruin among the churches, leading the churches from God, causing them to ignore the appointments of God and to substitute the inventions of men for these. These men are zealous and devoted, claiming to be sent of God and zealous for his cause. Under the cloak of zeal for God, they work ruin in the churches.

The churches as left here were liable to be entered by bad men, taught evil ways, perverted and made synagogues of Satan, casting out the apostles and inspired teachers of the Lord Jesus Christ, and to become perverters of the churches they claim to teach and preserve. The management of these churches was given to man for him to carry out under the laws of God. Man perverts them by refusing to obey these laws and by substituting the rules and laws of man for those of God. There are two ways of rejecting these laws of God. First, by going beyond and adding other laws; second, by restricting the laws of God and restraining man in his work within limits and from purposes permitted by God. To change or modify or to add to these laws is to set them aside and to annul the authority of God as the law-maker and lawgiver. It requires as much authority to restrict God's law where he has not restricted it as it does to add to his laws as he left them. God lays the absolute requirement on his children to teach his word to the whole world, to all nations, to every creature, by any and all methods of teaching open to man. It is an obligation laid on Christians to be so active and diligent in this work that all willing to receive the truth will be taught it. Fealty to God demands that every child of God should resist any attempt to change the law of God and to cut man off from the opportunities of teaching that word that God has opened to him to teach and save his fellow man. It is right for a Christian to be kind and gentle and forbearing with the mistakes and errors of others, and to seek in a self-denying, patient spirit to deliver them from their error; but the right to teach and instruct others in every opportunity cannot be surrendered without disloyalty to God. In point of loyalty it stands upon the same footing with displacing the provisions of God with the inventions of men. A Christian can yield in neither without rejecting God as his Ruler. He cannot yield the right and the duty to teach the Bible in any and all places in the world, in any and all possible manners, to any and all classes of people in the world. To set aside the law of God is to become a messenger of Satan. The man that says that I cannot teach the Bible to a class or to numbers, few or many, on Monday or Sunday or any other day or night in the week that I can find the opportunity, comes between me and my God and cuts me off from a God-given call to teach his word, and should not be tolerated for a moment. It is every Christian's right and duty to teach. None can stay his hand. Improprieties of person or manner may be committed while doing these things, as in any work we may do. The rules and proprieties regulating our work should be observed. These rules and proprieties should be observed, but the right to teach the word of God should not be surrendered or compromised. It is rebellion against God to add to the appointments and institutions of God or to surrender the duties and privileges God has guaranteed to his church and his people.

When a church adds to the provisions and appointments of God or adopts institutions and expedients that interfere with an ordinance or appointment of God, that militate against or discourage the appointments of God, that expedient becomes an offense to God and must be rejected from the service. When the church fails to reject what a man believes God requires the church to do or transfers the work of God's church to human institutions, it builds up these latter, and it is disloyalty to God for a Christian to follow it. To take from the church or from any part of the church privileges given by God to build up his church or to convert people to Christ is to fight against God and his work and to destroy it. This no Christian can do. When to remain in a church and build it up depreciates any of the offices and duties God has laid on the church, or that detracts from its divinely appointed work, it is sin to build up and spread that church. Jesus Christ and the apostles are driven out of that church by those who lead it. When Christ and the apostles are cast out of it, any one loyal to God must leave it. A person cannot build up a disloyal church and be true to God, too; such a church is a synagogue of Satan.

There are two classes of sins presented to us in the Bible—transgression and disobedience. To transgress is to go beyond the laws of God, to add to those laws. It is to assume the character of lawmakers for God's church. In the Old Testament transgressions were added to the commandments of God, and drove man from the garden of Eden and the favor of God. All along the history of the Jewish family they were guilty of transgressing the law of God. The children of Abraham transgressed and added the kingly government to God's government, and they brought the people to want. Disobedience was not to obey. Disobedience sometimes arose from the spirit of transgression. Men sometimes disobeyed God because they concluded there was no good to them in the service and they would neglect it or set it aside for service in human institutions. This was transgression. But disobedience, a failure to obey the commands of God through human wisdom, was a less crime than adding to the commandments of God.

So the letter to Hebrews notes the greater sacredness of the New Testament, and asks: "For if the word spoken through angels [the law of Moses] proved steadfast, and every transgression and disobedience received a just recompense of reward; how shall we escape if we neglect so great a salvation? which having at the first been spoken through the Lord, was confirmed unto us by them that heard; God also bearing witness with them, both by signs and wonders, and by manifold powers, and by gifts of the Holy Spirit, according to his own will." (Heb. 2: 24.) These occurrences took place in God's dealings with these people, vindicating his right and determination to rule, and the obligation of all to obey God; and "they were written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the ages are come." (1 Cor. 10: 11.)

God has warned us in all his dealings with the world how great the danger of transgression and of falling into sinful habits. "A man that hath set at naught Moses' law dieth without compassion on the word of two or three witnesses; of how much sorer punishment, think ye, shall he be judged worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant wherewith he was sanctified an unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the Spirit of grace." (Heb. 10: 28, 29.) To refuse to do or be content with what the Son of God commands is to trample his authority under foot. We are sanctified by his blood applied in his appointed law. To put other ways not sealed by this blood and not given by the Holy Spirit on equality with them and rely on them to bring blessing and salvation, instead of these blood-sealed appointments of God, is to count the blood of the covenant unholy and to do "despite unto the Spirit of grace." Can men be too cautious in rejecting all order of worship, all institutions of service not required of God? Can we be too cautious in rejecting nothing allowed by God? These are the two extremes—adding to the appointments of God, forbidding those appointed by God. These are both grievous sins, with this to be said in behalf of those who reject some things allowed by God: This is sometimes done in seeking to avoid adding to God's appointments. It is a sin of ignorance, not a presumptuous sin. Let us all study diligently and faithfully the word of God. God draws the distinction there. Whatever adds to or takes from the worship of God, whatever modifies or changes the worship of God, is sinful, and should be avoided.

Instruments of music in the worship do this. They affect, modify, change the service of song. They were in the old service. Whether there by appointment of God may be doubted. They were dropped out by Jesus and the apostles. They have now come back to the churches through churches and men all Protestants recognize as ungodly. They came back through the apostate churches and through wicked men and rulers in these churches. A century ago no disciple would receive and worship with one. Increasing wealth and worldliness invite them in to divide and destroy the churches of Christ. Shall we encourage them? Let us stand on safe ground, and stand where every Christian can stand with us. The same is true of the human societies. One step in the wrong direction has opened the way for others which have swiftly followed.

The original address of Thomas Campbell said: "All shall practice what the Bible requires, adding nothing to it, taking nothing from it." Alexander Campbell, in his first essay, said: "They [the early Christians] dare not transfer to a missionary society, or Bible society, or educational society, a cent or a prayer, lest in so doing they should rob the church of its glory and exalt the inventions of men above the wisdom of God. In their church capacity alone they moved." That he afterwards became the president of such a society only declares his moral or mental weakness, that we do not now discuss. But such inventions of men have always stood as occasions of strife and stepping-stones to positions of infidelity and the substitution of man's rule for that of God. A temporary gain in numbers is offset by division, strife, infidelity, and it must be put down as a promoter of such. What every Christian ought to desire now is a ground of safety and fidelity to God, and one in which all Christians can stand as one in Christ Jesus. The position that excludes all human inventions and includes the appointments of God will save.

Jesus Our Example.

BY S. WHITFIELD.

"For even hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps." (1 Pet. 2: 21.)

It has been said that Jesus never asked us to go where he has not gone. There is certainly a good deal of truth in this statement. Jesus is our example; he has opened up the way, and he asks us to follow in his steps. He has gone where he does not ask us to follow him. We cannot do as Jesus did in some respects, and he does not require that which is impossible of us. Jesus lived without sin, but this we cannot do.

Jesus always did the will of his Father. He said that the doctrine was not his, but the Father's; that he did not wish his will to be done, but his Father's; that as the Father gave him commandment, even so he did. This great truth governed the whole life of the Christ upon this earth, and this is the reason there was no division between him and his Father. There was only one to be pleased. Jesus did not please himself, but he always pleased God. If all religious people would do as Jesus did in this respect, there would be no division now. All would look to God and please him, then divisions would have to cease. Surely this is a simple solution of the whole trouble.

"And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth." (John 1: 14.) "For verily he took not on him the nature of angels; but he took on him the seed of Abraham. Wherefore in all things it behooved him to be made like unto his brethren, that he might be a merciful and faithful high priest in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people. For in that he himself hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted." (Heb. 2: 16-18.)

Jesus was born into this world and partook of our nature that he might know the temptations that man was subject to, and that he might be able to sympathize with us in our weakness; and although we cannot live as he did, we can aim at the example he has set before us.

Jesus came all the way from Galilee to Jordan unto John to be baptized. He had no sins to be pardoned, but he said that it was necessary for us to obey all righteousness. He has set all mankind an example in submitting to this divine institution. All should follow in his footsteps.

The Master said that since they persecuted him, they would persecute us also. Jesus bore it patiently, and we should try to do the same; and remember that since Jesus suffered so much, we should not be ashamed of what we are called upon to pass through.

After Jesus had washed the disciples' feet, he said: "For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you." (John 13: 15.) In this he has given us an example of humility. This is a much-needed lesson for all of us.

In the word of God we are told to love our enemies. While suffering on the cross the Lord asked the Father to forgive those who put him to death. I have heard people say that they could not love their enemies. God does not ask us to have the same warm feeling for our enemies that we have for our near friends. David would not hurt Saul, but sought to do him good, and in the Bible sense he loved him; but he did not have the same feeling toward Saul that he had for Jonathan. If we do not wish our enemies any harm, seek to help them and do them good, then we love them in the Bible sense. Surely we can do this!

We should make sacrifices for the cause of Christ, but it is not likely that we will ever make such great sacrifices as Jesus did. "And Jesus saith unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head." (Matt. 8: 20.)

While Jesus was going up to Jerusalem a multitude followed him, but it was not long before he was left alone to die on the cross. When there was no special cross to bear, the multitude was with him; but in the midst of his greatest trials and suffering, he was with the few or alone. In our great trials for the Master and his cause, if we are left with the few or alone, there is encouragement for us in remembering that our Lord traveled this way before us. If, when two or three of us meet together to do the Lord's will and remember him in his suffering, we feel lonely, let us look to Jesus, who said that the Father was with him.

"For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin." (Heb. 4: 15.)

To have true sympathy, we must go to those who have suffered as we are suffering. Jesus is such a one to us. "Though he were a Son, yet learned he obedience by the things which he suffered." (Heb. 5: 8.)

"Obedience" is one of the great lessons that we must all learn, to please our Heavenly Father. Jesus learned it, and he has left a wonderful example for us to follow. This is one of the hard lessons for people to learn. Jesus is generally looked upon as our Savior, but only a few look upon him as our King. "And why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?" (Luke 6: 46.)

"Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he also himself likewise took part of the same; that through death he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil." (Heb. 2: 14.)

Jesus suffered the death of the cross. He died before us, only his suffering was greater than ours will be.

Men who harden heart and conscience against threatened judgments are very apt to collapse when the judgments come. Frost breaks with a rapid thaw.—Selected.

Notes from West Tennessee.

BY JOHN R. WILLIAMS.

SOMETHING MORE.

It has been said: "Time changes men as well as things." This certainly is true. The rising generation, the young church members and young preachers do not know how very much men and things have changed in the last twenty-five years.

Thirty years ago I could not hold a meeting in some backwoods schoolhouse without being challenged for a debate. Every preacher, of whatever belief, was ready to fight for his faith. "Sign up or shut up" was shot at me in nearly every meeting I held. Well do I remember how T. F. Moore, now editor of the Baptist Flag, would send in his challenges to me for debate. He tried to whip me into debate. "If you don't sign up and meet the issues, I will write you up and show the people what a coward you are." Honestly, I began to fear the man. He was an experienced debater, and he seemed so very anxious to get hold of me that I rather dreaded him, thinking, perhaps, if he once got hold of me, my poor wife would not know me when he got through with me. I tried every honorable way I could to evade him, owing to my limited education and inexperience in debates. Finally a challenge came: "You no longer have an excuse. Fight you must. We will furnish the house; now you must fight or run." "Are you afraid to defend what you have preached all over the Lake hills?" If fight I must, fight I will. So the propositions were signed; December 1, 1896, the time, and Bethel (Baptist) meetinghouse the place. Twenty-six years ago.

In the beginning of the debate a cold rain fell, which soon covered the ground with a sheet of ice. Logs were piled upon the yard and kept burning, and around which dinner was spread each day on the ice. Tom, of course, being an experienced debater, arranged the propositions so that he could have the first and last speech of the debate. Will you show me a Baptist that will debate unless he can have the closing speech? They certainly hang on for the closing speech. Before Tom was half through his opening speech my fears had all fled. I dreaded him no longer. It would not be becoming in me to speak of the result of that debate, but two things occurred that Tom will never forget while he lives. At the close of the debate—his last speech—a beautiful young lady, a member of the Baptist Church, came walking down the aisle toward the pulpit with a bright, beautiful bouquet, and, after a nice little speech, presented me with the bouquet. I do not know how Tom felt, but the congregation will never forget how he looked. Following the presentation of the bouquet a very prominent member of the Baptist Church came up and asked me, or rather challenged me, to meet J. N. Hall in debate on the same propositions. Really I felt sorry for Tom, notwithstanding all his threats against me. From that day to this Tom has never sent me another challenge. So you can see a big change in Tom Moore.

In his opening speech he said: "When a man becomes a Christian, he becomes a member of the family of God. This is by repentance and faith. The Christian becomes a member of the local church by vote and baptism." "Yes," said he, "we inquire more of a person to come into a local church than is required to get into heaven." So "a local church," with Baptists, is greater than heaven. I followed his first speech as best I could; and when he came to his second affirmative speech, in referring to my reply, he said: "Williams reminds me of the boy the old man set to plowing. A land must be laid off. On the opposite side of the field a red yearling was grazing. So the old man told the boy to run to that red yearling. The boy started; so did the yearling. Soon the old man came out to see how the boy was getting on, and found that he had plowed in a circle, here, there, and everywhere. 'What do you mean by plowing in such a manner as this?' 'You told me to run to that red yearling, and it kept going, and I kept following it.' That is the way of Williams' speech." I told him his illustration was correct and to the point. I was the boy, and he was the red yearling. It was my duty to follow him, and in doing so I had to run in a circle, zigzag, and every way but the straight way. In his next speech he said: "Well, Williams has turned the red-yearling illustration on me. I will be more careful hereafter."

The debate passed off pleasantly and the brethren were happy. That was my first and last debate with T. F. Moore. Next, "Then and Now."

Bright Prospects for Burritt College.

BY JAMES E. CHESSOR.

Burritt College, located at Spencer, in Van Buren County, Tenn., closed on December 15 one of the most successful fall terms in its history. The enrollment reached one hundred and ninety, which is in excess of that of any previous fall term within the decade. Since in the past the enrollment has fluctuated but little, this unusual influx of pupils augurs well for the future. The contiguous counties of the Cumberland plateau, stretching across the State from Alabama to Kentucky, are well represented. Excepting Van Buren County, Warren County has the largest representation; White County is second, and Jackson County third. The State at large also is represented by pupils from widely scattered localities, and other States have pupils here. At present, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Kentucky, Oklahoma, and Ohio are represented. The city of Nashville has sent us five boys. I predict that many new sections will send pupils after Christmas and that the spring enrollment will reach two hundred and fifty.

Indeed, prospects for the spring term, which begins on January 2, were never more encouraging. As the term drew near the close the number of inquiries about the school, the town, the church, boarding facilities, and residences for sale or rent increased daily. Every mail brought letters from prospective patrons and pupils. Never before had so many substantial citizens visited Spencer to judge of its educational advantages. Several real estate deals were consummated, in which the school population of the town will be measurably increased. One family comes from Pulaski, one from Smithville, another from Sparta, and still another from McMinnville. The town seemingly has but one hurtful lack—residences.

Doubtless the school's facilities will be taxed after Christmas, but every possible effort is being made to meet the demands. A commodious residence ideally situated on an eminence near the college is being converted into a girls' dormitory. This building, together with the girls' boarding house adjacent to the north campus and the board to be had in Christian families, will afford adequate lodging facilities and protection to girls and young ladies. The school dormitories for young men also will be repaired and particular pains will be taken to provide for pupils coming from a distance. A water system will be installed for the college building during the holidays for the special benefit of the domestic science department, which is just being added to the course.

A permanent change in the course of study designed to give the school a higher rating among institutions of learning in the State will be adopted in January. With a few slight changes in the curriculum the course will be made to include two full years of regular college work. This will give the institution rating as a fully accredited junior college. Heretofore the school has never had full recognition of the actual work it has done, save as the character and success of its graduates have attested it. The change now proposed, when it shall have been approved by the University of Tennessee, will direct attention in an authoritative way to the solid work Burritt College has not neglected to do. This is but right and legitimate.

It is not necessary to speak of the success of the various adjunct departments, such as music, expression, commercial, and art, but a word is in order with reference to the Bible department. This is an important feature of Burritt College. More than half the pupils are enrolled in the Bible classes which recite daily. There are three classes taught by three several teachers, and after Christmas a class in church history will be organized. While details must be omitted for want of space, suffice it to say that the Bible work, together with the prayer meeting, the Sunday school, and the regular Lord's-day services, affords pupils exceptional spiritual exercise and advantages. As a result, few boarding schools have as high a moral and spiritual standard as Burritt College. Hence, it is easy to account for the fact that nearly all the pupils of accountable age are members of the church of Christ and several of the young men are preparing for the ministry.

Discipline in the school is kind, but unyielding. The institution regards it as a sacred duty to safeguard the morals of the pupils intrusted to its care and to inculcate and foster Christian ideals. To this end, the social relation of the sexes is made an object of sleepless vigilance. The boys and girls intermingle in social meetings arranged by the president and under strict surveillance of the faculty, but private courtship is not permitted. The school holds that its highest function is to build Christian character, and, to accomplish this, strives religiously to lay the foundation upon the bed-rock principles of virtue, honesty, and perseverance. While ultimate efficiency on the part of pupils and graduates is one of its chief aims, the primary aspiration of Burritt College is to be the School of the Heart.

The above is a plain statement of the work and conscience and hope of an institution which, though humble and unheralded, is accomplishing in its sphere untold good for the cause of Christian education. The good news of the past term's work and the bright prospects for the future will gladden Christian hearts everywhere and add to the good cheer of the season.

A LIST OF NASHVILLE ADVERTISERS.

Attention is called to our Nashville advertisers. The Gospel Advocate takes pleasure in commending them as being perfectly reliable and strictly honorable. They will appreciate your business. When you call on them, tell them you saw their ad. in the Gospel Advocate. In order that our readers may have them in mind, a catalogue of the firms and individuals is here submitted:

American National Bank.
Broadway National Bank.
State Bank and Trust Company.
Farmers and Merchants' Bank.
The Central National Bank.
Timothy Dry Goods Company.
Caster-Knott Dry Goods Company.
Cain-Sloan Company.
L. A. Bauman Company.
Freed and Hardeman College.
Geny Brothers (Flowers).
Hilary E. House (Furniture).
Hirshberg Brothers.
N. B. Hardeman ("Tabernacle Sermons").
Frank R. Jones (Barber).
Fred K. Jones (Real Estate).
Life and Casualty Insurance Company.
McEwen's Laundry.
Perry Furniture Company.
Stief Jewelry Company.
M. F. Shea (Pianos).
White Trunk and Bag Company.
Washington Manufacturing Company.
Chris Contos (Restaurant and Barber Shop).

Los Angeles (Cal.) Notes.

BY W. EDGAR MILLER.

Each Lord's day now sees the auditorium at 1720 South Flower Street with a capacity crowd, practically all seats being filled. The membership shows a steady growth and the contributions are keeping up, that of last Lord's day being eighty dollars and twenty-eight cents. A few months ago we started a building fund, each one contributing pennies, nickels, and dimes, and the fund now amounts to over two hundred and twenty-five dollars. This proves that it is the little things that count. But we are not going to be satisfied with what we are doing now, and expect soon to call for subscriptions in larger amounts than dimes, and we are sure of a liberal response. We are also going to continue our efforts to increase our numbers and to save more souls. Brethren Wright and Witty are both working hard every day, and their efforts are producing results. These brethren are preaching brethren; they are also practicing brethren, and therein lies, at least in great measure, the secret of their success. The Christian who practices the Bible will convert more souls than the one who merely preaches it.

Last Lord's-day afternoon at Pasadena there was held a meeting of elders, deacons, song leaders, and other representative brethren from the different congregations in this section, the object of the meeting being to discuss matters pertaining to the welfare of the work of the Lord. The idea of selecting some good song book that all the congregations could use was considered, and a committee of the song leaders from the different congregations was selected to examine and recommend a suitable book. This would result in the brethren of one congregation being acquainted with the book of every other congregation, and would be a great aid in singing on such occasions as all-day meetings, of which we have not a few each year. Arrangements were also made looking to the keeping of the tent owned by the congregations at Ontario and Pomona busy during the tent season, which is the greater portion of the year. The spirit of coöperation is spreading and growing stronger in this section, and to the congregation at Pasadena is due, in no small measure, much of the credit for this, as these good brethren have been tireless in their efforts in this direction.

We are expecting Brother H. Ishiguro, our Japanese brother who recently graduated at the Abilene Christian College, here by the first of the year to establish a mission among his people, of which there are many in this city. We shall be glad to see this work started, and will do all we can to encourage and uphold Brother Ishiguro in this great undertaking.

Christmas Giving.

BY M. JANE FLOYD.

Have you given careful thought as to how much you can afford to spend and to whom you are thinking of giving Christmas gifts? Now, I know a number of us, who are readers of the Gospel Advocate, have laid a gift or two away for some loved one's Christmas. Most of us have been planning and saving our pennies for a nice surprise for our friends and loved ones; for what would Christmas be with no gifts? We are imagining the joy this one or that one will have over this new book or that new toy; but, my dear friends and readers, do we really ever think of those outside our own home circle—those who have no real home and family to call their own—those whom we class as shut-ins; the blind; the destitute; the poor, suffering, afflicted children in our city and State homes; the orphans in our various benevolent institutions; the friendless babes and wee tots whose parents desert them and set them on some doorstep for whoever happens to care enough to take them and care for them? Do we ever think to lay aside some joy and comfort for them, or do we think only of our own? "O, well," some of us remark, "it is such a little I could do for any one; it is all I can do to care for myself and my own." Well, that seems almost true in some cases; still we have a wonderful world full of supplies which God has created and given to each and all of us, and surely we can spare some, even a small mite, to those who are more unfortunate than we, and in this way show our thankfulness to Him who feeds and clothes us. There is an old saying, "One drop of water never made a sea," so one penny never made a dollar, but just put one hundred together and see what it makes.

When we give to the needy ones, we are giving to Christ in reality, for it was always our Savior's teaching and example to care for and comfort the needy here on earth.

I found it a good plan to lay aside a few cents each week for the special purpose of charity in any form, just as any one would lay by for taxes, rent, gas or electric bills, insurance, or any periodic bills that come to be paid at regular intervals. Then when any one is in need or some cause comes to be donated to, you have a little ready cash with which to meet the demand; and, too, when Christmas is here, we have a little sum to bring cheer and comfort to those who do not have "homes" to think of them.

We could find no better way of celebrating the supposed birthday of Christ than by giving to the needy causes around us; for did not the Wise Men bring gifts to the Christ child in the manger at his birth? (Matt. 2: 11.) Then, as we do not have our Savior in person here, we could bring gifts to the sick, afflicted, orphans, blind, and friendless in his name and memory, could we not? I really believe we should spend more on charity at Christmas than on lavish gifts to our friends and relations.

How perfectly wonderful it would be if every reader of the Advocate should plan a surprise letter containing money, or a nice box, for some one! Just imagine the joyful surprise in the faces of the recipients! How happy our foreign workers would be, who, perhaps, are laboring under great handicaps and difficulties, away from their native home and loved ones! How the little children's faces in the orphanages would glow with happiness over a nice box of good things to eat or wear, and toys to play with, like all little folks have in their homes! Each one of us could select the cause to which we want to give, giving preference to the one first who is the nearest in the locality and then to one foreign cause also. We should give this surprise separately from the regular monthly offering, I think. This plan is one of my own, but I hope it meets with hearty approval from every reader. Let us all make some sad heart happy.

This Should Interest You.

BY A. G. FREED.

There are many interesting places in Washington, D. C. I found nothing there more so, to me, than the faithful band of Christians. They are devoted, zealous, and in earnest, endeavoring to establish a congregation worshipping after the New Testament model in our national capital. They have valuable property, well located, within easy walking distance of twenty thousand people. They are anxious to make this a radiating center for the primitive gospel. But they are burdened. The property is encumbered. Brethren, let us have a part in this great work. Let me suggest that every church and individual, who has not, send a liberal contribution to reach them by January 1. Let us hope that we may hear the glad news that the church is free from debt, that the liberality of the members may be turned into mission fields surrounding. I wish I could say more to turn the hearts of brethren to this worthy appeal. Send all contributions to Brother W. S. Long, 1219 Kenyon Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

More About a Debate.

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

In answer to a letter which I wrote to Brother Carey E. Morgan, I have received the following reply:

Nashville, Tenn., November 25, 1922.—Elder F. B. Srygley, Nashville, Tenn.—Dear Brother Srygley: Your letter addressed to "Mr. Carey E. Morgan," and a part of which reads, "I am writing you to ask permission to use Vine Street Christian Church in which to discuss the unscripturalness of the use of instrumental music in the worship of God. We would like to have the use of your house, Vine Street Church, for, say, one week of nights, beginning on Sunday night in the near future," has been referred to the Board of Elders for answer.

We note at the close of your letter an invitation for Brother Morgan or some other to meet you or a man of your selection in a debate of the question.

We are writing you to say that if you or any other man selected by you will affirm that the use of instrumental music as an aid to worship is unscriptural, your challenge is accepted and the use of the house tendered. If you are unwilling to do this, then we will affirm our faith and practice, which is, that our use of instrumental music as an aid to the worship of God is scriptural.

Please suggest what date will suit your convenience and furnish us the name of your debater, and we will promptly reply and give you the name of our debater.

The pulpit of this church has always been open to all brethren of any church of Christ for the purpose of preaching the word of God.

Yours fraternally,

BOARD OF ELDERS,

By C. N. Cowden, Chairman.

I am a little surprised that the Board of Elders of the Vine Street Church, some of whom I am sure are lawyers, should have asked me to furnish a man to affirm a negative in a public discussion. These brethren say: "We are writing you to say that if you or any other man selected by you will affirm that the use of instrumental music as an aid to worship is unscriptural, your challenge is accepted." If my letter made the impression on you that I was willing to ask any man to affirm a negative, I want to beg your pardon, for certainly I could not ask any one to do such an illogical thing. When I asked for the use of the house to discuss the unscripturalness of the use of the instrument in the worship, I did not have in mind then the idea of a debate, but simply preaching against the use of the instrument of music in the worship. But at the close of my letter, when I said if you wish to take the lead in the affirmation of the above question, I did refer to a debate; and the affirmative of the above question would be: "The Scriptures teach the use of instrumental music in the worship of God." To put the proposition I had in mind in regular form, it should read: "The use of instrumental music in the worship of God is authorized by the New Testament." To be scriptural now, it must be taught in the New Testament. I said nothing about aids to the worship, but I was thinking about worship. It looks like these brethren think more about their aids to worship than they do about worship.

Brother Briney says the instrument is an aid like a walking stick is an aid to the old man in walking, but it seems that these brethren depend more on their sticks than they do on their limbs in what walking they do. But while Brother Briney talks about his aid a lot and tries to get people to accept the instrument as an aid, still, when commending O. E. Payne's book on the subject of instrumental music in the worship, he said: "The author aims to prove that instrumental music in Christian worship is scriptural; and when I say that his effort is a complete success, I state the case conservatively." Now, it should be noticed here that Brother Briney does not say it is scriptural as an aid, but he says it is scriptural in Christian worship. Now, it either is or it is not. I deny that proposition. Will these brethren affirm it? And to show that I am not misrepresenting Brother Briney in the above quotation, I will quote still further from him. In the same connection he said: "Mr. Payne builds his argument almost exclusively upon the meaning of the Greek word 'psallo,' which occurs in some form five times in the New Testament, and hence the Scripture sanctions the doing of whatever this word meant when the New Testament was written. The author first points out how the meaning of the Greek word 'baptizo' (baptize) is ascertained, and by the same method he demonstrates (I use the word advisedly) that when the New Testament was written 'psallo' carried with it the idea of the use of the instrument of music." Now, brethren, if the word "psallo" carried with it the idea of the use of the instrument in Christian worship when the New Testament was written, when did it cease to carry that idea? And if it yet carries the idea of the instrument in Christian worship, why do you not say so in your proposition? But if it does not, why do you not repudiate your Brother Briney on this point and so eliminate him and "psallo" from the discussion?

Note, brethren, Brother Briney says: "The author [O. E. Payne] aims to prove that instrumental music in Christian worship is scriptural." How is it scriptural? In Christian worship. Who said it was scriptural in Christian worship? Brother Briney says Payne demonstrated that it was, and Briney said he spoke "advisedly." But did O. E. Payne prove, "demonstrate," that it was scriptural as an aid to the worship? No, Brother Briney says he proved that it was scriptural in the worship. But was Brother Payne trying to prove, "demonstrate," that it is scriptural as an aid to the worship or that it was scriptural in the worship? I suppose Brother Payne can come as near answering that question for himself as any one. Now, Brother Payne, let us hear from you. What were you trying to prove? "We must unite in agreeing that if we forego musical instruments we cannot conform to the divine injunction to psallein." (O. E. Payne's book, page 172.) Since the New Testament contains the injunction to "psallein," and O. E. Payne says that enjoins the use of instruments, will you affirm that the New Testament enjoins the use of instruments in the worship of God? If so, I will undertake to find a man to deny it in a public discussion in your meeting-house on Vine Street, this city. If not, will you repudiate O. E. Payne's book and his conclusions on the meaning of the word "psallo" in the New Testament? But remember, brethren, when you admit that O. E. Payne did not prove that "if we forego musical instruments we cannot conform to the divine injunction to psallein," that Brother John B. Cowden said of this same book which contains that statement: "Your book on the church-music question is the most exhaustive, thorough, and convincing treatise of the subject, or, indeed, of any other subject, that I have ever seen."

What Alexander Campbell did for the baptism question you have done for the music question—settled it." In refusing to affirm what Payne says he proved in his book, you are not only repudiating his conclusion in the book, but you are also repudiating what Brother John B. Cowden says about the book. Now, if you will do this, I cannot help it; but these quotations from Brethren Briney, Payne, and Cowden are correctly quoted and can all be verified.

Now, since you suggested in your letter to me that I affirm a negative and I have declined to do so, and since I am in the negative on the use of the instrumental-music question, as I do not use it in worship, I will undertake to affirm that these brethren in the above quotations teach that instrumental music is scriptural in Christian worship. Will you deny it? I know some of these same brethren, when they try to prove by the meaning of the word "psallo" that instrumental music is scriptural in Christian worship, and fail, want to fall back on the old ground that it is permissible as an aid to the worship. That looks too much like you are trying to catch them both ways. Since these brethren, some of them at least, are at the head of your "Commission on Unity," we cannot let you off this way. You must repudiate your "Commission on Unity," erroneously so called, or debate the question, "Instrumental music in Christian worship is scriptural." When instrumental music was in the old worship, it was not there simply as an aid, but it was used in praising Jehovah. "It came to pass, when the trumpeters and singers were as one, to make one sound to be heard in praising and thanking Jehovah; and when they lifted up their voice with the trumpets and cymbals and instruments of music, and praised Jehovah," etc. (2 Chron. 5: 13.) Since God said the trumpeters and the singers made one sound, and that this one sound was "to be heard in praising and thanking Jehovah," how is it all at once to be separated and one become only an aid to the other? If one was only an aid to the praise of Jehovah, the other was, too, for there was but one sound. No, brethren, your excuse for using the instrument in your worship is an afterthought. It was introduced by taking liberties with the word of God, and you are trying to defend it any way you can. It will do good, though, to agitate the question, and I am trying to carry out my promise to keep on insisting that some one should affirm that the New Testament teaches the use of instrumental music in the worship of God, or you should abandon its use in the worship.

Some of the brethren who use the instrument in their worship use it, or have it played, when there is no singing being done. At one place where I happened to be the instrument was played while they were making the offering, and even when they were trying to take the Lord's Supper the instrument continued to play, and no singing going on at all. Now, I wonder what these brethren were trying to aid! It could not have been an aid to singing, for there was none. Then, if the instrument was not a part of their worship, of what was it a part? Does your instrument aid your contributions or your communion of the body of Christ? Surely, brethren, you should be able to see you are using the instrument in your worship, and I must insist that you are doing it without divine authority.

I have said many times, but I will here repeat it: If you want me to undertake to find a man to discuss this question with you, you furnish a man who will affirm the following proposition: "The use of instrumental music in divine worship is authorized by the word of God." This question has been debated when this proposition was affirmed exactly in these words; and in view of the fact that your brethren have indorsed O. E. Payne's conclusion in his book, they can affirm it again, and they owe it to themselves and to you to do so or repudiate their indorsement of said book. Do this, or go on with your one-sided debate, and we will take care of the truth the best we can.

The Hutson (Ark.) Debate.

BY R. L. WHITESIDE.

In reporting some of the arguments presented in this debate, I shall make no effort to give a full speech, but only certain arguments and the replies that might be of general interest.

Mr. Bogard boldly asserted that the Baptists are the only people that can trace a line of their churches back to Christ. Time would not admit of a full discussion of the historic argument; hence, Mr. Bogard contented himself with assertions and a few scattering quotations from Baptist authorities. After reading some authorities, I called on him to find the name "Baptist Church" in literature before 1644. He then read from Benedict to prove that there were Baptist churches before the seventeenth century. I replied: "I can find hosts of Baptist preachers who claim there were Baptist churches before that date, but I call on Mr. Bogard to find that name in any literature written before that date." He replied: "Of course the name 'Baptist Church' cannot be found in literature before 1644, because the name 'Baptist Church' is an English term, and the English language did not exist before that date!" I will let the reader draw his own conclusion.

Mr. Bogard: "Salvation is wholly by grace. Eph. 2: 8-10.) 'By grace are ye saved, through faith.' We are first created unto good works."

Reply: "Mr. Bogard fails to notice that though we are saved by grace, yet it is through faith. Now, there is a divine side, and there is a human side. Grace brings salvation, but faith appropriates it. If we are created in Christ before we do anything, what about faith and repentance? These are commands, and the sinner is active in obeying them. Besides, Mr. Bogard argues that salvation comes in answer to prayer. While these are not the good works that Paul spoke of, they are as much works as baptism. In fact, Jesus calls faith a work."

Mr. Bogard: "It is not a question of what brings grace. I am thirsty and take a drink. The water alone quenches the thirst, though I may ask for it and it may be brought to me in a dipper. When grace reaches us is the point of controversy between us."

Reply: "I am glad my friend made that statement and gave that illustration, for it robs him of much that is usually said about grace in discussing the design of baptism. Whether the grace of salvation comes to us in baptism will be the point at issue when we get to that question, and not whether baptism destroys grace. The usual argument is, therefore, eliminated."

On the operation of the Holy Spirit in conversion, Mr. Bogard argued that the gospel must be preached and that the Holy Spirit must personally accompany the word to give it force and make it effective. He modifies the doctrine of inherent depravity till he makes it but little more than an inclination to sin, yet he presents it as a basis for the necessity for a distinct work of the Spirit in conversion. He relies on the same scriptures to prove his modified form of depravity that the old-time Baptists used to prove inherited sin. In his arguments he seems to forget his definition of "depravity," and uses about the same phraseology as used by the old-time Baptists and draws the same conclusions. "Therefore, the Holy Spirit must accompany the word to bring life to the dead sinner."

Reply: "I might grant everything Mr. Bogard says about the sinner's condition, and still argue that the word is able to reach his heart and beget life. Mr. Bogard seems to limit the power of God, and argues that God could not make the gospel powerful enough to reach the sinner's heart without an additional power. If he will admit that God could have revealed such a gospel, then I argue that he has done that very thing. If he says God could not, then he limits the power of God."

Mr. Bogard: "It is not a question of what God could have done. God could have made Adam and Eve in heaven to begin with had he wanted to."

Reply: "It is not a question of what God could have done, only as Mr. Bogard makes it so. He argues that the plan as we have it cannot reach the sinner's heart. I argue that God could have made a plan that would reach the sinner's heart, and that he has done so. Will Mr. Bogard say that God did not make as good a plan as he could have made?"

By his own request there are inscribed upon Daniel Webster's tombstone at Marshfield these words: "Lord, I believe; help thou mine unbelief. Philosophical argument, especially that drawn from the vastness of the universe in comparison with the apparent insignificance of this globe, has sometimes shaken my reason for the faith that is in me; but my heart has assured me that the gospel of Jesus Christ must be a divine reality. The Sermon on the Mount cannot be a merely human production. This belief enters into the very depth of my conscience. The whole history of man proves it."—Exchange.

Evangelistic Notes

G. A. Dunn is in a good meeting at Hamlin, Texas.

M. B. Newsom, Manchester, Tenn., preached at Harlan, Ky., last Lord's day.

W. L. Johnson reports two additions to the congregation in Burkburnett, Texas.

J. D. Jones changes his address from Huntsville, Ala., to Woodbury, Tenn., Route 3.

C. R. Nichol is in an interesting meeting in Fresno, Cal., which will close on December 24.

R. C. White preached at Grandview Heights Church, this city, on December 10, and had two confessions.

W. D. Bills reports two additions to the congregation with which he labors in San Antonio, Texas. One by baptism.

Ira Womack will preach on the first Lord's day in each month at Sulphur, Okla., and will conduct a meeting at Eola during the Christmas holidays.

Cards are out announcing the removal of Dr. Benjamin L. Simmons' offices to Rooms 317-318 Vendome Building. His friends will be glad to learn of his new location.

M. S. Mason says: "I wish to give my hearty indorsement to the Poplar Bluff call by James E. Laird, of Kennett, Mo. The people are worthy, and you will be aiding a good cause."

C. W. Thompson writes complimentary of the Gospel Advocate. He says: "I am so glad that the Gospel Advocate is still teaching the precious word of God as in days gone by."

R. H. Young, Lebanon, Tenn., reports this: "I recently held a meeting in Hewgley's Bend, in Wilson County, with two additions. Interest increased to the close. I preached at Center Chapel last Lord's day."

W. Curtis Porter writes from Black Oak, Ark.: "I recently closed a two-weeks' meeting at Sixteen Schoolhouse. I preached at Dell last Lord's day. I will go there twice each month this winter, if God wills."

Charles T. Powell is now teaching school at Holly Pond, Ala. There are a few Christians in that section. If there are those who are not meeting with Brother Powell now on Lord's day in that country, they should get in communication with him.

J. A. Cullum writes from Rogers, Ark.: "We are rejoicing in truth that 'the gospel is the power of God unto salvation to all that believe.' Six more precious souls were buried with our Lord in baptism at the evening service here yesterday."

A message from Robert E. Wright, Los Angeles, Cal., says: "The work at the Central church of Christ, 1720 South Flower Street, is doing exceedingly well. We have the best set of elders I ever worked with. Samuel E. Witty, my coworker—you can't beat him in America."

J. H. Morris, Tuscumbia, Ala., sends the Gospel Advocate this message: "I preached at East Florence last Lord's day (December 10) to a large crowd, with one restoration. I go to Iuka, Miss., next Lord's day; on Saturday night before, to Springhill Schoolhouse, near Iuka. Mission work."

J. W. Brents, Springfield, Mo., comes with this report: "I enjoy the Gospel Advocate more and more. Our work here has been fine. We look forward to a greater work next year. Arrangements have been made whereby I am to remain here the coming year. In all, there have been around seventy-five additions to the church during the year. May the Lord bless the faithful."

Jake Hamilton, Alabama City, Ala., reports as follows: "The Alabama City congregation enjoyed two good sermons last Sunday by J. J. Reynolds. The crowds were good and the interest fine at both services. One addition from the Baptists. We are glad to have Brother and Sister Birdshaw, of Anniston, to move to our town and worship with us. He preaches for us every other Lord's day."

C. H. Black, Red Rock, Texas, writes: "I preached at Post Oak yesterday and last night. Good crowds, considering the weather and sickness. I go to Nixon next Sunday, which winds up my work for this year, so far as I know. I will be located by the first of the year, and am ready now to answer calls for meetings. My address is Lockhart, Box 1013, till further notice. May the Lord's richest blessings be ours. Pray for me."

Thomas J. Wagner, Manchester, Tenn., sends this compliment and news item: "Yours is a splendid paper. Keep it coming. I do not want to keep house without it. I have distributed some thirty or forty copies recently in places where I labor in the county, and never fail to speak a word of praise for the paper. I have now three Bible classes each week in the county at places where the church is young and weak. I feel that we are doing a good work."

J. Clifford Murphy writes from Prescott, Ark., as follows: "This makes our second week at this place. Since coming here this time we have bought a lot and paid for it, the contract has been let, and our house of worship will go up at once. We bought our lot from a real estate agent, and after we had bought it one of the leading 'digressives' called up the agent and blessed him out for selling to us. But let me say that the people of Prescott that are true to New Testament teaching have a mind to do something, and will not worship in a vain way."

William F. Etheridge, Benton, Ky., writes: "Charley Taylor and I have just closed a good meeting here. The meeting was held in the courthouse. We had large crowds, and the interest was good. Five were baptized, and a congregation of about forty started the work and worship as 'it is written.' I will make my home in Benton. We hope to build a house of worship soon. The Christian Church has had a congregation here for years, but is on a standstill. Many of their members would return to the 'old paths' were it not for a few of John R. Williams' 'she elders.' Pray for us and the work here."

W. N. Carter, Whitewright, Texas, writes: "My protracted meetings for the year are over. In the work I have had from none to one hundred and fourteen additions. I am now 'booking' meetings for 1923, and would like to hear from places which have written me early in the year. I had letters from Tennessee and Kentucky asking for meetings, but I have misplaced the letters. I will be glad to hear from these places again, that I may arrange for the meetings. I will be especially glad to visit Kentucky, the State of my birth. I am arranging to have with me in the work next year one of our best song directors."

W. D. Black writes from Ozona, Texas: "The meeting at Christoval closed on Sunday night, the first Sunday in this month, with a crowded house. Many could not get in the house. Some on the outside in cars. The meeting was a success in many ways. There was only one confession and baptism from Christoval (there were three in all from Eldorado), but about fourteen members pledged themselves together to meet on the first day of the week to break bread and engage in Bible study. I think there is a better chance now to build up the church in Christoval than ever before. I will try to assist them again in another effort next spring."

T. Park Burt writes from Farwell, Texas: "The church at this place is moving along fine, and we feel as though we were in a new era since taking up work with this congregation last October. I am giving all my time to the church here, but expect to do some preaching over in New Mexico right soon, as we are located in the extreme north-western part of Texas, less than two hundred yards from the New Mexico line. The church here numbers about ninety members, the most of which have a mind to work in the Lord's appointed way. My time for summer meetings has not been fully taken yet, and I will be glad to hear from any place wanting a meeting or vocal training, that I may be kept busy in the Lord's work."

The following note, signed by Roy E. Howell, W. D. Porter, J. W. Scott, R. A. Johns, J. A. McClanahan, and J. C. Butler, elders of the church of Christ at Newbern, Tenn., is addressed to "the brethren in Christ." "Some years ago the digressive spirit crept into our congregation, and by innovations and through the courts we who were satisfied with God's order of worship lost our house. Since then we have been meeting in rented halls and holding our meetings in tents, but we are now making the effort of our lives to build a house in which to meet. We have the lot paid for, and a part of the money to make the first payment on the house, and are now asking you to assist us in our happy struggle to build this house to God's glory and that the primitive worship of the church may be maintained in Newbern. You will please not disappoint us. Send donations to either of the elders."

J. Will Henley reports that thus far this year he has baptized one hundred and twenty-six persons.

J. H. Hines, of Montgomery, Ala., writes that the brethren desire to locate a preacher at Lineville, Ala. A single man is preferred. If interested, write Miss Susie Hobbs, Lineville, Ala.

J. H. Stribling, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., was in the city last week and paid the Gospel Advocate office a pleasant visit. He reports the work of the church and school at Lawrenceburg doing well.

Joe C. Mayes, of Farmington, Tenn., made this office a visit last week. He reports the church there as doing good work and in peace. May it continue in its good work and increase more and more.

James E. Laird, of Kennett, Mo., preached a few days last week at Mount Pleasant, Tenn. He made the Gospel Advocate office a pleasant call on his way back home. He reports the church as doing well at Kennett.

The Gospel Advocate has received announcement of the marriage of Miss Floy Edwin Trail to James Leonard Jackson, to be solemnized at Lindsley Avenue church of Christ, Nashville, Tenn., at 8 P.M., December 28, 1922.

G. N. Allen, who called for help to cell the church, is at Pine Bluff, Ark. Write him, and send help to G. N. Allen, Pine Bluff, Ark., in care of the Smith Printing Company; or send to C. A. Holt, in care of O.K. Barber Shop.

Married, on December 14, 1922, at the bride's home, in Nashville, Mr. Irl S. Jordan, of Milton, Tenn., and Miss Novella Harris. H. Leo Boles officiated. Both are earnest, faithful Christians, and their many friends wish them all the joys and happiness that belong to holy wedlock.

J. B. Austin sends subscription to the Gospel Advocate, and writes: "I am now teaching in the western part of Maury County, and worship with the Isom congregation. This is one of the strongest rural congregations in the State. It has a membership of about two hundred and sixty."

K. C. Moser will give half his time to the work with the church in Holdenville, Okla., and the other half will be spent with the church in Wewoka, Okla., his home congregation. Recently he was with the church in Norman, Okla., in a protracted meeting, with twenty-one additions to the congregation.

C. Petty writes appreciatively: "Just let me say that there can be no better paper than the Gospel Advocate is for the defense of the truth; and I know each week when I see the Advocate coming that there is something good for me. Just say to F. B. Srygley that he has broken every string on the big fiddle, and I am glad of it."

E. E. Shoulders writes from New York City: "The New York work moves along very nicely, with good crowds at each service. We are busy and doing our best to make the cause a success here. No church or individual who has not begun sending support to this work should forget that we are expecting an effort on their part for the coming year."

John W. Hedge, Bishop, Texas, writes: "Horace W. Busby has just closed one of the best meetings in the history of the church at the above place. Twelve were added, nine by primary obedience. The crowds and interest were the best ever manifested, so many declare. His messages are plain and simple, and are, therefore, effective with the masses. We are glad to have his promise of being with us again in 1923."

Charles F. Hardin, of Jackson, Miss., sends this message: "T. C. Fox, of Natchez, Miss., was over to preach for us last Sunday. Every one was impressed with the practical lessons he gave us and his earnestness. Brother Fox reports the South Mississippi mission work in good shape. We will exchange some meetings this coming summer. The work here in Jackson and at other places I work does fairly well."

B. C. Goodpasture writes from Atlanta, Ga.: "The work at West End Avenue moves along nicely. We have two new Sunday-school rooms which will be ready for use as soon as the paint is dry. Brother Paisley preached at South Pryor Street yesterday. The brethren were well pleased with his sermons. Hugh E. Garrett was at Norcross, Ga., last Sunday. We are planning to spend the holidays in Childersburg."

Will J. Cullum writes from Rockwood, Tenn.: "We had a real good day at Rockwood last Lord's day. One hundred and fifty-four at Bible study; a good crowd at worship, with one from the Baptists, who will be baptized on Wednesday night; house full at the evening service; also a good hearing at Stony Point in the afternoon. Our work is doing well, and we hope to do greater things next year if we can get our financial burden lifted."

W. W. Still writes from Cordell, Okla.: "Last Lord's day was a fine day at the Read Bluff Schoolhouse. This is a mission point. The Lord's day before last there were twenty hearers, and one sister broke bread with the writer. Last Lord's day there were thirty-six, and five communed. The people and the brethren and sisters around Read Bluff, do not attend church at any place, but they are getting interested in the Bible study, and so are the little children."

Vernon Rozar sends this cheerful message from Brush Creek, Tenn.: "Last Lord's day I filled my regular appointment at Bethlehem. A large, attentive audience was present. After services I went to my car, ready to leave, and —lo!—the good sisters had preceded me to the car and had it loaded with good things to eat in the way of ribs and canned fruits. We are very thankful indeed for this manifestation of their kindness toward us, and we pray for a continuation of God's blessings upon them."

H. W. Riggs writes from Tompkinsville, Ky.: "I have just closed a ten-days' meeting with the church at Vernon, in Monroe County. In spite of unfavorable weather, the interest was very fine in some respects. Many of the school children learned the New Testament books in order. At the evening services children as well as older people repeated from memory many verses and whole passages of Scripture. 'Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.' There were two restorations; no baptisms."

Will W. Slater, of Beaumont, Texas, writes: "Things are moving in this city. Fine services at South Park Church yesterday, with three additions at the morning service. Our attendance and interest is increasing. We will enlarge our house soon. W. D. Black, of Ozona, Texas, is here in a meeting for the North Side Church. We dismissed all our services, except the morning services, and are attending the meeting. I am doing my best in leading the songs. Several additions to date. The meeting will continue all this week, perhaps."

Thomas J. Golson, of Highland Home, Ala., writes: "I began a meeting at Sardis, two and one-half miles south of Highland Home, on the fourth Lord's day in July. I preached Sunday at eleven, Sunday night, then on at night until Saturday night. I baptized thirty-three, one old lady about seventy years old. Thirty came back and confessed their wrongs. I hope they will all hold out faithful. It was the first meeting that I have held in about four years. I had to quit preaching on account of my health. Now I am too old to preach much. On February 19, next, I will be seventy-four. My wife is seventy-three. But we have a great deal to be thankful for."

R. A. Craig writes: "On the first Sunday in December I was at Winchester, morning and evening. M. L. Baumer was at Shelbyville in the afternoon and evening. Last Sunday I was at the Forks of Elkhorn. There were two additions at the morning service. The work there is looking up. The work at Shelbyville is moving along steadily. The plans for our new home have been completed, and we expect to begin building soon. We are badly in need of funds to carry this work on. Our lot is paid for. It cost twelve hundred dollars. We have on hand about three hundred and fifty dollars. Brethren, we earnestly solicit your aid in this most worthy work. Won't you sit down right now and mail us a check?"

Fred Blanchard, Friendship, Tenn., Route 3, writes: "The Lord willing, I will begin work in January with the Yorkville, Neboville, and Bethany congregations, in Gibson County, and Lemalsamac, in Dyer County. We plan to move to Yorkville about May 1, and after that date I hope to give all my time to the study and ministry of the word. The cause here and in surrounding communities is thriving. The pure gospel has been preached to multitudes hereabout in the year 1922, and many are becoming disgusted with the ways of sectarianism. A. G. Freed, whom all love and who teaches with a force equaled by few, will preach for the church at Bethel monthly and during protracted meetings next year; W. C. Hall will hold the meetings at Dorris Chapel and Neboville; and J. L. Holland, of Greenfield, will conduct the protracted meeting at Bethany. I have been asked to do the preaching in summer meetings at Lemalsamac and at Kenton. The meetinghouse at Dorris Chapel, which burned during last summer's meeting, is being replaced with a handsome brick-veneer building."

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 817-819 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

Christmas.

BY J. C. M'Q.

"'Christmas' is the English name for the season in which the birth of Christ is commemorated. It is apparent, however, that a festival was celebrated at this season long before it was held sacred as the birthday of Christ. The Saturnalia of the Romans and the winter festival of the heathen Britons were both celebrated about December 25, and later the Roman festival in honor of the sun god, Mithra (instituted 273 A.D.). From the latter the day came to be known as the Birthday of the Unconquered Sun; and after its adoption by the Christian church in the fourth century as the anniversary of Christ's birth, this name was given a symbolic interpretation." (Nelson's Perpetual Loose Leaf Encyclopedia.)

It is now generally conceded that December 25 is not the day on which the Christ was born. God in his wisdom has withheld from the world the day of Christ's birth. It is well that he has not revealed the day. Man, with his weakness to worship inanimate things, would worship the day and not the Savior of the world. As it is, men are prone to exalt one day above another. Men need no encouragement to judge one another in regard to days. "Let no man therefore judge you in meat, or in drink, or in respect of a feast day or a new moon or a sabbath day." (Col. 2: 16.) It is well for Christians to know that Christmas Day is no more sacred than any other day.

No one should ever connect the Christmas tree with the worship of the church. The Christmas tree, which is usually a young spruce, cedar, or similar tree, placed in a room or a church house, with its branches gayly illuminated with colored candles and hung with ornaments and with gifts for children, is of German origin. Santa Claus, a shaggy-bearded old man, who is supposed to come from the far North in his reindeer sledge, laden with children's toys, on Christmas Eve, is identified with St. Nicholas, and also with Knecht Ruprecht and Robin Goodfellow.

Whenever churches give Christmas-tree entertainments to children, all should know that such entertainments are not divinely authorized worship and that the walls of the church house are not sacred. As it is always proper to make gifts to the poor, the poor should receive a large share of the gifts placed on the Christmas tree. Wealthy parents should not make this the occasion to make costly presents to their children. When this is done, the poor are almost sure to be humiliated. Let those who have Christmas trees be sure to remember the poor with useful gifts, such as food, clothing, and shoes. With compassion in your hearts, drive away hunger and cold from the poor and speak a word for Jesus while doing so. "In all things I gave you an example, that so laboring ye ought to help the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, that he himself said, It is more blessed to give than to receive." (Acts 20: 35.)

Since Christmas Day is kept in honor of the birthday of Christ, it should be observed in a manner that comports with the life that the Christ lived. His was the humblest, purest, and most guileless life the world has ever known. Neither envy, jealousy, nor hatred marred his life. Profanity, uncleanness, and immorality were no part of his being. He mastered "the lust of the flesh and the lust of the eyes and the vainglory of life," because they are not of the Father, but of the world. In view of his sinless and guileless life, how do you think you should spend Christmas? To spend the day in debauchery and drunkenness in no way reflects the light which emanates from Christ. To spend it in personal wrangles and in quibbling with brethren over whims and nonessentials in no way honors the Christ whose name we wear. Reading the Bible, serious meditation, and earnest prayer will be helpful in fitting us for the proper observance of the day.

This is our last issue before Christmas. How rapidly are the years winging us into eternity! Brief appears the span back to last Christmas! Shall we not make Christmas the time to take our bearings? Have we been kind and tender-hearted to those about us in the years that are gone? Have we been considerate of the weaknesses of others, or have we treated them as though we expected of them perfection? We should consider our own weaknesses before demanding others to live up to a perfect standard. So long as men are in the flesh they will make mistakes and do wrong. The fight with Paul became so fierce that he cried out: "Wretched man that I am!" It is a struggle and a fight from the cradle to the grave. If we are not growing better, we are growing worse.

We should be sure that our mistakes are of the head and not of the heart. If we make enemies for doing right, we should not be an enemy to any man. In quietness we should work and manage our own business and encourage others to do likewise. Every one must give account for himself to God.

Our highest concern should not be about what others think of us, but about what we really know of ourselves. Are we really better than ever before? Do we care less for the world, or do we love it more? Jesus has gone to prepare a place for us. Loved ones have gone on before us. A sweet daughter, a godly, sainted companion, and a host of the redeemed are waiting at the beautiful gate to welcome us home. Are we ready to pass out of the misunderstandings, the persecutions and tribulations of this life into the glory light of heaven? May God help us all to grow purer, sweeter, and nobler until we breathe our last and Christ says to us: "Well done, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

God gave me this good body
To grow both strong and tall.
Tobacco helps to spoil it,
And so does alcohol.
Into my mouth they shall not go;
When tempted, I will answer, "No;"
And every day I'll watch and pray:
"Lord, keep me pure alway."

—Selected.

The Spirit of Christ.

BY F. W. SMITH.

I have been, for a long time, fully convinced that many religious people have a one-sided conception of "the spirit of Christ"—using "the spirit of Christ" in the sense of the mind or disposition of Christ. My conclusions are based upon the way people speak and write about the spirit of Christ, which is the only way I have of estimating their conception of the matter. Their false ideas on the subject have led them to deprecate and deplore all controversies, oppositions, and discussions on religious subjects, holding that the Bible and the religion of Christ are too sacred and too holy to be brought within the realm of contention and discussion. Hence, they cannot stand to hear or read anything bordering on religious discussion, and for that reason will not read a paper nor hear a man preach that antagonizes the faith and practice of others, claiming that all such is contrary to the spirit of Christ. All those with such a conception of the spirit of Christ have read to little profit the record God has given of his Son, for it is only through this record that we can know the spirit of Christ. The things he spoke and did reveal to us his spirit; and when we come to consider how the Master spoke and how he acted, we have no trouble in discovering the false conceptions many have of his spirit. That Christ was gentle, kind, and compassionate, full of tenderness and mercy, and long-suffering toward the weak, will be fully admitted by all who have even casually read the New Testament; and it is equally true that he was extremely severe in his denunciation of sin, the exposure and condemnation of hypocrites, false teachers, and perverters of God's word. Much of his time was spent in contentions and religious discussions with the Jews, showing how they had departed from the law of God, perverted and corrupted the worship and service of God.

A few examples of the spirit of Christ along these lines will suffice to show what a one-sided view some people have of the Christ. To hypocrites he said: "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte; and when he has become so, ye make him twofold more a son of hell than yourselves." (Matt. 23: 15.) Again: "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye are like unto whited sepulchers, which outwardly appear beautiful, but inwardly are full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness. Even so ye also outwardly appear righteous unto men, but inwardly ye are full of hypocrisy and iniquity." (Verses 27, 28.) He called these characters "serpents" and "vipers." "Ye serpents, ye offspring of vipers, how shall ye escape the judgment of hell?" (Verse 33.) To those who loved money to such a degree that they had polluted the sacred temple of God, our Master said and did as follows: "And Jesus entered into the temple of God, and cast out all them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the money changers, and the seats of them that sold the doves; and he saith unto them, It is written, My house shall be called a house of prayer: but ye make it a den of thieves." (Matt. 21: 12, 13.) To those who perverted, added to, and took from the word of God he said: "Well did Isaiah prophesy of you hypocrites, as it is written, This people honoreth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me. But in vain do they worship me, teaching as their doctrines the precepts of men. Ye leave the commandment of God, and hold fast the tradition of men. And he said unto them, Full well do ye reject the commandment of God, that ye may keep your tradition." (Mark 7: 6-9.)

Thus we see how Jesus condemned and publicly criticized hypocrites and false teachers; and yet, if one of his disciples tries to follow the spirit of the Master in these things, he is accused of not having "the spirit of Christ."

In so far as religious discussion is concerned, one has only to glance at the pages of the New Testament to discover the fact that Christ and the apostles were constantly engaged in contentions with opposers of the truth. To one who sought to turn a man away from the truth, the apostle Paul spoke boldly: "But Saul, who is also called Paul, filled with the Holy Spirit, fastened his eyes on him, and said, O full of all guile and all villainy, thou son of the devil, thou enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?" (Acts 13: 9, 10.) This same apostle told the apostle Peter to his face that he had acted the hypocrite. (See Gal. 2: 11-13.) Did Paul manifest the spirit of Christ in this? Is there one so bold as to deny that Paul was following the Master in these things? Again, when false teachers went from Jerusalem to Antioch and began to teach their false doctrine, what did Paul do? Did he sit idly by and permit them to do so without a protest upon his part? Not much; but he fought them to a finish, thus manifesting again "the spirit of Christ."

One of the greatest weaknesses of the church of Christ to-day is the sickly sentimentalism pervading its membership, toadying to sectarianism by decrying all religious controversy, refusing to read religious discussions in our papers, seemingly ignorant of the fact that they would be compelled to discard the Bible upon the same principle, for it is the most controversial book ever written. So far as I am concerned, I do not intend to let this seemingly widespread false conception of the spirit of Christ deter me from obeying the divine injunction: "Contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints." (Jude 3.) Of course, there should be no bitterness nor ill feeling manifested in opposing false teaching; but the facts should always be given, no matter how severe they may be nor whose feelings such facts may hurt. The truth is what people need, for it is the truth that makes us free. (John 8: 31, 32.) No one who knows the truth can be the friend of another who is in error without making an effort to teach him or her the truth.

Division—How Healed.

BY H. LEO B.

This is the most interesting part of the study of division. It is interesting to note many of the causes of division; it is profitable to observe the curses of division; but it seems that it is more interesting and still more profitable to study the panacea for division. Just as it is interesting and profitable to study the causes of diseases and to learn the effects of these diseases, still it is better to know the remedy or cure for the disease. There are no divisions between brethren as individuals or divisions in the church as the body of Christ but that God has given a remedy whereby these divisions may be corrected. A study of the exhortations and instructions for peace and unity gives some relief to the sin of division. If the scriptures on peace and unity are followed, they will not only prevent division, but will correct and adjust all division in the body of Christ.

The sin that causes division must be destroyed. The one guilty of the sin must cease to practice the sin that causes division; that one must repent sincerely of this sin and, so far as is possible, make reparation for it. Sin has a disturbing nature; it disturbs the peace and happiness of God's people and causes alienation between brethren and divides asunder the body of Christ. The sinner is a disturber of the peace and a divider of the body. Hence, to remove the cause of division is the first step toward reconciliation and unity. If the sinner sees his sin and in penitence corrects it, it is easy to take the next step. The sinner should be brought to a realization of his condition; he should be shown clearly and kindly his sin; he should be instructed and patiently guided in correcting it. True repentance on his part puts him in the right attitude toward God and the Lord's people. There should be no attempt at hiding his sin or covering it up; there should be no excuse offered or an attempt at veneering it. A frank, humble, prompt, and full confession of the sin is demanded by Jehovah, and speedily follows true repentance. If the sinner is obstinate and persists in a continuation of the sin that causes division; if all God-ordained means and agencies have been brought to bear upon him to bring him to repentance; if everything in righteousness has been faithfully, patiently, and kindly done, and still the guilty party or parties refuse to be brought to repentance, then they must be marked and turned away from. They must be severed from the body that the body be not destroyed.

When the guilty ones are truly penitent and when forgiveness is sought by the party or parties, then forgiveness and mercy must be extended by all others who have been affected by the sin. Many times division is made or is continued because those who were innocent at first have refused to accept the confession of the guilty parties and extend forgiveness. A lack of the forgiving spirit may then become a cause of division. No one can for a moment, under any circumstances whatever, encourage sin or the wrongdoer; neither can any one who follows the Christ fail to give encouragement to one who wants to do right. It is not only the duty of the party or parties who have been sinned against to grant in mercy forgiveness when sought by an earnest, penitent brother, but it is also the duty of those who have been wronged to help bring about penitence on the part of the sinner. "Brethren, even if a man be overtaken in any trespass, ye who are spiritual, restore such a one in a spirit of gentleness; looking to thyself, lest thou also be tempted." (Gal. 6: 1.) So often do we find brethren who have been sinned against committing even a greater sin by the very attitude they sustain toward the wrongdoer. They become enemies of the one who has committed the wrong and declare that they will have nothing to do with him.

There are brethren all over the land and in almost every congregation who are nursing some grievous wrong, real or imaginary, which they have received. They are determined not to have any fellowship with, give any encouragement to, or have any association whatever with, the one who has wronged them. The very attitude is that of an enemy. They have been estranged and will not even give the one whom they claim has sinned against them an opportunity to make amends. Even if the offender makes an advancement toward reconciliation, he is met with a rebuff and sometimes snubbed. The offended party turns "the cold shoulder" to the one who would seek forgiveness and extend reparation, but the offended party, by his very attitude and evil spirit, will not let the wrong be corrected, and thus variance and division continue, and the one who was innocent when the trouble began now becomes the responsible party for the division. This is a fearful attitude and condition. "Agree with thine adversary quickly, while thou art with him in the way." (Matt. 5: 25.) The one who has been sinned against ought to be anxious that the sinner be brought to repentance and the division cease. The innocent party must in righteousness and humility seek to use every God-ordained means and Heaven-granted opportunity for a reconciliation and healing of the breach. The innocent party ought to feel that there are fearful responsibilities resting upon him and that he cannot afford to let the matter go without prayerfully doing all that is in his power toward a settlement. "If therefore thou art offering thy gift at the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath aught against thee, leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way, first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift." (Matt. 5: 23, 24.) It is not enough for the innocent to say: "He knows that he has done wrong, and he knows how to correct it." The innocent party must help in all righteous ways, and encourage with all prayer and earnestness, with long-suffering and persistence, the guilty party to correct his wrong. The innocent must help the guilty party to realize the awfulness of his sin and the fearful consequences in persisting in it.

Again, the innocent party sometimes becomes unmerciful in exacting reparation from the sinner. The lack of mercy may drive the sinner from the path of his intended course and thereby the guilt of the division be shifted from the first sinner to the second. We should seek earnestly to imitate the Master in this respect. "Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy." Oftentimes the grieved party has been nursing a desire for vengeance in spite of all his apparent interest in the sinner, and when the sinner comes in humility and penitence seeking forgiveness, he finds his brother so exacting and unmerciful that the smoldering wrath which was harbored in his brother's heart has at last blazed out against him. His brother, whom he had a right to expect would be merciful, he now finds to be cruel in his exactness and unkindness. Such a course may drive the weak brother back into sin, and the unmerciful brother must share in the responsibility of it, and, therefore, must share in the sin of perpetuating division. Oftentimes the offended brother is tortured with a morbid suspicion that his erring brother is not sincere, and this causes him to be unmerciful. Let us all have the mind of Christ, and all divisions will speedily end. Let us seek and pursue it. Let us sustain the attitude of helpfulness, encouragement, and forgiveness to all who are trying to do right, and the Lord will heal many of our divisions. So mote it be.

Commendations of the Gospel Advocate.

"The Gospel Advocate gets better every week." (W. S. Long, Sr.)

"The Gospel Advocate grows better, it seems to me, all the time." (Robert E. Wright.)

"I think it is the greatest paper of all. I could not do without it in our home. It stands for the truth." (Mrs. Ben N. Jackson.)

"I am in hearty accord with the great principles that you are standing for, and expect to send you a list of subscribers as soon as I get located." (T. N. Bass.)

"May God's blessings ever rest on the Gospel Advocate Company for the good you are doing in getting out a most excellent religious journal." (Mrs. M. Giles.)

"The Gospel Advocate improves with every issue. Brethren Smith, Srygley, Boles, and others are doing a great work by meeting and answering every contention of the 'digressives.'" (Fred Blanchard.)

"I received the first copy of the Gospel Advocate this week and perused it from cover to cover. We like it fine, and hope to keep it coming as long as it lives, which we hope will be until time is no more." (T. Park Burt.)

James H. Morton sends in his fifty-sixth subscription. He is now in his eighty-first year, and has been preaching the gospel since 1868. While we appreciate sincerely every commendation, I am sure it is pardonable in us to appreciate such as his most.

Hardeman's Tabernacle Sermons.

A FINE CHRISTMAS GIFT!

What better present could you make your relatives or friends than this volume of gospel sermons? You also help some poor boy or girl—"two birds with one stone."

Be sure to consider this in making out your list of Christmas presents.

Price, $1.50. Order from N. B. Hardeman, Henderson, Tenn.

Commendations of the Bible Lesson Helps.

"I consider your literature the best published by your faith." (T. J. Marrs, Adventist.)

"I have received samples of Bible Lesson Helps, and must say that I am sure there are no better, and no congregation will make a mistake in using them." (Vernon Rozar.)

"In reply to your inquiry with reference to the literature, or Lesson Helps, will say that we have been using them for the last year, and are well pleased with them." (Liff Sanders.)

"I pronounce your Lesson Helps well arranged and beneficial in studying the Book. I shall never hesitate to speak a good word in behalf of the literature." (Emmett G. Creacy.)

"We are well pleased with Brother Smith's style of comment in the Advanced Quarterly. Brother Srygley does equally as well with the Primary and Intermediate Quarterlies." (E. E. Shoulders.)

"I have been using your Bible Helps for twenty years or more, and I consider the present helps stronger and better in every way for the pupils. However, they have always been good." (Tom Walker.)

"After a careful examination of your Sunday-school literature, it seems to me scarcely possible to improve it; so I remailed my samples to North Alabama to parties I know ought to be using them." (T. A. White.)

"Your Quarterlies fill a long-felt need, and I believe they merit a place in every church of Christ, being something that is a great help in assisting and giving valuable aid to those in the walk of faith in our path of life." (Paul T. Martin.)

"I consider the Bible Study Helps put out by the Gospel Advocate Company of the very best. No one can give them his careful attention and study without increasing his knowledge of the great facts, truths, and principles which should govern us here below." (E. S. Fitzgerald.)

"Permit me to say that I do not see how any one could improve upon the Quarterlies. The lessons are so plain and clear in every way, as I see it. The Gospel Advocate is doing a great work in sowing the pure word of God. I shall do all I can to help spread these good works." (J. Hannon.)

"I received sample copies of your Bible Lesson Helps. I think they are just fine. My judgment is that the churches that are using them and the many others that will adopt their help in the method of teaching will be the congregations most wide awake to their duty in soul culture." (Willie Hunter.)

"I have not yet received Quarterlies for 1923; therefore, I cannot speak as to whether or not improvements have been made. However, if this literature for 1923 is equal to that of 1922, the standard is sufficiently high to meet all the demands of our classes. The congregations of this section have been using the Quarterlies for this year, and, so far as I can learn, all are going to continue to use them. I am expecting to do what I can to promote the interest of this literature." (Lee Jackson.)

"I have recently examined your Bible Lesson Helps, and consider them very fine. The clear outlines of the lessons are so simple that the lesson itself can be understood easily by young or old, it appears to me. The only thing that I regret, or dislike, in regard to these Lesson Helps is the fact that so few disciples and churches appreciate the real value of them; and because of this lack of appreciation they do not use them as they should. I trust that these Lesson Helps will have a wider and more useful circulation." (S. E. Templeton.)

"I received sample copies of literature sent me, and am well pleased with the arrangement of topics and questions. I cannot see why the churches everywhere do not adopt the use of this good literature, edited, as it is, by our able men. I am quite sure that this method of teaching far surpasses the dull, unsystematic way of teaching that is done in so many churches. Why should any one object to the use of literature? No one objects to preaching. Now, will some one please tell me what is the difference between a man's spoken word and his written word, so far as being acceptable with the Lord is concerned? Brethren, it is high time for us to begin to adopt the best methods of doing the Lord's work. All this contention about methods of doing the work of our Lord usually results in our doing nothing at all to promote his kingdom. So let us cease our contention, adopt some good method, get busy, and really do something." (H. C. Denson.)

Gospel Advocate Company.

Many splendid books are published and handled at this office. Good, religious books should be kept in each home. They have a refining influence on the young. Their educational value cannot be overestimated. The Gospel Advocate Company would like to help you educate your family by introducing good books to your library. "Evenings with the Bible" is a fine book to develop piety and spirituality, as well as very instructive. "The People's New Testament with Notes" is very helpful to Bible students. Here is a list that should be in every home. How many of them have you?

"Center Shots at Sin. By Arthur Talmage Abernethy. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.75.

An arsenal of religious ammunition, assembled by a strategist experienced in fighting uphill. The author is a strong and virile thinker; his style, clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eye-opener.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume I. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

The gospel is always attractive when presented by W. H. Book. These sermons were not written in a study, but were stenographically reported as the burning words were uttered by the master preacher, under the inspiration of the great audience which flocks to hear him every week.

"Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," Volume II. By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

A companion volume to the author's first book of sermons. Reported in the same way and published because of the unusual demand the first volume created.

"Sermons for the People." By W. H. Book. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.25.

Few books of sermons combine the qualities of interest, instruction, and inspiration to the degree in which they are united in this volume. The author is a master in the field of popular sermonizing, and some of his best work is to be found in this collection. There is not a dull page in the book. The text fairly sparkles with original and apt narratives.

"Lights on Scripture Truths." (Former title, "Side Windows.") By Mattie M. Boteler. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.

A valuable ready-reference compendium of original, forceful and apt illustrations for the busy preacher, Sunday-school teacher, and religious worker. The striking originality and practical usefulness of each illustration puts this volume in a class all by itself. A carefully prepared topical index and alphabetically arranged table of contents add greatly to its usefulness. Its distinct value is that the author has followed the example of the great Teacher in illustrating profound truths by examples familiar to all. "I found one illustration that was well worth the price of the book." (S. M. Bernard.)

"The Indiana Pulpit." Edited by W. H. Cook. Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid, $1.40.

This series of twenty-two practical sermons, each discourse being the best one preached by as many leading Indiana preachers, presents vital Christianity in a most attractive way. "'The Indiana Pulpit' will be especially helpful to young preachers. The topics are varied and the discourses are from men of learning and experience. It will make each who reads it better, and it will strengthen the faith of all who carefully peruse its pages." (George A. Miller.)

Orders should be sent to the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

GLEANINGS FROM THE FIELD.

BY WILLIE HUNTER.

This booklet is a biographical sketch of the life and times of Brother Marion Harris. It covers fifty-nine pages and relates many interesting events connected with Brother Harris' labors in the Master's vineyard in the "Upper Cumberland" counties. Get a copy.

Price, 50 cents. Send orders to Willie Hunter, Livingston, Tenn.

Home Reading

The Squeaky Chair.

A queer old rocking-chair there stands
Right by my little bed;
It has a cover on the back,
With yellow flowers and red,
And when I have been very good
And said my prayers all right,
I go to Katie, and I say:
"Rock me to sleep to-night?"

(I'm awfully big to rock to sleep,
I'm nearly half-past five.)

Then Katie says: "Why, baby's back,
As sure as I'm alive."

But then she takes me on her lap,
Although my legs hang down,
And laughs and says: "Now, baby dear,
We're off to Sleepy Town."

"Eenk—awnk, eenk—awnk," the old chair goes,
It has an awful squeak.

"Eenk—awnk, eenk—awnk," I try to talk,
But I—forget—to—speak.

"Eenk—awnk, eenk—awnk," the old chair says,
From some place far and deep

I hear it call: "Eenk—awnk—eenk—awnk"—
And then I go to sleep.

—Mary Fannie Youngs, in Exchange.

Jesus, the Friend of Children.

Once there was carried into a great hospital a poor, little, ragged, miserable boy, who had been run over in the streets and dreadfully hurt. And all night he kept crying and groaning in his great pain, and at last a good youth, who lay in the bed next to him, said: "My poor little fellow, won't you pray to Jesus to ease your pain?"

But the wretched little sufferer had never heard anything at all about Jesus, and asked who Jesus was. And the youth gently told him that Jesus was Lord of all, and that he had come down to die for us. And the boy answered: "O, I can't pray to him, he's so great and grand, and he would never hear a poor street boy like me; and I don't know how to speak to him."

"Then," said the youth, "won't you just lift your hand to him out of bed, so that when he passes by he will see it and will know that you want him to be kind to you and to ease your pain?"

And the poor, crushed, suffering boy lifted out of the bed his little brown hand, and soon afterwards he ceased to groan.

And when they came to him in the morning the hand and the poor thin arm were still uplifted, but they were stiff and cold; for Jesus had indeed seen it, and heard that mute prayer of the agony of that strayed lamb of his fold, and he had grasped the little, soiled, trembling hand of the sufferer, and had taken him away to that better, happier home, where he will love also to make room for you and me, if we seek him with all our hearts, and try to do his will.—F. W. Farrar.

What Was It?

Effie seemed disappointed as she came out of the circus tent. "I didn't see the 'also,'" she said, "and I never saw a picture of one, and I wanted so much to know what he looks like."

"There's no animal called the 'also,'" said her father. "Where did you hear about it?"

"It's on the billboard on Main Street," said Effie.

Sure enough, when they reached the billboard, her father found that the poster read: "Magnificent collection of wild animals. A black bear and a white also."—Exchange.

The Wrong Button.

"Dear me," said little Janet, "I buttoned just one button wrong, and now that makes all the rest go wrong;" and she tugged and fretted as if the button were at fault for her trouble.

"Patience, patience, my dear," said mamma, coming to the rescue. "The next time look out for the first wrong button, then you will keep all of the rest right." "And," added mamma, "look out for the first wrong deed of any kind; another and another is sure to follow."

Janet thought for a moment; then she remembered how one day, not long ago, she struck Baby Alice. That was the first wrong deed. Then she denied having done it. That was another. Then she was unhappy and cross all day because she had told a lie. What a long list of buttons fastened wrong just because one was wrong!—Exchange.

Presence of Mind.

A gentleman, while passing through a street inhabited by poor people, in New York, heard an infant voice from a basement, crying: "Help! help!" He rushed in and found a little five-year-old boy, holding a bed blanket around his little sister two years younger, who had caught her clothes on fire; and the little hero had succeeded in extinguishing the flames. The boy, in answer to questions why he wrapped the bed blanket around his sister's burning clothes, said his ma had told him that was the best way to put out fire; and as to why he halloed, "Help! help!" that he was afraid he could not succeed, and wanted some one to help him. He was then asked why he did not leave his sister and run into the street and cry for help. He answered, with tears in his eyes, and a fixed determination of countenance: "No; I never would have left her. She was my sister. Had she burned up, I would have burned, too."—Exchange.

Why Johnny Stuck to Dad.

With dad and me it's half and half—
The cow I own was once his calf;
No town for mine, I will not bolt,
Because my horse was once his colt;
I'm going to stick right where I am
Because my sheep was once his lamb;
I'll stay with dad—he gets my vote,
Because my hog was once his shote;
It's "fifty-fifty" with dad and me—
A profit-sharing company.

—The Missionary Voice.

I will place no value on anything I have or may possess, except in relation to the kingdom of Christ. If anything will advance the interests of that kingdom, it shall be given away or kept, only as by giving or keeping of it I shall most promote the glory of Him to whom I owe all my hopes in time and eternity. May grace and strength sufficient to enable me to adhere faithfully to this resolution be imparted to me, so that in truth, not in name only, all my interests and those of my children may be identified with his cause.—David Livingstone.

Taking Care of Baby.

In Africa, when a mother gets tired of carrying her baby in the leather bag slung on her back, she digs a hole in the sand, under some shady bush, and leaves the baby in it till she is ready to take him again.

An Eskimo baby has a nice, warm place, tucked up in his mother's hood. Sometimes he is stuffed into a fawn-skin bag, with a string that draws it up.

Armenian babies are tied in their cribs, and the little feet are left bare, even in very cold weather.

An Indian baby goes about on his mother's back, or else he is strapped to a birch-bark board and hung up in a tree. —The Mayflower.

Query Department

BY J. C. McQUIDDY

S. P. Hochstettler, Coal City, Ind., sends the following queries for an early answer: "(1) We have used from two to four cups in serving the communion at the Lord's Supper at this place. A majority of the congregation want the individual cups. Would it be wrong to use them over the protests of part of the congregation? What scripture would be violated, if any, in doing so? (2) Would it be sin to refuse to partake of the fruit of the vine at the Lord's Supper because of being afraid of contracting a contagious disease by reason of the use of one or two cups only?"

1. There is no scripture that fixes the number of cups to be used in partaking of the Lord's Supper. The cup that is spoken of in the Bible refers to the contents of the cup. There is as much authority for using a dozen cups as there is for two. The number of cups to be used should be determined by the number of communicants to be served. In matters of expediency a spirit of forbearance should be exercised. It is not right to run roughshod over the conviction of a brother when there is no law of God requiring you so to do. "The faith which thou hast, have thou to thyself before God." (Rom. 14: 22.) "Wherefore, if meat causeth my brother to stumble, I will eat no flesh for evermore, that I cause not my brother to stumble." (1 Cor. 8: 13.) A Christian should think more of a brother than of a cup. Christians are admonished: "In love of the brethren be tenderly affectioned one to another; in honor preferring one another." (Rom. 12: 10.) It is also the duty of Christians "to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace." (Eph. 4: 3.) In such matters the majority should not offend the minority. The minority should also be amenable to reason and should not act as though it is not possible for it to be mistaken. Before restraining the majority from the practice of its preferences it should be sure it is right and cannot be mistaken.

2. I have never known any one to contract disease by the use of the cup in the Supper. The individual cup is more a "fad" than a necessity. I do not think very much of its cleanliness. Those who clamor for them want to be like the people around them. Any one who is frightened away from the observance of the Lord's Supper for fear of contracting disease is more afraid of physical infirmity than he is of sin.

✱ ✱ ✱

A subscriber to this paper says: "I want all the light you can give me on Acts 9: 7; also Acts 22: 9. Is the voice the same in both chapters? Make it as plain as you can for the truth's sake."

The respective passages read as follows: "And the men that journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing the voice, but beholding no man." (Acts 9: 7.) "And they that were with me beheld indeed the light, but they heard not the voice of him that spoke to me." (Acts 22: 9.) The voice is the same. They heard the sound of the voice is the meaning of Acts 9: 7; the meaning of Acts 22: 9 is, while they heard the sound of the voice, they did not hear it in the sense of understanding it. "Hearing" is sometimes used in the New Testament in the sense of not understanding. Christ said to his disciples: "Unto you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God: but to the rest in parables; that seeing they may not see, and hearing they may not understand." (Luke 8: 10.) They heard the parables, but did not understand them. In Matt. 7: 24 we have "hear" used in the sense of to understand: "Every one therefore that heareth these words of mine, and doeth them, shall be likened unto a wise man, who built his house upon the rock." Those who were with Saul saw the light, but no man, and heard the voice, but did not understand it. Paul was a scholar and spoke in the Hebrew language. (Acts 22: 2.) There is no real discrepancy in the two passages.

✱ ✱ ✱

Tullie M. Dunn, Parrish, Ala., asks about a Ladies' Aid Society: "We have some digressive brethren in our town. I desire an answer to the following questions through the Gospel Advocate: (1) Is the Ladies' Aid Society in harmony with the word of God? If no, why? Is it wrong because of the work it does, or is it wrong because of the name through which it does its work? (2) An institution that has an unscriptural name (a name not mentioned in the Bible), unscriptural officers (president, vice president, board of directors, secretary, and treasurer), that is caring for the poor in the name of religion—is it a scriptural institution?"

1. There is no authority in the Bible for a Ladies' Aid Society. It is wrong because God has not ordained it and it usurps the work and functions of the blood-bought and blood-washed church of Christ. God has appointed that Christian women shall do good works in the church and in the name of Christ. "And whatsoever ye do, in word or in deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him." (Col. 3: 17.) We should give glory to God in the church and not through a society. "Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, unto him be the glory in the church and in Christ Jesus unto all generations forever and ever. Amen." (Eph. 3: 20, 21.) By reference to the Scriptures we find women working in the church and not in a Ladies' Aid Society. "I commend unto you Phoebe our sister, who is a servant of the church that is at Cenchrea." (Rom. 16: 1.) "Salute Prisca and Aquila my fellow workers in Christ Jesus. (Verse 3.) "Help these women, for they labored with me in the gospel." (Phil. 4: 3.) At Cesarea, Philip, the evangelist, had four virgin daughters who were inspired and prophesied. (Acts 21: 8, 9.) All was done in private and in a quiet, modest manner. At Philippi the women worshiped together and in the name of Christ. (Acts 16: 13.)

2. Such an institution as you describe is not the church and should not be so regarded. Christians have individual duties. If it is right for one Christian to care for the poor, why is it wrong for two, three, or more to do the same work? The State law requires those who are benevolently disposed and desire to care for the poor in an institution to take out a charter. The State law requires that there must be at least five incorporators, but there may be as many more as desired. Such a charitable institution is not organized for worship, and in no way is it intended to evangelize the world. A number of men are simply supplementing the work of the home in feeding and training the fatherless. It is right and scriptural for Christians to help feed the poor and clothe the fatherless. "But whoso hath the world's goods, and beholdeth his brother in need, and shutteth up his compassion from him, how doth the love of God abide in him?" (1 John 3: 17.) Christians should rejoice that philanthropic men will give their time and means to help charitable institutions, and should cheerfully give to advance the good work. State asylums are doing a good work; orphan homes and charitable institutions are doing a good work; but they are not the church of Christ and do not propose to fulfill the mission of the church.

The soul must be filled before it can overflow to others. It must seek God and receive from him if it is not to remain empty or shallow.—Selected.

Don't Wear a Truss

MR. C. E. BROOKS
appears on every appliance. None other genuine. Full information and booklet sent free in plain, sealed envelope.
Brooks Appliance Co., 443H State St., Marshall, Mich.

BE COMFORTABLE
—wear the Brooks Appliance, the modern scientific invention which gives rupture sufferers immediate relief. It has no obnoxious springs or pads. Automatic Air Cushions bind and draw together the broken parts. No salves or plasters. Durable. Cheap. Sent on trial to prove its worth. Never on sale in stores as every appliance is made to order, the proper size and shape of Air Cushion depending on the nature of each case. Beware of imitations. Look for trademark bearing portrait and signature of C. E. Brooks which appears on every appliance. None other genuine. Full information and booklet sent free in plain, sealed envelope.

TETTERINE for the COMPLEXION

60c at your druggist's or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

PIANOS

AND

VICTROLAS

Sold for Cash or on Easy Payments

M. F. SHEA

305 Fifth Avenue, North
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Buy Your

Bibles, Testaments, Song Books, Bible Lesson Helps, and Other Books

From
Gospel Advocate Company

Let's make it mutual; we will help you, you help us

Address all orders to
GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tennessee

Reply to an Inquiry.

BY R. N. MOODY.

The following letter was written in answer to an inquiry asking me if we have a Christian Endeavor Society in our congregation, and suggesting that we should furnish our young people amusements, lest they seek them elsewhere in something not good for them:

Albertville, Ala., October 30, 1922.—Miss Norah L. Walker, Gadsden, Ala.—Dear Madam: In reply to your recent inquiry, I beg to say that we are dealing with the same God that Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob dealt with; and he is without variation or shadow of turning. (James 1: 17.) One of his strongest attributes is jealousy. (Deut. 5: 9.) He is jealous of his authority, forbidding that there shall be any gods before him. (Deut. 5: 8.) He is jealous of his name, forbidding that it shall be taken in vain. (Ex. 20: 7.)

We have been taught to regard profanity as taking the name of God in vain, which it is, and it is degrading to the one who practices it and disgusting to all right-thinking people; but there is a higher sense in which we may take God's name in vain, as shown by the following: "But the prophet, that shall speak a word presumptuously in my name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or that shall speak in the name of other gods, that prophet shall die." (Deut. 18: 20.) Here we see that to speak a word in the name of God which he has not commanded is classed with speaking in the name of other gods, or idols; yet almost all the religious institutions and services of to-day have been invented by man.

In the Old Testament we have many examples of God's severity upon those who disrespected his authority. Nadab and Abihu suffered death because they "offered strange fire before Jehovah, which he had not commanded them." (Lev. 10: 1.) With the best of intentions, Uzzah touched the ark of the covenant, it being unlawful for any but a Levite to touch it, and was smitten with death. (2 Sam. 6: 6-8.) Many other instances could be cited to show how fearful it is to disrespect God's laws. And Paul says: "Now these things happened unto them by way of example; and they were written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the ages have come." (1 Cor. 10: 11.) Shall we not heed the admonition?

When Jesus Christ came to earth, he found the leading religious people among the Jews holding the traditions of the elders; such as washing their hands before they ate, bathing themselves when they came from the market place, and washing pots, cups, and brazen vessels as a part of their religious service, for which Jesus rebuked them, saying: "Well did Isaiah prophesy of you hypocrites, as it is written, This people honoreth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me. But in vain do they worship me, teaching as their doctrines the precepts of men." (Mark 7: 6, 7.) If it was vain then to worship God according to the traditions of men, most assuredly it is vain now.

Centuries before any denomination or denominational auxiliary was born, Jesus purchased the church with his own blood (Acts 20: 28), ascended on

Bad Breath

Is Usually Due to Constipation

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

high, and was made "head over all things to the church, which is his body, the fullness of him that filleth all in all." (Eph. 1: 22, 23.) On the day of Pentecost he sent the Holy Spirit to lead the apostles, the charter members of the church, into all the truth, and the church of Christ on that day began its career on the earth. This blood-bought institution is the only one God has on earth. By the guidance of the Holy Spirit the New Testament was written and is the creed of the one church mentioned therein. In the New Testament we learn what one must believe and do to become a member of the church of Christ, and how, as Christians, we must live to obtain the eternal reward in heaven. We also have a brief account of the early history of the church, showing us what officials the congregations had, what kind of service they had, how missionary work was done, and how money was raised for the poor.

Of the Scriptures, Paul says they will make the man of God complete, furnishing him completely unto every good work. (2 Tim. 3: 17.) John warns us thus: "Whosoever goeth onward and abideth not in the teaching of Christ, hath not God: he that abideth in the teaching, the same hath both the Father and the Son. If any one cometh unto you, and bringeth not this teaching, receive him not into your house, and give him no greeting: for he that giveth him greeting partaketh in his evil works." (2 John 9-11.) So it is clear what our duty is should one seek to introduce something not authorized by Christ.

For forty-seven years I have been preaching that the Scriptures furnish an all-sufficient guide and that every good can be done through the church that can be done through any man-made institution, and that in so doing we give God the honor, and not man. The only way to honor God is to honor his word and blood-bought church. If I should give any kind of aid to any human society with a view of advancing the cause of Christ, I would know that I was taking God's name in vain by using it where he had not authorized it, dishonoring the church of Christ, and discounting the wisdom of God.

SWORD OF THE SPIRIT
Which is the Word of God
Complete Help to Personal Work. Convincing Scripture Answers to Excuses. Quick Reference Index. Aid in leading others to Salvation and Guide for the Christian Life. Most recent book on these subjects. Practical, Scriptural, vest pkt. size, 128 pgs., Cloth 25c, Morocco 35c, postpaid; stamps taken. Agents wanted. GEO. W. NOBLE, Menon Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

My forty-seven years' experience as a preacher has afforded me ample opportunity to learn the evils of denominations and their auxiliaries. I know that in all my preaching I have never asked any one to believe, do, or be anything but what the Scripture says for them to believe, do, or be; yet I have always met with stubborn opposition, not from the wicked, but from the leading religious people who are under denominational influences. Even those who insist that every one has a right to his opinion oppose me, as though I did not have the same right.

This will, I trust, make clear to you our attitude toward all human organizations in religious work.

I have only briefly touched on what could be said along this line, lest I trespass on your time and patience too far; and hoping that you will read all the scriptures I have referred to, I am,

Yours truly,
R. N. MOODY.

The Pacific Christian Academy.

BY O. W. GARDNER.

The Lord is bountifully blessing our efforts, if a substantial growth, beautiful harmony, and increasing zeal indicate anything. Our school has grown in the last three years from thirty or forty primary and elementary pupils to one hundred and eleven, ranging from primary to the fourth-year high school; from a two-room and two-teacher affair to five rooms and five teachers. A wonderful school spirit pervades the whole community of brethren, and I think we have a vision of greater things for the future.

As to the student body, they can scarcely be surpassed either as students or in deportment and team work in general. They are so nearly automatic in government that discipline has almost lost its meaning as a punitive measure with us. One pupil who recently came into our midst remarked that it is a great deal harder to do wrong than otherwise, for such characters are so extremely unpopular with the other students that a life of that kind is very miserable.

Our Thanksgiving programs were rendered as follows: At 9:30 A.M. the stockholders met and elected directors for the ensuing year. At 10:30 A.M. a large audience assembled in our chapel and listened to an address on "Christian Education," by Brother W. H. Trice, of Fresno. This was followed by a round-table discussion, in which a number of enthusiastic speeches were made on the same subject. Then a bounteous basket dinner was spread in the school yard. After dinner we repaired to the chapel, where a large audience had gathered to discuss and hear discussed this subject: "May Christians Be Indifferent to Christian Education and Be Pleasing to God?" This meeting grew in interest and enthusiasm from first to last; but, unfortunately, the afternoon was far too short to hear all who would like to have spoken. The day was wound up by a most excellent entertainment at night. Thus we spent a happy day together, and I am sure it was very profitable to the cause of the Lord.

Brethren, if you are looking for a change, for a climate almost ideal, for a congregation of brethren who have a mind to do things and are in perfect harmony, where your children may have the privilege of getting their education under favorable conditions, I am sure you would make no mistake in making inquiry about this place. Address O. W. Gardner, Principal, Graton, Cal.

Great $2.00 Mystery Novel for 15c.

You Must Not Miss Reading "Suspense"—
The Most Exciting and Absorbing Story
Published in Years.

Washington, D. C.—(Special.)—You can see right through the plot of most stories, but "Suspense" will baffle you; it will hold you spellbound from start to finish and keep you guessing. This unusual story is by one of the most popular authors—Isabel Ostrander. It is original, thrilling, satisfying. The Pathfinder, in accord with its policy of giving the best in everything, will publish this great story as a serial complete in fifteen issues, starting December 16. This paper is chuck-full of just the kind of reading you want—unequaled digest of the world's news, including affairs at Washington; best stories you can find anywhere; stunts, tricks, and amusements for the children. You can get this splendid illustrated national home weekly on trial thirteen weeks for only fifteen cents, coin or stamps, including "Suspense." You can also order for your friends at 15 cents each; but send at once, so as not to miss start of new story. This offer costs the editor a lot of money, but he says it pays to invest in new friends. Address Pathfinder, 276 Langdon Station, Washington, D. C.

Say it with

FLOWERS

From

GENY BROS.

212 Fifth Avenue, N.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

TETTERINE

Makes low necks and short sleeves possible. It clears the skin

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-
TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

The Empty Nest.

No bird at home in nest to-day,
No one to sing the lovely lay,
No one to bring the bit of food,
No one to watch above the brood!

All empty is that nest to-day,
December's come and past is May,
With flow'r and bloom and leafy bower
And springtime sun and gentle shower.

Poor empty nest, your barren walls,
Must wait in vain, for no one calls
To bring the life of other days
And sing again the lovely lays.

O, empty nest, you grip my heart;
You stir my soul, the teardrops start.
I see a home, once filled with joy,
The joy of youth without alloy.

But empty is that home to-day;
The children all are far away,
And parents watch by empty hearth;
No shout of joy, no childish mirth!

But Hope can see a brighter day,
The children all return to stay;
'Tis heaven now—no parting there—
And life is freed from every care.

—J. T. Ogle, in Exchange.

RENWAR VS. RHEUMATISM.

It is certainly a pity that so many people suffer year after year the intense pains of rheumatism when it can be so easily expelled from the system by the simple treatment of taking Renwar Rheumatic Salts. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood; and in order to effect a complete cure, it is necessary to entirely eliminate this acid from the blood. Renwar is guaranteed to relieve, or your money refunded. It contains no injurious drugs. It is the one sure remedy, and it does not in the slightest degree injure the stomach or affect the heart. Mr. Joseph L. Boehmer says: "One 50c bottle has done me more good than all sanatorium treatments; and what it did for me, why should it not do the same for others? Should any one doubt the virtue of Renwar and the certainty of curing this malady, refer them to me." For sale by druggists; price, 50c; or by mail on receipt of price from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

PILES CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or call without delay. Private reception rooms for ladies. Established since 1912. Free X-Ray examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

PYORRHEA CURED

Or No Pay—Free Trial Treatment

Write to-day for Sample Bottle, sent free with booklet fully describing this guaranteed wonder cure for Pyorrhea, Loose Teeth, Bleeding and Ulcerated Gums, Abscesses, Gum Boils, etc. Send name and address to-day. MOORE'S LABORATORIES,
Dept. 1093, 1422 Lydia, Kansas City, Mo.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling—
Restores Color and
Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair.
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDER CORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

NELSON COMPLETE CONCORDANCE

TO THE

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE

By M. C. HAZARD, Ph.D.

Editor Emeritus, Department of Educational Publications, Congregational Publishing Society

A concordance is an index to the words in the Bible designed to increase your knowledge of what the Bible contains by enabling you to find easily any word, verse, or subject in the Bible.

Price, - $5.00

the other. Take, for example, Abijah; there are ten of this name in the Bible. In your study it is necessary that you should find readily all the references to the particular person you are studying.

This new Concordance is also

A DICTIONARY OF PLACES

giving the meaning of the name of the place as well as a description, so that where there are two or more places of the same name you can easily distinguish one from the other.

The First Complete Concordance to the

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE

Contains about 300,000 references, arranged under 16,000 headings and subheadings; includes the Alternative Marginal Readings; gives the pronunciation and meaning of all proper names and places, with biographical and geographical information which make it serve as a Bible Dictionary as well as a Concordance.

While the American Standard Version of the Bible has been in use for many years and brief concordances for this version have been prepared from time to time, this new Concordance by Dr. M. C. Hazard is the first COMPLETE CONCORDANCE ever issued to this, the most accurate version of the Holy Scriptures in the English language.

Five years have been occupied in its completion, during which time the editor and publishers have had constantly in mind the problems of the Bible Student. Comparisons have been made with other concordances and numerous improvements have been introduced to make a work so accurate, so full, and so convenient that it will be an indispensable working tool in handling aright the word of truth.

Complete Concordance to the American Standard Bible

A GUIDEBOOK TO BIBLE STUDY

A very special and useful feature is the use of subdivisions. Where a word appears a number of times in different connections, subheadings are introduced under the main heading or key word. For example, the word Aaron occurs many times; with Moses, Children of Aaron, Aaron with sons; so that if the reader knows the connection he can find his subject without wading through columns of references.

This use of subdivisions, aside from its general convenience, furnishes a complete series of "Bible Readings" on the various subtopics. How valuable this may be is suggested by some of the subcaptions under God, as

Almighty God, Angel of God, Ark of God, Children of God, Church of God, Servant of God, etc.

Another feature of this Concordance, which will commend itself to every Bible student, is the incorporation of the alternative Marginal Readings, which are frequently of great value in interpreting the text. These readings, as in the margin, are given in italics, and are designated by (m) placed immediately after the chapter and verse.

A BIBLE DICTIONARY

This new Concordance is not only a word-finder and index to the words in the Bible, but it is also

A DICTIONARY OF SCRIPTURE PROPER NAMES

giving the meaning of each name as well as a description of each person, so that where there are a number of the same name the reader can distinguish one from

ORDER BLANK

Date.....

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Please send me NELSON CONCORDANCE TO THE AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE, for which I inclose ($5) five dollars.

NAME.....

ADDRESS.....

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY
317-319 FIFTH AVENUE, NORTH, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS
 -SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

Stop Itching

Skins with Tetterine

60c. at your druggist's or from
SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

PELOUBET'S
Select Notes
The World's Greatest Commentary on
the International Sunday-School Lessons
 By: AMOS R. WELLS, Litt.D., LL.D.
Let us send you a pamphlet containing the first lesson taken from the volume of 1923
 Price: $1.90 Net, $2.00 Delivered
W. A. WILDE COMPANY
 120 BOYLSTON STREET, BOSTON, MASS.
 Madison Terminal Building, Chicago
 FOR SALE AT ALL BOOKSTORES

Church Furniture
 WORK OF THE HIGHEST QUALITY
 AT REASONABLE PRICES
 Write for Catalogue
BUDDE & WEIS MFG. CO.
 JACKSON, TENNESSEE

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

BELL-ANS
 25c AND 75c PACKAGES EVERYWHERE

BELL-ANS
 FOR INDIGESTION
 25 CENTS
 6 BELL-ANS
 Hot water
 Sure Relief

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, back-aches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Instant upon getting CAPUDINE

McShane Bell Foundry Co.
BALTIMORE, MD.
CHURCH, CHIME and PEAL
BELLS
 Memorials
 a Specialty

Call of the Church at Hustburg, Tennessee.

To Christian readers of the Gospel Advocate who delight in helping forward the Master's cause—to the churches of Christ at various places that worship God in their own house and out of gratitude for their blessings are willing to help a small but dauntless congregation of disciples pay the indebtedness on the house they have built under difficulties that would have discouraged a less zealous little band—I am writing this letter, feeling sure that this, the first call for aid from the church at Hustburg, will be promptly and heartily responded to.

I wish I could show you how, seven years ago, Brother T. B. Thompson rallied the handful of members of the one body scattered about in middle and lower Big Bottom, in Humphreys County, to a brush arbor on the outskirts of Hustburg, and there, with the earnestness and zeal for which he is so justly renowned, awakened them by his masterly preaching and answering zeal in their own hearts and fired them with the determination to win recognition for the church of Christ in a locality where the name was little more than a hiss and a byword, and eventually to build for themselves a house of worship where nothing less nor more than the simple gospel might be preached to perishing souls, with none to curb or hinder.

Brother Thompson's efforts at that time resulted in the addition of several members to the church—a few by primary obedience, a few reclaimed from the world to which they had returned in their spiritually un nourished condition; for, you see, they had had no one to preach for them, no house to worship in, the fires of religious enthusiasm had burned out, and they had finally deserted the standard there seemed no man to hold up.

Brother Thompson established a congregation of about fifteen souls and put it in working order, and the following summer went again to preach for them. He found them still at the brush arbor, but still faithful, and still planning for a house.

But there were so pitifully few of them, and times were so hard, and a suitable lot could not be procured, and it just seemed as if the task could never be accomplished, and many times they almost believed their cherished dream would never come true.

Years of struggle and hope deferred went by, and the church still lived. And it grew, slowly. It rented a house of the Adventists to worship in; and the dream lived, too, and became so beautiful and so dear that no sacrifice seemed too great to be made in order to its realization. Men and women carried it in their hearts and

WOMAN TOO WEAK TO WALK

Now Works Nine Hours a Day.—

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Strength

Union Village, Vt. — "I was weak and nervous and all run-down. I could not walk across the floor without resting and I had been that way for weeks. I saw your advertisement in the paper and after taking one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt the good it was doing me and I took seven more in all. Before I finished I was able to work nine hours a day in a steam laundry. I cannot say too much in favor of your medicine. I trust all sick and suffering women will take it. It has been two years since I took it and I am strong and well."
 —Mrs. L. A. GUIMANN, Union Village, Vermont.

This is only one of such letters we are continually publishing showing what Lydia E. Pinkham has done for women, and whether you work or not Mrs. Guimann's letter should interest you.

Many women get into a weak, nervous run down condition because of ailments they often have. Such women should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the first sign of trouble. Good health is necessary and this splendid medicine will help you to keep it.

CANCERS CURED AT THE KELLAM HOSPITAL

The Kellam Hospital cures Cancers, Tumors, Ulcers, X-Ray Burns, and Chronic Sores without the use of the knife, X-Ray, Radium, Acids, or Serum, and we have cured over 90 per cent of the many hundreds of sufferers treated during the past twenty-three years. Ministers treated free.

KELLAM HOSPITAL, Inc.
 1617 West Main St. Richmond Va.

Homes Furnished Complete

Terms to Suit Everybody

TELEPHONE, MAIN 1096

HILARY E. HOWSE

FURNITURE, CARPETS
STOVES AND RANGES

We Exchange Furniture as Part
Payment

304-306-308 BROADWAY

105-107-109 THIRD AVE., N.

Cuticura Soap
Will Help You
Clear Your Skin

Soap, Ointment, Talcum, 25c. everywhere. Sample free of Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

kept it warm, and prayed God if they might see it materialize.

In August of last year Brother I. C. Copeland held a series of meetings in the moving-picture theater at Hustburg, it being larger and more convenient than the Advent Chapel where the church had been meeting for two years. Brother Copeland did some wonderful preaching, and, as a result, about sixteen souls were added to the saved. The church was organized, deacons and elders appointed, and the playhouse was given by its owner, C. C. Patterson (who had obeyed the gospel during the meeting), as a temporary meeting place until the long-planned-for house should be built. The church, strengthened and encouraged, now pushed forward with renewed confidence toward the goal it had been struggling for so long, and I know just how you are going to rejoice with that happy little flock when I tell you that at last the wonderful dream has come true.

An attractive lot was secured, and slowly, but steadily and surely, the building went up. A spacious frame structure was built. With no attempt at superfluous ornament, it stands wide and inviting, a graceful and beautiful memorial to the loving hearts and loyal hands that piece by piece lifted it into place.

It was my privilege two weeks ago to meet with the church at Hustburg, the first time for more than a year; and to see the little home flock housed at last, and full of confidence and hope for their future work, was unqualified happiness to me.

Only one thing mars their joy—the debt of four hundred dollars which attaches to their beloved house. They have gone their limit, and now are asking that others among the more prosperous of God's people come to their aid.

As many as will help to lift this debt will please to send their contributions to Brother J. C. Wilkinson, Denver, Tenn. Any contribution, however small, will be gratefully accepted and acknowledged. May the blessing of the Father abide richly with each one who responds to this call.

Written with the sanction of the church at Hustburg, and by direct request of some of the members.

HELEN F. HULL,
Goodlettsville, Tenn.

Use MURINE FOR EYES
Irritated by Sun Wind Dust and Cinders
RECOMMENDED AND SOLD BY DRUGGISTS AND OPTICIANS
WRITE FOR FREE EYE BOOK. MURINE CO. CHICAGO

FARMERS AND MERCHANTS BANK

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

OFFICERS

A. E. POTTER, President
JOE S. BOYD, Vice President
FRANK M. THONI, Assistant Cashier
EDWARD POTTER, JR., Cashier
GEORGE W. BATES, Assistant Cashier

DIRECTORS

O. W. Staley	Harris Solinsky	Leon B. McQuiddy
Jos. C. Scheffer	G. A. Harrington	W. J. Wallace
John P. Stumb	L. Kornman	Justin Potter
A. E. Potter	Chris. J. Power	Louis Huggins
H. Z. Lipscomb	Joe S. Boyd	Edward Potter, Jr.

FOUR PER CENT PAID ON SAVINGS ACCOUNTS
We Invite Your Banking Business

WINTERSMITH'S SOLD
CHILL TONIC 50 YEARS

If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE AS A CHRISTMAS GIFT

Many good, liberal-hearted people, both men and women, give the Gospel Advocate to friends and relatives every year.

Why not give a year's subscription to the Gospel Advocate as a Christmas Gift? Your friends will appreciate it, and you will be doing them and their families a real favor. The Gospel Advocate will go into their homes with a message of God's truth fifty-two times during the year. No other gift may prove such a blessing to them in time or in eternity. Send their names and addresses with your check, and the Gospel Advocate will be mailed to them. The subscription price is $2.00 per year. Send to

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY

317-319 Fifth Avenue, North

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Reminder—Only a few more days till Christmas. Mail your subscription NOW.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE,

Nashville, Tenn.

Inclosed find $2.00, for which please send the Gospel Advocate for one year to

Name _____

Street or Rural Route _____

Post Office _____ State _____

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPIING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

Appeal from Alabama.

BY H. L. KIRBY.

I planted a church at Tanner, Ala., two years ago, last August. We began with five members meeting in an old storehouse; we then moved to a school building, at which place we now meet, with a membership of sixty-five. A few days ago the school building was sold at public auction, and the church bid it in at five hundred dollars. About two hundred and eighty dollars of this has been paid. We must raise the balance as quickly as possible. The congregation is made up of poor farmers who have done all they can at present. For this reason we are calling upon any individual or congregation to have fellowship with us in paying off this balance of a little more than two hundred dollars. Will you not assist us in this? It is a cause worthy of your serious consideration. Please do not pass over this too quickly, saying, "O, there are too many calls in the papers now," because this will not help us pay it, nor keep us from losing the house and the money already paid on it.

Send all donations to A. H. McMeans, Tanner, Ala.

I am well acquainted with this congregation and its struggles and work, having visited them many times this year. Help them by your contribution at once to get this work on a firm basis.

C. H. WOODROOF.

A Christmas Gift.

BY JAMES E. LAIRD.

I do not wish to leave the impression that "Christmas" is any more than any other day, or that we should set apart that time to give gifts more than any other time; but as many set Christmas as a time to give gifts, I want to suggest that we set apart that time to remember Poplar Bluff, Mo., with a donation. I know these brethren, and so do many of our able preachers, among whom are John T. Hinds, T. B. Thompson, M. S. Mason, and C. B. Colvin. The brethren at Poplar Bluff are few in number and all poor people. They owe some thirteen or fourteen hundred dollars on their house, and the house needs repairing badly.

I want to suggest that each individual, if he cannot give more, give these brethren one dollar as a Christmas gift. If five hundred members would respond to this call with a dollar each, it would likely place the matter so the brethren there could handle the matter themselves. Many of us will spend foolishly this amount and more. Then why not give it to a good cause and thus lay up treasures in heaven?

Send all contributions to L. M. Ward, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

OTHINE For the treatment of FRECKLES

In Use for Over 14 Years

Your freckles need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use Othine—double strength—the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women, and rid yourself of these homely spots.

At all Druggists and Department Stores.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

In answering advertisements, please mention this paper

PRICES OF OUR HYMN BOOKS.

PRAISE HIM.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Music Edition—Boards.		Single copy.....
Single copy.....	$ 50	Single copy.....	$ 60
Per dozen.....	4 80	Per dozen.....	6 00
Per fifty.....	17 00	Per fifty.....	22 50
Per hundred.....	32 50	Per hundred.....	43 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

CHRISTIAN HYMNS.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Music Edition—Boards.		Single copy.....
Single copy.....	$ 55	Single copy.....	$ 65
Per dozen.....	6 00	Per dozen.....	7 20
Per fifty.....	23 00	Per fifty.....	28 00
Per hundred.....	45 00	Per hundred.....	55 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

WORDS OF TRUTH.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Music Edition—Boards.		Single copy.....
Single copy.....	$ 45	Single copy.....	$ 50
Per dozen.....	4 80	Per dozen.....	6 00
Per fifty.....	18 00	Per fifty.....	23 00
Per hundred.....	35 00	Per hundred.....	45 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

VOICE OF PRAISE.		Music Edition—Boards.
Music Edition—Boards.		Single copy.....
Single copy.....	$ 35	Single copy.....	$ 16 00
Per dozen.....	4 00	Per dozen.....	30 00
Per fifty.....	16 00	Per fifty.....	30 00
Per hundred.....	30 00	Per hundred.....	30 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

CHRISTIAN HYMNS AND WORDS OF TRUTH, COMBINED— CHRISTIAN HYMNS AND VOICE OF PRAISE, COMBINED.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Music Edition—Boards.		Single copy.....
Single copy.....	$ 70	Single copy.....	$ 75
Per dozen.....	7 20	Per dozen.....	8 75
Per fifty.....	28 00	Per fifty.....	36 00
Per hundred.....	55 00	Per hundred.....	70 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

GOSPEL PRAISE.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Music Edition—Boards.		Single copy.....
Single copy.....	$ 50	Single copy.....	$ 60
Per dozen.....	6 00	Per dozen.....	7 20
Per fifty.....	23 00	Per fifty.....	28 00
Per hundred.....	45 00	Per hundred.....	55 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

SEVENTY-SEVEN SWEET SONGS.		Flexible Cloth.
Flexible Cloth.		Single copy.....
Single copy.....	$ 25	Single copy.....	$ 7 50
Per dozen.....	2 50	Per dozen.....	14 00
Per fifty.....	10 00	Per fifty.....	14 00
Per hundred.....	20 00	Per hundred.....	14 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

NEW CHRISTIAN HYMN BOOK.		Music Edition—Cloth.
Music Edition—Boards.		Single copy.....
Single copy.....	$ 40	Single copy.....	$ 50
Per dozen.....	4 80	Per dozen.....	6 00
Per fifty.....	16 50	Per fifty.....	22 00
Per hundred.....	32 00	Per hundred.....	40 00

All prices are f. o. b. Nashville. If shipped by Parcel Post, Parcel Post to be added.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

BIBLE LESSON HELPS

PRICE REDUCTION

Effective January 1, 1923, we are reducing the Advanced Quarterly (64 pages) from 12 cents to 11 cents per quarter; the Intermediate Quarterly, from 6 cents to 5 cents per quarter; the Primary Quarterly, from 6 cents to 5 cents per quarter; little Bible Lesson Picture Cards, from 5 cents to 4 cents per quarter; Lesson Picture Charts, from $1.25 to $1.00 each.

Our subscribers will encourage us in our efforts to give them the lowest possible rates and help us to stand the reduction by increasing their orders for Bible Lesson Helps. We are appreciative of the patronage of all, and take this means of expressing our appreciation to all.

Date..... 192.....

Please enter the following order to be sent to the address below:

Name

P. O.

County..... State.....

Remittance inclosed in payment of this order, $.....

-----ADVANCED QUARTERLY, 64 pages, @ 11 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter)

-----INTERMEDIATE QUARTERLY, 32 pages @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----PRIMARY QUARTERLY, 32 pages @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----LITTLE JEWELS (mailed quarterly) @ 12 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter)

-----THE YOUNG PEOPLE (mailed monthly) @ 15 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter, 80c Per Year—Foreign, 30c Per Quarter, $1.00 Per Year)

-----LESSON LEAVES @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----SETS LESSON PICTURE CARDS @ 4 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----LESSON PICTURE CHARTS @ $1.00 per quarter, $-----

-----CLASS BOOKS (7 cents each) @ 75 cents per dozen, $-----

-----SUNDAY-SCHOOL RECORD (for entire year) $2.50 per copy, $-----

-----COLLECTION ENVELOPES @ 75 cents per dozen, $-----

Total $-----

☛ Literature should be ordered to expire with the end of the quarters. Quarters begin January, April, July, and October; and expire March, June, September, and December.

☛ Remit by Post-Office Money Order, Bank Draft, Registered Letter, or Express Money Order, otherwise at the sender's risk.

CAREFULLY EXAMINE YOUR ORDER BEFORE MAILING

Cut Out Order Blank and Mail To-Day

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY

NASHVILLE, TENN.

"As the Manner of Some Is."

BY H. M. PHILLIPS.

There are so many members who make it their custom, habit, or manner of staying away from the assembly that it seems opportune to carefully study such in the light of divine truth.

From Heb. 10: 25 it is clear that then, as well as now, many would neglect churchgoing. Is such a serious mistake or a casual matter? Those who know and respect God's word say it is too serious to pass by as a non-essential. Any command left undone or exhortation unheeded knowingly seems to be a sin for which God shows but little mercy—a willful sin. Punishment is to be the state of all who so act.

Now, since all who respect God's word agree that to forsake the assembly is serious, sinful, and a punishable affair, the next question that naturally would follow is: What is the duty of the church toward such? Be it understood that the question is not about those who cannot go, but the ones who can and do not. Reasons and excuses are vastly different.

Some one is ready to say, "They should be taught and admonished;" but my case is about one who knows his duty, who admits he ought to go, but still will not go. Another says: "Get the regular preacher and the leading members to go and persuade him." This has been done, and still he refuses to come. Still another suggests that it may be he has a grudge at some member or the church in a general way; but he says no such a thing exists. Well, why will he not come? He says he knows he ought, gives no reason why he cannot, but just does not go, is all you can get out of him. How long, think you, ought he to be retained as a member of the church? Is he walking orderly? If so, are the ones who go regularly walking disorderly by so doing? Can one who obeys the command be otherwise than orderly, and he who does not be anything but disorderly? Then, can the elders be ruling well if the disorderly are not dealt with as Paul directs in 2 Thess. 3: 6? Some say that this scripture has reference to those who would not work at something to maintain themselves. Do you think it is more necessary to work naturally than it is to work spiritually? Is it disorderly to disobey this one command and orderly to disobey any other?

The church, no doubt, knows better than it does. The elders often neglect their work, and for this reason the cause of the Lord suffers greatly. How long will it be before the elders will stand firm for the law of the Spirit and do their duty toward the church? May it not be long.

The Covington Work Growing.

BY J. L. HINES.

I feel that the readers of the Gospel Advocate are in hearty sympathy with the work that is being carried on in this field; and feeling this way, I want to keep them informed as to how we are progressing. The outlook was never brighter for the cause here than now. The door of opportunity is flying open to us, as it seems, everywhere, and all that we have to do is to enter and proclaim the message. The gospel has not lost its power to save souls, though I am of the opinion that some act and preach as though it has. I find people almost every day who confess to me that they never heard of the church of Christ, and when I present the old story they seem to be astonished. Some believe. Others say: "I will see you again and have a talk with you." The Covington church has passed the forty mark as to membership, and new prospects are being located every week. Brethren, your hearts would be made to rejoice to meet with these godly brethren and note their zeal for God and his church. If you are passing through the city, stop and visit us. We mean to build a house of worship just as soon as we can, for we are about to outgrow the hall; and, too, we are greatly handicapped in that we cannot have but one service a week in the hall, and our Bible-class and other work must be done elsewhere. Brother Rowe preached at Branch Hill, Ohio, on Sunday; the writer spoke on Friday, Saturday, and twice on Sunday, at Withamsville, Ohio. All the coöperating churches are getting along in the work nicely. Pray for us.

Commendation.

To Whom It May Concern: We hereby testify that Evangelist W. F. Cox, who has done considerable preaching for us and is at present speaking for us twice a month, is true and loyal to the cause of Christ, having nothing to teach save what is authorized by Christ. In his presentation of the truth he is firm, yet kind, gentle, and Christlike. As a man, his disposition is to be peaceable and sympathetic with those with whom he differs, and he tries at all times to manifest the spirit of Christ. We believe him to be a Christian gentleman and can recommend him to the brotherhood.

Signed on behalf of the church of Christ at Tintern, November 19.

JOHN D. MCLEOD.

JACOB COMFORT.

J. O. MARTIN.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate, and send us a new subscriber.

YOU OWE IT TO YOUR CHILDREN - TO YOUR FAMILY TO SEE THAT THEY GET THE MOST NUTRITIOUS WHOLE-SOME BAKINGS.

Don't take the chance of sacrificing quality, economy and food value by using self-rising flour mixtures. They are only substitutes for good plain flour and good baking powder.

The best baking results are obtained from good baking powder and plain flour. The results are far better than from self-rising flour.

There is no substitute for good baking powder and plain flour.

Economy does not necessarily mean cheapness of price, nor does it mean the easiest way. In these times the greatest care should be used in determining between true economy and the sham of mere cheapness because there are so many preparations and substitutes in the way of leavening agents on the market.

For best results use—
Calumet Baking Powder
and a good plain flour.

The Vanity of Youth.

BY B. W. DAVIS.

"Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth; and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth, and walk in the ways of thine heart, and in the sight of thine eyes: but know thou, that for all these things God will bring thee into judgment." (Eccles. 11: 9.)

Even though addressed to the young man, this lesson is just as applicable to young ladies, especially so to those just entering the years of maturity, unto whom there is a great weight of influence arising from the realms of youthful vanities. The aged, too, through their indulgence in frivolities, are abased and become participants in the vanities of youth; therefore, unto them also this lesson may prove to be of great worth.

What profit can there be in seeking the chambers of mirth, where only the lust of the flesh can be gratified and the morals such as will only degrade and lead into a life of dissipation, not only detrimental to the soul, but also destructive to the physical man? O, that our young men and women of to-day could see the real beauties of a higher life, where righteousness and godliness are principal characteristics, where love is enthroned in the heart and faith points to joys eternal!

In the banquet halls of reveling the devil reigns with his scepter of iniquity, alluring through much wantonness those who are inclined to drift out upon the seas of deceptive beauties, falling to the enchantment, and under such conditions they become the victims of his deadly lotion, which must permeate the atmosphere that surrounds them. Thus thousands of girls entering the years of maturity, with glorious prospects before them, have become victims to his Satanic Majesty, and under the deceptive influences arising through the channels of style and pride—"society," so called,—adorning themselves in immodest apparel, going forth to the Christless and ungodly halls of reveling, there to be embraced by an ungodly representative of the realms of darkness, seeking only that which satisfieth not, bringing his victim down into the bottomless pit of corruption, from whence very few are ever rescued and restored to the sacred plains of righteousness. The modern dance is, no doubt, the devil's favorite recourse upon the young manhood and womanhood of our country, and through this ungodly and abominable source of recreation many precious souls are dragged down to an untimely death and eternal doom. The waltz at home, to while away the quiet evening hours, becomes a stimulus or a preparatory step to the social ballroom, where the more deadly poison is sure to be assimilated. It is not the first dose of opiates that makes the drug fiend, neither is it the first drink that makes an inebriate, but the curse is found in the first stepping-stone. Immodesty, my beloved friends, has arisen as a representative princess of the underworld. She comes forth to enter the sacred precincts of home, and in an unguarded moment she plucks the rose from the family altar, wrecking the peace, joy, and happiness thereof, and dealing death to her victims; yet at her command thousands of precious souls are bowing at her shrine. "Vanity of vanities, saith the Preacher; all is vanity."

You may rejoice in the vanity of youth; "but know thou, that for all these things God will bring thee into judgment." "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man. For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil."

BOILS

Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

Have you invited an Unseen Guest to your Christmas Table? Thousands are waiting $5 a month, or $60 a year, saves a child's life. They perish if we fail.

Send check to Cleveland H. Dodge, Treasurer, NEAR EAST RELIEF, 151 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Cleveland, Ohio, Church of Christ

Temporary Meeting Place

VIRGINIA HALL

10001 Superior Avenue, N. E.

Bible Study, 9:30 A.M. Worship, 10:30 A.M.

Visiting Brethren Welcome.

A. L. HENDERSHOT Phone Broadway 2024-J C. H. RANDOLPH Phone Eddy 6758-W

New York City Church of Christ

239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 3:15 P.M. Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush Ave. Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6867.

SICHEL STREET CHURCH OF CHRIST

Corner Sichel and Altura Streets, Los Angeles, Cal.

The Sichel Street Church, Los Angeles, Cal., being the oldest and strongest in Los Angeles County, extends to all visiting brethren and homeseekers a cordial invitation to unite with it. You will find its worship both apostolic and solemnly serious, as its membership consists of godly men and women who find no delight in the follies and frolics of modern ostentation. If you contemplate moving to or visiting Los Angeles, write E. C. Fuqua, 611 Howard Place, Pasadena, Cal. (Phone, Colorado 9342); or G. W. Riggs, 3319 Barbee Street, Los Angeles, Cal. (Phone, Lincoln 2583); or come direct to the church, corner Sichel and Altura Streets. Take North Broadway car and get off at Sichel Street, walk one block north; or take Griffin Avenue car and get off at Sichel Street and walk one block south.

"Baby improved wonderfully in health"
I recommend this excellently

Thessalon, Ont.
Box 95
March 29, 1920

Anglo-American Drug Co.,
New York, N. Y.
Gentlemen:—

In regard to Mrs. Winslow's Syrup: My baby suffered greatly with colic, and a friend told me of this Syrup and after I used it, baby improved wonderfully in health.
I can recommend this medicine to be excellent.

Yours truly,
(Name on request)

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

The Infants' and Children's Regulator

quickly relieves diarrhoea, colic, flatulency and constipation, and regulates the bowels. Non-narcotic, non-alcoholic. Formula on every label.

At All Druggists.
Write for free booklet containing letters from grateful mothers.

ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO., 215-217 Fulton St., New York
General Selling Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc.,
New York, Toronto, London, Sydney

Gospel Advocate

Volume LXIV. No. 52.

NASHVILLE, TENN., DECEMBER 28, 1922.

$2 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	1233
Keep Up the Fight, Brother Srygley—Brother Kurfes and the Use of the Word "Church," Again—"Consider Your Ways"—"Conduct Unbecoming a Preacher of the Gospel"—Los Angeles (Cal.) Notes—New York City Mission—A Bit of History—Letter of Commendation—Notes from West Tennessee—The Living Message.
QUERY DEPARTMENT.....	1241
EDITORIAL.....	1242
Our Last Issue for 1922—Brother Lee Jackson on the Word "Church" Once More—The Proper Estimate of Things—Demas: His Sin.
"Rules for Debates and Religious Controversies".....	1245
HOME READING.....	1246
The Other Side—The Japanese Work and the Worker....	1247
EVANGELISTIC NOTES.....	1248
Work in Montana.....	1250
The Church at Burkburnett, Texas.....	1251
FIELD REPORTS.....	1252
The Work at Burkburnett, Texas.....	1253
Notice of E. C. Fuqua's Work—Commending the Bible Lesson Helps.....	1255

Our Contributors

KEEP UP THE FIGHT, BROTHER SRYGLEY.

BY J. W. BRENTS.

The fight which is being waged through the Gospel Advocate against digression may, to many of our brethren, seem unnecessary and unreasonable, especially among those who are possessed with a compromising tendency. Many, no doubt, felt this way years ago when Fanning, Lipscomb, and a host of other brave pioneer brethren stood bravely by their guns and fought back a tidal wave of digression which at one time seemed destined to engulf the "restoration movement" in utter ruin. These were noblemen of God "of whom the world is not worthy." They bequeathed to their younger brethren a rich heritage, and we are unworthy of such a legacy unless we keep up the fight, and that till the end of our pilgrimage. "Be thou faithful unto death." "Contend earnestly for the faith." "Reprove, rebuke." "I have fought a good fight." These are scriptural injunctions.

The method which our erring brethren are pursuing seems ludicrous. Perhaps, after all, they should be encouraged to show at least a symbol of resistance, for in most places and with nearly all the adherents of this apostasy it is almost impossible to find one who will talk of discussing the matter. The reason, every one knows, is that they cannot sustain the unscriptural position. The plea of the "restoration movement" no longer interests this class of preachers, but how to get along with the dear "religious neighbors" and "sister churches" and how much notoriety he can gain for himself and "his charge."

The fight, at present, seems to be more on the subject of instrumental music. Those who have watched the movements of this people since they first introduced an organ in St. Louis in 1867 know this was only a little cloud that betokened an awful downpour. As unreasonable and unscriptural as the use of the organ may be, it was introduced, A.D. 666, by Pope Vitalian I. (see Chamber's Encyclopedia), and about which the lamented J. W. McGarvey made this statement: "It is manifest that we cannot adopt the practice without abandoning the obvious and only ground on which a restoration of primitive Christianity can be accomplished or on which the plea for it can be maintained. Such is my profound conviction, and consequently the question with me is not concerning the choice or rejection of an expedient, but the maintenance or abandonment of a fundamental and necessary principle. . . . I hold that the use of an instrument is sinful, and I must not be requested to keep my mouth shut in the presence of sin, whether committed by a church or an individual. The party which forces an organ into the church against the conscientious protest of a minority is disorderly and schismatical, not only because it stirs up strife, but it is for the sake of a sinful innovation upon the divinely authorized worship of the church; and inasmuch as the persons thus acting are disorderly and schismatic, it is the duty of all good people to withdraw from them until they repent. It is universally admitted by those competent to judge that there is not the slightest indication in the New Testament of divine authority for instrumental music in the worship." (Apostolic Times, 1881.) Opposition to the use of instrumental music in the worship was strong, but underlying was a great and vital principle involved: "Abandoning the obvious and only ground on which a restoration of primitive Christianity can be accomplished or on which the plea for it can be maintained." Time has proved that J. W. McGarvey knew.

Just here we do not have to get the testimony from opposing ranks. An abundance of it is forthcoming from those who have been lifelong adherents. In a speech made by J. H. O'Smith, in Louisville, Ky., December 7, 1922, on "The Menace of Centralization," I quote the following (Standard, December 17, 1921):

Those present will doubtless agree that centralization has developed:

1. Church politicians, who constantly send agents into every State, district, county, and the larger churches, in the interest of the central body, always with a teasing-to-be-full gripsack.

2. Selfish interests always attempt to seize the sources of power and alien elements are gaining control of our organized agencies, manipulating programs, budgets, the training and appointment of missionaries.

3. Already aspiring leaders have, to the extent of their influence, located us as one among the denominations.

4. Unwarranted and lavish expenditures running into hundreds of thousands have been fastened upon us as so-called "debts of honor."

5. A willingness has been cultivated to hand over our personal obligations to the cause of Christ to a centralized body, putting missions in the wholesale when the Lord's word put them in the retail department of the Christian religion. The idea seems to be that because it assumes great responsibilities, hence it is responsible. Therefore, give and believe.

6. The society has absolute control of missionaries, missions, and property. Probably no ecclesiastical body has more power. It can start, vacate, or swap.

7. It has used its influence to locate and dislodge ministers and blacklisted those who dared to question its policies.

8. It has propagated the doctrine that criticism of the management is hostility to missions.

9. It has demonstrated once more that nothing is sacred to autocracy—not even Christ's authority or the word of God.

10. It has assumed to speak for a million and a half of people and to commit them, in the eyes of the world, to the most compromising positions. They went down to the plains of Ono and negotiated a compromise with Tobiah, Sanballat, Geshem, Arabians, and the rest of the sectarians, giving away themselves and the people whom they claimed to represent, and so far have gotten by with the presumption.

11. It has developed an official consciousness in all our general work until now we have superintendents instead of evangelists, swivel-chair secretaries instead of pioneers and pathfinders, superintendents instead of servants. I am afraid of human imperatives.

12. Its inventory of consecration is on a cash basis. It has capitalized the commission of the Lord.

13. Every general agency among us began as an independent enterprise and stood upon its own merits. Gone are those days, so far as the influence of the religious trust prevails. Come in or go down.

14. Under its fostering care destructive critics have filled Bible chairs, wrecked the faith of candidates for the ministry. This will be challenged, but it is so manifest that a blind man in a jungle at midnight can see.

Much more just such material as this could be furnished, but surely this will suffice. And yet, in the face of all this, these brethren would have us cease our opposition. If they will tell us how, after they have convinced us, or even if the opposition should cease against the use of instrumental music in the worship, we are to fall in line and accept all the unrighteous doings of the Christian Missionary Society—if these brethren will please give us some information along these lines, it at least will be more helpful than to receive through private communication "an outburst of ungodly indignation," especially upon my part, after offering a few strictures against their course.

So, brethren, keep up the fight till the last vestige of opposition has ceased. Their acts are treasonable, their "aids" and "expediences" have led to irreparable mischief. Their consolidation of power has led them to an ecclesiasticism not unlike the mother of harlots. They have made themselves ludicrous in the eyes of the world. They are the greatest compromisers on the earth to-day. Let no Christian gloat or rejoice over their fallen condition, but let us say: "My soul, be on thy guard! Ten thousand foes arise . . . to draw thee from the skies." Let us pray for them and for ourselves that we may not go beyond "that which is written," and thus be kept from such gross departures. Let us not step beyond the bounds within which God would have us move. To do so means that we will be involved in shame and loss. Substituting for God's order will bring about our final ruin. Let no modern Jeroboam allure us from the pure worship of God. Let us beware of reasons, howsoever plausible, by which men may seek to turn our hearts away from God. There is safety only in doing the will of God. To change his order is to say we will not have him to rule over us. May Jehovah be our refuge, and may his everlasting arms ever be about his people.

Brother Kurfees and the Use of the Word "Church," Again.

BY LEE JACKSON.

In his reply to my article in the Gospel Advocate of November 16, Brother Kurfees claims that I misapprehended his meaning to such a degree that I misrepresented his teaching. In response to this I will say that I did not misapprehend his meaning in the use of the word "church," and if in any manner I was led into misrepresenting him, I regret this and am ready to ask his forgiveness. I did not understand him as meaning that the New Testament teaches the existence of a general or "provincial church" as an organized body of people, and tried to write so as to avoid creating such an impression. So far as the question of organization is concerned, it may be discarded altogether, and, therefore, not be considered. The question at issue is in regard to the meaning and application of the word "church" in our English New Testament. Brother Kurfees claims that all Christians, as God's people throughout a province, state, or kingdom, may be scripturally referred to as the "church of Christ" in such province, state, or kingdom. This is what is denied; and upon the same principle of reasoning it is also denied that the New Testament ever refers to all Christians scattered over the world as being the one "church of Christ" in the world. This issue is so clear that I cannot see how any confusion about it can reasonably arise.

After stating that the derivation of the word "church" is uncertain, and after indicating the two probable sources from which it may have been derived, the author of the article in Smith's Bible Dictionary drops the word "church" and proceeds to define "ecclesia" as meaning a congregation or an assembly of persons. This is in keeping with its meaning as given in the lexicons and as given by others as Bible scholars. In my article I cited instances of the mention of "churches" in various provinces, substituting "congregations" for the word "churches" in all of them except the last, in which I put "churches" in quotation marks and underscored it. This was done in order to save space and at the same time emphasize the fact that the word is in the plural form in all instances of its provincial use in the New Testament, and that the word "congregations" (also in the plural form) fills up the measure of its meaning. Brother Kurfees misinterprets this and labors to the effect that I was seeking to create the impression that "congregations" is found in the passages as cited from the Common Version. While this was far from my intention, and while I was not mistaken as to the reading in these passages, yet there is one thing which I can now say that I did not say in that connection. In his "Living Oracles" Alexander Campbell gives "congregation" as the proper rendering for the word "ecclesia" in every instance of its occurrence in the New Testament, and when the word is plural the reading is "congregations." If Brother Kurfees thinks as Campbell thought about it, and if he understands "ecclesia" to mean "congregation," as Campbell and others understood, why does he not say "congregation of Christ" in Tennessee or Kentucky, as the case may be? The reason why Brother Kurfees does not do this is because he cannot accurately refer to all scattered Christians throughout the domain of a state as constituting a congregation. And for the same reason, unless the word "church" is used in its plural form, the idea of something more than "congregation" is certain to be conveyed every time this word is applied to Christians throughout the territory of a state. It is a certainty that if the word "church" is applied in a manner to make it mean more than the word used by the apostles, it is then not an accurate representative of that original word.

Brother Kurfees still wants to know what all the "called" in Galatia constituted if they did not constitute the one "church of Christ" in that province. Paul addresses the "called of God" in Galatia as being included in the "churches" of Galatia, and by "churches" we understand that he means congregations. (Gal. 1: 2.) Throughout the New Testament, whenever reference is to the Christians of a province, the inspired writers appear to avoid the very form of expression now used by Brother Kurfees and by others who claim to plead for New Testament teaching. In Gal. 3: 28 Paul tells the Galatian Christians that they were all one "in Christ Jesus," but he does not tell them that they were all in one "church." There is nothing about all the Christians of Galatia being assembled together as one congregation; therefore, they are not addressed as simply constituting one congregation or "church." In my former article I wrote these words: "All Christians are one in Christ, but they are not all in one 'church' or congregation." Brother Kurfees failed to notice this.

In 1 Cor. 12: 13 Brother Kurfees thinks he has a passage which teaches that all are baptized into one "church." But there is nothing there said about being baptized into anything as a "church," either as a local or as a general body. The reading is: "For in one Spirit were we all baptized into one body, whether Jews or Greeks, whether bond or free; and were all made to drink of one Spirit." This is sublime teaching, but its sublimity is lost amid the haze of bewildering "church" teaching. The figurative use of the term "body" needs to be more closely studied. Its meaning and application is not precisely the same in all instances. In the fifteenth chapter of John, Jesus says to his disciples: "I am the vine, ye are the branches." The figure of the vine here represents Christ, and his people as branches in union with him, and does not represent Christians as united in a general "church" membership. "All the members of the body, being many, are one body; so also is Christ." Here the reference is to the human body, the unity of members in the human body representing the unity in Christ, just as represented in the figure of the vine and its branches. And the force of this is not destroyed by the change in the application of the figure by saying, "And God set some in the church" (the congregation). In Eph. 2: 14-16 we are told that through the merits of the death on the cross Jews and Gentiles are made one "new man" in Christ, and that both are thus reconciled unto God in "one body." Here, evidently, the "one new man" as the "one body" does not represent the idea of a general "church" body, for there had never been any old "church" that could be contrasted with a new one. The idea to be conveyed is that under the reign of the Christ Jews and Gentiles stand before God as one people upon the basis of new conditions, and that as reconciled to God in Christ they are one as joint partakers of God's promises. And it is this same idea before the mind of the apostle in Eph. 4: 4, where he says: "There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye were called in one hope of your calling." As a congregation, the Ephesians were a body over which Christ was head, just as he is head over every man and over every congregation (1 Cor. 11: 37); but this Ephesian congregation was not the body of Christ in precisely the same sense that Jews and Gentiles are reconciled to God in one body, for Jews and Gentiles are reconciled to God in Christ. In verse 24 of this fourth chapter these Ephesians are admonished to "put on the new man." Of course, we understand this to mean the putting on Christ, for it is incongruous to talk about putting on the "church" as the "new man." This idea of putting on Christ in our obedience to the gospel, and that of being clothed in his spirit as the garment of our acceptance at the throne of divine favor, is wonderful when truly seen in the light of New Testament teaching. So far as I have been able to read, from first to last, I find no form of expression, either in literal speech or figurative language, that substitutes any general "church" relationship for this sublime conception of being "in Christ Jesus." When Jesus said, "Upon this rock I will build my congregation," as the passage reads in the "Living Oracles," his vision was not limited to the existence of earthly assemblies, but he looked across all time and saw the congregated multitude of those in heaven who are to be prepared for that final home through the faithful ministrations of his congregations on earth. (Eph. 3: 9-12; Rev. 7: 13-17.)

While writing in the negative of Brother Kurfees' claim for an application of the word "church" in a general or provincial sense, I have endeavored to conserve space and to avoid quibbling. And I have also tried to write suggestively, so as to stimulate readers to a more careful study of the Scriptures.

I must tell the truth as I know it, or soon I cannot know the truth when I see it.—O. P. Gifford.

"Consider Your Ways."

BY C. T. POWELL.

It is important and profitable that one should take, occasionally, an inventory of his past record. It is advisable that one should analyze his ways, for his ways may conflict with Jehovah's way. When one analyzes his ways, he is acting the part of wisdom; he is carrying out the mandate of Jehovah. And if a change is ever made in the life of any one, it will be after his ways have been investigated. No one will change from his own ways unto Jehovah's ways until his own ways have been considered and found to conflict with the Lord's way.

The Lord spoke unto Zerubbabel, the governor of Judah, and unto Joshua, the high priest, by Haggai, the prophet. His message was: "Consider your ways." (Hag. 1: 5-7.)

It was necessary for them to consider their ways; for they were putting their ways first, when the order should have been reversed. Seemingly, they were content. They dwelt in ceiled houses, yet neglected the Lord's house. The Lord's house was lying waste, and it seemed, as far as they were concerned, that it would remain so; for they said: "The time is not come, the time that the Lord's house should be built." (Hag. 1: 2.) But the prophet asked them this pointed question: "Is it time for you, O ye, to dwell in your ceiled houses, and this house lie waste?" (Verse 4.)

This question must have caused them to hang their heads in shame; it must have caused them to think seriously. And when the Lord said, "Consider your ways," they must have done so to the fullest extent.

When these people were neglecting the Lord's way—the building of the Lord's house—and were putting their own ways first, the Lord could not bless them. The Lord smote them with "blasting and with mildew and with hail in all the labors" of their hands, yet they returned not unto him. They dishonored the Lord by not building the house. But when they did consider fully their ways, they adjusted themselves to the Lord's way—that is, they builded his house. And from the day the foundation stone was laid, the Lord prospered the works of their hands. (Hag. 2: 18, 19.)

"Consider your ways," even though spoken to the children of Judah, should have its weight upon every individual to-day, but especially upon every follower of Christ; it should cause each one to stop and carefully consider his course.

When Jesus says, "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you" (Matt. 6: 33), each one should see that he is seeking first the kingdom of God and his righteousness. We have assurance that the necessities of life will be given unto us, if we seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness. Those who reverse the order of Jesus should carefully investigate their ways.

Those who are living in ease and for self and self-advancement should analyze their course; they should ponder the words of Jesus.

Again, when Jesus says, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel" (Mark 16: 15), each follower of Christ should consider his ways, whether or not he is complying with this command!

We should remember that, before the gospel can be obeyed, it first must be proclaimed, and that the proclaimers must be supported in the meantime.

The calls for aid are coming "thick and fast." These calls should not be overlooked. They should arouse each one and cause him to act; and if he does not, he should remember the words of Jehovah, "Consider your ways."

Those who have not the privilege of meeting with many on the first day of the week realize what these calls are, and are ready and willing to contribute. To them it is a delight; to them "it is more blessed to give than to receive." And if all those who are privileged to worship with a congregation should have to worship in the home with two or three, surrounded with divers sectarians, they would realize more fully what these calls mean and would not be content to let them pass by unnoticed.

May these words, "Consider your ways," find lodgment in each heart and have sway until all adjust themselves to the Lord's way, as was done in the days of old.

"Conduct Unbecoming a Preacher of the Gospel."

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

In the Gospel Advocate of December 14 there was an article from R. O. Kenley on the above subject which contains some truth, and also, as I see it, some error. The first thing that impressed me about the article was that it does not have a single passage of Scripture in it or hardly an allusion to the Bible from beginning to end.

The first paragraph is a statement about a Presbyterian preacher that was charged, tried, and convicted of conduct unbecoming a Presbyterian minister, and his conviction was upheld by the appellate body of the Presbyterian Church, all of which may be of interest to Presbyterians, but is worth to Christians, in the settlement of a religious question, about as much as the predictions of a last year's almanac. The next statement is a quotation from a Fort Worth paper about how the Methodist Conference treated a preacher who was guilty of some sin, and this I consider equally worthless in setting forth our duty as Christians.

The brother says: "I give you a synopsis of above matters so that ministers and members of the church of Christ may see how our religious neighbors regard the enormity of sins committed by their preachers." Suppose I say frankly to the brother that if we find out the teaching of the Bible on the subject as to how to treat sin and sinners and follow its instruction, we will be right, even if we never see how our religious neighbors regard the enormity of sins committed by their ministers. If I can see the teaching of the Bible on this subject and follow it, I will be right, whether I see these other things or not. If the acts of our religious neighbors have nothing to do with these matters, why should we waste our time over the brother's "synopsis?"

The brother then asks: "How do we treat our ministers when they have been guilty of conduct unbecoming a minister, or even a Christian?" That sentence is liable to make the impression that it is not very bad to be guilty of conduct unbecoming a Christian, but it is terribly wrong to be guilty of conduct unbecoming a "minister." Where in the Bible do we find such a distinction between the minister and the Christian? I fear the brother has studied "the appellate body of the Presbyterian Church and the 'Methodist Conference' more than he has the Bible. In the New Testament there is a distinction between the inspired and the uninspired man; but now, since we are all uninspired, we do not have the distinction in Christians which the brother seems to have in his mind. Anything that is unbecoming in one Christian is also unbecoming in another. "And hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." No, the greatest thing in the church to-day is a Christian.

The brother says again: "As a rule, we leave the matter entirely to the minister. If he wishes to do so, he makes a little 'if-I-have-done-anything-wrong confession,' and continues to pretend to preach and teach the word of God, with the world and all outsiders knowing his public sins." Of course, if we have such a rule as this, it is a wrong rule; and still the matter of confession of sins must be left to the sinner—that is, he must confess his own sins. "Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed." (James 5: 16.) To this divine rule, it seems to me, we are tied, without any regard to the brother's "synopsis." "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins." (1 John 1: 9.) "I acknowledged my sin unto thee, and mine iniquity have I not hid." (Ps. 32: 5.) Remember, now, I am not defending "a little 'if-I-have-done-anything-wrong' confession," but a real confession of sin. Upon these passages and many others like them I take my stand, and not all the acts of all the Presbyterians and the Methodists and my brother can move me. As to whether a brother should continue to preach—not pretend to preach, but really preach—should depend, as I see it, on whether he could do more good by preaching than by doing something else. It is always right for Christians to follow that course in life in which they can do the most good. If one can do more good plowing corn than he can preaching Christ, then he should plow corn, but not pretend even to plow corn.

The brother says: "I have heard of some of our preachers being guilty of adultery and drunken debauchery and coming in and making a pretended confession and never missing a sermon." I want to say that I am not defending a pretended confession, but a confession. I wonder how the brother knew it was only a pretended confession. "For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him?" (1 Cor. 2: 11.) "Judge not, that ye be not judged." (Matt. 7: 1.) Go slow here, brother; you are getting dangerously near holy ground.

The brother then proceeds to tell us what his idea is, but he does not tell us on what scripture he bases that idea. But I give his own words: "My idea is that the minister of the church of Christ who is guilty of adultery or some other serious public crime should be retired as a public minister for the balance of his life." However much respect I might have for your idea, my brother, in this case I must insist on higher authority. Where did Christ or any of his apostles teach such an idea? I am not sure that I know exactly what the brother means by a "serious public crime;" but I suppose that denying Christ with an oath is a serious crime, and, if I am not mistaken, Peter did that very thing before "outsiders." "And again he denied with an oath, I do not know the man." (Matt. 26: 72.) Peter not only denied the Lord, but he told a falsehood, and did it with an oath, and that before "outsiders," and yet the Lord did not retire him for life, but about fifty days after that he was the chief preacher on the most important occasion that has ever been known to man. My idea is that if the brother had been in Jerusalem on that day with the same idea he has now, he would have said: "By all means, let Peter be retired for life, and let some one else take his place." Paul "persecuted the church of God, and wasted it." (Gal. 1: 13.) "And when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them." (Acts 26: 10.) "And Saul, yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high priest, and desired of him letters to Damascus to the synagogues, that if he found any of this way, whether they were men or women, he might bring them bound unto Jerusalem." (Acts 9: 1, 2.) I would call this "a serious public crime." With this threatening and slaughter in his heart on his way to Damascus, Jesus stopped him and retired him for life, not as a preacher, but as a wicked, persecuting, murderous sinner, and put him to preaching for life. "And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that he is the Son of God." (Verse 20.) But that was before we had "Presbyterian appellate bodies" or "Methodist conferences" to decide these questions for us.

But after the brother tells us that his idea is that a minister who commits adultery or some other serious public crime should be retired for life, in the next sentence he says: "If he swindles or robs or cheats his fellow man, he should be retired until such time as he fully repents, which in every instance must be evidenced by full restitution." I grant that restitution is necessary when possible, but I would not say that God would demand it when it is not possible. I am wondering why swindling, robbing, and cheating are not serious crimes; but the brother seems to make a difference between "a serious public crime" and cheating, swindling, and robbing. I would consider these also as quite serious. But, pray, why should one class of sinners be retired for life and the other only until they have fully repented? Where in the Bible is such a distinction in sins made? Has God made this distinction, or man? Any of these sins unforgiven will debar one from heaven, but any of them that are forgiven by the Lord will be forgotten by him. "Their sins and their iniquities will I remember no more." (Heb. 8: 12.) Remember that I am not defending "adultery or any serious public crime;" but who besides our brother has made such a distinction in sins? In the language of another, let me ask: "Who listened to the preaching of Jesus at Jacob's Well, believed to the saving of her soul, rushed back to her native town and by her zeal brought the whole village out to hear him? Who heard the loving voice of the Lord in accents tenderly sweet, saying: 'Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more?' Who was it the Lord tenderly loved, and out of whom he cast seven devils? Who stood with the Lord's few steadfast friends in the world's darkest midnight hour, hovering around the cross on which the Prince of Glory died, surrounded by foes and deserted by friends? Who was among the faithful few to visit the tomb in which the Savior slept, and on the resurrection morn first to greet the risen Lord and proclaim to a sorrowing world the tidings of great joy?" While these were women, yet they were, perhaps, all guilty of the sin which the brother says should retire one as a preacher of the gospel for life. If the Savior forgave these women and allowed them to tell the story of his love, who would dare say he would not likewise forgive a man who had also fallen? I do not recommend sin, but I do recommend Jesus as a complete Savior.

I believe also that our brother is an extremist on the binding effect of the action of a church. On this point he says: "Again, we are not taught to respect the law of Christ in that when a preacher has been disciplined or withdrawn from by one congregation and is in bad repute and standing with said congregation, another congregation will receive such preacher, engage him to hold a protracted meeting, and many times to locate and do regular work. The action of one congregation of the church of Christ with regard to a member thereof should be, and in the sight of Jehovah is, just as binding upon every other congregation as judgments and decrees of one court of a State are binding upon every other court of the same State." This almost amounts to infallibility. If a congregation can make a decision on this question that no other congregation has any right to call in question, why can they not make decisions on all other questions that should not be altered? Is the action of a church that binding on men? If individuals can make mistakes, why may not congregations make them? Are not congregations made up of individuals? And if there is no infallibility in any of the individuals, how could there be infallibility in the congregations? If individuals can make mistakes, and congregations are made up of these individuals, why cannot congregations make them? No, beloved, we should be governed by the Bible, and not by the decisions of the churches.

But the brother says: "Every evangelist or minister offering to preach in a community where he is not intimately known should carry with him and present, and the congregation with whom he is offering to labor should demand, a certificate of not too remote a date, from the elders of his home congregation as to his church standing." I believe that this demand would be a failure. How could congregations with whom an evangelist proposed to labor know that these certificates were not forged? I have never known a religious impostor that did not have his pockets full of these certificates, and I never knew a godly, faithful preacher to ever carry such. It is rarely ever necessary for a man to go where he is unknown in order to do good in preaching Christ. The knowledge of a faithful man's work will generally precede him. Let us study our Bibles and follow its teaching, love the Lord, and try to lift up the fallen, and God will take care of his church.

Los Angeles (Cal.) Notes.

BY W. EDGAR MILLER.

Notwithstanding the fact that Sunday, December 10, was a rainy day, the hall at 1720 South Flower Street was fairly well filled, and Brother Witty preached one of his best sermons. This is the season of the year when sickness is prevalent in the community, but so far Central has been very fortunate in this respect and but few cases of sickness have been reported. At the close of the morning service Sister Kaylor and Sister Payne, both recently from Texas, came forward and took membership with us. These constant additions to our numbers are a source of much encouragement to us, and we are getting ready to step off into the new year with a determination to make it a great year in the work of the Lord in this place.

Our Japanese brother, Ishiguro, will arrive in the city within a few days to begin mission work among his own people, and it is our intention to give him all the aid possible in this great work, with the hope that much good may be accomplished. There is an old song that says: "If I cannot cross the ocean and the heathen lands explore, I can find the heathen nearer—I can help them at my door." And certainly this is true in this great city, where almost every nation under heaven is represented. Paul, in writing to the Galatians, said: "As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith." (Gal. 6: 10.) "Opportunity" is defined as "a time or occasion attended with favorable circumstances." Certainly the beginning of a mission work among a heathen people by one of them, who himself is a child of God and who needs the support of every other child of God, could be classed as an opportunity to do good by every one who wears the name of Christ. Opportunities do not come and sit down and wait for us to take hold of them. They come and go; and if we would make use of them, we must do it now, not to-morrow. An unused opportunity is a liability and not an asset in the final great reckoning. May God help us to awake to the great harvest that is white before us before it is too late. I often think of the words of a hymn entitled "A Wasted Life." One verse runs as follows:

Nothing but leaves! No gathered sheaves
Of life's fair ripening grain.
We sow our seeds—lo!—tares and weeds,
Words, idle words, for earnest deeds—
Then reap with toil and pain—
Nothing, nothing, nothing but leaves:

My brother, my sister, can you imagine a sadder ending to a life that might have been spent in bearing fruit than to come before the judgment seat and lay down for golden sheaves—nothing but leaves?

Commending "Hardeman's Tabernacle Sermons."

"I have read again the sermons as found in the book. You will doubtless remember that I told you of having read them as printed in the papers; moreover, I read several of them in 'proof' before the book was published; but they are still new, and will ever be. I never tire of reading, or of hearing delivered, a sermon on the themes you chose for the Tabernacle meeting. I certainly hope brethren everywhere will buy, read, and scatter the book far and wide." (C. M. Stubblefield.)

New York City Mission.

BY E. E. SHOULDERS.

"Knowing therefore the terror of the Lord, we persuade men." (2 Cor. 5: 11.) The abundant harvest of souls as the result of a strenuous evangelistic campaign, especially throughout the South and West, this year, so far, seems to me, is quite evident that the church of Christ and its true ministers appreciate more fully the significance of Paul's statement. Our preaching brethren have gone and have been sent by the churches into more destitute places to preach the unsearchable riches of our blessed Lord and to "persuade men" this year than any other year that I can recall in my life. Both churches and evangelists very manifestly say: "Brethren, I know the terror of the Lord. I know God's vengeance. I am acquainted with his wrath and with the fact that his anger may be kindled. In view of God's terror, wrath, and vengeance, I persuade my fellows. I am not pleading with God or Jehovah. I am not persuading Christ. I am not persuading the Holy Spirit, for the Spirit hath revealed in completeness the scheme of redemption. Instead of all that, I persuade men." (Herdman.) It stirs our souls and spurs us on to do more than we have ever done in the name of Christ. Jesus "came to seek and to save that which was lost" (Luke 19: 10); he "came not to call the righteous, but sinners" (Matt. 9: 13). Our faith and zeal are made stronger, and these are made manifest by greater efforts to do more extensive missionary work.

As my thoughts revert back a few years, I wonder why the Eastern field has been so shamefully neglected. Then I hear the answer: "Because the people in the East are so cold, indifferent, and irreligious that it is useless to spend money, time, and energy trying to preach to them." If this be true, we have no business deluding ourselves trying to believe the Bible. In Jer. 23: 29 the Lord says: "Is not my word like as a fire?" Here the Lord compares his word with fire, and fire is the greatest purifying and energizing agency known. David said: "The fire burned: then spoke I with my tongue." (Ps. 39: 3.) But let us think upon Jeremiah's statement: "And if I say, I will not make mention of him, nor speak any more in his name, then there is in my heart as it were a burning fire shut up in my bones, and I am weary with forbearing, and I cannot contain." (Jer. 20: 9.) The fact is, no efforts have been made to make mention of the Lord nor speak in his name among these millions of people; but, instead, we have kept the "burning fire shut up in" our "bones" in other fields which to me in greatness do not compare. And the man or men upon whom the lot falls to labor in this field become "weary with forbearing" and can scarcely "contain." You may, if you please, represent the hearts of these people as hard and stony; but the word of the Lord is so powerful that it will subdue the hard and rebellious heart, for it is called "a hammer that breaketh the rock in pieces." (Jer. 23: 29.) God said in old time: "So shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it." (Isa. 55: 11.) "For the word of God is living, and active, and sharper than any two-edged sword, and piercing even to the dividing of soul and spirit, of both joints and marrow, and quick to discern the thoughts and intents of the heart." (Heb. 4: 12.) May I ask, then, are we not sufficiently assured that God's word is most powerful, even "to the casting down of strongholds; casting down imaginations, and every high thing that is exalted against the knowledge of God, and bringing every thought into captivity to the obedience of Christ." (2 Cor. 10: 4, 5.) Many "strongholds," "imaginations," and "high things" are exalted "against the knowledge of God" here in New York City. Just as soon as arrangements can be made, we need and want more men in this field armed with "the whole armor of God, that" they "may be able to" withstand "the wiles of the devil." (Eph. 6: 11.) I am quite conscious that this is one of the greatest mission fields, if not the greatest on the American continent; and I would that I had the power to stir the hearts of every church throughout our land to let out that "burning fire" in their bones and be moved to do a greater missionary work in this metropolis.

Our work this year has been greatly handicapped by not having funds to finance the work we wanted and had hoped to do. We have not been able to secure an auditorium (for our Sunday morning and evening services) within our means, although we have advertised repeatedly and searched in many ways, using the real-estate men to help us; but any that was at all suitable for the purpose was beyond our financial reach. But as Jesus used the boats and mountains and Paul and the other apostles used the market places and other places convenient, so did Brother William Johnson and I secure permits from the city authorities, and held services on the street corners and distributed literature on the "first principle" order. Throughout the summer we preached the gospel right on Broadway, New York, in the very face of her brilliant lights, etc.; and we were heard. This is not the end. Our work through the winter should be still greater by teaching people more accurately by personal contact in Bible classes. We must carry the gospel to people, and we hope this can be done even unto a harvest. It can be done with a hearty co-operation of more churches and individuals, if they wish to make an individual matter. At present only ninety-five dollars is promised to the support of this work. Then, how may we expect a church to grow and prosper in New York City on the local contributions (which amount to about seventy-five dollars per month) and the amount promised and keep a man in the field? We need at least one hundred dollars more per month; then that will give the church here an opportunity to use the local funds for current expenses, such as hall rent, advertising, and buying literature.

Will you not stop and think for a moment? Sunday afternoon is not the accustomed time for people to go to church services, and it is especially difficult here to get people to attend an afternoon service, owing to the fact that there is so much to be seen in and around New York. But we have reasons to believe that our audiences would immediately increase almost one-third could we but have our Sunday morning and evening services. Could you not, as well as we who are on the field, make some sacrifice on your part to help us change the situation?

Brethren, I know you have many, many calls, and, no doubt, every one of them is a worthy appeal, but I do not believe that they are more worthy than this one; so may I urge that the New York work have your serious and thoughtful consideration for the coming new year.

Send all contributions to George M. McKee, Box 15, Station N, New York, N. Y.

A Bit of History.

BY T. PARK BURT.

Dr. Dowling, in his "History of Romanism," says the first persecution of Christians in England, under the name of "heretics," occurred under the bigoted King Henry. Here is his account of it:

At the instigation of the popish priest, King Henry was prevailed upon to disgrace his reign by the first instances of death for heresy that ever occurred in England from the landing of the emissaries of Rome on her shores. There existed at that dark period, when all the world wandered after the beast, a numerous body of the disciples of Christ, who took the New Testament for their guidance and direction in all affairs of religion, rejecting the doctrines and commandments of men. Their appeal was from decisions of councils and the authority of popes, cardinals, and prelates, to the law and testimony—the words of Christ and his holy apostles. Egbert, a monkish writer of that age, speaking of them, says that he had often disputed with these heretics, whom he terms “Cathari,” or Puritans; a sort of people, he adds, who are very pernicious to the Catholic faith, which, like moths, they corrupt and destroy. They are armed, says he, with the words of Scripture which in any way seem to favor their sentiments, and with these they know how to defend their position and oppose the Catholic truth. They are increased to great multitudes throughout all countries, to the great danger of the church [of Rome]; for their words eat like a canker, and like a flying leprosy run every way, infecting the precious members of Christ [Roman Church]. The faith of these people was the same, wherever found. They invariably protested against the corruptions of the church of Rome, such as the doctrines of purgatory, offering alms for the dead, and celebrating masses, the ringing of bells, and praying for the dead. Throughout the whole of the twelfth century they were exposed to severe persecutions; and in the year 1159 A.D. a company of them, amounting to thirty in number, partly men and partly women, all of whom spoke the German language, made their appearance in England, hoping, no doubt, to find an asylum here from the range of bigotry and intolerance to which they were exposed in their own country. They appear to have constituted a small Christian church in their native place; and their pastor, whose name was Gerard, was a person of some learning and talent. Taking up their residence in the neighborhood of Oxford, they were not long in attracting notice by the singularity of their religious practices. They were, consequently, taken up and brought before the council and the clergy at Oxford. When interrogated as to who and what they were, their leader answered in their name, that they were Christians, and believed the doctrines of the apostles. Refusing to abandon the “damnable heresies,” as the clergy pleased to call it, they were condemned as incorrigible heretics and delivered to the civil magistrates to be punished. The king, at the instigation of the clergy, condemned them to be branded in the forehead with a red-hot iron and to be whipped through the streets of Oxford; they, having their clothes cut short by the girdles, were turned into the open fields, and all persons were forbidden to offer them either shelter or relief, under the most severe punishment. This cruel sentence was executed in its rigor; and taking place in the depth of winter, they all perished through cold and famine.” (“The Popes of Rome,” pages 177-179.)

From the above history we are apprised of the fact that there existed, eleven hundred years after the death of our Lord, and after the disciples were called Christians at Antioch, in A.D. 41, a body of men and women who called themselves “Christians,” and, as a whole, formed the Christian church, or Christian’s church, and who rejected all the doctrines and commandments of men, taking the Bible, and the Bible only, for the man of their counsel. Their plea was: “Where the Bible speaks, we speak; and where the Bible is silent, we are silent.” This is the plea of all Christians to-day, and will be until time is no more. It is a fact, then, notwithstanding the contention of some, that the church was not with the Baptists in A.D. 41, when the disciples sent for Paul, that he might give them that holy name. (Acts 11: 26.) Neither was the church with the Baptists when that little band of thirty men and women met death at Oxford in A.D. 1159, for they were called “Christians,” not “Baptists.” We find the church at Pentecost speaking as the Bible now speaks: We find them speaking the same things at Antioch in A.D. 41, where they were first called “Christians” in honor of Him who gave himself for the church. (Eph. 5: 25, 26.) We find the same body, composed of different people, but speaking the same things (as the Bible speaks) at or near Oxford in A.D. 1159. The people who were called “Christians,” and stood on the teaching of Christ and his apostles, were persecuted unto death in Paul’s day, or first century. They were also persecuted in the days of Gerard, the leader of the little band of Christians near Oxford, in A.D. 1159. God’s people have always suffered at the hands of the beast of Rome and those who have her mark. In speaking of the two witnesses, which are the two olive trees and the two candlesticks (the Old and New Testaments), John says: “If any man will hurt them, fire proceedeth out of their mouth, and devoureth them.” When they (the two witnesses) shall have finished their testimony, the beast shall make war against them, and overcome them, and kill them, and their dead bodies shall lie in the street of the great city, which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, where also our Lord was crucified. (See Rev. 11: 3-8.) All students of history know that these two witnesses were discarded and trampled under the feet of the beast of Rome and her cohorts during the twelve hundred and sixty years of the Dark Ages; but they revived again during the reformation of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, under the heroic efforts of Tyndale, Huss, Calvin, Luther, Knox, and others, and were restored more completely by the godly efforts of Stone, the Campbells, and their co-workers. We now have a large body of men and women called “Christians,” who contend for the simple teaching of these two witnesses; but the war is raging as never before since the days of the reformation and restoration. Let us contend, therefore, for the true teaching of these two witnesses, brethren, remembering that we shall suffer persecutions if we live godly in Christ Jesus; or according to the teaching of these two witnesses. (2 Tim. 3: 12.) But the thought that cheers the Christian most of all, when he is persecuted, is found in 2 Tim. 2: 12: “If we suffer [for his name’s sake], we shall also reign with him.”

Letter of Commendation.

Brother Boles: I have read with much pleasure and profit the last issue of the Gospel Advocate (December 7). Especially am I delighted with your wise handling of Brother F. L. Paisley’s announcement of “Meeting of Elders and Preachers.” You did the brethren at large a great favor by printing in connection Brother David Lipscomb’s words of warning and gentle reproof of all such. I hope this will call the attention of all brethren to this matter in such way that every preacher in the land will see the errors in such, and endeavor by tongue and pen to “cry aloud and spare not” the Bible teachings against all such till we have no one even desiring such.

I have just reread Thomas Campbell’s great “Declaration,” August 17, 1809, and am wondering if it did not have much to do in laying the foundation of the American Christian Missionary Society of 1849 and the Foreign Christian Missionary Society of 1875. He, like the brethren to-day, desired no such results, but the seed of such were sown, hence the reaping that inevitably must follow. So it will be with these meetings in Nashville and out. Brethren from various congregations “with full authority to act” for said congregations compose a society as foreign to Bible teaching as any of those mentioned above.

If all brethren will be content to labor as individuals or as local congregations of disciples and not seek to have too big meetings and not seek to be “put on the map” too much, all will go well. Let us never forget: “The foolishness of God is wiser than men; . . . and God chose the weak things of the world, . . . and the things that are despised, . . . that no flesh should glory before God.” (1 Cor. 1: 25-29.) Let us have more wholesome warning against our human tendencies. R. C. WHITE.

GLEANINGS FROM THE FIELD.

BY WILLIE HUNTER.

This booklet is a biographical sketch of the life and times of Brother Marion Harris. It covers fifty-nine pages and relates many interesting events connected with Brother Harris’ labors in the Master’s vineyard in the “Upper Cumberland” counties. Get a copy. Price, 50 cents. Send orders to Willie Hunter, Livingston, Tenn.

Notes from West Tennessee.

BY JOHN R. WILLIAMS.

THEN AND NOW.

"Then"—"at that time;" "Now"—"the present."

Thirty years ago preachers of all faiths were bold in contending for what they believed. Even the laity were ready and willing at all times to contend for what they thought the Bible taught on any one subject. Preachers sought the opportunity to present their particular faith before people. The first religious discussion I ever heard grew out of such boldness. J. H. Milburn, a Baptist preacher, now dead, came to Hornbeak and asked the privilege of preaching in our meetinghouse. "I want to get hold of you fellows and show you that you are wrong." The privilege was granted; he came, he preached. What he did for Acts 2: 38 was joy and happiness to the Baptists. He wanted a debate, and he found what he was looking for. His challenge was accepted and propositions were agreed on. In the arrangement of the propositions by Milburn, he got the first and last speech. J. H. Roulhac, of Union City, was called to meet Milburn. I listened carefully and noted after both men. At that debate I learned how to study the Bible—learned how it was divided. I learned that Christ was superior to Moses and that the gospel of Christ was superior to the law of Moses. Both men are now dead, but they did a work that will last till the end of time. Milburn was a good debater, but at times he was rather rough in his manner, which only weakened his own contention.

This debate was attended by a large, attentive audience. Among the number who attended were some weak-kneed, milk-and-cider fellows that got mad and said: "Debates do harm. I never expect to attend another." The devil used those milk-and-cider fellows to sow the seed of opposition to debates—opposition to any investigation of the teaching of the Bible. His sowing through these weak-kneed church members took deep root at once, and, and like Bermuda grass and wild onions, it won't stay killed out. Now discussions are nearly all one-sided. These one-sided discussions are carried on under the plea that debates are sinful and do more harm than good. When these fellows are telling how sinful and harmful religious discussions are, they never fail to skin the imaginary opponent—the one not present. A majority of religious people actually believe public discussions of Bible questions to be sinful. Here in Hornbeak live people who get furiously mad if you suggest a public discussion, and then begin their one-sided debates in opposition to a two-sided debate. The devil, in his effort to prevent the teaching of the Bible, has called to his aid the woman. When one or two women of a congregation say "No" to the debates, that ends the matter.

After I began preaching, a young Baptist preacher, J. W. Mount, moved to Hornbeak, the "pastor" of the Baptist congregation. He was full of "pep." As evidence of this, he started in to dig up "Campbellism" by the roots. He denounced "Campbellism" as "a damnable, God-dishonoring doctrine." I approached him individually, privately, and told him to quit saying such hard things about the people he was calling "Campbellites." "We deny being Campbellites," I said. "Yes, that is the way of you fellows—deny your name." I told him to preach what he thought the Bible taught and quit misrepresenting others. This only made him worse.

Through his influence his congregation challenged us for a debate. The challenge was read to our congregation, and at once all said: "Accept it; but each congregation must give a written indorsement of the man that is to represent it in the debate." Then Mount was made to feel like Tom Moore looked. His congregation would not indorse him as their champion. He wilted for a while under this, but his eagerness for a debate did not wilt. Finally he told me that his congregation would not indorse him, but he would get a man they would indorse. He called W. B. Clifton to take the place his brethren would not let him fill. Clifton accepted and was indorsed by the Baptists. When Mount was turned down and Clifton accepted, then I wanted my congregation to call another man to take my place. Clifton was well educated and an experienced debater. I felt sure I could whip Mount, but was not so sure about whipping Clifton. My congregation said: "No, we have indorsed you, and you must fight the man the Baptists put up." The action of the congregation gave me great encouragement.

The Living Message.

BY H. LEO B.

This is a new paper published at Harper, Kan. It is "the merger of the Harvest Work, Gospel Herald, and Kentucky Evangelist." It has an attractive name and its mechanical make-up is neat. It covers sixteen pages, 8½x11½ inches.

The first issue of The Living Message breathes a wholesome spirit of peace and constructive work. It "makes no rash promises," but expresses confidence in its success. Like a young man starting out in life, it is full of hope.

The Gospel Advocate welcomes The Living Message into the field of religious journalism and bids it Godspeed in its venturesome enterprise. Let us be collaborators.

Real religion puts within us a deep concern for the other man. We can never be really religious so long as we are indifferent to the sufferings and sins of others.—Exchange.

The Sunday-school picnic may be made to serve a good purpose, or it may be little more than dissipation.—Selected.

TRACTS AND BOOKLETS.

The following tracts and booklets can be had from the Gospel Advocate Company:

The Establishment of the Kingdom (L. R. Sewell)05
Modern Geology Rebuked (I. N. Jones)05
Faith that Qualifies for Baptism (Durst-McQuiddy)10
Instrumental Music in the Service of God (D. Lipscomb)	Free
Theological Grub Ax (W. L. Butler)10
Church Organization (E. G. Sewell)	Free
Walking by Faith (Kurfees)05
Sincerity Seeking the Way to Heaven (B. Franklin)05
Review of John B. Cowden's Tract on Instrumental Music in the Church (Kurfees)	Free
Searching the Scriptures (T. Fanning)10
Christian Eldership (Scobey)10
Is Salvation Conditional? (Dalton-Burnett)15
Doctrine of Sanctification (Carr)10
Bible Doctrine of Sanctification (Elam)10
Stark-Warlick Debate50
Theological Debate (Brents-Herod)25
Out of Darkness into Light (Z. T. Winfree)05
Phillip Worthy (Debet)25
Evidence of Pardon (Holt)25
God's Foolishness vs. Man's Wisdom (McPherson)	Free
A Review of J. E. McHaffey's Tract on Baptism (Smith)15
The Place and Purpose of Baptism (Floyd)	Free
Methods of Work and Worship in the Church (Scobey)10
Christian Unity (D. Lipscomb) 64 pages10
Worship (McQuiddy)	Free
The New Birth (Waldron)10
The New Name (Kidwell)10

Many other tracts are in the office for distribution. They are good for use in protracted meetings.

Address Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Query Department

BY J. C. McQUIDDY

George Beadwell asks some questions concerning the baptism of Cornelius: "(1) Was the baptism of the Holy Spirit an evidence of pardon to Cornelius? (2) Was he baptized for the remission of sins? (3) Was he under the same gospel we are now?"

1. No. God bore witness to the Gentiles of their acceptance by baptizing them in the Holy Spirit. "And God, who knoweth the heart, bare them witness, giving them the Holy Spirit, even as he did unto us." (Acts 15: 9.)

2. Yes. "And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ." (Acts 10: 48.) "Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins; and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit." (Acts 2: 38.)

3. Yes. * * *

John Hayes, Athens, Ala., wants authority for sending a woman as a missionary. He says: "When Jesus gave the great commission, he committed it to men. Paul told Timothy that the things he had learned he should commit to faithful men, who should be able to teach others also. We find where the church sent preachers out to preach. Please give me the word of God for sending a woman as a missionary to teach. I am not saying it is wrong for a woman to teach in a private way, but it seems to me that the word of God teaches that they shall be keepers at home, to marry and bear children."

"I commend unto you Phœbe our sister, who is a servant of the church that is at Cenchrea." (Rom. 16: 1.) This clearly shows she served the church. This service was in looking after the sick and needy of their own members, then of the world. The church is the light of the world. The church at Philippi sent to Paul, who was in the field: "For even in Thessalonica ye sent once and again unto my need." (Phil. 4: 16.) Paul had women with him who assisted him: "Help these women, for they labored with me in the gospel." (Phil. 4: 3.) This is proof that women did the work with Paul in spreading the gospel, and I think the record shows that his missionary company generally embraced a number of godly women who could reach their own sex and teach them the truth. Philip, of Cesarea, had four virgin daughters who were inspired and prophesied, which was done modestly and in private. Evidently the women worshiped together at Philippi, at which place Paul and his companions went out to where they "supposed there was a place of prayer, . . . and spake unto the women that were come together." (Acts 16: 13.) The Bible clearly teaches that women must visit the sick, the needy, and, in these quiet ministrations, teach them the word of God. She may teach men in private, and may teach her sex one by one or together. She may labor with man in extending the kingdom of God. She may teach her neighbors in private, the most effective teaching ever done. They were so effective in mission work that Paul admonishes the Philippian church to help them. As we find them laboring with Paul, evidently they were in the mission field with the approval and support of the church.

* * *

James H. Aiken, Brownsville, Tenn., inquires to know if Christ had to be baptized and where he was commanded to be baptized. Christ was not commanded to be baptized, but was baptized "to fulfill all righteousness." (Matt. 3: 15.) John's baptism was in force; so Christ was baptized and kept the law perfectly in order to give the world a perfect example of obedience. John forbade Christ to be baptized, because his baptism was unto the remission of sins, and he knew Christ had no sins to remit. If John had been baptizing good people, he would have sought Christ to baptize him, because he was sinless and absolutely pure. He did not suffer him until he learned that Jesus was to be baptized to fulfill all righteousness.

Brother Aiken also inquires about the sin of refusing to rear children: "In Gen. 38: 9, 10, God killed a man because he did not want to raise children. Was it a sin in that age and not a sin in this age? Those who are using drugs to keep from raising children—are they not murdering the body? How about the soul?"

Murder is murder. "No murderer hath eternal life abiding in him." Men may destroy the body, but not the soul. Race suicide is a terrible sin which will reap a terrible retribution. "And God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. And God blessed them: and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it." (Gen. 1: 27, 28.) Those who refuse to beget and bear children curse and blight their own lives and threaten the destruction of the race. Those who live natural lives as God directs are useful and happy here and enjoy everlasting life in the world to come.

* * *

J. Wesley Thompson, Good Spring, Tenn., inquires to know "if 1 Cor. 5: 11 means that Christians shall not eat a common meal with a brother who is a fornicator, or does the eating refer exclusively to the Lord's Supper?" He asks: "If at the communion, how are we to hinder one of another congregation from whom fellowship has not been withdrawn from partaking of the Lord's Supper?"

The passage reads: "I wrote unto you not to keep company, if any man that is named a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a reviler, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such a one no, not to eat." Such a person is not to be recognized by eating with him in a friendly meal or at the Lord's table. Christians should have no social intercourse with one who has been a member who is guilty of the grievous sins mentioned. The scripture does not refer to those of the world, as is evident from verses 9, 10, which read: "I wrote unto you in my epistle to have no company with fornicators; not at all meaning with the fornicators of this world, or with the covetous and extortioners, or with idolaters; for then must ye needs go out of the world." People should be given to understand that only Christians can partake acceptably of the Lord's Supper. "Wherefore whosoever shall eat the bread or drink the cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner, shall be guilty of the body and the blood of the Lord." (1 Cor. 11: 27.) Few men who know they are guilty of the sins named will persist in eating the Lord's Supper, and those who do will curse themselves thereby.

* * *

Tim Walker, Haleyville, Ala., wishes me to explain Luke 16: 23, 24. The information desired is as to the meaning of the expression, "for I am tormented in this flame." He says: "Was this the 'everlasting punishment' of Matt. 25: 46, or 'the lake of fire' of Rev. 20: 10, or a figure of speech?"

I have no way of knowing whether the "flame" and "the lake of fire and brimstone" are the same. The punishment was terrible enough, whatever it was. Some regard the case of the rich man and Lazarus as a parable and not as history, and, consequently, that its lesson is not what its imagery is, but what it means. "'Flame' may be regarded as a figurative term to represent the acutest suffering of which a spirit is susceptible by a material image of misery the most dire." (Greswell.) I see no reason for making the case a parable, but incline to the view that "flame" means flame.

Gospel Advocate

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.00 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.50, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrears paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Editorial

Our Last Issue for 1922.

BY J. C. M'Q.

As the years come and go they should remind and warn us that the end of our earthly pilgrimage draws nigh. Realizing that the end is not far away, we should improve every opportunity to set in motion influences that will live and uplift humanity when our work is ended. "We must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work." (John 9: 4.)

How rapidly the years chase each other! It seems but a few fleeting hours since we were writing "1921," and now almost before we can realize it we will be writing "1923."

But I must pause long enough as the years so swiftly glide by to drop a tear on the grave of David Lipscomb, who slipped away from us in 1917. While for many years before this he had not been active, yet it was in this year that he closed his eyes upon the scenes of this life forever. I shall never forget his fatherly interest and care for me and the many times he wisely counseled me. The lessons learned from him are cherished now more than while he was living. This is not strange when we remember that the Savior said: "But these things have I spoken unto you, that when their hour is come, ye may remember them, how that I told you. And these things I said not unto you from the beginning, because I was with you." (John 16: 4.) One of the things that he urged upon me was to stay with the Gospel Advocate and manage it as best I could to the honor and glory of God, for he knew of no one else who would do it. He freely committed to me the performance of a difficult duty. I had been associated with him for over thirty-two years. His motives and efforts were so unselfish and looked so much to the elevation and happiness of the people that all must approve and indorse them. Perish the hand that writes these lines, rather than that I should fail to uphold the noble truths and principles which I learned from David Lipscomb, and which he learned from the Bible.

I must not forget the gentle, firm, and pure E. G. Sewell, who still lingers on this side with us. He has passed his ninety-second milestone. He is ready and awaits his Father's call. He is a regular and faithful attendant of the worship at the Russell Street church of Christ on Lord's-day morning. His chair is seldom vacant. Of course, he lives more in the past than in the present. I have often said, and I still believe, that Brother Sewell was more successful in attending to his own business than any other person with whom I ever associated. On one occasion when there was some misunderstanding about a transaction in which he, another, and I were involved, he came to me and said he knew the agreement they made with me, and he expected to live up to it. Be it said to his credit, he did live up to it. I want to record while he is living that I never knew him to fail to keep a promise. The world has few in it the equal in goodness and inoffensiveness of Brother Sewell.

It is needless to say that I have greatly missed the help, counsel, and encouragement of these two fearless and brave soldiers of the cross.

We are passing through perilous times. This is an age of quibbling and evil surmises. Preachers condemn their fellow preachers without cause. Christians judge hastily their fellow workers. Many are ready to strain out the gnat and swallow the camel. Formality crowds out the real and the sincere. Many people are living beyond their means in an effort to keep up with appearances. They repay social courtesies by giving entertainments more lavish than those which they have attended. Each fellow is racing to keep up with the other in the display of wealth. Like the scribes and Pharisees, people are self-important and are more in love with forms and the established order of things than they are with mercy and justice. William Jennings Bryan very appropriately says on the Bible-school lesson for December 17, "Jesus Among Friends and Foes:"

Lurking in the shadows of the story of this last year of the life of the Lord are the scheming, plotting, relentless enemies of the ecclesiastical established order. They wanted to entangle him in his words, and they wanted an excuse to destroy his life. Once a dinner host of the Master so far forgot himself as to sneer at the failure of Jesus to go through the customary ceremonial cleansing rites. Stung to answer, the gentle Guest replied: "Now ye the Pharisees cleanse the outside of the cup and of the platter; but your inward part is full of extortion and wickedness."

But woe unto you Pharisees! for ye tithe mint and rue and every herb, and pass over justice and the love of God: but these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone. Woe unto you Pharisees! for ye love the chief seats in the synagogues, and the salutations in the market places. Woe unto you! for ye are as the tombs which appear not, and the men that walk over them know it not."

Foes Christ had, and right manfully he dealt blows upon them. The commentators who depict Jesus as a weakling are simply uninformed. But all his foes were also foes of truth and justice and love. They were his enemies, not because of any defect in him, but because of his virtues. In a word, his enemies were also the enemies of human welfare and of God.

If Jesus had foes, so will his disciples have foes. Christ said to his disciples: "In the world ye have tribulation." (John 16: 33.) Soldiers of the cross know this, but they have peace in Christ. The strong disciple suffers more persecutions than the weakling. The man who stands by and sees God's teaching perverted without raising a protest is a coward, though he is not likely to be maligned and misrepresented. Error wants to be let alone and never criticizes the man who does not oppose it. The man who is afraid to expose error should look well to the condition of his heart.

It is well to inquire: Are we growing better with the passing years? Are we giving more for the spread of the gospel? Do we realize, if we have been prospered in this world's goods, that such prosperity brings an added responsibility? The Christian should keep his money in cir-culatation for the Lord. He should realize that the Lord has simply loaned it to him to use for the glory of God.

For the encouragement of those who love the truth and who have so faithfully coöperated with us in the work, we are glad to state that this journal will close the year with more subscribers than it did last year. During the last six months we have gained a thousand subscribers. During 1922 our Bible Lesson Helps have gained twenty-five per cent over 1921. This brings an added responsibility. Still greater gains should be made in 1923. We ask an interest in the prayers of all faithful Christians. In humility, sacrifice, and devotion we would serve the Master.

Brother Lee Jackson on the Word "Church," Once More.

BY M. C. K.

On page 1234 of this issue of the Gospel Advocate our readers will find another article from Brother Lee Jackson. A number of questions have been propounded to our brother which he has failed to answer. This is not the way to make controversy profitable. I do not think he can answer them without surrendering his theory that the term "church" (ecclesia, I mean), as used in the New Testament, never conveys the provincial or general sense; but, nevertheless, he ought to answer them, even if the answer demolishes his theory. I shall note the points which seem germane to the issue and give our brother another chance to answer some vital questions:

1. He says: "Brother Kurfees claims that all Christians, as God's people throughout a province, state, or kingdom, may be scripturally referred to as the 'church of Christ' in such province, state, or kingdom. This is what is denied." And the reason why "Brother Kurfees claims that" is because that is what the New Testament says God's people are. Now, please answer this question: Are not God's people "throughout a province, state, or kingdom" God's ecclesia throughout that territory? I respectfully insist that this question be answered categorically. Moreover, no matter with what comment it may be followed—our brother can determine this for himself—I insist that it be answered yes or no, and then he can comment as he may like.

2. Referring to me, he asks: "Why does he not say 'congregation of Christ' in Tennessee or Kentucky, as the case may be?" Because the Latin word "congregation" does not accurately and fully represent the Greek word "ecclesia." That is exactly the reason why. I do not hesitate to speak of "the ecclesia of Christ in Tennessee or Kentucky," just as the New Testament uses it in Acts 9: 31, saying "the church [ecclesia] throughout all Judea and Galilee and Samaria had peace." The word "congregation" only partly translates the word "ecclesia."

3. Speaking of this term, he says: "The idea of something more than 'congregation' is certain to be conveyed every time this word is applied to Christians throughout the territory of a state." Certainly so, because "the idea of something more than 'congregation'" is in the word ecclesia. "Congregation" is chiefly used in current English to mean "an assembly of persons, especially one meeting for religious worship and instruction;" and while the word ecclesia includes this sense, it is broader than that and means all of God's people wherever they are in the whole world, whether they are assembled or met together somewhere or not.

4. He says: "All Christians are one in Christ, but they are not all in one 'church' or congregation." Why did he here use "congregation" as an alternate of the word "church?" Of course, it is because "congregation" is "ecclesia" only in a special sense. Leaving off his alternate, here is what he says: "All Christians are one in Christ, but they are not all in one 'church.'" He seems here to feel that only in a special sense, the local sense, can "congregation" be used alternately with "church" or "ecclesia," and this is true in the current usage of the term; whereas God's people are God's ecclesia wherever they are, whether in a province, state, nation, or the whole world.

5. Yes, "in 1 Cor. 12: 13 Brother Kurfees thinks he has a passage which teaches that all are baptized into one 'church,'" and he is sorry that Brother Jackson does not agree with him. Paul there says we are "all baptized into one body," and yet Brother Jackson says: "There is nothing there said about being baptized into anything as a 'church.'" What is that? "Nothing there said about being baptized into anything as a church" (?) when Paul distinctly says the "one body" is the church? Listen to this: "The church, which is his body." (Eph. 1: 22, 23.) "He is the head of the body, the church." (Col. 1: 18.) "For his body's sake, which is the church." (Col. 1: 24.) Thus, Paul says we are "baptized into one body," and that this one body is "the church;" yet Brother Jackson says "nothing there is said about being baptized into anything as a church!" Why not, when Paul says we are baptized into one body" and that this one body is the church? I think our readers will here unanimously agree that our brother should abandon his theory.

6. When Paul says, "All the members of the body, being many, are one body" (1 Cor. 12: 12), Brother Jackson says "the reference is to the human body." What if it is, when in the very next verse, the thirteenth, he says we are "all baptized into one body," where "body" does not mean "the human body," but the church of Christ? If the "one body" here does not mean the one church in the general sense, will Brother Jackson please tell us what and where the one body was into which Paul was baptized in Damascus and the Corinthians in Corinth? Paul says they were "all baptized into one body." What and where was that one body?

7. Finally, in our issue of November 16, 1922, our brother appealed to David Lipscomb's writings for support. I think I showed in the same issue that the venerable editor's language merely denied that there was anything in the New Testament to support the "provincial and state church ideas" in the sense of "a general organization in a province or state," but that it did "not mean that the church does not exist in the general sense in such province or state, as well as in the local sense." Now, I am prepared to put this point beyond dispute. In the Gospel Advocate, July 23, 1914, in response to a request from Brother F. W. Smith, who was then discussing this very issue with John T. Oakley, asking Brother Lipscomb to give him a written statement to be used in the discussion, the venerable Lipscomb wrote: "I believe that the Bible recognizes that there is a universal church, having material manifestation only where members of this universal church meet to worship." Now, that certainly settles it as to where Brother Lipscomb stood. He not only categorically declares that "there is a universal church" recognized in the Bible, but that Christians are "members of this universal church." He did not believe, and neither do I believe, that this "universal church" functions in any "material manifestation" at all except in the local church, but he did believe and taught that it exists.

Now our brother is not only confronted by the fact that his own witness supports my contention, but he is also confronted by the obligation to tell us what and where was the "one body" into which Paul was baptized in Damascus and the Corinthians in Corinth.

If one will resolve to make the most out of himself, he will find that he has undertaken a job limitless in joy and possibilities.—Selected.

The Proper Estimate of Things.

BY F. W. SMITH.

The duties of man growing out of the different and many relations he sustains in this life cannot be properly appreciated without the right estimate of these relations. What may or should deeply concern one person may be of no special interest to another because of the different attitudes they sustain to that person or thing. In one of the depots in Washington a woman clad in mourning would walk to a certain spot in the floor of the building, before which she would kneel and then burst into tears. To another the brass star fixed in the floor had no special meaning, but to this woman it marked the spot where the one whom she loved dearer than life itself had been shot down by an assassin's bullet. The star marked the spot where President Garfield was shot, and that woman was his widow. The old, cracked bell sacredly kept in the Statehouse at Philadelphia, and known in all civilized lands as "Liberty Bell," has more significance to some than to others. Aside from the sweet music of freedom and the birth of a nation, it was so associated with one of my ancestors when it tolled out upon a listening world the fact of freedom that I have longed to look upon that precious relic. George Walton, one of the signers of the "Declaration of Independence," was my mother's grandfather; and when the old bell is mentioned, my mind naturally reverts to one of my paternal ancestors.

But it is more particularly the duties growing out of the relation God's children sustain to each other that I desire to emphasize in this article. The relation under consideration is the highest, most sacred and binding that we can sustain to mortals. It is true that the ties of flesh and blood, in many instances, are exceedingly strong, and when broken asunder the very heartstrings are made to bleed; but there are stronger and more binding ties than these, if we could only realize the fact and fully appreciate the relation. The spiritual ties that should bind the children of God are over and above those which grow out of flesh and blood, because they grow out of a spiritual relationship—the family of God, the household of faith. Their hearts should be knit together in a love that is heavenly. "That their hearts may be comforted, they being knit together in love." (Col. 2: 2.) This is a very strong and forceful expression denoting that spiritual kinship into which one enters on being born into the family of God. The word "knit" used in expressing that vital union existing between the children of God is, indeed, significant. A stronger or more forceful word could not have been used to convey this spiritual relationship. The Holy Spirit, in giving directions regarding doing good to mankind, places those of the household of faith first. "So then, as we have opportunity, let us work that which is good toward all men, and especially toward them that are of the household of the faith." (Gal. 6: 10.) Why this preference for the household of faith? Because of the sacred duties and obligations growing out of this higher and more sacred relationship. Christ said, when told that his mother and brethren stood without desiring to speak to him: "Who is my mother? and who are my brethren? And he stretched forth his hand toward his disciples, and said, Behold, my mother and my brethren! For whosoever shall do the will of my Father who is in heaven, he is my brother, and sister, and mother." (Matt. 12: 48-50.) Here are the two relationships brought side by side, and the Master intended to magnify the higher relation. He did not, of course, ignore his duty to his mother and brethren in the flesh; for even while suffering the pangs of the cross he seems to have committed his mother into the care and protection of his beloved disciple, John. "Then saith he to the disciples, Behold, thy mother!" (John 19: 27.) The interests of the kingdom of God and the spiritual welfare of his children are emphasized over and above all earthly ties or considerations. He saith to the disciple to whom he had given the commission to proclaim the kingdom of God, who wanted to go home and bury his father: "Follow me; and leave the dead to bury their dead." (Matt. 8: 22.) This shows that there are some things more important than even burying a dead relative. There were those dead in trespasses and in sins (Eph. 2: 1) who could bury those who were literally dead, while not every one could do the work Jesus had assigned to this disciple. The kingdom of God and the relations its subjects sustain to each other are the highest and most important in this world, and not anything should be permitted to hinder or in any way interfere with the duties growing out of these relations. Not until, however, we come to a full realization of these sacred and holy relations will we ever appreciate and be led to the full discharge of the duties and obligations which they impose.

Demas—His Sin.

BY H. LEO B.

Some characters in the Bible are clearly outlined, others are briefly described, and still others are just mentioned. Sometimes the Bible narrative is minute in detail; again, it only mentions salient points in its portraiture of character; and again, it gives one bold stroke which is impressive and significant. This seems to be the case in regard to Demas. I find him mentioned only three times in the New Testament, each time by Paul. He is first mentioned in Col. 4: 14 as saluting the church at Colosse with Luke. The second time he is mentioned is in Paul's short letter to Philemon (verse 24), where we have only a bare mention of the name "Demas" without any qualifying words. He is with Paul at Rome when this brief message is sent to Philemon. Paul was in prison at Rome at this time, and sends his salutation to Philemon, together with Epaphras, Mark, Aristarchus, Demas, and Luke. This puts Demas in good company—with the faithful friends of Paul and consecrated servants of the Lord Jesus Christ. He is always mentioned with Luke. At this time Demas seems to be sharing in the hardships of the other "fellow workers" of Paul, as well as the blessed companionship of the apostle to the Gentiles. The third and last mention that we have of Demas is in 2 Tim. 4: 9, 10, where Paul says to Timothy: "Give diligence to come shortly unto me: for Demas forsook me, having loved this present world, and went to Thessalonica." Many think that Paul was released from his "first imprisonment" and that he was incarcerated the second time, and that it was during his "second imprisonment" that he wrote the second letter to Timothy. This was his last letter, and it was written shortly before his martyrdom. The aged apostle is lonely. He says: "Only Luke is with me." This was Luke, the evangelist, who wrote Acts of the Apostles, and who was very much attached to Paul, and probably continued with him to the end.

Among the saddest words of tongue or pen is the word "forsaken." To be deserted, abandoned, left as though one is false and unworthy—it is hard to bear; but to be "forsaken" in the hour of greatest need by one in whom one has imposed trustful confidence is such a sore disappointment. Paul was under the sentence and condemnation of the enemies of the cross of Christ. He has grown old and gray in the service of our Lord; he has suffered much for the sake of Jesus; and now "the time of my departure is come." "Only Luke is with me." "Demas forsook me." To know that Luke stayed with Paul and gave him sympathetic ministry even to the last makes us admire Luke the more. It is noble in him to remain loyal to the great apostle through the fires of persecutions and pour freely the balm of Christian sympathy into his aching heart and support with heroic courage the aged apostle as he voluntarily places himself upon the altar of service and suffering for the Lord Jesus Christ. We are glad that Luke was with him. But "Demas forsook me." When Demas' attitude is put in contrast with Luke's, how wicked it seems! The brief and melancholy statement made of Demas is strikingly significant. He had been a companion of Paul; he knew Paul; he knew, at least, some of the hardships that Paul had suffered; he knew the self-denial that Paul had made; he knew the prayer life that Paul lived; he knew Paul's loyalty to his Lord; he knew Paul's faithfulness to the church of God; he knew Paul's purity of heart and consecration of life; he knew Paul's imprisonment and his present need of sympathy and companionship. Yet he forsook him.

If Paul had been unfaithful to Demas as a friend and brother, or if he had proved himself unworthy of confidence and unfit for association, we might look with less condemnation upon Demas for renouncing him in his present distressed condition. If Demas had found that Paul was a deceiver, or if he had tested the claims of Christ and discovered that they were false, or if he had detected that the whole system of Christianity was a colossal fraud and a hopeless failure, then we could excuse him for deserting Paul in this trying hour. But he had no evidence that Christ was an impostor or that Paul, his apostle, was a base deceiver or a fanatical dupe. No promise of Christ had failed, no blessing to the faithful had been withheld, no hope of the righteous had been blasted, and no principle had been demonstrated as false. The little "stone cut out of the mountain without hands" was rapidly filling the earth, the kingdom of God was spreading, the word of God was increasing and the "disciples multiplied in Jerusalem exceedingly," and "the churches were strengthened in the faith, and increased in numbers daily." Why, then, did Demas forsake Paul?

"Demas forsook me, having loved this present world." He could not stay with Paul and at the same time "love this present world." If he "loved this present world," he had to forsake Paul. "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon." (Matt. 6: 24.) He may have kept up a pretense for a while of "loving this present world" and being loyal to the Lord. If he holds to one, he will despise the other; he just "cannot serve God and mammon."

It was not cowardice or fear that caused Demas to forsake Paul; neither was it ignorance or superstition that moved him to abandon Christianity. He "loved this present world." How it must have pained Paul to pen this line! Yet the Holy Spirit guides him in writing it as a warning to others and for our instruction.

Demas' sin of forsaking Paul is the result of his "loving this present world." As dark as the crime of forsaking Paul is, there is the greater sin of "loving this present world." Demas first forsook the Lord in "loving this present world," and then forsook Paul.

Many students of the Bible think that the phrase, "having loved this present world," has reference to Judaism; that "he preferred Judaism to Christianity;" that "he loved the Jews and sought their welfare in preference to that of the Gentiles." However, it seems that this is too narrow for the force of the phrase. It may include that, but it involves more. John says: "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh and the lust of the eyes and the vainglory of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof; but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever." (1 John 2: 15-17.)

We can learn to forgive, where we learn also to believe humbly that we are ourselves forgiven. There is no other school than this, and no other teacher.—Robertson Nicoll.

"Rules for Debates and Religious Controversies."

BY S. H. HALL.

I saw, a few days ago, from the pen of one who signs himself as "H. L. S.," in the Christian Leader, something on the subject at the head of this article. It is so unmistakably true and needful that I wish to pass it on to the readers of the Gospel Advocate. Read it, and, as you read, think how a religious discussion would sound and look orally or in our papers if each disputant would conduct himself wholly by these scriptures.

"Which rules shall we use—Cushing's, Robert's, Hedge's, or Kerfoot's?"

None of them, though they may all be helpful for orderly form of procedure. But read the following rules from the only rule book that a Christian should acknowledge:

"A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another." (John 13: 34, and the following verses.)

"Beloved, let us love one another; for love is of God." (1 John 4: 7, 8.)

"Let love be without hypocrisy. . . . In love of the brethren be tenderly affectioned one to another." (Rom. 12: 9, 10; read the entire chapter.)

"Be ye all like-minded, compassionate, loving as brethren, tender-hearted, humble-minded." (1 Pet. 3: 8-11; compare John 15: 17; 1 Pet. 1: 22; 2: 17; 2 Pet. 1: 5-7; James 4: 11; 5: 9; Heb. 13: 1; Matt. 5: 44.)

"Brethren, even if a man be overtaken in any trespass, ye who are spiritual, restore such a one in a spirit of gentleness; looking to thyself, lest thou also be tempted." (Gal. 6: 1.)

"Every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment." (Matt. 12: 36, 37.)

"If there is therefore any exhortation in Christ, if any consolation of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any tender mercies and compassions, make full my joy, that ye be of the same mind, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind; doing nothing through faction or through vainglory." (Phil. 2: 1-3.)

"He that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord." (1 Cor. 1: 31.)

"Let no one glory in men." (1 Cor. 3: 21.)

"Whatsoever ye do, in word or in deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus." (Col. 3: 17; compare 1 Cor. 1: 29; 2 Cor. 10: 17; Gal. 6: 14.)

"O send out thy light and thy truth; let them lead me." (Ps. 43: 3.)

"If ye abide in my [Jesus Christ's] word, then are ye truly my disciples; and ye shall know the truth." (John 8: 31, 32.)

"Every scripture inspired of God is also profitable for reproof, for correction, for instruction which is in righteousness." (2 Tim. 3: 16, 17.)

"Shun foolish questionings, and genealogies, and strifes, and fightings about the law; for they are unprofitable and vain." (Tit. 3: 19; compare 1 Tim. 6: 20, 21; 2 Tim. 2: 16; Matt. 15: 8, 9.)

"Ye shall not add unto the word which I command you, neither shall ye diminish from it." (Deut. 4: 2; compare Deut. 12: 32; Rev. 22: 18, 19.)

Read the entire twelfth chapter of Romans and thirteenth of First Corinthians before writing or saying anything in a religious discussion or debate that might be mistaken for unloving words.

I will frankly admit that there are men who need to be rebuked "sharply," "whose mouths must be stopped." (See Tit. 1: 10, 13.) But may I ask if the scriptures suggested by our brother to govern brethren in the discussion of their differences are not getting "rusty" for lack of use? Watch brethren when they enter a discussion in the papers and out of the papers, and you will soon see what they have been doing during the years that are past; and I think your decision will be that they have not been growing much. "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit, than he that taketh a city." (Prov. 16: 32.) You will wonder if they have ever learned that this statement is in the Bible, or, if they have, how much respect they have for it. If a man cannot control himself, he had better let his tongue be silent and his pen idle, so far as controversy is concerned.

Home Reading

A Bar—A Door.

BY MATTIE MAE BOOTHE.

A bar to heaven—a door to hell;
Whoever named it, named it well.
A bar to manliness and wealth;
A door to want and broken health.
A bar to honor, pride, and fame;
A door to sin and grief and shame.
A bar to hope, a bar to prayer;
A door to darkness and despair.
A bar to honored, useful life;
A door to brawling, senseless strife.
A bar to all that's true and brave;
A door to every drunkard's grave.
A bar to joys that home imparts;
A door to tears and aching hearts.
A bar to heaven—a door to hell;
Whoever named it, named it well.

✱ ✱ ✱

The Broken Kite.

"Mother, what is to be my text for this week?" asked Willie Allen.

"Blessed are the peacemakers," answered his mother.

Willie looked a little surprised, as he asked: "Why did you choose that verse, mother?"

"Because I think you ought to practice it."

Willie kissed his mother, and, taking his new kite, started for the playground. It was a holiday, and some twenty kites were already in the air. Willie laid his down on the ground while he took a knot out of the tail.

Presently, loud words caught his ear, and he saw two boys standing over a broken kite, their angry faces and harsh tones showing that passion was raging in their hearts.

"It wasn't my fault! I didn't know it was there!"

"You did! You broke it on purpose!"

"Say that again, and I'll give you a licking!"

"Lick me! Just come on! I'm ready to be licked! Come and try it!"

Willie, kite in hand and a prayer in his heart, stepped between. "Stop a moment, boys! Maybe we can settle this without a fight."

"You keep out of the way."

"Dan, let me speak first, before you get to fighting."

"What do you want?" said Dan.

"Just tell me, is it about the kite that you're angry?"

"She was the best kite in the field, and Dick Bell has ruined her!" And again he clenched his fists and aimed a blow at Dick, which Willie caught on his right arm. It stung a little, but Willie only said: "Come, Dan, don't pound your friends! Now, look here, if you'll give this up—fighting I mean—you shall have my kite, which is a real 'high flyer,' and better than yours, I guess."

"Do you mean that you'll give it to me for nothing?"

"No; I'll give it to you for not fighting."

"But I don't see what business it is of yours if we choose to fight."

Willie's face flushed a little as he answered, earnestly: "My verse for this week is, 'Blessed are the peacemakers,' and I want to be one of those that Jesus blesses."

Dan stooped down over the broken kite, and appeared to be trying to fit the pieces together, but I am sure he was only thinking of Willie's words. Presently he looked up and said, in his usual tone: "Dick, did you really not do this on purpose?"

"No, Dan; I tell you the truth. I didn't know it was there, and I am sorry I broke it, and would have said so, if you hadn't got mad in such a hurry. If you'll tell me, I'll make you another exactly like it. I've got some capital paper at home."

"But this is Dan's now," said Willie, holding out his kite.

"No," said Dan; "I'm not quite so mean as that! Keep your kite, and I'll keep my temper. Shake hands, Dick! This is better than black eyes and bloody noses, isn't it?"

As they walked off together, sweetly to Willie's heart came his Master's approving words: "Blessed are the peacemakers."—Christian Leader.

✱ ✱ ✱

The Little Bird in the Birch Tree.

"Get up! Get up!" twittered a wee little, sweet little voice. Little Betsy popped her black eyes open and listened.

"Get up! Get up!"

Then Betsy hopped right out of her bed and ran over to the window and looked out. There sat a little bird in the birch tree and twittered: "Get up! Get up!"

Betsy got dressed very fast in a neat little blue frock and a blue hair ribbon and ran downstairs to breakfast. After breakfast she ran out of the big screen door, and Sally from next door came over with her doll to play on the green grass under the birch tree.

Betsy and Sally played and played with their dolls and their dolls' hammock and their dolls' swing and their dolls' beds and their dolls' go-cart. Then it began to get warm, and Betsy and Sally began to get cross.

"I want to wheel the go-cart," said Sally.

"No, I want to," said Betsy.

"I will," said Sally.

"You won't," said Betsy.

"Give up! Give up!" twittered a wee little, sweet little voice. Little Betsy popped her black eyes wide open and listened.

"Give up! Give up!" twittered the little bird in the birch tree.

Betsy began to smile and pushed the go-cart over to Sally. "You may wheel the go-cart," said Betsy; and they played happily together until Sally went home.

In the afternoon Betsy's father and mother had to go away and leave Betsy all alone under the birch tree, except for Mary in the kitchen. Betsy felt very lonesome and thought, "I wish they would take me with them," and a big tear rolled down her cheek.

"Cheer up! Cheer up!" twittered a wee little, sweet little voice. Betsy looked up at the little bird in the birch tree and laughed. Then she got her story book and read stories and was not lonesome any more. Pretty soon her father and mother came home and took Betsy riding in the red car, and she saw the blue sea and the white sands and the deep green woods.

And when it came to be Betsy's bedtime, she was so wide awake thinking about the sea and the sand and the fields that her black eyes would not shut up at all.

"Shut them up! Shut them up!" twittered a wee little, sweet little voice. Betsy knew without looking this time that it was the little bird in the birch tree twittering: "Shut them up! Shut them up!" And so little Betsy did.—Adapted from Emily Rose Burt, in Story-telling Time.

✱ ✱ ✱

Miss Margaret Slattery told us that one day she was walking along the street, when she heard a little voice say: "Hello, Miss Slattery!" She looked around, but saw no one. Again the little voice. She looked everywhere, but still saw no one. Then the little voice said: "Keep a-lookin' up, Miss Slattery!" She said: "I looked up, and up, and up, and finally saw her 'way up in a tenement house; and when I found her, she said: 'You didn't see me, Miss Slattery, because you didn't look high enough.'" Jesus took the little children up into his arms, and taught us not to look down for them any longer.—Selected.

The Other Side.

BY L. M. A.

If we'd place ourselves in the other's place,
 Could we know his grief and bear his pain,
 Could we know his trials and temptations,
 Would we be so eager to blame again?
 Would our words fall so carelessly,
 If we would try the other's side to see?

If we'd place ourselves in the other's place,
 How much less of heartache there'd be!
 How much better we would understand!
 And with what clearer vision we'd see
 The trials and faults and failures of another,
 If we'd place ourselves in the place of our brother!

If we'd place ourselves in the other's place,
 Could we read his heart as our own,
 Oft we would haste with a healing balm,
 Willing and eager to atone—
 Could we know the other's hidden woe
 As only the Searcher of hearts can know.

The Japanese Work and the Worker.

BY I. B. BRADLEY.

The report of the progress of the Passage Fund for Sister Sarah Andrews should have been made a week earlier, but pressure of many duties made it difficult to reach it when it ought to have been made; so I am coming a little bit late with this report. I am glad to report that funds in my hands are ample for all the expenses for her trip to Japan and to give her some for the beginning of her year's support. She is even now, at this writing (December 15), on her way to the Pacific Coast, making a few visits en route, expecting to reach Seattle, Wash., by December 23, and be ready to sail the next day. Her transportation has all been arranged and passport obtained, and by the time this reaches many of the readers she will be on her way across the great waters. She expects to arrive in Yokohama about January 10, and reach her field of labor in a day or two thereafter. Let every one pray for her safe arrival on the field and for the preservation of her health.

She spent a day and two nights in Birmingham, Ala.; two days in Huntsville, Ala.; and several days in Nashville, Tenn., where a rally was held at David Lipscomb College in her behalf on Sunday afternoon, December 10, which resulted in the addition of nearly five hundred dollars to the Home Fund. She will be with the saints in Memphis, Tenn., the Lord willing, next Lord's day, and with the worshipers at Harbert Avenue. She intends leaving there on Monday, December 18, for the port of Seattle, and spend a day and night in that city before embarking, December 24. The church in Huntsville held a reception for her during her short visit there, and I am informed by her brother-in-law, Brother T. B. Thompson, that it increased the already good interest in her work very largely. This church has shown quite a substantial interest in this work, and is one among the few that have promised a regular contribution to Sister Andrews' support. Ought not this to provoke others to do likewise? You certainly cannot assist a more worthy and devoted worker than she. She is making a great sacrifice to go to that far-away country to teach in the Master's cause. You and I cannot go, but we can have fellowship in the work by assisting her with our means.

Yes, she will need a regular, substantial, liberal support each month. She ought not to be asked, nor expected, to carry on her work with barely enough to meet expenses, but have ample means to meet all the requirements of the work. There are many things that must be paid for in work of that character that we do not have to meet in this country. Our sister has shown fine business judgment in her management of the money placed in her hands during the former term of service over there, and is very scrupulous in the use of "the Lord's money," as she regards it.

I am pleading, therefore, for a liberal support for her in this work. We ought to be more than glad to supply her with everything she needs for her own welfare and comfort, as well as for the expenses of the work.

There are nearly half a million loyal Christians, according to the United States government reports. Last year they gave about one dollar each—the average amount—for the work of missions. The Mormons gave nearly seventy dollars each; the Seventh-day Adventists gave nearly eighty dollars; and the Mennonites, a small religious body, gave more than one hundred dollars each to the work of missions. If these loyal Christians would give an average of one cent a day for the year 1923, it would furnish nearly five million dollars to be used in spreading the gospel. Instead of keeping something like twenty-five workers in the foreign fields, we could keep hundreds of them, as well as native helpers. It would keep three hundred workers, three hundred native helpers, build each one of them a nice home, and leave for schools, medical assistance, charity, and church buildings, about one-half million dollars. It is a shame, brethren, that the church of Christ has not done more and is yet only "touching the hem of the garment" in mission work. When will we awake to the great responsibility that is ours—to give the gospel to those that "sit in darkness and the shadow of death?" Can we afford to trifle with the Lord's work in this way any longer? What will the Master say to us when we meet the heathen of our day in the judgment, if we do not make a greater effort to give them "the bread of life?" They are holding out their hands in mute appeal to us. Shall we let their cries ascend into the ears of Jehovah and have made no effort to answer their cry? Let us awake and get to the work with might and main and help send workers to those who are ready to receive the truth.

Since last report I have received for the Passage Fund the sum of $231.81, making more than $700 in all. I have given to Sister Andrews $525, leaving the balance of more than $175 in bank for the beginning of her support for next year. For the Home Fund, since last report, I have received the sum of $506.83, making a total of $976.63, in bank, toward the home. This will be placed in a savings bank so as to draw interest until needed. In this report I have published no names, as so many have requested that their names be not published. Hereafter amounts only will be published, and no names. Personal acknowledgments will be made to contributors who give their names.

Send all funds for Sister Andrews to I. B. Bradley, 513 St. Charles Avenue, W. E., Birmingham, Ala.

SERMON OUTLINESA Book of One Hundred and Fifty New Sermon Outlines

Just the book for preachers, elders, deacons, Bible-class teachers, and others that take public part in church services.

The book has one hundred and fifty sermon outlines and a helpful supplement containing funeral texts, marriage ceremonies, forms for church letters, and Hedge's "Rules" for debate.

A good book to use in your Lord's-day services, prayer meetings, and young people's meetings. Let the leader announce the subject, hand slips of paper containing different sections of the outline to the members who are to take part in the next meeting, requesting them to make a talk or read the scriptural references on that section of the outline. Or, let the leader put the outline on the blackboard, omitting the scriptural references, then ask the congregation to supply the correct scriptural references at the next meeting, and give reasons why they selected these references.

Price, $1, postpaid. Address the Gospel Advocate Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Evangelistic Notes

"Season's Greetings" to all of the readers and friends of the Gospel Advocate!

If you should die to-night, where would you spend eternity?

J. S. Newman changes his address from Clifton, Texas, to Normangee, Texas.

H. W. Wrye passed through Nashville last week on his way to Killeen, Texas, to preach.

It is better to say a good thing about a bad fellow than to say a bad thing about a good fellow.

When church members stop following the world, the world will follow them. Try it one year and see.

The Bible is the end of all controversy in religion, except to people who want their way over God's way and to infidels.

D. E. Mason, of Tracy City, Tenn., made the Gospel Advocate office a pleasant call last week. He reports the church there doing well.

There is no such thing as failure to the man who will not fail. Wipe the word "fail" off your slate and blot it from your life's vocabulary.

A. C. Traylor, of Cannon Creek, Tenn., was a pleasant visitor to the Gospel Advocate office last week. The church there is at peace and doing fine, he reports.

If the Bible contradicts your religion, then your religion is wrong, world without end. I would be unworthy of the name of Christ if I did not tell you about it.

J. W. Dunn writes from Tyler, Texas, December 19: "At our midweek service on December 13 I baptized two. Three confessions on Sunday, who were baptized on Monday night."

Ira Wommack, Sulphur, Okla., writes: "We had two good services at Ardmore yesterday (December 17). One was baptized at the evening service. I will hold a meeting at Eola during Christmas week."

A. R. Hill, Charleston, Miss., writes: "The general outlook in this section is very promising. Some local conditions, however, are very unfavorable. Our prayer meetings are well attended and our Monday-afternoon Bible class is increasing both in attendance and interest."

G. A. Dunn writes from Dallas, Texas, December 19: "On Sunday night I closed a meeting at Hamlin, Texas. The church bought the digressives' house and lot while I was there in the meeting, so as to have a permanent home. Several fine people were baptized in the meeting."

W. R. Cox makes request as follows: "An evangelist is wanted in Jackson County, Ark., to devote his entire time to work in destitute places, and to be supported by the various congregations in the county. We want a man able to take care of the truth and who is loyal to New Testament teaching. If you are interested in this work, please write to W. R. Cox, Rammel, Ark., for full particulars."

C. H. Black, Nixon, Texas, writes, December 18: "I preached here on Saturday night, Sunday, and Sunday night. A few of us motored to Stockdale in the afternoon, and I spoke there. Texas Stephens was there for the day. I have not located yet for the year, but am still answering calls from Box 1013, Lockhart, Texas. The church at Nixon meets in the W. O. W. Hall. They are few, but faithful. Brethren, visit them when you can."

S. C. Garner writes from Bakersfield, Mo., December 18: "One of the four months of the present term of the County Line Bible School is now numbered with the past. We have students from five States. We are doing the best work in the history of the school. We are out on the farm and mostly supply our table at home, and, therefore, we are boarding and lodging the students at the dormitory at twelve dollars per month. We do not charge anything for the use of the library nor any tuition."

From E. E. Shoulders, New York City, December 17: "Regardless of the cold, wet, and disagreeable day, there was a splendid audience and a fine service at the hour of worship this afternoon. Almost every Sunday we have new faces in our audience. Brethren, we feel encouraged over our seeming small progress, and we are hoping and praying that God may turn your heart and interest toward our great work in this field, and that you will give it your much-needed support for the coming year."

From W. F. Lemmons, Little Rock, Ark., December 14: "The Montana meeting was a success. Upon my return from Montana, I preached for the Park Hill Church in Fort Smith. They are on the upgrade since the settlement of the church trouble a little over a month ago. We look for better things in the future. I have a meeting in Obion County, Tenn., next summer, and have time for more. I would like to hold some more meetings in Tennessee. Write me at Little Rock, Ark., General Delivery."

J. O. Barnes, Lake City, Fla., writes: "After spending six months on the east coast for the benefit of my wife's health and doing mission work, I am again at home in Lake City for an indefinite time. I hope to be able to do much work for the Master during the coming year. The work in Lake City is looking up. We had a fine day yesterday (December 17). Three services—regular worship in the forenoon, baptizing in the afternoon, and Bible study and prayer services at night; all well attended. We are encouraged to go forward with a greater determination to do 'greater things for God.' Brethren, let us go 'over the top' in 1923."

From C. A. Taylor, 417 West Market Street, Louisville, Ky.: "The Bardstown Road Church, of Louisville (formerly known as King's Hall congregation), is looking for a preacher to devote his entire time to our work. We have just finished paying indebtedness on our building and now feel that we can and should have a preacher all of his time. Our arrangement with John L. Rainey, who has been preaching for us two Sundays a month while in Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., has expired; and as he expects to continue his college work for quite a while, making it impossible for him to give us more of his time, we think the time has come when we should secure some one who can give our work his entire time. Brother Rainey heartily concurs in this judgment."

Will W. Slater, Beaumont, Texas, writes, December 18: "Yesterday was a fine day with us at South Park Church. We had the largest attendance we have had since my return to this work in October. Two additions at the morning service. We plan to enlarge our house soon, so we will be able to care for the increased attendance. W. D. Black, of Ozona, Texas, has just closed a fine meeting for the Northside Church. Three were baptized and several took membership. I assisted with the song service. It was a great meeting. Brother Black is a strong, forceful speaker and knows his lesson well. D. M. Fruzia is minister for the Northside Church. He has done a wonderful work, and his people were ready for the meeting. Interest is much better in South Texas than in years, so the brethren say. May the Lord bless his faithful."

C. A. Norred writes from Knoxville, Tenn., December 18: "Since last report I have established an appointment at the Southern Railway shops, where two thousand men are employed. I have twenty minutes there every Saturday noon. I also speak each Wednesday noon at the Producers' Marble Works. In these talks I try to preach the word in the plainest possible manner. The preaching seems to be well received. A goodly number of university students attend Lord's-day services. These students come from the churches throughout the State, and will evidently be active workers in the church in the future. The church is trying to extend them every encouragement, and I try to make every sermon count. There is a marked increase in attendance. We are receiving numerous additions. The work is interesting and encouraging."

Charles L. Talley, of Hopkinsville, Ky., writes: "Our meeting that began on December 3, with two sermons by N. B. Hardeman, of Henderson, Tenn., and was continued for ten days by myself, was a very decided success from many viewpoints. I think the work here is in a very much better way for accomplishing something than ever before. Our new church location brings the work before the people in a way that will work greatly to the interest of those that have fought the battle in the old way. The weather was very unfavorable, and the near approach of the Christmas season had its effect in keeping the minds of the people away from spiritual things. But notwithstanding these, our services were well attended, and the immediate results were that three persons confessed Christ and were baptized. We look forward to a decided improvement in both interest and attendance."

C. H. Woodroof, of Albany, Ala., reports the work there doing fine. He is in a meeting at Hohenwald, Tenn., this week.

J. S. Daugherty writes from Dublin, Texas, December 19: "Two splendid services here Sunday (December 17). We are pushing building program with all speed, trying to complete it before the holidays."

T. Crews, of Rogersville, Ala., reports the church there doing good work. He reports that the town of Rogersville needs a good physician—a Christian preferred. Any doctor desiring to change location should write to T. Crews, Rogersville, Ala.

J. Y. McQuigg writes from Abilene, Texas: "I was at Colorado last Lord's day, and it fell to me to talk to the faithful few, which I did to the best of my ability. I stressed particularly right living every day all along the way, and that Christianity means something in deed and in truth, if we but lived as God would have his children live."

"Thunder does not kill anything; so use more lighting and less thunder." The gospel of Christ is Heaven's "lightning," Heaven's "power," "God's power" to save men and women who believe it. (Rom. 1: 16.) Do not preach what you think so much, but tell the people what God thinks and says in his word. When your preacher ceases to preach what God thinks in religion, you had better part with your preacher.

From G. M. Pullias, Dallas, Texas, December 12: "E. A. Elam, of Nashville, Tenn., has just closed a week's meeting with the Oak Cliff congregation. Like all of Brother Elam's work, the preaching was of a high order. Many from the other congregations of the city and near-by towns attended the meeting. There were thirteen preachers present on Thanksgiving Day. We consider that much good was accomplished. The congregation is doing a splendid work and growing rapidly."

R. H. Johnson, of Morrillton, Ark., sends this report: "The meeting at Healing Springs, in Benton County, Ark., continued twelve days. Seven were baptized. This meeting was supported by the Cave Springs congregation and brethren near by. Some old people obeyed the gospel in this meeting. The meeting near Humphrey, Ark., closed on December 8. Nine were baptized, one was restored, and a congregation was set in order with twenty members. My protracted-meeting work is over for 1922, and I am ready to arrange work for 1923. I can fill appointments and hold meetings."

From A. R. Holton, president of Thorp Spring Christian College, Thorp Spring, Texas: "I have just returned from Houston, Texas, where the association of Texas colleges met on November 30. At this meeting we rejoiced to hear the chairman of the Classification Committee, Mr. J. P. Comer, of the Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas, read the name of Thorp Spring Christian College among the list of junior colleges of the first rank. This does not mean that a college is restricted in what it teaches, but it does mean that what they do teach must conform to certain standards. The faculty of Thorp Spring Christian College was never stronger, and is endeavoring to render every service possible to the end that our great student body shall be raised to a higher plane of Christian living."

From J. O. Golphene, Lambert, Montana, December 11: "I am at home at this writing. It is now twenty degrees below zero, and a blizzard has been in progress all day. Last month Brother Lemmons and I visited Moore and Buffalo, in this State. The people at Moore turned their backs on us, and we had to shake the snow from off our feet against that city. At Buffalo we had a good meeting. The brethren received us with joy. Brother Lemmons is now making an effort to place a missionary in the western part of this State. I truly hope he succeeds, for three hundred miles is none too close for true gospel preachers to be located. We have not half enough to build the house yet, and we are anxious to have the means to start the building in early spring. Surely there should be one house in this State belonging to the Lord. I have a daughter fifteen years old, who is a Christian, yet she has never been on the inside of a meetinghouse. Brethren, think on these things."

From Fred M. Little, Montgomery, Ala., December 20: "I am pleased to report that Theron Cottle, of Samson, Ala., writes that the little congregation is going forward with their building plans. They purpose to build a house of worship at an approximate cost of between fifteen hundred dollars and two thousand dollars. It is very commendable on the part of the Samson congregation to have the faith to put the cause of Christ in a creditable light in that community. Many small congregations are content to drag along in an uninviting and sometimes an uncomfortable place of worship. It is not to the credit of so great a cause to do so. With proper faith in God and respect for the church, any congregation, by sacrificing sufficiently, can have a becoming place in which to worship Jehovah. The congregations in South Alabama are waking up along this line. I now call to mind five churches that are either actually building or are preparing to build in the near future. With our coöperative work kept up, we expect to see more of such work done."

From A. H. Porterfield, Imboden, Ark., December 12: "The meetings at Melbourne and Guion are in the past. They were both good, and we had very large crowds throughout both meetings. The interest was high. At Melbourne we baptized three and restored one. Many were almost persuaded. I promised to hold their meeting next year. They are trying to arrange to have me move there and work the county next year. I would be glad to do that. This is the home of T. H. Sherrill, a very promising young man who is preparing himself to preach the gospel. He is one of the assistant teachers there, and means to reach the school at Morrillton as soon as possible. The people at Melbourne respect Brother Sherrill very highly. He rendered valuable service in the meeting. At Guion we baptized ten. Among the number was a Baptist preacher, W. A. Baker, who lives there. Brother Baker is a very promising young man, and wants to preach the gospel. With the proper encouragement, he will do much for the cause of Christ. He will be worth much to the church at Guion. I baptized him on Friday night about nine o'clock, and he came right out of the water and went to work. His influence means much. I promised to hold their meeting next year. I am going to a point near Lake City to-morrow. All is well."

J. L. Hines and the trustees of the church at Covington, Ky., send the following note for publication: "Two years ago about twelve brethren began meeting for New Testament worship in Covington, Ky. They were greatly handicapped because of local conditions, but with zeal for God and his church they pressed the battle, and to-day the membership is forty. Their only meeting place is on the third floor of the Moose Temple. The population of 'Greater Cincinnati' (including Covington, Ky.) is about half a million, but the church has not a single house of worship in this city, neither is there one within fifteen miles of Cincinnati. The prospects for a strong church after the New Testament order in Covington are good, but we must have some help from the brotherhood. We are not asking the churches of Christ elsewhere to do what we can do for ourselves, but we are only asking for two thousand dollars. We can buy a house well located, for seven thousand dollars, provided we act at once. We feel that we can, by much sacrifice, carry five thousand dollars ourselves and at the same time support an evangelist for half time. Will you please ask the church where you meet to contribute to this fund? The restrictive clause will be inserted in the deed. Send all money or checks to J. L. Hines, 2428 Jefferson Avenue, Norwood, Ohio."

From Jesse Beall, Chattanooga, Tenn., December 18: "The little band of colored disciples here seems to be 'full of faith and good works.' They meet regularly every Lord's day to study God's word and to partake of the emblems. Miss Annie Mea Turney, a devoted white Christian lady of the East Chattanooga congregation, is taking a great interest in them and is doing a great work with and for them. Our little band at Ridgedale is doing fine. We have received several new recruits lately, among them being Brother and Sister Stonestreet, who have recently moved from St. Elmo into their new home near us. Brother Stonestreet preached for us last Sunday night, with an encouraging audience. The teaching and attention were both fine. L. B. Jones, from Murfreesboro, will labor for and with us next year, beginning on the first Sunday in January. With the assistance which he will give us and the N. B. Harde-man meeting in June, we expect great things for Ridgedale next year. Let the Gospel Advocate continue to come. It has been a welcome visitor to our home for thirty odd years, and it seems to grow better as it grows older. Some good Christians seem to think that there is too much 'wrangling' in it, but I am inclined to think that the righteous 'wrangling' found in its columns has been the means of rescuing many precious souls from all kinds of 'isms' and 'schisms,' besides leading many poor, blind sinners from the world into the light of the precious gospel of our Lord. My constant prayer is that it may live and teach in the future as in the past."

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPIING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

BOOK OF COMFORT

Specially designed gift for the bereaved. Contains choicest gems of comfort from greatest writers. Each selection a masterpiece. Memorial record page for the deceased. Beautifully decorated. Flowers fade, but "consolation" may be cherished for years. Price $2.00, postpaid. Send to McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville Tenn.

PILES CURED

without cutting, or no pay. Write for my FREE Book on Rectal Troubles, or call without delay. Private reception rooms for ladies. Established since 1912. Free X-Ray examination.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Specialist

18½ N. Broad St.,
Atlanta, Ga.

TETTERINE

Ends Complexion Worries

Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant

50c at your druggist's or from the SHUP TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

W. W. PERRY
President

A. D. PERRY
Manager

W. D. PERRY
Treasurer

We Invite Your Patronage

PERRY FURNITURE COMPANY

GENERAL HOUSE FURNISHERS
Do Your Christmas Shopping with Us

Phone, Main 1491

208 THIRD AVENUE, NORTH
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Girls! Girls!! Save Your Hair With Cuticura

Soap and Ointment to clear Dandruff and itching, 25c. each. Samples free of Cuticura, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

Work in Montana.

BY W. F. LEMMONS.

I am back from my trip to Montana. Brother J. O. Golphenec, of Lambert, Montana, our missionary in the western end of the State, was with me. I found one loyal congregation on that end and preached for them ten days. They were hungry for the truth. There were no additions, but they were strengthened.

The immediate purpose of my trip was to establish a mission at Buffalo. This we have fully decided to do, and we have arranged with Brother James B. Redd, 2115 Park Avenue, St. Louis, to take charge of this work. He is an exsoldier and a former student of the Western Bible and Literary College, Odessa, Mo. He is known by Brethren J. C. McQuiddy, John T. Hinds, and others of prominence in the church. I have other evidences of his ability, as well as his high standing. He fills, as nearly as possible, the requirements mentioned in a former article. He is giving up a good-paying position with the largest wholesale grocery house in St. Louis to do this work for the Lord. To give up the comforts of life for the hardships of the Lord's work on that mission field is a great sacrifice. Where is the true Christian who would not stand by such men as Redd and Golphenec, who are willing to stay on that hard field while we enjoy the comforts of life?

Remember that the field that Brother Golphenec is in and Brother Redd's field are three hundred miles apart and not a church of Christ between. Therefore, contributions for Brother Golphenec should be sent to Lambert, Montana; for Brother Redd, to C. V. Barnhart, Buffalo, Montana. Brethren, do your level best for both of them. Keep the contributions going regularly every month, and all money will be reported to me. Brother Redd writes me "My heart is in Western Montana, and as soon as I can I want to go there. Tell the brethren through the press, or any other way you can, that I will go. It is up to them to send me. No man goeth a warfare at his own charges."

Both Brother Redd and Brother Golphenec have their own cars and are well equipped for the field in that respect. The field is ready for them. Everything is ready but the funds, and I hope that the funds will beat Brother Redd to the field.

There is no finer opening in the United States for the cause than in Montana and adjoining States. On the eastern end of the State, under Brother Golphenec's work, we have planted several churches since 1919, at which time we had but one. The seed has been sown at many places, and the possibilities for the future in that end of Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

JACOBS
&
COMPANY
SPECIAL ADVERTISING
AGENTS
PRINTERS DESIGNERS
PHOTOENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS
Catalogues
— a Specialty —
CLINTON, S.C.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, back-aches, women's aches, almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy CAPUDINE. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists—10c, 30c, 60c. Instant upon getting CAPUDINE the State are flattering. Let us keep them both busy, brethren; and we can do it if we will feed their families while they are out. Both are comparatively young men—about thirty-five years of age. They are full of zeal, and the few members are also zealous. They attend church and midweek Bible study when it is from twenty to forty degrees below zero, when they have to go on a sleigh. They are helping themselves all they are able, while Brother Golphenee preaches to the regions around.

The Church at Burkburnett, Tex.

We are rejoiced to speak of the successful work of the church here in 1922, and are sure the brethren will be glad to learn of the good done in the name of the Lord Jesus.

For some time the church here had not been doing much. The first of the year we decided to have a preacher come and labor with us; so we secured Brother D. S. Ligon, of Denton, Texas, to work with us during the year, and to say the effort made has been crowned with great success is but to speak the truth.

Before Brother Ligon came here we had only from five to twenty to meet for worship, and some of the older members say they have met with only two or three a few times; but now we have a houseful of people on Sundays to hear the preaching, and we have maintained a Wednesday-night meeting all the year, with good interest.

Brother Ligon has announced his decision to close his labors here the first of the year and look out for other fields of labor. We wish to say that he is a man of ability, able in the Scriptures, strong in the pulpit, and is an incessant and untiring worker in the Lord's vineyard. We shall remember him here for his work's sake. If any church is looking out for a preacher to assist them in building up the Master's cause, we recommend Brother Ligon as a man equal to the task and willing to work.

We are wanting a good preacher for another year. Write us.

T. W. Haymes, J. W. Jackson, W. L. Johnson, Elders; S. I. Wharton, H. M. Simpson, W. W. Jackson, Deacons.

Truth defensive hath lost her hold.
—Lowell.

SORES BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

WET FEET BRING COUGHS AND COLDS

Until entirely rid of a cough or cold, look out. They are a source of danger.

Just a few doses of Pe-ru-na taken soon after exposure or first manifestation of trouble will usually break a cold or dissipate in a hurry the most persistent cough.

TABLETS OR LIQUID

PE-RU-NA

The Well Known Emergency Remedy

Two generations have known PE-RU-NA and its astonishing success in the relief of catarrhal diseases. The proper medicine to have on hand for everyday ills.

SOLD EVERYWHERE

KEEP IT IN THE HOUSE

STATE BANK AND TRUST CO.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

BROADWAY BRANCH

Ninth and Broadway

4 Per Cent Interest Paid on Deposits

EXPERT DYEING AND DRY CLEANING

SEND BY PARCEL POST

"Over Forty Years"

Experience"

McEWEN'S LAUNDRY

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Cleveland, Ohio, Church of Christ

Temporary Meeting Place

VIRGINIA HALL

10601 Superior Avenue, N. E.

Bible Study, 9:30 A.M. Worship, 10:30 A.M.

Visiting Brethren Welcome.

A. L. HENDERSHOT

Phone

Broadway 2024-J

C. H. RANDOLPH

Phone

Eddy 6758-W

New York City Church of Christ

239 West Sixty-Ninth Street

Services: 2:30 P.M., Bible Study; 8:15 P.M. Preaching and Communion.

E. E. Shoulders, Evangelist, 699 Flatbush Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Phone, Flatbush 6857.

SICHEL STREET CHURCH OF CHRIST

Corner Sichel and Altura Streets, Los Angeles, Cal.

The Sichel Street Church, Los Angeles, Cal., being the oldest and strongest in Los Angeles County, extends to all visiting brethren and homeseekers a cordial invitation to unite with it. You will find its worship both apostolic and solemnly serious, as its membership consists of godly men and women who find no delight in the follies and frolics of modern ostentation. If you contemplate moving to or visiting Los Angeles, write E. C. Fuqua, 611 Howard Place, Pasadena, Cal. (Phone, Colorado 9342); or G. W. Riggs, 3319 Barbee Street, Los Angeles, Cal. (Phone, Lincoln 2583); or come direct to the church, corner Sichel and Altura Streets. Take North Broadway car and get off at Sichel Street, walk one block north; or take Griffin Avenue car and get off at Sichel Street and walk one block south.

Send us a new subscriber to the Gospel Advocate

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative it cannot gripe. It is in no sense a medicine. And like pure water it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

FRED K. JONES

Buying, Selling, and Exchanging
REAL ESTATE

I Make an Effort to Assist All
Who Call on Me

43 ARCADE

NASHVILLE, TENN.

ECZEMA IS CURABLE

Write me to-day, and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. Send no money—just write me—that is all you have to do. Address
DR. CANNADAY, 1225 Park Sq., Sedalia, Mo.

TETTERINE Drives Away Pimples

and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 60c at your druggist's or from the SHUPRENE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Field Reports

Wichita, Kan., December 12.—I would like to see more reports from this field in the Gospel Advocate. I preach regularly at Rose Hill and Peck, near here. At the former place R. C. Bell conducted meetings this fall, and Roy Bixler at the latter. Several baptisms at the one and ten at the other. Best of interest at each place. Meetings were held at Wichita by M. S. Mason; Mulvane, by W. L. Karnes; Belle Plaine, by J. B. Nelson. These were all good meetings and resulted in many new converts.—Clayton Gall.

Nashville, Tenn., December 15.—Recently I spent a pleasant Lord's day in Chattanooga, preaching by special invitation for the churches at Ridgedale, Cowart Street, and St. Elmo. Following the evening service at St. Elmo a fine young man was baptized. There were many evidences of spirituality and growth among these three congregations. On December 10 I preached for the church at Bardstown Road and Napoleon Boulevard, in Louisville, Ky. I found this little band to be in a happy and growing condition. They had just finished paying for their new meetinghouse.—A. B. Lipscomb.

Waynesboro, Tenn., December 10.—As I have not seen any report from this place in some time, I will give the readers of the Gospel Advocate an account of the small band that meets and worships "as it is written." We meet on Sunday morning for Bible lesson and songs. We have no regular preaching, as we live out twenty miles from any of the other brethren. Brother J. T. Harris, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., is engaged to hold a meeting for us next July. I think we have some as strong young people in the faith as I ever saw. We ask the prayers of all the brethren. I have a small farm to rent. If some good brother wants to locate here and will write me at the above address, I will give particulars.—L. P. Carroll.

Fort Smith, Ark., December 11.—Brother G. B. Harrell, now the evangelist with the Dotson Avenue Church, recently closed a meeting at Bonanza, Ark., with eight baptisms. Three congregations near Bonanza have begun meeting in a central place, and Brother Harrell will continue to aid them. He was with the church at Enterprise yesterday and baptized one, and began a meeting in Bloomer at night. Brother Harrell has baptized thirty-one since coming to Fort Smith on September 1. Brother Jones, formerly of Alabama, has located as evangelist with the church at Charleston, Ark. This gives much to brighten the future outlook. These brethren are giving their full time to needy fields.—R. L. Ludlam, Jr.

North Fort Worth, Texas, December 12.—I went to Stonewall County, Texas, one year ago last October. It is a mission field. There are a few brethren scattered over the county. At Swenson there is a good meetinghouse and a five-room bungalow belonging to the brethren. There are thirty or forty brethren there living out of duty. The brethren in the county want to locate a preacher at Swenson to do mission work in the county, and will be able to partially support him. There is a fine mission field there. From Stamford to Spur is eighty-six miles, with a number of adjoining counties north and south, and not a preacher actively engaged in the work, except in Stamford and Spur. If there is a loyal preacher who is looking for a new field of labor, he might write to Brother Jesse Messenger, at Swenson, Texas; Brother Clint Grantham, Swenson, Texas, Route 1, Box 21; Brother John May, Peacock, Texas; or the postmaster at Girard, Texas.—Ira Brumfield.

Rogers, Ark., December 5.—As the year 1922 draws to a close, we are thankful for the success which has crowned our efforts. I have been instrumental in bringing more than one hundred people into the fellowship of the Lord's people this year. Have had twenty-one additions here in the last two months. Four persons—two boys, a man and his wife—made the good confession last Sunday night. We are holding the following services weekly: Bible study, Sunday morning at 10 A.M.; preaching at 11 A.M.; communion and contribution at 11:45 A.M.; young people's Bible class, 6 P.M.; preaching, 7 P.M.; midweek Bible study, Wednesday, 7:30 P.M.; cottage services (wherever invited), Thursday evening; ladies' Bible class, Friday, 3 P.M.; children's Bible drill, 4 P.M. You can see we are busy; that is why we grow. We will soon be forced to add to our building to care for our audiences. We thank the Lord for an opportunity to work for his cause.—J. A. Cullum.

Montgomery, Ala., December 14.—The cause of Christ in the city of Montgomery moves along well. The three congregations of the city seem to be doing good work. The work that is being done by the co-operating churches is accomplishing material results. Brother W. T. Grider is the evangelist, and he reports additions in a meeting recently held at Jay, Fla., and six hun-

Great $2.00 Mystery Novel for 15c.

You Must Not Miss Reading "Suspense"—
The Most Exciting and Absorbing Story
Published in Years.

Washington, D. C.—(Special.)—You can see right through the plot of most stories, but "Suspense" will baffle you; it will hold you spellbound from start to finish and keep you guessing. This unusual story is by one of the most popular authors—Isabel Ostrander. It is original, thrilling, satisfying. The Pathfinder, in accord with its policy of giving the best in everything, will publish this great story as a serial complete in fifteen issues, starting December 16. This paper is chuck-full of just the kind of reading you want—unequaled digest of the world's news, including affairs at Washington; best stories you can find anywhere; stunts, tricks, and amusements for the children. You can get this splendid illustrated national home weekly on trial thirteen weeks for only fifteen cents, coin or stamps, including "Suspense." You can also order for your friends at 15 cents each; but send at once, so as not to miss start of new story. This offer costs the editor a lot of money, but he says it pays to invest in new friends. Address Pathfinder, 276 Langdon Station, Washington, D. C.

dred dollars raised for the purpose of building a house of worship. He is now in a meeting at Excel, Ala., where material is being put on the ground to build a house for the saints to worship in. Brother J. C. Mosley is going to Columbus, Ga. That is a great field. Only a few faithful members of the body of Christ in that city of nearly forty thousand people. Those who can should send a donation to R. W. Staggers, Box 933, Columbus, Ga., to support the cause in that city. Brother C. A. Buffington, of Fort Deposit, Ala., is wanting to correspond with an unmarried man with regard to taking up the work in Selma, Ala. Support is assured for that work. A man of ability and energy is needed. We hope to see great things accomplished in this section next year.—Fred M. Little.

The Work at Burkburnett, Tex.

BY D. S. LIGON.

I feel that a word concerning the Lord's work here in this oil town will be appreciated by the brotherhood at large. I came here the first of the year, and have been very busy in the work. When I came here, there were but a very few who met at all, even for the Lord's-day worship; perhaps only from five to twenty for communion, and no other meeting at all. But, thank the good Lord, the faithful few saw where they stood and what they were not doing, and they came to themselves and began to look out for a man to help them stir up the minds of those who had a good case of the "quits" and would not even attend the Lord's-day meeting. I visited them and preached once, and they decided to have me come and assist them in building up the church here. I came the first of the year, and soon the people got to coming to hear me preach, and soon we had a houseful on Sundays, both morning and evening. It is wonderful how the church has built up since I came here. The house needed repair for comfort and looks; so the brethren, having a mind to work, did this, expending more than nine hundred dollars on the building. Now, instead of some eight or ten to commune on Lord's days, we have some seventy-five or eighty each Lord's day, and then the many who come to hear the preaching give us a houseful of people at each service. Several have been baptized during the year. I have held two meetings here this year. The church here will be in need of some good preacher for another year, as I will close my labors with them the first of the year. Those who might be interested in the work here will do well to write to Dr. T. W. Haymes, senior elder. Any good preacher will have a good church to begin with, and one that will help him. If there is any church needing a preacher for next year, I shall be glad to visit such. I will close here on the fourth Sunday in December and can visit any church on the fifth Sunday. Brethren wanting me for summer meetings, debates, or work of any kind, should write me at once. Address me at 405 Ponder Avenue, Denton, Texas.

The grand old book of God still stands, and this old earth, the more its leaves are turned over and pondered, the more it will sustain and illustrate the sacred word.—Professor Dana.

Homes Furnished Complete

Terms to Suit Everybody

TELEPHONE, MAIN 1096

HILARY E. HOWSE

FURNITURE, CARPETS
STOVES AND RANGES

We Exchange Furniture as Part
Payment

304-306-308 BROADWAY

105-107-109 THIRD AVE., N.

Easy Now to Double Winter Egg Yield

Proven Remedy Gives Remarkable Results—Turns "Boarder" Hens Into Profitable Layers—

Winter egg yields, double and treble those of former years, are now being made by many poultrymen through the use of a compound that science has finally perfected.

This wonderful medicine, which is called "Hick's Egg-Lay," contains rare and expensive ingredients mixed so as to quickly increase the egg yield. The medicine acts on the reproductive organs and causes double and treble the usual number of ova (the germ cell of the egg) to be produced. Thus you get many more eggs and get them during the time they bring the highest prices.

Hick's Egg-Lay is prepared for convenience in tablet form. Simply dissolve one tablet in a quart of water. This is the surest, easiest and quickest way ever discovered to get more eggs.

A Trial Costs You Nothing

Mr. Hick is so confident that Hick's Egg-Lay Tablets will double and treble your egg yield that he is making a special guaranteed offer of one regular double strength $1.00 package of Egg-Lay Tablets and a full size $1.00 package of Hick's famous Lice-Go Tablets all for $1.00.

Lice-Go is added to the drinking water. The medicine taken into the system of the bird comes out through the oil glands of the skin and every louse or mite quickly leaves the body. Keeps the birds always free without the poultry raiser doing any work. If you would rather have two $1.00 packages of Egg-Lay Tablets or two $1.00 packages of Lice-Go instead of one of each, say so on your order. Send $1.00 today (currency, money order, check, etc.) to Chas. M. Hick & Company, Dept. 916, 1018 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois. If you prefer, send no money. Just your name and address and pay postman $1.00 and postage on delivery. If after thirty days trial, you are not absolutely satisfied, write Mr. Hick and your money will be refunded. This offer is absolutely guaranteed, so don't hesitate to make the test.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE AS A GIFT TO YOUR FRIENDS

Many good, liberal-hearted people, both men and women, give the Gospel Advocate to friends and relatives every year.

Why not send a year's subscription to the Gospel Advocate as a gift? Your friends will appreciate it, and you will be doing them and their families a real favor. The Gospel Advocate will go into their homes with a message of God's truth fifty-two times during the year. No other gift may prove such a blessing to them in time or in eternity. Send their names and addresses with your check, and the Gospel Advocate will be mailed to them. The subscription price is $2.00 per year. Send to

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY

317-319 Fifth Avenue, North

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Look to Your Eyes
Beautiful Eyes, like fine
Teeth, are the result of Constant
Care. The daily use of Murine
makes Eyes Clear and Radiant.
Enjoyable. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.

MURINE
FOR YOUR EYES

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

SOLD 50 YEARS — A FINE GENERAL TONIC

Is not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

BIBLE LESSON HELPS

PRICE REDUCTION

Effective January 1, 1923, we are reducing the Advanced Quarterly (64 pages) from 12 cents to 11 cents per quarter; the Intermediate Quarterly, from 6 cents to 5 cents per quarter; the Primary Quarterly, from 6 cents to 5 cents per quarter; little Bible Lesson Picture Cards, from 5 cents to 4 cents per quarter; Lesson Picture Charts, from $1.25 to $1.00 each.

Our subscribers will encourage us in our efforts to give them the lowest possible rates and help us to stand the reduction by increasing their orders for Bible Lesson Helps. We are appreciative of the patronage of all, and take this means of expressing our appreciation to all.

Date..... 192__

Please enter the following order to be sent to the address below:

Name

P. O.

County..... State.....

Remittance inclosed in payment of this order, $.....

-----ADVANCED QUARTERLY, 64 pages, @ 11 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter)

-----INTERMEDIATE QUARTERLY, 32 pages @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----PRIMARY QUARTERLY, 32 pages @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----LITTLE JEWELS (mailed quarterly) @ 12 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter)

-----THE YOUNG PEOPLE (mailed monthly) @ 15 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)
(Single Copy, 20c Per Quarter, 80c Per Year—Foreign, 30c Per Quarter, $1.00 Per Year)

-----LESSON LEAVES @ 5 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----SETS LESSON PICTURE CARDS @ 4 cents per quarter, $-----
(Five or More to One Address, Each)

-----LESSON PICTURE CHARTS @ $1.00 per quarter, $-----

-----CLASS BOOKS (7 cents each) @ 75 cents per dozen, $-----

-----SUNDAY-SCHOOL RECORD (for entire year) $2.50 per copy, $-----

-----COLLECTION ENVELOPES @ 75 cents per dozen, $-----

Total $-----

☛ Literature should be ordered to expire with the end of the quarters. Quarters begin January, April, July, and October; and expire March, June, September, and December.

☛ Remit by Post-Office Money Order, Bank Draft, Registered Letter, or Express Money Order, otherwise at the sender's risk.

CAREFULLY EXAMINE YOUR ORDER BEFORE MAILING

Cut Out Order Blank and Mail To-Day

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Commendations of Bible Lesson Helps.

"I am delighted with your Lesson Helps, and regard them as the best I have examined." (C. W. Thompson.)

"We have been using the Lesson Helps for fifteen years or more. I noticed the change, and, in my humble judgment, think it good." (W. G. Harrison.)

"I have received sample copies of your Lesson Helps and examined them. I pronounce them as good, so far as I can think, as can be made." (Ira C. Moore.)

"We are using your Sunday-school Lesson Helps at Fairfax church of Christ, this city, and think they are good. We have no criticism to offer." (M. P. Lowry.)

"I am glad to commend the Bible Lesson Helps issued by the Gospel Advocate Company. They cannot fail of being helpful to any church using them." (C. A. Norred.)

"The Quarterlies are fine. They should be a great help to the Bible student. I would be glad if Bible classes that do not now have them would take up their use." (R. P. Cuff.)

"Your Quarterlies just received and briefly examined. They show that much time and care have been exercised in their preparation. They are clear, scriptural, and to the point." (E. L. Whitaker.)

"I think the Quarterlies very instructive and helpful in the study of the Scriptures both in the home and in the public assembly, and it will give me pleasure to commend them to all the faithful workers in my field of labor." (J. D. Jones.)

"The Sunday-school literature that is published by the Gospel Advocate Company I can heartily recommend to any one who is in search for good helps on our Sunday-school lessons. Brethren Smith and Srygley are to be commended for their work." (Robert E. Wright.)

"A complete assortment of the Sunday-school literature published by the Gospel Advocate Company was sent me recently. Having examined it carefully, I am glad to say I consider it excellent, and gladly commend it to congregations, teachers, and classes." (T. B. Larimore.)

"Both churches where I preach (Louisville, Ky., and Cedar Springs, Jeffersonton, Ky.) use your literature. In addition to the Quarterlies, the Cedar Springs church uses quite a number of copies of the Young People. So far as I know, every one is pleased with the Quarterlies." (John L. Raincy.)

"I have received the sample copies of the Lesson Helps from the Gospel Advocate Company, and pronounce them safe, sound, and very edifying. All should get them and study them. It would be fine for even those of our brethren who oppose Sunday-school literature to look them over." (John M. Rice.)

"As a whole, I think your Lesson Helps far surpass other literature of its kind. Here in this great mission field (Louisiana) where we have placed them, many comparisons have been made between them and both the denominational and our society brethren's literature, and at no time have your Lesson Helps come off second best." (C. C. McQuiddy.)

"The sample copies of Bible Lesson Helps you sent me, with a request to examine and write my judgment of them, have been received and looked over. I have found these helps well received among the congregations where I have labored the past quarters of the year. I have found them up to the standard in scriptural teaching, well arranged, and well adapted to the various grades of students, so far as I am able to judge." (R. C. White.)

"I congratulate you upon your effort to improve the Bible Lesson Helps. The present quarter is simply excellent, and I think will meet the popular demand for the Sunday school and also for the home. There seems to be a growing demand for literature that will aid in the systematic study of the Bible, and a glance at these lessons will show that you have fully met the demand. Let us literally sow the world down with the gospel of Christ." (J. S. Peacock.)

"The sample copies of the Bible-school Quarterlies have been received and examined. Knowing Brother Smith and Brother Srygley as I do, having gone to school to the latter, I do not believe you could have made a better selection from the brotherhood to edit the Quarterlies; and I am sure that if they are judiciously used and not abused they will do good wherever they go. I heartily commend them to the brotherhood as sound and true to the Book of all books." (Thomas T. Pack.)

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

Read This Letter from Mrs.
W. S. Hughes

Greenville, Del.—“I was under the impression that my oldest daughter had some internal trouble as ever since the first time her sickness appeared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school once for a week. I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself so I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish, as I cannot say too much about what your medicine has done for me and for my daughter.”—Mrs. WM. S. HUGHES, Greenville, Delaware.

Mothers and oftentimes grandmothers have taken and have learned the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So they recommend the medicine to others.

The best test of any medicine is what it has done for others. For nearly fifty years we have published letters from mothers, daughters, and women, young and old, recommending the Vegetable Compound. They know what it did for them and are glad to tell others. In your own neighborhood are women who know of its great value.

Mother—daughters, why not try it?

For the HAIR—

To make it soft, fluffy, and free from dandruff, use

TETTERINE

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Quick Relief to BRONCHIAL SUFFERERS

Coughs, nasal and bronchial colds are relieved promptly by the vapor of Cresolene—the standard drugless treatment with forty years of successful use its guarantee. The most widely used remedy for whooping cough and spasmodic croup.

Introduced in 1879

Vapo-Cresolene.

“Used While You Sleep”

Send for descriptive booklet 43C. Sold by druggists Vapo-Cresolene Co., 62 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

DEEP-SEATED FRECKLES

Need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women for over 14 years, and rid yourself of these homely spots. Ask for

Othine--Double Strength

At all Druggists and Department Stores.

Notice of E. C. Fuqua's Work.

Brother E. C. Fuqua came to Los Angeles and began work with the church at Sichel and Altura Streets in March, 1922. Since then he has been exceedingly busy in California, trying to reach the greatest number with the truth. Aside from preaching regularly at the above church on Sunday and Sunday night, he is constantly holding meetings in the week days, preaching at night only, and in the daytime he is engaged in preaching through the press. Since undertaking work with the above church he has printed for free distribution more than one hundred thousand tracts on most vital subjects, thus reaching thousands of people who would, perhaps, never otherwise hear of the pure gospel of Christ. Brethren in California, chiefly the Sichel Street Church, helped him to procure a splendid modern press and other equipment for free-tract printing, and he is making good use of it, owning his own modest building and doing all his own work, and that without compensation, save what is given him for his services at the above-named church. Brethren could be a great help to the cause by lending their assistance to this tract work. With the press and equipment paid for, the principal need now is paper and ink. It is a great undertaking and should be fully encouraged by all.

Do not hesitate to send for tracts for free distribution. You can never tell how much good you may do by distributing the same.

Commending the Bible Lesson Helps.

BY GEORGE W. FARMER.

The congregation here has been using the Bible Lesson Helps as printed by the McQuiddy Printing Company ever since it was started. While there are a few members who oppose the use of any printed helps and will not use them, yet their opposition is so unfounded that we go on and use them, anyway, and we do not think of doing without them. We have two Bible classes for those who oppose the printed helps and for those who prefer to study the Bible by taking the chapters consecutively. But there is a great advantage in the printed helps. I have gone over the present helps carefully and find the explanations and comments to be fine, and I most certainly think that every congregation that is not using them is making a great mistake when it fails to provide these helps, or some other good, sound printed helps for its Bible study. Infinitely more can be learned about the Scriptures by using them than not to use them.

Poor Flour Bakes Poor Biscuits

Laboratories of the American Association of Baking Make Valuable Experiments

BAKING TECHNOLOGY, A Journal of Applied Science in Baking, devotes several pages of a recent issue to a visualized detailed analysis of 40 samples of so-called self-rising flours, purchased in various cities and towns throughout the southern states. After making a detailed showing on each individual sample, the question is summarized as follows:

Unsatisfactory Bakings.

The character of the flour used in self-rising flour as shown by these tests is unsuited for the production of a satisfactory appearance of the crust and a uniform color. The color of the crumb was in every case unsatisfactory, many being classed as dark gray while the character of the crumb was in general only fair. Of the flours examined less than half made biscuits with a satisfactory taste, all the others being either bitter, flat, or musty.

Self-Rising Flour Made from Poor Grade.

Since these samples, because of their varied sources and method of collection, may be considered representative, it would seem from the above study that self-rising flours are generally made from lower grade milling products than the types of flour commonly used in bread making, and frequently from grades which cannot be properly designated as flour without qualification; also that the leavening ingredients used are, as far as this investigation has shown, acid calcium phosphate and bicarbonate of soda (in three cases containing added calcium sulphate). It also appears that these ingredients are mixed with the flour under unstandardized conditions so that uniform products are not obtained in the great majority of cases.

Three Objects to Self-Raising Flour

The objection to the use of these flours is three-fold:

1st. That through a mistaken sense of economy and an appeal to his sloth, the user is led to purchase an inferior product at the same price which would purchase a higher grade of flour and a baking powder which together would produce a better result.

2nd. That the consumer of these so-called self-rising flours is using products which appear to be manufactured under not very carefully standardized conditions.

3rd. Instead of the nutritious yeast made loaf or carefully made biscuit marketed by the baker, the housewife using these so-called self-rising flours is obtaining a biscuit which is often both unattractive and unpalatable.—Baking Technology.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate, and send us a new subscriber.

NELSON COMPLETE CONCORDANCE

TO THE

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE

By M. C. HAZARD, Ph.D.

Editor Emeritus, Department of Educational Publications, Congregational Publishing Society

A concordance is an index to the words in the Bible designed to increase your knowledge of what the Bible contains by enabling you to find easily any word, verse, or subject in the Bible.

Price, - $5.00

the other. Take, for example, Abijah; there are ten of this name in the Bible. In your study it is necessary that you should find readily all the references to the particular person you are studying.

This new Concordance is also

A DICTIONARY OF PLACES

giving the meaning of the name of the place as well as a description, so that where there are two or more places of the same name you can easily distinguish one from the other.

The First Complete Concordance

to the

AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE

Contains about 300,000 references, arranged under 16,000 headings and subheadings; includes the Alternative Marginal Readings; gives the pronunciation and meaning of all proper names and places, with biographical and geographical information which make it serve as a Bible Dictionary as well as a Concordance.

While the American Standard Version of the Bible has been in use for many years and brief concordances for this version have been prepared from time to time, this new Concordance by Dr. M. C. Hazard is the first COMPLETE CONCORDANCE ever issued to this, the most accurate version of the Holy Scriptures in the English language.

Five years have been occupied in its completion, during which time the editor and publishers have had constantly in mind the problems of the Bible Student. Comparisons have been made with other concordances and numerous improvements have been introduced to make a work so accurate, so full, and so convenient that it will be an indispensable working tool in handling aright the word of truth.

Complete Concordance to the American Standard Bible

A GUIDEBOOK TO BIBLE STUDY

A very special and useful feature is the use of divisions. Where a word appears a number of times in different connections, subheadings are introduced under the main heading or key word. For example, the word Aaron occurs many times; with Moses, Children of Aaron, Aaron with sons; so that if the reader knows the connection he can find his subject without wading through columns of references.

This use of subdivisions, aside from its great convenience, furnishes a complete series of "Bible Readings" on the various subtopics. How valuable this may be is suggested by some of the subcaptions under God, as Almighty God, Angel of God, Ark of God, Children of God, Church of God, Servant of God, etc.

Another feature of this Concordance, which will commend itself to every Bible student, is the incorporation of the alternative Marginal Readings, which are frequently of great value in interpreting the text. These readings, as in the margin, are given in italics, and are designated by (m) placed immediately after the chapter and verse.

A BIBLE DICTIONARY

This new Concordance is not only a word-finder and index to the words in the Bible, but it is also

A DICTIONARY OF SCRIPTURE PROPER NAMES

giving the meaning of each name as well as a description of each person, so that where there are a number of the same name the reader can distinguish one from

ORDER BLANK

Date.....

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

Please send me NELSON CONCORDANCE TO THE AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE, for which I inclose ($5) five dollars.

NAME.....

ADDRESS.....

GOSPEL ADVOCATE COMPANY

317-319 FIFTH AVENUE, NORTH, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

INDEX TO VOLUME LXIV OF THE Gospel Advocate

AT HOME AND ABROAD.

Page 9, 32, 56, 80, 104, 128, 152, 176, 205, 225, 252, 273, 300, 320, 348, 372, 396, 424, 444, 472, 488, 520, 536, 560, 588, 608, 636.

CURRENT COMMENT.

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB.

Page 2, 26, 50, 86, 106.
Why the prejudice against doctrinal sermons, 123.
The substantial and essential part, 123.
Look to the pattern, 123.
On the wrong road, 158.
The new Pope and the Roman Catholic religion, 158.
Wherein Lincoln was great, 170.
Who is responsible for the isms? 170.
Was it armament or disarmament? 194.
When the lethal gas is turned on, 194.
China's ancestors and ours, 194.
Our greatest task, 194.
The bitter fruits of jealousy, 218.
Shall we rise above the low-level class? 242.
Calamity's lessons, 266.
Easier to start than to put out, 266.
What the firemen teach us, 266.
Plans for meetings, 302.
Estimating Gypsy Smith's revival, 302.
Stripe washing, 302.
The other side, 302.
Let us take our spiritual temperature, 314.
A manly statement, 314.
A pen picture of Florida, 344.
The pines and palm trees, 344.
Where words fail to describe, 344.
Florida's great need, 344.
"As ye go, preach," 368.
"I thank thee, Father," 368.
Bryan's faith in the Bible, 386.
Is the world growing better? 386.
Church at Ocala, Fla., gains ground, 426.
The "movies" and the saloon, 426.
It pays to pray, 442.
What it means to preach Jesus, 442.
Mirrors of Washington, 470.
The human side of Jesus, 470.
His humility and sympathy, 470.
Jesus' way with sinners, 470.
"Marse Henry's" wife, 494.
Fostering the militant spirit, 494.
The lure of brotherhood, 519.
Things that make the world a neighborhood, 519.
An aspiration for ages, 519.
The Christian brotherhood, 519.
Is baptism a "nonessential?" 730.
Would celebrate Pentecost, 730.
The American Standard Bible, 730.
Church federation, 730.
Union or disunion, 762.
Baptists help us—we help them, 762.
Respect for the law, 762.
Reading the Bible, 779.
The churches and war, 779.
Who is spiritual? 807.
When was Paul converted? 807.
Lots of people tell the truth, 857.
Unbelief, 857.
The responsibility is with the parents, 857.
Denouncing the war's legacy of hate, 881.

The spirit of religious compromise, 881.
Get the order right, 897.
Fifteen divorces an hour, 897.
All sinners alike, 973.
Idio-sin-crazy, 973.
How men are justified, 973.

CONTRIBUTORS.

Abernathy, W. N., When did the foot-washing take place? 1109.
Adamson, H. H., John Baptist—the man and the message, 1014.
Adkisson, Louela May, influence, 31; immortality, 127; "they say," 171; at Bethany, 317; a sinner's debate, 341; the supreme gift, 772.
Allen, James A., efficient organization, 29; the Hardeman-Pullias meeting, 148.
Allen, J. G., servants of God, 819; how it feels to be turned out of a church, 917; Christian growth and development, 940.
Andrews, Sarah, woman's work as a missionary, 222; indorsement of appeal made, 1037.
Atkisson, J. W., there is no Campbellite church, 3.
Barrett, A. B., Covington will be the center of the drive, 676; a placard, 797; the drive driven, 986.
"Billie, Uncle," singing, 798.
Boles, H. Leo, Abraham: God's seven-fold promise to him, 7; Abraham: God's covenant with him, 30; Abraham sojourns in Egypt, 103; the church treasurer, 124; a trip to Canada, 199; Abraham sojourns in Egypt (continued), 219; Abraham: God's covenant with him, 296; Abraham: the seal of his covenant, 366; Abraham, the friend of God, 411; trine immersion, 506; "studies in Christian stewardship," 773; the mission of the Gospel Advocate, 653; Cookeville, Tenn., 798; "consecration," 833; "hot shot" warmed over," 988; Walker-Hall discussion, 1036; the Sarah Andrews home fund, 1037; a new song book, 1085; the living message, 1240.
Book, Brother, a friendly letter from, 53.
Boyce, Samuel C., the creation declares the Creator, 892.
Bradley, I. B., behold now is the time, 1035; report of funds for Sarah Andrews' work, 1085; report of funds for the Japan work, 1133.
Brents, J. W., keep up the fight, Brother Srygley, 1233.
Brewer, G. C., retrospections and resolutions, 51; quiet talks on timely topics, 363; a letter from 833.
Brewer, Charles R., the world's great need, 867; soul insurance, 919.
Briney, J. B., Brother Smith's courteous rejoinder, 866; Brother Smith's wandering rejoinder, 938.
Brooker, H. F., a criticism of "Sunday school," 987.
Buchanan, C. A., the Cleburne (Texas) meeting, 487.
Bunner, A. A., "that he might seek a godly seed," 102.
Burt, T. Park, a bit of history, 1238.

Burton, Thomas H., report of, 195; news from the Palmetto State, 896.
Burton, A. M., Bible educational fund, 268.
Bush, J. W., M.D., "bear ye one another's burdens," 894.
By a Friend, a tribute, 615; some observations, 928.
Carter, W. H., another view, 149; getting things mixed, No. 1, 249; getting things mixed, No. 2, 318; church government, 339; should they know? 582; first principles, 651; more Baptist bunk, 941, 1190.
Cayce, M. C., report of, 195.
Chenault, D. B., the Campbell-Owen debate, 583.
Chessor, James E., the enormity of sin 99; the folly of the rich fool, 174; "he fell among robbers," 196; looking back, 247; the greatness of John the Baptist, 315; "and he was a Samaritan, 290; the blight of selfishness, 824; brief homilies, 844; Ephesus and first love, 1086; the high requirements of grace, 1153; was Job a person or a myth? 1187; bright prospects for Burritt College, 1212.
Craig, D. P., mission work, 482.
Crouch, C. D., making every lick count, 345; mission work, 1110.
Cuff, R. P., backsliding, 295; beat your own record, 463; is your faith fickle? 532; practical Christianity, 724; how inert are some churches! 819; the aim of education, 920; grieving by mistake, 1155.
Douthitt, I. A., reaping and sowing, 942.
Draper, D. F., Mrs., the greatest woman, 942.
Dunn, T. F., infidelity in our schools, 701; elders, 1036.
Dunn, G. A., Sr., too quick to believe and too slow to believe, 1015; commendation of "Hardeman Tabernacle Sermons," 1021.
Elam, E. A., Dr. Cleo C. Boles, 615.
Epperson, Clara Cox, a golden argosy, 315.
Evans, John D., Denver (Col.) Notes, 555, 725.
Ezell, J. Pettey, the banner month, 109.
Farmer, George W., the menace of sectarianism, 340.
Fleming, H. C., faith in the word, 150; relationship, 171; truth and error, 343; supreme power, 367; what of the morrow? 443; "what manner of man is this?" 534; whence our sorrows? 559; obedience, 582.
Flintoff, Attie M., reminiscence, 147.
Floyd, M. Jane, Christmas giving, 1213.
Freed, A. G., the fight is on, 749; this should interest you, 1213.
Freeman, W. W., religious freedom, 342.
Fry, John W., Tennessee Orphan Home, 248.
Fuqua, E. C., changing missionary fields, 146; report of E. C. Fuqua, 196.

- George, A. M., what we know and do not know, 920.
- Goodpasture, B. C., one who does not forget, 75; how long must we be faithful? 98; are the forces of righteousness holding their own? 146; "he is faithful that promised," 172; the danger of an unconfessed, unforgiven sin, 220; the Lordship of Jesus, 293; the peacemakers, 413; a scripture on giving (1 Cor. 16: 2), 580; Atlanta (Ga.) Notes, 271, 364, 464, 509, 605, 633, 677, 896.
- Hall, S. H., "a grand old man," 28; "the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees," 54; Nashville (Tenn.) Notes, 74, 126, 150, 172, 222, 245, 294, 317, 343, 364; a call to the thoughtful and unprejudiced, 198, 244, 723, 748, 774; Kurfees' review of Payne's book, 415; are we faithful? 438; please help the work in New York, 484; how Satan works, 486; Sister Mollie (Smith) Eaton, 511; "the end of the charge," 559; the work in Atlanta, Ga., 628; the leaven of the Pharisees, 654; to the friends of the Gospel Advocate, 699; please read this, 919; think on this, 939; a dark picture, 1038; the work at Savannah, Ga., 1116; read this and think, 1135; Jehovah's conception of what is good, 1156; more about Savannah, Ga., 1188; "rules for debates and religious controversies," 1245.
- Hall, W. Claude, God's promises, 843.
- Hardeman, N. B., not a hoof left behind, 771, 795, 822.
- Harden, J. H., "must an elder be inspired?" 1085.
- Hardin, Charles F., statistics, with comments, 1108.
- Harsh, Thankful Barry, motherhood, 391.
- Harris, Edward S., "the Golden Rule," 775.
- Hart, R. L., commending the young people, 701.
- Hinds, John T., "over the hill," 271.
- Hines, J. L., Christ and the church and war, 4.
- Hogg, Mrs. W. J., commending the young people, 701.
- Holt, C. E., good wishes for the Gospel Advocate, 31; the church of Christ at Town Creek, Ala., 54; Nashville's great meeting, 219; the "movies"—are they harmless? 292; concerning Mississippi, 392; Ham-Ramsey meeting in Florence, Ala., 630; "getting results," 674; a dangerous practice, 751; free literature, 794; an important matter, 1021.
- Hollis, J. C., is the confession essential to salvation? 633.
- Hudson, John Allen, the individual man, commonly called "the layman," 964; drawing out forces, 1062.
- Ishiguro, H., travels in Texas, Oklahoma, and Tennessee, 918.
- Jackson, Lee, lessons from the history of work in Mississippi, 268; suggestions to Brethren H. W. Jones and T. J. Marrs, 631; a letter from Brother Lee Jackson, 750; "church" or "churches"—which? 915; Brother Kurfees' teaching on the meaning of "church," 1082; study, 1154; Brother Kurfees and the use of the word "church," again, 1234.
- Jones, H. W., the way of salvation, 52; a biblical criticism, 291; "from faith unto faith" (Rom. 1), 390; has the kingdom of God been established on earth by Jesus Christ, or will it be in the future? 414, 438, 462; "information" forthcoming, 703.
- Kennett, P. C., in memoriam, 85.
- Kenley, R. O., conduct unbecoming a preacher of the gospel, 1189.
- King, Robert S., report of the treasurer of the church of Christ at the David Lipscomb College, 195; our missionary to Japan, 1015.
- Klingman, George A., a challenge to the church of Christ, 901.
- Klingman, John A., a gentleman, 75; "Lord, is it I?" 199.
- Lambert, O. C., is our light under a bushel? 604; if it is not commanded, is it safe? 651; is one church as good as another? 725; counterfeits, 821; how may I know the church of God? 847; "the simplicity that is in Christ," 916; what is success? 929; friendship, 966; queen of the home, 1012, 1107; "as a thief in the night," 1062.
- Larimore, T. B., Cookeville, Tenn., 965.
- Larimore, Emma P., church house secured for colored people, 200.
- L. E. J., Diotrophes and Moses, 991.
- Lee, Floyd S., Los Angeles (Cal.) notes, 52, 100, 244.
- Lemmons, W. F., settling our troubles at home, 750.
- Lipscomb, D., seeing things as God sees them, 1105; a humiliating confession, 1130; our duties, 1185; apostasy of churches, 1210.
- Little, Fred M., just common sense, 675.
- Love, Ernest C., observations on singing, 27; among the "Hoosiers," 77; then and now, 100; field notes, 151, 171, 198, 220, 248, 267, 294, 319, 365, 389, 416, 436, 460, 484, 508, 532, 556, 605, 629, 652, 677; the same error, 246; popery, 270; the Pigue-Clark debate, 366; Moodyism, 459; "lest we forget," 507; "A Mann as is a man," 555; getting results, 579; the J. A. Harding I knew, 627; "the kingdom come," 702; "the harm in it," 746; free Bible school, 1063.
- Malphurs, J. G., to and fro among the churches, 918.
- Marrs, T. J., has the kingdom of God been established on earth by Jesus Christ, or will it be in the future? 510, 534, 558; reply to Brother Lee Jackson, 726.
- Martin, Adelia S., one touch of the divine, 8; night and morning, 558.
- Martin, T. Q., an open letter to the congregations in Nashville, 148.
- Miller, W. Edgar, Los Angeles (Cal.) notes, 317, 392, 416, 463, 509, 556, 606, 632, 702, 795, 845, 916, 1087, 1110, 1213, 1237.
- Morrow, S. F., "go," 894.
- Moore, H. R., history of Old Salem Church, 962.
- Moser, K. C., some questions from, 796; disarmament of the nations, 1188.
- McCasland, S. V., the Christian and his daily bread, 434; the price of life, 631.
- McGary, A., faults, whys and wherefores, 1107.
- Norred, C. A., conscience, 482; denominationalism, 842.
- Paisley, F. L., God is a jealous God, No. 1, 530; No. 2, 578; when the Lord was King, 598.
- Paisley, J. Oscar, walking by faith, 1014.
- Phillips, T. W., the eldership, 76; James Sterling Dunn is dead, 159; an earnest appeal, 234.
- Poarch, Mrs. T. L., the old year and the new, 30.
- Powell, C. T., "consider your ways," 1235.
- R. R., the power of falsehood, 1081.
- Riggs, G. W., directory for day's work, 338; the partisan spirit, 387.
- Riggs, Harvey W., the eyes of the world, 1133.
- Rightsell, L. T., positive preaching, 365.
- Ritchie, Andy T., who is to blame? 868.
- Robinson, Roy, the conqueror, 486.
- Scobey, James E., the integrity of God's word, 6; the wiles of the devil, 362; the works of the flesh, 412; conscience, 602; things that corrupt the church, 626; annual visit to Bethlehem Church, 747; hindrances to Christian living, 846; other hindrances to Christian living, 869.
- Scott, Harvey, Christian duty, No. 1, 388.
- Sewell, C. W., "when was Paul converted?" 963.
- Sours, B. F. M., upon the heights, 510.
- Shoulders, E. E., New York City Mission, 1238.
- Smith, F. W., the passing of a useful man, 173.
- Smith, T. M., gospel meetings at Valdosta, Ga., 471.
- Srygley, F. B., "husbands," 603; a more aggressive fight, 700; liberty in Christ, 726; the debate is over, 749; the annual convention, 798; the question of war reconsidered, 820; the Lord's supper, 866; "the poor have the gospel preached to them," 893; does the explanation explain? 940; that convention again, 990; what we have seen, 1010; a belated explanation, 1038; will the committees meet? 1060; Ashland City debate and debates in general, 1083; would it have been better? 1106; the report of the Ashland City debate, 1134; that one-sided debate, 1158; rightly dividing the word of truth, 1186; more about a debate, 1214; "conduct unbecoming a preacher of the gospel," 1236.
- Stanfill, Mrs. J. T., if we only understood, 267; faith in the word, 364; our Shepherd leads gently, 532.
- Stirling, W. T., is there room for compromise? 6.
- Stivers, B. F., Gast and Srygley debate, 712.
- Stubblefield, C. M., commending "Hardeman's Tabernacle Sermons," 1237.
- Taylor, Mrs. J. Dudley, reading the Bible, 340.
- Templeton, S. E., how are sinners saved? 243.
- Tenney, Arthur B., Christians obey civil laws, 483.
- Thompson, David, the talents, 870; Hardeman's "Tabernacle Sermons" commended, 1087; Jonah, 1130.
- Traylor, J. V. Armstrong, the gospel, 1012.
- Walker, N. L., a letter from an old reader, 124.
- Walker, Will E., concerning personalities, 201.
- White, R. C., letter of commendation, 1239.
- Whiteside, R. L., the Hutson (Ark.) debate, 1215.
- Whitfield, S., Jesus our example, 1210.
- Williams, John R., notes from West Tennessee, 410, 436, 460, 508, 531, 583, 606, 632, 653, 674, 723, 747, 775, 825, 844, 868, 917, 1013, 1190, 1211, 1240; the Lord's cotton patch, 725.
- Wilkinson, U. G., "higher education," 1131.
- Winterrowd, Ira L., Christian education, 842.

Witty, S. E., and Wright, R. E., Los Angeles (Cal.) notes, 341.
Witty, Claude F., parental anxiety, 1035.
Young, W. W., the Lord's supper, 339.

CONTRIBUTORS.

NARROW COLUMN.

A. L. M., the other side, 1247.
Armstrong, J. N., roll of students of J. A. Harding, 933.
Abernathy, W. N., our deficient eldership, 882.
Allen, J. G., How should Christians treat calls for help to build meetinghouses? 309.
Andrews, Sarah, eighteen months in the home land, 976.
Atkisson, J. W., God's converting power, 377; are you led by the Spirit? 954.
Baker, Frank, a visit to Columbus, Miss., 23.
Barnes, Mollie Roark, the West Palm Beach work, 1052.
Barnes, J. O., church work in Miami, Fla., 597; fighting the "movies," 642; mission work in Miami, Fla., 689.
Barnette, Carl, report for 1921, 68; a letter to F. W. Smith, 575; fraternal manifestations, 743.
Baxley, A. B., work in Chilton County, Ala., 1178.
Beasley, W. T., Beasley-Nunnery debate, 377; the great commission, 1030.
Beck, J. Bedford, gospel work in Georgia, 261.
Billingsley, O. E., report of a debate, 90.
Bradley, J. R., report for 1921, 162.
Bills, W. D., Rom. 12: 1, 375.
Bradley, I. B., an urgent appeal for mission fund, 1006; the Japanese work and the worker, 1247.
Brown, A. C., consistency, 1175.
Buchanan, C. A., discussion with the Adventists, 695.
Burton, Thomas H., letter from the Palmetto State, 18; notes from South Carolina, 451; a call from the Palmetto State, 694.
Bunner, A. A., mission work in Cleveland, O., 210; Cleveland (Ohio) as a mission field, 286; the dead yet speak, 864; an urgent call, 888; further comment on 2 Cor. 6: 14, 1100; how the matter stands, 1125.
Cameron, W. D., the work in Denison, Texas, 191.
Carney, T. M., words of commendation, 1073.
Carter, W. H., a good woman called, 20; more Baptist bunk, 860.
Cawthon, R. V., report of work for 1921, 140.
Cayce, Matthew C., annual report of work in Mississippi, 46.
Cockerell, Gertrude, adversity, 958.
Colson, S. W., notes from Florida, 834.
Colley, A. O., is instrumental music scriptural? 429; reply to O. E. Payne's open letter to A. O. Colley, "instrumental music, again," 786; history of Clarendon church, 960; Colley-Tyndall debate, 1101.
Copeland, Joe, are you washed in the blood? 594.
Croon, A. S., Arkansas Christian College, 669.
Cullum, Will J., East Tennessee conditions, 95.
Cypert, Lillie, back home from Japan, 790.
Daniel, E. W., an announcement, 835.
Daniels, J. H., the works of the flesh, 570.

Davis, B. W., the vanity of youth, 1232.
Derryberry, J. D., report of work for 1921, 118.
Dorris, C. E. W., the cause at Clarksville, Tenn., 381.
Drake, S. R., as to preaching the gospel, 978; doctrinal preaching (1 Tim. 4: 16), 1179.
Dunn, T. F., religious papers, 1208.
Elkins, Tice, the great commission, 1099.
Ellmore, A., wheat and chaff, 17; lesson to young parents, 1029.
Epperson, Clara Cox, a correction, 936.
Evans, John D., Denver (Col.) notes, 166.
Farmer, George W., an urgent need, 550; from East Tennessee, 212, 376, 375, 480, 690, 1076; meeting at Cleveland, Tenn., 1050; commending the Bible lesson helps, 1255.
Fleming, H. C., a preacher's advice after separation, 201; in the days of Noah, 384; some past facts, some yet to be, 504.
Fonner, F. B., the fellowship, 479; proposed solution of all difficulties, 548; Christian motherhood, 574; statement to the brotherhood, 600; Brother Grump, 935.
Fox, T. C., an appeal for Natchez, Miss., 1204.
Freed, A. G., Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tenn., 717.
Freeman, W. W., Fannie Stout Jean, 738.
Fuqua, E. C., Colorado notes, 211; lined up for work in California, 456; preaching and printing the gospel, 646; California activities, 1069.
Gardner, O. W., the Pacific Christian Academy, 1225.
Gardner, R. N., Croft Academy, 810.
George, A. M., the first resurrection, 863.
Graham, John C., old Rock Creek church, 785.
Grant, J. W., letter from Lakeland, Fla., 39; Brother Yohannan's "bad condition," 404; word from Brother Yohannan, 598, 1205.
Graydon, Julia, Ezekiel speaking today, 1151.
Hall, Flavil, success and failure, 862.
Hardin, Charles F., in memory of Matthew C. Cayce, 455; a great opportunity, 500; commendation of article, 930.
Harding, B. F., religious interest at Florence, Ala., 550.
Hayes, John, expression of thanks, 451.
Hines, W. T., "I can't," 621; Colley-Tyndall debate, 1026.
Hines, J. L., "on with the dance," 383; the Covington-Cincinnati work, 1051, 1076; meeting upon the first day of every week, 1124; that "new church" at Covington, Tenn., 1146; the Covington work growing, 1231.
Hodges, Oswald L., the work of the Lord in Saskatchewan, 858.
Hodson, Earl M., an appeal for missions, 474.
Horton, J. H., the debate at Russellville, Ala., 232.
Hunter, Willie, doing mission work, 931.
Hull, Helen F., call of the church at Hustburg, Tenn., 1227.
Jeffcoat, H. D., the work in Mississippi, 138; M. C. Cayce's work in Mississippi, 428.

Jelley, E. S., news from India, 408; India missionary statistics, 718; a council of war regarding your mission, 763; our little girl gone home, 957; the good of missions, 1051.
Jent, S. P., new meetinghouse for Westmoreland, 234.
Johnson, R. H., Johnson-Dixon debate, 162; notes from Arkansas, 283.
Keeble, M., evangelistic report, 1073.
Kenley, R. O., ku klux klan gifts, 1128.
King, Robert S., missionary work among the Japanese in America, 1103.
Kirby, H. L., appeal from Alabama, 1229.
Knight, Leland H., offenses, 714.
La Crone, C. W., the cause at Marshall, Texas, 719.
Laird, James E., a Christmas gift, 1229.
Langpaap, Max, a letter from Honolulu, 216; Honolulu news, 376; a special plea, 814.
Lemmons, W. F., a home for old preachers, 620; "let us build this house," 643; the Montana work, 1121; work in Montana, 1250.
Ligon, D. S., the work at Burkburnett, Texas, 1253.
Little, Fred M., morals of the moving-picture show, 666.
Long, W. S., tribute to Graham Eger-ton, 452.
Love, Jesse F., another debate, 1204.
Malphurs, J. G., "thou shalt not covet," 288.
Merritt, C. C., mission work, 90.
Meyer, Jack, an appeal, 1031.
Miller, W. Edgar, Los Angeles (Cal.) notes, 237, 310.
Miller, William J., efficacy of the blood of Christ, 353.
Mills, E. L., financial report of work at Washington, D. C., 810.
Mills, G. F., Christ, the Redeemer, 358; tribute to a life companion, 886.
Moody, R. N., reply to an inquiry, 1224.
Moody, W. W., making progress in St. Louis, 213.
Moon, J. Weldon, the kingdom and its laws, 333.
Moore, J. H., California notes, 401.
Morehead, B. D., notes from Kentucky, 689.
Morrow, S. F., letter from Florida, 141; commendation and comment, 215; "to the friends of the Gospel Advocate," 791; the Fanning orphan school, 1074.
Morton, James H., growth of the church of Christ in Middle Tennessee, 1123.
McEwen, Alonzo, another congregation in Florida, 599.
Neal, R. B., "we want a few learned men and hosts of 'minutemen' for the masses," 402.
O'Neal, G. A., Harper (Kan.) College, 379.
Otey, L. C., an explanation, 1025.
Overby, Coleman, the coöperative meeting at Murray, Ky., 692.
Paisley, F. L., Taylor-Jones debate, 210; "for if God spared not," 624.
Paisley, J. Oscar, "walk by faith," 983.
Peden, John B., plan to establish an orphans' home, 312; Baptists and the Lord's supper, 381; orphans' home in Florida, 834.
Perkins, L. D., California news, 304, 549; meeting at Bakersfield, Cal., 692.
Perry, J. A., Sunbeams, 282.
Petty, C., "who hath saved us, and called us with a holy calling," 501.
Phillips, T. A., a call from Idaho, 691.

Phillips, H. M., evil hinders unity, 21; unity in the home, 69; unity in the congregation, 336; unity among papers, 382; unity among congregations, 784; how long forbear? 670; competing with denominations, 738; trying to persuade some, 887; why our singing often fails, 959; "in his name," 931; the popular preacher, 1007; the church should do its own work, 1078; righteousness, 1098; selecting a preacher, 1199; "as the manner of some is," 1230.

Pittman, S. P., tribute to Mrs. Emily E. Young, 240; John Marion Rountree, 597; Colorado, a great field, 1126.

Pitts, M. M., more about "they say," 286.

Pryor, P. I., the unity of the spirit, 355.

Rains, W. R., the power of man and false doctrine, 595.

Reeves, W. L., we do all see alike, 334; does Christ's kingdom now exist? 936.

Rightsell, L. T., the way of the cross, 792.

Ritchie, Andy T., tribute to a worthy man, 310.

Robinson, Roy, true religion, 471.

Rogers, H. A., report from Canada, 692; annual report, 1104; "stand fast," 1180.

Scobey, Fannie Sowell, tribute of love, 233.

Sears, L. D., Dean, changes in progress at Harper, Kan., 694.

Senseney, A. B., to mother, 861.

Sewell, Jesse P., Bible lecture week at Abilene Christian College, 161.

Shepherd, Frank B., mission work in South Africa, 305.

Shelnutt, W. L., the McMurry-Hart-graves debate, 859.

Shoulders, E. E., the meeting at Tabernacle, N. J., 477; New York City notes, 499, 620, 835; can the Lord depend on me? 715; the work in New York City, 910; New York City mission, 1008.

Sims, W. P., atonement, 22; echo of the Hardeman-Pullias meeting, 502.

Slater, Will W., the old year and the new, 40.

Sours, B. F. M., to the harvest, 619.

Smelser, M. E., Dobbs-Robinson debate, 67.

Smith, A. H., the foundation of the church, 600; blasphemy against the Holy Ghost, 741.

Smith, R. D., commendation of R. A. McCurry, 1178.

Smith, Jarratt L., true aims and false aims, 811.

Spears, S. M., Mrs., words of appreciation, 979.

Still, William W., why preach the gospel? 381.

Straiton, Nellie, Brother Ishiguro visiting churches, 65; missionary funds forwarded, 115, 1102; from Japan to the United States, 163; Miss Lillie Cypert, 285; Sister Lillie Cypert reaches home, 600; missionary news, 835.

Srygley, F. B., by way of remembrance, 1076.

Tant, J. D., my last trip, 23; serving and trusting the Lord, 119; our meeting at Berry, Ala., 163; work at Berry, Ala., 284; our Quitman meeting, 429; at home once more, 478; the Bible College at Berry, Ala., 621; mission meeting at Quitman, Ark., 792; one tent and five preachers wanted, 840; the strawberry meeting, 888; the fight is on at Quitman, 957; meeting at Liberty, Ark., 1005; who else will help? 1097.

Taylor, Mrs. J. Dudley, proverbs from an old scrapbook, 885.

Thompson, David, the Overbey-Crawford debate, 737; the work in Callo-way County, Ky., 955.

Thurman, A. F., who is to blame? 1027.

Traylor, J. V. Armstrong, can we stand? 1055; contrary winds, 1147.

Trice, W. Halliday, notes from the "Golden West," 63.

Tuggle, Annie C., getting the most out of life, 1075.

Vandemer, Lloyd C., Oliphant-Slapo debate, 689.

Wainwright, J. E., nourishing the body, 934.

Walker, Tim, encouraging words from Alabama, 186.

Watson, J. T. J., some thoughts suggested by a recent article, 359; more about the church, 1054.

Whitfield, S., worldliness, 330; contentment, 475; endure hardness, 524; a Christian life speaks for itself, 647; which side are you on? 1122.

Whitlow, Lee, the work at Lakeland, Fla., 335.

Wilkerson, U. G., "men's ideas as to the meaning of the word 'church,'" 70; a worthy brother in need, 1023.

Williams, John R., notes from West Tennessee, 48, 96, 120, 164, 190, 214, 261, 306, 378.

Wilson, W. M., sharing with others, 262.

Witt, Paul C., an interesting report, 787.

Witty, Claud F., "my cup runneth over," 1004.

Woodroof, C. H., looking backward, 94.

Wright, E. R., report of Norris-Gray debate, 695.

Wright, R. E., Los Angeles (Cal.) notes, 285.

X, confess your faults, 72.

EDITORIAL.

BY H. LEO BOLES.

Inspiration of the Holy Scriptures, 657.

Inspiration of the Old Testament Scriptures, 685.

"New Testament evangelism," 688.

Inspiration of the Old Testament as witnessed in the New Testament, 710.

Inspiration of the New Testament Scriptures, 735.

"Don't's" for writers, 736.

Diotrephes, ancient and modern, 783.

Evolution, 826.

Evolution—its limitations, 853.

Evolution and faith, 875.

Evolution and the Bible, 900.

Book reviews, 949.

Evolution and education, 971.

An appeal, 972.

Church discipline, 757.

Sinning against the Holy Spirit, 995.

Amusements, 1045.

E. G. Sewell, 1047.

Sellersburg, Ind., 1047.

Amusements or recreation, 1067.

The "movies" as recreation, 1092.

Amusements—dancing, 1114.

Recreation—the bathing beach, 1140.

Division—its causes, 1163; its curses, 1196; how healed, 1219.

Demas—his sin, 1244.

BY M. C. KURFEES.

"Is there room for compromise?" 11.

Making public thrusts at brethren, 35.

Review of O. E. Payne's book on "Psallo," 60, 81, 130, 178, 227, 274, 322.

Brother Flavil Hall insists on further explaining his ugly charge, 155.

The "movie" world and spirituality in the churches, 370.

Unreasonable and hurtful extremes, 419.

A baleful tendency hoary with age, 466.

The example of a faithful Christian man, 492.

The correction of a gross misrepresentation, 514.

A loyal Christian and a loyal church, 562.

A tribute to James A. Harding, 611.

Adding to and taking from the word of God, 660.

"In the interest of fair play," 709.

Questions growing out of denominational confusion, 802.

Reverence for the word of God, 851.

Questions on "Bible things by Bible names" and on "Christians in denominations," 898.

"Freewill offerings from 'outsiders,'" 948.

The term "church" as used in the New Testament, 755.

More on the New Testament senses of the term "church," 994.

The Christian standard and honorable controversy, 1044.

Brother Lee Jackson's misapprehension of the issue, 1090.

Questions concerning the New Testament use of the term "church," 1139.

Things revealed and practical in religion, 1194.

Brother Lee Jackson on the word "church," once more, 1243.

BY T. B. LARIMORE.

"Lost in transit," 997; Bellbuckle, Tenn., 1020; prayer, 1068.

BY J. C. McQUIDDY.

Management of the Gospel Advocate, 8.

Rightly dividing the truth, 10, 34.

A talk with our readers, 13.

The Lord's day, 58.

Church government, 107.

Mission work, 132.

The outlook is encouraging, 134.

Both the interest and list grow, 148.

Mission work—the order of going, 154.

Field editor, 173.

More about church government, 181.

"Review of O. E. Payne's book on 'Psallo,'" by M. C. Kurfees, 389.

Remember the orphan, 394.

Wanted—five thousand new subscribers, 395.

Divisions among Christians deplorable, 418.

Send us new subscribers, 421.

Advertisements, 448.

"The creed in the deed," 468.

God created the heavens and the earth, 490.

The interest is growing, 493.

Christ is divine, 513.

A statement, 557.

Obedience of faith, 538.

The feminist preacher, 563.

James A. Harding, 590.

The annual meeting, 592.

Marrying relatives, 612.

Encouraging results, 614.

Excessive postal rates, 614.

A new worker, 632.

The worth of the soul, 633.

Eternal punishment, 638.

A friendly criticism, 656.

Evangelize the world, 684.

Honesty, 708, 759.

Rationalism, 734.

Strikes, 756.

The victory over self, 782.

The second great commission, 802.

Doing good, 826.

Must an elder be inspired? 850.
Hard work a cure for our ills, 874.
"No more war," 899.
Singing with the understanding, 927.
Respect for the law, 947.
"Be ye kind to one another," 970.
Shall the daughters desert the home? 972.
The "Sunday school," 996.
The home, 928.
"The kingdom of God cometh not with observation," 1018.
Encourage people to live at home, 1043.
The passing of Lloyd George, 1043.
The United States quits bootlegging, 1043.
For autoists in Japan, 1043.
Baptismal pool suddenly filled, 1043.
Preach the gospel to every creature, 1066.
"The Sunday school and anti-Sunday-school cult," 1085.
Are there no elders? 1089.
Our advertising contract, 1114.
A great woman, 1138.
The past and the future, 1195.
The pillar and ground of the faith, 1162.
Our last issue for 1922, 1242.
Christmas, 1218.

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

An improvement among the Baptists, 230.
Were the churches of the New Testament Baptist churches? 277.
Divine healing, 298.
The Jewish sabbath, 299.
A question on Acts 2: 38 answered, 346.
Godet on "born of water and the spirit," 347.
Easter services, 394.
Help Paris, Tenn., 421.
The new Baptist "confession of faith," 450.
The commission on unity, 468.
Some good men in need, 469.
Our first duty is to our own, 491.
That commission on unity, again, 516.
Will the storm come? 539.
A memorial service, 540.
Will there be a discussion on the music question? 564.
Baptized for the remission of sins, 592.
Good news from Ovoca, 661.
Will their courage fail? 686.

BY F. W. SMITH.

The situation in which the society brethren find themselves, No. 2, 12; No. 3, 36; No. 4, 58.
The going away of a noble man, 84.
A request for publicity, 108.
Relative to the Tabernacle meeting, 133.
"A true story," 156.
Compromising God's word, 182.
The Tabernacle meeting, again, 207.
Book reviews, 207.
"When will you learn that?" 229.
Things about which God has not legislated, 254.
"The hired preacher," 277.
Calling for more proof, 298.
A very serious contradiction, 325.
The result of "open membership," 347.
The review of O. E. Payne's book, 371.
The Tabernacle meeting, 393.
The departure of Matthew C. Cayce, 420.
"The Cole lectures," at Vanderbilt, 448.
Why are people confused? 467.
Strangers among the Jews, 491.
The remedy for war, 492.

From the shoulder out, 514.
Religious revivals, 540.
The epistle to the church at Philippi, 565.
A friendly criticism, 591.
"Some strange sayings," 613.
An inconsistent attitude, 639.
An answer to Brother J. B. Briney's question, 658.
A confusion of terms, 685.
The church at Thessalonica, 711.
Brother Briney's reply, 758.
The first epistle to the Thessalonians, 783, 804.
A family reunion, 852.
Brother Briney deserts O. E. Payne, 876.
Has Brother Briney been misrepresented? 946.
"Because I do not believe it," 1019.
The going away of a good man, 1046.
"Our plea," 1068.
The peacemakers, 1091.
A visit to St. Mary's, W. Va., 1195.
The spirit of Christ, 1219.
The proper estimate of things, 1244.

EVANGELISTIC NOTES.

Page 664, 680, 704, 732, 752, 776, 808, 828, 848, 872, 904, 924, 944, 968, 992, 1016, 1040, 1065, 1088, 1112, 1136, 1164, 1192, 1216, 1248.

FIRST PAGE.

Boles, H. Leo, inspiration of the Scriptures, 481; inspiration of the Holy Scriptures, 577.
Brewer, G. C., peace and good will, 1; the sight of the soul, 73; following on to know Jehovah, 97; the creed of the church, 121; sermonettes, 145; "these things command and teach," 217; quiet talks on timely topics, 242, 289.
Campbell, A., "the primary truths of Christianity," 913; words and phrases of doubtful propriety, 961.
Chessor, James E., "in regard of himself alone," 434; palms of victory, 457; the potency of a look, 554; Judas Iscariot, archtraitor, 601, 626; the hire of the laborers, 650; the immortality of a gift, 746.
Creath, Jacob, "creeds," 793.
Cuff, R. P., don't overdrive the flocks, 313.
Fanning, T., love to God, 697.
Fall, P. S., why was the Christian religion established in the world? 769; why did Paul thank God that he had baptized none of the Corinthians but Crispus and Gaius and the household of Stephanus? 938.
Harding, James A., the greatest hindrance to the spread of the gospel, 842.
Hudson, John Allen, division and its causes, 386.
Ledlow, W. F., faith in Jesus, 529.
Lipscomb, David, God and man, 673; congregational worship, 673; "alien prayer," 817; "preach the word," 865; the new birth, 889; "instruments of music in the service of God," 985; is the Bible of God? 1009; is it right to teach only a part of the truth? 1033.
Love, Ernest C., an open door, 338; Christian education, 409.
Paisley, F. L., cleaving to the Lord with purpose of heart, 362.
Sewell, E. G., what is it to be spiritually minded? 722.
Sims, W. P., righteousness, 505.
Smith, Gerald L. K., fields white unto the harvest, 1057.

FIELD REPORTS.

Page 19, 44, 66, 92, 116, 136, 144, 161, 165, 184, 188, 208, 236, 258, 264, 287, 308, 312, 329, 356, 357, 360, 380, 406, 430, 454, 476, 497, 526, 528, 545, 549, 576, 596, 622, 644, 668, 672, 696, 716, 720, 744, 764, 788, 812, 813, 816, 836, 884, 908, 932, 952, 980, 1000, 1024, 1096, 1120, 1149, 1152, 1168, 1174, 1207, 1252.

HOME READING.

A hero of Ireland, 38.
A little carpenter, 62.
A concentrating plant, 62.
Adding up the baby, 110.
A substitute for worry, 183.
A queer call, 303.
A mother's love, 566, 713.
A door of hope, 607.
About spiders' webs, 830.
A secret worth knowing, 878.
A dangerous practice, 974.
A cowboy's prayer, 998.
"Autumn tints are on life's tree," 1070.
A bar, a door, 1246.
"Be near me, Lord," 14.
Bobwhite's plea, 88.
Boy wanted, 542.
Bring Christ the best, 327.
Blackie, 566.
Ben's shower, 974.
"Be a lady," 1022.
Baby Bear's party, 1111.
Communion with God, 183.
Clearing the way, 255.
Collections, 327.
Crow made ship its home, 374.
Cruelty to children, 806.
Checking up, 806.
Caleb's perseverance, 1070.
Determined to succeed, 183.
Dangerous literature, 854.
Doors and doors, 1070.
Foolish grievances, 374.
Fluff, 607.
For those who weep, 830.
God's transplantings, 14.
Get out of doors, 255.
Getting up, 350.
God's healings, 374.
Give him excitement, 902.
His heart in it, 110.
How Ruth loved her neighbor, 518.
He needs you, 679.
He dared to tell the truth, 727.
How one father solved the boy problem, 806.
How Winnie took mamma's place, 854.
How to have a good time, 854.
Humble heroism, 1042.
How Clarine didn't do wrong, 1042.
Isabel's box, 255.
Interest, 679.
It is all because of you, 778.
Just a little post card faded, 806.
Jek's boat linings, 1166.
Jesus, the friend of children, 1222.
Keep a-goin', 878.
Kind words, 926.
Keeping guard, 1111.
Lords and ladies in waiting, 14.
Love's reward, 33.
Lord Roberts' letter, 566.
Louis' trick dog, 902.
Legacies, 950.
Lost in the Dakota wheat fields, 1198.
Moustache, 88.
Misplaced things, 110.
Making the goal, 272.
Mystery of "vanishing river," 374.
Mother, 713.
Mother mine, 713.
Mother's vacation, 902.

Nell's economy, 62.
 Not yet, 566.
 Native handles in missionary axes, 679.
 Patty's garden, 327.
 Peculiarities of camels, 607.
 Playing jokes on Carlo, 926.
 Presence of mind, 1222.
 Rosamond sees herself, 38.
 Ruth's honor, 998.
 Success, 679.
 Sarah Jane, assistant M. D., 926.
 The nature of wisdom, 14.
 The sin of thoughtlessness, 88.
 Time, 88.
 The princess and the bird, 110.
 The house by the side of the road, 183.
 True friends, 272.
 The passing, 272.
 The roll of honor, 303.
 Things that will make you bigger, 350.
 Tree holes and their tenants, 350.
 The will to do, 374.
 The little boy Jenks, 446.
 The little maiden and the little girl, 447.
 The gardener, 518.
 The position of woman, 518.
 The teaching force, 542.
 The call for the heroic, 607.
 The winner, 662.
 "The quitter," 679.
 The Scriptures, 679.
 The mother watch, 713.
 The overworked mother, 713.
 The things we can't afford, 727.
 Take care of that odd boy, 727.
 Thoughts, 778.
 Tongue twisters, 778.
 The best kind of music, 830.
 The runaway pumpkins, 878.
 The best place, 974.
 The little boy and the big umbrella, 998.
 The naughty word, 1022.
 The sundew, 1042.
 The torch bearers, 1166.
 The squeaky chair, 1222.
 The wrong button, 1222.
 Taking care of baby, 1222.
 The broken kite, 1246.
 The little bird in the birch tree, 1246.
 When my dad was a boy, 38.
 Who was to blame? 255.
 Working for Christ, 635.
 What did you do? 679.
 What Tab did, 1042.
 What do they say? 854.
 Why things went wrong, 950.
 What pleases pets, 974.
 When red dresses were the style, 1022.
 What you may do, 1143.
 What was it? 1143.
 Why things are so, 1143.
 When mother plays with me, 1198.
 What was it? 1222.
 Why Johnny stuck to dad, 1222.
 Your mother, 518.

TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT.

Among the churches, 416, 512.
 Allen, J. G., James A Harding as I knew him, 617.
 By an Elder, as I see it, 256; training for service, No. 1, 496; No. 2, 512; No. 3, 543.
 Colley, A. O., more about the Colley-Tyndall debate, 112.
 Cox, Frank L., the value of a soul, 584.
 Crouch, C. D., enemies of Christianity, 495.
 Cuthbertson, M. C., the Waxahachie (Texas) union meeting, 422.

Daley, M. O., the signs of the times, 399; taking the measure, 76; an Old Testament revival, 879; things commanded and things permitted, 922.

Deveny, J. M., some "keeps," 400; that eventful night, 903.

Dunn, John E., Waxahachie (Texas) meeting, 399; tribute to the memory of James A. Harding, 616; a life sketch of Benjamin Cicero King, 641; the Waxahachie meeting, et al., 682.

Field Notes, 441.

George, A. M., the "sin unto death"—what is it? 663.

Hedge, John W., the power of righteousness, 856.

Ligon, D. S., is man an animal? 707.

Mansfield, Lee P., importance of public worship, 224.

Moser, K. C., the kingdom at hand, 400; "he brought him unto Jesus," 663; "child of God," "Christian"—is there a difference? 903; should a Christian engage in war? 1094.

McMillan, E. W., Lot, 544.

Nelson, J. B., as I knew Brother J. S. Dunn, 202; some more Russellite foolishness, 544.

Nichol, C. R., Smith-Nichol debate, 112; proselytes, 153; J. S. Dunn, 202; making known the truth, 224; who are Christians? No. 1, 280; No. 2, 297; No. 3, 328; No. 4, 440; No. 5, 465; shall we criticize? 543; more about the Waxahachie (Texas) meeting, 568; professional clergymen, 616; organizations, 640; reply to Brother Dunn, 706; Corsicana, Texas, and the lot in Japan, 781; apropos the Waxahachie meeting, 800; notes of Colley-Tyndall debate, 801; Hardeman Tabernacle sermons, 801; review of Payne's book on "Psallo," 832; coöperation in mission work, 832; better houses, 856; preparing for meetings, 880; neat in appearance, 880; the preacher, 728, 922, 951, 975, 1048, 1071; Chinese philosophy for the young, 975; "the most important point," 1048; commendation, 1071; wise children of the world, 1117; W. A. Schultz in evangelistic work, 1118; some things about the church, 1140; the church does not save, 1167.

Nichols, Coleman D., law of the new birth, 256.

Personal Notes, 113, 129, 153, 177, 224, 257, 280, 373, 400, 423, 585, 617, 663, 683, 707, 729, 761, 781, 801, 833, 856, 880, 903, 923, 951, 975, 1118.

Pullias, G. Mitchell, a word of appreciation, 204.

Register, Ruby, the funeral of J. S. Dunn, 203.

Schultz, W. A., an appeal for help, 1118.

Scott, Harvey, Christian duties, No. 2, 495.

Sewell, C. W., the singing evangelist, No. 2, 373; the "eldership," No. 3, 440.

Skaggs, W. P., the parable of the vineyard, 112; great needs, 780.

Smith, Oscar, disciples, 177.

Wainwright, J. E., looking toward better things, 153.

Wallace, Cled E., in covenant relationship, 256.

Whiteside, R. L., professional preachers—professional ethics, 543; types of preachers, 585; mulum in parvo, 641, 781; 923, 975; selecting the preacher, 729; the Bogard-Whiteside debate, 1118.
 Wilkinson, U. G., "shall we criticize?" 728.

QUERY DEPARTMENT.

Acts 6—16.
 Acts 11: 26—16.
 Acts 13—16.
 Acts 26: 28—16.
 Acts 9: 29, 30—111.
 Acts 14: 22—135.
 Acts 18: 26—206.
 Acts 18: 24—26—206, 398.
 Acts 15: 29—587.
 Acts 8: 4—587.
 Acts 18: 26—587.
 Acts 2: 42—587.
 Acts 2: 44—678.
 Acts 11: 29, 30—678.
 Acts 4: 34, 35—678.
 Acts 6: 1—6—678.
 Acts 18: 24—26—731.
 Acts 2: 42—731.
 Acts 21: 9—754.
 Acts 5: 4—967.
 Acts 22: 16—967.
 Acts 2: 44, 45—967.
 Acts 5: 32—1072.
 Acts 2: 38—1161.
 Acts 2: 17, 18—1193.
 Acts 10: 44—1193.
 Acts 15: 8—1193.
 Acts 9: 7—1223.
 Acts 22: 9—1223.
 Acts 22: 2—1223.
 Acts 21: 8, 9—1223.
 Acts 16: 13—1223.
 Acts 10: 48—1241.
 Acts 15: 9—1241.
 Acts 16: 13—1241.
 Col. 2: 14—226.
 Col. 3: 16—587.
 Col. 1: 16—967.
 Col. 3: 17—1142, 1223.
 1 Cor. 14: 34, 35—87, 206.
 1 Cor. 12: 9—135.
 1 Cor. 8: 13—226.
 1 Cor. 11: 24, 25—251.
 1 Cor. 5: 10—398.
 1 Cor. 9: 10—398.
 1 Cor. 14: 33—35—398.
 1 Cor. 7: 9—634.
 1 Cor. 14: 34—634.
 1 Cor. 9—655.
 1 Cor. 7: 15—655.
 1 Cor. 7: 39—655.
 1 Cor. 16: 1—678.
 1 Cor. 7: 10, 11—678.
 1 Cor. 14: 34, 35—731.
 1 Cor. 11: 3—16—754.
 1 Cor. 14: 34—754.
 1 Cor. 7: 39—855.
 1 Cor. 6: 9, 10—855.
 1 Cor. 15: 33—855.
 1 Cor. 7: 10, 11—1072.
 1 Cor. 7: 10—12—1072.
 1 Cor. 13: 9—12—1142.
 1 Cor. 4: 15—1161.
 1 Cor. 12: 4—1193.
 1 Cor. 12: 24—1193.
 1 Cor. 8: 13—1223.
 1 Cor. 5: 11—1241.
 1 Cor. 9: 10—1241.
 1 Cor. 11: 27—1241.
 2 Cor. 5: 8—111.
 2 Cor. 5: 1—111.
 2 Cor. 12: 1—5—111.
 2 Cor. 5: 2—587.
 2 Cor. 12: 16—655.
 2 Cor. 8: 1—678.
 2 Cor. 8: 18, 19—678.
 2 Cor. 11: 8—678.
 2 Cor. 8: 23—678.
 2 Cor. 12: 13—678.
 2 Cor. 9: 7—1072.
 2 Cor. 8: 12—1072.

2 Cor. 1: 22—1142.
 2 Cor. 5: 5—1142.
 2 Cor. 12: 2, 7—1160.
 2 Cor. 3: 6—1161.
 1 Chron. 29: 8—678.
 Deut. 6: 6-10—206.
 Deut. 6: 7—587.
 Deut. 14: 22-24—678.
 Deut. 7: 3—855.
 Deut. 24: 1—1072.
 Ex. 26: 35—610.
 Ex. 30: 6—610.
 Ex. 25: 31-40—610.
 Ex. 30: 10—655.
 Ex. 26: 35—655.
 Ex. 30: 6—655.
 Ex. 2: 69—678.
 Ex. 34: 15, 16—855.
 Ex. 12: 18—999.
 Eph. 4: 11—226.
 Eph. 5: 11-13—567.
 Eph. 6: 4—587.
 Eph. 5: 19—587.
 Eph. 3: 21—610.
 Eph. 5: 18—855.
 Eph. 2: 2—967.
 Eph. 6: 17—967.
 Eph. 1: 13—1072.
 Eph. 4: 1-13—1142.
 Eph. 2: 2—1193.
 Eph. 4: 3—1223.
 Eph. 3: 20, 21—1223.
 Ezra 2: 69—678.
 Gal. 5: 4—135.
 Gal. 6: 1—567.
 Gal. 3: 24, 25—731.
 Gal. 3: 27—754, 831.
 Gal. 2: 11-13—967.
 Gal. 4: 6—1072.
 Gen. 1: 26, 27—87.
 Gen. 2: 7—87.
 Gen. 24: 15—754.
 Gen. 29: 11—754.
 Gen. 38: 9, 10—1241.
 Gen. 1: 27, 28—1241.
 Heb. 6: 1-6—567.
 Heb. 10: 25, 26—567.
 Heb. 12: 16, 17—567.
 Heb. 4: 12—610.
 Heb. 9: 3, 4—610.
 Heb. 9: 2—610.
 Heb. 4: 10—634.
 Heb. 9: 3, 4—655.
 Heb. 5: 12—731.
 Heb. 9: 16, 17—731.
 Heb. 9: 18-22—731.
 Heb. 1: 2—967.
 James 1: 18—1161.
 James 5: 14—1193.
 John 12: 48—111.
 John 14: 1-3—111.
 John 3: 5—135.
 John 10: 3, 9—206.
 John 3: 5—251.
 John 5: 18—655.
 John 13: 27-29—678.
 John 20: 23—754.
 John 3: 5—831.
 John 3: 5—967.
 John 1: 1-3—967.
 John 6: 63—967.
 John 7: 17—999.
 John 3: 7, 8—1160.
 John 3: 5—1160.
 John 6: 63, 64—1160.
 John 12: 31—1193.
 John 14: 30—1193.
 John 16: 11—1193.
 John 3: 17—1223.
 1 John 5: 16—135, 567.
 Jude 3—967.
 Lev. 11: 5-8—587.
 Lev. 16: 12—655.
 Lev. 27: 30-32—678.
 Luke 16: 1-12—87.
 Luke 16: 16—226.
 Luke 12: 49, 50—251.
 Luke 1: 17—634.
 Luke 7: 28—754.
 Luke 18: 25—754.
 Luke 8: 11—967.
 Luke 13: 3—1142.

Luke 8: 11—1160.
 Luke 8: 10—1223.
 Luke 16: 23, 24—1241.
 Mal. 4: 5—634.
 Mal. 3: 8-11—678.
 Mark 11: 12-14—16.
 Mark 11: 21—16.
 Mark 16: 16—135.
 Mark 3—135.
 Mark 14: 22, 23—251.
 Mark 3: 24, 29—567.
 Mark 2: 27, 28—655.
 Mark 10: 23, 24—655.
 Mark 12: 41-44—678.
 Mark 10: 23, 24—754.
 Mark 16: 16—831, 967.
 Mark 16: 15, 16—999.
 Mark 16: 17, 18—1193.
 Matt. 25: 31-33—111.
 Matt. 12: 36, 37—111.
 Matt. 12: 31—135.
 Matt. 7: 13, 14—135.
 Matt. 26: 26, 27—251.
 Matt. 3: 10-12—251.
 Matt. 24: 22—279.
 Matt. 18: 20—567.
 Matt. 18: 8, 9—634.
 Matt. 18: 24-35—634.
 Matt. 6: 14, 15—634.
 Matt. 19: 9—655.
 Matt. 5: 18—655.
 Matt. 27: 6—678.
 Matt. 19: 9—678.
 Matt. 18: 17—754.
 Matt. 18: 18, 19—754.
 Matt. 26: 26—999.
 Matt. 19: 9—999.
 Matt. 19: 3-9—1072.
 Matt. 18: 20—1142.
 Matt. 7: 24—1223.
 Matt. 3: 15—1241.
 Matt. 25: 46—1241.
 Neh. 7: 70—678.
 Num. 18: 26—678.
 1 Pet. 4: 16—16.
 1 Pet. 3: 18-20—587.
 1 Pet. 1: 10, 11—587.
 1 Pet. 3: 20-21—754.
 1 Pet. 3: 3, 4—831.
 1 Pet. 3: 19—1142.
 1 Pet. 1: 10, 11—1142.
 1 Pet. 3: 18-20—1142.
 1 Pet. 1: 23—1161.
 Phil. 4: 3—398.
 Phil. 4: 15, 16—678.
 Phil. 4: 8—855.
 Phil. 4: 3—1223.
 Phil. 4: 16—1241.
 Phil. 4: 3—1241.
 Prov. 20: 1—855.
 Prov. 23: 29-32—855.
 Prov. 28: 9—999.
 Ps. 96: 1—279.
 Rev. 11: 3, 8, 9—111.
 Rev. 14: 1-3—279.
 Rev. 14: 1-6—279.
 Rev. 7: 4—279.
 Rev. 20: 10—1241.
 Rom. 2: 5, 6—111.
 Rom. 14: 14—226.
 Rom. 13: 1-7—261.
 Rom. 11: 25—279.
 Rom. 8: 15, 23—587.
 Rom. 14: 12—634.
 Rom. 14: 1—678.
 Rom. 7: 3—678.
 Rom. 6: 3—831, 967.
 Rom. 10: 17—999.
 Rom. 1: 16—999.
 Rom. 7: 1-3—999, 1072.
 Rom. 14: 22—1223.
 Rom. 12: 10—1223.
 Rom. 16: 1—1223, 1241.
 2 Sam. 24: 18-25—398.
 1 Thess. 3: 6—135.
 1 Thess. 5: 23—610.
 2 Thess. 4: 14—111.
 1 Tim. 2: 8-15—206.
 1 Tim. 3: 15—206.
 1 Tim. 2: 11, 12—398.
 1 Tim. 3: 5—634.
 1 Tim. 3: 11—634.

1 Tim. 5: 16—678.
 1 Tim. 5: 9—678.
 1 Tim. 2: 9, 10—831.
 1 Tim. 5: 23—855.
 2 Tim. 4: 13—206.
 2 Tim. 2: 2—398.
 2 Tim. 3: 16, 17—587.
 2 Tim. 1: 5—731.
 2 Tim. 3: 15—731.
 Tit. 2: 3-5—398.
 Tit. 1: 6—634.
 Tit. 2: 1-3—855.
 Tit. 3: 5, 6—1072.

OBITUARIES.

Allison, Jessie Mae Stutts, 263.
 Agee, E. H. F., 838.
 Arrington, R. W., 1002.
 Ashley, Ada Sparkman, 618.
 Bailey, Robert, 142.
 Brady, Theodore Eugene, 238.
 Brooks, Thomas B., 238.
 Barry, H. C., and A. E., 281.
 Bradshaw, Eldorado Bay, 354.
 Burt, Elbert, 354.
 Blackman, Mary Caroline, 498.
 Billings, Anna Witte, 522.
 Boley, J. W., Jr., 552.
 Benard, Mary E., 767.
 Barron, Samford E., 907.
 Burtis, Sterling Sanders, 1144.
 Bailey, Mrs. J. A., 1145.
 Clemments, Mrs. A. M., 281.
 Craig, Mrs. Eugenia Jameson, 160.
 Curtis, Eva, 143.
 Coleman, Mrs. R. C., 498.
 Cleere, Mrs. Velma Moore, 552.
 Comer, T. W., 740.
 Certain, Mrs. Robert, 766.
 Callen, J. R., 767.
 Dean, Mary E., 89.
 Dotson, Hubert Newton, 238.
 Dozier, Lela Belle, 618.
 Davis, John C., 740.
 Dodson, Charley, 1028.
 Dotson, Susan, 1028.
 Dies, Bluford, 1145.
 Erwin, Virginia C. Gantt, 332.
 Edgman, George, 1201.
 Farris, James A., 238.
 Farnsworth, Peninah, 67.
 Frasier, J. R., 906.
 Foster, George W., 1002.
 Flippo, Milus R., 1049.
 Gawf, David Laverne, 332.
 Gibson, Mrs. Ida Jackson, 160.
 Goins, J. G., 281.
 Gammill, James Weldon, 427.
 Goodrich, Anne Feeney, 1002.
 Haskill, Mrs. Bertha, 41.
 Hoffman, Jesse E., 238.
 Harden, Lora Mai, 142.
 Harris, Mary Lou, 143.
 Holden, Jennie, 281.
 Holloway, L. P., 552.
 Hopkins, Cattie Emily Bates, 619.
 Hall, Annie Pearl, 838.
 Henderson, Ewin, 906.
 Hughes, Mrs. Brice, 906.
 Hill, Mary Dorcas, 1049.
 Harris, Mrs. Elizabeth, 1145.
 Jenkins, J. Luther, 332.
 Jones, Mrs. Nancy, 263.
 Jones, Mrs. Irene Viola, 427.
 Johnson, George W., 498.
 Jones, Thomas M., 740.
 Jones, Ida Beasley, 1144.
 Kitchens, Mattie Lewis, 498.
 Kirley, Mrs. Claiborne, 523.
 Karnes, Eula, 741.
 Kibler, Paul, 838.
 Kilgore, S. M., 1002.
 Legg, Clyde, 160.
 Little, Mrs. Robert H., Jr., 41.

Laird, Josephine, 41.
 Lawrence, Eugene, 552.
 Loftis, Sallie E., 522.
 Lamb, Charleine, 766.

Matheson, D. A., 354.
 Morris, J. H., 263.
 Murdock, J. J., 498.
 Morgan, W. O., 740.
 Matthews, Calvin, 907.
 Mingle, James Cathey, 1028.
 Mingle, W. R., Jr., 1049.
 Manner, Albert Ralph, 1200.

McCaslin, Arthur Clyde, 263.
 McCracken, Mrs. W. L., 263.
 McDowell, Tommie Leon, 332.
 McColpin, Marcellus A., 332.
 McCorkle, Anderson J., 332.
 McMillan, Mrs. Elizabeth, 428.
 McClellan, Sarah Jane, 740.

Parker, Ruth, 354.
 Price, R. A., 263.
 Pinchley, Mrs. W. H., 498.
 Proffitt, N. W., 981.
 Poe, Carrie Wright, 1002.
 Pennington, Ben, 1028.
 Price, Nona Lowder, 1028.
 Pope, Bertha, 1049.
 Poe, Carrie Harrison, 1200.
 Parks, Mrs. Emily Taylor, 1201.

Reasonover, Merville K., 67.
 Roberts, Mary Evaline Shelton, 618.
 Reagor, G. B., 281.
 Ray, R. C., 766.
 Royse, Mary Jane, 766.
 Read, Mrs. Serena, 906.

Scott, Jane, 740.
 Sparkman, Samuel Thompson, 839.
 Shaw, Jeremiah Flowers, 1144.
 Sandy, W. S., 41.
 Shofner, Mrs. W. L., 89.
 Smith, Johnnie B., 41.
 Smith, Nevada Comer, 142.
 Smith, George Fred, 239.
 Smith, Sallie Crawford, 332.
 Smith, Mary Speck, 333.

Smith, Elzie Lynn, 354.
 Stone, Mary Green, 523.

Taylor, Edna Amerine, 618.
 Tooley, Martha A., 1002.
 Teddlie, Lowell, 1200.

Wallace, Mrs. Nancy, 160.
 Watson, J. F., 41.
 White, Mary Maxiline, 89.
 Womack, Brack, 142.
 Wright, Raymond, 238.
 Williamson, Mrs. Fronie, 263.
 Wallace, Clarence, 281, 427.
 White, Aldena, 522.
 Williams, James A., 1003.

York, Mrs. Frederick, 838.

Zeebuyth, B., 67.

AMONG THE COLORED FOLKS.

Benton, W. U., North Georgia Negro mission meeting, 789.

Hannon, J., gladly doing service, 139; report of work done, 452, 837.
 Horton, J. H., the debate at Russellville, Ala., 232.

Johnson, Gilbert A., report of work done, 837.

Jones, Alonzo, report of work done, 232, 547, 742, 837; report of, 693.

Keeble, M., report of work done, 64, 232, 304, 452, 547, 742, 815; "as workers together with Him," 671.

Lee, R. B., report of work done, 502.

Merchant, T. H., report of work done, 743.

Tuggle, Annie C., 837.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A special meeting for preachers, 1208.
 An appeal from Summit, Ga., 737.
 An appeal for Seymour, Texas, 165

An interesting letter, 235.
 An opportunity to help, 234.

"Being dead, yet speaketh," 114.

Church meeting, 1208.
 Catechism on the division question, 1093.

Commendations of the Gospel Advocate, 1220.

Commending the Quarterlies, 15, 37, 85, 231.

Commendations of the Bible lesson helps, 1157, 1191, 1221, 1254.

Church at Washington, D. C., 365.

Commending the Quarterlies, 1064.

Commending the literature, 175.

Commencement at Thorp Spring, Texas, 551.

Excuses, 1119.

Forthcoming meeting in Dallas, Texas, 1128.

Hardeman-Pullias meeting, 254.

Letter from a young Christian, 1202.

Meetings of elders and preachers, 1159.

More testimonials on the review of Payne's book, 493, 565.

Notice of E. C. Fuqua's work, 1255.

Plates concerning Mormonism, 485.

Some correspondence 541.

Some yearly reports, 42.

Thorp Spring Christian College, 624.

The manuscripts, 127.

The Denton (Texas) trouble settled, 239.

Testimonials on the review of O. E. Payne's book, 417.

The church at Burburnett, Texas, 1251.

Woman preaches at Jackson, Miss. 1102.